Thick lightnings flaſh, the mutt'ring thunder rolls. Pope.

12 Eben ezer.] The ſtone of help. This total overthrow of the Philiſtines put an end to the forty years tyranny, mentioned in Judges xiii. 1.

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 3 His ſons walked not in his ways, but—took bribes.] It has been aſked, why God did not puniſh Samuel, as he had done Eli, for the wickedneſs of his ſons? To which it may be anſwered, that Samuel's ſons were far leſs guilty than thoſe of Eli; for there is a wide difference between taking bribes privately, and openly profaning the tabernacle, and rendering the worſhip of God contemptible. Patrick.

up out of Egypt even unto this day, wherewith they have forſaken me, and ſerved other gods; ſo do they alſo unto thee.

9 Now therefore hearken unto their voice: howbeit, yet proteſt ſolemnly unto them, and ſhew them the manner of the king that ſhall reign over them.

10 ¶ And Samuel told all the words of the LORD unto the people that aſked of him a king.

11 And he ſaid, This will be the manner of the king that ſhall reign over you: he will take your ſons, and appoint them for himſelf, for his chariots, and to be his horſemen; and ſome ſhall run before his chariots.

12 And he will appoint him captains over thouſands, and captains over fifties; and will ſet them to ear his ground, and to reap his harveſt, and to make his inſtruments of war, and inſtruments of his chariots.

13 And he will take your daughters to be confectioneries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers.

14 And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your olive-yards, even the beſt of them, and give them to his ſervants.

15 And he will take the tenth of your ſeed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his ſervants.

16 And he will take your men-ſervants, and your maid-ſervants, and your goodlieſt young men, and your aſſes, and put them to his work.

17 He will take the tenth of your ſheep: and ye ſhall be his ſervants.

18 And ye ſhall cry out in that day becauſe of your king which ye ſhall have choſen you: and the LORD will not hear you in that day.

19 Nevertheleſs, the people refuſed to obey the voice of Samuel; and they ſaid, Nay; but we will have a king over us;

20 That we alſo may be like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles.

21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he rehearſed them in the ears of the LORD.

22 And the LORD ſaid to Samuel, Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king. And Samuel ſaid unto the men of Iſrael, Go ye every man unto his city.

CHAP. IX.

1 Saul deſpairing to find his father's aſſes, 6 by the counſel of his ſervant, 11 and direction of young maidens, 15 according to God's revelation, 18 cometh to Samuel. 19 Samuel entertaineth Saul.

NOW there was a man of Benjamin, whoſe name was Kiſh, the ſon of Abiel, the ſon of Zeror, the ſon of Bechorath, the ſon of Aphiah, a Benjamite, a mighty man of power.

2 And he had a ſon whoſe name was Saul, a choice young man, and a goodly: and there was not among the children of Iſrael a goodlier perſon than he: from his ſhoulders and upward he was higher than any of the people.

3 And the aſſes of Kiſh, Saul's father, were loſt. And Kiſh ſaid to Saul his ſon, Take now one of the ſervants with thee, and ariſe, go ſeek the aſſes.

4 And he paſſed through mount Ephraim, and paſſed through the land of Saliſha; but they found them not: then they paſſed through the land of Shalim; and there they were not: and he paſſed through the land of the Benjamites; but they found them not.

5 And when they were come to the land of 11---19 This will be the manner of the king, &c.] Samuel does not in this and the following verſes define what are the juſt rights of kings, but deſcribes only ſuch practices, as the deſpotic princes of the Eaſt, who looked upon their ſubjects as ſo many ſlaves, were generally accuſtomed to: and his reaſon for drawing a king in theſe black colours ſeems to be, becauſe the Iſraelites deſired ſuch a one as their neighbours had, who were all under the abſolute dominion of their princes. Le Clerc.

19 Nay, but we will have a king over us.] Though Samuel had painted the arbitrary power of the eaſtern monarchs in the ſtrongeſt colours, yet they peremptorily demanded a king, notwithſtanding he had told them that this was throwing off the government of God, who had always heard their cry when they were oppreſſed by their enemies; but would now refuſe to liſten to their complaints, when they groaned under the oppreſſions of a tyrant. Patrick.

20 That we alſo may be like all the nations.] Hence it is plain, that their motives for demanding a king were no other than vanity and ambition: they thought themſelves inferior to other nations, becauſe they were deſtitute of the pomp and pageantry of ſtate; which they vainly imagined would procure them the bleſſings of peace and tranquility.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 A mighty man of power.] This ſeems not to be meant of his wealth, or intereſt in the country, but of his great ſtrength and courage.

Zuph, Saul ſaid to his ſervant that was with him, Come and let us return; leſt my father leave caring for the aſſes, and take thought for us.

6 ¶ And he ſaid unto him, Behold now there is in this city a man of God, and he is an honourable man: all that he ſaith cometh ſurely to paſs: now let us go thither; peradventure he can ſhew us our way that we ſhould go.

7 Then ſaid Saul to his ſervant, But behold, if we go, what ſhall we bring the man? for the bread is ſpent in our veſſels, and there is not a preſent to bring to the man of God: what have we?

8 And the ſervant anſwered Saul again, and ſaid, Behold, I have here at hand the fourth part of a ſhekel of ſilver: that will I give to the man of God, to tell us our way.

9 (Before-time in Iſrael, when a man went to enquire of God, thus he ſpake, Come, and let us go to the ſeer: for he that is now called a Prophet, was before-time called a Seer.)

10 Then ſaid Saul to his ſervant, Well ſaid; come, let us go: ſo they went unto the city where the man of God was.

11 ¶ And as they went up the hill to the city, they found young maidens going out to draw water, and ſaid unto them, Is the ſeer here?

12 And they anſwered them, and ſaid, He is; behold, he is before you: make haſte now: for he came to day to the city; for there is a ſacrifice of the people to day in the high place.

13 As ſoon as ye be come into the city, ye ſhall ſtraightway find him, before he go up to the high place to eat: for the people will not eat till he come, becauſe he doth bleſs the ſacrifice; and afterwards they eat that be bidden. Now therefore get ye up; for about this time ye ſhall find him.

14 And they went up into the city: and when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out againſt them for to go up to the high place.

15 ¶ Now the LORD had told Samuel, in his ear a day before Saul came, ſaying,

16 To morrow about this time I will ſend thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and thou ſhalt anoint him to be captain over my people Iſrael, that he may ſave my people out of the hand of the Philiſtines: for I have looked upon my people, becauſe their cry is come unto me.

17 And when Samuel ſaw Saul, the LORD ſaid unto him, Behold the man whom I ſpake to thee of: this ſame ſhall reign over my people.

18 ¶ Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate, and ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, where the ſeer's houſe is.

19 ¶ And Samuel anſwered Saul, and ſaid, I am the ſeer: go up before me unto the high place; for ye ſhall eat with me to day: and to morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart.

20 And as for thine aſſes that were loſt three days ago, ſet not thy mind on them; for they are found. And on whom is all the deſire of Iſrael? is it not on thee, and on all thy father's houſe?

21 And Saul anſwered and ſaid, Am not I a Benjamite, of the ſmalleſt of the tribes of Iſrael? and my family the leaſt of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? wherefore then ſpeakeſt thou ſo to me?

22 And Samuel took Saul, and his ſervant, and brought them into the parlour, and made them ſit in the chiefeſt place, among them that were bidden, which were about thirty perſons.

23 And Samuel ſaid unto the cook, Bring the portion which I gave thee, of which I ſaid unto thee, Set it by thee.

24 And the cook took up the ſhoulder, and that which was upon it, and ſet it before Saul.

8 A fourth part of a ſhekel of ſilver.] About nine-pence: Joſephus here obſerves, that it was their ignorance to think a prophet would receive any money for his predictions. Wall.

12 In the high place.] This is the firſt inſtance we find of ſacrifices being offered to God in high places, and is thought to have given riſe to the ſynagogues and oratories, which were afterwards built in ſo many parts of the kingdom. Patrick.

24 For unto this time hath it been kept for thee, ſince I ſaid, I have invited the people.] He told the cook he had invited ſome other perſons, beſides the inhabitants of the city, and for theſe ſtrange gueſts he would have this ſhoulder to be reſerved: hence Joſephus calls this part the royal portion. Patrick.

And Samuel said, Behold, that which is left; set it before thee, and eat: for unto this time hath it been kept for thee, since I said, I have invited the people. So Saul did eat with Samuel that day.

25 And when they were come down from the high place into the city, Samuel communed with Saul upon the top of the house.

26 And they arose early: and it came to pass about the spring of the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the house, Saying Up, that I may send thee away. And Saul arose, and they went out both of them, he and Samuel, abroad.

27 And as they were going down to the end of the city, Samuel said to Saul, Bid the servant pass on before us, (and he passed on,) but stand thou still a while, that I may shew thee the word of God.

CHAP. X.

1 Samuel anointeth Saul. 2 He confirmeth him by prediction of three signs. 9 Saul's heart is changed, and he prophesieth.

THEN Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, and kissed him, and said, Is it not because the LORD hath anointed thee to be captain over his inheritance?

2 ¶ When thou art departed from me to day, then thou shalt find two men by Rachel's sepulchre, in the border of Benjamin, at Zelzah; and they will say unto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seek are found: and lo, thy father hath left the care of the asses, and sorroweth for you, saying, What shall I do for my son?

3 Then shalt thou go on forward from thence, and thou shalt come to the plain of Tabor, and there shall meet thee three men going up to God to Beth-el, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a bottle of wine.

4 And they will salute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread; which thou shalt receive of their hands.

5 After that, thou shalt come to the hill of God, where is the garrison of the Philistines: and it shall come to pass when thou art come thither to the city, that thou shalt meet a company of prophets coming down from the high place, with a psaltery, and a tabret, and a pipe and a harp before them; and they shall prophesy.

6 And the Spirit of the Lord will come upon thee, and thou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be turned into another man.

7 And let it be when these signs are come unto thee, that thou do as occasion shall serve thee; for God is with thee.

8 And thou shalt go down before me to Gilgal, and behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt-offerings, and to sacrifice sacrifices of peace-offerings: seven days shalt thou tarry, till I come to thee, and shew thee what thou shalt do.

9 ¶ And it was so, that when he had turned

25 On the top of the house.] The tops of their houses were flat, and covered with a strong plaister of terrace, which was always guarded with a parapet-wall, battlements, or balustrades; here several offices were performed, such as drying linen and flax, preparing figs and raisins; here likewise they enjoyed the refreshing breezes of the evening, conversed with their friends, and offered up their devotions. Shaw.

27 Bid the servant pass on before us, &c.] This was doubtless with a design to let Saul understand, that what he was going to do was by divine appointment.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

1 Then Samuel took a vial of oil.] This does not seem to have been sacred oil taken from the tabernacle, but common; for Samuel was not a priest, and therefore could not touch what was reserved in the sacred place, which was now at a great distance from Ramah. Patrick.

5 The hill of God.] It seems to have been called the hill of God, because there was here a school of the prophets, who were called men of God: here youth were instructed in the knowledge of the law, and the precepts of religion, and thence called the sons of the prophets. And it should be observed, that though the Philistines had a garrison there, they spared those places that were set apart for the study of religion.

They shall prophesy.] That is, they shall sing the praises of God, as the word prophesy often signifies. See Exod. xv. 21, &c.

6 The spirit of the Lord will come upon thee, &c.] This sign could not fail of convincing Saul, that Samuel had done nothing of himself, but by the divine appointment of God himself, who could alone inspire him with such a remarkable gift, and endue him with extraordinary prudence and courage.

8 Sacrifices of peace-offerings: seven days shalt thou tarry, &c.] These words should have been pointed in the following manner: Behold I will come unto thee to offer burnt-offerings, and to sacrifice sacrifices of peace-offerings, seven days. Thou shalt tarry till I come to thee, &c. Hence we see how great a fault Saul afterwards committed in not staying for Samuel, when the prophet had so fully assured him, that he would not fail to meet him.

9 God gave him another heart.] So great was the goodness of God his back to go from Samuel, God gave him another heart: and all those signs came to pass that day.

10 And when they came thither to the hill, behold, a company of prophets met him; and the Spirit of God came upon him, and he prophesied among them.

11 And it came to pass when all that knew him before-time saw, that behold, he prophesied among the prophets, then the people said one to another, What is this that is come unto the son of Kish? is Saul also among the prophets?

12 And one of the same place answered and said, But who is their father? therefore it became a proverb, Is Saul also among the prophets?

13 And when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place.

14 And Saul's uncle said unto him, and to his servant, Whither went ye? and he said, To seek the asses: and when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel.

15 And Saul's uncle said, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said unto you.

16 And Saul said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the asses were found, But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel spake, he told him not.

17 And Samuel called the people together unto the LORD to Mizpeh?

18 And said unto the children of Israel, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms, and of them that oppressed you.

19 And ye have this day rejected your God, who himself saved you out of all your adversities and your tribulations: and ye have said unto him, Nay, but set a king over us, Now therefore present your selves before the LORD by your tribes, and by your thousands.

20 And when Samuel had caused all the tribes of Israel to come near, the tribe of Benjamin was taken.

21 When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the son of Kish was taken: and when they sought him, he could not be found.

22 Therefore they enquired of the LORD further, if the man should yet come thither: and the LORD answered, Behold, he hath hid himself among the stuff.

23 And they ran and fetched him thence. And when he stood among the people, he was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upward.

24 And Samuel said to the people, See ye him whom the LORD hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people? and all the people shouted, and said, God save the king.

25 Then Samuel told the people the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD. And Samuel sent all the people away, every man to his house.

26 And Saul also went home to Gibeah; and there went with him a band of men, whose hearts God had touched.

27 But the children of Belial said, How shall this man save us? and they despised him, and brought him no presents. But he held his peace.

CHAP. XI.

1 Nahash offereth them of Jabesh-gilead a reproachful condition. 4 They send to Saul, and are delivered. 12 Saul confirmed king.

God towards him, that he immediately fulfilled the last and chief of these signs; for he was no sooner gone from Samuel, than he found himself filled with wisdom and fortitude, to qualify him for the government of the people.

10 He prophesied among them.] The Chaldee paraphrase understands by prophesying, adoring God, and singing praises to him. See ver. 5.

11 Is Saul among the prophets?] They were astonished at this sudden change in him, well knowing that his education gave them no reason to expect any such thing; for, instead of studying in the schools of the prophets, his whole attention had been engrossed by the care of his herds and flocks. Patrick.

12 Who is their father?] The Septuagint and Vulgate read, Who is his father?

27 The children of Belial---brought no presents.] It was customary among the Eastern nations, and is even to this day, to accompany their first salutation of a new king with presents; which were received as tokens of peace, joy, friendship, subjection, and obedience. These children of Belial were probably persons of consequence, and despised Saul, because he was of a small tribe, and obscure family: he acted therefore a very prudent part in holding his peace, being unwilling to create any disorder or tumult in the beginning of his reign. Calmet.

Notes

THEN Nahaſh the Ammonite came up, and encamped againſt Jabeſh-gilead, and all the men of Jabeſh ſaid unto Nahaſh, Make a covenant with us, and we will ſerve thee.

2 And Nahaſh the Ammonite anſwered them, On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I may thruſt out all your right eyes, and lay it for a reproach upon all Iſrael.

3 And the elders of Jabeſh ſaid unto him, Give us ſeven days reſpite, that we may ſend meſſengers unto all the coaſts of Iſrael: and then, if there be no man to ſave us, we will come out to thee.

4 ¶ Then came the meſſengers to Gibeah of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people lift up their voices, and wept.

5 And behold, Saul came after the herd out of the field, and Saul ſaid, What aileth the people that they weep? and they told him the tidings of the men of Jabeſh.

6 And the Spirit of God came upon Saul when he heard thoſe tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly.

7 And he took a yoke of oxen, and hewed them in pieces, and ſent them throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael by the hands of meſſengers, ſaying, Whoſoever cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel, ſo ſhall it be done unto his oxen. And the fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out with one conſent.

8 And when he numbered them in Bezek, the children of Iſrael were three hundred thouſand, and the men of Judah thirty thouſand.

9 And they ſaid unto the meſſengers that came, Thus ſhall ye ſay unto the men of Jabeſh-gilead, To-morrow by that time the ſun be hot, ye ſhall have help. And the meſſengers came and ſhewed it to the men of Jabeſh; and they were glad.

10 Therefore the men of Jabeſh ſaid, To-morrow we will come out unto you, and ye ſhall do with us all that ſeemeth good to you.

11 And it was ſo on the morrow, that Saul put the people in three companies, and they came into the midſt of the hoſt in the morning-watch, and ſlew the Ammonites until the heat of the day: and it came to paſs, that they which remained were ſcattered, ſo that two of them were not left together.

12 ¶ And the people ſaid unto Samuel, Who is he that ſaid, Shall Saul reign over us? bring the men, that we may put them to death.

13 And Saul ſaid, There ſhall not a man be put to death this day: for to day the LORD hath wrought ſalvation in Iſrael.

14 Then ſaid Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go to Gilgal, and renew the kingdom there.

15 And all the people went to Gilgal, and there they made Saul king before the LORD in

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then Nahaſh the Ammonite.] He was either the king or general of the Ammonites, who had before made war againſt Iſrael, which was the reaſon for their deſiring a king.

Came up, and encamped againſt Jabeſh-gilead.] This town lay on the eaſt-ſide of Jordan, and not far from the Ammonites who beſieged it. Euſebius and St. Jerom tell us, that it exiſted in their time, and was ſituated on a hill about ſix miles diſtance from Pella. It is ſometimes in ſcripture ſimply called Jabeſh: its inhabitants were remarkable for their grateful remembrance of the ſervices done them by Saul, by the honour and reſpect they ſhewed to his dead body, chap. xxxi. 11, 12.

2 On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I thruſt out all your right eyes.] He was deſirous of effectually diſabling them from ſerving for the future in war; for as the manner of fighting in thoſe days was chiefly with bow and arrow, ſword and ſhield, the loſs of the right eye rendered them incapable of either; yet he did not think proper to put out both their eyes, becauſe they would then have been diſabled from doing him any ſervice, or paying him tribute. Patrick.

3 Give us ſeven days, &c.] It may ſeem ſtrange, that Nahaſh ſhould be willing to allow the Jabeſhites the reſpite of ſeven days; Joſephus aſſigns this reaſon for it, viz. that he had ſo mean an opinion of the people and of Saul, who indeed had been appointed king, but not having as yet taking upon him the government, Nahaſh was perſuaded he could not levy an army in ſo ſhort a ſpace, and, conſequently, that there was no danger in granting them the reſpite they deſired. Patrick.

7 Whoſoever cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel, ſo ſhall it be done unto his oxen.] Hence it appears that the kings of Iſrael aſſumed ſuch a power as Samuel had deſcribed, chap. viii. one part of which conſiſted in making war, and raiſing ſoldiers by their ſole authority, and puniſhing thoſe who refuſed to join the army on their ſummons. Patrick.

12 The people ſaid unto Samuel.] Elevated with this ſignal victory, they were for putting to death all that refuſed to acknowledge Saul for their king; but he generouſly withſtood it, alledging that it was not fit to ſtain the beginning of his reign with the ſlaughter of his ſubjects, after God had wrought ſo great ſalvation in Iſrael. Univerſal Hiſtory.

15 They made Saul king before the Lord in Gilgal.] Saul having received this ſignal token of God's preſence with him, in the late victory, was by common conſent acknowledged by all the people for their king.

Notes

Gilgal: and there they ſacrificed ſacrifices of peace-offerings before the LORD: and there Saul and all the men of Iſrael rejoiced greatly.

CHAP. XII.

1 Samuel teſtifieth his integrity. 6 He reproveth the people of ingratitude. 16 He terrifieth them with thunder in harveſt-time; 20 and comforteth them in God's mercy.

AND Samuel ſaid unto all Iſrael, Behold, I have hearkned unto your voice in all that ye ſaid unto me, and have made a king over you.

2 And now behold, the king walketh before you: and I am old, and gray-headed; and behold, my ſons are with you: and I have walked before you from my childhood unto this day.

3 Behold, here I am: witneſs againſt me before the LORD, and before his anointed; whoſe ox have I taken? or whoſe aſs have I taken? or whom have I defrauded? whom have I oppreſſed? or of whoſe hand have I received any bribe to blind mine eyes therewith? and I will reſtore it to you.

4 And they ſaid, Thou haſt not defrauded us, nor oppreſſed us, neither haſt thou taken ought of any man's hand.

5 And he ſaid unto them, The LORD is witneſs againſt you, and his anointed is witneſs this day, that ye have not found ought in my hand. And they anſwered, He is witneſs.

6 ¶ And Samuel ſaid unto the people, It is the LORD that advanced Moſes and Aaron, and that brought your fathers up out of the land of Egypt.

7 Now therefore ſtand ſtill, that I may reaſon with you before the LORD of all the righteous acts of the LORD which he did to you and to your fathers.

8 When Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers cried unto the LORD, then the LORD ſent Moſes and Aaron, which brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place.

9 And when they forgat the LORD their God, he ſold them into the hand of Siſera captain of the hoſt of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philiſtines, and into the hand of the king of Moab, and they fought againſt them.

10 And they cried unto the LORD, and ſaid, We have ſinned, becauſe we have forſaken the LORD, and have ſerved Baalim and Aſhtaroth: but now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will ſerve thee.

11 And the LORD ſent Jerubbaal, and Bedan, and Jephthah, and Samuel, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every ſide, and ye dwelled ſafe.

12 And when ye ſaw that Nahaſh the king of the children of Ammon came againſt you, ye ſaid unto me, Nay; but a king ſhall reign over us: when the LORD your God was your king.

13 Now therefore, behold the king whom ye have choſen, and whom ye have deſired: and behold, the LORD hath ſet a king over you.

14 If ye will fear the LORD, and ſerve him, and obey his voice, and not rebel againſt the commandment of the LORD, then ſhall both ye, and alſo the king that reigneth over you, continue following the LORD your God.

15 And if ye will not obey the voice of the LORD, but rebel againſt the commandment of the LORD, then ſhall the hand of the LORD be againſt you, as it was againſt your fathers.

16 ¶ Now therefore ſtand and ſee this great thing which the LORD will do before your eyes.

17 Is it not wheat-harveſt to day? I will call unto the LORD, and he ſhall ſend thunder

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Samuel ſaid unto all Iſrael.] Being about to reſign the government to Saul, in a very pathetic ſpeech to the people, he takes occaſion firſt to vindicate his own adminiſtration; then he reminds them of their great tranſgreſſions againſt God, particularly in rejecting his government, and deſiring another king: however, as God had granted their requeſt, he exhorts them, out of regard to their own intereſt, to fear the Lord, and obey their king; and to convince them that he ſpake not without a divine direction, he gave them a miraculous ſign. Stackhouſe.

11 Jerubbaal and Bedan, and Jephthah and Samuel.] This is certainly wrong: there is no ſuch name as Bedan. The Septuagint reads Barak: the Syriac and Arabic verſions have alſo Barak; and they both read Samſon, as the laſt deliverer mentioned, where the Hebrew has Samuel. Samſon was more likely to be celebrated by Samuel; he is alſo mentioned by St. Paul, Gideon, Barak, Samſon, Jephthah. Kennicott.

17 Is it not wheat-harveſt to-day?] St. Jerom obſerves, that the and rain: that ye may perceive and see that your wickedness is great which ye have done in the sight of the LORD in asking you a king.

18 So Samuel called unto the LORD, and the LORD sent thunder and rain that day: and all the people greatly feared the LORD and Samuel.

19 And all the people said unto Samuel, Pray for thy servants unto the LORD thy God, that we die not: for we have added unto all our sins this evil, to ask us a king.

20 ¶ And Samuel said unto the people, Fear not: ye have done all this wickedness: yet turn not aside from following the LORD, but serve the LORD with all your heart;

21 And turn ye not aside: for then should ye go after vain things, which cannot profit nor deliver; for they are vain.

22 For the LORD will not forsake his people, for his great name's sake: because it hath pleased the LORD to make you his people.

23 Moreover, as for me, God forbid that I should sin against the LORD, in ceasing to pray for you: but I will teach you the good and the right way:

24 Only fear the LORD, and serve him in truth with all your heart: for consider how great things he hath done for you.

25 But if ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed, both ye and your king.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Saul's selected band. 5 The Philistines great host. 6 The Israelites distress. 8 Saul, weary of staying for Samuel, sacrificeth. 11 Samuel reproveth him.

SAUL reigned one year; and when he had reigned two years over Israel,

2 Saul chose him three thousand men of Israel; whereof two thousand were with Saul in Michmash and in mount Beth-el, and a thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin: and the rest of the people he sent every man to his tent.

3 And Jonathan smote the garrison of the Philistines that was in Geba, and the Philistines heard of it. And Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, Let the Hebrews hear.

4 And all Israel heard say that Saul had smitten a garrison of the Philistines, and that Israel also was had in abomination with the Philistines. And the people were called together after Saul to Gilgal.

5 ¶ And the Philistines gathered themselves together to fight with Israel, thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, and people as the sand which is on the sea-shore in multitude: and they came up, and pitched in Michmash, east-ward from Beth-aven.

6 ¶ When the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait, for the people were distressed, then the people did hide themselves in caves, and thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits.

7 And some of the Hebrews went over Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead. As for Saul, he was in Gilgal, and all the people followed him trembling.

8 ¶ And he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal; and the people were scattered from him.

9 And Saul said, Bring hither a burnt offering to me, and peace-offerings. And he offered the burnt offering.

10 And it came to pass, that as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, behold, Samuel came: and Saul went out to meet him, that he might salute him.

the wheat-harvest began in Judea about the end of June, in which season thunder and rain were never known, but only in the spring and autumn; the one called the former, and the other the latter rain; therefore Samuel intended to signify the greatness of the miracle God was going to work; who could in an instant, when they least expected it, deprive them of all the comforts of life for rejecting him and his prophet.

Notes on the Thirteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Saul reigned one year.] This verse, taking the Hebrew in its present state, is an inextricable difficulty. The Septuagint entirely omits it, and there is no want of a proper connection of the history, when it is left out. Pilkington.

5 Thirty thousand chariots.] It must not be supposed, that all these chariots were chariots of war; for none, even of the most powerful nations, ever had so prodigious a number: the Syriac and Arabic versions make them three thousand, which is far the more probable: for in the accounts of all armies, the cavalry is always far more numerous than the war-chariots, which is not the case here.

6 Did hide themselves in caves, &c.] See note on Judges vi. 2.

11 ¶ And Samuel ſaid, What haſt thou done? and Saul ſaid, Becauſe I ſaw that the people were ſcattered from me, and that thou cameſt not within the days appointed, and that the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together to Michmaſh;

12 Therefore ſaid I, The Philiſtines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made ſupplication unto the LORD: I forced my ſelf therefore, and offered a burnt offering.

13 And Samuel ſaid to Saul, Thou haſt done fooliſhly: thou haſt not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God which he commanded thee: for now would the LORD have eſtabliſhed thy kingdom upon Iſrael for ever.

14 But now thy kingdom ſhall not continue: the LORD hath ſought him a man after his own heart, and the LORD hath commanded him to be captain over his people, becauſe thou haſt not kept that which the LORD commanded thee.

15 And Samuel aroſe, and gat him up from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people that were preſent with him, about ſix hundred men.

16 And Saul and Jonathan his ſon, and the people that were preſent with them, abode in Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philiſtines encamped in Michmaſh.

17 And the ſpoilers came out of the camp of the Philiſtines in three companies: one company turned unto the way that leadeth to Ophrah, unto the land of Shual:

18 And another company turned the way to Beth-horon: and another company turned to the way of the border that looketh to the valley of Zeboim toward the wilderneſs.

19 Now there was no ſmith found throughout all the land of Iſrael: for the Philiſtines ſaid, Leſt the Hebrews make them ſwords or ſpears.

20 But all the Iſraelites went down to the Philiſtines to ſharpen every man his ſhare, and his coulter, and his ax, and his mattock.

21 Yet they had a file for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes, and to ſharpen the goads.

22 So it came to paſs in the day of battle, that there was neither ſword nor ſpear found in the hand of any of the people that were with Saul and Jonathan: but with Saul and with Jonathan his ſon was there found.

23 And the garriſon of the Philiſtines went out to the paſſage of Michmaſh.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Jonathan miraculouſly ſmiteth the Philiſtines garriſon. 15 A divine terror maketh them beat themſelves. 24 Saul's unadviſed adjuration hindereth the victory.

NOW it came to paſs upon a day, that Jonathan the ſon of Saul ſaid unto the young man that bare his armour, Come, and 13 Thou haſt done fooliſhly.] i. e. Wickedly; becauſe his impatience prompted him, not only to diſtruſt God's providence, but to uſurp the prieſt's office.

14 The Lord hath ſought him a man after his own heart.] This muſt be underſtood of David's public, and not of his private character. He was a man after God's own heart, becauſe he ruled his people Iſrael according to the divine will; he did not ſuffer idolatry. Benſon.

15 Samuel gat him unto Gibeah.] The Septuagint reads thus: Samuel aroſe, and went away from Gilgal. And the people that were left went up along with the men of war after Saul to Gibeah of Benjamin. The next verſe proves this to be the true account: there is no appearance that Samuel went to Gibeah, for it was Saul's uſual reſidence. Wall.

16 Michmaſh.] A place not far from Gibeah.

17 The ſpoilers came out of the camp, &c.] The Philiſtines, finding no army to oppoſe them, detached three parties to ravage the country.

19 Now there was no ſmith found throughout all the land of Iſrael, &c.] The Philiſtines, during the forty years tyranny they had exerciſed over the Iſraelites, had taken care to carry away all the ſmiths out of the country, to prevent them from making themſelves weapons of war; but it ſeems ſtrange, that after the total overthrow of the Philiſtines at Eben-ezer, the Iſraelites ſhould neglect to reſtore thoſe artificers, to furniſh themſelves with proper weapons againſt the next occaſion. But it ſhould be remembered, that an art, once loſt, is not eaſily recovered; eſpecially among a people extremely addicted to ſloth and negligence, deſtitute of iron mines, and wholly intent upon the feeding of cattle. Patrick.

20 The Iſraelites went down to the Philiſtines.] Not to the country of the Philiſtines, for that was too far off, but to their garriſons which they held among them. Patrick.

22 There was neither ſword nor ſpear found, &c.] In the famous victory which the Iſraelites gained over Siſera, there was not a ſhield or ſpear ſeen among forty thouſand in Iſrael, Judges v. 8. But they had bows and arrows and ſlings, which the men of Gibeah could manage with ſurpriſing advantage, Judg. xx. 16.

Notes on the Fourteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now it came to paſs upon a day, that Jonathan the ſon of Saul, &c.] This action of Jonathan's, conſidered in itſelf, was raſh let us go over to the Philiſtines garriſon, that is on the other ſide. But he told not his father.

2 And Saul tarried in the uttermoſt part of Gibeah, under a pomegranate-tree which is in Migron: and the people that were with him were about ſix hundred men;

3 And Ahiah the ſon of Ahitub, Ichabod's brother, the ſon of Phinehas, the ſon of Eli, the LORD's prieſt in Shiloh, wearing an ephod. And the people knew not that Jonathan was gone.

4 And between the paſſages, by which Jonathan ſought to go over unto the Philiſtines garriſon, there was a ſharp rock on the one ſide, and a ſharp rock on the other ſide: and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh.

5 The forefront of the one was ſituate northward over againſt Michmaſh, and the other ſouth-ward over againſt Gibeah.

6 And Jonathan ſaid to the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over unto the garriſon of theſe uncircumciſed: it may be that the LORD will work for us; for there is no reſtraint to the LORD, to ſave by many or by few.

7 And his armour-bearer ſaid unto him, Do all that is in thine heart: turn thee; behold, I am with thee according to thy heart.

8 Then ſaid Jonathan, Behold, we will paſs over unto theſe men, and we will diſcover ourſelves unto them.

9 If they ſay thus unto us, Tarry until we come to you; then we will ſtand ſtill in our place, and will not go up unto them.

10 But if they ſay thus, Come up unto us; then we will go up: for the LORD hath delivered them into our hand: and this ſhall be a ſign unto us.

11 And both of them diſcovered themſelves unto the garriſon of the Philiſtines: and the Philiſtines ſaid, Behold, the Hebrews come forth out of the holes where they had hid themſelves.

12 And the men of the garriſon anſwered Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and ſaid, Come up to us, and we will ſhew you a thing. And Jonathan ſaid unto his armour-bearer, Come up after me: for the LORD hath delivered them into the hand of Iſrael.

13 And Jonathan climbed up upon his hands and upon his feet, and his armour-bearer after him. And they fell before Jonathan; and his armour-bearer ſlew after him.

14 And that firſt ſlaughter which Jonathan and his armour-bearer made, was about twenty men, within as it were an half-acre of land, which a yoke of oxen might plow.

15 ¶ And there was trembling in the hoſt, in the field, and among all the people: the garriſon, and the ſpoilers, they alſo trembled; and the earth quaked: ſo it was a very great trembling.

16 And the watchmen of Saul in Gibeah of Benjamin looked; and behold, the multitude melted away, and they went on beating down one another.

17 Then ſaid Saul unto the people that were with him, Number now, and ſee who is gone raſh, and contrary to the rules of war; which prohibit all under command from entering upon any enterprize, without the general's order: but Jonathan ſeemed to be divinely impelled by ſeeing the Philiſtines appearing as if they intended to aſſault Gibeah, and on the information received of the great ſpoil the three parties had taken from the poor inhabitants of the villages. Patrick.

2 Under a pomegranate-tree.] As the pomegranate-tree is but low of growth, and very unfit to pitch a tent under, Sir Thomas Brown ſuppoſes the original word to ſtand for the name of a place, or the rock Rimmon, or Pomegranate; ſo named from pomegranates growing there, and which many think to have been the ſame place mentioned Judg. xx. 45.

12 Come up, and we will ſhow you a thing.] They mocked at them, thinking that they durſt not attempt to climb up.

14 About twenty men, within as it were an half acre of land, which a yoke of oxen might plow.] This paſſage is very much confuſed: the Septuagint reads it thus; That firſt ſlaughter was about twenty men with darts, and ſtones, and flints of the field. This in all probability is the genuine reading: it is adopted by the learned Mr. Hallet in his notes on Sacred Scripture, vol. III. and Mr. Kennicott.

15 There was a great trembling in the hoſt, &c.] How two men could put a whole army into ſuch conſternation, may ſeem ſomewhat extraordinary: but our wonder will ceaſe when we conſider, that they climbed up a way never before attempted —that they ſurprized the enemy unawares---perhaps when the greateſt part were aſleep---that God might infuſe a panic fear into the hoſt of the Philiſtines, which will make the ſtouteſt tremble, and the moſt heroic ſpirits betake themſelves to flight. The Hebrew is, There was a trembling of God; i. e. which God ſent among them: namely, a panic.

The earth quaked.] Probably this is only a metaphorical expreſſion, implying the great tumult they were in.

from us. And when they had numbered, behold, Jonathan and his armour-bearer were not there.

18 And Saul ſaid unto Ahiah, Bring hither the ark of God. For the ark of God was at that time with the children of Iſrael.

19 And it came to paſs while Saul talked unto the prieſt, that the noiſe that was in the hoſt of the Philiſtines went on and increaſed: and Saul ſaid unto the prieſt, Withdraw thine hand.

20 And Saul and all the people that were with him aſſembled themſelves, and they came to the battle: and behold, every man's ſword was againſt his fellow, and there was a very great diſcomfiture.

21 Moreover, the Hebrews that were with the Philiſtines before that time, which went up with them into the camp from the country round about, even they alſo turned to be with the Iſraelites that were with Saul and Jonathan.

22 Likewiſe all the men of Iſrael which had hid themſelves in mount Ephraim, when they heard that the Philiſtines fled, even they alſo followed hard after them in the battle.

23 So the LORD ſaved Iſrael that day: and the battle paſſed over unto Beth-aven.

24 ¶ And the men of Iſrael were diſtreſſed that day: for Saul had adjured the people, ſaying, Curſed be the man that eateth any food until evening; that I may be avenged on mine enemies. So none of the people taſted any food.

25 And all they of the land came to a wood; and there was honey upon the ground.

26 And when the people were come into the wood, behold, the honey dropped; but no man put his hand to his mouth: for the people feared the oath.

27 But Jonathan heard not when his father charged the people with the oath: wherefore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipped it in an honey-comb, and put his hand to his mouth; and his eyes were enlightened.

28 Then anſwered one of the people, and ſaid, Thy father ſtraitly charged the people with an oath, ſaying, Curſed be the man that eateth any food this day. And the people were faint.

29 Then ſaid Jonathan, My father hath troubled the land: ſee, I pray you, how mine eyes have been enlightened, becauſe I taſted a little of this honey:

30 How much more, if haply the people had eaten freely to day of the ſpoil of their enemies which they found? for had there not been now a much greater ſlaughter among the Philiſtines?

31 And they ſmote the Philiſtines that day from Michmaſh to Aijalon: and the people were very faint.

32 And the people flew upon the ſpoil, and took ſheep, and oxen, and calves, and ſlew them on the ground: and the people did eat them with the blood.

33 Then they told Saul, ſaying, Behold, the people ſin againſt the LORD, in that they eat with the blood. And he ſaid, Ye have tranſgreſſed: roll a great ſtone unto me this day.

34 And Saul ſaid, Diſperſe your ſelves among the people, and ſay unto them, Bring me hither every man his ox, and every man his ſheep, and ſlay them here, and eat; and ſin not againſt the LORD, in eating with the blood. And all the people brought every man his ox with him that night, and ſlew them there.

35 And Saul built an altar unto the LORD: the ſame was the firſt altar that he built unto the LORD.

36 And Saul ſaid, Let us go down after the Philiſtines by night, and ſpoil them until the morning light, and let us not leave a man of them. And they ſaid, Do whatſoever ſeemeth

21 The Hebrews that were with the Philiſtines.] The Septuagint properly reads, The ſlaves that, &c. meaning ſuch Hebrews as the Philiſtines had taken captive.

25 There was honey upon the ground.] i. e. Wild honey, which, as Dr. Shaw obſerves, is now to be found in great plenty in the deſerts in the Holy Land.

27 His eyes were enlightened.] i. e. His ſpirits and ſtrength, which were quite ſpent with long abſtinence from food, were reſtored, and he was enabled to proceed with freſh vigour in the purſuit of the enemy. Patrick.

32 Eat them with the blood.] They eat it raw, or but half roaſted; their hunger being ſo very ſharp, that they forgot their duty.

33 Roll a great ſtone unto me this day.] Wherewith to build an altar.

good unto thee. Then ſaid the prieſt, Let us draw near hither unto God.

37 And Saul aſked counſel of God, Shall I go down after the Philiſtines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Iſrael? but he anſwered him not that day.

38 And Saul ſaid, Draw ye near hither all the chief of the people: and know and ſee wherein this ſin hath been this day.

39 For as the LORD liveth, which ſaveth Iſrael, though it be in Jonathan my ſon, he ſhall ſurely die. But there was not a man among all the people that anſwered him.

40 Then ſaid he unto all Iſrael, Be ye on one ſide, and I and Jonathan my ſon will be on the other ſide. And the people ſaid unto Saul, Do what ſeemeth good unto thee.

41 Therefore Saul ſaid unto the LORD God of Iſrael, give a perfect lot. And Saul and Jonathan were taken: but the people eſcaped.

42 And Saul ſaid, Caſt lots between me and Jonathan my ſon. And Jonathan was taken.

43 Then Saul ſaid to Jonathan, Tell me what thou haſt done. And Jonathan told him and ſaid, I did but taſte a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and lo, I muſt die.

44 And Saul anſwered, God do ſo, and more alſo: for thou ſhalt ſurely die, Jonathan.

45 And the people ſaid unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great ſalvation in Iſrael? God forbid: as the LORD liveth, there ſhall not one hair of his head fall to the ground; for he hath wrought with God this day. So the people reſcued Jonathan that he died not.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philiſtines: and the Philiſtines went to their own place.

47 So Saul took the kingdom over Iſrael, and fought againſt all his enemies on every ſide, againſt Moab, and againſt the children of Ammon, and againſt Edom, and againſt the kings of Zoba, and againſt the Philiſtines: and whitherſoever he turned himſelf, he vexed them.

48 And he gathered an hoſt, and ſmote the Amalekites, and delivered Iſrael out of the hands of them that ſpoiled them.

49 Now the ſons of Saul were Jonathan, and Iſhui, and Malchi-ſhua: and the names of his two daughters were theſe; the name of the firſt-born Merab, and the name of the younger Michal.

50 And the name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz: and the name of the captain of his hoſt was Abner the ſon of Ner, Saul's uncle.

51 And Kiſh was the father of Saul; and Ner the father of Abner was the ſon of Abiel.

52 And there was ſore war againſt the Philiſtines all the days of Saul: and when Saul ſaw any ſtrong man, or any valiant man, he took him unto him.

CHAP. XV.

1 Samuel ſendeth Saul to deſtroy Amalek. 8 He ſpareth Agag and the beſt of the ſpoil. 32 Samuel killeth Agag.

SAmuel alſo ſaid unto Saul, The LORD ſent me to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Iſrael: now therefore hearken thou unto the voice of the words of the LORD.

2 Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, I remember that which Amalek did to Iſrael, how he laid wait for him in the way when he came up from Egypt.

3 Now go, and ſmite Amalek, and utterly deſtroy all that they have, and ſpare them not; but ſlay both man and woman, infant and ſuckling, ox and ſheep, camel and aſs.

4 And Saul gathered the people together,

44 Thou ſhalt ſurely die, Jonathan.] The temper of Saul here is very extraordinary, who would not ſpare his virtuous ſon, though in the next chapter he ſcrupled not to pardon a wicked king.

45 The people ſaid unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, &c.] The people were ſo highly pleaſed with the heroic actions of Jonathan, that they would not ſuffer his father to put him to death, in conſequence of his raſh oath: though they did not reſcue him by force, but by their unanimous petitions.

47 Saul took the kingdom over Iſrael.] He ruled with greater authority over his people.

Againſt the kings of Zobah.] The kingdom Zobah was a part of Syria, bounded by the river Euphrates on the eaſt, and by Damaſcus and the land of Canaan on the weſt.

Notes on the Fifteenth Chapter.

Ver. 3 Smite Amalek, &c.] This ſentence was long before pronounced, Exod. xvii. 14. renewed at the Iſraelites entrance into Canaan, Deut. xxv. 19. and now ordered to be put in execution.

and numbered them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen, and ten thousand men of Judah.

5 And Saul came to a city of Amalek, and laid wait in the valley.

6 And Saul said unto the Kenites, Go, depart, get ye down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them: for ye shewed kindness to all the children of Israel when they came up out of Egypt. So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites.

7 And Saul smote the Amalekites from Havilah until thou comest to Shur, that is over against Egypt.

8 ¶ And he took Agag the king of the Amalekites alive, and utterly destroyed all the people with the edge of the sword.

9 But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, and of the fatlings, and the lambs, and all that was good, and would not utterly destroy them: but every thing that was vile and refuse, that they destroyed utterly.

10 Then came the word of the LORD unto Samuel, saying,

11 It repenteth me that I have set up Saul to be king: for he is turned back from following me, and hath not performed my commandments. And it grieved Samuel; and he cried unto the LORD all night.

12 And when Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning, it was told Samuel, saying, Saul came to Carmel, and behold, he set him up a place, and is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal.

13 And Samuel came to Saul; and Saul said unto him, Blessed be thou of the LORD: I have performed the commandment of the LORD.

14 And Samuel said, What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?

15 And Saul said, They have brought them from the Amalekites: for the people spared the best of the sheep and of the oxen to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God, and the rest we have utterly destroyed.

16 Then Samuel said unto Saul, Stay, and I will tell thee what the LORD hath said to me this night. And he said unto him, Say on.

17 And Samuel said, When thou wast little in thine own sight, wast thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel, and the LORD anointed thee king over Israel?

18 And the LORD sent thee on a journey, and said, Go, and utterly destroy the sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them until they be consumed.

19 Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the LORD, but didst fly upon the spoil, and didst evil in the sight of the LORD?

20 And Saul said unto Samuel, Yea, I have obeyed the voice of the LORD, and have gone the way which the LORD sent me, and have brought Agag the king of Amalek, and have utterly destroyed the Amalekites.

21 But the people took of the spoil, sheep and oxen, the chief of the things which should have been utterly destroyed, to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God in Gilgal.

22 And Samuel said, Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt-offerings and sacrifices as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice; and to hearken, than the fat of rams.

23 For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry. Because thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, he hath also rejected thee from being king.

24 And Saul said unto Samuel, I have sinned: for I have transgressed the commandment of the LORD, and thy words; because I feared the people, and obeyed their voice.

6 Saul said to the Kenites.] They were of the posterity of Jethro; and dwelt among the Amalekites in the rocky part of the country, Numb. xxiv. 21.

7 Saul smote the Amalekites from Havilah, until thou comest to Shur.] That is, the whole country of Amalek, Havilah lying at one extremity, and Shur at the other.

9 Saul---spared Agag.] Josephus seems to hint that Saul saved this king alive, because he was taken with the comeliness and majesty of his person; but others rather think, that he intended him to decorate his triumph. Calmet.

22 Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice; and to hearken than the fat of rams.] This divine admonition is inculcated by several inspired writers, particularly David, Solomon, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Hosea, Micah, Zachariah, &c. Patrick.

25 Now therefore, I pray thee, pardon my ſin, and turn again with me, that I may worſhip the LORD.

26 And Samuel ſaid unto Saul, I will not return with thee: for thou haſt rejected the word of the LORD, and the LORD hath rejected thee from being king over Iſrael.

27 And as Samuel turned about to go away, he laid hold upon the ſkirt of his mantle, and it rent.

28 And Samuel ſaid unto him, The LORD hath rent the kingdom of Iſrael from thee this day, and hath given it to a neighbour of thine, that is better than thou.

29 And alſo the Strength of Iſrael will not lye, nor repent: for he is not a man, that he ſhould repent.

30 Then he ſaid, I have ſinned; yet honour me now, I pray thee, before the elders of my people, and before Iſrael, and turn again with me, that I may worſhip the LORD thy God.

31 So Samuel turned again after Saul; and Saul worſhipped the LORD.

32 ¶ Then ſaid Samuel, Bring ye hither to me Agag the king of the Amalekites. And Agag came unto him delicately. And Agag ſaid, Surely the bitterneſs of death is paſt.

33 And Samuel ſaid, As thy ſword hath made women childleſs, ſo ſhall thy mother be childleſs among women. And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the LORD in Gilgal.

34 Then Samuel went to Ramah; and Saul went up to his houſe to Gibeah of Saul.

35 And Samuel came no more to ſee Saul until the day of his death: nevertheleſs, Samuel mourned for Saul: and the LORD repented that he had made Saul king over Iſrael.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Samuel, ſent by God under pretence of a ſacrifice, cometh to Beth-lehem. 6 His human judgment is reproved. 11 He anointeth David.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Samuel, How long wilt thou mourn for Saul, ſeeing I have rejected him from reigning over Iſrael? fill thine horn with oil, and go, I will ſend thee to Jeſſe the Bethlehemite: for I have provided me a king among his ſons.

2 And Samuel ſaid, How can I go? If Saul hear it, he will kill me. And the LORD ſaid, Take an heifer with thee, and ſay, I am come to ſacrifice to the LORD.

3 And call Jeſſe to the ſacrifice, and I will ſhew thee what thou ſhalt do: and thou ſhalt anoint unto me him whom I name unto thee.

4 And Samuel did that which the LORD ſpake, and came to Beth-lehem. And the elders of the town trembled at his coming, and ſaid, Comeſt thou peaceably?

5 And he ſaid, Peaceably: I am come to ſacrifice unto the LORD: ſanctify your ſelves, and come with me to the ſacrifice. And he ſanctified Jeſſe and his ſons, and called them to the ſacrifice.

6 ¶ And it came to paſs when they were come, that he looked on Eliab, and ſaid, Surely the LORD's anointed is before him.

7 But the LORD ſaid unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his ſtature; becauſe I have refuſed him. For the LORD ſeeth not as man ſeeth: for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the LORD looketh on the heart.

8 Then Jeſſe called Abinadab, and made

29 The ſtrength of Iſrael.] The word in the original, which we tranſlate ſtrength, imports victory; and therefore the words ſhould have been rendered, he that giveth victory, or the triumphant king of Iſrael. Patrick.

32 And Agag came unto him delicately.] Or walking in an affected and delicate manner.

33 Samuel hewed Agag in pieces.] It has been matter of wonder to many how Samuel could thus ſlay a captive prince, even in the preſence of Saul, who out of his clemency had ſpared him: but it muſt be remembered, that the death of this prince had been predicted above four hundred years ago; that he had been a very bloody tyrant, and therefore was cut off for his own mercileſs cruelties; and that it does not follow, that Samuel ſlew Agag himſelf, becauſe what he commanded might be called his own act, though it were done by the public executioner.

35 Nevertheleſs, Samuel mourned for Saul.] He had a ſincere value for his country, and therefore could not help lamenting the ſad condition of its king.

Notes on the Sixteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The Lord ſaid unto Samuel, How long wilt thou mourn for Saul? &c.] Since God had ſo poſitively told him that the ſentence againſt Saul was irreverſible, it was in vain to mourn for him. Patrick.

10 Again, Jeſſe made ſeven of his ſons to paſs before Samuel. And Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, The LORD hath not choſen theſe.

11 ¶ And Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, Are here all thy children? and he ſaid, There remaineth yet the youngeſt, and behold he keepeth the ſheep. And Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, Send and fetch him: for we will not ſit down till he come hither.

12 And he ſent, and brought him in. Now he was ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the LORD ſaid, Ariſe, anoint him: for this is he.

13 Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midſt of his brethren. And the Spirit of the LORD came upon David from that day forward. So Samuel roſe up, and went to Ramah.

14 But the Spirit of the LORD departed from Saul, and an evil ſpirit from the LORD troubled him.

15 And Saul's ſervants ſaid unto him, Behold now, an evil ſpirit from God troubleth thee.

16 Let our lord now command thy ſervants which are before thee to ſeek out a man who is a cunning player on an harp: and it ſhall come to paſs when the evil ſpirit from God is upon thee, that he ſhall play with his hand, and thou ſhalt be well.

17 And Saul ſaid unto his ſervants, Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me.

18 Then anſwered one of the ſervants, and ſaid, Behold, I have ſeen a ſon of Jeſſe the Bethlehemite, that is cunning in playing, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in matters, and a comely perſon, and the LORD is with him.

19 Wherefore Saul ſent meſſengers unto Jeſſe, and ſaid, Send me David thy ſon, which is with the ſheep.

20 And Jeſſe took an aſs laden with bread, and a bottle of wine, and a kid, and ſent them by David his ſon unto Saul.

21 And David came to Saul, and ſtood before him: and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer.

22 And Saul ſent to Jeſſe, ſaying, Let David I pray thee, ſtand before me: for he hath found favour in my ſight.

23 And it came to paſs when the evil ſpirit from God was upon Saul, that David took an harp, and played with his hand: ſo Saul was refreſhed, and was well, and the evil ſpirit departed from him.

CHAP. XVII.

1 The armies of the Iſraelites and Philiſtines being ready to battle, 4 Goliath cometh proudly forth to challenge a combat. 12 David accepteth the challenge; 38 and ſlayeth the giant.

NOW the Philiſtines gathered together their armies to battle, and were gathered together at Shochoh, which belongeth to Judah, and pitched between Shochoh and Azekah, in Epheſ-dammim.

2 And Saul and the men of Iſrael were gathered together, and pitched by the valley of 13 Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midſt of his brethren.] It ſhould have been from the midſt of his brethren; that is, he ſingled him out from the reſt, and privately anointed him: it is not to be ſuppoſed that Samuel did then explain the whole myſtery of his anointing David; which might have had ſome fatal conſequence, had it come to Saul's ears: but as it was uſual to anoint men to the office of prophet, as well as to the regal dignity, it is moſt likely, that he left them to ſuppoſe the former; as David was not much above fifteen years of age, therefore too young to be taken for a warrior. Had his brethren ſuſpected that he had been anointed to the regal dignity, it is not credible they would have uſed him with ſuch roughneſs as they did, when their father ſent him to them to Saul's camp. Univerſal Hiſtory.

The ſpirit of the Lord came upon David.] Here we ſee the power of the Almighty, who by the wonderful efficacy of his ſpirit, raiſed an obſcure youth, uneducated, and without the advantages either of inſtruction or example into the greateſt muſician, the nobleſt poet, and the moſt conſummate hero of antiquity. Life of David.

14 An evil ſpirit from the Lord troubled him.] He was melancholy, timorous, and ſuſpicious; he ſtarted where there was no danger, as the Hebrew ſeems to import; he became unfit for buſineſs, being ſometimes furious and diſtracted, always full of anxiety and ſolicitude. Patrick.

23 David took an harp, and played with his hand, &c.] Several authors have mentioned the power of muſic, both in ſtirring up, and allaying the paſſions, in reviving the ſpirits, or diſſipating rage or melancholy, according to the different ſpecies of it; but the cure of Saul muſt doubtleſs be attributed to God, who bleſſed the means which were uſed to effect it.

Elah, and ſet the battle in array againſt the Philiſtines.

3 And the Philiſtines ſtood on a mountain on the one ſide, and Iſrael ſtood on a mountain on the other ſide: and there was a valley between them.

4 ¶ And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philiſtines, named Goliath, of Gath, whoſe height was ſix cubits and a ſpan.

5 And he had an helmet of braſs upon his head, and he was armed with a coat of mail; and the weight of the coat was five thouſand ſhekels of braſs.

6 And he had greaves of braſs upon his legs, and a target of braſs between his ſhoulders.

7 And the ſtaff of his ſpear was like a weaver's beam; and his ſpear's head weighed ſix hundred ſhekels of iron: and one bearing a ſhield went before him.

8 And he ſtood and cried unto the armies of Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, Why are ye come out to ſet your battle in array? am not I a Philiſtine, and ye ſervants to Saul? chooſe ye a man for you, and let him come down to me.

9 If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your ſervants: but if I prevail againſt him, and kill him; then ſhall ye be our ſervants, and ſerve us.

10 And the Philiſtine ſaid, I defy the armies of Iſrael this day; give me a man, that we may fight together.

11 When Saul and all Iſrael heard thoſe words of the Philiſtine, they were diſmayed and greatly afraid.

12 ¶ Now David was the ſon of that Ephrathite of Beth-lehem-judah whoſe name was Jeſſe; and he had eight ſons: and the man went among men for an old man in the days of Saul.

13 And the three eldeſt ſons of Jeſſe went, and followed Saul to the battle: and the names of his three ſons that went to the battle, were Eliab the firſt-born; and next unto him, Abinadab; and the third Shammah.

14 And David was the youngeſt: and the three eldeſt followed Saul.

15 But David went and returned from Saul, to feed his father's ſheep at Bethlehem.

16 And the Philiſtine drew near morning and evening, and preſented himſelf forty days.

17 And Jeſſe ſaid unto David his ſon, Take now for thy brethren an ephah of this parched corn, and theſe ten loaves, and run to the camp to thy brethren.

18 And carry theſe ten cheeſes unto the captain of their thouſand, and look how thy brethren fare, and take their pledge.

19 Now Saul, and they, all the men of Iſrael were in the valley of Elah, fighting with the Philiſtines.

20 And David roſe up early in the morning, and left the ſheep with a keeper, and took, and went, as Jeſſe had commanded him; and he came to the trench as the hoſt was going forth to the fight, and ſhouted for the battle.

21 For Iſrael and the Philiſtines had put the battle in array, army againſt army.

22 And David left his carriage in the hand of the keeper of the carriage, and ran into the army and came, and ſaluted his brethren.

23 And as he talked with them, behold there came up the champion, the Philiſtine of

Notes on the Seventeenth Chapter.

Ver. 4 There went out a champion, &c.] When Joſhua drove the Anakims out of Canaan, they retired to Gath, and there propagated a race of giants, of which Goliath was one.

Whoſe height was ſix cubits and a ſpan.] According to the Engliſh ſtandard, the height of this champion will be twelve feet eight inches. Univerſal Hiſtory, vol. II. p. 242.

5 The weight of the coat was five thouſand ſhekels of braſs.] Or, upwards of one hundred and eighty-nine of our pounds troy; though ſome are of opinion, that it muſt not be underſtood that his coat weighed ſo much, as that would have been inſupportable, even to this enormous giant; but that it coſt, or was valued at five thouſand ſhekels of braſs. Patrick.

8 Am not I a Philiſtine, and ye ſervants to Saul?] i. e. Though I am a chief ruler in Gath, and therefore ſubject to none, I will condeſcend to fight with any of Saul's ſervants.

Chooſe you a man for you, &c.] This challenge of Goliath's ſeems to have been a mere bravado, proceeding entirely from the high opinion he had of his own matchleſs ſtrength. It is evident, from the ſequel, that he had no authority from the Philiſtine army to offer ſuch propoſals, ſince, after he was ſlain, they did not ſubmit to be ſervants to the Iſraelites, as he had declared they would, in caſe he was vanquiſhed.

12 Now David, &c.] This verſe, and all the reſt to the 31ſt inclusive, viz. twenty in the whole, and ſeveral others in this 17th and 18th chapters are ſuppoſed, on good authority, to be interpolated, or foiſted in where they have no buſineſs (as I ſhall endeavour to ſhow at the concluſion of the 18th chapter) therefore they will require no notes.

Gath, Goliath by name, out of the armies of the Philiſtines, and ſpake according to the ſame words: and David heard them.

24 And all the men of Iſrael, when they ſaw the man, fled from him, and were ſore afraid.

25 And the men of Iſrael ſaid, Have ye ſeen this man that is come up? ſurely to defy Iſrael is he come up. And it ſhall be that the man who killeth him, the king will enrich him with great riches, and will give him his daughter, and make his father's houſe free in Iſrael.

26 And David ſpake to the men that ſtood by him, ſaying, What ſhall be done to the man that killeth this Philiſtine, and taketh away the reproach from Iſrael? for who is this uncircumciſed Philiſtine, that he ſhould defy the armies of the living God?

27 And the people anſwered him after this manner, ſaying, So ſhall it be done to the man that killeth him.

28 And Eliab his eldeſt brother heard when he ſpake unto the men; and Eliab's anger was kindled againſt David, and he ſaid, Why cameſt thou down hither? and with whom haſt thou left thoſe few ſheep in the wilderneſs? I know thy pride, and the naughtineſs of thine heart; for thou art come down that thou mighteſt ſee the battle.

29 And David ſaid, What have I now done? is there not a cauſe?

30 And he turned from him towards another, and ſpake after the ſame manner. And the people anſwered him again after the former manner.

31 And when the words were heard which David ſpake, they rehearſed them before Saul. And he ſent for him.

32 And David ſaid to Saul, Let no man's heart fail becauſe of him; thy ſervant will go and fight with this Philiſtine.

33 And Saul ſaid to David, Thou art not able to go againſt this Philiſtine to fight with him: for thou art but a youth, and he a man of war from his youth.

34 And David ſaid unto Saul, Thy ſervant kept his father's ſheep, and there came a lion, and a bear, and took a lamb out of the flock:

35 And I went out after him, and ſmote him, and delivered it out of his mouth: and when he aroſe againſt me, I caught him by his beard, and ſmote him, and ſlew him.

36 Thy ſervant ſlew both the lion, and the bear: and this uncircumciſed Philiſtine ſhall be as one of them, ſeeing he hath defied the armies of the living God.

37 David ſaid moreover, The LORD that delivered me out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this Philiſtine. And Saul ſaid unto David, Go, and the LORD be with thee.

38 ¶ And Saul armed David with his armour, and he put an helmet of braſs upon his head, alſo he armed him with a coat of mail.

39 And David girded his ſword upon his armour, and he aſſayed to go; for he had not proved it. And David ſaid unto Saul, I cannot go with theſe: for I have not proved them. And David put them off him.

40 And he took his ſtaff in his hand, and choſe him five ſmooth ſtones out of the brook, and put them in a ſhepherd's bag which he had, even in a ſcrip; and his ſling was in his hand: and he drew near to the Philiſtine.

41 And the Philiſtine came on and drew near unto David; and the man that bare the ſhield went before him.

42 And when the Philiſtine looked about and ſaw David, he diſdained him: for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance.

43 And the Philiſtine ſaid unto David, Am I a dog, that thou comeſt to me with ſtaves? and the Philiſtine curſed David by his gods.

44 And the Philiſtine ſaid to David, Come to me, and I will give thy fleſh unto the fowls of the air, and to the beaſts of the field.

45 Then ſaid David to the Philiſtine, Thou comeſt to me with a ſword, and with a ſpear, § 37 The Lord—will deliver me out of the hand of this Philiſtine.] To ſilence all objections, he declares he was poſſeſſed with a full perſuaſion, that God would deliver Goliath into his hand, as he had done the lion and the bear; for he felt himſelf animated by that ſpirit which then aſſiſted him. Patrick.

40 His ſling, &c.] A weapon, in the management of which ſome, in theſe early years, were remarkably dextrous.

42 He diſdained him, &c.] He contemned him, becauſe he was but a youth, unaccuſtomed to war.

and with a ſhield; but I come to thee in the name of the LORD of hoſts, the God of the armies of Iſrael, whom thou haſt defied.

46 This day will the LORD deliver thee into mine hand, and I will ſmite thee, and take thine head from thee; and I will give the carcaſes of the hoſt of the Philiſtines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beaſts of the earth; that all the earth may know that there is a God in Iſrael.

47 And all this aſſembly ſhall know that the LORD ſaveth not with ſword and ſpear: for the battle is the LORD's, and he will give you into our hands.

48 And it came to paſs when the Philiſtine aroſe, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David haſted, and ran toward the army to meet the Philiſtine.

49 And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a ſtone, and ſlang it, and ſmote the Philiſtine in his forehead, that the ſtone ſunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.

50 So David prevailed over the Philiſtine with a ſling and with a ſtone, and ſmote the Philiſtine and ſlew him: but there was no ſword in the hand of David.

51 Therefore David ran and ſtood upon the Philiſtine, and took his ſword, and drew it out of the ſheath thereof, and ſlew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philiſtines ſaw their champion was dead, they fled.

52 And the men of Iſrael and of Judah aroſe, and ſhouted, and purſued the Philiſtines, until thou come to the valley, and to the gate of Ekron. And the wounded of the Philiſtines fell down by the way to Shaaraim, even unto Gath, and unto Ekron.

53 And the children of Iſrael returned from chaſing after the Philiſtines, and they ſpoiled their tents.

54 And David took the head of the Philiſtine, and brought it to Jeruſalem; but he put his armour in his tent.

55 And when Saul ſaw David go forth againſt the Philiſtine, he ſaid unto Abner the captain of the hoſt, Abner, whoſe ſon is this youth? and Abner ſaid, As thy ſoul liveth, O king, I cannot tell.

56 And the king ſaid, Enquire thou whoſe ſon the ſtripling is.

57 And as David returned from the ſlaughter of the Philiſtine, Abner took him and brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philiſtine in his hand.

58 And Saul ſaid to him, Whoſe ſon art thou young man? and David anſwered, I am the ſon of thy ſervant Jeſſe the Beth-lehemite.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Jonathan loveth David. 5 Saul envieth his praiſe, 10 ſeeketh to kill him in his fury, 12 feareth him for his good ſucceſs. 17 He offereth him his daughter for a ſnare.

AND it came to paſs when he had made an end of ſpeaking unto Saul, that the ſoul of Jonathan was knit with the ſoul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own ſoul.

2 And Saul took him that day, and would let him go no more to his father's houſe.

3 Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, becauſe he loved him as his own ſoul.

4 And Jonathan ſtripped himſelf of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his garments, even to his ſword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.

5 ¶ And David went out whitherſoever Saul ſent him, and behaved himſelf wiſely: and

49 David ſmote the Philiſtine in the forehead.] Probably this arrogant champion, in diſdain, might advance forward with his helmet turned back, and his forehead bare; or if his face was covered, David might level the ſtone ſo right as to hit the very place in the helmet left open for his adverſary's eyes; for we muſt acknowledge that the ſtone was directed by the unerring hand of the God of Iſrael. The Septuagint reads, The ſtone broke through his helmet into his forehead.

54 Brought it to Jeruſalem.] Jeruſalem ſeems, from hence, to have been a famous city at this time, becauſe David brought the head of Goliath hither; though, in all probability, it was not left there, but only ſhewn as a ſpectacle. Patrick.

Notes on the Eighteenth Chapter.

Ver. 4 Jonathan ſtripped himſelf of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David.] This was the higheſt mark of favour he could ſhew him, and it is ſtill eſteemed ſuch in the oriental courts. Tavernier's Travels.

Saul ſet him over the men of war, and he was accepted in the ſight of all the people, and alſo in the ſight of Saul's ſervants.

6 And it came to paſs as they came when David was returned from the ſlaughter of the Philiſtines, that the women came out of all cities of Iſrael, ſinging and dancing, to meet king Saul, with tabrets, with joy, and with inſtruments of muſick.

7 And the women anſwered one another as they played, and ſaid, Saul hath ſlain his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands.

8 And Saul was very wroth, and the ſaying diſpleaſed him; and he ſaid, They have aſcribed unto David ten thouſands; and to me they have aſcribed but thouſands: and what can he have more but the kingdom?

9 And Saul eyed David from that day and forward.

10 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the evil ſpirit from God came upon Saul, and he propheſied in the midſt of the houſe: and David played with his hand, as at other times: and there was a javelin in Saul's hand.

11 And Saul caſt the javelin; for he ſaid, I will ſmite David even to the wall with it. And David avoided out of his preſence twice.

12 ¶ And Saul was afraid of David, becauſe the LORD was with him, and was departed from Saul.

13 Therefore Saul removed him from him, and made him his captain over a thouſand; and he went out and came in before the people.

14 And David behaved himſelf wiſely in all his ways; and the LORD was with him.

15 Wherefore when Saul ſaw that he behaved himſelf very wiſely, he was afraid of him.

16 But all Iſrael and Judah loved David, becauſe he went out and came in before them.

17 ¶ And Saul ſaid to David, Behold, my elder daughter Merab, her will I give thee to wife: only be thou valiant for me, and fight the LORD's battles. For Saul ſaid, Let not mine hand be upon him, but let the hand of the Philiſtines be upon him.

18 And David ſaid unto Saul, Who am I? and what is my life, or my father's family in Iſrael, that I ſhould be ſon in law to the king?

19 But it came to paſs at the time when Merab Saul's daughter ſhould have been given to David, that ſhe was given unto Adriel the Meholathite to wife.

20 And Michal Saul's daughter loved David: and they told Saul, and the thing pleaſed him.

21 And Saul ſaid, I will give him her, that ſhe may be a ſnare to him, and that the hand of the Philiſtines may be againſt him. Wherefore Saul ſaid to David, Thou ſhalt this day be my ſon in law in the one of the twain.

22 And Saul commanded his ſervants, ſaying, Commune with David ſecretly, and ſay, Behold, the king hath delight in thee, and all his ſervants love thee: now therefore be the king's ſon in law.

23 And Saul's ſervants ſpake thoſe words in the ears of David. And David ſaid, Seemeth it to you a light thing to be a king's ſon in law, ſeeing that I am a poor man, and lightly eſteemed?

24 And the ſervants of Saul told him, ſaying, On this manner ſpake David.

25 And Saul ſaid, Thus ſhall ye ſay to David, The king deſireth not any dowry, but an hundred foreſkins of the Philiſtines, to be avenged of the king's enemies. But Saul thought to make David fall by the hand of the Philiſtines.

7 Saul hath ſlain his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands.] This is a triumphal ſong, or at leaſt the chorus or burden of one, ſimilar to that in Exod. xv. 21. which Miriam and the women ſung, which ſee. This paſſage is exactly correſpondent to a verſe in the Iliad, b. 22. which, after the ſlaughter of Hector, Achilles gives out for the chorus of a ſong.

Be this the ſong flow-moving tow'rd the ſhore, " Hector is dead, and Ilion is no more." Pope.

8 Saul was very wroth.] He began to be jealous that they would ſoon place David on the throne of Iſrael, as they now ſo highly magnified him above their king. Patrick.

13 Saul removed him from him, &c.] Saul being diſappointed in his intent to kill David, determined to remove him from the court; and, inſtead of commanding in the guards, as he had done before, made him a captain of another troop, where he hoped he might be ſlain in ſome expedition, or he himſelf have an opportunity of taking away his life. Patrick.

25 The king deſireth not any dowry; but an hundred foreſkins of the Philiſtines.] The reaſon of this deſire was to prevent all cheat and colluſion, and that he might be ſure they were only Philiſtines whom he killed. Had he demanded the heads only of ſo many men, David might, he thought, cut off thoſe of his own ſubjects, and bring them inſtead of the Philiſtines.

26 And when his ſervants told David theſe words, it pleaſed David well to be the king's ſon in law: and the days were not expired.

27 Wherefore David aroſe and went, he and his men, and ſlew of the Philiſtines two hundred men; and David brought their foreſkins, and they gave them in full tale to the king, that he might be the king's ſon in law. And Saul gave him Michal his daughter to wife.

28 And Saul ſaw and knew that the LORD was with David, and that Michal Saul's daughter loved him.

29 And Saul was yet the more afraid of David; and Saul became David's enemy continually.

30 Then the princes of the Philiſtines went forth: and it came to paſs, after they went forth, that David behaved himſelf more wiſely than all the ſervants of Saul; ſo that his name was much ſet by.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Jonathan diſcloſeth his father's purpoſe to kill David. 4 He perſuadeth his father to reconciliation. 8 Saul's malicious rage breaketh out again. 12 Michal's ſtratagem to ſave David.

AND Saul ſpake to Jonathan his ſon, and to all the ſervants, that they ſhould kill David.

2 But Jonathan Saul's ſon delighted much in David: and Jonathan told David, ſaying, Saul my father ſeeketh to kill thee: now therefore, I pray thee, take heed to thy ſelf until the morning, and abide in a ſecret place, and hide thy ſelf:

3 And I will go out and ſtand beſide my father in the field where thou art, and I will commune with my father of thee; and what I ſee, that I will tell thee.

4 ¶ And Jonathan ſpake good of David unto Saul his father, and ſaid unto him, Let not the king ſin againſt his ſervant, againſt David; becauſe he hath not ſinned againſt thee, and becauſe his works have been to thee-ward very good.

5 For he did put his life in his hand, and ſlew the Philiſtine, and the LORD wrought a great ſalvation for all Iſrael: thou ſaweſt it, and didſt rejoice: wherefore then wilt thou ſin againſt innocent blood, to ſlay David without a cauſe?

6 And Saul hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan: and Saul ſware, As the LORD liveth, he ſhall not be ſlain.

Beſides, this would be a groſs inſult upon the Philiſtines in general, to whom Saul was deſirous of rendering David as odious as poſſible, in hopes that one time or other he might fall into their hands.

27 David ſlew two hundred men.] The Septuagint reads 100, which is moſt probable: Saul covenanted for no more.

29 Saul became David's enemy continually.] Notwithſtanding David had done every thing that Saul requeſted, yet, inſtead of being reconciled to him, his hatred increaſed continually, and every day ſtrengthened the reſolution he had taken to deſtroy him; though he muſt, at the ſame time, be ſenſible that he had God for his friend. Patrick.

There is an antient verſion of theſe two foregoing chapters, viz. the Vatican, which appears to have been made from an Hebrew copy which had none of the many verſes which are here ſuppoſed to be interpolated, and not genuine; which whoever conſiders, will find the accounts there given regular, conſiſtent, and probable.---As the nature of this work requires brevity, I ſhall only juſt enumerate ſome of the verſes that are ſuppoſed to have been inſerted by ſome tranſcriber---Thoſe that chuſe to examine theſe chapters further, may peruſe Mr. Pilkington's excellent Remarks on Paſſages of Sacred Scripture, p. 62, &c.---Mr. Kennicott's Differt. ſee Index to Texts; and Dr. Wall's Critical Notes.---The firſt paſſage, which is not tranſlated in the Vatican copy, is no leſs than twenty verſes, viz. from the 11th to the 32d verſe of the 17th chapter, which contains an account, which, if ſeriouſly examined, will not carry much probability along with it. Without theſe verſes, the connection ſtands thus: ver. 11. When Saul and all Iſrael heard theſe words of the Philiſtine, they were diſmayed, and greatly afraid. Ver. 32. Then David ſaid unto Saul, Let no man's heart fail becauſe of him, &c.---No connection can be more proper---The next paſſage omitted in the Vatican copy is the 41ſt verſe, though not ſpecified by Mr. Pilkington: and then the 50th, which ſeems to be a needleſs recapitulation.---The next interpolation is nine verſes, viz. the four laſt of the 17th chapter, and the five firſt of the 18th. Leave theſe out, and the connection is entire, and the whole account conſiſtent.---Chap. xvii. 54. David took the head of the Philiſtine, and brought it to Jeruſalem; and he put his armour in his tent. Chap. xviii. 6. And as they came, when David was returned from the ſlaughter of the Philiſtines, the women came out, &c.---The other verſes of the 18th chapter, which are ſuppoſed not to be genuine, are the 9th, 10th, 11th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and the 30th. On the whole, the Vatican copy is looked upon as the genuine tranſlation of this part of David's hiſtory. However, whether this be univerſally allowed or not, it is very remarkable, that the omiſſions and alterations therein are ſuch as fully clear the whole paſſage from all manner of inconſiſtencies, improbabilities, difficulties, and obſcurities.

Notes on the Nineteenth Chapter.

Ver. 5 He did put his life in his hand] i. e. He expoſed his life to very great danger.

6 Saul ſware, As the Lord liveth, he ſhall not be ſlain, &c.] Probably

7 And Jonathan called David, and Jonathan ſhewed him all thoſe things. And Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was in his preſence, as in times paſt.

8 ¶ And there was war again: and David went out, and fought with the Philiſtines, and ſlew them with a great ſlaughter; and they fled from him.

9 And the evil ſpirit from the LORD was upon Saul, as he ſat in his houſe with his javelin in his hand: and David played with his hand.

10 And Saul ſought to ſmite David even to the wall with the javelin; but he ſlipped away out of Saul's preſence, and he ſmote the javelin into the wall: and David fled, and eſcaped that night.

11 Saul alſo ſent meſſengers unto David's houſe, to watch him, and to ſlay him in the morning: and Michal David's wife told him, ſaying, If thou ſave not thy life to night, to morrow thou ſhalt be ſlain.

12 ¶ So Michal let David down through a window: and he went and fled, and eſcaped.

13 And Michal took an image, and laid it in the bed, and put a pillow of goats hair for his bolſter, and covered it with a cloth.

14 And when Saul ſent meſſengers to take David, ſhe ſaid, He is ſick.

15 And Saul ſent the meſſengers again to ſee David, ſaying, Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may ſlay him.

16 And when the meſſengers were come in, behold, there was an image in the bed, with a pillow of goats hair for his bolſter.

17 And Saul ſaid unto Michal, Why haſt thou deceived me ſo, and ſent away mine enemy, that he is eſcaped? and Michal anſwered Saul, He ſaid unto me, Let me go; why ſhould I kill thee?

18 So David fled, and eſcaped, and came to Samuel to Ramah, and told him all that Saul had done to him. And he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth.

19 And it was told Saul, ſaying, Behold, David is at Naioth in Ramah.

20 And Saul ſent meſſengers to take David: and when they ſaw the company of the prophets propheſying, and Samuel ſtanding as appointed over them, the Spirit of God was upon the meſſengers of Saul, and they alſo propheſied.

21 And when it was told Saul, he ſent other meſſengers, and they propheſied likewiſe. And Saul ſent meſſengers again the third time, and they propheſied alſo.

22 Then went he alſo to Ramah, and came to a great well that is in Sechu: and he aſked and ſaid, Where are Samuel and David? and one ſaid, Behold, they be at Naioth in Ramah.

23 And he went thither to Naioth in Ramah: and the Spirit of God was upon him alſo, and he went on and propheſied until he came to Naioth in Ramah.

24 And he ſtripped off his clothes alſo, and propheſied before Samuel in like manner, and lay down naked all that day and all that night. Wherefore they ſay, Is Saul alſo among the prophets?

CHAP. XX.

1 David conſulteth with Jonathan for his ſafety.
11 Their covenant renewed by oath. 24 Saul miſſing David, ſeeketh to kill Jonathan.

Probably he ſpake the real intentions of his mind at this time; though it does not appear that this alteration proceeded from any affection he bare to David, but from a ſenſe of his own ingratitude, in endeavouring to deſtroy a perſon that had done him ſo many ſervices: but he ſoon forgot his promiſe, and relapſed into his former hatred.

13 Put a pillow of goats hair for his bolſter.] The moſt natural ſenſe of this paſſage is, that Michal put the ſkin of a goat, with its long hair upon it, about the head of this image. Lamy.

19 Naioth in Ramah.] Ramah ſeems to be the place of Samuel's birth, called, chap. i. 1, Ramathaim-zophim; and Naioth, a ſchool or college of the prophets in that city.

20 Saul ſent meſſengers to take David.] His implacable hatred had obliterated all reſpect and reverence for Samuel, under whoſe protection David now was, and for the college of the prophets, which was conſidered as a kind of aſylum for thoſe who fled to it.

They alſo propheſied.] i. e. They praiſed God in hymns, which the prophets compoſed and ſang to them.

21 When it was told Saul, he ſent other meſſengers, &c.] A ſtrange obſtinacy, to contend ſo long with the ſpirit of God, who had diverted the minds of the meſſengers from their errand, by inſpiring them with divine thoughts. Patrick.

24 He ſtripped off his clothes alſo.] i. e. He caſt off that looſe upper garment, which they uſed to throw over them when they went abroad, having nothing upon him, but the tunic that was next his ſkin. Univerſal Hiſtory.

Notes

AND David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and came and said before Jonathan, What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what is my sin before thy father, that he seeketh my life?

2 And he said unto him, God forbid; thou shalt not die: behold, my father will do nothing either great or small, but that he will shew it me: and why should my father hide this thing from me? it is not so.

3 And David sware moreover, and said, Thy father certainly knoweth that I have found grace in thine eyes: and he saith, Let not Jonathan know this, lest he be grieved. But truly as the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death.

4 Then said Jonathan unto David, Whatsoever thy soul desireth, I will even do it for thee.

5 And David said unto Jonathan, Behold, to morrow is the new-moon, and I should not fail to sit with the king at meat: but let me go, that I may hide myself in the field unto the third day at even.

6 If thy father at all miss me, then say, David earnestly asked leave of me that he might run to Beth-lehem his city: for there is a yearly sacrifice there for all the family.

7 If he say thus, It is well; thy servant shall have peace: but if he be very wroth, then be sure that evil is determined by him.

8 Therefore thou shalt deal kindly with thy servant; for thou hast brought thy servant into a covenant of the LORD with thee; notwithstanding, if there be in me iniquity, slay me thy self; for why shouldest thou bring me to thy father?

9 And Jonathan said, Far be it from thee: for if I knew certainly that evil were determined by my father to come upon thee, then would not I tell it thee?

10 Then said David to Jonathan, Who shall tell me? or what if thy father answer thee roughly?

11 ¶ And Jonathan said unto David, Come, and let us go out into the field. And they went out both of them into the field.

12 And Jonathan said unto David, O LORD God of Israel, when I have sounded my father about to morrow any time, or the third day, and behold, if there be good toward David, and I then send not unto thee, and shew it thee;

13 The LORD do so and much more to Jonathan. But if it please my father to do thee evil, then I will shew it thee, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace: and the LORD be with thee, as he hath been with my father.

14 And thou shalt not only while yet I live shew me the kindness of the LORD, that I die not:

15 But also thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house for ever; no not when the LORD hath cut off the enemies of David every one from the face of the earth.

16 So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David, saying, Let the LORD even require it at the hand of David's enemies.

17 And Jonathan caused David to swear again, because he loved him: for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

18 Then Jonathan said to David, To morrow is the new moon: and thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be empty.

19 And when thou hast stayed three days, then thou shalt go down quickly, and come to the place where thou didst hide thy self when the business was in hand, and shalt remain by the stone Ezel.

Notes on the Twentieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 David fled from Naioth in Ramah, &c.] While Saul was in his extacy, David had an opportunity of escaping, and immediately went to his friend Jonathan.

5 To morrow is the new moon, and I should not fail to sit with the king at meat.] The Israelites performed solemn sacrifices every new moon, and after the sacrifices feasted together: and David, being one of the king's family, by marrying his daughter, used to eat with him on these occasions; and he thought that Saul, by being inspired by the spirit of God at Naioth, might possibly have forgot his anger, and make a favourable enquiry after him. From this passage it is plain, that sitting at table was a more antient custom, than either lying or leaning at meat. The Egyptians and the Hebrews sat at table at Joseph's entertainment, Gen. xliii. 33.

12 Jonathan said---O Lord God of Israel, &c.] The first words of this verse seem to be an exclamation: after which he declares his sincerity in the most affectionate manner.

27 Where-

20 And I will ſhoot three arrows on the ſide thereof, as though I ſhot at a mark.

21 And behold, I will ſend a lad, ſaying, Go, find out the arrows. If I expreſly ſay unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this ſide of thee, take them; then come thou: for there is peace to thee, and no hurt; as the LORD liveth.

22 But if I ſay thus unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee; go thy way: for the LORD hath ſent thee away.

23 And as touching the matter which thou and I have ſpoken of, behold, the LORD be between thee and me for ever.

24 ¶ So David hid himſelf in the field: and when the new-moon was come, the king ſat him down to eat meat.

25 And the king ſat upon his ſeat as at other times, even upon a ſeat by the wall: and Jonathan aroſe, and Abner ſat by Saul's ſide, and David's place was empty.

26 Nevertheleſs, Saul ſpake not any thing that day: for he thought, Some thing hath befallen him, he is not clean; ſurely he is not clean.

27 And it came to paſs on the morrow, which was the ſecond day of the month, that David's place was empty. And Saul ſaid unto Jonathan his ſon, Wherefore cometh not the ſon of Jeſſe to meat, neither yeſterday, nor to day?

28 And Jonathan anſwered Saul, David earneſtly aſked leave of me, to go to Beth-lehem:

29 And he ſaid, Let me go, I pray thee: for our family hath a ſacrifice in the city; and my brother, he hath commanded me to be there: and now if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and ſee my brethren. Therefore he cometh not unto the king's table.

30 Then Saul's anger was kindled againſt Jonathan, and he ſaid unto him, Thou ſon of the perverſe rebellious woman, do not I know that thou haſt choſen the ſon of Jeſſe to thine own confuſion, and unto the confuſion of thy mother's nakedneſs?

31 For as long as the ſon of Jeſſe liveth upon the ground, thou ſhalt not be eſtabliſhed, nor thy kingdom. Wherefore now ſend and fetch him unto me: for he ſhall ſurely die.

32 And Jonathan anſwered Saul his father, and ſaid unto him, Wherefore ſhall he be ſlain? what hath he done?

33 And Saul caſt a javelin at him to ſmite him: whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to ſlay David.

34 So Jonathan aroſe from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the ſecond day of the month: for he was grieved for David, becauſe his father had done him ſhame.

35 And it came to paſs in the morning, that Jonathan went out into the field at the time appointed with David, and a little lad with him.

36 And he ſaid unto his lad, Run, find out now the arrows which I ſhoot. And as the lad ran, he ſhot an arrow beyond him.

37 And when the lad was come to the place of the arrow which Jonathan had ſhot, Jonathan cried after the lad, and ſaid, Is not the arrow beyond thee?

38 And Jonathan cried after the lad, Make ſpeed, haſte, ſtay not. And Jonathan's lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his maſter.

39 But the lad knew not any thing: only Jonathan and David knew the matter.

40 And Jonathan gave his artillery unto his lad, and ſaid unto him, Go, carry them to the city.

41 And as ſoon as the lad was gone, David aroſe out of a place toward the ſouth, and fell

27 Wherefore cometh not the ſon of Jeſſe to meat, neither yeſterday nor to day?] The Jewiſh months were lunar, and never began before the moon appeared above the horizon; for which purpoſe there were certain perſons placed on the mountains, to give notice by the ſound of a horn when the new moon firſt appeared, that the news thereof might immediately be carried to all places of the kingdom. But leſt there ſhould be any miſtake in this method of making their obſervations, they celebrated this feſtival for two days together. Calmet.

30 Thou ſon of the perverſe rebellious woman.] Or, as it is in the Hebrew, Thou ſon of perverſe rebellion: that is, a perverſe rebel.

33 Saul caſt a javelin at him to ſmite him.] Saul's fury was ſo great, that he regarded not what he did. If it be aſked, how it happened that Saul had always a javelin or ſpear at hand to execute his evil purpoſes? it may be anſwered, that ſpears were the ſceptres of thoſe ages, which kings always carried in their hands.

41 Fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf three times.] He bowed himſelf three times, and then fell on his face, out of reverence to him as his excellent friend.

on his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf three times: and they kiſſed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded.

42 And Jonathan ſaid to David, Go in peace, foraſmuch as we have ſworn both of us in the name of the LORD, ſaying, The LORD be between me and thee, and between my ſeed and thy ſeed for ever. And he aroſe and departed. And Jonathan went into the city.

CHAP. XXI.

1 David at Nob obtaineth of Ahimelech hallowed bread. 8 He taketh Goliath's ſword; 10 and at Gath feigneth himſelf mad.

THEN came David to Nob, to Ahimelech the prieſt: and Ahimelech was afraid at the meeting of David, and ſaid unto him, Why art thou alone, and no man with thee?

2 And David ſaid unto Ahimelech the prieſt, The king hath commanded me a buſineſs, and hath ſaid unto me, Let no man know any thing of the buſineſs whereabout I ſend thee, and what I have commanded thee: and I have appointed my ſervants to ſuch and ſuch a place.

3 Now therefore what is under thine hand? give me five loaves of bread in mine hand, or what there is preſent.

4 And the prieſt anſwered David, and ſaid, There is no common bread under mine hand, but there is hallowed bread; if the young men have kept themſelves at leaſt from women.

5 And David anſwered the prieſt, and ſaid unto him, Of a truth women have been kept from us about theſe three days, ſince I came out, and the veſſels of the young men are holy, and the bread is in a manner common, yea, though it were ſanctified this day in the veſſel.

6 So the prieſt gave him hallowed bread: for there was no bread there, but the ſhew-bread that was taken from before the LORD, to put hot bread in the day when it was taken away.

7 Now a certain man of the ſervants of Saul was there that day, detained before the LORD; and his name was Doeg, an Edomite, the chiefeſt of the herd-men that belonged to Saul.

8 ¶ And David ſaid unto Ahimelech, And is there not here under thine hand ſpear or ſword? for I have neither brought my ſword, nor my weapons with me, becauſe the king's buſineſs required haſte.

9 And the prieſt ſaid, The ſword of Goliath the Philiſtine, whom thou ſleweſt in the valley of Elah, behold, it is here wrapped in a cloth behind the ephod: if thou wilt take that, take it: for there is no other ſave that here. And David ſaid, There is none like that; give it me.

10 ¶ And David aroſe, and fled that day for fear of Saul, and went to Achiſh the king of Gath.

11 And the ſervants of Achiſh ſaid unto him, Is not this David the king of the land? did they not ſing one to another of him in dances, ſaying, Saul hath ſlain his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands?

12 And David laid up theſe words in his

They kiſſed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded.] There was reaſon for David to exceed in ſorrow, as he was now to become an exile from his friend, his wife, his kindred, from the people of God, and all ſacred ſolemnities.

Notes on the Twenty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then came David to Nob.] It is evident, from chap. xxii. ver. 19. that this was a ſacerdotal city; it is generally thought to have ſtood not far from Gibeah.

To Ahimelech the prieſt.] Doubtleſs his intention for coming hither was to recommend both himſelf and cauſe to God, and to beg his advice and protection.

5 The veſſels of the young men are holy.] The Septuagint reads, The young men are ſanctified.

6 So the prieſt gave him hallowed bread, &c.] Neither Ahimelech nor David committed any ſin; for invincible neceſſity diſpenſed with all the ritual laws, as the Jews themſelves confeſs.

8 I have neither brought my ſword nor my weapons with me, becauſe the king's buſineſs required haſte.] It muſt be owned, that David did not abſolutely ſpeak the truth; but we are not to conſider this as a precedent for uttering falſhood: for it ſhould be remembered that David, though a good man, was ſtill human, and conſequently ſubject to failings. One thing may, indeed, be ſaid in his excuſe; that as he ſaw Doeg there, who he well knew would inform Saul of all that paſſed, he pretended buſineſs, purpoſely to furniſh the prieſt with an apology for his kind reception of David, ſince he really thought he had come expreſs from the king.

9 The ſword of Goliath is here wrapt in a cloth behind the ephod.] i. e. Behind the place where the prieſt's garments were laid up, of which the ephod was the chief. It was cuſtomary, in antient times, to hang up the arms taken from enemies in their temples, as trophies of victory: and it was alſo no unuſual thing to take them down, and uſe them again, when any preſſing occaſion required it.

11 Is not this David, the king?] Perhaps they heard of his being deſigned to be king inſtead of Saul.

heart, and was ſore afraid of Achiſh the king of Gath.

13 And he changed his behaviour before them, and feigned himſelf mad in their hands, and ſcrabbled on the doors of the gate, and let his ſpittle fall down upon his beard.

14 Then ſaid Achiſh unto his ſervants, Lo, ye ſee the man is mad: wherefore then have ye brought him to me?

15 Have I need of mad-men, that ye have brought this fellow to play the mad-man in my preſence? ſhall this fellow come into my houſe?

CHAP. XXII.

1 Men reſort to David at Adullam. 9 Doeg accuſeth Ahimelech. 11 Saul commandeth to kill the prieſts. 20 Abiathar eſcapeth to David.

DAVID therefore departed thence, and eſcaped to the cave Adullam: and when his brethren and all his father's houſe heard it, they went down thither to him.

2 And every one that was in diſtreſs, and every one that was in debt, and every one that was diſcontented, gathered themſelves unto him; and he became a captain over them: and there were with him about four hundred men.

3 And David went thence to Mizpeh of Moab: and he ſaid unto the king of Moab, Let my father and my mother, I pray thee, come forth, and be with you, till I know what God will do for me.

4 And he brought them before the king of Moab: and they dwelt with him all the while that David was in the hold.

5 And the prophet Gad ſaid unto David, Abide not in the hold; depart, and get thee into the land of Judah. Then David departed, and came into the foreſt of Hareth.

6 When Saul heard that David was diſcovered, and the men that were with him, (now Saul abode in Gibeah under a tree in Ramah, having his ſpear in his hand, and all his ſervants were ſtanding about him,)

7 Then Saul ſaid unto his ſervants that ſtood about him, Hear now, ye Benjamites, will the ſon of Jeſſe give every one of you fields and vineyards, and make you all captains of thouſands, and captains of hundreds;

8 That all of you have conſpired againſt me, and there is none that ſheweth me that my ſon hath made a league with the ſon of Jeſſe, and there is none of you that is ſorry for me, or ſheweth unto me that my ſon hath ſtirred up my ſervant againſt me, to lie in wait, as at this day?

9 ¶ Then anſwered Doeg the Edomite, which was ſet over the ſervants of Saul, and ſaid, I ſaw the ſon of Jeſſe coming to Nob, to Ahimelech the ſon of Ahitub.

10 And he enquired of the LORD for him, and gave him victuals, and gave him the ſword of Goliath the Philiſtine.

11 ¶ Then the king ſent to call Ahimelech the prieſt the ſon of Ahitub, and all his father's houſe, the prieſts that were in Nob. And they came all of them to the king.

12 And Saul ſaid, Hear now, thou ſon of Ahitub. And he anſwered, here I am, my lord.

13 And Saul ſaid unto him, Why have ye conſpired againſt me, thou and the ſon of Jeſſe, in that thou haſt given him bread, and a ſword, and haſt enquired of God for him, that he ſhould riſe againſt me, to lie in wait, as at this day?

14 Then Ahimelech anſwered the king, and ſaid, And who is ſo faithful among all thy ſervants as David, which is the king's ſon in law,

13 He changed his behaviour.] Self-preſervation is the firſt law of nature; therefore David cannot be juſtly cenſured, for uſing any lawful means to preſerve his life.

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 1 David therefore departed thence, and eſcaped to the cave Adullam.] Adullam was a town in the tribe of Judah, of conſiderable note; and near it was a rock of the ſame name, in which was a cave naturally ſtrong and well fortified, and here David retreated. Moſt of the mountains of Paleſtine were full of caverns, whither the inhabitants of the villages generally retired for ſafety in time of war.

2 There were with him about four hundred men.] Who had liſted themſelves under him as their commander.

4 All the time that David was in the hold.] Rather, all the time that David was in exile.

5 David---came into the foreſt of Hareth.] Both St. Jerom and Euſebius mention a place of this name in the tribe of Judah, at ſome diſtance weſtward from Jeruſalem.

6 Saul abode---under a tree in Ramah, having his ſpear in his hand.] Or, under a grove in a high place, having his ſcepter in his hand.

and goeth at thy bidding, and is honourable in thine houſe?

15 Did I then begin to enquire of God for him? be it far from me. Let not the king impute any thing unto his ſervant, nor to all the houſe of my father: for thy ſervant knew nothing of all this, leſs or more.

16 And the king ſaid, Thou ſhalt ſurely die, Ahimelech, thou, and all thy father's houſe.

17 And the king ſaid unto the footmen that ſtood about him, Turn and ſlay the prieſts of the LORD; becauſe their hand alſo is with David, and becauſe they knew when he fled, and did not ſhew it to me. But the ſervants of the king would not put forth their hand to fall upon the prieſts of the LORD.

18 And the king ſaid to Doeg, Turn thou and fall upon the prieſts. And Doeg the Edomite turned, and he fell upon the prieſts, and ſlew on that day fourſcore and five perſons that did wear a linen ephod.

19 And Nob, the city of the prieſts, ſmote he with the edge of the ſword, both men and women, children and ſucklings, and oxen, and aſſes, and ſheep, with the edge of the ſword.

20 ¶ And one of the ſons of Ahimelech the ſon of Ahitub, named Abiathar, eſcaped and fled after David.

21 And Abiathar ſhewed David that Saul had ſlain the LORD's prieſts.

22 And David ſaid unto Abiathar, I knew it that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would ſurely tell Saul. I have occaſioned the death of all the perſons of thy father's houſe.

23 Abide thou with me, fear not: for he that ſeeketh my life, ſeeketh thy life: but with me thou ſhalt be in ſafeguard.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 David, enquiring of the Lord, reſcueth Keilah. 7 God ſhewing him Saul's coming, and the treachery of the Keilites; he eſcapeth from Keilah, 14 to Ziph, 25 to Maon.

THEN they told David, ſaying, Behold, the Philiſtines fight againſt Keilah, and they rob the threſhing-floors.

2 Therefore David enquired of the LORD, ſaying, Shall I go and ſmite theſe Philiſtines? and the LORD ſaid unto David, Go, and ſmite the Philiſtines, and ſave Keilah.

3 And David's men ſaid unto him, Behold, we be afraid here in Judah: how much more then if we come to Keilah againſt the armies of the Philiſtines?

4 Then David enquired of the LORD yet again. And the LORD anſwered him and ſaid, Ariſe, go down to Keilah: for I will deliver the Philiſtines into thine hand.

5 So David and his men went to Keliah, and fought with the Philiſtines, and brought away their cattle, and ſmote them with a great ſlaughter. So David ſaved the inhabitants of Keilah.

6 And it came to paſs when Abiathar the ſon of Ahimelech fled to David to Keilah, that he came down with an ephod in his hand.

7 ¶ And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah. And Saul ſaid, God hath delivered him into mine hand: for he is ſhut in, by entering into a town that hath gates and bars.

8 And Saul called all the people together to 16 Thou ſhalt ſurely die, Ahimelech.] Ahimelech could not be conſidered as guilty, ſince he did not know that David was flying from the king; but imagined he was ſent on ſome buſineſs of public concern.

17 Turn and ſlay the prieſts of the Lord.] A dreadful idea of the power of an abſolute monarch!

The ſervants of the king would not put forth their hand, &c.] In this they were to be commended; but they would have deſerved much greater praiſe, had they offered up their petitions for thoſe innocent people; had they remonſtrated to the king, that he was going to commit a thing contrary to all laws, both divine and human; and had they, when they found that neither reaſons or petitions had any weight, confined him as a mad man, until the prieſts had eſcaped, and his impetuous paſſion ſubſided. Le Clerc.

18 Slew fourſcore and five perſons.] This act of abominable cruelty in Saul, did yet fulfil a purpoſe of God againſt Eli's houſe; and ſo Joſephus applies it. The Septuagint makes the number ſlain 305, and Joſephus 385. Wall.

19 Nob, the city of the prieſts.] His fury tranſported him to deal worſe with his own people than he had done with the Amalekites, merely to deter them from giving any aſſiſtance to David.

Notes on the Twenty-third Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then they told David, ſaying, Behold, the Philiſtines fight againſt Keilah.] It is natural to ſuppoſe, that David undertook this expedition purely to ſhew the value he had for his country, and convince the Iſraelites how ſerviceable he could be to them, provided he was again reſtored to his dignity. Le Clerc.

war, to go down to Keilah, to beſiege David and his men.

9 And David knew that Saul ſecretly practiſed miſchief againſt him; and he ſaid to Abiathar the prieſt, Bring hither the ephod.

10 Then ſaid David, O LORD God of Iſrael, thy ſervant hath certainly heard that Saul ſeeketh to come to Keilah, to deſtroy the city for my ſake.

11 Will the men of Keilah deliver me up into his hand? will Saul come down, as thy ſervant hath heard? O LORD God of Iſrael, I beſeech thee, tell thy ſervant. And the LORD ſaid, He will come down.

12 Then ſaid David, Will the men of Keilah deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul? and the LORD ſaid, They will deliver thee up.

13 Then David and his men, which were about ſix hundred, aroſe and departed out of Keilah, and went whitherſoever they could go. And it was told Saul that David was eſcaped from Keilah; and he forbare to go forth.

14 ¶ And David abode in the wilderneſs in ſtrong holds, and remained in a mountain in the wilderneſs of Ziph. And Saul ſought him every day, but God delivered him not into his hand.

15 And David ſaw that Saul was come out to ſeek his life. And David was in the wilderneſs of Ziph in a wood.

16 And Jonathan Saul's ſon aroſe, and went to David into the wood, and ſtrengthened his hand in God.

17 And he ſaid unto him, Fear not: for the hand of Saul my father ſhall not find thee; and thou ſhalt be king over Iſrael, and I ſhall be next unto thee: and that alſo Saul my father knoweth.

18 And they two made a covenant before the LORD. And David abode in the wood, and Jonathan went to his houſe.

19 Then came up the Ziphites to Saul to Gibeah, ſaying, Doth not David hide himſelf with us in ſtrong holds in the wood, in the hill of Hachilah, which is on the ſouth of Jeſhimon?

20 Now therefore, O king, come down according to all the deſire of thy ſoul to come down; and our part ſhall be to deliver him into the king's hand.

21 And Saul ſaid, Bleſſed be ye of the LORD; for ye have compaſſion on me.

22 Go, I pray you, prepare yet, and know and ſee his place where his haunt is, and who hath ſeen him there: for it is told me, that he dealeth very ſubtilly.

23 See therefore, and take knowledge of all the lurking-places where he hideth himſelf, and come ye again to me with the certainty, and I will go with you: and it ſhall come to paſs, if he be in the land, that I will ſearch him out throughout all the thouſands of Judah.

24 And they aroſe and went to Ziph before Saul: but David and his men were in the wilderneſs of Maon, in the plain on the ſouth of Jeſhimon.

25 ¶ Saul alſo and his men went to ſeek him. And they told David: wherefore he came down into a rock, and abode in the wilderneſs of Maon. And when Saul heard that, he purſued after David in the wilderneſs of Maon.

26 And Saul went on this ſide of the mountain, and David and his men on that ſide of the mountain: and David made haſte to get away for fear of Saul: for Saul and his men compaſſed David and his men round about to take them.

27 But there came a meſſenger unto Saul, ſaying, Haſte thee, and come: for the Philiſtines have invaded the land.

12 The Lord ſaid, They will deliver thee up.] God well knew the baſe diſpoſition of the men of Keilah, notwithſtanding the gratitude they pretended to David.

16 Strengthened his hand in God.] He encouraged him by the renewal of his promiſe to him; and of the ſolemn covenant they had formerly made.

19 Then came up the Ziphites to Saul, &c.] Theſe people were of the tribe of Judah, therefore David might poſſibly think himſelf more ſecure among them, as he was of the ſame tribe. The city of Ziph, according to St. Jerom, lay in the ſouthern part of the tribe of Judah, about eight miles eaſt of Hebron.

24 David and his men were in the wilderneſs of Maon, &c.] Having heard what the Ziphites intended againſt him, he diſappointed their deſign by retiring into another place.

27 There came a meſſenger unto Saul, &c.] A very remarkable interpoſition of the providence of God, who ſtirred up the Philiſtines at this time to make an irruption into the territories of Iſrael, for the preſervation of David. Patrick.

28 Wherefore Saul returned from purſuing after David, and went againſt the Philiſtines. Therefore they called that place Sela-hamah-lekoth.

29 And David went up from thence, and dwelt in ſtrong holds at En-gedi.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 David in a cave at En-gedi ſpareth Saul's life. 8 He pleadeth his innocency. 16 Saul acknowledgeth his fault.

AND it came to paſs when Saul was returned from following the Philiſtines, that it was told him, ſaying, Behold, David is in the wilderneſs of Engedi.

2 Then Saul took three thouſand choſen men out of all Iſrael, and went to ſeek David and his men upon the rocks of the wild goats.

3 And he came to the ſheep-cotes by the way, where was a cave; and Saul went in to cover his feet: and David and his men remained in the ſides of the cave.

4 And the men of David ſaid unto him, Behold the day of which the LORD ſaid unto thee, Behold, I will deliver thine enemy into thine hand, that thou mayeſt do to him as it ſhall ſeem good unto thee. Then David aroſe, and cut off the ſkirt of Saul's robe privily.

5 And it came to paſs afterward, that David's heart ſmote him, becauſe he had cut off Saul's ſkirt.

6 And he ſaid unto his men, The LORD forbid that I ſhould do this thing unto my maſter the LORD's anointed, to ſtretch forth mine hand againſt him, ſeeing he is the anointed of the LORD.

7 So David ſtayed his ſervants with theſe words, and ſuffered them not to riſe againſt Saul. But Saul roſe up out of the cave, and went on his way.

8 ¶ David alſo aroſe afterwward, and went out of the cave, and cried after Saul, ſaying, My lord the king. And when Saul looked behind him, David ſtooped with his face to the earth, and bowed himſelf.

9 And David ſaid to Saul, Wherefore hearеſt thou men's words, ſaying, Behold, David ſeeketh thy hurt?

10 Behold, this day thine eyes have ſeen how that the LORD had delivered thee to day into mine hand in the cave: and ſome bade me kill thee; but mine eye ſpared thee: and I ſaid, I will not put forth mine hand againſt my lord; for he is the LORD's anointed.

11 Moreover, my father, ſee, yea, ſee the ſkirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the ſkirt of thy robe, and killed thee not; know thou and ſee, that there is neither evil nor tranſgreſſion in mine hand, and I have not ſinned againſt thee: yet thou hunteſt my ſoul to take it.

12 The LORD judge between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee: but mine hand ſhall not be upon thee.

13 As ſaith the proverb of the ancients,

28 Sela-hamah-lekoth.] i. e. The rock of diviſions.

29 Dwelt in ſtrong holds at En-gedi.] En-gedi, now called Anguedi, was formerly a large village, ſituated in the deſerts, which lay upon the weſtern coaſt of the Dead-ſea, not far from Jericho. This country abounded with mountains and caves, and therefore was a very commodious place for David to retire to, and conceal himſelf in. Solomon, in his ſong, celebrates it for vineyards.

Notes on the Twenty-fourth Chapter.

Ver. 2 Saul---went to ſeek David---upon the rocks of the wild goats.] No ſooner had Saul driven the Philiſtines out of the land, than he again determined to ſearch out David in the deſolate wilderneſs of En-gedi.

3 He came to the ſheep-cotes by the way, where was a cave.] In which the ſheep reſted in the heat of the day.

David and his men remained in the ſides of the cave.] David and his men could eaſily ſee every action of Saul, by the light which entered at the mouth of the cave, but he could not ſee them, as it was dark, in the remoter parts of it. Some of theſe caves are exceeding large: and Dr. Pocock tells us, that he viſited one in which David and his men might with great eaſe be hid there, and not be ſeen by Saul; hence he conjectures that this is one of the ſtrong holds of En-gedi, and poſſibly the ſame mentioned by the ſacred writer. See Deſcript. of the Eaſt, vol. II.

4 Then David aroſe, and cut off the ſkirt of Saul's robe privily.] This he might eaſily do, if we ſuppoſe that the words, to cover his feet, implies his going to ſleep. See note on Judges iii. 24.

5 David's heart ſmote him, becauſe he had cut off Saul's ſkirt.] This example of David, under all the provocations he received, ſhews, that the perſons of kings are ſacred and inviolable.

8 David---cried after Saul, ſaying, My lord the king.] A bold attempt, to venture into the preſence of an enraged enemy! but his innocence and confidence in God animated him, eſpecially as he had now in his hand ſo ſtrong an evidence of his integrity.

13 Wickedneſs proceedeth from the wicked, &c.] It is for wicked men to act wickedly; but I abhor baſe actions.

Wickedneſs proceedeth from the wicked; but mine hand ſhall not be upon thee.

14 After whom is the king of Iſrael come out? after whom doſt thou purſue? after a dead dog, after a flea.

15 The LORD therefore be judge, and judge between me and thee, and ſee, and plead my cauſe, and deliver me out of thine hand.

16 ¶ And it came to paſs when David had made an end of ſpeaking theſe words unto Saul, that Saul ſaid, Is this thy voice, my ſon David? and Saul lift up his voice, and wept.

17 And he ſaid to David, Thou art more righteous than I: for thou haſt rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil.

18 And thou haſt ſhewed this day how that thou haſt dealt well with me: foraſmuch as when the LORD had delivered me into thine hand, thou killedſt me not.

19 For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away? wherefore the LORD reward thee good for that thou haſt done unto me this day.

20 And now behold, I know well that thou ſhalt ſurely be king, and that the kingdom of Iſrael ſhall be eſtabliſhed in thine hand.

21 Swear now therefore unto me by the LORD, that thou wilt not cut off my ſeed after me, and that thou wilt not deſtroy my name out of my father's houſe.

22 And David ſware unto Saul. And Saul went home; but David and his men gat them up unto the hold.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Samuel dieth. 10 David provoked to deſtroy Nabal. 14 Abigail by her wiſdom preventeth him. 36 Nabal dieth. 39 David taketh Abigail and Ahinoam to be his wives.

AND Samuel died, and all the Iſraelites were gathered together and lamented him, and buried him in his houſe at Ramah. And David aroſe, and went down to the wilderneſs of Paran.

2 And there was a man in Maon, whoſe poſſeſſions were in Carmel; and the man was very great, and he had three thouſand ſheep, and a thouſand goats: And he was ſhearing his ſheep in Carmel.

3 Now the name of the man was Nabal; and the name of his wife, Abigail: and ſhe was a woman of good underſtanding, and of a beautiful countenance: but the man was churliſh and evil in his doings; and he was of the houſe of Caleb.

4 And David heard in the wilderneſs, that Nabal did ſhear his ſheep.

5 And David ſent out ten young men, and 14 Doſt thou purſue a dead dog, or a flea?] He repreſents himſelf as contemptible as poſſible, that he might convince Saul, it was not for his honour to kill him. Shall a king triumph over a dog; or a lion hunt a flea? Patrick.

17 Thou art more righteous than I.] Saul was confounded at this generous behaviour of David; and his pathetic ſpeech forced him to acknowledge, that he had acted in a very unjuſt manner.

22 David ſware unto Saul.] It has been aſked how David, after this ſolemn promiſe, could ſlay ſo many of his ſons, as mentioned, 2 Sam. xxi. 8? To this it may be anſwered, that the promiſe or oath made by David to Saul could only be conditional; for if any of Saul's family had joined in rebellion, they would, notwithſtanding this oath, have become obnoxious to the ſword of juſtice. Beſides, this execution was done at the deſire of the Gibeonites, to whom God himſelf had promiſed that ſatisfaction ſhould be made for Saul's bloody endeavours to deſtroy them. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Samuel died, &c.] The generality of chronologers ſuppoſe, that he died two years before Saul, and in the ninety-eighth year of his age; twenty of which he had ſpent in the government of Iſrael, before Saul was made king, after which he lived about eighteen years. He was an excellent governor, and, during his whole adminiſtration, above vanity, corruption, or any private views. Thoſe that attend to his life may obſerve, that he was modeſt without meanneſs, mild without weakneſs, firm without obſtinacy, and ſevere without harſhneſs. The Iſraelites might therefore well lament the loſs of ſo good a man, eſpecially when they ſaw the diſorders of Saul's government. Stackhouſe.

Buried him in his houſe at Ramah.] In the place where he was born, and had ſpent many years of his life; but in the time of the emperor Acadius his body was tranſported from Paleſtine to Conſtantinople, and, as St. Jerom informs us, was received both by the clergy and laity with the greateſt demonſtrations of joy, and honoured in the moſt remarkable manner. Ibid.

The wilderneſs of Paran.] This wilderneſs lay on the ſouth ſide of Judea, and bordered on Arabia. Now it was that David dwelt in the tents of Kedar, which was another name for Paran. Patrick.

2 There was a man in Maon, whoſe poſſeſſions were in Carmel.] There were two Carmels; one on the confines of Aſhur and Zebulun, and the other near Hebron in the tribe of Judah: but the latter is here meant. See Joſhua xv. 55.

3 The name of the man was Nabal---and he was of the houſe of Caleb.] The word Caleb ſignifies a dog; and hence ſome interpreters think, that the ſacred writer intended to inſinuate that he reſembled a dog in his diſpoſition and manners.

David ſaid unto the young men, Get ye up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and greet him in my name.

6 And thus ſhall ye ſay to him that liveth in proſperity, Peace be both to thee, and peace be to thine houſe, and peace be unto all that thou haſt.

7 And now I have heard that thou haſt ſhearers: now thy ſhepherds which were with us, we hurt them not, neither was there ought miſſing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel.

8 Aſk thy young men, and they will ſhew thee. Wherefore let the young men find favour in thine eyes: for we come in a good day: give, I pray thee, whatſoever cometh to thine hand, unto thy ſervants, and to thy ſon David.

9 And when David's young men came, they ſpake to Nabal according to all thoſe words in the name of David, and ceaſed.

10 ¶ And Nabal anſwered David's ſervants, and ſaid, Who is David? and who is the ſon of Jeſſe? there be many ſervants now a days that break away every man from his maſter.

11 Shall I then take my bread and my water, and my fleſh that I have killed for my ſhearers, and give it unto men whom I know not whence they be?

12 So David's young men turned their way, and went again, and came and told him all thoſe ſayings.

13 And David ſaid unto his men, Gird ye on every man his ſword. And they girded on every man his ſword; and David alſo girded on his ſword: and there went up after David about four hundred men; and two hundred abode by the ſtuff.

14 ¶ But one of the young men told Abigail Nabal's wife, ſaying, Behold, David ſent meſſengers out of the wilderneſs to ſalute our maſter; and he railed on them.

15 But the men were very good unto us, and we were not hurt, neither miſſed we any thing as long as we were converſant with them, when we were in the fields.

16 They were a wall unto us both by night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the ſheep.

17 Now therefore know and conſider what thou wilt do: for evil is determined againſt our maſter, and againſt all his houſhold: for he is ſuch a ſon of Belial that a man cannot ſpeak to him.

18 Then Abigail made haſte, and took two hundred loaves, and two bottles of wine, and five ſheep ready dreſſed, and five meaſures of parched corn, and an hundred cluſters of raiſins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on aſſes.

19 And ſhe ſaid unto her ſervants, Go on before me; behold, I come after you. But ſhe told not her huſband Nabal.

20 And it was ſo, as ſhe rode on the aſs, that ſhe came down by the covert of the hill, and behold, David and his men came down againſt her; and ſhe met them.

21 Now David had ſaid, Surely in vain have I kept all that this fellow hath in the wilderneſs, ſo that nothing was miſſed of all that pertained unto him; and he hath requited me evil for good.

22 So and more alſo do God unto the enemies of David, if I leave of all that pertain to him by the morning light any that piſſeth againſt the wall.

23 And when Abigail ſaw David, ſhe haſted and lighted off the aſs, and fell before David on her face, and bowed her ſelf to the ground, 24 And fell at his feet, and ſaid, Upon me, my lord, upon me let this iniquity be: and let thine handmaid, I pray thee, ſpeak in thine audience, and hear the words of thine handmaid.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, regard this man of Belial, even Nabal: for as his name is, ſo is he; Nabal is his name, and folly is with him: but I thine handmaid ſaw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didſt ſend.

26 Now therefore, my lord, as the LORD

18 Then Abigail took---two hundred loaves, and two bottles of wine.] I have before obſerved, that in thoſe eaſtern countries they uſed to carry and keep their wine in goatſkins, or leather bags, made on purpoſe, and theſe veſſels we tranſlate bottles.

liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, ſeeing the LORD hath with-holden thee from coming to ſhed blood, and from avenging thy ſelf with thine own hand: now let thine enemies, and they that ſeek evil to my lord, be as Nabal.

27 And now this bleſſing which thine handmaid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that follow my lord.

28 I pray thee, forgive the treſpaſs of thine handmaid. For the LORD will certainly make my lord a ſure houſe; becauſe my lord fighteth the battles of the LORD, and evil hath not been found in thee all thy days.

29 Yet a man is riſen to purſue thee, and to ſeek thy ſoul: but the ſoul of my lord ſhall be bound in the bundle of life with the LORD thy God; and the ſouls of thine enemies, them ſhall he ſling out, as out of the middle of a ſling.

30 And it ſhall come to paſs when the LORD ſhall have done to my lord according to all the good that he hath ſpoken concerning thee, and ſhall have appointed thee ruler over Iſrael;

31 That this ſhall be no grief unto thee, nor offence of heart unto my lord, either that thou haſt ſhed blood cauſeleſs, or that my lord hath avenged himſelf: but when the LORD ſhall have dealt well with my lord, then remember thine handmaid.

32 And David ſaid to Abigail, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, which ſent thee this day to meet me:

33 And bleſſed be thy advice, and bleſſed be thou, which haſt kept me this day from coming to ſhed blood, and from avenging my ſelf with mine own hand.

34 For in very deed, as the LORD God of Iſrael liveth, which hath kept me back from hurting thee, except thou hadſt haſted and come to meet me, ſurely there had not been left unto Nabal, by the morning light, any that piſſeth againſt the wall.

35 So David received of her hand that which ſhe had brought him, and ſaid unto her, Go up in peace to thine houſe; ſee, I have hearkened to thy voice, and have accepted thy perſon.

36 ¶ And Abigail came to Nabal; and behold, he held a feaſt in his houſe like the feaſt of a king: and Nabal's heart was merry within him, for he was very drunken: wherefore ſhe told him nothing, leſs or more until the morning light.

37 But it came to paſs in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him theſe things, that his heart died within him, and he became as a ſtone.

38 And it came to paſs about ten days after, that the LORD ſmote Nabal, that he died.

39 ¶ And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD, that hath pleaded the cauſe of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and hath kept his ſervant from evil: for the LORD hath returned the wickedneſs of Nabal upon his own head. And David ſent and communed with Abigail, to take her to him to wife.

40 And when the ſervants of David were come to Abigail to Carmel, they ſpake unto her, ſaying, David ſent us unto thee to take thee to him to wife.

41 And ſhe aroſe, and bowed herſelf on her face to the earth, and ſaid, Behold, let thine handmaid be a ſervant to waſh the feet of the ſervants of my lord.

42 And Abigail haſted, and aroſe, and rode upon an aſs, with five damſels of her's that went after her; and ſhe went after the meſſengers of David, and became his wife.

43 David alſo took Ahinoam of Jezreel; and they were alſo both of them his wives.

44 But Saul had given Michal his daughter, David's wife, to Phalti the ſon of Laiſh, which was of Gallim.

29 A man is riſen to ſeek thy ſoul.] i. e. To ſeek thy life.

32 David ſaid to Abigail, Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael, &c.] He was ſo greatly affected with her pathetic ſpeech, that he, in the firſt place, acknowledges the good providence of God, which directed her to come ſo ſeaſonably to prevent the effects of his anger; whereby he was abſolved from his oath, which he had ſworn to cut off Nabal's family. Indeed it was null in itſelf; for no man can oblige himſelf to do an evil action, as this would have been; for this oath of David was the effect of anger; but his ſparing Nabal the effect of reaſon and prudent counſel. Patrick.

37 His heart died within him, and he became as a ſtone.] He was ſo aſtoniſhed at the danger he had eſcaped, that he was ſeized with a numbneſs, or palſy, and in the ſpace of ten days after expired.

44 But Saul had given Michal his daughter, David's wife, to

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Saul cometh to Hachilah againſt David. 5 David in the trench ſtayeth Abiſhai from killing Saul, but taketh his ſpear and cruſe.

AND the Ziphites came unto Saul to Gibeah, ſaying, Doth not David hide himſelf in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeſhimon?

2 Then Saul aroſe, and went down to the wilderneſs of Ziph, having three thouſand choſen men of Iſrael with him, to ſeek David in the wilderneſs of Ziph.

3 And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeſhimon, by the way. But David abode in the wilderneſs, and he ſaw that Saul came after him into the wilderneſs.

4 David therefore ſent out ſpies, and underſtood that Saul was come in very deed.

5 ¶ And David aroſe, and came to the place where Saul had pitched: and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and Abner the ſon of Ner, the captain of his hoſt. And Saul lay in the trench, and the people pitched round about him.

6 Then anſwered David and ſaid to Ahimelech the Hittite, and to Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah, brother to Joab, ſaying, Who will go down with me to Saul to the camp? and Abiſhai ſaid, I will go down with thee.

7 So David and Abiſhai came to the people by night. And behold, Saul lay ſleeping within the trench, and his ſpear ſtuck in the ground at his bolſter: but Abner and the people lay round about him.

8 Then ſaid Abiſhai to David, God hath delivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now therefore let me ſmite him, I pray thee, with the ſpear even to the earth at once, and I will not ſmite him the ſecond time.

9 And David ſaid to Abiſhai, Deſtroy him not: for who can ſtretch forth his hand againſt the LORD's anointed, and be guiltleſs?

10 David ſaid furthermore, As the LORD liveth, the LORD ſhall ſmite him: or his day ſhall come to die; or he ſhall deſcend into battle, and periſh.

11 The LORD forbid that I ſhould ſtretch forth mine hand againſt the LORD's anointed: but I pray thee, take thou now the ſpear that is at his bolſter, and the cruſe of water, and let us go.

12 So David took the ſpear, and the cruſe of water from Saul's bolſter; and they gat them away, and no man ſaw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all aſleep; becauſe a deep ſleep from the LORD was fallen upon them.

13 Then David went over to the other ſide, and ſtood on the top of an hill afar off; a great ſpace being between them:

14 And David cried to the people, and to Abner the ſon of Ner, ſaying, Anſwereſt thou not, Abner? then Abner anſwered and ſaid, Who art thou that crieſt to the king?

Phalti the ſon of Laiſh.] The particle which we render but, at the beginning of the verſe, ſhould have been tranſlated for; this being the cauſe why David took another wife. The reaſon why Saul put this indignity upon David, was to extinguiſh, as far as in his power, all relation and kindred, and to cut off his hopes and pretenſions to the crown upon that account.

Notes on the Twenty-ſixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The Ziphites came to Saul, &c.] After David's kindneſs to Saul, and the declaration that prince had made in his favour, one ſhould think that the Ziphites would not have done any more to the prejudice of David; but the contrary happened. Probably they were afraid that if he came to be king, he would remember and revenge the attempt they had made to deliver him into the hand of Saul. Patrick.

2 Then Saul—went---to ſeek David in the wilderneſs of Ziph.] The inconſtancy, falſeneſs, and implacable rage of this prince, is inconceiveable. It was not long ſince he was obliged to David for his life, had acknowledged his error, and made David ſwear he would be kind to his poſterity; yet he now again openly declared himſelf his enemy, and ſought to kill him. Patrick.

5 Saul lay in the trench.] The LXX tranſlate it, in his chariot, encloſed probably in the midſt of his carriages, as the original tranſlation reads.

7 So David and Abiſhai came to the people by night.] It may ſeem a bold attempt for two perſons to go into the midſt of an army of three thouſand choſen men: but it ſhould be remembered, that, according to many credible hiſtorians, ſeveral gallant men have attempted things of equal danger and difficulty with this; that David had all along aſſurances that God would preſerve him in all dangers, and at laſt place him on the throne of Iſrael. Patrick.

Saul lay ſleeping within the trench, and his ſpear ſtuck in the ground.] It was cuſtomary for warriors, when they laid down to reſt, to have their arms placed in order by them: thus, in the 10th book of the Iliad, Diomed is repreſented, and thus Rheſus.

> Their arms in order on the ground reclin'd,
> Thro' the brown ſhade the fulgid weapons ſhin'd;
> Amidſt lay Rheſus, ſtretch'd in ſleep profound. Pope.

9 Deſtroy him not.] It ſeems as if God put theſe opportunities in the power of David, on purpoſe to exhibit a noble ſpecimen of his virtue and clemency.

15 And David ſaid to Abner, Art not thou a valiant man? and who is like to thee in Iſrael? wherefore then haſt thou not kept thy lord the king? for there came one of the people in to deſtroy the king thy lord.

16 This thing is not good that thou haſt done. As the LORD liveth, ye are worthy to die, becauſe ye have not kept your maſter, the LORD's anointed. And now ſee where the king's ſpear is, and the cruſe of water that was at his bolſter.

17 And Saul knew David's voice, and ſaid, Is this thy voice, my ſon David? and David ſaid, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

18 And he ſaid, Wherefore doth my lord thus purſue after his ſervant? for what have I done? or what evil is in mine hand?

19 Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his ſervant. If the LORD have ſtirred thee up againſt me, let him accept an offering: but if they be the children of men, curſed be they before the LORD? for they have driven me out this day from abiding in the inheritance of the LORD, ſaying, Go, ſerve other gods.

20 Now therefore, let not my blood fall to the earth before the face of the LORD: for the king of Iſrael is come out to ſeek a flea, as when one doth hunt a partridge in the mountains.

21 Then ſaid Saul, I have ſinned: return, my ſon David: for I will no more do thee harm, becauſe my ſoul was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly.

22 And David anſwered and ſaid, Behold the king's ſpear; and let one of the young men come over and fetch it.

23 The LORD render to every man his righteouſneſs and his faithfulneſs: for the LORD delivered thee into my hand to day, but I would not ſtretch forth my hand againſt the LORD's anointed.

24 And behold, as thy life was much ſet by this day in mine eyes, ſo let my life be much ſet by in the eyes of the LORD, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation.

25 Then Saul ſaid to David, Bleſſed be thou, my ſon David: thou ſhalt both do great things, and alſo ſhalt ſtill prevail. So David went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Saul, hearing David to be in Gath, ſeeketh no more for him. 5 David beggeth Ziklag of Achiſh.

AND David ſaid in his heart, I ſhall now periſh one day by the hand of Saul: there is nothing better for me than that I ſhould ſpeedily eſcape into the land of the Philiſtines; and Saul ſhall deſpair of me, to ſeek me any more in any coaſt of Iſrael: ſo ſhall I eſcape out of his hand.

2 And David aroſe, and he paſſed over, with the ſix hundred men that were with him, unto Achiſh the ſon of Maoch king of Gath.

3 And David dwelt with Achiſh at Gath, he and his men, every man with his houſhold, even David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs, and Abigail the Carmeliteſs, Nabal's wife.

4 And it was told Saul, that David was fled to Gath: and he ſought no more again for him.

19 If the Lord have ſtirred thee up againſt me, let him accept an offering.] Offer to God ſome ſacrifice, that he may be appeaſed, and free thee from this pertinacious melancholy. Patrick.

Go, ſerve other gods.] They had baniſhed him from their religious aſſemblies, and forced him to fly for refuge to another nation, where gods of wood and ſtone were worſhipped.

20 A partridge in the mountains.] Bochart, Lamy, and Pool, ſay, the word which we tranſlate partridge, ſhould have been rendered, a woodcock; the word occurs only here and in Jer. xvii. 11.

21 I have ſinned: return, my ſon David, &c.] He now invites him to return to his country and relations, which he had not before done. He condemns himſelf as a great offender againſt God and David. Doubtleſs he was, at preſent, both aſhamed of his actions, and very ſorry for having committed them. Pat.

25 Bleſſed be thou, my ſon David.] He perceived it was in vain to contend any longer againſt David, whom he was convinced, from his gallant and generous actions, God deſigned for great atchievements: probably he conſidered the taking away his ſpear, which was the ſceptre in thoſe days, as an omen that the royal authority ſhould be tranſlated to David. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-ſeventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 David ſaid in his heart, I ſhall now periſh one day by the hand of Saul.] Theſe words were doubtleſs ſpoken by David under ſome great depreſſion of ſpirit; for though he might naturally conclude that Saul would not ceaſe his perſecution, yet he had the promiſe of God himſelf, that he ſhould never be able to compaſs his deſign; and, conſequently, he had not the leaſt reaſon for thinking he ſhould ever periſh by the hand of Saul.

5 ¶ And David ſaid unto Achiſh, If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in ſome town in the country, that I may dwell there: for why ſhould thy ſervant dwell in the royal city with thee?

6 Then Achiſh gave him Ziklag that day: wherefore Ziklag pertaineth unto the kings of Judah unto this day.

7 And the time that David dwelt in the country of the Philiſtines was a full year and four months.

8 And David and his men went up and invaded the Geſhurites, and the Gezrites, and the Amalekites: for thoſe nations were of old the inhabitants of the land, as thou goeſt to Shur, even unto the land of Egypt.

9 And David ſmote the land, and left neither man nor woman alive, and took away the ſheep, and the oxen, and the aſſes, and the camels, and the apparel, and returned, and came to Achiſh.

10 And Achiſh ſaid, Whither have ye made a rode to day? and David ſaid, Againſt the ſouth of Judah, and againſt the ſouth of the Jerahmeelites, and againſt the ſouth of the Kenites.

11 And David ſaved neither man nor woman alive, to bring tidings to Gath, ſaying, Leſt they ſhould tell on us, ſaying, So did David, and ſo will be his manner all the while he dwelleth in the country of the Philiſtines.

12 And Achiſh believed David, ſaying, He hath made his people Iſrael utterly to abhor him; therefore he ſhall be my ſervant for ever.

CHAP. XXVIII.

3 Saul having deſtroyed the witches, 7 afterward ſeeketh to one; 9 who being encouraged by him, raiſeth up Samuel. 15 Saul's ruin foreſhewed.

AND it came to paſs in thoſe days, that the Philiſtines gathered their armies together for warfare, to fight with Iſrael. And Achiſh ſaid unto David, Know thou aſſuredly that thou ſhalt go out with me to battle, thou and thy men.

2 And David ſaid to Achiſh, Surely thou ſhalt know what thy ſervant can do. And Achiſh ſaid to David, Therefore will I make thee keeper of mine head for ever.

3 ¶ Now Samuel was dead, and all Iſrael had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city. And Saul had put away thoſe that had familiar ſpirits, and the wizards, out of the land.

4 And the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together, and came and pitched in Shunem: and Saul gathered all Iſrael together, and they pitched in Gilboa.

5 And when Saul ſaw the hoſt of the Philiſtines, he was afraid, and his heart greatly trembled.

6 And when Saul enquired of the LORD, the LORD anſwered him not, neither by dreams, nor by Urim, nor by prophets.

6 Achiſh gave him Ziklag.] This place was ſituated in the extreme parts of the tribe of Judah, near Hormah, where the Iſraelites were defeated when they ſojourned in the wilderneſs. David, doubtleſs, deſired leave to retire to this place, that he might ſecure his people from being tainted with idolatry, enjoy the free exerciſe of his own religion, and have an opportunity of undertaking ſomething againſt the enemies of God, without the knowledge or obſervation of the Philiſtines. Calmet.

8 David invaded the Geſhurites and the Gezrites, &c.] Thoſe who condemn David as guilty of a breach of hoſpitality, ſhould conſider that none of theſe three nations were Philiſtines: David likewiſe might well tell the king, that he made his inroads into the land of Iſrael, that he might think himſelf the more ſure of him; and this is the reaſon aſſigned, ver. 12. for his uſing that pretence. Univerſal Hiſtory.

10 Againſt the ſouth of Judah.] David here meant the Geſhurites and the Gezrites, both relicks of the Canaanites, whom God ordered to be extirpated, and who did indeed live to the ſouth of Judah: but Achiſh underſtood him in a quite contrary ſenſe, namely, that he had fallen on his own countrymen. David's anſwer, therefore, though not an abſolute falſhood, was certainly an equivocation with intent to deceive, and therefore badly agreed with that honeſty and ſimplicity which became David, both as a prince and profeſſor of the true religion; in which, as he cannot be excuſed, we ſhould be very careful not to imitate. From theſe paſſages of ſcripture we ſee the impartiality of the ſacred writings, for they ſet forth the frailties and infirmities of the holy men of old, and are manifeſtly written for our advantage, viz. that we ſhould guard againſt thoſe errors, which the beſt of men are liable to, and which we cannot eſcape without great care and circumſpection.

Notes on the Twenty-eighth Chapter.

Ver. 4 Pitched in Shunem.] A place in the borders of the tribe of Iſſachar, about five miles ſouth of mount Hermon.

Gilboa.] A chain of mountains ſix miles diſtance from Bethſhan, near the valley of Jezreel, not far from Shunem.

6 The Lord anſwered him not.] Becauſe he had killed his prieſts: and the Urim was with Abiathar who attended on David among the Philiſtines. In this verſe are three ways of enquiring

7 ¶ Then ſaid Saul unto his ſervants, Seek me a woman that hath a familiar ſpirit, that I may go to her, and enquire of her. And his ſervants ſaid to him, Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar ſpirit at En-dor.

8 And Saul diſguiſed himſelf, and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night. And he ſaid, I pray thee, divine unto me by the familiar ſpirit, and bring me him up whom I ſhall name unto thee.

9 ¶ And the woman ſaid unto him, Behold, thou knoweſt what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off thoſe that have familiar ſpirits, and the wizards, out of the land: wherefore then layeſt thou a ſnare for my life, to cauſe me to die?

10 And Saul ſware to her by the LORD, ſaying, As the LORD liveth, there ſhall no puniſhment happen to thee for this thing.

11 Then ſaid the woman, Whom ſhall I bring up unto thee? and he ſaid, Bring me up Samuel.

12 And when the woman ſaw Samuel, ſhe cried with a loud voice: and the woman ſpake to Saul, ſaying, Why haſt thou deceived me? for thou art Saul.

13 And the king ſaid unto her, Be not afraid, for what ſaweſt thou? and the woman ſaid unto Saul, I ſaw gods aſcending out of the earth.

14 And he ſaid unto her, What form is he of? and ſhe ſaid, An old man cometh up; and he is covered with a mantle. And Saul perceived that it was Samuel, and he ſtooped with his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf.

15 ¶ And Samuel ſaid to Saul, Why haſt thou diſquieted me, to bring me up? and Saul anſwered, I am ſore diſtreſſed: for the Philiſtines make war againſt me, and God is departed from me, and anſwereth me no more, nei-enquiring of God, viz. by dreams, Urim, and prophets: the heathens had nearly the ſame methods of conſulting their gods; thus Achilles ſays in the council of the Greeks, Iliad 1.

> But let ſome prophet, or ſome ſacred ſage,
> Explore the cauſe of great Apollo's rage;
> Or learn the waſteful vengeance to remove
> By myſtic dreams, for dreams deſcend from Jove. Pope.

7 A woman that hath a familiar ſpirit.] Strange infatuation of Saul! He had baniſhed all wizards and ſorcerers out of his kingdom, as a dangerous ſort of people, who made profeſſion of a wicked and unwarrantable art; and yet he here enquires after one, and puts his whole confidence in what he had ſo wiſely exploded before: as if a witch, with her incantations, and other diabolical arts, was capable of allaying the uneaſineſs of his mind, or ſecuring him from the apprehenſions of danger.

En-dor.] En-dor was a town in the valley of Jezreel, at the foot of mount Gilboa.

13 I ſaw gods aſcending.] It ſhould have been rendered in the ſingular number God, or a great perſon: Joſephus ſays, that the woman anſwered, I ſee a man that reſembles God.

14 Saul perceived it was Samuel.] There is hardly a paſſage in the whole Old Teſtament that has been more tortured by authors, of all ages, than this; and, after peruſing them all, it muſt be owned, that there are difficulties in whatever ſenſe we take the hiſtory of Samuel's apparition; for there are three different opinions: firſt, that there was no real apparition, but the whole a cheat and juggle of the ſorcereſs: ſecondly, that it was the devil, who on this occaſion perſonated Samuel: and, thirdly, that it was really Samuel who appeared to Saul: which laſt opinion ſeems moſt conformable to the ſenſe of the ſacred hiſtorian, and is attended with fewer difficulties than either of the other.

With regard to the firſt opinion, that it was only an artifice of the woman, beſides that it puts too great a violence upon the text, it would have been highly imprudent for her to give Saul ſuch a dreadful anſwer, even though we ſhould grant that ſhe was ſo well acquainted with the affairs of that prince, that ſhe might eaſily foreſee what, in all probability, would be the caſe. It is more natural to think, that ſhe would have flattered the monarch, by giving him comfort, and promiſing him ſucceſs, than ſhe would provoke him by ſuch a terrible denunciation.

The ſecond opinion, namely, that it was the devil that perſonated Samuel, is equally incredible. Can it be ſuppoſed, that a wicked ſpirit, from the regions of perdition, would have upbraided Saul with thoſe very crimes he had himſelf tempted him to commit? or that the father of lies could pry into the womb of futurity, and determine the moſt caſual events poſitively and preciſely? for it muſt be granted, that only God himſelf could reveal the preciſe time of the two armies engaging, the ſucceſs and conſequence of the victory, and the very names of the perſons who were to fall in battle. Theſe tranſactions were told to Saul in the very manner they afterwards happened, conſequently the apparition muſt have received theſe informations from God himſelf, and therefore could not be an apoſtate ſpirit. The author of Eccleſiaſticus tells us expreſly, that Samuel, after his death, propheſied and ſhewed the king his end, xlvi. 20. And therefore we may conclude, that it was the real ſoul of Samuel, clothed in a viſible form, that appeared to Saul.

It muſt not be ſuppoſed, that it ever was in the power of any diabolical incantations, to call the ſouls of ſaints from the happy manſions of heaven; and therefore this apparition of Samuel was not effected by the magical enchantments of the ſorcereſs, but performed by the ſole power and appointment of God, who is the ſovereign Lord both of the living and the dead. Accordingly we may obſerve, from the ſurprize which the woman diſcovered upon Samuel's ſudden appearing, that her magic had no ſhare therein; but that it was the effect of ſome ſuperior hand. She ſaw an object ſo terrible, ſo majeſtic, indeed ſo contrary to any thing ſhe had ever raiſed, and which was even viſible before ſhe had begun her incantations, that ſhe could not forbear being terrified, well knowing that the apparition came from God.

ther by prophets, nor by dreams: therefore I have called thee, that thou mayeſt make known unto me what I ſhall do.

16 Then ſaid Samuel, Wherefore then doſt thou aſk of me, ſeeing the LORD is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy?

17 And the LORD hath done to him, as he ſpake by me: for the LORD hath rent the kingdom out of thine hand, and given it to thy neighbour, even to David:

18 Becauſe thou obeyedſt not the voice of the LORD, nor executedſt his fierce wrath upon Amalek, therefore hath the LORD done this thing unto thee this day.

19 Moreover, the LORD will alſo deliver Iſrael with thee into the hand of the Philiſtines: and to morrow ſhalt thou and thy ſons be with me: the LORD alſo ſhall deliver the hoſt of Iſrael into the hand of the Philiſtines.

20 Then Saul fell ſtraightway all along on the earth, and was ſore afraid, becauſe of the words of Samuel: and there was no ſtrength in him; for he had eaten no bread all the day nor all the night.

21 And the woman came unto Saul, and ſaw that he was ſore troubled, and ſaid unto him, Behold, thine handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and I have put my life in my hand, and have hearkened unto thy words which thou ſpakeſt unto me.

22 Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou alſo unto the voice of thine handmaid, and let me ſet a morſel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayeſt have ſtrength, when thou goeſt on thy way.

23 But he refuſed, and ſaid, I will not eat. But his ſervants, together with the woman, compelled him, and he hearkened unto their voice. So he aroſe from the earth, and ſat upon the bed.

24 And the woman had a fat calf in the houſe, and ſhe haſted and killed it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened bread thereof:

25 And ſhe brought it before Saul, and before his ſervants; and they did eat. Then they roſe up, and went away that night.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 David, marching with the Philiſtines, 3 is diſallowed by their princes. 6 Achiſh diſmiſſeth him.

NOW the Philiſtines gathered together all their armies to Aphek: and the Iſraelites pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel.

2 And the lords of the Philiſtines paſſed on by hundreds, and by thouſands: but David and his men paſſed on in the rereward with Achiſh.

3 ¶ Then ſaid the princes of the Philiſtines, What do theſe Hebrews here? and Achiſh ſaid unto the princes of the Philiſtines, Is not this David the ſervant of Saul the king of Iſrael, which hath been with me theſe days, or theſe years, and I have found no fault in him ſince he fell unto me unto this day?

4 And the princes of the Philiſtines were wroth with him; and the princes of the Philiſtines ſaid unto him, Make this fellow return, that he may go again to his place which thou haſt appointed him, and let him not go down with us to battle, leſt in the battle he be an adverſary to us: for wherewith ſhould he reconcile himſelf unto his maſter? ſhould it not be with the heads of theſe men?

5 Is not this David, of whom they ſang one to another in dances, ſaying, Saul ſlew his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands?

6 ¶ Then Achiſh called David, and ſaid unto him, Surely, as the LORD liveth, thou haſt been upright, and thy going out and thy coming in with me in the hoſt is good in my ſight: for I have not found evil in thee, ſince the day of thy coming unto me unto this day: nevertheleſs, the lords favour thee not.

7 Wherefore now return, and go in peace,

19 To-morrow thou ſhalt be with me.] i. e. Shortly thou ſhalt be dead, or in the other world, as I now am: for we cannot imagine that Saul who died like a reprobate, by his own hands, would be where Samuel was, in the manſions of the bleſſed.

Notes on the Twenty-ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Aphek.] In the tribe of Aſhur; the ſame place where the ſons of Eli were ſlain, chap. iv. 1.

2 The lords of the Philiſtines paſſed on by hundreds, and by thouſands.] Some at the head of a hundred, ſome of a thouſand men.

In the rereward.] In the rear, or laſt troop.

that thou diſpleaſe not the lords of the Philiſtines.

8 And David ſaid unto Achiſh, But what have I done? and what haſt thou found in thy ſervant, ſo long as I have been with thee unto this day, that I may not go fight againſt the enemies of my lord the king?

9 And Achiſh anſwered and ſaid to David, I know that thou art good in my ſight, as an angel of God: notwithſtanding, the princes of the Philiſtines have ſaid, He ſhall not go up with us to the battle.

10 Wherefore now riſe up early in the morning with thy maſter's ſervants that are come with thee: and as ſoon as ye be up early in the morning, and have light, depart.

11 So David and his men roſe up early to depart in the morning, to return into the land of the Philiſtines. And the Philiſtines went up to Jezreel.

CHAP. XXX.

1 The Amalekites ſpoil Ziklag. 7 David, encouraged by God, purſueth them, 11 and overtaking them, recovereth all the ſpoil.

AND it came to paſs when David and his men were come to Ziklag on the third day, that the Amalekites had invaded the ſouth and Ziklag, and ſmitten Ziklag, and burned it with fire;

2 And had taken the women captives that were therein: they ſlew not any either great or ſmall, but carried them away, and went on their way.

3 So David and his men came to the city, and behold, it was burned with fire, and their wives and their ſons and their daughters were taken captives.

4 Then David and the people that were with him lifted up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep.

5 And David's two wives were taken captives, Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs, and Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite.

6 And David was greatly diſtreſſed; for the people ſpake of ſtoning him; becauſe the ſoul of all the people was grieved, every man for his ſons and for his daughters: but David encouraged himſelf in the LORD his God.

7 ¶ And David ſaid to Abiathar the prieſt Ahimelech's ſon, I pray thee, bring me hither the ephod. And Abiathar brought thither the ephod to David.

8 And David enquired at the LORD, ſaying, Shall I purſue after this troop? ſhall I overtake them? and he anſwered him, Purſue: for thou ſhalt ſurely overtake them, and without fail recover all.

9 So David went, he and the ſix hundred men that were with him, and came to the brook Beſor, where thoſe that were left behind ſtayed.

10 But David purſued, he and four hundred men: for two hundred abode behind, which were ſo faint that they could not go over the brook Beſor.

11 ¶ And they found an Egyptian in the field, and brought him to David, and gave him bread, and he did eat; and they made him drink water.

12 And they gave him a piece of a cake of figs, and two cluſters of raiſins. And when he had eaten, his ſpirit came again to him: for he had eaten no bread nor drank any water three days and three nights.

13 And David ſaid unto him, To whom

---

8 David ſaid unto Achiſh, But what have I done---that I may not go fight againſt the enemies of my lord the king?] This action cannot be reconciled with the idea we form of a man after God's own heart; for whether David's intentions were to ſtand neuter, or to turn againſt the Philiſtines, in the enſuing battle, his perfidy and ingratitude to Achiſh will appear equally conſpicuous: how well ſoever we wiſh to his character, we cannot vindicate his conduct in this particular: all that can be ſaid is, that he was unhappily ſo ſituated, that what party ſoever he had joined, he muſt have been culpable; and one party he muſt have joined, had not Providence ſo critically interpoſed to preſerve his honour without injuring his conſcience.

Notes on the Thirtieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The Amalekites had---ſmitten Ziklag, and burned it with fire.] This was doubtleſs done in revenge for the incurſion David had lately made into their country.

2 They ſlew not any, &c.] It may ſeem ſtrange, that David having killed all he could meet with, and ſpared none, they ſhould not ſerve his people in the ſame kind: but though they ſought revenge, yet they wanted booty much more; for probably they intended to ſell them for ſlaves, and make money of them. Patrick.

6 The people ſpake of ſtoning him.] As the cauſe of this calamity, in leaving the city unguarded; or in provoking the Amalekites ſo grievouſly as he had done, in the ſlaughter of all that he could find.

belongeſt thou? and whence art thou? and he ſaid, I am a young man of Egypt, ſervant to an Amalekite: and my maſter left me, becauſe three days agone I fell ſick.

14 We made an invaſion upon the ſouth of the Cherethites, and upon the coaſt which belongeth to Judah, and upon the ſouth of Caleb; and we burnt Ziklag with fire.

15 And David ſaid to him, Canſt thou bring me down to this company? and he ſaid, Swear unto me by God that thou wilt neither kill me, nor deliver me into the hands of my maſter, and I will bring thee down to this company.

16 And when he had brought him down, behold, they were ſpread abroad upon all the earth, eating and drinking, and dancing, becauſe of all the great ſpoil that they had taken out of the land of the Philiſtines, and out of the land of Judah.

17 And David ſmote them from the twilight even unto the evening of the next day: and there eſcaped not a man of them, ſave four hundred young men which rode upon camels, and fled.

18 And David recovered all that the Amalekites had carried away: and David reſcued his two wives.

19 And there was nothing lacking to them, neither ſmall nor great, neither ſons nor daughters, neither ſpoil, nor any thing that they had taken to them. David recovered all.

20 And David took all the flocks, and the herds: which they drave before thoſe other cattle, and ſaid, This is David's ſpoil.

21 And David came to the two hundred men which were ſo faint that they could not follow David, whom they had made alſo to abide at the brook Beſor: and they went forth to meet David, and to meet the people that were with him. And when David came near to the people, he ſaluted them.

22 Then anſwered all the wicked men, and men of Belial, of thoſe that went with David, and ſaid, Becauſe they went not with us, we will not give them ought of the ſpoil that we have recovered, ſave to every man his wife and his children, that they may lead them away, and depart.

23 Then ſaid David, Ye ſhall not do ſo, my brethren, with that which the LORD hath given us, who hath preſerved us, and delivered the company that came againſt us into our hand.

24 For who will hearken unto you in this matter? but as his part is that goeth down to the battle, ſo ſhall his part be that tarrieth by the ſtuff: they ſhall part alike.

25 And it was ſo from that day forward, that he made it a ſtatute and an ordinance for Iſrael unto this day.

26 And when David came to Ziklag, he ſent of the ſpoil unto the elders of Judah, even to his friends, ſaying, Behold, a preſent for you, of the ſpoil of the enemies of the LORD;

27 To them which were in Beth-el, and to them which were in ſouth Ramoth, and to them which were in Jattir,

28 And to them which were in Aroer, and to them which were in Siphmoth, and to them which were in Eſhtemoa,

29 And to them which were in Rachal, and to them which were in the cities of the Jerahmeelites, and to them which were in the cities of the Kenites,

30 And to them which were in Hormah, and to them which were in Chor-aſhan, and to them which were in Athach, 31 And to them which were in Hebron, and to all the places where David himſelf and his men were wont to haunt.

---

17 David ſmote them from the twilight, even unto the evening of the next day.] He came upon them in the evening, when they were refreſhing themſelves, and ſhewing the greateſt marks of joy for their late ſucceſs; little dreaming that David was ſo near, and vengeance ready to burſt upon their heads. Probably he let them fall aſleep, when they had eaten and drunken liberally, and at break of day fell upon them and purſued them till the evening. Patrick.

22 We will not give them ought of the ſpoil.] A very unjuſt reſolution; ſince it was not the choice of their brethren to ſtay behind, but mere neceſſity, and inability to travel further.

27 South-Ramoth.] A town in the tribe of Simeon; ſo called to diſtinguiſh it from Ramoth-gilead, which lay to the northward of it, Joſhua xix. 8.

Jattir.] A place in the mountainous part of the tribe of Judah.

28, 29 Aroer---Rachal---the cities of the Jerahmeelites.] Places on the ſouth of Judah.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Saul having loſt his army, and his ſons, killeth himſelf. 8 The Philiſtines triumph over the dead carcaſſes. 11 They of Jabeſh-gilead recover the bodies by night.

NOW the Philiſtines fought againſt Iſrael: and the men of Iſrael fled from before the Philiſtines, and fell down ſlain in mount Gilboa.

2 And the Philiſtines followed hard upon Saul and upon his ſons; and the Philiſtines ſlew Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchi-ſhua, Saul's ſons.

3 And the battle went ſore againſt Saul, and the archers hit him; and he was ſore wounded of the archers.

4 Then ſaid Saul unto his armour-bearer, Draw thy ſword, and thruſt me through therewith; leſt theſe uncircumciſed come and thruſt me through, and abuſe me. But his armour-bearer would not; for he was ſore afraid. Therefore Saul took a ſword, and fell upon it.

5 And when his armour-bearer ſaw that Saul was dead, he fell likewiſe upon his ſword, and died with him.

6 So Saul died, and his three ſons, and his armour-bearer, and all his men that ſame day together.

7 And when the men of Iſrael that were on the other ſide of the valley, and they that were on the other ſide Jordan, ſaw that the men of Iſrael fled, and that Saul and his ſons were dead, they forſook the cities, and fled; and the Philiſtines came and dwelt in them.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, when the Philiſtines came to ſtrip the ſlain, that they found Saul and his three ſons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And they cut off his head, and ſtripped off his armour, and ſent it into the land of the Philiſtines round about, to publiſh it in the houſe of their idols, and among the people.

10 And they put his armour in the houſe Aſhtaroth: and they faſtened his body to the wall of Beth-ſhan.

11 ¶ And when the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead heard of that which the Philiſtines had done to Saul;

12 All the valiant men aroſe, and went all night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his ſons from the wall of Beth-ſhan, and came to Jabeſh, and burnt them there.

13 And they took their bones, and buried them under a tree at Jabeſh, and faſted ſeven days.

Notes on the Thirty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 2 The Philiſtines ſlew Jonathan and Abinadab, and Malchi-ſhua, Saul's ſons.] As Samuel had foretold. Jonathan ſeems to have deſerved a better fate; but the providence of God ſuffered him to be ſlain, that David might more eaſily aſcend the throne.

3 The archers hit him] This is the firſt time we find any mention of archers in the Philiſtine armies: the aſſault by this kind of weapon was new and ſurpriſing, and therefore ſucceſsful, the arrows deſtroying the Iſraelites at a diſtance, naturally threw them into terror and confuſion. It may not here be improper to obſerve, that the root of the Hebrew word, which we tranſlate ſorely wounded, more properly ſignifies to be in dread, alluding to the travail of a woman: ſo that it does not appear that Saul was at all wounded, but only in the extremity of fear, when he ſaw himſelf ſo beſet with enemies, that there was no way to eſcape. Univerſal Hiſtory. And agreeable to this, the Septuagint reads, he was wounded in the hypocondria, i. e. he was depreſſed with melancholy.

10 They faſtened his body to the wall of Beth-ſhan.] Probably they hung it on ſuch hooks as were placed there for the execution of criminals. Shaw.

12 All the valiant men aroſe, &c.] The inhabitants of Jabeſh had been delivered by Saul, at the beginning of his reign, from the cruelty of the Ammonites; and now, in gratitude to their deliverer, they took his body with thoſe of his ſons, from the wall where the Philiſtines had hanged them, that they might not want the honour of burial.

Came to Jabeſh, and burnt them there.] The cuſtom of burning the dead was never in uſe among the Jews: and therefore what is here ſaid of burning the bodies of Saul and his ſons, muſt be underſtood of the perfumes which were burnt at their funerals before their interment. Lamy.

THE SECOND BOOK OF SAMUEL,
OTHERWISE CALLED
The Second Book of the KINGS.

THE ARGUMENT.

This Book contains the history of David's reign, viz. about forty years, from the year of the Julian period 3659 to 3699. Here we have an impartial account of the failings and miscarriages of this great prince, and the many distresses and judgments he suffered in consequence thereof.

CHAP. I.

1 The Amalekite bringing tidings of the overthrow, and accusing himself of Saul's death, is slain. 17 David lamenteth Saul and Jonathan with a song.

NOW it came to pass after the death of Saul, when David was returned from the slaughter of the Amalekites, and David had abode two days in Ziklag;

2 It came even to pass on the third day, that behold, a man came out of the camp from Saul, with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head: and so it was, when he came to David, that he fell to the earth, and did obeisance.

3 And David said unto him, From whence comest thou? and he said unto him, Out of the camp of Israel am I escaped.

4 And David said unto him, How went the matter? I pray thee, tell me. And he answered, That the people are fled from the battle, and many of the people also are fallen and dead; and Saul and Jonathan his son are dead also.

5 And David said unto the young man that told him, How knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his son be dead?

6 And the young man that told him said, As I happened by chance upon mount Gilboa, behold, Saul leaned upon his spear: and lo, the chariots and horsemen followed hard after him.

7 And when he looked behind him, he saw me, and called unto me. And I answered, Here am I.

8 And he said unto me, Who art thou? and I answered him, I am an Amalekite.

9 He said unto me again, Stand, I pray thee, upon me, and slay me: for anguish is come upon me, because my life is yet whole in me.

10 So I stood upon him, and slew him, because I was sure that he could not live after

Notes on the First Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now it came to pass, &c.] The battle between Saul and the Philistines happened at the time when David was in pursuit of the Amalekites.

10 So I stood upon him, and slew him, &c.] By the account we have of Saul's death in the conclusion of the foregoing book, it seems evident, that the whole story of this Amalekite was a fiction of his own inventing, on purpose to ingratiate himself with David, the presumptive successor to the throne. But then it may be asked, how he came by Saul's crown and bracelet? It is incongruous to think that he would wear them in the time of action, since that would have exposed him to the archers of the Philistines. In answer to this it may be said that they were carried to the battle by some of his servants, probably for him to have put them on, in case he had obtained the victory, and returned that he was fallen: and I took the crown that was upon his head, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them hither unto my lord.

11 Then David took hold on his clothes, and rent them; and likewiſe all the men that were with him.

12 And they mourned and wept, and faſted until even, for Saul and for Jonathan his ſon, and for the people of the LORD, and for the houſe of Iſrael; becauſe they were fallen by the ſword.

13 And David ſaid unto the young man that told him, Whence art thou? and he anſwered I am the ſon of a ſtranger, an Amalekite.

14 And David ſaid unto him, How waſt thou not afraid to ſtretch forth thine hand to deſtroy the LORD's anointed?

15 And David called one of the young men, and ſaid, Go near, and fall upon him. And he ſmote him that he died.

16 And David ſaid unto him, Thy blood be upon thy head; for thy mouth hath teſtified againſt thee, ſaying, I have ſlain the LORD's anointed.

17 ¶ And David lamented with this lamentation over Saul and over Jonathan his ſon:

18 (Alſo he bade them teach the children of Judah the uſe of the bow: behold, it is written in the book of Jaſher.)

19 The beauty of Iſrael is ſlain upon thy high places: how are the mighty fallen!

20 Tell it not in Gath, publiſh it not in the ſtreets of Aſkelon: leſt the daughters of the Philiſtines rejoice, leſt the daughters of the uncircumciſed triumph.

21 Ye mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither let there be rain upon you, nor fields of offerings: for there the ſhield of the mighty is vilely caſt away, the ſhield of Saul, as though he had not been anointed with oil.

22 From the blood of the ſlain, from the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jonathan turned not back, and the ſword of Saul returned not empty.

23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely, and pleaſant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided: they were ſwifter than eagles, they were ſtronger than lions.

24 Ye daughters of Iſrael, weep over Saul, who clothed you in ſcarlet, with other delights, who put on ornaments of gold upon your apparel.

25 How are the mighty fallen in the midſt of the battle! O Jonathan, thou waſt ſlain in thine high places!

26 I am diſtreſſed for thee, my brother Jonathan: very pleaſant haſt thou been unto me:

returned in triumph; but the Iſraelites being defeated, and Saul himſelf ſlain, they fell by ſome accident into the hands of this Amalekite.

18 Alſo he bade them teach the children of Judah the uſe of the bow.] The ſenſe of this paſſage ſeems to be entirely miſtaken. It is evident that what David commanded to be taught to the children of Judah was written; but this could not be the uſe of the bow: nor indeed is it ſaid in the original, that he commanded to teach them the uſe of the bow, but only the bow; which was a term that David appropriated to ſignify the threnodia, or mourning ſong, which he had compoſed upon the death of Saul and Jonathan; and which he thus named from one particular paſſage in it, ver. 22. "Without the blood of "the ſoldiers; without the fat of the mighty, the bow of Jona-"than returned not back." A copy of the whole was written in the book of Jaſher, Joſhua x. 13. and this he commanded to be taught to the children of Judah. Pilkington. The LXX read, David ſung this mourning ſong---alſo he bade them teach it to the children of Judah. The Alexandrin copy and the Vulgate read, He bade them teach the children of Judah the bow.

19 The beauty of Iſrael is ſlain upon thy high places.] The flower of the nation, their choice young men, together with Saul and his ſons. This lamentation has ever been admired, as a picture of diſtreſs the moſt tender and the moſt ſtriking; unequally divided by grief into longer and ſhorter breaks, as nature could pour them forth from a mind much interrupted, and filled with the moſt lively images of love and greatneſs. Kennicott.

20 Tell it not in Gath, &c.] Theſe are expreſſions of the deepeſt ſorrow, the prophet deſiring what was impoſſible; Gath and Aſkelon ſeem to have been the principal cities of the Philiſtines.

21 Ye mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither rain, nor fields of offerings.] Let not heaven with fertilizing dews and rains nouriſh thy paſtures, from whence offerings are brought to the houſe of God.

There the ſhield of the mighty is vilely caſt away.] It was a great diſgrace to a warrior to loſe his ſhield; but in this total defeat they were obliged to throw them away, that they might fly with greater ſwiftneſs from the victors.

The ſhield of Saul, as though he had not been anointed with oil.] i. e. The Lord's anointed fell like a common ſoldier.

22 From the blood of the ſlain, from the fat, &c.] It would have been more properly rendered, without the blood, &c. without the fat, &c.

23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely and pleaſant in their lives.] Courteous and kind to their people, which is a great virtue in princes. This teſtimony in favour of Saul greatly advances the glory of David, whoſe generous ſpirit could celebrate the virtues of an enemy.

They were ſwifter than eagles, they were ſtronger than lions.] A noble hyperbole! they were ſwifter than eagles to purſue, ſtronger than lions to conquer.

26 I am diſtreſſed for thee, my brother Jonathan.] He laments the thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women.

27 How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished!

CHAP. II.

1 David by God's direction going up to Hebron, is made king of Judah. 8 Abner maketh Ish-bosheth king of Israel. 18 Asahel slain.

AND it came to pass after this, that David enquired of the LORD, saying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah? and the LORD said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go up? and he said, Unto Hebron.

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail Nabal's wife the Carmelite.

3 And his men that were with him did David bring up, every man with his household: and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

4 And the men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying, That the men of Jabesh-gilead were they that buried Saul.

5 And David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, and said unto them, Blessed be ye of the LORD, that ye have shewed this kindness unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him.

6 And now the LORD shew kindness and truth unto you: and I also will requite you this kindness, because ye have done this thing.

7 Therefore now let your hands be strengthened, and be ye valiant: for your master Saul is dead, and also the house of Judah have anointed me king over them.

8 ¶ But Abner the son of Ner, captain of Saul's host, took Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim:

9 And he made him king over Gilead, and over the Ashurites, and over Jezreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel.

10 Ish-bosheth Saul's son was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and reigned two years. But the house of Judah followed David.

11 And the time that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah, was seven years and six months.

12 And Abner the son of Ner and the servants of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul went out from Mahanaim to Gibeon.

13 And Joab the son of Zeruiah and the servants of David went out, and met together by the pool of Gibeon: and they sat down, the one on the one side of the pool, and the other on the other side of the pool.

14 And Abner said to Joab, Let the young men now arise, and play before us. And Joab said, Let them arise.

15 Then there arose and went over by num-the death of his faithful friend in the most pathetic and moving manner. I have attempted this elogy in English verse. See my Poems, p. 87.

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 1 David enquired of the Lord.] Though David, after the death of Saul, had a right to the kingdom, by virtue of God's own appointment; yet, as God had no where declared at what time he was to make use of this right, he would not take upon him the administration of public affairs, without first consulting him. Patrick.

He said, Unto Hebron.] This city stood in the midst of the tribe of Judah; and being the metropolis of the whole tribe, it was very commodious for David's residence at this juncture; for he could not be ignorant that the determination of the metropolis in his favour, would be of the greatest weight to influence the whole tribe. Life of David.

8 Mahanaim.] This was a place in the tribe of Gad, and had its name from the appearance of an host of angels to Jacob, as he came with his family from Padan-aram, Gen. xxxii. 1. The reasons why Abner retreated hither in the beginning of Ish-bosheth's reign, were, that he might secure the people on that side Jordan, especially the gallant inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead, who were firmly attached to the house of Saul; and, chiefly, that he might be at a greater distance from David, have the new king more absolutely under his command, and a better opportunity of recruiting his army among a people, not only very courageous, but well affected to the cause he had espoused. Calmet.

10 Ish-bosheth reigned two years.] i. e. He reigned two years before there was any war between him and David. But being an inactive prince, Abner, when the war broke out with Judah, took the government upon himself; so that the other five years, which passed before David ascended the throne of Israel, is not reckoned as part of Ish-bosheth's reign, because he was only a nominal king, without the least authority. Patrick.

14 Let the young men now arise, and play before us.] Abner does not here seem to mean, that they should destroy one another, but only that they should practise their military exercises, as the gladiators at Rome were afterwards wont to do, to divert the spectators.

ber twelve of Benjamin which pertained to Iſh-boſheth the ſon of Saul, and twelve of the ſervants of David.

16 And they caught every one his fellow by the head, and thruſt his ſword in his fellow's ſide: ſo they fell down together. Wherefore that place was called Helkath-hazzurim, which is in Gibeon.

17 And there was a very ſore battle that day; and Abner was beaten, and the men of Iſrael, before the ſervants of David.

18 ¶ And there were three ſons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abiſhai, and Aſahel: and Aſahel was as light of foot as a wild roe.

19 And Aſahel purſued after Abner, and in going he turned not to the right hand nor to the left from following Abner.

20 Then Abner looked behind him, and ſaid, Art thou Aſahel? and he anſwered, I am.

21 And Abner ſaid to him, Turn thee aſide to thy right hand or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his armour. But Aſahel would not turn aſide from following of him.

22 And Abner ſaid again to Aſahel, Turn thee aſide from following me: wherefore ſhould I ſmite thee to the ground? how then ſhould I hold up my face to Joab thy brother?

23 Howbeit he refuſed to turn aſide. Wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the ſpear ſmote him under the fifth rib, that the ſpear came out behind him; and he fell down there, and died in the ſame place: and it came to paſs, that as many as came to the place where Aſahel fell down and died, ſtood ſtill.

24 Joab alſo and Abiſhai purſued after Abner: and the ſun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah by the way of the wilderneſs of Gibeon.

25 And the children of Benjamin gathered themſelves together after Abner, and became one troop, and ſtood on the top of an hill.

26 Then Abner called to Joab, and ſaid, Shall the ſword devour for ever? knoweſt thou not that it will be bitterneſs in the latter end? how long ſhall it be then ere thou bid the people return from following their brethren?

27 And Joab ſaid, As God liveth, unleſs thou hadſt ſpoken, ſurely then in the morning the people had gone up every one from following his brother.

28 So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people ſtood ſtill, and purſued after Iſrael no more, neither fought they any more.

29 And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plain, and paſſed over Jordan, and went through all Bithron, and they came to Mahanaim.

30 And Joab returned from following Abner: and when he had gathered all the people together, there lacked of David's ſervants nineteen men, and Aſahel.

31 But the ſervants of David had ſmitten of Benjamin and of Abner's men, ſo that three hundred and threeſcore men died.

32 And they took up Aſahel, and buried him in the ſepulchre of his father, which was in Beth-lehem. And Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

CHAP. III.

1 During the war David ſtill waxes ſtronger. 6 Abner diſpleaſed with Iſhboſheth, 12 revolteth to David. 22 Joab killeth Abner. 28 David curſeth Joab, 31 and mourneth for Abner.

NOW there was long war between the houſe of Saul and the houſe of David. But David waxed ſtronger and ſtronger, and the houſe of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

2 And unto David were ſons born in Hebron; and his firſt-born was Amnon, of Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs;

3 And his ſecond, Chileab, of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third,

16 Helkath-hazzurim.] That is, the field of ſtrong men.

18 Light of foot as a wild roe.] Dr. Shaw ſays it ſhould be rendered, as the antilope, which few creatures exceed in ſwiftneſs.

23 Smote him under the fifth rib.] All the beſt tranſlations read, Into the groin.

26 It will be bitterneſs in the latter end.] In civil wars, as Cicero ſays, all things are miſerable, and nothing more miſerable than victory itſelf.

27 Joab ſaid, &c.] He wiſhes he had thought the ſame in the morning; for if he had not deſired the young men to play before them, all the blood ſpilt that day had been ſaved. Patrick.

Abſalom the ſon of Maacah, the daughter of Talmai king of Geſhur;

4 And the fourth, Adonijah the ſon of Haggith; and the fifth, Shephatiah the ſon of Abital;

5 And the ſixth, Ithream, by Eglah David's wife. Theſe were born to David in Hebron.

6 ¶ And it came to paſs while there was war between the houſe of Saul and the houſe of David, that Abner made himſelf ſtrong for the houſe of Saul.

7 And Saul had a concubine whoſe name was Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Iſh-boſheth ſaid to Abner, Wherefore haſt thou gone in unto my father's concubine?

8 Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Iſh-boſheth, and ſaid, Am I a dog's head, which againſt Judah do ſhew kindneſs this day unto the houſe of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David, that thou chargeſt me to day with a fault concerning this woman?

9 So do God to Abner, and more alſo, except, as the LORD hath ſworn to David, even ſo I do to him;

10 To tranſlate the kingdom from the houſe of Saul, and to ſet up the throne of David over Iſrael and over Judah, from Dan even to Beer-ſheba.

11 And he could not anſwer Abner a word again, becauſe he feared him.

12 ¶ And Abner ſent meſſengers to David on his behalf, ſaying, Whoſe is the land? ſaying alſo, Make thy league with me, and behold, my hand ſhall be with thee, to bring about all Iſrael unto thee.

13 And he ſaid, Well; I will make a league with thee: but one thing I require of thee, that is, Thou ſhalt not ſee my face, except thou firſt bring Michal Saul's daughter when thou comeſt to ſee my face.

14 And David ſent meſſengers to Iſh-boſheth Saul's ſon, ſaying, Deliver me my wife Michal, which I eſpouſed to me for an hundred fore-ſkins of the Philiſtines.

15 And Iſh-boſheth ſent, and took her from her huſband, even from Phaltiel the ſon of Laiſh.

16 And her huſband went with her along weeping behind her to Bahurim. Then ſaid Abner unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

17 And Abner had communication with the elders of Iſrael, ſaying, Ye ſought for David in times paſt to be king over you.

18 Now then do it: for the LORD hath ſpoken of David, ſaying, By the hand of my ſervant David I will ſave my people Iſrael out of the hand of the Philiſtines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

19 And Abner alſo ſpake in the ears of Benjamin. And Abner went alſo to ſpeak in the ears of David in Hebron, all that ſeemed good to Iſrael, and that ſeemed good to the whole houſe of Benjamin.

20 So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him. And David made Abner, and the men that were with him, a feaſt.

21 And Abner ſaid unto David, I will ariſe and go, and will gather all Iſrael unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayeſt reign over all that thine heart deſireth. And David ſent Abner away; and he went in peace.

22 ¶ And behold, the ſervants of David and Joab came from purſuing a troop, and brought

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 7 Wherefore haſt thou gone in unto my father's concubine?] It was a general rule, not only among the Jews, but among other nations alſo, that no private perſon ſhould preſume to marry the widow of the king; as this action made him appear as a rival, and competitor for the crown. Calmet.

8 Am I a dog's head.] This might better have been rendered, Am I a keeper of dogs? As if he had ſaid, "I am a leader of all "Iſrael, and yet I am treated like a perſon ſet over a pack of "dogs." Patrick.

9, 10 So do God to Abner, &c.] We have here an inſtance, in Abner, what a ſtrange alteration the ſtudy of revenge will produce in the human breaſt, and therefore we ſhould be remarkably careful to watch the firſt workings of that deſtructive paſſion. Abner, before he was inſtigated by revenge, was indefatigable to ſupport the crown he had placed on the head of Iſh-boſheth; and, in order to that, viſited every part of the country, to confirm the attachment of the Iſraelites to the houſe of Saul: but now he threatens to deſert himſelf, and at the ſame time to carry over all the troops his intereſt could procure to the oppoſite party. Patrick.

15 Even from Phaltiel.] He is called Phalti, 1 Sam. xxv. 44.

in a great ſpoil with them. But Abner was not with David in Hebron; for he had ſent him away, and he was gone in peace.

23 When Joab and all the hoſt that was with him, were come, they told Joab, ſaying, Abner the ſon of Ner came to the king, and he hath ſent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and ſaid, What haſt thou done? behold, Abner came unto thee; why is it that thou haſt ſent him away, and he is quite gone?

25 Thou knoweſt Abner the ſon of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know thy going out and thy coming in, and to know all that thou doeſt.

26 And when Joab was come out from David, he ſent meſſengers after Abner, which brought him again from the well of Sirah: but David knew it not.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab took him aſide in the gate to ſpeak with him quietly; and ſmote him there under the fifth rib, that he died, for the blood of Aſahel his brother.

28 ¶ And afterward when David heard it, he ſaid, I and my kingdom are guiltleſs before the LORD for ever from the blood of Abner the ſon of Ner:

29 Let it reſt on the head of Joab, and on all his father's houſe; and let there not fail from the houſe of Joab one that hath an iſſue, or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a ſtaff, or that falleth on the ſword, or that lacketh bread.

30 So Joab and Abiſhai his brother ſlew Abner, becauſe he had ſlain their brother Aſahel at Gibeon in the battle.

31 ¶ And David ſaid to Joab, and to all the people that were with him, Rend your clothes, and gird you with ſackloth and mourn before Abner. And king David himſelf followed the bier.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron. And the king lift up his voice and wept at the grave of Abner; and all the people wept.

33 And the king lamented over Abner, and ſaid, Died Abner as a fool dieth?

34 Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters: as a man falleth before wicked men, ſo felleſt thou. And all the people wept again over him.

35 And when all the people came to cauſe David to eat meat while it was yet day, David ſware, ſaying, So do God to me, and more alſo, if I taſte bread or ought elſe till the ſun be down.

36 And all the people took notice of it, and it pleaſed them: as whatſoever the king did, pleaſed all the people.

37 For all the people and all Iſrael underſtood that day that it was not of the king to ſlay Abner the ſon of Ner.

38 And the king ſaid unto his ſervants, Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Iſrael?

39 And I am this day weak, though anointed king; and theſe men the ſons of Zeruiah be too hard for me. The LORD ſhall reward the doer of evil according to his wickedneſs.

CHAP. IV.

1 The Iſraelites being troubled at the death of Abner, 2 Baanah and Rechab ſlay Iſh-boſheth. 9 David cauſeth them to be ſlain, and Iſh-boſheth's head to be buried.

AND when Saul's ſon heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hands were feeble, and all the Iſraelites were troubled.

27 Smote him there under the fifth rib, that he died.] This was a very treacherous action of Joab, and for which Providence would not ſuffer him to go down to the grave in peace. The true reaſon for ſtriking this treacherous blow was jealouſy: he was perſuaded, that if Abner was once taken into favour, his great experience, both in war and the nature of government, would ſoon gain him the aſcendant over him, and therefore took this wicked method to prevent it. Inſtead of the fifth rib, it ſhould be rendered, into the groin, as chap. ii. 23.

29 Let it reſt on the head of Joab, and on all his father's houſe.] This ſpeech may be conſidered rather as a prophetical prediction, than a private imprecation. David had, indeed, the greateſt reaſon for expreſſing his indignation in the moſt paſſionate manner for ſo foul a fact. Abner was a man of great power and authority, and at that time the head of the oppoſite party, and therefore rendered it ſuſpicious that David had ſome concern in the murder, as it was perpetrated by his firſt miniſter, and the general of his forces. Beſides, as Abner had been reconciled to David, the breach of faith and hoſpitality was added to the crime of murder, which was ſufficient to alienate the minds of thr Iſraelites from him for ever.

33 Died Abner as a fool dieth?] As a cowardly ſpiritleſs fellow? no, he was not through cowardice or defect of valour taken priſoner, bound, and ſo put to death; that would never have happened; but he was ſlain by the vileſt treachery. Taylor's Heb. Concord.

Notes

2 ¶ And Saul's ſon had two men that were captains of bands: the name of the one was Baanah, and the name of the other Rechab, the ſons of Rimmon a Beerothite, of the children of Benjamin. For Beeroth alſo was reckoned to Benjamin.

3 And the Beerothites fled to Gittaim, and were ſojourners there until this day.

4 And Jonathan Saul's ſon had a ſon that was lame of his feet. He was five years old when the tidings came of Saul and Jonathan out of Jezreel, and his nurſe took him up, and fled: and it came to paſs as ſhe made haſte to flee, that he fell, and became lame. And his name was Mephiboſheth.

5 And the ſons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, went, and came about the heat of the day to the houſe of Iſh-boſheth, who lay on a bed at noon.

6 And they came thither into the midſt of the houſe, as though they would have fetched wheat: and they ſmote him under the fifth rib: and Rechab and Baanah his brother eſcaped.

7 For when they came into the houſe, he lay on his bed in his bed-chamber, and they ſmote him and ſlew him, and beheaded him, and took his head, and gat them away through the plain all night.

8 And they brought the head of Iſh-boſheth unto David to Hebron, and ſaid to the king, Behold the head of Iſh-boſheth the ſon of Saul thine enemy, which ſought thy life: and the LORD hath avenged my lord the king this day of Saul, and of his ſeed.

9 ¶ And David anſwered Rechab and Baanah his brother, the ſons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and ſaid unto them, As the LORD liveth, who hath redeemed my ſoul out of all adverſity,

10 When one told me, ſaying, Behold, Saul is dead, thinking to have brought good tidings, I took hold of him, and ſlew him in Ziklag, who thought that I would have given him a reward for his tidings:

11 How much more, when wicked men have ſlain a righteous perſon in his own houſe upon his bed? ſhall I not therefore now require his blood of your hand, and take you away from the earth?

12 And David commanded his young men, and they ſlew them, and cut off their hands and their feet, and hanged them up over the pool in Hebron. But they took the head of Iſh-boſheth, and buried it in the ſepulchre of Abner in Hebron.

CHAP. V.

1 The tribes come to Hebron to anoint David over Iſrael. 6 He taketh Zion from the Jebuſites.

THEN came all the tribes of Iſrael to David unto Hebron, and ſpake, ſaying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy fleſh:

2 Alſo in time paſt when Saul was king over us, thou waſt he that leddeſt out and broughteſt

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 4 He fell and became lame.] This ſeems to be related to ſhow, what it was that emboldened theſe captains to do what follows: becauſe he, who was the next avenger of blood, was very young, lame, and unable to purſue them. Patrick.

6 They came thither—as though they would have fetched wheat.] The variation in the Septuagint is remarkable: She that kept the door had been cleaning wheat, and was drowſy and ſlept, and the brothers Rechab and Baanah came privily into the houſe, and Iſh-boſheth was aſleep on his bed—and they ſmote him and killed him, and took off his head.

9 David anſwered, &c.] Joſephus introduces David as ſpeaking to them in the following manner: "Wicked wretches, pre"pare yourſelves immediately to receive the juſt reward of your "villainy. You cannot be ignorant that I requited the murder
"of Saul; and am not I ſtill the ſame perſon? do you think "that I can countenance the moſt profligate actions; or that I
"conſider myſelf under the leaſt obligation to you for embruing
"your hands in the blood of your maſter? For baſely aſſaſſinat-
"ing a perſon ſo juſt, that he never did any man wrong; and ſo

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then came all the tribes of Iſrael to David unto Hebron.] i. e. Ambaſſadors were ſent from every tribe.

2 Thou ſhalt feed my people Iſrael.] This is the firſt time we find theſe words recorded in the ſacred writings; though it is natural to ſuppoſe, that Samuel frequently repreſented his office by the name of the paſtor of the people: hence the prophets uſed it frequently to expreſs a king or ruler, and our great Redeemer himſelf is called the good ſhepherd, and the great ſhepherd; i. e. the ruler of his people. And ſurely ſuch rulers as take care of their in Iſrael: and the LORD ſaid to thee, Thou ſhalt feed my people Iſrael, and thou ſhalt be a captain over Iſrael.

3 So all the elders of Iſrael came to the king to Hebron; and king David made a league with them in Hebron before the LORD: and they anointed David king over Iſrael.

4 David was thirty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years.

5 In Hebron he reigned over Judah ſeven years and ſix months: and in Jeruſalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Iſrael and Judah.

6 ¶ And the king and his men went to Jeruſalem, unto the Jebuſites, the inhabitants of the land: which ſpake unto David, ſaying, Except thou take away the blind and the lame, thou ſhalt not come in hither: thinking, David cannot come in hither.

7 Nevertheleſs, David took the ſtrong hold of Zion: the ſame is the city of David.

8 And David ſaid on that day, whoſoever getteth up to the gutter, and ſmiteth the Jebuſites, and the lame and the blind, that are hated of David's ſoul, he ſhall be chief and captain. Wherefore they ſaid, The blind and the lame ſhall not come into the houſe.

9 So David dwelt in the fort, and called it, The city of David. And David built round about, from Millo and inward.

10 And David went on, and grew great, and the LORD God of hoſts was with him.

11 And Hiram king of Tyre ſent meſſengers to David, and cedar-trees, and carpenters, and maſons: and they built David an houſe.

12 And David perceived that the LORD had eſtabliſhed him king over Iſrael, and that he had exalted his kingdom for his people Iſrael's ſake.

13 And David took him more concubines and wives out of Jeruſalem, after he was come from Hebron: and there were yet ſons and daughters born to David.

14 And theſe be the names of thoſe that were born unto him in Jeruſalem; Shammuah, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon,

15 Ibhar alſo, and Eliſhua, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

16 And Eliſhama, and Eliada, and Eliphalet.

17 But when the Philiſtines heard that they had anointed David king over Iſrael, all the Philiſtines came up to ſeek David; and David heard of it, and went down to the hold.

18 The Philiſtines alſo came and ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim.

19 And David enquired of the LORD, ſaying, Shall I go up to the Philiſtines? wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? and the LORD ſaid unto David, Go up: for I will doubtleſs deliver the Philiſtines into thine hand.

20 And David came to Baal-perazim, and David ſmote them there, and ſaid, The LORD hath broken forth upon mine enemies before me, as the breach of waters. Therefore he called the name of that place Baal-perazim.

21 And there they left their images, and David and his men burned them.

22 And the Philiſtines came up yet again, and ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim.

2[illegible]hen David enquired of the LORD, he ſai[illegible]halt not go up: but fetch a their people, like a ſhepherd of his flock, are divine bleſſings, and thence called by Iſaiah, nurſing fathers, Iſa. xlix. 23. Patrick.

6 Except thou take away the blind and the lame, thou ſhalt not come in hither.] As they imagined their fortreſs impregnable, by way of contempt, they told David, the blind and the lame were able to defend it againſt all his forces.

8 Whoſoever getteth up to the gutter.] By the gutter is here meant the ſubterraneous paſſage, or hollow way, through which men could paſs and repaſs for water. As the ingenious and learned Mr. Kennicott, in a long diſſertation on part of this chapter, compared with the 11th chapter of 1 Chron. has given a very rational and authentic verſion of this paſſage, I ſhall favour the reader with the moſt material part of it. "6. And they ſpake unto David, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not come hither; for the blind and the lame ſhall keep thee off, by ſaying, David ſhall not come hither. 7. But David took the ſtrong hold of Sion, wh[illegible] David. 8. And David ſaid on that day, wh[illegible]teth the Jebuſites, and through the ſubterraneous [illegible]eth the blind and the lame, which are hated of Da[illegible] becauſe the blind and the lame continued to ſay, he ſhall not come into this houſe---ſhall be head and captain: ſo Joab the ſon of Zeruiah went up firſt, and was chief captain. 9. And David dwelt in the ſtrong hold---And he built a circuit from Millo, and round to the houſe of Millo. 10. So David waxed greater and greater, &c."

11 Hiram king of Tyre ſent meſſengers to David.] To congratulate him on his ſucceſſion to the throne: Hiram was the general name for the kings of Tyre, and ſignifies, Let him live who is exalted, i. e. Let the king live for ever.

compaſs behind them, and come upon them over againſt the mulberry-trees.

24 And let it be when thou heareſt the ſound of a going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, that then thou ſhalt beſtir thy ſelf: for then ſhall the LORD go out before thee to ſmite the hoſt of the Philiſtines.

25 And David did ſo as the LORD had commanded him; and ſmote the Philiſtines from Geba until thou come to Gazer.

CHAP. VI.

1 David fetcheth the ark from Kirjath-jearim on a new cart. 6 Uzzah is ſmitten. 12 David danceth before the ark. 20 Michal's barrenneſs.

AGain, David gathered together all the choſen men of Iſrael, thirty thouſand.

2 And David aroſe, and went with all the people that were with him, from Baal of Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God, whoſe name is called by the name of The LORD of hoſts, that dwelleth between the cherubims.

3 And they ſet the ark of God upon a new cart, and brought it out of the houſe of Abinadab that was in Gibeah: and Uzzah and Ahio the ſons of Abinadab drave the new cart.

4 And they brought it out of the houſe of Abinadab which was at Gibeah, accompanying the ark of God: and Ahio went before the ark.

5 And David, and all the houſe of Iſrael played before the LORD on all manner of inſtruments made of fir-wood, even on harps, and on pſalteries, and on timbrels, and on cornets, and on cymbals.

6 ¶ And when they came to Nachon's threſhing-floor, Uzzah put forth his hand to the ark of God, and took hold of it: for the oxen ſhook it.

7 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Uzzah: and God ſmote him there for his error; and there he died by the ark of God.

8 And David was diſpleaſed, becauſe the LORD had made a breach upon Uzzah: and he called the name of the place Perez-uzzah to this day.

9 And David was afraid of the LORD that day, and ſaid, How ſhall the ark of the LORD come to me?

10 So David would not remove the ark of the LORD unto him into the city of David: but David carried it aſide into the houſe of Obed-edom the Gittite.

11 And the ark of the LORD continued in the houſe of Obed-edom the Gittite three months: and the LORD bleſſed Obed-edom and all his houſhold.

12 ¶ And it was told king David, ſaying, The LORD hath bleſſed the houſe of Obed-edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, becauſe of the ark of God. So David went and brought up the ark of God from the houſe of Obed-edom into the city of David with gladneſs.

13 And it was ſo, that when they that bare the ark of the LORD had gone ſix paces, he ſacrificed oxen and fatlings.

14 And David danced before the LORD with

---

24 When thou heareſt the ſound of a going in the tops of the mulberry-trees.] This paſſage ſhould not have been tranſlated in the tops, but in the beginnings; i. e. in the very entrance of the place where the mulberry-trees were planted. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Again David gathered together all the choſen men of Iſrael, &c.] Having defeated the Philiſtines, he thought it a proper time to fetch up the ark, and give it a more honourable place. Patrick.

2 From Baal of Judah.] This is the ſame place, which was before called Kirjath-jearim, and in Joſhua xv. 9. Baalah.

7 The anger of the Lord was kindled againſt Uzzah.] There was a very great irregularity in placing the ark upon a cart; which, according to the law of Moſes, ought to have been carried by the prieſts upon their ſhoulders: and this accident made David ſo ſenſible of his error, that he acknowledged it to the prieſts at the next removal of the ark, and cauſed them to bear it upon their ſhoulders to his houſe. Univerſal Hiſtory.

13 When they that bare the ark had gone ſix paces, he ſacrificed, &c.] The moſt rational conſtruction is, that when thoſe who carried the ark had advanced ſix paces without any ſuch token of divine wrath as Uzzah had ſuffered, they offered ſacrifices of thankſgiving to God. Calmet.

14 David danced before the Lord, &c.] He had laid aſide his royal ornaments, and was girded with a ſimple ephod; which was uſed by thoſe who were not prieſts. His moving in certain ſolemn meaſures, ſuited to muſic of the ſame character and tendency, was highly conducive to the purpoſes of piety; and his mixing with the public feſtivities of the people was a condeſcenſion not unbecoming the greateſt monarch. Policy taught Auguſtus to put himſelf upon a level with his ſubjects in their public rejoicings; piety taught David, that all men are upon a level in the ſolemnities of religion. Life of David.

all his might; and David was girded with a linen ephod.

15 So David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouting and with the sound of the trumpet.

16 And as the ark of the LORD came into the city of David, Michal Saul's daughter looked through a window, and saw king David leaping and dancing before the LORD; and she despised him in her heart.

17 And they brought in the ark of the LORD, and set it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had pitched for it: and David offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before the LORD.

18 And as soon as David had made an end of offering burnt-offerings and peace-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD of hosts.

19 And he dealt among all the people even among the whole multitude of Israel, as well to the woman as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine. So all the people departed every one to his house.

20 ¶ Then David returned to bless his household. And Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meet David, and said, How glorious was the king of Israel to day, who uncovered himself to day in the eyes of the handmaids of his servants, as one of the vain fellows shamelessly uncovereth himself!

21 And David said unto Michal, It was before the LORD, which chose me before thy father, and before all his house, to appoint me ruler over the people of the LORD, over Israel: therefore will I play before the LORD.

22 And I will yet be more vile than thus, and will be base in mine own sight: and of the maid-servants which thou hast spoken of, of them shall I be had in honour.

23 Therefore Michal the daughter of Saul had no child until the day of her death.

CHAP. VII.

1 God forbiddeth David to build him an house.
18 His prayer and thanksgiving.

AND it came to pass, when the king sat in his house, and the LORD had given him rest round about from all his enemies;

2 That the king said unto Nathan the prophet, See, now I dwell in an house of cedar, but the ark of God dwelleth within curtains.

3 And Nathan said to the king, Go, do all that is in thine heart: for the LORD is with thee.

4 And it came to pass that night, that the word of the LORD came unto Nathan, saying,

5 Go, and tell my servant David, Thus saith the LORD, Shalt thou build me an house for me to dwell in?

6 Whereas I have not dwelt in any house, since the time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt, even to this day, but have walked in a tent and in a tabernacle.

7 In all the places wherein I have walked with all the children of Israel, spake I a word with any of the tribes of Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people Israel, saying, Why build ye not me an house of cedar?

8 Now therefore, so shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, I took thee from the sheep-cote, from following the sheep, to be ruler over my people, over Israel:

9 And I was with thee whithersoever thou wentest, and have cut off all thine enemies out of thy sight, and have made thee a great name, like unto the name of the great men that are in the earth.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 2 The king said unto Nathan, &c.] This is the first time Nathan is mentioned: he was a man well qualified to deliver the divine will to a prince, being master of great temper, prudence, and fine address; and knew how to mitigate the rigour of his reproofs with great sweetness and wisdom. Calmet.

3 Nathan said to the king, &c.] He spake this as a prudent man, not as a prophet: for the prophets did not see all things, but those only which the Divine Grace revealed unto them. Thus Samuel was ignorant which of Jesse's sons was to be anointed, till God informed him. But Nathan had great reason for what he said, because he knew that the Lord had an extraordinary kindness for David, and prospered him in all his undertakings. And David being also himself a prophet, he might presume his intention was suggested to him from God. Patrick.

5 Shalt thou build me an house for me to dwell in?] That is, Thou shalt not build me an house to dwell in. Probably, upon Nathan's approving his intention, David made that vow, mentioned Psalm cxxxii. 3, 4, 5; Surely I will not go up to my bed, nor give sleep to mine eyes, &c. till I have found out a place for the Lord, an habitation for the mighty God of Jacob.

10 Moreover, I will appoint a place for my people Iſrael: and will plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own, and move no more: neither ſhall the children of wickedneſs afflict them any more, as before-time,

11 And as ſince the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Iſrael, and have cauſed thee to reſt from all thine enemies. Alſo the LORD telleth thee, that he will make thee an houſe.

12 And when thy days be fulfilled, and thou ſhalt ſleep with thy fathers, I will ſet up thy ſeed after thee, which ſhall proceed out of thy bowels, and I will eſtabliſh his kingdom.

13 He ſhall build an houſe for my name, and I will ſtabliſh the throne of his kingdom for ever.

14 I will be his father, and he ſhall be my ſon. If he commit iniquity, I will chaſten him with the rod of men, and with the ſtripes of the children of men:

15 But my mercy ſhall not depart away from him, as I took it from Saul, whom I put away before thee.

16 And thine houſe and thy kingdom ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever before thee: thy throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever.

17 According to all theſe words, and according to all this viſion ſo did Nathan ſpeak unto David.

18 ¶ Then went king David in, and ſat before the LORD, and he ſaid; Who am I, O Lord GOD? and what is my houſe, that thou haſt brought me hitherto?

19 And this was yet a ſmall thing in thy ſight, O Lord GOD; but thou haſt ſpoken alſo of thy ſervant's houſe for a great while to come: and is this the manner of man, O Lord God?

20 And what can David ſay more unto thee? for thou, Lord GOD, knoweſt thy ſervant.

21 For thy word's ſake, and according to thine own heart haſt thou done all theſe great things, to make thy ſervant know them.

22 Wherefore thou art great, O LORD God: for there is none like thee, neither is there any God beſide thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

23 And what one nation in the earth is like thy people, even like Iſrael, whom God went to redeem for a people to himſelf, and to make him a name, and to do for you great things and terrible, for thy land, before thy people, which thou redeemedſt to thee from Egypt, from the nations and their gods?

24 For thou haſt confirmed to thy ſelf thy people Iſrael to be a people unto thee for ever: and thou, LORD, art become their God.

25 And now, O LORD God, the word that thou haſt ſpoken concerning thy ſervant, and concerning his houſe, eſtabliſh it for ever, and do as thou haſt ſaid.

26 And let thy name be magnified for ever, ſaying, The LORD of hoſts is the God of Iſrael: and let the houſe of thy ſervant David be eſtabliſhed before thee.

27 For thou, O LORD of hoſts, God of Iſrael, haſt revealed to thy ſervant, ſaying, I will build thee an houſe: therefore hath thy ſervant found in his heart to pray this prayer unto thee.

28 And now, O LORD God, thou art that God, and thy words be true, and thou haſt promiſed this goodneſs unto thy ſervant:

13 I will eſtabliſh the throne of his kingdom for ever.] Theſe words, in their primitive ſenſe, relate to the terreſtrial kingdom of David's family, and the long duration of it; but in a more ſublime and abſolute ſenſe, they can belong to none but the ſon of David, to whom God the Father gave an eternal kingdom, and of whoſe dominion there ſhall be no end.

14 I will be his father, and he ſhall be my ſon.] This is a mixed prophecy, ſome part of which belongs to Chriſt, and the other to Solomon and his ſucceſſors in the kingdom of Iſrael.

I will chaſten him with the rod of men.] The original text is, old men, i. e. with the gentleneſs of men to the children of their old age.

16 Thy throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever.] This paſſage can properly relate to none but Chriſt; for David's kingdom had an end, but Chriſt's will continue to all eternity.

19 For a great while to come.] The royal prophet magnifies the goodneſs of the Lord, who had not only made him a powerful king, but promiſed that his ſeed for a long ſeries of years, and at laſt, the great Meſſiah ſhould ſit upon his throne. So Abarbinel himſelf expounds theſe words, a great while to come.

23 To make him a name, and to do, &c.] There is a paſſage parallel to this, 1 Chron. xvii. 21, 22. but as there are miſtakes in both copies, Mr. Kennicott has given us what ſeems to be the true text, and this is the verſion of it; To make himſelf a name, and to do for them things great and terrible, to drive out from before thy people (whom thou redeemedſt to thee out of Egypt) the nations and their gods! and thou haſt confirmed to thyſelf thy people Iſrael, to be a people unto thee for ever; for thou, Jehovah, haſt been their God.

29 Therefore now let it pleaſe thee to bleſs the houſe of thy ſervant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O Lord GOD, haſt ſpoken it: and with thy bleſſing let the houſe of thy ſervant be bleſſed for ever.

CHAP. VIII.

1 David ſubdueth the Philiſtines, and the Moabites. 3 He ſmiteth Hadadezer and the Syrians. 16 His officers.

AND after this it came to paſs that David ſmote the Philiſtines, and ſubdued them: and David took Metheg-ammah out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

2 And he ſmote Moab, and meaſured them with a line, caſting them down to the ground; even with two lines meaſured he put to death, and with one full line to keep alive. And ſo the Moabites became David's ſervants, and brought gifts.

3 ¶ David ſmote alſo Hadadezer the ſon of Rehob king of Zobah, as he went to recover his border at the river Euphrates.

4 And David took from him a thouſand chariots, and ſeven hundred horſemen, and twenty thouſand footmen: and David houghed all the chariot-horſes, but reſerved of them for an hundred chariots.

5 And when the Syrians of Damaſcus came to ſuccour Hadadezer king of Zobah, David ſlew of the Syrians two and twenty thouſand men.

6 Then David put garriſons in Syria of Damaſcus: and the Syrians became ſervants to David, and brought gifts. And the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

7 And David took the ſhields of gold that were on the ſervants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jeruſalem.

8 And from Betah and from Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, king David took exceeding much braſs.

9 When Toi king of Hamath heard that David had ſmitten all the hoſt of Hadadezer,

10 Then Toi ſent Joram his ſon unto king David, to ſalute him, and to bleſs him, becauſe he had fought againſt Hadadezer, and ſmitten him: for Hadadezer had wars with Toi. And Joram brought with him veſſels of ſilver, and veſſels of gold, and veſſels of braſs:

11 Which alſo king David did dedicate unto the LORD, with the ſilver and gold that he had dedicated of all nations which he ſubdued;

12 Of Syria, and of Moab, and of the children of Ammon, and of the Philiſtines, and of Amalek, and of the ſpoil of Hadadezer ſon of Rehob king of Zobah.

13 And David gat him a name when he returned from ſmiting of the Syrians, in the valley of ſalt, being eighteen thouſand men.

14 And he put garriſons in Edom; through-

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 David ſmote the Philiſtines, and ſubdued them.] The Philiſtines, at the beginning of David's reign, had twice invaded the territories of Iſrael; but now David invaded their country, and made a conqueſt of it. Patrick.

David took Metheg-ammah.] The corruptions which occur in the hiſtorical books of the Old Teſtament, appear chiefly in the proper names and ſeveral numbers; but as they are not immediately relative to the faith and practice of mankind, they are not very material: this chapter and the 18th of the 1 Chron. which is correſpondent to it, are inſtances of theſe corruptions: this place, Metheg-ammah, in Chron. is called Gath; and ver. 3. Hadadezer, is called Hadarezer.

2 He ſmote Moab, and meaſured them with a line, &c.] This paſſage ſeems to allude to a cuſtom among the monarchs of the Eaſt, when they were thoroughly incenſed againſt any nation, namely, to make all the captives aſſemble in one place, and proſtrate themſelves upon the ground; that, being divided into two parts, as it were with a line, their conqueror might appoint which part he pleaſed either for death or life.

4 Seven hundred horſemen.] In the Septuagint and in the ſimilar chapter of Chron. it is ſeven thouſand horſemen, which is probably the true account.

6 David put garriſons in Syria of Damaſcus.] That part of Syria which lay near Libanus, whoſe chief city was Damaſcus. It was watered by five rivers; the two principal of which, Abana and Pharphar, deſcended from mount Hermon; the former ran through it, dividing the city into two parts; and the latter waſhed its walls. Patrick.

8 Betah and Barothai.] Theſe cities, in 1 Chron. xviii. 18. are called Tibbath and Chun.

9 When Toi king of Hamath, &c.] This city was alſo in Syria, and called afterwards Epiphania, according to St. Jerom, and lay north of Judea. Patrick.

13 David gat him a name.] Erected a trophy as a monument of the victory. Pilkington's Remarks.

In the valley of ſalt.] The valley of Salt lay near the Dead, or Salt-ſea: but as the country of the Edomites, whom David ſubdued in his return from his expedition into Syria, muſt neceſſarily lie on the coaſt of Canaan, we muſt look for ſome other valley of ſalt in the confines of that country. The readings of this verſe are ſo various, ſo different from the paſſage in 1 Chron. xviii. 12, 13. and the 60th Pſalm, which all refer to the ſame battle, that till the text is ſettled, it will be to no purpoſe to look for the valley of ſalt.

out all Edom put he garrisons, and all they of Edom became David's servants. And the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went.

15 And David reigned over all Israel, and David executed judgement and justice unto all his people.

16 ¶ And Joab the son of Zeruiah was over the host; and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was recorder;

17 And Zadok the son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, were the priests; and Seriah was the scribe;

18 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over both the Cherethites, and the Pelethites; and David's sons were chief rulers.

CHAP. IX.

1 David sendeth for Mephibosheth, 7 and for Jonathan's sake restoreth him.

AND David said, Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul, that I may shew him kindness for Jonathan's sake?

2 And there was of the house of Saul a servant whose name was Ziba. And when they had called him unto David, the king said unto him, Art thou Ziba? and he said, Thy servant is he.

3 And the king said, Is there not yet any of the house of Saul, that I may shew the kindness of God unto him? and Ziba said unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a son, which is lame on his feet.

4 And the king said unto him, Where is he? and Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he is in the house of Machir the son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.

5 Then king David sent, and fetched him out of the house of Machir the son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar.

6 Now when Mephibosheth the son of Jonathan the son of Saul, was come unto David, he fell on his face, and did reverence. And David said, Mephibosheth. And he answered, Behold thy servant.

7 ¶ And David said unto him, Fear not: for I will surely shew thee kindness, for Jonathan thy father's sake, and will restore thee all the land of Saul thy father: and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually.

8 And he bowed himself, and said, What is thy servant, that thou shouldest look upon such a dead dog as I am?

9 Then the king called to Ziba, Saul's servant, and said unto him, I have given unto thy master's son all that pertained to Saul, and to all his house.

10 Thou therefore and thy sons and thy servants shall till the land for him, and thou shalt bring in the fruits, that thy master's son may have food to eat: but Mephibosheth thy master's son shall eat bread alway at my table. Now Ziba had fifteen sons, and twenty servants.

11 Then said Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his servant, so shall thy servant do. As for Mephibosheth, said the king, he shall eat at my table, as one of the king's sons.

12 And Mephibosheth had a young son, whose name was Micha. And all that dwelt in the house of Ziba were servants unto Mephibosheth.

17 Abimelech the son of Abiathar.] Bos says, here is a mistake of the scribes, for Ahimelech was not Abiathar's son, but Abiathar was Ahimelech's son.

18 The Cherethites and the Pelethites.] The very learned and ingenious Dr. Pearce, the present bishop of Rochester, who has distinguished himself as one of the best critics of the age, gives the following account of the Cherethites and Pelethites. "They were not, says he, as some have thought, Philistines, but men of David's own tribe of Judah, whom he had caused to be trained as archers and shield-bearers, after the manner of the Cherethites and Pelethites, who were originally Philistines, inhabitants of Phœnicia: probably they derived their name, which may be rendered Chretites or Cretites, from some town where the use of bows and arrows first began, or from some Phœnician word, now unknown, which had relation to the use of bows and arrows: the Pelethites or Pelites, might derive their name from some Phœnician word, signifying a buckler, or shield, and from them the Greeks, borrowing the thing, borrowed the name also, calling it πελτη, a buckler, and the men so armed πελταται. The reason on which these conjectures are founded, is, that we are told, 2 Sam. xxiii. 20. that Jehoiada the father of Benaiah, who commanded these troops, was of Kabzeel, which was one of the cities of Judah, Josh. xv. 21.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul.] Having ended his wars, he considers what private obligations he was under, especially to the house of Saul, and particularly to Jonathan.

3 A son which is lame.] See chap. iv. 4.

12 All that dwelt in the house of Ziba, were servants unto Mephibosheth.] Consequently accountable to him for all they received out of the produce of the estate, which therefore was settled upon Mephibosheth. Patrick.

Notes

13 So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem: for he did eat continually at the king's table; and was lame on both his feet.

CHAP. X.

1 David's messengers sent to comfort Hanun, are villainously intreated. 6, 15 The Ammonites and Syrians are overcome.

AND it came to pass after this, that the king of the children of Ammon died, and Hanun his son reigned in his stead.

2 Then said David, I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, as his father shewed kindness unto me. And David sent to comfort him by the hand of his servants, for his father. And David's servants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said unto Hanun their lord, Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? hath not David rather sent his servants unto thee to search the city, and to spy it out, and to overthrow it?

4 Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved off the one half of their beards, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 When they told it unto David, he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed. And the king said, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they stank before David, the children of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba, twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah a thousand men, and of Ish-tob twelve thousand men.

7 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array at the entering-in of the gate: and the Syrians of Zoba and of Rehob, and Ish-tob, and Maacah were by themselves in the field.

9 When Joab saw that the front of the battle was against him before and behind, he chose of all the choice men of Israel, and put them in array against the Syrians.

10 And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might put them in array against the children of Ammon.

11 And he said, If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will come and help thee.

12 Be of good courage, and let us play the men for our people and for the cities of our God: and the LORD do that which seemeth him good.

13 And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, unto the battle against the Syrians: and they fled before him.

14 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, then fled they also before Abishai, and entered into the city. So Joab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Jerusalem.

15 ¶ And when the Syrians saw that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselves together.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 2 I will shew kindness unto Hanun---as his father shewed kindness unto me.] David was always remarkable for his gratitude and compassion. He remembered the ancient kindness of Nahash, and pitied his son, who had lost so worthy a father. What particular benefits David had received from Nahash, the scripture has not informed us. The most probable opinion is, that, being a bitter enemy to Saul, he became a friend to David; and, perceiving how cruelly he was persecuted by Saul, he sent him relief and assistance, and perhaps offered him protection in his kingdom. Patrick.

4 Shaved off the one half of their beards, and cut off their garments, &c.] To use them in such a disgraceful manner, sufficiently indicated his cruel disposition; this being one of the greatest indignities that the malice of man could invent: for, in these eastern countries, the people considered their hair as so great an ornament, that some would rather have submitted to die than part with it; and the addition of cutting off their garments, even to the middle, whereby he exposed their nakedness, rendered the whole such a brutal and shameless insult, as could not fail of provoking, in the highest degree, a man of David's martial spirit, and just sentiments of honour. Patrick and Calmet.

6 Sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob.] They knew David would highly resent the barbarous usage of his ambassadors; and distrusting their own strength, they hired auxiliaries, particularly those of Beth-rehob, a city belonging to the Canaanites, rather than the Syrians: it stood in the tribe of Ashur, but the Canaanites kept possession of it.

Maacah.] A city of Palestine, beyond Jordan, and situated in the tribe of Manasseh. The inhabitants of this city, as well as those of Beth-rehob, were called Syrians, because they imitated their manners. Patrick.

Ish-tob] Rather, Tob, the country whither Jephthah fled from he cruely of his brethren, Judg. xi. 3.

16 And Hadarezer ſent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the river: and they came to Helam; and Shobach the captain of the hoſt of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And when it was told David, he gathered all Iſrael together, and paſſed over Jordan, and came to Helam. And the Syrians ſet themſelves in array againſt David, and fought with him.

18 And the Syrians fled before Iſrael; and David ſlew the men of ſeven hundred chariots of the Syrians, and forty thouſand horſemen, and ſmote Shobach the captain of their hoſt, who died there.

19 And when all the kings that were ſervants to Hadarezer ſaw that they were ſmitten before Iſrael, they made peace with Iſrael, and ſerved them. So the Syrians feared to help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAP. XI.

1 Joab beſiegeth Rabbah. 2 David committeth adultery with Bath-ſheba. 6 Uriah is ſlain. 26 David taketh Bath-ſheba to wife.

AND it came to paſs, after the year was expired, at the time when kings go forth to battle, that David ſent Joab and his ſervants with him, and all Iſrael: and they deſtroyed the children of Ammon, and beſieged Rabbah. But David tarried ſtill at Jeruſalem.

2 ¶ And it came to paſs in an evening-tide, that David aroſe from off his bed, and walked upon the roof of the king's houſe: and from the roof he ſaw a woman waſhing herſelf; and the woman was very beautiful to look upon.

3 And David ſent and enquired after the woman. And one ſaid, Is not this Bath-ſheba the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite?

4 And David ſent meſſengers and took her. And ſhe came in unto him, and he lay with her, (for ſhe was purified from her uncleanneſs) and ſhe returned unto her houſe.

5 And the woman conceived, and ſent and told David, and ſaid, I am with child.

6 ¶ And David ſent to Joab, ſaying, Send me Uriah the Hittite. And Joab ſent Uriah to David.

7 And when Uriah was come unto him, David demanded of him how Joab did, and how the people did, and how the war proſpered.

8 And David ſaid to Uriah, Go down to thy houſe, and waſh thy feet. And Uriah departed out of the king's houſe, and there followed him a meſs of meat from the king.

9 But Uriah ſlept at the door of the king's houſe, with all the ſervants of his lord, and went not down to his houſe.

10 And when they had told David, ſaying, Uriah went not down to his houſe, David ſaid unto Uriah, Cameſt thou not from thy journey? why then didſt thou not go down unto thine houſe?

11 And Uriah ſaid unto David, The ark, and Iſrael, and Judah abide in tents; and my lord Joab and the ſervants of my lord are en-

16 Beyond the river.] Beyond the Euphrates.

18 David ſlew the men of ſeven hundred chariots, &c.] Here is another confuſed account; the Syriac and Arabic verſions read, ſeven hundred chariots and four thouſand horſemen, which is far the moſt probable account. Pilkington.

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 When the year was expired.] At the return of the year, i. e. in the ſpring.

2 Walked upon the roof of the houſe.] See note on 1 Sam. ix. 25.

3 Is not this Bath-ſheba---the wife of Uriah the Hittite?] Theſe words ſeem to be ſpoken by the perſon who was ſent to enquire after her, that he need not trouble himſelf any farther; for ſhe was another man's wife. Her huſband was called a Hittite, either becauſe he was of that nation, and a proſelyte to the Jewiſh religion, or for ſome gallant action he had performed againſt the Hittites. Univerſal Hiſtory.

4 David ſent meſſengers, and took her.] Notwithſtanding ſhe was another man's wife: this was a deliberate, and therefore a very heinous offence.

5 The woman conceived, &c.] She was afraid of being branded with infamy, and, perhaps, of the ſeverity of her huſband, who might cauſe her to be ſtoned; and therefore prays David to conſult her honour and ſafety. Patrick.

8 Go down to thine houſe.] Go and feaſt with thy wife, (for which purpoſe a meſs of meat followed him from the king) and indulge thyſelf in her company. Hitherto David's intention was, neither to murder Uriah, nor marry his wife; but only to ſcreen her honour and his own crime. Calmet.

9 Uriah ſlept at the door of the king's houſe.] Probably Uriah ſuſpected ſomething of his wife's crime, and reſolving that it ſhould be diſcovered, would not go down to his houſe: if he did, he certainly acted the part of a truſty ſervant, when he would not open the king's letter, which, if he really ſuſpected his criminal commerce with his wife, he muſt needs conclude could portend no good to himſelf.

11 Shall I then go into mine houſe.] This ſpeech, one would think, muſt cauſe David to reflect how greatly he had abuſed ſo brave a man, who refuſed the moſt innocent pleaſures for the ſervice of his country. Patrick.

camped in the open fields; ſhall I then go into mine houſe, to eat and to drink, and to lie with my wife? as thou liveſt, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not do this thing.

12 And David ſaid to Uriah, Tarry here to-day alſo, and to-morrow I will let thee depart. So Uriah abode in Jeruſalem that day and the morrow.

13 And when David had called him, he did eat and drink before him; and he made him drunk: and at even he went out to lie on his bed with the ſervants of his lord, but went not down to his houſe.

14 And it came to paſs in the morning, that David wrote a letter to Joab, and ſent it by the hand of Uriah.

15 And he wrote in the letter, ſaying, Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the hotteſt battle, and retire ye from him, that he may be ſmitten, and die.

16 And it came to paſs when Joab obſerved the city, that he aſſigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were.

17 And the men of the city went out, and fought with Joab: and there fell ſome of the people of the ſervants of David, and Uriah the Hittite died alſo.

18 Then Joab ſent and told David all the things concerning the war;

19 And charged the meſſenger, ſaying, When thou haſt made an end of telling the matters of the war unto the king,

20 And if ſo be that the king's wrath ariſe, and he ſay unto thee, Wherefore approached ye ſo nigh unto the city when ye did fight? knew ye not that they would ſhoot from the wall?

21 Who ſmote Abimelech the ſon of Jerubbeſheth? did not a woman caſt a piece of a millſtone upon him from the wall that he died in Thebez? why went ye nigh the wall? then ſay thou, Thy ſervant Uriah the Hittite is dead alſo.

22 So the meſſenger went, and came and ſhewed David all that Joab had ſent him for.

23 And the meſſenger ſaid unto David, Surely the men prevailed againſt us, and came out unto us into the field, and we were upon them even unto the entering of the gate.

24 And the ſhooters ſhot from off the wall upon thy ſervants; and ſome of the king's ſervants be dead; and thy ſervant Uriah the Hittite is dead alſo.

25 Then David ſaid unto the meſſenger, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto Joab, Let not this thing diſpleaſe thee; for the ſword devoureth one as well as another: make thy battle more ſtrong againſt the city, and overthrow it; and encourage thou him.

26 ¶ And when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her huſband was dead, ſhe mourned for her huſband.

27 And when the mourning was paſt, David ſent and fetched her to his houſe, and ſhe became his wife, and bare him a ſon. But the thing that David had done diſpleaſed the LORD.

CHAP. XII.

1 Nathan's parable. 7 David confeſſeth his ſin, and is pardoned. 24 Solomon is born. 26 Rabbah is taken.

AND the LORD ſent Nathan unto David. And he came unto him, and ſaid unto 15 Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the hotteſt battle, &c.] Hence we ſee how naturally one ſin leads to another, and therefore how careful we ought to be in checking the firſt paſſion; for, if we once ſuffer ourſelves to deviate from the paths of virtue, we ſhall find it very difficult to return. Theſe and ſeveral other particulars, which aggravate David's crime, are recorded by the ſacred hiſtorian for our inſtruction, to teach us the frailty of human nature, and how liable the beſt of men are, in ſome inſtances of their lives, to commit the worſt of ſins; to ſhew us the natural gradation from one ſin to another; and that, if we once ſuffer our appetites to gain the aſcendant, it will ſoon be out of our power to preſcribe them any bounds: to caution us againſt indulging any inordinate paſſion, or gazing on any object that might endanger our innocence; to remind us all, how greatly we want the Divine Aſſiſtance, and therefore how much we are concerned to pray that we may not be led into temptation.

26 She mourned for her huſband.] There is no expreſs precept in the law, ſignifying how long widows were to mourn for their huſbands; the uſual time was no more than ſeven days, and we cannot ſuppoſe Bath-ſheba mourned much longer.

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 There were two men in one city; the one rich, and the other poor.] This was a prudent and reſpectful method of awakening the conſcience of David, by an appoſite parable; which was ſo properly managed, that the prophet did not condemn David, but made him condemn himſelf.

him, There were two men in one city; the one rich, and the other poor.

2 The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds:

3 But the poor man had nothing ſave one little ew-lamb, which he had bought and nouriſhed up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children; it did eat of his own meat, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his boſom, and was unto him as a daughter.

4 And there came a traveller unto the rich man, and he ſpared to take of his own flock and of his own herd to dreſs for the wayfaring man that was come unto him, but took the poor man's lamb, and dreſſed it for the man that was come to him.

5 And David's anger was greatly kindled againſt the man; and he ſaid to Nathan, As the LORD liveth, the man that hath done this thing ſhall ſurely die.

6 And he ſhall reſtore the lamb fourfold, becauſe he did this thing, and becauſe he had no pity.

7 ¶ And Nathan ſaid to David, Thou art the man. Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael; I anointed thee king over Iſrael, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul:

8 And I gave thee thy maſter's houſe, and thy maſter's wives into thy boſom, and gave thee the houſe of Iſrael and of Judah: and if that had been too little, I would moreover have given unto thee ſuch and ſuch things.

9 Wherefore haſt thou deſpiſed the commandment of the LORD, to do evil in his ſight? thou haſt killed Uriah the Hittite with the ſword, and haſt taken his wife to be thy wife, and haſt ſlain him with the ſword of the children of Ammon.

10 Now therefore the ſword ſhall never depart from thine houſe; becauſe thou haſt deſpiſed me, and haſt taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

11 Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will raiſe up evil againſt thee out of thine own houſe, and I will take thy wives before thine eyes, and give them unto thy neighbour, and he ſhall lie with thy wives in the ſight of this ſun.

12 For thou didſt it ſecretly: but I will do this thing before all Iſrael, and before the ſun.

13 And David ſaid unto Nathan, I have ſinned againſt the LORD. And Nathan ſaid unto David, The LORD alſo hath put away thy ſin: thou ſhalt not die.

---

2 The rich man had many flocks and herds.] David had many wives and concubines, with whom he might have been ſatisfied, without violating another's bed.

3 The poor man had nothing ſave one ewe-lamb.] Uriah had but one wife, with whom he was entirely happy, and ſhe with him, till David's temptation perverted her mind.

4 There came a traveller unto the rich man.] This may be applied to David's wandering affection, which he ſuffered to range from his own houſe, and to covet another's wife. The Jewiſh rabbins ſay it repreſents the evil diſpoſition that is in us, which muſt be diligently watched when we feel its motions: for they have this ingenious obſervation, "In the beginning it is only "a traveller; but in time it becomes a gueſt; and, at laſt, the "maſter of the houſe." Patrick.

But took the poor man's lamb, &c.] The prophet, in this parable, does not mention the murder of Uriah, as that was committed to conceal the adultery. This would have made the reſemblance more complete; but if it had been mentioned, David would have readily apprehended Nathan's meaning, and conſequently not have pronounced a ſentence of condemnation upon himſelf: whereupon Nathan had a proper opportunity to ſhew, that if the rich man deſerved death for this unjuſt action, how much more he deſerved it, who had not only taken another man's wife, but alſo cauſed him to be ſlain by the enemies of Iſrael! Patrick.

5, 6 The man that hath done this thing, ſhall ſurely die. And he ſhall reſtore the lamb four-fold, becauſe, &c.] Puniſhments are ſometimes, for the great atrocity of the crime, extended beyond the law. David condemned the perſon who took away the lamb to pay four-fold, according to the law: and denounced ſentence of death againſt him, becauſe he had no pity. The Jews obſerve that the ſentence was ominous, the ſame number of David's children periſhing as the rich man was ordered to reſtore lambs; namely, the child he had by Bath-ſheba, Amnon, Abſalom, and Adonijah. Patrick.

7 Nathan ſaid to David, Thou art the man.] Thou art the criminal, and thou art the judge, and haſt pronounced a dreadful ſentence againſt thyſelf.

8 I gave thee thy maſter's wives into thy boſom.] The wives of a king went with his goods and houſes to his ſucceſſor. But there is no reaſon for tranſlating the Hebrew word, wives; for it ſignifies alſo women in general.

10 The ſword ſhall never depart from thine houſe.] i. e. As long as he lived there ſhould be ſlaughters in his family.

11 I will raiſe up evil againſt thee out of thine own houſe.] This was notoriouſly fulfilled in Abſalom's conſpiracy againſt him. Such ſcripture phraſes as theſe do not mean, that God either does, or can do evil himſelf, but only that he permits that evil to be done, which he foreſaw would be done, but might have been prevented, had he pleaſed. The word here tranſlated evil, ſignifies affliction or misfortune. Le Clerc.

13 I have ſinned againſt the Lord.] This confeſſion was made in a few words; but doubtleſs with many ſighs, tears, great compunction and contrition of heart. Patrick.

The Lord alſo hath put away thy ſin; thou ſhalt not die.] He was guilty of death upon a double account; as an adulterer, and as a murderer. But, upon his repentance, the prophet pronounces an abſolution on him ſo far, that he ſhould be pardoned

14 Howbeit, becauſe by this deed thou haſt given great occaſion to the enemies of the LORD to blaſpheme, the child alſo that is born unto thee ſhall ſurely die.

15 And Nathan departed unto his houſe. And the LORD ſtruck the child that Uriah's wife bare unto David, and it was very ſick.

16 David therefore beſought God for the child; and David faſted, and went in, and lay all night upon the earth.

17 And the elders of his houſe aroſe, and went to him, to raiſe him up from the earth: but he would not, neither did he eat bread with them.

18 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day that the child died. And the ſervants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead: for they ſaid, Behold, while the child was yet alive we ſpake unto him, and he would not hearken unto our voice: how will he then vex himſelf, if we tell him that the child is dead?

19 But when David ſaw that his ſervants whiſpered, David perceived that the child was dead: therefore David ſaid unto his ſervants, Is the child dead? and they ſaid, He is dead.

20 Then David aroſe from the earth, and waſhed, and anointed himſelf, and changed his apparel, and came into the houſe of the LORD, and worſhipped: then he came to his own houſe; and when he required, they ſet bread before him, and he did eat.

21 Then ſaid his ſervants unto him, What thing is this that thou haſt done? thou didſt faſt and weep for the child while it was alive; but when the child was dead, thou didſt riſe and eat bread.

22 And he ſaid, While the child was yet alive, I faſted and wept: for I ſaid, Who can tell whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live?

23 But now he is dead, wherefore ſhould I faſt? can I bring him back again? I ſhall go to him, but he ſhall not return to me.

24 ¶ And David comforted Bath-ſheba his wife, and went in unto her, and lay with her: and ſhe bare a ſon, and he called his name Solomon: and the LORD loved him.

25 And he ſent by the hand of Nathan the prophet; and he called his name Jedidiah, becauſe of the LORD.

26 ¶ And Joab fought againſt Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and took the royal city.

27 And Joab ſent meſſengers to David, and ſaid, I have fought againſt Rabbah, and have taken the city of waters.

28 Now therefore gather the reſt of the people together, and encamp againſt the city, and take it: leſt I take the city, and it be called after my name.

29 And David gathered all the people together, and went to Rabbah, and fought againſt it, and took it.

30 And he took their king's crown from off his head; the weight whereof was a talent of gold, with the precious ſtones: and it was ſet on David's head. And he brought forth the ſpoil of the city in great abundance.

doned the guilt, and part of the puniſhment: i. e. he ſhould not periſh eternally, nor here ſuffer the death he ſo juſtly deſerved. Patrick.

14 The child that is born unto thee ſhall ſurely die.] One cannot here help obſerving, how bewitching ſenſual pleaſures are; for David continued many months inſenſible of the crimes he had been guilty of, the child begotten in adultery being born before Nathan came to rouze him from his lethargy. Patrick.

16 David faſted, and went in, and lay all night upon the earth.] He put off the purple robes of royalty, threw away his ornaments, laid aſide his diadem, ſtripped himſelf entirely of his kingly power, and appeared as a penitent, in an humble garb, faſting, lying on the ground, confeſſing, mourning, repenting, deprecating, &c. and yet, with all this humiliation and compunction, he could not obtain a revocation of his ſentence. Salvian.

18 The child died.] It may ſeem ſtrange, that David ſhould pray ſo earneſtly to God to ſpare the life of a child, who, had he lived, would have been a laſting monument of the guilt and infamy of his parents: but it muſt be aſcribed to his exceſſive fondneſs for Bath-ſheba, which made him forget every thing in this child, but that motive of endearment. Beſides, there is ſomething in human nature, which prompts us to rate things after a manner ſeemingly unaccountable; and to eſtimate them, not according to their real value, but according to the expence, or trouble, or even the diſtreſs they coſt us. Nor ſhould it be forgot, that this exceſſive mourning did not proceed ſo much from the fear of loſing the child, as from a deep ſenſe of his ſin, and of God's diſpleaſure manifeſted in the child's ſickneſs. Poole.

20 Came into the houſe of the Lord, and worſhipped.] This was done like a truly good man, who, before he would go to his houſe, went into the temple of the Lord, and there gave thanks to the omnipotent Being for the pardon of his ſin, and his goodneſs in not cutting him off, as he had done his child.

24 Solomon.] The word ſignifies peace, intimating that his reign ſhould be peaceable.

30 The weight whereof was a talent of gold.] Rather, the value of 31 And he brought forth the people that were therein, and put them under ſaws, and under harrows of iron, and under axes of iron, and made them paſs through the brick-kiln: and thus did he unto all the cities of the children of Ammon. So David and all the people returned unto Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Amnon loving Tamar, raviſheth her. 15
He hateth her, and turneth her away. 23
Abſalom killeth Amnon, 37 and fleeth.

AND it came to paſs after this, that Abſalom the ſon of David had a fair ſiſter whoſe name was Tamar, and Amnon the ſon of David loved her.

2 And Amnon was ſo vexed, that he fell ſick for his ſiſter Tamar: for ſhe was a virgin; and Amnon thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.

3 But Amnon had a friend whoſe name was Jonadab, the ſon of Shimeah David's brother: and Jonadab was a very ſubtil man.

4 And he ſaid unto him, Why art thou, being the king's ſon, lean from day to day? wilt thou not tell me? And Amnon ſaid unto him, I love Tamar, my brother Abſalom's ſiſter.

5 And Jonadab ſaid unto him, Lay thee down on thy bed, and make thy ſelf ſick. And when thy father cometh to ſee thee, ſay unto him, I pray thee, let my ſiſter Tamar come, and give me meat, and dreſs the meat in my ſight, that I may ſee it, and eat it at her hand.

6 So Amnon lay down, and made himſelf ſick. And when the king was come to ſee him, Amnon ſaid unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my ſiſter come, and make me a couple of cakes in my ſight, that I may eat at her hand.

7 Then David ſent home to Tamar, ſaying, Go now to thy brother Amnon's houſe, and dreſs him meat.

8 So Tamar went to her brother Amnon's houſe; and he was laid down. And ſhe took flour, and kneaded it, and made cakes in his ſight, and did bake the cakes.

9 And ſhe took a pan and poured them out before him; but he refuſed to eat. And Amnon ſaid, Have out all men from me. And they went out every man from him.

10 And Amnon ſaid unto Tamar, Bring the meat into the chamber, that I may eat at thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes which ſhe had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.

11 And when ſhe had brought them unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and ſaid unto her, Come lie with me, my ſiſter.

12 And ſhe anſwered him, Nay; my brother, do not force me: for no ſuch thing ought to be done in Iſrael: do not thou this folly.

13 And I, whither ſhall I cauſe my ſhame to go? and as for thee, thou ſhalt be as one of the fools in Iſrael. Now therefore, I pray thee, of it, as the Hebrew frequently ſignifies. It is neceſſary to underſtand it in that ſenſe here; for no perſon was able to wear on his head a crown of a talent weight, which was equal to 125 pounds. It might be tranſlated, the value of the crown, with the precious ſtones, amounted to a talent of gold; worth of our money, according to Arbuthnot, 5475 pounds ſterling.

31 He brought forth the people—and put them under ſaws, &c.] Theſe were the puniſhments which the Ammonites inflicted upon the Hebrews, whenever they took them priſoners; and therefore David, when he conquered their country, and reduced their capital city, uſed them with the like cruelty: for an inſtance of the barbarity of the Ammonites, ſee 1 Sam. xi. 2.

Notes on the Thirteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Abſalom the ſon of David had a fair ſiſter, whoſe name was Tamar.] A ſad ſcene now began to be opened, of the calamities which Nathan told David ſhould befal his houſe. This princeſs's mother was the daughter of the king of Geſhur, whom David had taken captive, and afterwards married.

2 For ſhe was a virgin.] Virgins of the blood-royal were kept in private apartments, ſeparate from the commerce of men: and though on ſome ceremonial occaſions they were permitted to ſhew themſelves, yet conſidering their cloſe confinement, it was hardly poſſible for Amnon to find an opportunity of declaring, much leſs of gratifying his paſſion: ſo that he might well think it hard to do any thing to her, i. e. difficult to compaſs his ends.

12 Nay; my brother, do not force me.] Tamar's ſpeech is wonderfully pathetic; Nay, my brother, &c. She reminds him of his relation to her, which ſhe hoped would influence him not to touch her, much leſs to offer violence to her, which was abominable even to a ſtranger. Do not this folly: ſhe prays him to recollect the heinouſneſs of the crime, and how highly offenſive it would be to God. Whither ſhall I go? Beſides the ſin againſt God, ſhe begs that he would conſider what diſgrace it would bring upon her. Thou ſhalt be as one of the fools in Iſrael. Such a vile action, ſhe concludes, would tarniſh his fame for ever, and make him looked upon as a man void of ſenſe, religion, honour, and even humanity. Patrick.

13 Speak unto the king; for he will not with-hold me from thee.] She was not ignorant that the Jewiſh law prohibited ſuch inceſtuous marriages; but perhaps ſaid any thing to pleaſe him, in order to eſcape for the preſent out of his hands.

ſpeak unto the king: for he will not with-hold me from thee.

14 Howbeit, he would not hearken unto her voice; but being ſtronger than ſhe, forced her, and lay with her.

15 ¶ Then Amnon hated her exceedingly; ſo that the hatred wherewith he hated her was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her. And Amnon ſaid unto her, Ariſe, be gone.

16 And ſhe ſaid unto him, There is no cauſe: this evil in ſending me away is greater than the other that thou didſt unto me. But he would not hearken unto her.

17 Then he called his ſervant that miniſtred unto him, and ſaid, Put now this woman out from me, and bolt the door after her.

18 And ſhe had a garment of divers colours upon her; for with ſuch robes were the king's daughters that were virgins apparelled. Then his ſervant brought her out, and bolted the door after her.

19 And Tamar put aſhes on her head, and rent her garment of divers colours that was on her, and laid her hand on her head, and went on crying.

20 And Abſalom her brother ſaid unto her, Hath Amnon thy brother been with thee? but hold now thy peace, my ſiſter: he is thy brother: regard not this thing. So Tamar remained deſolate in her brother Abſalom's houſe.

21 But when king David heard of all theſe things, he was very wroth.

22 And Abſalom ſpake unto his brother Amnon neither good nor bad: for Abſalom hated Amnon, becauſe he had forced his ſiſter Tamar.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs after two full years, that Abſalom had ſheep-ſhearers in Baal-hazor, which is beſide Ephraim: and Abſalom invited all the king's ſons.

24 And Abſalom came to the king, and ſaid, Behold now, thy ſervant hath ſheep-ſhearers; let the king, I beſeech thee, and his ſervants go with thy ſervant.

25 And the king ſaid to Abſalom, Nay, my ſon, let us not all now go, leſt we be chargeable unto thee. And he preſſed him: howbeit he would not go, but bleſſed him.

26 Then ſaid Abſalom, If not, I pray thee let my brother Amnon go with us. And the king ſaid unto him, Why ſhould he go with thee?

27 But Abſalom preſſed him, that he let Amnon and all the king's ſons go with him.

28 Now Abſalom had commanded his ſervants, ſaying, Mark ye now when Amnon's heart is merry with wine, and when I ſay unto you, Smite Amnon; then kill him, fear not: have not I commanded you? be couragious, and be valiant.

29 And the ſervants of Abſalom did unto Amnon as Abſalom had commanded. Then all the king's ſons aroſe, and every man gat him up upon his mule, and fled.

30 And it came to paſs while they were in the way that tidings came to David, ſaying, Abſalom hath ſlain all the king's ſons, and there is not one of them left.

31 Then the king aroſe, and tare his garments, and lay on the earth; and all his ſervants ſtood by with their clothes rent.

32 And Jonadab the ſon of Shimeah David's brother anſwered and ſaid, Let not my lord ſuppoſe that they have ſlain all the young men the king's ſons; for Amnon only is dead: for by the appointment of Abſalom this hath been determined from the day that he forced his ſiſter Tamar.

33 Now therefore let not my lord the king take the thing to his heart, to think that all the king's ſons are dead: for Amnon only is dead.

34 But Abſalom fled. And the young man

15 Amnon hated her exceedingly, &c.] It is no uncommon thing for men of violent and irregular paſſions, to paſs from one extreme to another. He hated his ſiſter, when he ſhould have hated himſelf; and as this outrageous treatment of her made it impoſſible for his guilt to be concealed, ſo God ſeems to have abandoned him to the tumult of his intemperate mind, on purpoſe to make this puniſhment of David's adultery more flagrant, and the prophet's prediction of raiſing up evil out of his own houſe, the more conſpicuous.

19 Tamar put aſhes on her head, and rent her garment.] See note on 1 Sam. iv. 12. Thus Achilles expreſſes his grief, Iliad 18.

Caſt on the ground, with furious hands he ſpread
The ſcorching aſhes o'er his graceful head;
His purple garments, and his golden hairs,
Thoſe he deforms with duſt, and theſe with tears. Pope.

that kept the watch lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there came much people by the way of the hill-ſide behind him.

35 And Jonadab ſaid unto the king, Behold, the king's ſons come: as thy ſervant ſaid, ſo it is.

36 And it came to paſs as ſoon as he had made an end of ſpeaking, that behold, the king's ſons came, and lift up their voice and wept. And the king alſo and all his ſervants wept very ſore.

37 ¶ But Abſalom fled, and went to Talmai the ſon of Ammihud king of Geſhur. And David mourned for his ſon every day.

38 So Abſalom fled, and went to Geſhur, and was there three years.

39 And the ſoul of king David longed to go forth unto Abſalom: for he was comforted concerning Amnon, ſeeing he was dead.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Joab, ſuborning a widow of Tekoah to incline the king's heart to fetch home Abſalom, 21 bringeth him to Jeruſalem.

NOW Joab the ſon of Zeruiah perceived that the king's heart was toward Abſalom.

2 And Joab ſent to Tekoah, and fetched thence a wiſe woman, and ſaid unto her, I pray thee, feign thy ſelf to be a mourner, and put on now mourning apparel, and anoint not thyſelf with oil, but be as a woman that had a long time mourned for the dead:

3 And come to the king, and ſpeak on this manner unto him. So Joab put the words in her mouth.

4 And when the woman of Tekoah ſpake to the king, ſhe fell on her face to the ground, and did obeiſance, and ſaid, Help, O king.

5 And the king ſaid unto her, What aileth thee? and ſhe anſwered, I am indeed a widow woman, and mine huſband is dead.

6 And thy handmaid had two ſons, and they two ſtrove together in the field, and there was none to part them, but the one ſmote the other, and ſlew him.

7 And behold, the whole family is riſen againſt thine handmaid, and they ſaid, Deliver him that ſmote his brother, that we may kill him for the life of his brother whom he ſlew; and we will deſtroy the heir alſo: and ſo they ſhall quench my coal which is left, and ſhall not leave to my huſband neither name nor remainder upon the earth.

8 And the king ſaid unto the woman, Go to thine houſe, and I will give charge concerning thee.

9 And the woman of Tekoah ſaid unto the king, My lord O king, the iniquity be on me, and on my father's houſe: and the king and his throne be guiltleſs.

10 And the king ſaid, Whoſoever ſaith ought unto thee, bring him to me, and he ſhall not touch thee any more.

11 Then ſaid ſhe, I pray thee, let the king remember the LORD thy God, that thou wouldeſt not ſuffer the revengers of blood to deſtroy any more, leſt they deſtroy my ſon. And he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, there ſhall not one hair of thy ſon fall to the earth.

12 Then the woman ſaid, Let thine handmaid, I pray thee, ſpeak one word unto my lord the king. And he ſaid, Say on.

13 And the woman ſaid, Wherefore then haſt thou thought ſuch a thing againſt the people of God? for the king doth ſpeak this thing

37 Abſalom fled, &c.] He could have no city of refuge in his own country, becauſe he had committed a wilful murder, and therefore he fled out of the kingdom to his mother's father.

Notes on the Fourteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now Joab—perceived that the king's heart was toward Abſalom.] He was convinced that he longed to have him reſtored to his own country, if he could contrive ſome trifling excuſe for it.

2 Joab ſent to Tekoah.] Tekoah was a city in the tribe of Judah, and lay about twelve miles ſouth of Jeruſalem. Joab's conduct in this affair was remarkably artful: he choſe a widow, becauſe her condition of life was more proper to move compaſſion, and one who lived at ſome diſtance from Jeruſalem, as her caſe might not be ſo readily enquired into. The whole intention of her ſpeech was to frame a caſe ſimilar to that of David; in order, by prevailing with him to determine in her favour, that he might be convinced how much more reaſonable it was to preſerve Abſalom. There was great art in not making the ſimilitude too plain, leſt the king ſhould perceive the intention of the woman's petition, before ſhe had obtained a grant of pardon for her ſon, and came to make the application to the king.

7 They ſhall quench my coal, &c.] Deprive me of the little comfort of life which remains.

as one which is faulty, in that the king doth not fetch home again his banished.

14 For we must needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again: neither doth God respect any person; yet doth he devise means that his banished be not expelled from him.

15 Now therefore that I am come to speak of this thing unto my lord the king, it is because the people have made me afraid: and thy handmaid said, I will now speak unto the king; it may be that the king will perform the request of his handmaid.

16 For the king will hear, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the man that would destroy me and my son together out of the inheritance of God.

17 Then thine handmaid said, The word of my lord the king shall now be comfortable: for as an angel of God, so is my lord the king to discern good and bad: therefore the LORD thy God will be with thee.

18 Then the king answered and said unto the woman, Hide not from me, I pray thee, the thing that I shall ask thee. And the woman said, Let my lord the king now speak.

19 And the king said, Is not the hand of Joab with thee in all this? And the woman answered and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord O king, none can turn to the right hand or to the left from ought that my lord the king hath spoken: for thy servant Joab he bade me, and he put all these words in the mouth of thine handmaid:

20 To fetch about this form of speech hath thy servant Joab done this thing: and my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

21 ¶ And the king said unto Joab, Behold now, I have done this thing: go therefore, bring the young man Absalom again.

22 And Joab fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himself, and thanked the king. And Joab said, To-day thy servant knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, my lord O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of his servant.

23 So Joab arose and went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem.

24 And the king said, Let him turn to his own house, and let him not see my face. So Absalom returned to his own house, and saw not the king's face.

25 But in all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty: from the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head there was no blemish in him.

26 And when he polled his head, (for it was at every year's end that he polled it: because the hair was heavy on him, therefore he polled it,) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels after the king's weight.

27 And unto Absalom there were born three sons, and one daughter, whose name was Tamar: she was a woman of a fair countenance.

28 So Absalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, and saw not the king's face.

29 Therefore Absalom sent for Joab, to have sent him to the king; but he would not come to him: and when he sent again the second time, he would not come.

30 Therefore he said unto his servants, See, Joab's field is near mine, and he hath barley there; go, and set it on fire. And Absalom's servants set the field on fire.

31 Then Joab arose and came to Absalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set my field on fire?

32 And Absalom answered Joab, Behold, I sent unto thee, saying, Come hither, that I may send thee to the king to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? it had been good for me to have been there still: now therefore let 24 Let him not see my face.] His affection to him did not so blind his eyes, but he still saw it would not be for his honour, to let him come into his presence.

26 He weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels after the king's weight.] The Jewish shekel amounted to three pounds two ounces of our weight. But it may be observed, that when the books of Samuel were revised, after the Babylonish captivity, such weights were mentioned as were then known to them: therefore, when he mentions this weight of Absalom's hair, he adds, by way of explanation, that it was after the king's weight, i. e. the king of Babylon, whose shekel was only one third of that of the Jews: therefore this large quantity of hair, which has given occasion to the enemies of revelation to ridicule the sacred text, is reduced so far as not to seem at all improbable.

let me ſee the king's face; and if there be any iniquity in me, let him kill me.

33 So Joab came to the king, and told him. And when he had called for Abſalom, he came to the king, and bowed himſelf on his face to the ground before the king. And the king kiſſed Abſalom.

CHAP. XV.

1 Abſalom ſtealeth the hearts of Iſrael. 10 He maketh a conſpiracy. 13 David fleeth from Jeruſalem.

AND it came to paſs after this, that Abſalom prepared him chariots and horſes, and fifty men to run before him.

2 And Abſalom roſe up early, and ſtood beſide the way of the gate: and it was ſo, that when any man that had a controverſy came to the king for judgement, then Abſalom called unto him, and ſaid, Of what city art thou? and he ſaid, Thy ſervant is one of the tribes of Iſrael.

3 And Abſalom ſaid unto him, See, thy matters are good and right; but there is no man deputed of the king to hear thee.

4 Abſalom ſaid moreover, Oh, that I were made judge in the land, that every man which hath any ſuit or cauſe might come unto me, and I would do him juſtice.

5 And it was ſo, that when any man came nigh to him to do him obeiſance, he put forth his hand, and took him and kiſſed him.

6 And on this manner did Abſalom to all Iſrael that came to the king for judgement. So Abſalom ſtole the hearts of the men of Iſrael.

7 And it came to paſs after forty years, that Abſalom ſaid unto the king, I pray thee, let me go and pay my vow which I have vowed unto the LORD, in Hebron.

8 For thy ſervant vowed a vow while I abode at Geſhur in Syria, ſaying, If the LORD ſhall bring me again indeed to Jeruſalem, then I will ſerve the LORD.

9 And the king ſaid unto him, Go in peace. So he aroſe and went to Hebron.

10 ¶ But Abſalom ſent ſpies throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſaying, As ſoon as ye hear the ſound of the trumpet, then ye ſhall ſay, Abſalom reigneth in Hebron.

11 And with Abſalom went two hundred men out of Jeruſalem, that were called: and they went in their ſimplicity, and they knew not any thing.

12 And Abſalom ſent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counſellor, from his city, even from Giloh, while he offered ſacrifices. And the conſpiracy was ſtrong; for the people increaſed continually with Abſalom.

13 ¶ And there came a meſſenger to David, ſaying, The hearts of the men of Iſrael are after Abſalom.

14 And David ſaid unto all his ſervants that were with him at Jeruſalem, Ariſe, and let us flee: for we ſhall not elſe eſcape from Abſalom: make ſpeed to depart, leſt he overtake us ſuddenly, and bring evil upon us, and ſmite the city with the edge of the ſword.

Notes on the Fifteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 It came to paſs after this, that Abſalom prepared him chariots and horſes, &c.] Being again reſtored to favour, and, as he thought, re-eſtabliſhed in the king's affections, he prepared himſelf a ſplendid equipage, in order to attract the eyes of the people, and pave his way to the unjuſt uſurpation of his father's throne. Patrick.

7 It came to paſs after forty years.] Inſtead of forty it ſhould be read four years, i. e. four years after Abſalom was re-eſtabliſhed in Iſrael. This makes the ſenſe eaſy and entire, and is confirmed by the authority of the Syriac and Arabic verſions, four MSS. the judgment of ſeveral able critics, particularly Mr. Kennicott, Dr. Wall, Mr. Pilkington, &c. and the teſtimony of Joſephus himſelf; who ſays, that four years after his father was reconciled to him, this conſpiracy broke out.

10 As ſoon as ye hear the ſound of the trumpet.] Probably Abſalom had placed trumpets at proper diſtances to take the ſound from one another, and diſperſe it over all the kingdom, that the abettors of his cauſe might inſtantly reſort to his aſſiſtance; to which they were encouraged by the ſuggeſtions of his emiſſaries, who perſuaded the people that all was done with the king's approbation, he being willing to reſign his crown to his eldeſt ſon, who was deſcended from a king by both parents. Le Clerc.

12 The conſpiracy was ſtrong.] It is ſurpriſing how any people could abandon a prince ſo brave and ſucceſsful as David had been. But in every nation there are always turbulent and diſcontented ſpirits, who are uneaſy at the preſent ſtate of things, and promiſe themſelves benefit from a change. Saul's party was not yet extinct; and Joab, who was David's prime miniſter, behaved with an inſufferable pride and inſolence. His crimes, which were very black, and which David was afraid to puniſh, reflected upon him: and the king himſelf had given his enemies umbrage enough againſt him, by living with Bath-ſheba, after he had murdered her huſband. But what gave the faireſt pretence of all, was the obſtruction of the civil adminiſtration of juſtice; for had there not been ſomething of this, Abſalom could have had no grounds for making ſuch loud complaints. Calmet and Patrick.

15 And the king's ſervants ſaid unto the king, Behold, thy ſervants are ready to do whatſoever my lord the king ſhall appoint.

16 And the king went forth, and all his houſhold after him. And the king left ten women, which were concubines, to keep the houſe.

17 And the king went forth, and all the people after him, and tarried in a place that was far off.

18 And all his ſervants paſſed on beſide him: and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites, and all the Gittites, ſix hundred men which came after him from Gath, paſſed on before the king.

19 Then ſaid the king to Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore goeſt thou alſo with us? return to thy place, and abide with the king: for thou art a ſtranger, and alſo an exile.

20 Whereas thou cameſt but yeſterday, ſhould I this day make thee go up and down with us? ſeeing I go whither I may; return thou, and take back thy brethren: mercy and truth be with thee.

21 And Ittai anſwered the king, and ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as my lord the king liveth, ſurely in what place my lord the king ſhall be, whether in death or life, even there alſo will thy ſervant be.

22 And David ſaid to Ittai, Go, and paſs over. And Ittai the Gittite paſſed over, and all his men, and all the little ones that were with him.

23 And all the country wept with a loud voice, and all the people paſſed over. The king alſo himſelf paſſed over the brook Kidron, and all the people paſſed over, toward the way of the wilderneſs.

24 And lo, Zadok alſo was there, and all the Levites with him, bearing the ark of the covenant of God: and they ſet down the ark of God; and Abiathar went up, until all the people had done paſſing out of the city.

25 And the king ſaid unto Zadok, Carry back the ark of God into the city: if I ſhall find favour in the eyes of the LORD, he will bring me again, and ſhew me both it, and his habitation.

26 But if he thus ſay, I have no delight in thee; behold, here am I, let him do to me as ſeemeth good unto him.

27 The king ſaid alſo unto Zadok the prieſt, Art not thou a ſeer? return into the city in peace, and your two ſons with you, Ahimaaz thy ſon, and Jonathan the ſon of Abiathar.

28 See, I will tarry in the plain of the wilderneſs, until there come word from you to certify me.

29 Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the ark of God again to Jeruſalem; and they tarried there.

30 And David went up by the aſcent of mount Olivet, and wept as he went up, and had his head covered, and he went barefoot. And all the people that was with him covered every man his head, and they went up, weeping as they went up.

31 And one told David, ſaying, Ahithophel is among the conſpirators with Abſalom. And David ſaid, O LORD, I pray thee, turn the counſel of Ahithophel into fooliſhneſs.

32 And it came to paſs, that when David was come to the top of the mount, where he

---

18 The Gittites, ſix hundred men which came after him from Gath.] Theſe paſſed in the front of his little army; but who theſe Gittites were is not eaſy to tell; for they are never mentioned before. Joſephus thinks they were the ſix hundred men which had been with him in his exile at Gath, and accompanied him ever after, not only in the time of Saul's perſecution, but after he came to the crown of Judah and Iſrael.

20 Return thou, and take back thy brethren.] By brethren David probably means thoſe perſons that were of Ittai's family, and came to ſojourn with him in Judea.

22 All the little ones.] Neither the LXX nor Vulgate have any thing of little ones: it is not likely they ſhould attend an army.

25 Carry back the ark of God into the city.] This order was given for ſeveral reaſons; either he might think it not decent to have the ark wander about with him he knew not whither, or it might look as if he placed more confidence in the token of God's preſence than he did in God himſelf, who had ſo wonderfully preſerved him during the long perſecution of Saul, when he had no ark with him. But his principal reaſon ſeems to have been, that the Prieſts and Levites, whoſe fidelity he well knew, by giving him intelligence of his enemies, might do him more ſervice in Jeruſalem than they could in the camp.

27 Art thou a ſeer? return, &c.] The Septuagint reads ſee, (or look ye) return into the city. A prieſt is not called a ſeer.

30 David wept as he went up, and had his head covered.] There is ſomething ſimilar to this melancholy image of David, in the picture which Homer gives us of Ulyſſes in the 8th book of the Odyſſey:

Again Ulyſſes veil'd his penſive head,
Again, unmann'd, a ſhow'r of ſorrow ſhed. Pope.

worſhipped God, behold, Huſhai the Archite came to meet him, with his coat rent, and earth upon his head:

33 Unto whom David ſaid, If thou paſſeſt on with me, then thou ſhalt be a burden unto me.

34 But if thou return to the city, and ſay unto Abſalom, I will be thy ſervant, O king; as I have been thy father's ſervant hitherto, ſo will I now alſo be thy ſervant: then mayeſt thou for me defeat the counſel of Ahithophel.

35 And haſt thou not there with thee Zadok and Abiathar the prieſts? therefore it ſhall be, that what thing ſoever thou ſhalt hear out of the king's houſe, thou ſhalt tell it to Zadok and Abiathar the prieſts.

36 Behold, they have there with them their two ſons, Ahimaaz Zadok's ſon: and Jonathan Abiathar's ſon: and by them ye ſhall ſend unto me every thing that ye can hear.

37 So Huſhai David's friend came into the city, and Abſalom came into Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Ziba by falſe ſuggeſtions obtaineth his maſter's inheritance. 5 Shimei curſeth David. 9 David abſtaineth and reſtraineth others from revenge. 20 Ahithophel's counſel.

AND when David was a little paſt the top of the hill, behold, Ziba the ſervant of Mephibоſheth met him with a couple of aſſes ſaddled, and upon them two hundred loaves of bread, and an hundred bunches of raiſins, and an hundred of ſummer-fruits, and a bottle of wine.

2 And the king ſaid unto Ziba, What meaneſt thou by theſe? And Ziba ſaid, The aſſes be for the king's houſhold to ride on; and the bread and ſummer-fruit for the young men to eat; and the wine, that ſuch as be faint in the wilderneſs may drink.

3 And the king ſaid, And where is thy maſter's ſon? and Ziba ſaid unto the king, Behold, he abideth at Jeruſalem; for he ſaid, To-day ſhall the houſe of Iſrael reſtore me the kingdom of my father.

4 Then ſaid the king to Ziba, Behold, thine are all that pertained unto Mephibоſheth. And Ziba ſaid, I humbly beſeech thee, that, I may find grace in thy ſight, my lord O king.

5 ¶ And when king David came to Bahurim, behold, thence came out a man of the family of the houſe of Saul, whoſe name was Shimei, the ſon of Gera: he came forth, and curſed ſtill as he came.

6 And he caſt ſtones at David, and at all the ſervants of king David: and all the people and all the mighty men were on his right hand and on his left.

7 And thus ſaid Shimei when he curſed, Come out, come out, thou bloody man, and thou man of Belial;

8 The LORD hath returned upon thee all the blood of the houſe of Saul, in whoſe ſtead thou haſt reigned; and the LORD hath delivered the kingdom into the hand of Abſalom thy ſon; and behold, thou art taken in thy miſchief, becauſe thou art a bloody man.

9 ¶ Then ſaid Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah unto the king, Why ſhould this dead dog curſe my lord the king? let me go over, I pray thee, and take of his head.

10 And the king ſaid, What have I to do with you, ye ſons of Zeruiah? ſo let him curſe, becauſe the LORD hath ſaid unto him, Curſe David. Who ſhall then ſay, Wherefore haſt thou done ſo?

11 And David ſaid to Abiſhai, and to all his ſervants, Behold, my ſon, which came forth of my bowels, ſeeketh my life: how much more now may this Benjamite do it? let him alone, and let him curſe: for the LORD hath bidden him.

Notes on the Sixteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 And a bottle of wine.] What we render bottle was a ſkin, or large veſſel made of leather, which would contain a good deal of wine; for we muſt ſuppoſe the liquor proportioned to the reſt of the preſent. See note on Joſh. ix. 13.

4 Thine are all that pertained unto Mephibоſheth.] David was too credulous in believing Ziba, who, by a falſe but artful tale, had impoſed upon him, at a time when he was in the greateſt diſtreſs, and could not weigh the reaſons on which it was founded.

5 He curſed ſtill as he came.] It ſeems as if the king was fallen into the utmoſt contempt, when one private man durſt vent his malice againſt him in ſo groſs a manner, with impunity. Howell.

10 Let him curſe, becauſe the Lord hath ſaid unto him, Curſe David.] Not that God commanded it by his word, for that ſeverely forbids curſing: but the true meaning is, that David conſidered Shimei as an inſtrument in the hand of God, and therefore took all his abuſes patiently; being conſcious, that his crimes deſerved the inſults of this vile Benjamite. Poole.

12 It may be that the LORD will look on mine affliction, and that the LORD will requite me good for his curſing this day.

13 And as David and his men went by the way, Shimei went along on the hill's ſide over againſt him, and curſed as he went, and threw ſtones at him, and caſt duſt.

14 And the king and all the people that were with him came weary, and refreſhed themſelves there.

15 And Abſalom and all the people the men of Iſrael came to Jeruſalem, and Ahithophel with him.

16 And it came to paſs when Huſhai the Archite, David's friend, was come unto Abſalom, that Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, God ſave the king, God ſave the king.

17 And Abſalom ſaid to Huſhai, Is this thy kindneſs to thy friend? why wenteſt thou not with thy friend?

18 And Huſhai ſaid unto Abſalom, Nay; but whom the LORD and this people and all the men of Iſrael chooſe, his will I be, and with him will I abide.

19 And again, whom ſhould I ſerve? ſhould I not ſerve in the preſence of his ſon? as I have ſerved in thy father's preſence, ſo will I be in thy preſence.

20 ¶ Then ſaid Abſalom to Ahithophel, Give counſel among you what we ſhall do.

21 And Ahithophel ſaid unto Abſalom, Go in unto thy father's concubines, which he hath left to keep the houſe; and all Iſrael ſhall hear that thou art abhorred of thy father: then ſhall the hands of all that are with thee be ſtrong.

22 So they ſpread Abſalom a tent upon the top of the houſe; and Abſalom went in unto his father's concubines, in the ſight of all Iſrael.

23 And the counſel of Ahithophel which he counſelled in thoſe days was as if a man had enquired at the oracle of God: ſo was all the counſel of Ahithophel both with David and with Abſalom.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Ahithophel's counſel is overthrown by Huſhai's, according to God's appointment. 15 Secret intelligence is ſent to David. 23 Ahithophel hangeth himſelf.

MOreover, Ahithophel ſaid unto Abſalom, Let me now chooſe out twelve thouſand men, and I will ariſe and purſue after David this night.

2 And I will come upon him while he is weary and weak-handed, and will make him afraid: and all the people that are with him ſhall flee; and I will ſmite the king only.

3 And I will bring back all the people unto thee: the man whom thou ſeekeſt is as if all returned: ſo all the people ſhall be in peace.

4 And the ſaying pleaſed Abſalom well, and all the elders of Iſrael.

5 Then ſaid Abſalom, Call now Huſhai the Archite alſo, and let us hear likewiſe what he ſaith.

6 And when Huſhai was come to Abſalom, Abſalom ſpake unto him, ſaying, Ahithophel hath ſpoken after this manner: ſhall we do after his ſaying? If not; ſpeak thou.

7 And Huſhai, ſaid unto Abſalom, The council that Ahithophel hath given is not good at this time.

8 For, ſaid Huſhai, thou knoweſt thy father and his men, that they be mighty men,

23 The counſel of Ahithophel---was as if a man had enquired at the oracle of God.] It was ſo ſure and ſafe, that it was generally followed, without ever doubting of its ſucceſs. Patrick. The counſel which Ahithophel gave Abſalom, was the ſame that the mother of Phœnix gave to her ſon, Iliad 9.

Notes on the Seventeenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Let me now chooſe out twelve thouſand men, and I will ariſe and purſue after David, &c.] Ahithophel thought it requiſite to make diſpatch on this occaſion, well knowing, that if the people, who had revolted from their allegiance, had leiſure to reflect on what they were doing againſt their lawful prince, many of them would refuſe to go; and it would give that prince time to raiſe regular troops, and thoſe about him leiſure to recover from their fright; the conſequence of which would be, Abſalom's party would dwindle into nothing, and David's grow ſtronger and ſtronger. Calmet.

5 Then ſaid Abſalom, call now Huſhai the Archite, &c.] The providence of God is here very remarkable, as it was owing to this that Abſalom was irreſolute and doubtful, even in that counſel which was approved by all the elders of Iſrael, and was evidently the wiſeſt that could be given. Patrick.

8 Thou knoweſt thy father and his men, that they be mighty men, &c.] There is ſomething equally plauſible and elegant in this advice of Huſhai. A bear is a very fierce creature; but, according to naturaliſts, ſhe-bears are more fierce than the males, eſpe-and they be chafed in their minds, as a bear robbed of her whelps in the field: and thy father is a man of war, and will not lodge with the people.

9 Behold, he is hid now in ſome pit, or in ſome other place: and it will come to paſs, when ſome of them be overthrown at the firſt, that whoſoever heareth it, will ſay, There is a ſlaughter among the people that follow Abſalom.

10 And he alſo that is valiant, whoſe heart is as the heart of a lion, ſhall utterly melt: for all Iſrael knoweth that thy father is a mighty man, and they which be with him are valiant men.

11 Therefore I counſel that all Iſrael be generally gathered unto thee, from Dan even to Beer-ſheba, as the ſand that is by the ſea for multitude; and that thou go to battle in thine own perſon.

12 So ſhall we come upon him in ſome place where he ſhall be found, and we will light upon him as the dew falleth on the ground: and of him and of all the men that are with him there ſhall not be left ſo much as one.

13 Moreover, if he be gotten into a city, then ſhall all Iſrael bring ropes to that city, and we will draw it into the river, until there be not one ſmall ſtone found there.

14 And Abſalom and all the men of Iſrael ſaid, The counſel of Huſhai the Archite is better than the counſel of Ahithophel. For the LORD had appointed to defeat the good counſel of Ahithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring evil upon Abſalom.

15 ¶ Then ſaid Huſhai unto Zadok and to Abiathar the prieſts, Thus and thus did Ahithophel counſel Abſalom and the elders of Iſrael; and thus and thus have I counſelled.

16 Now therefore ſend quickly, and tell David, ſaying, Lodge not this night in the plains of the wilderneſs, but ſpeedily paſs over? leſt the king be ſwallowed up, and all the people that are with him.

17 Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz ſtayed by En-rogel; for they might not be ſeen to come into the city: and a wench went and told them: and they went and told king David.

18 Nevertheleſs, a lad ſaw them, and told Abſalom: but they went both of them away quickly, and came to a man's houſe in Bahurim, which had a well in his court; whither they went down.

19 And the woman took and ſpread a covering over the well's mouth, and ſpread ground corn thereon; and the thing was not known.

20 And when Abſalom's ſervants came to the woman to the houſe, they ſaid, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? and the woman ſaid unto them, They be gone over the brook of water. And when they had ſought and could not find them, they returned to Jeruſalem.

21 And it came to paſs after they were departed, that they came up out of the well, and went and told king David, and ſaid unto David, Ariſe, and paſs quickly over the water: for thus hath Ahithophel counſelled againſt you.

22 Then David aroſe, and all the people that were with him, and they paſſed over Jordan: by the morning light there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.

23 ¶ And when Ahithophel ſaw that his counſel was not followed, he ſaddled his aſs, and aroſe, and gat him home to his houſe, to his city, and put his houſhold in order, and hanged himſelf, and died, and was buried in the ſepulchre of his father.

eſpecially when their whelps are taken from them: for this reaſon the ſcripture frequently uſes this ſimilitude; I will meet them as a bear bereaved of her whelps, and will rend the caul of their hearts, Hoſea xiii. 8. The purport of Huſhai's advice is founded on this maxim; "that we ſhould not drive an enemy to deſpair, nor attack thoſe who are reſolved to ſell their lives at as dear a rate as poſſible." Calmet.

13 If he be gotten into a city, then ſhall all Iſrael bring ropes to that city, and we will draw it into the river.] i. e. Should David betake himſelf to the ſtrongeſt of their cities, ſuch a numerous army would be ſufficient to encompaſs it round about, and by ropes put round the walls to draw them down, with all the houſes of the city; not that ſuch practices were ever uſed in war, the expreſſion being hyperbolical, and calculated to pleaſe Abſalom. Patrick.

17 En-rogel.] A place near Jeruſalem, called the Fullers well.

23 He hanged himſelf.] Convinced, from the methods Abſalom was going to purſue, that David would get the better of him, and that he ſhould be put to death for his treaſon, he choſe to be his own executioner; though the Septuagint ſays, he was ſuffocated with grief; and ſo ſeveral learned interpreters have thought, and ſo the Hebrew ſignifies.

24 Then David came to Mahanaim. And Abſalom paſſed over Jordan, he and all the men of Iſrael with him.

25 And Abſalom made Amaſa captain of the hoſt inſtead of Joab. Which Amaſa was a man's ſon whoſe name was Ithra an Iſraelite, that went in to Abigail the daughter of Nahaſh, ſiſter to Zeruiah Joab's mother.

26 So Iſrael and Abſalom pitched in the land of Gilead.

27 And it came to paſs, when David was come to Mahanaim, that Shobi the ſon of Nahaſh of Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and Machir the ſon of Ammiel of Lo-debar, and Barzillai the Gileadite of Rogelim,

28 Brought beds, and baſons, and earthen veſſels, and wheat, and barley, and flour, and parched corn, and beans, and lentiles, and parched pulſe,

29 And honey, and butter, and ſheep, and cheeſe of kine for David, and for the people that were with him, to eat. For they ſaid, The people is hungry and weary and thirſty in the wilderneſs.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 David viewing the armies, giveth them charge of Abſalom. 9 Abſalom is ſlain by Joab. 33 David lamenteth for him.

AND David numbered the people that were with him, and ſet captains of thouſands and captains of hundreds over them.

2 And David ſent forth a third part of the people under the hand of Joab, and a third part under the hand of Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite. And the king ſaid unto the people, I will ſurely go forth with you my ſelf alſo.

3 But the people anſwered, Thou ſhalt not go forth: for if we flee away, they will not care for us; neither if half of us die, will they care for us: but now thou art worth ten thouſand of us: therefore now it is better that thou ſuccour us out of the city.

4 And the king ſaid unto them, What ſeemeth you beſt I will do. And the king ſtood by the gate-ſide, and all the people came out by hundreds and by thouſands.

5 And the king commanded Joab and Abiſhai and Ittai, ſaying, Deal gently for my ſake with the young man, even with Abſalom. And all the people heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Abſalom.

6 So the people went out into the field againſt Iſrael: and the battle was in the wood of Ephraim;

7 Where the people of Iſrael were ſlain before the ſervants of David, and there was there a great ſlaughter that day of twenty thouſand men.

8 For the battle was there ſcattered over the face of all the country: and the wood devoured more people that day than the ſword devoured.

9 ¶ And Abſalom met the ſervants of David. And Abſalom rode upon a mule, and the mule went under the thick boughs of a great oak, and his head caught hold of the oak, and he was taken up between the heaven and the earth; and the mule that was under him went away.

10 And a certain man ſaw it, and told Joab, and ſaid, Behold, I ſaw Abſalom hanged in an oak.

11 And Joab ſaid unto the man that told him, And behold, thou ſaweſt him, and why didſt thou not ſmite him there to the ground? and I would have given thee ten ſhekels of ſilver, and a girdle.

12 And the man ſaid unto Joab, Though I ſhould receive a thouſand ſhekels of ſilver in

Notes on the Eighteenth Chapter.

Ver. 6 In the wood of Ephraim.] This wood probably had its name from the great ſlaughter of the Ephraimites by Jephthah, Judg. xii.

8 The wood devoured more people that day than the ſword.] The meaning ſeems to be, that there were more ſlain in the wood than in the field of battle; i. e. more in the purſuit than in the fight.

9 The mule went under the thick boughs of a great oak, and his head caught hold of the oak, &c.] Some think that Abſalom hung by his hair, ſome that his neck was ſo wedged between the boughs, that he was not able to diſengage himſelf. But it is of no conſequence whether he was taken up by the hair or not, ſince the providence of God is equally viſible, in not ſuffering ſo wicked a perſon to eſcape the death he ſo juſtly deſerved.

mine hand, yet I would not put forth mine hand againſt the king's ſon: for in our hearing the king charged thee and Abiſhai and Ittai, ſaying, Beware that none touch the young man Abſalom.

13 Otherwiſe, I ſhould have wrought falſhood againſt my own life; for there is no matter hid from the king, and thou thyſelf wouldeſt have ſet thy ſelf againſt me.

14 Then ſaid Joab, I may not tarry thus with thee. And he took three darts in his hand, and thruſt them through the heart of Abſalom, while he was yet alive in the midſt of the oak.

15 And ten young men that bare Joab's armour compaſſed about and ſmote Abſalom, and ſlew him.

16 And Joab blew the trumpet, and the people returned from purſuing after Iſrael: for Joab held back the people.

17 And they took Abſalom, and caſt him into a great pit in the wood, and laid a very great heap of ſtones upon him: and all Iſrael fled every one to his tent.

18 Now Abſalom in his life-time had taken and reared up for himſelf a pillar, which is in the king's dale: for he ſaid, I have no ſon to keep my name in remembrance: and he called the pillar after his own name. And it is called unto this day, Abſalom's place.

19 Then ſaid Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok, Let me now run, and bear the king tidings, how that the LORD hath avenged him of his enemies.

20 And Joab ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not bear tidings this day, but thou ſhalt bear tidings another day: but this day thou ſhalt bear no tidings, becauſe the king's ſon is dead.

21 Then ſaid Joab to Cuſhi, Go, tell the king what thou haſt ſeen. And Cuſhi bowed himſelf unto Joab, and ran.

22 Then ſaid Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok yet again to Joab, But howſoever, let me, I pray thee, alſo run after Cuſhi. And Joab ſaid, Wherefore wilt thou run, my ſon, ſeeing that thou haſt no tidings ready?

23 But howſoever, ſaid he, let me run. And he ſaid unto him, Run. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the plain; and over-ran Cuſhi.

24 And David ſat between the two gates: and the watchman went up to the roof over the gate unto the wall, and lift up his eyes and looked, and behold, a man running alone.

25 And the watchman cried, and told the king. And the king ſaid, If he be alone, there is tidings in his mouth. And he came apace, and drew near.

26 And the watchman ſaw another man running: and the watchman called unto the porter, and ſaid, Behold, another man running alone. And the king ſaid, He alſo bringeth tidings.

27 And the watchman ſaid, Me thinketh the running of the foremoſt is like the running of Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok. And the king ſaid, He is a good man, and cometh with good tidings.

28 And Ahimaaz called, and ſaid unto the king, All is well. And he fell down to the earth upon his face before the king, and ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD thy God, which hath delivered up the men that lift up their hand againſt my lord the king.

29 And the king ſaid, Is the young man Abſalom ſafe? and Ahimaaz anſwered, When Joab ſent the king's ſervant, and me thy ſervant, I ſaw a great tumult, but I knew not what it was.

30 And the king ſaid unto him, Turn aſide, and ſtand here. And he turned aſide, and ſtood ſtill.

31 And behold, Cuſhi came, and Cuſhi ſaid, Tidings, my lord the king: for the LORD hath avenged thee this day of all them that roſe up againſt thee.

17 Laid a very great heap of ſtones upon him.] See note on Joſh. vii. 26.

18 Abſalom in his life-time had---reared up for himſelf a pillar, which is in the king's dale.] This dale is mentioned Gen. xiv. 17. and was not far from Jeruſalem; near which there is to this day a monument ſhewn to travellers, and called Abſalom's pillar. It is a chamber cut with a chiſſel out of a rock: but it is evident that this is a more modern ſtructure; for, in the days of Joſephus, the monument then ſaid to be Abſalom's was nothing more than a ſingle marble pillar.

For he ſaid, I have no ſon, &c.] He had, chap. xiv. 27, three ſons and a daughter. Either this pillar was erected before they were born; or elſe, after his ſons were dead, he reared it for a remembrance. Wall.

32 And the king ſaid unto Cuſhi, Is the young man Abſalom ſafe? and Cuſhi anſwered, The enemies of my lord the king, and all that riſe againſt thee to do thee hurt, be as that young man is.

33 ¶ And the king was much moved, and went up to the chamber over the gate, and wept: and as he went, thus he ſaid, O my ſon Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon Abſalom: would God I had died for thee, O Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Joab cauſeth the king to ceaſe his mourning. 9 The Iſraelites bring the king back. 11 David ſendeth to the prieſts to incite them of Judah. 16 Shimei is pardoned.

AND it was told Joab, Behold, the king weepeth and mourneth for Abſalom.

2 And the victory that day was turned into mourning unto all the people: for the people heard ſay that day how the king was grieved for his ſon.

3 And the people gat them by ſtealth that day into the city, as people being aſhamed ſteal away when they flee in battle.

4 But the king covered his face, and the king cried with a loud voice, O my ſon Abſalom, O Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon.

5 And Joab came into the houſe to the king, and ſaid, Thou haſt ſhamed this day the faces of all thy ſervants, which this day have ſaved thy life, and the lives of thy ſons and of thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines;

6 In that thou loveſt thine enemies, and hateſt thy friends. For thou haſt declared this day that thou regardeſt neither princes nor ſervants: for this day I perceive that if Abſalom had lived, and all we had died this day, then it had pleaſed thee well.

7 Now therefore ariſe, go forth, and ſpeak comfortably unto thy ſervants: for I ſwear by the LORD, if thou go not forth, there will not tarry one with thee this night: and that will be worſe unto thee than all the evil that befel thee from thy youth until now.

8 Then the king roſe, and ſat in the gate. And they told unto all the people, ſaying, Behold, the king doth ſit in the gate. And all the people came before the king: for Iſrael had fled every man to his tent.

9 ¶ And all the people were at ſtrife throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſaying, The king ſaved us out of the hand of our enemies, and he delivered us out of the hand of the Philiſtines; and now he is fled out of the land for Abſalom.

10 And Abſalom, whom we anointed over us, is dead in battle. Now therefore why ſpeak ye not a word of bringing the king back?

11 ¶ And king David ſent to Zadok and to Abiathar the prieſts, ſaying, Speak unto the elders of Judah, ſaying, Why are ye the laſt to bring the king back to his houſe? ſeeing the ſpeech of all Iſrael is come to the king, even to his houſe.

12 Ye are my brethren, ye are my bones and my fleſh: wherefore then are ye the laſt to bring back the king?

13 And ſay ye to Amaſa, Art thou not of my bone and of my fleſh? God do ſo to me and more alſo, if thou be not captain of the hoſt before me continually in the room of Joab.

14 And he bowed the heart of all the men of Judah, even as the heart of one man; ſo that they ſent this word unto the king, Return thou and all thy ſervants.

15 So the king returned, and came to Jordan. And Judah came to Gilgal to go to meet the king, to conduct the king over Jordan.

16 ¶ And Shimei the ſon of Gera, a Benjamite, which was of Bahurim, haſted and came down with the men of Judah to meet king David.

17 And there was a thouſand men of Benja-

33 O my ſon Abſalom, &c.] Nothing certainly can be more moving and pathetic, than the words uttered by David on this ſolemn occaſion: but whether it was David's deliberate wiſh, that he had died in Abſalom's ſtead, or only the effect of his exceſſive love and grief for him, is not ſo eaſy to determine: however, his grief was doubtleſs increaſed, from reflecting that himſelf, by his own ſin in the caſe of Uriah, had been the unhappy inſtrument and occaſion of his ſon's death.

Notes on the Nineteenth Chapter.

Ver. 4 The king cried with a loud voice.] It has been obſerved, that the Orientals expreſſed their paſſions with greater vehemence than the inhabitants of colder climates. See Gen. xlv. 2 Sam. iii. 32. and Ezra iii. 12, 13.

16, 17 Shimei---haſted and came down---to meet king David---and min with him, and Ziba the ſervant of the houſe of Saul, and his fifteen ſons and his twenty ſervants with him: and they went over Jordan before the king.

18 And there went over a ferry-boat to carry over the king's houſhold, and do what he thought good. And Shimei the ſon of Gerar fell down before the king as he was come over Jordan;

19 And ſaid unto the king, Let not my lord impute iniquity unto me, neither do thou remember that which thy ſervant did perverſely the day that my lord the king went out of Jeruſalem, that the king ſhould take it to his heart.

20 For thy ſervant doth know that I have ſinned: therefore behold, I am come the firſt this day of all the houſe of Joſeph to go down to meet my lord the king.

21 But Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah anſwered and ſaid, Shall not Shimei be put to death for this, becauſe he curſed the LORD's anointed?

22 And David ſaid, What have I to do with you, ye ſons of Zeruiah, that ye ſhould this day be adverſaries unto me? ſhall there any man be put to death this day in Iſrael? for do not I know that I am this day king over Iſrael?

23 Therefore the king ſaid unto Shimei, Thou ſhalt not die: and the king ſware unto him.

24 And Mephiboſheth the ſon of Saul came down to meet the king, and had neither dreſſed his feet, nor trimmed his beard, nor waſhed his clothes, from the day the king departed until the day he came again in peace.

25 And it came to paſs when he was come to Jeruſalem to meet the king, that the king ſaid unto him, Wherefore wenteſt not thou with me, Mephiboſheth?

26 And he anſwered, My lord O king, my ſervant deceived me: for thy ſervant ſaid, I will ſaddle me an aſs, that I may ride thereon, and go to the king; becauſe thy ſervant is lame.

27 And he hath ſlandered thy ſervant unto my lord the king; but my lord the king is as an angel of God: do therefore what is good in thine eyes.

28 For all of my father's houſe were but dead men before my lord the king: yet didſt thou ſet thy ſervant among them that did eat at thine own table. What right therefore have I yet to cry any more unto the king?

29 And the king ſaid unto him, Why ſpeakeſt thou any more of thy matters? I have ſaid, Thou and Ziba divide the land.

30 And Mephiboſheth ſaid unto the king, Yea, let him take all, foraſmuch as my lord the king is come again in peace unto his own houſe.

31 And Barzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim, and went over Jordan with the king, to conduct him over Jordan.

32 Now Barzillai was a very aged man, even fourſcore years old: and he had provided the king of ſuſtenance while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a very great man.

33 And the king ſaid unto Barzillai, Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee with me in Jeruſalem.

34 And Barzillai ſaid unto the king, How long have I to live, that I ſhould go up with the king unto Jeruſalem?

35 I am this day fourſcore years old: and can I diſcern between good and evil? can thy ſervant taſte what I eat or what I drink; can I hear any more the voice of ſinging-men and ſinging-women? wherefore then ſhould thy ſervant be yet a burden unto my lord the king?

36 Thy ſervant will go a little way over Jordan with the king: and why ſhould the king recompenſe it me with ſuch a reward?

and there were a thouſand men of Benjamin with him.] The reaſon why Shimei came with ſo large a retinue was to let David ſee that he was a man of ſome conſequence, and capable of doing him great ſervice among the people, which might be ſome inducement to the king to grant him his pardon.

22 What have I to do with you, ye ſons of Zeruiah?] Joab and his brother thought to have governed the king; but he bids them, with anger, not meddle in this matter.

38 And the king anſwered, Chimham ſhall go over with me, and I will do to him that which ſhall ſeem good unto thee: and whatſoever thou ſhalt require of me, that will I do for thee.

39 And all the people went over Jordan. And when the king was come over, the king kiſſed Barzillai, and bleſſed him; and he returned unto his own place.

40 Then the king went on to Gilgal, and Chimham went on with him. And all the people of Judah conducted the king, and alſo half the people of Iſrael.

41 And behold, all the men of Iſrael came to the king, and ſaid unto the king, Why have our brethren the men of Judah ſtolen thee away, and have brought the king and his houſhold, and all David's men with him, over Jordan?

42 And all the men of Judah anſwered the men of Iſrael, Becauſe the king is near of kin to us: wherefore then be ye angry for this matter? have we eaten at all of the king's coſt? or hath he given us any gift?

43 And the men of Iſrael anſwered the men of Judah, and ſaid, We have ten parts in the king, and we have alſo more right in David than ye; why then did ye deſpiſe us, that our advice ſhould not be firſt had in bringing back our king? And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer than the words of the men of Iſrael?

AND there happened to be there a man of Belial, whoſe name was Sheba, the ſon of Bichri, a Benjamite; and he blew a trumpet, and ſaid, We have no part in David, neither have we inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe: every man to his tents, O Iſrael.

2 So every man of Iſrael went up from after David, and followed Sheba the ſon of Bichri: but the men of Judah clave unto their king, from Jordan even to Jeruſalem.

3 And David came to his houſe at Jeruſalem, and the king took the ten women his concubines, whom he had left to keep the houſe, and put them in ward, and fed them, but went not in unto them. So they were ſhut up unto the day of their death, living in widow-hood.

4 ¶ Then ſaid the king to Amaſa, Aſſemble me the men of Judah within three days, and be thou here preſent.

5 So Amaſa went to aſſemble the men of Judah: but he tarried longer than the ſet time which he had appointed him.

6 And David ſaid to Abiſhai, Now ſhall Sheba the ſon of Bichri do us more harm than did Abſalom: take thou thy lord's ſervants, and purſue after him, leſt he get him fenced cities and eſcape us.

7 And there went out after him Joab's men, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and all the mighty men: and they went out of Jeruſalem to purſue after Sheba the ſon of Bichri.

8 When they were at the great ſtone which is in Gibeon, Amaſa went before them. And Joab's garment that he had put on was girded unto him, and upon it a girdle with a ſword

37 That I may die in mine own city, &c.] This whole little epiſode is extremely beautiful: Barzillai finiſhes his addreſs to the king with this requeſt, That he would ſuffer him to enjoy what old men naturally deſire; "to die in the place where they had lived, and to be buried with their anceſtors."

38 Chimham ſhall go over with me, and I will do to him that which ſhall ſeem good unto thee.] He would not have it left to his own choice; but deſires the good old man to ſay what he would have him do for him, and it ſhould be done.

43 We have ten parts in the king.] i. e. The kingdom: ten parts of which they ſay were theirs, becauſe Simeon, being intermixed with Judah, probably now came along with them.

Notes on the Twentieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Blew a trumpet, and ſaid.] This quarrel was not properly againſt David, but the quarrel of the other tribes againſt the tribe of Judah.

5 He tarried longer than the ſet time which he had appointed him.] The people had been ſo harraſſed in the late civil war, that they were not forward to engage in another.

6 David ſaid to Abiſhai.] Perſiſting in his reſolution to depreſs Joab, he had recourſe to his brother, who was the ſecond commander in the army.

faſtened upon his loins in the ſheath thereof; and as he went forth it fell out.

9 And Joab ſaid to Amaſa, Art thou in health, my brother? and Joab took Amaſa by the beard with the right hand to kiſs him.

10 But Amaſa took no heed to the ſword that was in Joab's hand: ſo he ſmote him therewith in the fifth rib, and ſhed out his bowels to the ground, and ſtruck him not again; and he died. So Joab and Abiſhai his brother purſued after Sheba the ſon of Bichri.

11 And one of Joab's men ſtood by him, and ſaid, He that favoureth Joab, and he that is for David, let him go after Joab.

12 And Amaſa wallowed in blood in the midſt of the high-way. And when the man ſaw that all the people ſtood ſtill, he removed Amaſa out of the high-way into the field, and caſt a cloth upon him, when he ſaw that every one that came by him ſtood ſtill.

13 When he was removed out of the high-way, all the people went on after Joab, to purſue after Sheba the ſon of Bichri.

14 ¶ And he went through all the tribes of Iſrael unto Abel, and to Beth-maachah, and all the Berites: and they were gathered together, and went alſo after him.

15 And they came and beſieged him in Abel of Beth-maachah, and they caſt up a bank againſt the city, and it ſtood in the trench: and all the people that were with Joab battered the wall, to throw it down.

16 ¶ Then cried a wiſe woman out of the city, Hear, hear; ſay, I pray you, unto Joab, Come near hither, that I may ſpeak with thee.

17 And when he was come near unto her, the woman ſaid, Art thou Joab? and he anſwered, I am he. Then ſhe ſaid unto him, Hear the words of thine handmaid. And he anſwered, I do hear.

18 Then ſhe ſpake, ſaying, They were wont to ſpeak in old time, ſaying, They ſhall ſurely aſk counſel at Abel: and ſo they ended the matter.

19 I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Iſrael: thou ſeekeſt to deſtroy a city and a mother in Iſrael: why wilt thou ſwallow up the inheritance of the LORD?

20 And Joab anſwered and ſaid, Far be it, far be it from me, that I ſhould ſwallow up or deſtroy.

21 The matter is not ſo: but a man of mount Ephraim, Sheba the ſon of Bichri by name, hath lifted up his hand againſt the king, even againſt David. Deliver him only, and I will depart from the city. And the woman ſaid unto Joab, Behold, his head ſhall be thrown to thee over the wall.

22 Then the woman went unto all the people in her wiſdom. And they cut off the head of Sheba the ſon of Bichri, and caſt it out to Joab. And he blew a trumpet, and they retired from the city, every man to his tent. And Joab returned to Jeruſalem unto the king.

23 ¶ Now Joab was over all the hoſt of Iſrael: and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoaida was over the Cherethites, and over the Pelethites:

24 And Adoram was over the tribute: and Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud was recorder:

25 And Sheva was ſcribe: and Zadok and Abiathar were the prieſts:

26 And Ira alſo the Jairite was a chief ruler about David.

---

9 Joab took Amaſa by the beard.] This was an antient cuſtom of reſpect among the Grecians, and is ſtill preſerved among the Indians.

10 He ſmote him therewith.] His inſolence was become ſo great, on the preſumption that David durſt not puniſh him, that he ventured upon this bloody fact.

14 Unto Abel, and to Beth-maachah.] Rather, unto Abel Beth-maachah; they were one and the ſame place.

15 They caſt up a bank againſt the city.] Mr. Pilkington thinks the word here tranſlated bank ſignifies an engine of war, to fling ſtones, or any heavy body againſt a city: then the tranſlation will be; "They beſieged Sheba in Abel; and they played an engine againſt the city; and it ſtood in the trench, and all the people that were with Joab battered the wall to throw it down." The Vulgate reads, the city was beſieged, or ſurrounded with a bank.

16 Then cried a wiſe woman out of the city.] Probably ſhe had the government of the city; for though that office was generally filled by men, yet there are not wanting inſtances of women being employed in the adminiſtration of civil affairs: as Deborah, and Athaliah, &c.

18 They ſhall ſurely aſk counſel at Abel.] There is another tranſlation in the margin of our Bibles, which ſeems more natural, and makes the woman ſpeak thus; "When the inhabitants ſaw thee lay ſiege to the city, they ſaid, Surely he will aſk us if we will have peace; for the law preſcribes that he ſhould offer peace to ſtrangers, much more to Iſraelitiſh cities: if thou hadſt done this, matters would have been ſoon determined in an amicable manner." Thus ſhe modeſtly reproved Joab for neglecting his duty, and artfully engaged him to perform it. Poole.

1 The three years famine for the Gibeonites ceaſe by the hanging ſeven of Saul's ſons. 10 Rizpah's kindneſs unto the dead. 12 David burieth the bones of Saul and Jonathan.

THEN there was a famine in the days of David three years, year after year: and David enquired of the LORD. And the LORD anſwered, It is for Saul, and for his bloody houſe, becauſe he ſlew the Gibeonites.

2 And the king called the Gibeonites, and ſaid unto them, (now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Iſrael, but of the remnant of the Amorites; and the children of Iſrael had ſworn unto them: and Saul ſought to ſlay them, in his zeal to the children of Iſrael and Judah.)

3 Wherefore David ſaid unto the Gibeonites, What ſhall I do for you? and wherewith ſhall I make the atonement, that ye may bleſs the inheritance of the LORD?

4 And the Gibeonites ſaid unto him, We will have no ſilver nor gold of Saul, nor of his houſe; neither for us ſhalt thou kill any man in Iſrael. And he ſaid, What ye ſhall ſay, that will I do for you.

5 And they anſwered the king, The man that conſumed us, and that deviſed againſt us that we ſhould be deſtroyed from remaining in any of the coaſts of Iſrael,

6 Let ſeven men of his ſons be delivered unto us, and we will hang them up unto the LORD in Gibeah of Saul, whom the LORD did chooſe. And the king ſaid, I will give them.

7 But the king ſpared Mephibosheth the ſon of Jonathan the ſon of Saul, becauſe of the LORD's oath that was between them, between David and Jonathan the ſon of Saul.

8 But the king took the two ſons of Rizpah the daughter of Aiah, whom ſhe bare unto Saul, Armoni, and Mephibosheth; and the five ſons of Michal the daughter of Saul, whom ſhe brought up for Adriel the ſon of Barzillai the Meholathite:

9 And he delivered them into the hands of the Gibeonites, and they hanged them in the hill before the LORD: and they fell all ſeven together, and were put to death in the days of harveſt, in the firſt days, in the beginning of barley-harveſt.

10 ¶ And Rizpah the daughter of Aiah took ſackcloth, and ſpread it for her upon the rock, from the beginning of harveſt until the water dropped upon them out of heaven, and ſuffered neither the birds of the air to reſt on them by day, nor the beaſts of the field by night.

11 And it was told David what Rizpah the daughter of Aiah the concubine of Saul had done.

12 ¶ And David went and took the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his ſon from the men of Jabeſh-gilead, which had ſtolen them from the ſtreet of Beth-ſhan, where the Philiſtines had hanged them, when the Philiſtines had ſlain Saul in Gilboa.

13 And he brought up from thence the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his ſon; and they gathered the bones of them that were hanged.

14 And the bones of Saul and Jonathan his ſon buried they in the country of Benjamin in Zelah, in the ſepulchre of Kiſh his father: and they performed all that the king commanded. And after that, God was intreated for the land.

again with Iſrael; and David went down, and his ſervants with him, and fought againſt the Philiſtines. And David waxed faint.

16 And Iſhbi-benob, which was of the ſons of the giant, the weight of whoſe ſpear weighed three hundred ſhekels of braſs in weight, he being girded with a new ſword, thought to have ſlain David.

17 But Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah ſuccoured him, and ſmote the Philiſtine, and killed him. Then the men of David ſware unto him, ſaying, Thou ſhalt go no more out with us to battle, that thou quench not the light of Iſrael.

18 And it came to paſs after this, that there was again a battle with the Philiſtines at Gob: then Sibbechai the Huſhathite ſlew Saph, which was of the ſons of the giant.

19 And there was again a battle in Gob with the Philiſtines, where Elhanan the ſon of Jaare-oregim a Beth-lehemite ſlew the brother of Goliath the Gittite, the ſtaff of whoſe ſpear was like a weaver's beam.

20 And there was yet a battle in Gath, where was a man of great ſtature, that had on every hand ſix fingers, and on every foot ſix toes, four and twenty in number; and he alſo was born to the giant.

21 And when he defied Iſrael, Jonathan the ſon of Shimea the brother of David ſlew him.

CHAP. XXII.

A Pſalm of thankſgiving for God's powerful deliverance, and manifold bleſſings.

AND David ſpake unto the LORD the words of this ſong, in the day that the LORD had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul:

2 And he ſaid, The LORD is my rock and my fortreſs, and my deliverer;

3 The God of my rock: in him will I truſt: he is my ſhield, and the horn of my ſalvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my ſaviour; thou ſaveſt me from violence.

4 I will call on the LORD, who is worthy to be praiſed: ſo ſhall I be ſaved from mine enemies.

5 When the waves of death compaſſed me, the floods of ungodly men made me afraid.

6 The ſorrows of hell compaſſed me about: the ſnares of death prevented me.

7 In my diſtreſs I called upon the LORD, and cried to my God; and he did hear my voice out of his temple, and my cry did enter into his ears.

8 Then the earth ſhook and trembled: the foundations of heaven moved and ſhook, becauſe he was wroth.

9 There went up a ſmoke out of his noſtrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

10 He bowed the heavens alſo and came down; and darkneſs was under his feet.

16 Being girded with a new ſword.] The expreſſion is obſcure: Le Clerc's interpretation is the moſt probable, who ſuppoſes his ſword was made on purpoſe for him, to ſuit his ſtrength, which greatly ſurpaſſed that of an ordinary man. Univ. Hiſt.

17 The light of Iſrael.] This phraſe is equally beautiful and ſignificant; for good kings are in ſcripture juſtly ſtiled the light of the people, 1 Kings, xi. 36. Pſalm cxxxii. 17.

19 Elhanan the ſon of Jaare-oregim, &c.] In 1 Chron. xx. 5. it is, Elhanan the ſon of Jaor ſlew Lahmi the brother of Goliath of Gath, which is plain and conſiſtent. Kennicott.

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 1 David ſpake unto the Lord the words of this ſong.] At what time of life David compoſed this moſt ſublime ſong is uncertain: he ſeems to have written it at firſt, for his own private uſe; but near the cloſe of his life he thought fit to communicate it to others, and therefore placed it in the book of Pſalms, that it might ſerve for the uſe of thoſe who ſhould be encompaſſed with the ſame difficulties, and receive like mercies from the God of their ſalvation. Patrick. The reader will obſerve it is nearly the ſame as the 18th Pſalm. On this divine ode Mr. Kennicott very juſtly obſerves, that it contains perhaps the nobleſt image that was ever expreſſed in words. David, overflowing with gratitude to God for delivering him from his numerous and powerful enemies, pours forth his ſoul in the ſtrongeſt expreſſions of his own miſery and God's majeſty---Diſtreſs, danger, death, had every way ſurrounded him---he ſupplicated God, and that ſo earneſtly, that his voice aſcended to heaven, and his cry entered the ears of the Almighty---Then---the earth ſhook, the foundations of the hills trembled; for God was wroth---He bowed the heavens, he came down; darkneſs was under his feet---He rode, he flew upon the cherubim; he flew ſwiftly upon the wings of the wind---Darkneſs was as yet his pavilion; waters ſurrounded, and clouds concealed his glory! but---the brightneſs of his preſence ſoon ſcattered the clouds; they removed, they kindled into coals of fire! the blaze of glory burſt forth, and the whole univerſe was in flames. Diſſert. p. 466.

8 The foundations of heaven moved.] In the 18th Pſalm the words are, the foundations of the hills, &c. which explain what is here meant by heaven; viz, mountains lifted up to heaven.

11 He

11 And he rode upon a cherub, and did fly: and he was ſeen upon the wings of the wind.
12 And he made darkneſs pavilions round about him, dark waters, and thick clouds of the ſkies.
13 Through the brightneſs before him were coals of fire kindled.
14 The LORD thundered from heaven, and the moſt High uttered his voice.
15 And he ſent out arrows, and ſcattered them; lightning, and diſcomfited them.
16 And the channels of the ſea appeared, the foundations of the world were diſcovered, at the rebuking of the LORD, at the blaſt of the breath of his noſtrils.
17 He ſent from above, he took me; he drew me out of many waters.
18 He delivered me from my ſtrong enemy, and from them that hated me: for they were too ſtrong for me.
19 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my ſtay.
20 He brought me forth alſo into a large place: he delivered me, becauſe he delighted in me.
21 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteouſneſs: according to the cleanneſs of my hands hath he recompenſed me.
22 For I have kept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.
23 For all his judgments were before me: and as for his ſtatutes, I did not depart from them.
24 I was alſo upright before him, and have kept my ſelf from mine iniquity.
25 Therefore the LORD hath recompenced me according to my righteouſneſs, according to my cleanneſs in his eye-ſight.
26 With the merciful thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf merciful, and with the upright man thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf upright.
27 With the pure thou ſhalt ſhew thy ſelf pure, and with the froward thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf unſavoury.
28 And the afflicted people thou wilt ſave: but thine eyes are upon the haughty, that thou mayeſt bring them down.
29 For thou art my lamp, O LORD: and the LORD will lighten my darkneſs.
30 For by thee I have run through a troop: by my God have I leaped over a wall.
31 As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the LORD is tried: he is a buckler to all them that truſt in him.
32 For who is God, ſave the LORD? and who is a rock, ſave our God?
33 God is my ſtrength and power: and he maketh my way perfect.
34 He maketh my feet like hinds feet: and ſetteth me upon my high places.
35 He teacheth my hands to war: ſo that a bow of ſteel is broken by mine arms.
36 Thou haſt alſo given me the ſhield of thy ſalvation: and thy gentleneſs hath made me great.
37 Thou haſt enlarged my ſteps under me; ſo that my feet did not ſlip.
38 I have purſued mine enemies, and deſtroyed them; and turned not again until I had conſumed them.
39 And I have conſumed them, and wounded them, that they could not ariſe: yea, they are fallen under my feet.
40 For thou haſt girded me with ſtrength to battle: them that roſe up againſt me, haſt thou ſubdued under me.
41 Thou haſt alſo given me the necks of mine enemies, that I might deſtroy them that hate me.
42 They looked, but there was none to ſave; even unto the LORD, but he anſwered them not.
43 Then did I beat them as ſmall as the 44 Thou haſt delivered me from the ſtrivings of my people.] He alludes to the union of the people of Iſrael and Judah under his government.

50 Therefore will I give thanks unto thee, O Lord, &c.] He was reſolved upon all occaſions to praiſe God for his goodneſs, but eſpecially among the heathens whom he had ſubdued, that they might know all his victories were wrought by the hand of Omnipotence, and thence be inſpired to worſhip the great Jehovah, and put their truſt under the ſhadow of his wings.

Notes on the Twenty-third Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now theſe be the laſt words of David.] i. e. The laſt words he ſpoke by Divine inſpiration. The Chaldee paraphraſe conſiders theſe words as a prophecy of the Meſſiah, and accordingly expounds them in the following manner: Theſe are the words of the prophecy of David, which he propheſied of the conſummation of all things, in the day of conſolation which is to come. Patrick.

The ſon of Jeſſe ſaid.] He remembers his low condition, when God was pleaſed to ſingle him out to be the leader of his people.

The ſweet pſalmiſt of Iſrael.] Who was inſpired to compoſe delightful hymns in praiſe of his Maker.

3 He that ruleth over men muſt be juſt, ruling in the fear of God.] This paſſage the Chaldee paraphraſe applies to the Meſſiah, expounding the words in the following manner: The faithful God ſaid, I will conſtitute to me a king, the Meſſiah, who ſhall ariſe and reign in the fear of the Lord. But this relates primarily to David, as the type of Chriſt, being taught to rule juſtly in the fear of God; i. e. in exact conformity to the Divine laws. Patrick.

4 He ſhall be as the light of the morning, &c.] There is a remarkable variation in an old MS which ſeems to determine this hymn to have been a prophecy of the Meſſiah, which in Engliſh runs thus: And as the morning light ſhall Jehovah, the ſun, ariſe. Kennicott.

5 Although my houſe be not ſo with God; yet he hath made with me an everlaſting covenant.] Theſe two verſes are ſomewhat obſcure; but Lud. de Dieu ſeems to have given the true ſenſe. David, ſays he, amplifies the ſtability and perpetuity of his kingdom, by comparing it to three natural things which are grateful to man, but not remarkable for their conſtancy: for the ſun ariſes, but alſo ſets; the morning may be clear, but clouds ſoon after intervene; the tender graſs ſprings up, but withers away. Not ſo, ſays the pſalmiſt, is my kingdom before the Almighty: it flouriſhes like theſe, but is at the ſame time perpetual; for the Holy One of Iſrael hath made an everlaſting covenant with me: and though ſome afflictions have befallen me, and all my deſires have not flouriſhed, yet he hath not taken his mercies nor his favours from me.

8 Theſe be the names of the mighty men whom David had.] There is alſo a liſt of David's worthies in 1 Chron. xi. which originally contained the ſame ſenſe: where it is now contradictory, was Adino the Eznite: he lift up his ſpear againſt eight hundred, whom he ſlew at one time.

9 And after him was Eleazar the ſon of Dodo the Ahohite, one of the three mighty men with David, when they defied the Philiſtines that were there gathered together to battle, and the men of Iſrael were gone away.

10 He aroſe, and ſmote the Philiſtines until his hand was weary, and his hand clave unto the ſword: and the LORD wrought a great victory that day; and the people returned after him only to ſpoil.

11 And after him was Shammah the ſon of Agee the Hararite. And the Philiſtines were gathered together into a troop, where was a piece of ground full of lentiles: and the people fled from the Philiſtines.

12 But he ſtood in the midſt of the ground, and defended it, and ſlew the Philiſtines: and the LORD wrought a great victory.

13 And three of the thirty chief went down and came to David in the harveſt-time unto the cave of Adullam. And the troop of the Philiſtines pitched in the valley of Rephaim.

14 And David was then in an hold, and the garriſon of the Philiſtines was then in Bethlehem.

15 And David longed, and ſaid, Oh, that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem which is by the gate.

16 And the three mighty men brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and took it and brought it to David: nevertheleſs, he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the LORD.

17 And he ſaid, Be it far from me, O LORD, that I ſhould do this: is not this the blood of the men that went in jeopardy of their lives? therefore he would not drink it. Theſe things did theſe three mighty men.

18 And Abiſhai the brother of Joab, the ſon of Zeruiah, was chief among three. And he lift up his ſpear againſt three hundred, and ſlew them, and had the name among three.

19 Was he not moſt honourable of three? therefore he was their captain: howbeit, he attained not unto the firſt three.

20 And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoida, the ſon of a valiant man, of Kabzeel, who had done many acts, he ſlew two lion-like men of Moab: he went down alſo and ſlew a lion in the midſt of a pit in time of ſnow.

21 And he ſlew an Egyptian, a goodly man: and the Egyptian had a ſpear in his hand; but he went down to him with a ſtaff, and plucked the ſpear out of the Egyptian's hand, and ſlew him with his own ſpear.

dictory, one of the two places muſt have been corrupted. Kennicott. The reader is to obſerve that this liſt conſiſts of 37 warriors, the firſt of which is Joab, who, though not expreſly mentioned here (becauſe he has been celebrated through this whole book of Samuel) yet he muſt be here included, to complete the number ſpecified at the 39th verſe: the author of Chronicles enumerates Joab at the beginning of his catalogue: he therefore is to be reckoned the captain-general; next comes a double ſeries of three generals, (the three moſt honourable next to Joab making the firſt ſeries, viz. Jaſhobeam, Eleazar, and Shammah; and the three more honourable than the thirty, but leſs honourable than the firſt three, making the ſecond ſeries, viz. Abiſhai, Benaihu, and Aſahel) and then the body of thirty. This verſe is miſerably corrupted; but Mr. Kennicott has, with great ingenuity and induſtry, corrected the original, and given us this tranſlation: Theſe are the names of the mighty men whom David had: Jaſhobeam the Hachmonite, chief of three; he lifted up his ſpear againſt three hundred ſoldiers at one time. This is nearly correſpondent to Chron. xi. 11. The emendations in this chapter are ſo numerous, that I ſhall tranſcribe only the moſt material; and refer the learned reader to Mr. Kennicott's excellent Diſſertation, from page 64, to p. 258.

9 Dodo.] Read, Dodi; and after the three mighty men, read he was with David at Paſdammim. 10 And the Philiſtines were there gathered together to battle, and the men of Iſrael fled, &c. and inſtead of victory, read, a great deliverance. 12 Inſtead of a troop, read, the Philiſtines were gathered together at Lehi, where was a piece of ground full of barley, &c. 13 Read---now theſe three, who were head men, ſuperior to the thirty, went down and came over the rock to David, &c.

15, 16 O that one would give me drink of the waters of the well of Beth-lehem, &c.] It is very remarkable, that three men ſhould break through the hoſt of the Philiſtines, ſtay to draw water out of the well, and carry it away with an high hand through the ſame hoſt to David.

17 Is not this the blood of the men, &c.] He no longer conſidered it as mere water, but the blood of the men who had fetched it. This however is the verſion: Shall I drink the blood of theſe men, who have thus hazarded their lives? for at the hazard of their lives, have they brought it.

20 For Benaiah, read Benaihu, and for lion-like, read, men who were ſtouter than lions. 21 Read, he ſlew an Egyptian, a man wonderful to behold; and in the hand of the Egyptian was a ſpear, like a weaver's beam, &c. 22 Read, theſe things did Benaihu, &c. 24 Read Aſahel, the brother of Joab, was alſo above the thirty. 25 Shamhoth the Harodite. 26 Heletz the Pelonite. 27 For Mebunnai, read Sibbecai. 28 For Zalmon, read Ilai. 29 Read Heled, and for Ittai, read Ithai. 30 For Hiddai, read Hurai. 31 For Barhumite, read Bahurimite. 32 Read Gonni, of the ſons of Haſhem. 33 Jonathan, the ſon of Shammah, the Hararite, Ahiam, the ſon of Shacar, &c. 35 Naarai, the ſon of Azbai. 36 Joel, the brother of Nathan.

34 Eliphelet the son of Ahasbia the son of the Maachathite, Eliam the son of Ahithophel the Gilonite,

35 Hezrai the Carmalite, Paarai the Arbite,

36 Igal the son of Nathan of Zobah, Bani the Gadite,

37 Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Beethorite, armour-bearer to Joab the son of Zeruiah,

38 Ira an Ithrite, Gareb an Ithrite,

39 Uriah the Hittite: thirty and seven in all.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 David numbereth the people. 10 He, having three plagues propounded by Gad, repenteth, and chooseth the three days pestilence. 17 His intercession to God.

AND again the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel: and he moved David against them, to say, Go, number Israel and Judah.

2 For the king said to Joab the captain of the host, which was with him, Go now through all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, and number ye the people, that I may know the number of the people.

3 And Joab said unto the king, Now the LORD thy God add unto the people, how many soever they be, an hundred-fold, and that the eyes of my lord the king may see it: but why doth my lord the king delight in this thing?

4 Notwithstanding, the king's word prevailed against Joab, and against the captains of the host. And Joab and the captains of the host went out from the presence of the king to number the people of Israel.

5 And they passed over Jordan, and pitched in Aroer, on the right side of the city that lieth in the midst of the river of Gad, and toward Jazer.

6 Then they came to Gilead, and to the land of Tahtim-hodshi: and they came to Danjaan, and about to Zidon,

7 And came to the strong hold of Tyre, and to all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites: and they went out to the south of Judah, even to Beer-sheba.

8 So when they had gone through all the land, they came to Jerusalem at the end of nine months and twenty days.

9 And Joab gave up the sum of the number

Notes on the Twenty-fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Again the anger of the Lord was kindled against Israel.] Probably God was provoked by the many crimes they now commited, as they lived in luxury and ease.

He moved David against them.] It should rather be translated with Castalio, David was moved to say, go, number the people; for God is not the author of evil: 1 Chron. xxi. 1, it is said that Satan stood up against Israel, and provoked David to number Israel. By Satan, we are not to understand the Devil, the Hebrew implying any wicked person or spirit in general; therefore this pernicious advice seems to have been given David by some evil minister or counsellor. Le Clerc.

It is plain from several passages of the Old Testament compared with each other, viz. Exod. xxx. 12. Numb. i. 2, 3. 2 Chron. xxiv. 6. that the census among the Jews was a sacred action, as the money was to be applied to the service of the temple; and that David's crime consisted in converting a sacred action to a civil purpose: that he was faulty likewise in numbering the Levites, and those under the age fit for war. Ward's Dissert. p. 42.

9 Joab gave up the sum of the number of the people unto the king, &c.] If we compare this account with what we meet in 1 Chron.

of the people unto the king: and there were in Iſrael eight hundred thouſand valiant men that drew the ſword: and the men of Judah were five hundred thouſand men.

10 ¶ And David's heart ſmote him, after that he had numbered the people. And David ſaid unto the LORD, I have ſinned greatly in that I have done: and now I beſeech thee, O LORD, take away the iniquity of thy ſervant; for I have done very fooliſhly.

11 For when David was up in the morning, the word of the LORD came unto the prophet Gad, David's ſeer, ſaying, 12 Go, and ſay unto David, Thus ſaith the LORD, I offer thee three things; chooſe thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee.

13 So Gad came to David, and told him, and ſaid unto him, Shall ſeven years of famine come unto thee in thy land? or wilt thou flee three months before thine enemies, while they purſue thee? or that there be three days peſtilence in thy land? now adviſe, and ſee what anſwer I ſhall return to him that ſent me.

14 And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtrait: let us now fall into the hand of the LORD; for his mercies are great: and let me not fall into the hand of man.

15 So the LORD ſent a peſtilence upon Iſrael from the morning even to the time appointed: and there died of the people from Dan even to Beer-ſheba ſeventy thouſand men.

16 And when the angel ſtretched out his hand upon Jeruſalem to deſtroy it, the LORD repented him of the evil, and ſaid to the angel that deſtroyed the people, It is enough: ſtay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD was by the threſhing-place of Araunah the Jebuſite.

17 ¶ And David ſpake unto the LORD when he ſaw the angel that ſmote the people, and ſaid, Lo, I have ſinned, and I have done wickedly: but theſe ſheep, what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, be againſt me, and againſt my father's houſe.

18 And Gad came that day to David, and ſaid unto him, Go up, rear an altar unto the LORD in the threſhing-floor of Araunah the Jebuſite.

19 And David, according to the ſaying of Gad, went up as the LORD commanded.

20 And Araunah looked, and ſaw the king and his ſervants coming on toward him. And Araunah went out, and bowed himſelf before the king on his face upon the ground.

21 And Araunah ſaid, wherefore is my lord the king come to his ſervant? and David ſaid, To buy the threſhing-floor of thee to build an altar unto the LORD, that the plague may be ſtayed from the people.

22 And Araunah ſaid unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what ſeemeth good unto him: behold, here be oxen for burnt-ſacrifice, and threſhing-inſtruments and other inſtruments of the oxen for wood.

xxi. 5, we ſhall find a great difference; for there the men of Iſrael are ſaid to be three hundred thouſand more than here; and, on the other hand, the men of Judah are ſaid to be thirty thouſand leſs. The ſcribes have been apt to write their numbers wrong: the leſſer number is more likely to be the true one: for if there were ſo many fighting men, the additional numbers of the aged, women, and children, muſt fill ſo ſmall a country very full. Wall.

10 David ſaid unto the Lord, I have ſinned greatly in that I have done.] Interpreters are far from being agreed in what this ſin of David conſiſted; but the moſt probable opinion is, that David, being the anointed of the Lord, and one who had been favoured by the Almighty in the moſt remarkable manner, ſhould not have gloried in the multitude of his forces, nor made fleſh his arm; for he well knew, that there is no reſtraint to the Lord to ſave by many or by few.

11 For when David was up in the morning.] Here is an egregious error in the tranſlation; which gives us to apprehend, that David's penitence was the effect of Gad's threat; For when David was up in the morning, &c. whereas it ſhould not be tranſlated For, but And; being a connective, and not a caſual particle. Delany.

13 Shall ſeven years of famine come unto thee in thy land?] In 1 Chron. xxi. 12, the propoſal runs regularly (not ſeven but) three years famine, three months flight, three days peſtilence: the LXX alſo read, three years famine; therefore there is no doubt but this is a miſtake of the tranſcriber, who has corrupted three into ſeven. Wall and Kennicott.

15 So the Lord ſent a peſtilence----from the morning even to the time appointed.] The time appointed was three days, therefore ſome are of opinion that the plague laſted ſo long: but then this does not agree with what the ſacred hiſtorian tells us, namely, that the Lord repented him of the evil, and commanded the angel who ſmote the people to ſtay his hand; God in his mercy having been pleaſed to mitigate the rigour of his judgment, on the ſincere repentance of his people.

17 Lo, I have ſinned; but theſe ſheep, what have they done?] Like a good man, he reflected only on his own ſin, in numbering the people; but forgot their crimes in depoſing him, and ſetting Abſalom on the throne of Iſrael.

18 In the threſhing-floor of Araunah.] This threſhing-floor was on mount Moriah, where Abraham attempted to offer up his ſon, and where the temple was afterwards built by Solomon.

23 All theſe things did Araunah, as a king, give unto the king. And Araunah ſaid unto the king, The LORD thy God accept thee.

24 And the king ſaid unto Araunah, Nay; but I will ſurely buy it of thee at a price: neither will I offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD my God of that which doth coſt me nothing. So David bought the threſhing-floor and the oxen for fifty ſhekels of ſilver.

25 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings. So the LORD was intreated for the land, and the plague was ſtayed from Iſrael.

24 David bought the threſhing-floor, and the oxen, for fifty ſhekels of ſilver.] In Chronicles it is ſaid, that David bought the threſhing-floor, &c. for ſix hundred ſhekels of gold. Now a ſhekel of gold being of twelve times more value than a ſhekel of ſilver, it makes the diſparity very large; therefore it is generally ſuppoſed that David made two purchaſes. He firſt bought the threſhing-floor and oxen for fifty ſhekels of ſilver, and afterwards all the adjacent ground, occupied by the courts of the temple, for ſix hundred ſhekels of gold. Patrick.

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE KINGS, COMMONLY CALLED The Third Book of the KINGS.

THE ARGUMENT.

Theſe Books are called Kings, becauſe they contain the hiſtory of the kings of Iſrael and Judah, from the beginning of Solomon's reign down to the captivity of Babylon; viz. for the ſpace of near 600 years, taking into the account the hiſtory of the two foregoing books of Samuel. They are thought to have been compoſed by Ezra, who extracted them from the public records. This book contains the latter part of the life and the death of David, and the flouriſhing ſtate of the Jews under Solomon, his building of the temple, his ſhameful defection from the true religion, and the ſudden decay of the Jewiſh nation after his death, when it was divided into two kingdoms. The reſt of the book is taken up in relating the reigns of four kings of Judah, and eight of Iſrael.

CHAP. I.

1 Abiſhag cheriſheth David in his extreme old age. 5 Adonijah, David's darling, uſurpeth the kingdom. 32 Solomon, by David's appointment is anointed king by Zadok and Nathan. 50 Adonijah, fleeing to the horns of the altar, is diſmiſſed by Solomon.

NOW king David was old and ſtricken in years; and they covered him with clothes, but he gat no heat.

2 Wherefore his ſervants ſaid unto him, Let there be ſought for my lord the king a young virgin: and let her ſtand before the king, and let her cheriſh him, and let her lie in thy boſom, that my lord the king may get heat.

Notes on the Firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 They covered him with clothes, but he gat no heat.] He ſeems to have been ſtricken with a palſy, or ſome other diſtemper that chilled his blood, ſo that he could find no warmth in his bed. Patrick.

3 So they ſought for a fair damſel throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael, and found Abiſhag a Shunammite, and brought her to the king.

4 And the damſel was very fair, and cheriſhed the king, and miniſtred to him: but the king knew her not.

5 ¶ Then Adonijah the ſon of Haggith exalted himſelf, ſaying, I will be king: and he prepared him chariots and horſemen, and fifty men to run before him.

6 And his father had not diſpleaſed him at any time, in ſaying, Why haſt thou done ſo? and he alſo was a very goodly man; and his mother bare him after Abſalom.

7 And he conferred with Joab the ſon of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the prieſt: and they following Adonijah, helped him.

8 But Zadok the prieſt, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet, and Shimei, and Rei, and the mighty men which belonged to David, were not with Adonijah.

9 And Adonijah ſlew ſheep and oxen and fat cattle by the ſtone of Zoheleth, which is by En-rogel, and called all his brethren the king's ſons, and all the men of Judah the king's ſervants.

10 But Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother he called not.

11 Wherefore Nathan ſpake unto Bathſheba the mother of Solomon, ſaying, Haſt thou not heard that Adonijah the ſon of Haggith doth reign, and David our lord knoweth it not?

12 Now therefore come, let me, I pray thee, give thee counſel, that thou mayeſt ſave thine own life, and the life of thy ſon Solomon.

13 Go, and get thee in unto king David, and ſay unto him, Didſt not thou, my lord O king, ſwear unto thine handmaid, ſaying, Aſſuredly Solomon thy ſon ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne? why then doth Adonijah reign?

14 Behold, while thou yet talkeſt there with the king, I will alſo come in after thee, and confirm thy words.

15 And Bath-ſheba went in unto the king, into the chamber. And the king was very old; and Abiſhag the Shunammite miniſtred unto the king.

16 And Bath-ſheba bowed, and did obeiſance unto the king. And the king ſaid, What wouldeſt thou?

17 And ſhe ſaid unto him, My lord, thou ſwareſt by the LORD thy God unto thine handmaid, ſaying, Aſſuredly Solomon thy ſon ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne:

18 And now behold, Adonijah reigneth; and now, my lord O king, thou knoweſt it not.

19 And he hath ſlain oxen and fat cattle and ſheep in abundance, and hath called all the ſons of the king, and Abiathar the prieſt, and Joab the captain of the hoſt: but Solomon thy ſervant hath he not called.

20 And thou, my lord O king, the eyes of all Iſrael are upon thee, that thou ſhouldeſt tell them who ſhall ſit on the throne of my lord the king after him.

21 Otherwiſe it ſhall come to paſs, when my lord the king ſhall ſleep with his fathers, that I and my ſon Solomon ſhall be counted offenders.

22 And lo, while ſhe yet talked with the king, Nathan the prophet alſo came in.

23 And they told the king, ſaying, Behold, Nathan the prophet. And when he was come in before the king, he bowed himſelf before the king with his face to the ground.

24 And Nathan ſaid, My lord O king, haſt thou ſaid, Adonijah ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne?

25 For he is gone down this day, and hath ſlain oxen and fat cattle and ſheep in abundance, and hath called all the king's ſons, and

6 His father had not diſpleaſed him at any time.] It is remarked of David, that one of his greateſt faults, and the ſource from whence many of his misfortunes flowed, was his exceſſive indulgence to his children; of whom he was ſo extravagantly fond, that he overlooked their faults: though he could not be ignorant, that this was a breach of a poſitive law, and that Eli the high-prieſt was ſeverely puniſhed for this neglect. Poole.

24 Nathan ſaid, My lord, O king, haſt thou ſaid, Adonijah ſhall reign after me, &c.] God had before promiſed David, by Nathan, 2 Sam. vii. 12. that he would ſet upon his throne a ſon that ſhould proceed from him; which plainly ſignified, that none of his ſons already born were to be the perſon. And in 1 Chron. xxii. 10. he declared, by the ſame prophet, that, after his father, Solomon ſhould reign and build him an houſe. Patrick.

the captains of the hoſt, and Abiathar the prieſt; and behold, they eat and drink before him, and ſay, God ſave king Adonijah.

26 But me, even me thy ſervant, and Zadok the prieſt, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and thy ſervant Solomon hath he not called.

27 Is this thing done by my lord the king, and thou haſt not ſhewed it unto thy ſervant, who ſhould ſit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

28 Then king David anſwered and ſaid, Call me Bath-ſheba. And ſhe came into the king's preſence, and ſtood before the king.

29 And the king ſware, and ſaid, As the LORD liveth, that hath redeemed my ſoul out of all diſtreſs, 30 Even as I ſware unto thee by the LORD God of Iſrael, ſaying, Aſſuredly Solomon thy ſon ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne in my ſtead; even ſo will I certainly do this day.

31 Then Bath-ſheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did reverence to the king, and ſaid, Let my lord king David live for ever.

32 ¶ And king David ſaid, Call me Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada. And they came before the king.

33 The king alſo ſaid unto them, Take with you the ſervants of your lord, and cauſe Solomon my ſon to ride upon mine own mule, and bring him down to Gihon.

34 And let Zadok the prieſt and Nathan the prophet anoint him there king over Iſrael: and blow ye with the trumpet, and ſay, God ſave king Solomon.

35 Then ye ſhall come up after him, that he may come and ſit upon my throne; for he ſhall be king in my ſtead: and I have appointed him to be ruler over Iſrael and over Judah.

36 And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada anſwered the king, and ſaid, Amen: the LORD God of my lord the king ſay ſo too.

37 As the LORD hath been with my lord the king, even ſo be he with Solomon, and make his throne greater than the throne of my lord king David.

38 So Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites went down, and cauſed Solomon to ride upon king David's mule, and brought him to Gihon.

39 And Zadok the prieſt took an horn of oil out of the tabernacle, and anointed Solomon. And they blew the trumpet; and all the people ſaid, God ſave king Solomon.

40 And all the people came up after him, and the people piped with pipes, and rejoiced with great joy, ſo that the earth rent with the ſound of them.

41 And Adonijah and all the gueſts that were with him heard it as they had made an end of eating. And when Joab heard the ſound of the trumpet, he ſaid, Wherefore is this noiſe of the city being in an uproar?

42 And while he yet ſpake, behold, Jonathan the ſon of Abiathar the prieſt came. And Adonijah ſaid unto him Come in; for thou art a valiant man, and bringeſt good tidings.

43 And Jonathan anſwered and ſaid to Adonijah, Verily our lord king David hath made Solomon king.

44 And the king hath ſent with him Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they have cauſed him to ride upon the king's mule.

45 And Zadok the prieſt and Nathan the 30 Solomon thy ſon ſhall reign after me.] The power of naming a ſucceſſor was firſt aſſumed by David, and in after-ages, granted to ſeveral good princes; but among the Iſraelites it did not prevail long, becauſe the conſtitution of other nations, to which the Iſraelites affected to conform themſelves, was different.

33 Cauſe Solomon to ride on my mule.] This was the beginning of Solomon's authority; for no perſon, as Abarbinel obſerves, might ride upon the king's mule. The reaſon why he was ordered to ride upon a mule, and not upon a horſe, was, becauſe a horſe is a warlike creature, but a mule is a pacific animal, and was an emblem of that tranquility and ſecurity which they enjoyed in Solomon's reign.

38 So Zadok the prieſt, and Nathan the prophet—cauſed Solomon to ride upon the king's mule.] All the ſons of David rode upon mules when they went abroad; but David had a mule peculiar to himſelf, and therefore the ſetting Solomon upon it was a ſufficient declaration in his favour; it being, according to Maimonides, a capital offence to ride upon the king's mule, to ſit on his throne, or handle his ſceptre, without his order.

prophet have anointed him king in Gihon: and they are come up from thence rejoicing, ſo that the city rang again. This is the noiſe that ye have heard.

46 And alſo Solomon ſitteth on the throne of the kingdom.

47 And moreover, the king's ſervants came to bleſs our lord king David, ſaying, God make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne. And the king bowed himſelf upon the bed.

48 And alſo thus ſaid the king, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, which hath given one to ſit on my throne this day, mine eyes even ſeeing it.

49 And all the gueſts that were with Adonijah were afraid, and roſe up, and went every man his way.

50 ¶ And Adonijah feared becauſe of Solomon, and aroſe, and went, and caught hold on the horns of the altar.

51 And it was told Solomon, ſaying, Behold, Adonijah feareth king Solomon: for lo, he hath caught hold on the horns of the altar, ſaying, Let king Solomon ſwear unto me to day that he will not ſlay his ſervant with the ſword.

52 And Solomon ſaid, If he will ſhew himſelf a worthy man, there ſhall not an hair of him fall to the earth: but if wickedneſs ſhall be found in him, he ſhall die.

53 So king Solomon ſent, and they brought him down from the altar. And he came and bowed himſelf to king Solomon. And Solomon ſaid unto him, Go to thine houſe.

CHAP. II.

1 David, having given a charge to Solomon, 10 dieth. 12 Solomon ſucceedeth. 13 Adonijah is put to death. 28 Joab is ſlain. 36 Shimei's death.

NOW the days of David drew nigh that he ſhould die; and he charged Solomon his ſon, ſaying,

2 I go the way of all the earth: be thou ſtrong therefore, and ſhew thy ſelf a man;

3 And keep the charge of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, to keep his ſtatutes and his commandments and his judgments and his teſtimonies, as it is written in the law of Moſes, that thou mayeſt proſper in all that thou doeſt, and whitherſoever thou turneſt thy ſelf:

4 That the LORD may continue his word which he ſpake concerning me, ſaying, If thy children take heed to their way, to walk before me in truth, with all their heart and with all their ſoul, there ſhall not fail thee (ſaid he) a man on the throne of Iſrael.

5 Moreover, thou knoweſt alſo what Joab the ſon of Zeruiah did to me, and what he did to the two captains of the hoſts of Iſrael, unto Abner the ſon of Ner, and unto Amaſa the ſon of Jether, whom he ſlew, and ſhed the blood of war in peace, and put the blood of war upon his girdle that was about his loins, and in his ſhoes that were on his feet.

6 Do therefore according to thy wiſdom, and let not his hoary head go down to the grave in peace.

47 The king bowed himſelf upon the bed.] This is like an expreſſion in Gen. xlvii. 31. See the note upon it.

50 Adonijah feared---and went and caught hold on the horns of the altar.] There is no precept in the law that makes the altar a privileged place: but the Jews, in conformity to the cuſtom of other nations, ſeem to have conſidered it as ſuch. The queſtion is, to what altar Adonijah fled; whether to the brazen one which Moſes made, and which was now at Gibeon, or to that which his father had lately erected in the threſhing-floor of Araunah? Moſt probably, as David had built a place for the reception of the ark of the covenant on Mount Zion, he had alſo built there an altar, for the oblation of the daily ſacrifices, and that it was to this altar that Adonijah fled for refuge. Le Clerc.

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 6 Let not his hoary head go down to the grave in peace.] David's character has been greatly impeached by this laſt dying charge to his ſon, in regard to Joab and Shimei; on both whom he deſired vengeance ſhould be taken for thoſe crimes, which he ſeemed to have forgiven in the one, by ſuffering them to go ſo long unpuniſhed; and which he expreſly forgave in the other, and confirmed that forgiveneſs by an oath, that he ſhould not die. To the firſt of theſe I anſwer, that Joab's murders were crimes which David never did forgive; and probably thought he could not, in contradiction to the expreſs commands of God: and therefore that guilt, which he himſelf wanted power to puniſh, and which he only forbore to puniſh, becauſe he wanted power, he wiſely and religiouſly recommended to his ſon to expiate, by the blood of the offender, that his family and kingdom might be clear of it. See the ſpeech which David made on Joab's murder of Abner, 2 Sam. iii. 28, 29, and 39. Beſides, it was for the public good that ſuch a bloody wretch as Joab ſhould ſuffer at a proper time, and as Providence ſhould direct; and as reaſons of ſtate might defer the puniſhment both of Joab and Shimei during his own life-time, he thought it derogatory to the glory of his ſon's reign, to ſuffer ſuch notorious offenders to go unpuniſhed. As to his charge concerning Shi-

7 But ſhew kindneſs unto the ſons of Barzillai the Gileadite, and let them be of thoſe that eat at thy table: for ſo they came to me when I fled becauſe of Abſalom thy brother.

8 And behold, thou haſt with thee Shimei the ſon of Gera, a Benjamite of Bahurim, which curſed me with a grievous curſe, in the day when I went to Mahanaim: but he came down to meet me at Jordan, and I ſware to him by the LORD, ſaying, I will not put thee to death with the ſword.

9 Now therefore hold him not guiltleſs: for thou art a wiſe man, and knoweſt what thou oughteſt to do unto him; but his hoary head bring thou down to the grave with blood.

10 ¶ So David ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David.

11 And the days that David reigned over Iſrael were forty years: ſeven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three years reigned he in Jeruſalem.

12 ¶ Then ſat Solomon upon the throne of David his father; and his kingdom was eſtabliſhed greatly.

13 ¶ And Adonijah the ſon of Haggith came to Bath-ſheba the mother of Solomon. And ſhe ſaid, Comeſt thou peaceably? and he ſaid, Peaceably.

14 He ſaid moreover, I have ſomewhat to ſay unto thee. And ſhe ſaid, Say on.

15 And he ſaid, Thou knoweſt that the kingdom was mine, and that all Iſrael ſet their faces on me that I ſhould reign: howbeit the kingdom is turned about, and is become my brother's: for it was his from the LORD.

16 And now I aſk one petition of thee, deny me not. And ſhe ſaid unto him, Say on.

17 And he ſaid, Speak, I pray thee, unto Solomon the king (for he will not ſay thee nay,) that he give me Abiſhag the Shunammite to wife.

18 And Bath-ſheba ſaid, Well; I will ſpeak for thee unto the king.

19 Bath-ſheba therefore went unto king Solomon, to ſpeak unto him for Adonijah. And the king roſe up to meet her, and bowed himſelf unto her and ſat down on his throne, and cauſed a ſeat to be ſet for the king's mother; and ſhe ſat on his right hand.

20 Then ſhe ſaid, I deſire one ſmall petition of thee; I pray thee, ſay me not nay. And the king ſaid unto her, Aſk on, my mother: for I will not ſay thee nay.

21 And ſhe ſaid, Let Abiſhag the Shunammite be given to Adonijah thy brother to wife.

22 And king Solomon anſwered and ſaid

mei, it is plain, that if David had been actuated by a ſpirit of revenge, he would not have ſpared him in the very inſtant of paſſion and provocation, and when he was ſo earneſtly importuned for leave to puniſh him. And as to David's oath to Shimei, it muſt be remembered that it was only perſonal; and Solomon was at full liberty to vindicate the majeſty of kings, in chaſtiſing this high inſult upon his father, after ſuch a manner as he thought fit.

9 Now therefore, hold him not guiltleſs, &c.] Dr. Delany ingeniouſly obſerves, that this paſſage is not rightly tranſlated; and that the particle vau ſhould be rendered, as in ſimilar caſes, not connectively, but disjunctively: for inſtance, Agur, (Prov. xxx.) beſeeches God to keep him from the extremes, both of poverty and wealth: if the vau were to be rendered connectively, the petition would run thus: Give me not poverty and riches—which is abſurd: in the ſame analogy this verſe, rightly tranſlated, will ſtand thus: Now therefore neither hold him guiltleſs, (for thou art a wiſe man, &c.) nor his hoary head bring thou down to the grave with blood. In this ſenſe, the advice is full of humanity, as well as wiſdom; and Solomon underſtood and obſerved it in this ſenſe, and no other.

10 Was buried in the city of David.] Modern travellers aſſure us, that the monument of David is no where to be found. But though Providence has thought proper to ſuffer his ſepulchre to be loſt in oblivion, there is ſtill remaining an eternal monument of his genius and piety; I mean the book of Pſalms, the greateſt part of which was compoſed by him, and which publiſhes his glory far beyond the moſt pompous elegies: the ſon of Sirach has conſecrated to his memory the following epitaph, which will remain when braſs and marble ſhall be no more: As the fat is taken away from the peace-offerings, ſo was David choſen from the people of Iſrael. He played with lions as with kids, and with bears as with lambs. Slew he not a giant when he was young? and did not he take away reproach from the people? he deſtroyed the enemies on every ſide, and brought to nought the Philiſtines.---In all his works he praiſed the Holy One moſt high with words of glory.---He ſet ſingers alſo before the altar, that by their voices they might make ſweet melody, and daily ſing praiſes in their ſongs. He beautified their feaſts, and ſet in order the ſolemn times.---The Lord took away his ſins, and exalted his horn for ever: he gave him a covenant of kings, and a throne of glory in Iſrael. Eccleſ. xlvii. 2, &c.

11 The days that David reigned over Iſrael were forty years, &c.] It is ſaid, 2 Sam. v. 5, that he reigned ſeven years and ſix months in Hebron, and three and thirty in Jeruſalem, which make his reign forty years and a half: but we muſt remember, that it is very common in ſcripture computation to omit ſmaller ſums, and only reckon by a round number; for which reaſon theſe ſix months are not taken notice of in this account of David's reign. Patrick.

22 Aſk for him the kingdom alſo.] Solomon here gently reproves his mother for aſking a favour, which, if granted, muſt prove of the moſt fatal conſequence; for Adonijah, by aſking Abiſhag, David's wife, did, in fact, aſk the kingdom alſo, ſince the wives of the deceaſed monarch could only belong to the perſon who ſucceeded to the throne.

unto his mother, And why doſt thou aſk Abiſhag the Shunammite for Adonijah? aſk for him the kingdom alſo; for he is mine elder brother; even for him, and for Abiathar the prieſt, and for Joab the ſon of Zeruiah.

23 Then king Solomon ſware by the LORD, ſaying, God do ſo to me, and more alſo, if Adonijah have not ſpoken this word againſt his own life.

24 Now therefore, as the LORD liveth, which hath eſtabliſhed me, and ſet me on the throne of David my father, and who hath made me an houſe, as he promiſed, Adonijah ſhall be put to death this day.

25 And king Solomon ſent by the hand of Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada; and he fell upon him, that he died.

26 And unto Abiathar the prieſt ſaid the king, Get thee to Anathoth, unto thine own fields; for thou art worthy of death: but I will not at this time put thee to death, becauſe thou bareſt the ark of the Lord GOD before David my father, and becauſe thou haſt been afflicted in all wherein my father was afflicted.

27 So Solomon thruſt out Abiathar from being prieſt unto the LORD; that he might fulfil the word of the LORD which he ſpake concerning the houſe of Eli in Shiloh.

28 ¶ Then tidings came to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adonijah, though he turned not after Abſalom. And Joab fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and caught hold on the horns of the altar.

29 And it was told king Solomon that Joab was fled unto the tabernacle of the LORD, and behold, he is by the altar. Then Solomon ſent Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, ſaying, Go fall upon him.

30 And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the LORD, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the king, Come forth. And he ſaid, Nay; but I will die here. And Benaiah brought the king word again, ſaying, Thus ſaid Joab, and thus he anſwered me.

31 And the king ſaid unto him, Do as he hath ſaid, and fall upon him, and bury him; that thou mayeſt take away the innocent blood which Joab ſhed, from me, and from the houſe of my father.

32 And the LORD ſhall return his blood upon his own head, who fell upon two men more righteous and better than he, and ſlew them with the ſword, my father David not knowing thereof, to wit, Abner the ſon of Ner, captain of the hoſt of Iſrael, and Amaſa the ſon of Jether, captain of the hoſt of Judah.

33 Their blood ſhall therefore return upon the head of Joab, and upon the head of his ſeed for ever: but upon David, and upon his ſeed, and upon his houſe, and upon his throne ſhall there be peace for ever from the LORD.

34 So Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada went up, and fell upon him, and ſlew him. And he was buried in his own houſe in the wilderneſs.

35 And the king put Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada in his room over the hoſt. And Zadok the prieſt did the king put in the room of Abiathar.

36 ¶ And the king ſent and called for Shimei, and ſaid unto him, Build thee an houſe in Jeruſalem, and dwell there, and go not forth thence any whither.

37 For it ſhall be that on the day thou goeſt out, and paſſeſt over the brook Kidron, thou ſhalt know for certain that thou ſhalt ſurely die: thy blood ſhall be upon thine own head.

38 And Shimei ſaid unto the king, The ſaying is good: as my lord the king hath ſaid, ſo will thy ſervant do. And Shimei dwelt in Jeruſalem many days.

39 And it came to paſs at the end of three years, that two of the ſervants of Shimei ran away unto Achiſh ſon of Maacah king of Gath. And they told Shimei, ſaying, Behold, thy ſervants be in Gath.

40 And Shimei aroſe, and ſaddled his aſs, and went to Gath to Achiſh to ſeek his ſervants: and Shimei went, and brought his ſervants from Gath.

28 He turned not after Abſalom.] What has Abſalom to do here? the Vatican copy of the Septuagint and moſt of the antient verſions read Solomon, inſtead of Abſalom; which ſeems the genuine reading.

31 Do as he hath ſaid] Kill him at the very altar where he reſolves to die. To let all men ſee, that no place, however ſacred, ſhould ſecure a murderer from juſtice.

Notes

41 And it was told Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jeruſalem to Gath, and was come again.

42 And the king ſent and called for Shimei, and ſaid unto him, Did I not make thee ſwear by the LORD, and proteſted unto thee, ſaying, Know for a certain that on the day thou goeſt out, and walkeſt abroad any whither, that thou ſhalt ſurely die? and thou ſaidſt unto me, The word that I have heard is good.

43 Why then haſt thou not kept the oath of the LORD, and the commandment that I have charged thee with?

44 The king ſaid moreover to Shimei, Thou knoweſt all the wickedneſs which thine heart is privy to, that thou didſt to David my father: therefore the LORD ſhall return thy wickedneſs upon thine own head;

45 And king Solomon ſhall be bleſſed, and the throne of David ſhall be eſtabliſhed before the LORD for ever.

46 So the king commanded Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada; which went out and fell upon him, that he died. And the kingdom was eſtabliſhed in the hand of Solomon.

CHAP. III.

1 Solomon marrieth Pharaoh's daughter. 5 His choice. 16 His judgment between the two harlots.

AND Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt, and took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her into the city of David, until he had made an end of building his own houſe, and the houſe of the LORD, and the wall of Jeruſalem round about.

2 Only the people ſacrificed in high places, becauſe there was no houſe built unto the name of the LORD until thoſe days.

3 And Solomon loved the LORD, walking in the ſtatutes of David his father: only he ſacrificed and burned incenſe in high places.

4 And the king went to Gibeon to ſacrifice there; for that was the great high place. A thouſand burnt-offerings did Solomon offer upon that altar.

5 ¶ In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon in a dream by night: and God ſaid, Aſk what I ſhall give thee.

6 And Solomon ſaid, Thou haſt ſhewed unto thy ſervant David my father great mercy, according as he walked before thee in truth and in righteouſneſs, and in uprightneſs of heart with thee, and thou haſt kept for him this great kindneſs, that thou haſt given him a ſon to ſit on his throne, as it is this day.

7 And now, O LORD my God, thou haſt made thy ſervant king inſtead of David my father: and I am but a little child: I know not how to go out or come in.

8 And thy ſervant is in the midſt of thy people which thou haſt choſen, a great people, that cannot be numbered nor counted for multitude.

9 Give therefore thy ſervant an underſtanding heart, to judge thy people, that I may diſcern between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy ſo great a people?

10 And the ſpeech pleaſed the LORD, that Solomon had aſked this thing.

11 And God ſaid unto him, Becauſe thou haſt aſked this thing, and haſt not aſked for thy ſelf long life, neither haſt aſked riches for thy ſelf, nor haſt aſked the life of thine enemies, but haſt aſked for thy ſelf underſtanding, to diſcern judgement;

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 1 Solomon made affinity with Pharaoh king of Egypt.] It may ſeem ſtrange, that in all the hiſtory of the Jews, from Moſes to Solomon, no mention ſhould be made of the kings of Egypt; but their own hiſtorians tell us, that, during this time, the Egyptian kings did nothing worth recording.

Took Pharaoh's daughter.] This was contrary to the law, unleſs ſhe was firſt a proſelyte to the Jewiſh religion.

2 The people ſacrificed in high places, &c.] Theſe were the original places where divine worſhip was performed by the ancient patriarchs, ſo that the whole fault conſiſted in the place, not in the worſhip itſelf: and the ſacred hiſtorian tells us, that the reaſon why the people took this liberty, was becauſe there was no houſe built for a ſettled place of worſhip. Patrick.

4 The king went to Gibeon to ſacrifice there.] The tabernacle and brazen altar were both at Gibeon: for, after Shiloh was deſtroyed, it was carried to Nob; and the prieſts being there ſlain by Saul, it was removed to Gibeon, 2 Chron. i. 3.

A thouſand burnt-offerings did Solomon offer.] It is not to be ſuppoſed that theſe ſacrifices were offered in one day: each of the great feſtivals laſted ſeven days; but Solomon might ſtay much longer at Gibeon, till, by the daily oblations, this number of burnt-offerings were conſumed.

7 I am but a little child: I know not how to go out, &c.] i. e. I am incapable of governing ſo great a people for want of experience.

15 And Solomon awoke, and behold, it was a dream. And he came to Jeruſalem, and ſtood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and offered up burnt-offerings, and offered peace-offerings, and made a feaſt to all his ſervants.

16 ¶ Then came there two women, that were harlots, unto the king, and ſtood before him.

17 And the one woman ſaid, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one houſe; and I was delivered of a child with her in the houſe.

18 And it came to paſs the third day after that I was delivered, that this woman was delivered alſo: and we were together; there was no ſtranger with us in the houſe, ſave we two in the houſe.

19 And this woman's child died in the night; becauſe ſhe overlaid it.

20 And ſhe aroſe at midnight, and took my ſon from beſide me, while thine handmaid ſlept, and laid it in her boſom, and laid her dead child in my boſom.

21 And when I roſe in the morning to give my child ſuck, behold, it was dead: but when I had conſidered it in the morning, behold, it was not my ſon which I did bear.

22 And the other woman ſaid, Nay; but the living is my ſon, and the dead is thy ſon. And this ſaid, No; but the dead is thy ſon, and the living is my ſon. Thus they ſpake before the king.

23 Then ſaid the king, The one ſaith, This is my ſon that liveth, and thy ſon is the dead: and the other ſaith, Nay; but thy ſon is the dead, and my ſon is the living.

24 And the king ſaid, Bring me a ſword. And they brought a ſword before the king.

25 And the king ſaid, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

26 Then ſpake the woman whoſe the living child was unto the king, (for her bowels yerned upon her ſon) and ſhe ſaid, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wiſe ſlay it. But the other ſaid, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

27 Then the king anſwered, and ſaid, Give her the living child, and in no wiſe ſlay it: ſhe is the mother thereof.

28 And all Iſrael heard of the judgement which the king had judged; and they feared the king: for they ſaw that the wiſdom of God was in him to do judgement.

25 The king ſaid, Divide the living child in two.] Solomon was convinced that the only method of diſcovering the truth, would be by the affection, compaſſion, and tenderneſs the real mother would ſhew for her infant. And if we ſuppoſe, when he commanded the child to be divided, he ſpake with a ſedate countenance, not only the two women, but all the people preſent were ſtruck with horror, expecting his order would be immediately executed; but when it ended in ſo juſt a deciſion, quite contrary to what they looked for, it raiſed joy in every breaſt, and gave a more advantageous commendation to the judge. Poole.

13 And I have alſo given thee that which thou haſt not aſked, both riches, and honour: ſo that there ſhall not be any among the kings like unto thee all thy days.

14 And if thou wilt walk in my ways, to keep my ſtatutes, and my commandments, as thy father David did walk, then I will lengthen thy days.

15 And Solomon awoke, and behold, it was a dream. And he came to Jeruſalem, and ſtood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and offered up burnt-offerings, and offered peace-offerings, and made a feaſt to all his ſervants.

16 ¶ Then came there two women, that were harlots, unto the king, and ſtood before him.

17 And the one woman ſaid, O my lord, I and this woman dwell in one houſe; and I was delivered of a child with her in the houſe.

18 And it came to paſs the third day after that I was delivered, that this woman was delivered alſo: and we were together; there was no ſtranger with us in the houſe, ſave we two in the houſe.

19 And this woman's child died in the night; becauſe ſhe overlaid it.

20 And ſhe aroſe at midnight, and took my ſon from beſide me, while thine handmaid ſlept, and laid it in her boſom, and laid her dead child in my boſom.

21 And when I roſe in the morning to give my child ſuck, behold, it was dead: but when I had conſidered it in the morning, behold, it was not my ſon which I did bear.

22 And the other woman ſaid, Nay; but the living is my ſon, and the dead is thy ſon. And this ſaid, No; but the dead is thy ſon, and the living is my ſon. Thus they ſpake before the king.

23 Then ſaid the king, The one ſaith, This is my ſon that liveth, and thy ſon is the dead: and the other ſaith, Nay; but thy ſon is the dead, and my ſon is the living.

24 And the king ſaid, Bring me a ſword. And they brought a ſword before the king.

25 And the king ſaid, Divide the living child in two, and give half to the one, and half to the other.

26 Then ſpake the woman whoſe the living child was unto the king, (for her bowels yerned upon her ſon) and ſhe ſaid, O my lord, give her the living child, and in no wiſe ſlay it. But the other ſaid, Let it be neither mine nor thine, but divide it.

27 Then the king anſwered, and ſaid, Give her the living child, and in no wiſe ſlay it: ſhe is the mother thereof.

28 And all Iſrael heard of the judgement which the king had judged; and they feared the king: for they ſaw that the wiſdom of God was in him to do judgement.

CHAP. IV.

1 Solomon's princes. 7 His twelve officers. 24 The peace and largeneſs of his kingdom. 29 His wiſdom.

SO king Solomon was king over all Iſrael.

2 And theſe were the princes which he had: Azariah the ſon of Zadok, the prieſt;

3 Elihoreph and Ahiah, the ſons of Shiſha, ſcribes; Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud, the recorder.

4 And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada was over the hoſt: and Zadok and Abiathar were the prieſts.

12 I have given thee a wiſe and an underſtanding heart.] Other wiſe men accumulate knowledge by ſtudy and obſervation: the common road to wiſdom is full of difficulties; but Solomon had his by inſpiration; he laid down on his bed covered with the veil of human ignorance, but awoke in the morning like an angel of God.

16 Two women that were harlots.] The Hebrew word, which we render harlot, ſignifies alſo an hoſteſs. See Joſh. ii. 1.

25 The king ſaid, Divide the living child in two.] Solomon was convinced that the only method of diſcovering the truth, would be by the affection, compaſſion, and tenderneſs the real mother would ſhew for her infant. And if we ſuppoſe, when he commanded the child to be divided, he ſpake with a ſedate countenance, not only the two women, but all the people preſent were ſtruck with horror, expecting his order would be immediately executed; but when it ended in ſo juſt a deciſion, quite contrary to what they looked for, it raiſed joy in every breaſt, and gave a more advantageous commendation to the judge. Poole.

5 And Azariah the ſon of Nathan was over the officers: and Zabud the ſon of Nathan was the principal officer, and the king's friend.

6 And Ahiſhar was over the houſhold: and Adoniram the ſon of Abda was over the tribute.

7 ¶ And Solomon had twelve officers over all Iſrael, which provided victuals for the king and his houſhold: each man his month in a year made proviſion.

8 And theſe are their names. The ſon of Hur, in mount Ephraim.

9 The ſon of Dekar, in Makaz, and in Shaalbim, and Beth-ſhemeſh, and Elonbeth-hanan.

10 The ſon of Heſed, in Aruboth: to him pertained Sochoh, and all the land of Hepher.

11 The ſon of Abinadab, in all the region of Dor; which had Taphath the daughter of Solomon to wife.

12 Baana the ſon of Ahilud: to him pertained Taanach and Megiddo, and all Beth-ſhean, which is by Zartanah beneath Jezreel, from Beth-ſhean to Abel-meholah, even unto the place that is beyond Jokneam.

13 The ſon of Geber, in Ramoth-gilead: to him pertained the towns of Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh, which are in Gilead: to him alſo pertained the region of Argob, which is in Baſhan, threeſcore great cities with walls and braſen bars.

14 Ahinadab the ſon of Iddo had Mahanaim.

15 Ahimaaz was in Naphtali; he alſo took Baſmath the daughter of Solomon to wife.

16 Baanah the ſon of Huſhai was in Aſher and in Aloth:

17 Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Paruah, in Iſſachar:

18 Shimei the ſon of Elah, in Benjamin.

19 Geber the ſon of Uri was in the country of Gilead, in the country of Sihon king of the Amorites, and of Og king of Baſhan; and he was the only officer which was in the land.

20 Judah and Iſrael were many, as the ſand which is by the ſea in multitude, eating and drinking and making merry.

21 And Solomon reigned over all kingdoms, from the river unto the land of the Philiſtines, and unto the border of Egypt, they brought preſents, and ſerved Solomon all the days of his life.

22 And Solomon's proviſion for one day was thirty meaſures of fine flour, and threeſcore meaſures of meal,

23 Ten fat oxen, and twenty oxen out of the paſtures, and an hundred ſheep, beſide harts, and roe-bucks, and fallow deer, and fatted fowl.

24 ¶ For he had dominion over all the region on this ſide the river, from Tiphſah even to Azzah, over all the kings on this ſide the river: and he had peace on all ſides round about him.

25 And Judah and Iſrael dwelt ſafely, every man under his vine and under his fig-tree, from Dan even to Beer-ſheba, all the days of Solomon.

26 And Solomon had forty thouſand ſtalls of horſes for his chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen.

27 And thoſe officers provided victual for Solomon, and for all that came unto king Solomon's table, every man in his month: they lacked nothing.

28 Barley alſo and ſtraw for the horſes and

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 21 Solomon reigned over all kingdoms, from the river unto the land of the Philiſtines, and unto the border of Egypt.] His kingdom was bounded on the eaſt by the river Euphrates; on the weſt by the land of the Philiſtines, which bordered on the Mediterranean-ſea; and on the ſouth by Egypt. It muſt be obſerved, that God had now performed the promiſe he made to Abraham, that his ſeed ſhould poſſeſs the land, from the river of Egypt to the great river, the river Euphrates, Gen. xviii. 18. For David had conquered all theſe countries, and his ſon Solomon maintained his conqueſts.

22 Thirty meaſures of fine flour, &c.] This meaſure contained ten ephahs; enough for near three thouſand perſons.

24 From Tiphſah even to Azzah.] This is an explanation of what was ſaid before, viz. that he reigned from the Euphrates to the land of the Philiſtines; for Tiphſah was ſituated on the banks of that river. Patrick.

25 Every man under his vine and under his fig-tree.] This is expreſſive of great plenty of corn, wine, oil, and all neceſſaries of life.

26 Solomon had forty thouſand ſtalls of horſes for his chariots.] In Chronicles ix. 25, it is expreſly ſaid, he had four thouſand ſtalls of horſes, which is thought the more conſiſtent account, and that in this place a fault is crept into the original by the negligence of the tranſcribers.

Twelve thouſand horſemen.] Theſe ſeem alſo to have been diſtributed in every tribe, to maintain peace, and to be ready to oppoſe any enemy that might invade them.

dromedaries brought they unto the place where the officers were, every man according to his charge.

29 ¶ And God gave Solomon wiſdom and underſtanding exceeding much, and largeneſs of heart, even as the ſand that is on the ſea-ſhore.

30 And Solomon's wiſdom excelled the wiſdom of all the children of the eaſt country, and all the wiſdom of Egypt.

31 For he was wiſer than all men; than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman, and Chalcol, and Darda, the ſons of Mahol: and his fame was in all nations round about.

32 And he ſpake three thouſand proverbs: and his ſongs were a thouſand and five.

33 And he ſpake of trees, from the cedar-tree that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyſſop that ſpringeth out of the wall: he ſpake alſo of beaſts, and of fowls, and of creeping things, and of fiſhes.

34 And there came of all the people to hear the wiſdom of Solomon, from all kings of the earth, which had heard of his wiſdom.

CHAP. V.

1 Hiram ſendeth to congratulate Solomon; 7 and furniſheth timber to build the temple. 13 Solomon's workmen and labourers.

AND Hiram king of Tyre ſent his ſervants unto Solomon; for he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father: for Hiram was ever a lover of David.

2 And Solomon ſent to Hiram, ſaying,

3 Thou knoweſt how that David my father could not build an houſe unto the name of the LORD his God, for the wars which were about him on every ſide, until the LORD put them under the ſoles of his feet.

4 But now the LORD my God hath given me reſt on every ſide, ſo that there is neither adverſary, nor evil occurrent.

5 And behold, I purpoſe to build an houſe unto the name of the LORD my God, as the LORD ſpake unto David my father, ſaying, Thy ſon, whom I will ſet upon thy throne in thy room, he ſhall build an houſe unto thy name.

6 Now therefore command thou that they hew me cedar-trees out of Lebanon; and my ſervants ſhall be with thy ſervants: and unto thee will I give hire for thy ſervants according to all that thou ſhalt appoint: for thou knoweſt that there is not among us any that can ſkill to hew timber like unto the Sidonians.

7 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Hiram heard the words of Solomon, that he rejoiced greatly, and ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD this day, which hath given unto David a wiſe ſon over this great people.

8 And Hiram ſent to Solomon, ſaying, I have conſidered the things which thou ſenteſt to me for: and I will do all thy deſire concerning timber of cedar and concerning timber of fir.

9 My ſervants ſhall bring them down from Lebanon unto the ſea: and I will convey them by ſea in floats unto the place that thou ſhalt appoint me, and will cauſe them to be diſcharged there, and thou ſhalt receive them: and ſhalt accompliſh my deſire in giving food for my houſhold.

10 So Hiram gave Solomon cedar-trees and fir-trees according to all his deſire.

11 And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thouſand meaſures of wheat for food to his houſhold, and twenty meaſures of pure oil: thus gave Solomon to Hiram year by year.

30 Solomon's wiſdom excelled the wiſdom of all the children of the eaſt country.] There were three oriental nations famous for their wiſdom and erudition: the Chaldeans, beyond the Euphrates; the Perſians, beyond the Tigris; and the Arabians, ſouth of the Euphrates.

All the wiſdom of Egypt.] This country was celebrated for wiſdom in the time of Moſes; and the Egyptians always pretended to be the inventors of the arts and ſciences, and that the Chaldeans had all their learning from them.

32 Three thouſand proverbs.] Many of theſe are loſt, all we have being compriſed in the book of that name, and Eccleſiaſtes.

His ſongs were a thouſand and five.] None of theſe compoſitions were thought to be divinely inſpired, except the ſong of ſongs, which was therefore joined to the ſacred books.

33 He ſpake of trees, from the cedar-tree that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyſſop that ſpringeth out of the wall.] i. e. Of the whole claſs of plants, from the greateſt to the ſmalleſt.

He ſpake alſo of beaſts, and of fowl, &c.] Hence we may form ſome idea of his vaſt genius, which comprehended the whole hiſtory of animals as well as plants.

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Hiram king of Tyre ſent his ſervants to Solomon.] He ſent ambaſſadors to condole with king Solomon the death of his father, and to congratulate his acceſſion to the throne.

11 Twenty thouſand meaſures of wheat, &c.] Dr. Shaw obſerves, that the Holy Land is ſtill in general very fruitful, and were it well ſtocked with inhabitants, would ſtill be capable of affording the like ſupplies of corn and oil.

12 And the LORD gave Solomon wiſdom, as he promiſed him: and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon; and they two made a league together.

13 ¶ And king Solomon raiſed a levy out of all Iſrael; and the levy was thirty thouſand men.

14 And he ſent them to Lebanon, ten thouſand a month by courſes: a month they were in Lebanon, and two months at home. And Adoniram was over the levy.

15 And Solomon had threeſcore and ten thouſand that bare burdens, and fourſcore thouſand hewers in the mountains;

16 Beſides the chief of Solomon's officers which were over the work, three thouſand and three hundred, which ruled over the people that wrought in the work.

17 And the king commanded, and they brought great ſtones, coſtly ſtones, and hewed-ſtones, to lay the foundation of the houſe.

18 And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders did hew them, and the ſtone-ſquarers: ſo they prepared timber and ſtones to build the houſe.

CHAP. VI.

1 The building of Solomon's temple. 11 God's promiſe unto it. 37 The time of building it.

AND it came to paſs in the four hundred and eightieth year after the children of Iſrael were come out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Iſrael, in the month Zif, which is the ſecond month, that he began to build the houſe of the LORD.

2 And the houſe which king Solomon built for the LORD, the length thereof was threeſcore cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits.

3 And the porch before the temple of the houſe, twenty cubits was the length thereof, according to the breadth of the houſe; and ten cubits was the breadth thereof before the houſe.

4 And for the houſe he made windows of narrow lights.

5 And againſt the wall of the houſe he built chambers round about, againſt the walls of the houſe round about, both of the temple and of the oracle: and he made chambers round about.

6 The nethermoſt chamber was five cubits broad, and the middle was ſix cubits broad, and the third was ſeven cubits broad: for without in the wall of the houſe he made narrowed reſts round about, that the beams ſhould not be faſtened in the walls of the houſe.

7 And the houſe, when it was building, was built of ſtone made ready before it was brought thither: ſo that there was neither hammer nor ax nor any tool of iron heard in the houſe while it was in building.

15 Fourſcore thouſand hewers in the mountains.] i. e. Hewers of ſtones; for the timber was hewed by Hiram's ſervants. It may ſeem ſtrange, that ſo many men ſhould be employed in building ſo ſmall a place as the temple: but we muſt conſider, there were many other works which Solomon finiſhed, (ix. 15.) the materials of which were probably prepared here. Patrick.

18 Stone-ſquarers.] The Hebrew is Giblim, and ſignifies the Giblites, or inhabitants of the country now called Gibyle, whom Hiram made uſe of in preparing the materials for Solomon's temple: the LXX call it Bybli, or Byblus.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 In the fourth year of Solomon's reign.] If it ſhould be aſked, why Solomon did not begin the building of the temple ſooner, ſince his father had left him a plan, and all things neceſſary for the undertaking? it may be anſwered, that the materials his father had provided lay rude and unfaſhioned, and at a conſiderable diſtance: this time was therefore requiſite to form them into the exact ſymmetry and order in which the ſcripture repreſents them; eſpecially as the very ſtones, which made the foundation, were probably vaſt blocks of marble or porphry, and all poliſhed in the moſt exquiſite manner. Therefore four years cannot be accounted an unreaſonable time, to gather gold and ſilver ſufficient to defray ſo vaſt an expence. Patrick and Poole.

3 The length was threeſcore cubits.] The reader will remember that the cubit was about twenty-two inches; ſee note on Gen. vi. 15.

4 He made windows of narrow lights.] It is in the margin, broad within and narrow without. By which means the houſe was better ſecured from the weather, and had ſufficient light.

5 Againſt the wall of the houſe.] Or, joining to it, as in the margin: for the beams were not faſtened in the walls of the houſe, as we read in the following verſe; but a wooden wall ſeems to have been built contiguous to the inner ſurface of the wall, in which the beams ſupporting the chambers were faſtened.

He made chambers round about.] Where the prieſts laid up their garments, took their reſt, and eat the ſacrifices.

6 The nethermoſt chamber was five cubits broad, the middle ſix cubits, and the third ſeven.] It appears, from ver. 10, that they were only five cubits high, and built over one another three ſtories; increaſing one cubit in breadth every ſtory, by the following contrivance: the wall of the temple was not of the ſame thickneſs at the top as it was near the foundation, but narrowed in a gradual manner, and by that means rendered the chambers larger. Patrick.

7 There was neither hammer, nor ax, &c.] The ſtones were laid without any noiſe, difficulty, or confuſion, being all before prepared to fit their reſpective ſituations, ſo that nothing was wanting but to fix them in their places.

8 The door for the middle chamber was in the right ſide of the houſe: and they went up with winding ſtairs into the middle chamber, and out of the middle into the third.

9 So he built the houſe, and finiſhed it; and covered the houſe with beams and boards of cedar.

10 And then he built chambers againſt all the houſe, five cubits high: and they reſted on the houſe with timber of cedar.

11 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Solomon, ſaying,

12 Concerning this houſe which thou art in building, if thou wilt walk in my ſtatutes, and execute my judgments, and keep all my commandments to walk in them; then will I perform my word with thee which I ſpake unto David thy father.

13 And I will dwell among the children of Iſrael, and will not forſake my people Iſrael.

14 So Solomon built the houſe, and finiſhed it.

15 And he built the walls of the houſe within with boards of cedar, both the floor of the houſe, and the walls of the cieling: and he covered them on the inſide with wood, and covered the floor of the houſe with planks of fir.

16 And he built twenty cubits on the ſides of the houſe, both the floor and the walls with boards of cedar: he even built them for it within, even for the oracle, even for the moſt holy place.

17 And the houſe, that is, the temple before it, was forty cubits long.

18 And the cedar of the houſe within was carved with knops and open flowers: all was cedar; there was no ſtone ſeen.

19 And the oracle he prepared in the houſe within, to ſet there the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

20 And the oracle in the forepart was twenty cubits in length, and twenty cubits in breadth, and twenty cubits in the height thereof: and he overlaid it with pure gold; and ſo covered the altar which was of cedar.

21 So Solomon overlaid the houſe within with pure gold: and he made a partition by the chains of gold before the oracle; and he overlaid it with gold.

22 And the whole houſe he overlaid with gold, until he had finiſhed all the houſe: alſo the whole altar that was by the oracle he overlaid with gold.

23 And within the oracle he made two cherubims of olive-tree, each ten cubits high.

24 And five cubits was the one wing of the cherub, and five cubits the other wing of the cherub: from the uttermoſt part of the one wing unto the uttermoſt part of the other were ten cubits.

25 And the other cherub was ten cubits: both the cherubims were of one meaſure and one ſize.

26 The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, and ſo was it of the other cherub.

27 And he ſet the cherubims within the inner houſe: and they ſtretched forth the wings of the cherubims; ſo that the wing of the one touched the one wall, and the wing of the other cherub touched the other wall; and their wings touched one another in the midſt of the houſe.

28 And he overlaid the cherubims with gold.

29 And he carved all the walls of the houſe round about with carved figures of cherubims and palm-trees and open flowers, within and without.

30 And the floor of the houſe he overlaid with gold within and without.

15 He built the walls of the houſe within with boards of cedar.] i. e. He wainſcotted the whole houſe with cedar.

16 Even for the oracle, even for the moſt holy place.] We have an explanation of what is meant by the houſe in the preceding verſes. And ſurely this part beſt deſerved to be ſtiled the houſe, as the Divine Glory dwelt here, and hence God gave anſwers when he was conſulted. Patrick.

19 The oracle he prepared in the houſe within, to ſet there the ark of the covenant of the Lord.] i. e. In the innermoſt part of the houſe he built the moſt holy place, to receive the ark of God. It ſeems to have been called the innermoſt part, becauſe it was furtheſt from the entrance into the building.

23 Within the oracle he made two cherubims of olive-tree, each ten cubits high.] Theſe were different from the cherubims made by Moſes, which were of ſolid gold. See note on Exodus xxv. 18.

27 He ſet the cherubims within the inner houſe.] With their faces towards the ſanctuary, ſo that they looked upon him that entered into the oracle. There were four cherubims in the moſt holy place of Solomon's temple; namely, two made by Moſes, and two by Solomon. The latter ſeem to have ſpread their wings over the former, and were added for the greater ornament and glory of the houſe of God. Patrick.

31 And for the entering of the oracle he made doors of olive-tree: the lintel and side-posts were a fifth part of the wall.

32 The two doors also were of olive-tree: and he carved upon them carvings of cherubims and palm-trees and open flowers, and overlaid them with gold, and spread gold upon the cherubims, and upon the palm-trees.

33 So also made he for the door of the temple, posts of olive-tree a fourth part of the wall:

34 And the two doors were of fir-tree: the two leaves of the one door were folding, and the two leaves of the other door were folding.

35 And he carved thereon cherubims and palm-trees and open flowers; and covered them with gold fitted upon the carved work.

36 And he built the inner court with three rows of hewed stone, and a row of cedar-beams.

37 ¶ In the fourth year was the foundation of the house of the LORD laid, in the month Zif.

38 And in the eleventh year, in the month Bul, which is the eighth month, was the house finished throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the fashion of it. So was he seven years in building it.

CHAP. VII.

1 The building of Solomon's house, 2 of the house of Lebanon, 8 of the house for Pharaoh's daughter. 13 Hiram's works.

BUT Solomon was building his own house thirteen years, and he finished all his house.

2 ¶ He built also the house of the forest of Lebanon; the length thereof was an hundred cubits, and the breadth thereof fifty cubits, and the height thereof thirty cubits, upon four rows of cedar-pillars, with cedar-beams upon the pillars.

3 And it was covered with cedar above upon the beams, that lay on forty-five pillars, fifteen in a row.

4 And there were windows in three rows, and light was against light in three ranks.

5 And all the doors and posts were square, with the windows: and light was against light in three ranks.

6 And he made a porch of pillars; the length thereof was fifty cubits, and the breadth thereof thirty cubits: and the porch was before them; and the other pillars and the thick beam were before them.

7 Then he made a porch for the throne where he might judge, even the porch of judgement: and it was covered with cedar from one side of the floor to the other.

8 ¶ And his house where he dwelt had another court within the porch, which was of the like work. Solomon made also an house for Pharaoh's daughter, whom he had taken to wife, like unto this porch.

9 All these were of costly stones, according to the measures of hewed stones, sawed with saws, within and without, even from the foundation unto the coping, and so on the outside toward the great court.

10 And the foundation was of costly stones, even great stones, stones of ten cubits, and stones of eight cubits.

11 And above were costly stones, after the measures of hewed stones, and cedars.

12 And the great court round about was

31 The lintel and side-posts were a fifth part of the wall.] This passage is very obscure: the words of the wall are not in the Hebrew; therefore it may be understood to signify, that they held the proportion of a fifth part to the doors. Though some are of opinion, that it implies this gate to be the fifth in number, belonging to the house; the first opening into the court of the people; the second into the court of the priests; the third, the door of the porch; the fourth, that of the holy place; and the fifth, that of the oracle. Patrick.

38 So was he seven years in building it.] It must be owned, that Solomon made extraordinary dispatch; for though the temple itself was but a small edifice, yet the several adjoining offices rendered the whole a vast pile of building. The temple of Diana at Ephesus is said to have employed all Asia two hundred years: and Pliny affirms, that one of the Egyptian pyramids employed no less than three hundred and sixty thousand men for twenty years together. Poole and Calmet.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Solomon was building his own house thirteen years.] He did not begin to build his own house, till he had finished the temple of God. This appears from chap. ix. 10, where it is said he was twenty years in finishing both these structures. Patrick.

2 He built also the house of the forest of Lebanon.] This house was near Jerusalem, and called by the name of the forest of Lebanon, because it was situated in a lofty place like Lebanon; and the trees which grew around it, made it cool and shady, and consequently proper for Solomon to reside in during the summer, as he did in his palace at Jerusalem in the winter. Patrick.

with three rows of hewed ſtones, and a row of cedar-beams, both for the inner court of the houſe of the LORD, and for the porch of the houſe.

13 ¶ And king Solomon ſent and fetched Hiram out of Tyre.

14 He was a widow's ſon of the tribe of Naphtali, and his father was a man of Tyre, a worker in braſs: and he was filled with wiſdom and underſtanding, and cunning to work all works in braſs. And he came to king Solomon, and wrought all his work.

15 For he caſt two pillars of braſs, of eighteen cubits high a piece: and a line of twelve cubits did compaſs either of them about.

16 And he made two chapiters of molten braſs to ſet upon the tops of the pillars; the height of the one chapiter was five cubits, and the height of the other chapiter was five cubits:

17 And nets of checker-work, and wreaths of chain-work, for the chapiters, which were upon the top of the pillars; ſeven for the one chapiter, and ſeven for the other chapiter.

18 And he made the pillars, and two rows round about upon the one net-work, to cover the chapiters that were upon the top, with pomegranates: and ſo did he for the other chapiter.

19 And the chapiters that were upon the top of the pillars were of lily-work in the porch, four cubits.

20 And the chapiters upon the two pillars had pomegranates alſo above, over againſt the belly which was by the net-work; and the pomegranates were two hundred, in rows round about upon the other chapiter.

21 And he ſet up the pillars in the porch of the temple: and he ſet up the right pillar, and called the name thereof Jachin: and he ſet up the left pillar, and called the name thereof Boaz.

22 And upon the top of the pillars was lily-work. So was the work of the pillars finiſhed.

23 And he made a molten ſea, ten cubits from the one brim to the other: it was round all about, and his height was five cubits: and a line of thirty cubits did compaſs it round about.

24 And under the brim of it round about there were knops compaſſing it, ten in a cubit, compaſſing the ſea round about: the knops were caſt in two rows when it was caſt.

25 It ſtood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the weſt, and three looking toward the ſouth, and three looking toward the eaſt: and the ſea was ſet above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

26 And it was a hand-breadth thick, and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies: it contained two thouſand baths.

27 And he made ten baſes of braſs: four cubits was the length of one baſe, and four cubits the breadth thereof, and three cubits the height of it.

28 And the work of the baſes was on this manner: they had borders, and the borders were between the ledges:

29 And on the borders that were between the ledges were lions, oxen, and cherubims: and upon the ledges there was a baſe above: and beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions made of thin work.

30 And every baſe had four braſen wheels, and plates of braſs: and the four corners thereof had underſetters: under the laver were underſetters molten at the ſide of every addition.

31 And the mouth of it within the chapiter and above was a cubit; but the mouth thereof was round after the work of the baſe, a cubit and an half: and alſo upon the mouth of of it were gravings with their borders, four-ſquare, not round.

15 He caſt two pillars of braſs of eighteen cubits high a-piece.] In Chronicles it is ſaid, that theſe pillars were thirty-five cubits high; but this relates to the height of both of them together, without their pedeſtals; whereas the height of each is given here with its pedeſtal. Patrick.

21 He ſet up the pillars in the porch of the temple, &c.] It is generally thought that theſe pillars were erected for ornament only, becauſe they ſupported no building; but Abarbinel is of opinion, that Solomon placed them here as ſymbols of the pillar of the cloud, and the pillar of fire that conducted the Iſraelites through the wilderneſs; Jachin repreſenting the pillar of the cloud, and Boaz the pillar of fire. Patrick.

26 It contained two thouſand baths.] A bath was the ſame with the ephah, and contained eight gallons; ſo that this molten ſea held five hundred barrels. Patrick.

Notes

32 And under the borders were four wheels: and the axle-trees of the wheels were joined to the baſe; and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit.

33 And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot wheel: their axle-trees and their naves and felloes and their ſpokes were all molten.

34 And there were four underſetters to the four corners of one baſe; and the underſetters were of the very baſe it ſelf.

35 And in the top of the baſe was there a round compaſs of half a cubit high: and on the top of the baſe the ledges thereof and the borders thereof were of the ſame.

36 For on the plates of the ledges thereof and on the borders thereof he graved cherubims, lions, and palm-trees, according to the proportion of every one, and additions round about.

37 After this manner he made the ten baſes: all of them had one caſting, one meaſure, and one ſize.

38 Then made he ten lavers of braſs: one laver contained forty baths: and every laver was four cubits; and upon every one of the ten baſes one laver.

39 And he put five baſes on the right ſide of the houſe, and five on the left ſide of the houſe: and he ſet the ſea on the right ſide of the houſe eaſt-ward, over-againſt the ſouth.

40 And Hiram made the lavers, and the ſhovels, and the baſons: ſo Hiram made an end of doing all the work that he made king Solomon for the houſe of the LORD.

41 The two pillars, and the two bowls of the chapiters that were on the top of the two pillars; and the two net-works, to cover the two bowls of the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars;

42 And four hundred pomegranates for the two net-works, even two rows of pomegranates for one net-work, to cover the two bowls of the chapiters that were upon the pillars;

43 And the ten baſes, and ten lavers on the baſes;

44 And one ſea, and twelve oxen under the ſea;

45 And the pots, and the ſhovels, and the baſons; and all theſe veſſels which Hiram made to king Solomon, for the houſe of the LORD, were of bright braſs.

46 In the plain of Jordan did the king caſt them in the clay-ground, between Succoth and Zarthan.

47 And Solomon left all the veſſels unweighed, becauſe they were exceeding many: neither was the weight of the braſs found out.

48 And Solomon made all the veſſels that pertained unto the houſe of the LORD: the altar of gold, and the table of gold whereupon the ſhew-bread was,

49 And the candleſticks of pure gold, five on the right ſide, and five on the left, before the oracle, with the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs of gold,

50 And the bowls, and the ſnuffers, and the baſons, and the ſpoons, and the cenſers of pure gold; and the hinges of gold, both for the doors of the inner-houſe, the moſt holy place, and for the doors of the houſe, to wit, of the temple.

51 So was ended all the work that king Solomon made for the houſe of the LORD. And Solomon brought in the things which David his father had dedicated; even the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels did he put among the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The dedication of the temple. 12, 55 Solomon's bleſſing. 22 His prayer. 62 His ſacrifice of peace-offerings.

THEN Solomon aſſembled the elders of Iſrael, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Iſrael, unto king Solomon, in Jeruſalem, that they might bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion.

2 All the men of Iſrael aſſembled them-

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 2 All the men of Iſrael aſſembled themſelves unto king Solomon---in the month Ethanim.] This happened at the feaſt of tabernacles, which was appointed in commemoration of the children of Iſrael's dwelling in tents, while they wandered in the wilderneſs, and of the tabernacle, which at that time was built, where ſelves unto king Solomon, at the feaſt in the month Ethanim, which is the ſeventh month.

3 And all the elders of Iſrael came, and the prieſts took up the ark.

4 And they brought up the ark of the LORD, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy veſſels that were in the tabernacle, even thoſe did the prieſts and the Levites bring up.

5 And king Solomon, and all the congregation of Iſrael, that were aſſembled unto him, were with him before the ark, ſacrificing ſheep and oxen, that could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

6 And the prieſts brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, into the oracle of the houſe, to the moſt holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

7 For the cherubims ſpread forth their two wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the ſtaves thereof above.

8 And they drew out the ſtaves, that the ends of the ſtaves were ſeen out in the holy place before the oracle, and they were not ſeen without: and there they are unto this day.

9 There was nothing in the ark ſave the two tables of ſtone, which Moſes put there at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Iſrael, when they came out of the land of Egypt.

10 And it came to paſs, when the prieſts were come out of the holy place, that the cloud filled the houſe of the LORD,

11 So that the prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter becauſe of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the houſe of the LORD.

12 ¶ Then ſpake Solomon, The LORD ſaid that he would dwell in the thick darkneſs.

13 I have ſurely built thee an houſe to dwell in, a ſettled place for thee to abide in for ever.

14 And the king turned his face about, and bleſſed all the congregation of Iſrael. And all the congregation of Iſrael ſtood;

15 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, which ſpake with his mouth unto David my father, and hath with his hand fulfilled it, ſaying,

16 Since the day that I brought forth my people Iſrael out of Egypt, I choſe no city out of all the tribes of Iſrael to build an houſe that my name might be therein: but I choſe David to be over my people Iſrael.

17 And it was in the heart of David my father to build an houſe for the name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

18 And the LORD ſaid unto David my father, Whereas it was in thine heart to build an houſe unto my name, thou didſt well that it was in thine heart.

19 Nevertheleſs, thou ſhalt not build the houſe: but thy ſon that ſhall come forth out of thy loins, he ſhall build the houſe unto my name.

20 And the LORD hath performed his word that he ſpake, and I am riſen up in the room of David my father, and ſit on the throne of where God promiſed to meet them, to dwell among them, and to ſanctify the place with his glory; and, conſequently, might be well thought a very proper ſeaſon for the dedication of the temple, which was to ſucceed in the tabernacle's place. Bedford's Scrip. Chron.

4 They brought up the ark of the Lord, and the tabernacle of the congregation.] The Moſaic tabernacle is moſt probably here intended; which, for the prevention of ſchiſm, and to make the temple the center of devotion, was now taken down and depoſited in the treaſury, where it continued till the taking of Jeruſalem by the Chaldeans; when Jeremiah, as Joſephus informs us, was admoniſhed by God to take it, together with the ark, and the altar of incenſe, and hide them in ſome ſecret place, for fear of profanation; and it is doubted whether they have ever yet been removed. Calmet.

9 There was nothing in the ark ſave the two tables of ſtone.] The author of the Hebrews, ſpeaking of the ark, ſays, Wherein was the golden pot, that had the manna, and Aaron's rod that budded, as well as the tables of the covenant, Heb. ix. 4. To reconcile this paſſage we muſt obſerve, that the prepoſition a does not always ſignify in but by; the interpretation therefore will be, that the golden pot and the rod were depoſited by or beſides the ark, as it is ſaid, before the Lord, and before the teſtimony, Exod. xxxiii.

10 The cloud filled the houſe of the Lord.] This cloud was dark and luminous at the ſame time, its darkneſs was aweful and majeſtic, its internal part was bright and refulgent, darting its rays through its obſcurity: ſo that, according to its different poſition, it became to the Iſraelites, a pillar of a cloud by day, and a pillar of fire by night, to direct them in their journey, and enlighten their paths. Its appearance was conſidered as a ſymbol of the Divine Preſence; for the holy pſalmiſt informs us, that He, who dwelleth in light that is inacceſſible, made darkneſs his ſecret place, his pavilion round about him, with dark water and thick clouds to cover him, Pſalm xviii. 11. Calmet.

12 The Lord ſaid that he would dwell in the thick darkneſs.] As if he had ſaid, Be not afraid, but look upon this cloud as a token of God's preſence and protection; that he owns this for his houſe, the place of his reſidence, where he will vouchſafe to dwell. Patrick.

Iſrael, as the LORD promiſed, and have built an houſe for the name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

21 And I have ſet there a place for the ark, wherein is the covenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt.

22 ¶ And Solomon ſtood before the altar of the LORD, in the preſence of all the congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his hands toward heaven.

23 And he ſaid, LORD God of Iſrael, there is no God like thee, in heaven above, or on earth beneath, who keepeſt covenant and mercy with thy ſervants that walk before thee with all their heart;

24 Who haſt kept with thy ſervant David my father that thou promiſedſt him: thou ſpakeſt alſo with thy mouth, and haſt fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

25 Therefore now, LORD God of Iſrael, keep with thy ſervant David my father that thou promiſedſt him, ſaying, There ſhall not fail thee a man in my ſight to ſit on the throne of Iſrael; ſo that thy children take heed to their way, that they walk before me as thou haſt walked before me.

26 And now, O God of Iſrael, let thy word, I pray thee, be verified which thou ſpakeſt unto thy ſervant David my father.

27 But will God indeed dwell on the earth? behold, the heaven, and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much leſs this houſe that I have builded?

28 Yet have thou reſpect unto the prayer of thy ſervant and to his ſupplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and to the prayer which thy ſervant prayeth before thee to day:

29 That thine eyes may be open toward this houſe night and day, even toward the place of which thou haſt ſaid, My name ſhall be there: that thou mayeſt hearken unto the prayer which thy ſervant ſhall make towards this place.

30 And hearken thou to the ſupplication of thy ſervant, and of thy people Iſrael, when they ſhall pray towards this place: and hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place; and when thou heareſt, forgive.

31 If any man treſpaſs againſt his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him to cauſe him to ſwear, and the oath come before thine altar in this houſe:

32 Then hear thou in heaven, and do, and judge thy ſervants, condemning the wicked, to bring his way upon his head; and juſtifying the righteous, to give him according to his righteouſneſs.

33 When thy people Iſrael be ſmitten down before the enemy, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee, and ſhall turn again to thee, and confeſs thy name, and pray, and make ſupplication unto thee in this houſe:

34 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive the ſin of thy people Iſrael, and bring them again unto the land which thou gaveſt unto their fathers.

35 When heaven is ſhut up, and there is no rain, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee; if they pray towards this place, and confeſs thy name, and turn from their ſin, when thou afflicteſt them:

36 Then hear thou in heaven, and forgive

22 Solomon---ſpread forth his hands towards heaven.] This was a ſolemn attitude uſed in praying among other nations, as well as the Hebrews. But it is evident, from ver. 54, that when he had ſtood ſome time with his face towards the altar, he fell on his knees, and ſpread forth his hands towards heaven.

27 But will God---dwell on the earth?] A very ſignificant expreſſion, elegantly deſcribing the amazement and rapture of the royal prophet's mind---God! he uſes no epithet where writers of inferior diſcernment would have been fond to multiply them; but ſpeaks of the Deity as an incomprehenſible Being, whoſe excellency is exalted above all praiſe---Dwell: to beſtow on ſinful creatures a propitious look, or favour them with a tranſient viſit of kindneſs, would have been an unutterable obligation: will he then vouchſafe to fix his abode with us?

29 Hearken unto the prayer which thy ſervant ſhall make towards this place.] He beſeeches God to hear the prayer of every ſupplicant, who ſhould look toward the temple in his prayer, even though he was not preſent to preſent his petition. Patrick.

33 When thy people Iſrael---pray and make ſupplication unto thee in this houſe.] Though Solomon well knew that in every place God was ready to hear the prayers of every devout ſupplicant, yet, for the preſervation of peace and unity, he was deſirous of inſpiring the people with an opinion that God would be found more propitious to the prayers that were offered in the temple at Jeruſalem, and thereby excite them to frequent that rather than any other place.

the ſin of thy ſervants, and of thy people Iſrael, that thou teach them the good way wherein they ſhould walk, and give rain upon thy land which thou haſt given to thy people for an inheritance.

37 If there be in the land famine, if there be peſtilence, blaſting, mildew, locuſt, or if there be caterpiller; if their enemy beſiege them in the land of their cities, whatſoever plague, whatſoever ſickneſs there be;

38 What prayer and ſupplication ſoever be made by any man, or by all thy people Iſrael, which ſhall know every man the plague of his own heart, and ſpread forth his hands towards this houſe:

39 Then hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and forgive, and do, and give to every man according to his ways, whoſe heart thou knoweſt; (for thou, even thou only, knoweſt the hearts of all the children of men:)

40 That they may fear thee all the days that they live in the land which thou gaveſt unto our fathers.

41 Moreover, concerning a ſtranger, that is not of thy people Iſrael, but cometh out of a far country for thy name's ſake;

42 (For they ſhall hear of thy great name, and of thy ſtrong hand, and of thy ſtretched-out arm;) when he ſhall come and pray towards this houſe;

43 Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the ſtranger calleth to thee for: that all people of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as do thy people Iſrael; and that they may know that this houſe which I have builded is called by thy name.

44 If thy people go out to battle againſt their enemy, whitherſoever thou ſhalt ſend them, and ſhall pray unto the LORD toward the city which thou haſt choſen, and toward the houſe that I have built for thy name:

45 Then hear thou in heaven their prayer and their ſupplication, and maintain their cauſe.

46 If they ſin againſt thee, (for there is no man that ſinneth not) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them to the enemy, ſo that they carry them away captives unto the land of the enemy, far or near;

47 Yet if they ſhall bethink themſelves in the land whither they were carried captives, and repent, and make ſupplication unto thee in the land of them that carried them captives, ſaying, We have ſinned, and have done perverſly, we have committed wickedneſs;

48 And ſo return unto thee with all their heart and with all their ſoul, in the land of their enemies which led them away captive, and pray unto thee toward their land which thou gaveſt unto their fathers, the city which thou haſt choſen, and the houſe which I have built for thy name:

49 Then hear thou their prayer and their ſupplication in heaven thy dwelling-place, and maintain their cauſe,

50 And forgive thy people that have ſinned againſt thee, and all their tranſgreſſions wherein they have tranſgreſſed againſt thee, and give them compaſſion before them who carried them captive, that they may have compaſſion on them:

51 For they be thy people and thine inheritance, which thou broughteſt forth out of Egypt, from the midſt of the furnace of iron:

52 That thine eyes may be open unto the ſupplication of thy ſervant, and unto the ſupplication of thy people Iſrael, to hearken unto them in all that they call for unto thee.

53 For thou didſt ſeparate them from among all the people of the earth, to be thine inheritance, as thou ſpakeſt by the hand of Moſes thy ſervant, when thou broughteſt our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord God.

54 And it was ſo, that when Solomon had made an end of praying all this prayer and ſupplication unto the LORD, he aroſe from before the altar of the LORD, from kneeling on his knees, with his hands ſpread up to heaven.

55 ¶ And he ſtood, and bleſſed all the congregation of Iſrael with a loud voice, ſaying, 48 And ſo return to thee with all their heart, and all their ſoul.] In theſe and the foregoing words, he gives a full deſcription of true repentance: which begins in the ſerious reflection which men make upon their paſt lives, and the preſent miſeries into which their ſins have brought them: which begets an unfeigned ſorrow and reſolution of amendment, with earneſt ſupplication for mercy and grace; confeſſing their unworthineſs, and condemning themſelves for their ſins, which they relinquiſh with joy, and become ſincere converts to the ſervice of God. Patrick.

56 Bleſſed be the LORD, that hath given reſt unto his people Iſrael, according to all that he promiſed: there hath not failed one word of all his good promiſe which he promiſed by the hand of Moſes his ſervant.

57 The LORD our God be with us, as he was with our fathers: let him not leave us, nor forſake us:

58 That he may incline our hearts unto him, to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes and his judgments, which he commanded our fathers.

59 And let theſe my words wherewith I have made ſupplication before the LORD, be nigh unto the LORD our God day and night, that he maintain the cauſe of his ſervant, and the cauſe of his people Iſrael at all times, as the matter ſhall require:

60 That all the people of the earth may know that the LORD is God, and that there is none elſe.

61 Let your heart therefore be perfect with the LORD our God, to walk in his ſtatutes, and to keep his commandments, as at this day.

62 ¶ And the king, and all Iſrael with him, offered ſacrifice before the LORD.

63 And Solomon offered a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which he offered unto the LORD, two and twenty thouſand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thouſand ſheep. So the king and all the children of Iſrael dedicated the houſe of the LORD.

64 The ſame day did the king hallow the middle of the court that was before the houſe of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings: becauſe the braſen altar, that was before the LORD, was too little to receive the burnt offerings, and meat offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings.

65 And at that time Solomon held a feaſt, and all Iſrael with him, a great congregation, from the entering in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt, before the LORD our God, ſeven days and ſeven days, even fourteen days.

66 On the eighth day he ſent the people away: and they bleſſed the king, and went unto their tents joyful and glad of heart, for all the goodneſs that the LORD had done for David his ſervant, and for Iſrael his people.

CHAP. IX.

1 God's covenant in a viſion with Solomon. 10 The mutual preſents of Solomon and Hiram. 25 His yearly ſacrifices.

AND it came to paſs when Solomon had finiſhed the building of the houſe of the LORD, and the king's houſe, and all Solomon's deſire which he was pleaſed to do,

2 That the LORD appeared to Solomon the ſecond time, as he had appeared unto him at Gibeon.

3 And the LORD ſaid unto him, I have heard thy prayer and thy ſupplication that thou haſt made before me: I have hallowed this houſe which thou haſt built, to put my name there for ever; and mine eyes and mine heart ſhall be there perpetually.

4 And if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, in integrity of heart and in uprightneſs, to do according to all that I have commanded thee, and wilt keep my ſtatutes, and my judgments:

5 Then I will eſtabliſh the throne of thy kingdom upon Iſrael for ever, as I promiſed to David thy father, ſaying, There ſhall not fail thee a man upon the throne of Iſrael.

6 But if ye ſhall at all turn from following me, ye or your children, and will not keep my commandments and my ſtatutes which I have

63 Two and twenty thouſand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thouſand ſheep.] We are not to ſuppoſe that they were offered in one day, much leſs on one altar: the brazen altar before the door of the temple not being ſufficient to receive all theſe ſacrifices, Solomon erected others on this occaſion in the court of the prieſts. The hecatombs of the heathens were an imitation of theſe ſacrifices, which they offered, of an hundred beaſts of the ſame kind.

65 Seven days and ſeven days, &c.] This account is no way conſiſtent with that propriety which is obſervable through the whole ſcriptures. The Vatican copy only renders it conſiſtently; "Solomon held a feaſt ſeven days, and on the eighth day he ſent away the people." This is entirely conſiſtent with what is ſaid 2 Chron. vii. 9, 10. Pilkington's Remarks.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 3 Mine eyes and mine heart ſhall be there perpetually.] By his eyes and his heart he means his gracious providence, and his tender love and affection ſhould always have a regard to what was done there. Patrick.

ſet before you, but go and ſerve other gods, and worſhip them:

7 Then will I cut off Iſrael out of the land which I have given them: and this houſe which I have hallowed for my name, will I caſt out of my ſight; and Iſrael ſhall be a proverb and a by-word among all people:

8 And at this houſe, which is high, every one that paſſeth by it ſhall be aſtoniſhed, and ſhall hiſs: and they ſhall ſay, Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land, and to this houſe?

9 And they ſhall anſwer, Becauſe they forſook the LORD their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and have taken hold upon other gods, and have worſhiped them, and ſerved them; therefore hath the LORD brought upon them all this evil.

10 ¶ And it came to paſs at the end of twenty years, when Solomon had built the two houſes, the houſe of the LORD, and the king's houſe, 11 (Now Hiram the king of Tyre had furniſhed Solomon with cedar-trees and fir-trees, and with gold, according to all his deſire,) that then king Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.

12 And Hiram came out from Tyre to ſee the cities which Solomon had given him; and they pleaſed him not.

13 And he ſaid, What cities are theſe which thou haſt given me, my brother? and he called them the land of Cabul unto this day.

14 And Hiram ſent to the king ſixſcore talents of gold.

15 And this is the reaſon of the levy which king Solomon raiſed; for to build the houſe of the LORD and his own houſe, and Millo, and the wall of Jeruſalem, and Hazor, and Megiddo, and Gezer.

16 For Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up and taken Gezer, and burned it with fire, and ſlain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city, and given it for a preſent unto his daughter, Solomon's wife.

17 And Solomon built Gezer, and Bethhoron the nether,

18 And Baalath, and Tadmor in the wilderneſs, in the land,

19 And all the cities of ſtore that Solomon had, and cities for his chariots, and cities for his horſemen, and that which Solomon deſired to build in Jeruſalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion.

20 And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebuzites, which were not of the children of Iſrael, 21 Their children that were left after them in the land, whom the children of Iſrael alſo were not able utterly to deſtroy, upon thoſe did Solomon levy a tribute of bond-ſervice unto this day.

22 But of the children of Iſrael did Solo-

11 Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.] The ſcripture expreſly tells us, that theſe cities were not in the territories of Iſrael, nor inhabited at that time by the Iſraelites, 2 Chron. viii. 2. They were ſome of them conquered by the king of Egypt, who gave them to Solomon as a portion for his daughter, and others by Solomon himſelf; and therefore he had an undoubted right to diſpoſe of them as he pleaſed.

12 Hiram came out from Tyre to ſee the cities---and they pleaſed him not.] The reaſon was, becauſe the Tyrians were wholly addicted to trade and merchandiſe, and therefore would not remove from the ſea-ſhore, where they were ſo commodiouſly ſituated for that purpoſe, to live in a ſoil which was fat and deep, and conſequently required a great deal of labour to cultivate it, which was a buſineſs they were little accuſtomed to. But though Hiram did not approve of theſe cities, the friendſhip was not in the leaſt impaired between him and Solomon, who doubtleſs ſatisfied him ſome other way. Bedford.

13 He called them the land of Cabul unto this day.] It is generally thought that Hiram gave it this name by way of contempt, Cabul ſignifying a dirty country; or, as it is in the margin, diſpleaſing.

15 Millo.] Moriah was divided from Sion by a valley, which was guarded on both ſides by banks and buttreſſes, works of immenſe labour and infinite expence; and theſe works, I apprehend, are called Millo. The Hebrew word ſignifies fullneſs; and the Chaldee paraphraſe interprets it a bank, wall, or buttreſs. Lamy.

18 Tadmor in the wilderneſs.] This city was by the Greeks called Palmyra, and ſtood in the wilderneſs of Syria, upon the borders of Arabia Deſerta, inclining towards the Euphrates. Joſephus places it two days journey from Upper Syria, one from the Euphrates, and ſix from Babylon. The ruins which ſtill remain of this city abundantly demonſtrate, that it was one of the moſt magnificent in the Eaſt; and it is ſomething ſurpriſing, that hiſtory ſhould give us no account either when or by whom it was reduced to that deplorable condition wherein it lies at this day; for it is a melancholy ſpectacle to behold, being only inhabited by thirty or forty miſerable families, who have built poor huts of mud, within a ſpacious court, which once encloſed a magnificent temple. It is thought Solomon built a city in this place, becauſe, in all the country round about, there was no ſuch thing as a well or fountain to be found, but in this ſpot only. Meſſrs. Dawkins and Wood have lately publiſhed The Ruins of Palmyra in a moſt pompous manner, which are well worth the obſervation of the curious.

mon make no bond-men: but they were men of war, and his ſervants, and his princes, and his captains, and rulers of his chariots, and his horſemen.

23 Theſe were the chief of the officers that were over Solomon's work, five hundred and fifty, which bare rule over the people that wrought in the work.

24 But Pharaoh's daughter came up out of the city of David, unto her houſe which Solomon had built for her: then did he build Millo.

25 ¶ And three times in a year did Solomon offer burnt-offerings and peace-offerings upon the altar which he built unto the LORD: and he burned incenſe upon the altar that was before the LORD. So he finiſhed the houſe.

26 And king Solomon made a navy of ſhips in Ezion-geber, which is beſide Eloth, on the ſhore of the Red-ſea, in the land of Edom.

27 And Hiram ſent in the navy his ſervants, ſhipmen that had knowledge of the ſea, with the ſervants of Solomon.

28 And they came to Ophir, and fetched from thence gold, four hundred and twenty talents, and brought it to king Solomon.

CHAP. X.

1 The queen of Sheba admireth the wiſdom of Solomon. 14 His riches.

AND when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon, concerning the name of the LORD, ſhe came to prove him with hard queſtions.

2 And ſhe came to Jeruſalem with a very great train, with camels that bare ſpices, and very much gold, and precious ſtones: and when ſhe was come to Solomon, ſhe communed with him of all that was in her heart.

3 And Solomon told her all her queſtions: there was not any thing hid from the king, which he told her not.

4 And when the queen of Sheba had ſeen all Solomon's wiſdom, and the houſe that he had built,

5 And the meat of his table, and the ſitting of his ſervants, and the attendance of his miniſters and their apparel, and his cup-bearers, and his aſcent by which he went up unto the houſe of the LORD; there was no more ſpirit in her.

6 And ſhe ſaid to the king, It was a true report that I heard in mine own land of thy acts and of thy wiſdom.

7 Howbeit, I believed not the words, until I came, and mine eyes had ſeen it: and behold, the half was not told me: thy wiſdom and proſperity exceedeth the fame which I heard.

8 Happy are thy men, happy are theſe thy ſervants, which ſtand continually before thee, and that hear thy wiſdom.

9 Bleſſed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee, to ſet thee on the throne of Iſrael: becauſe the LORD loved Iſrael for ever, therefore made he thee king, to do judgement and juſtice.

26 Ezion-geber.] Ezion-geber was a port of Idumea, or Arabia Deſerta, ſituate upon the coaſts of the Rea-ſea.

28 They came to Ophir.] The moſt probable conjecture with regard to the ſituation of this place is, that it was in ſome of thoſe remote rich countries of India beyond the Ganges, perhaps as far as China or Japan; which laſt ſtill abounds with the fineſt gold, and ſeveral other commodities in which Solomon's fleet dealt, as ſilver, precious ſtones, ebony, ſpices, peacocks, parrots, apes, &c. and by its diſtance, beſt anſwers the length of the voyage. Univerſal Hiſtory, vol. IV. p. 105.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The queen of Sheba] It is generally ſuppoſed that ſhe came from Aljemin, which lay on the borders of the Red-ſea, in the ſouthern part of Arabia Felix. Hence our Saviour calls her the queen of the ſouth. And this ſeems more probable, becauſe it abounded in precious ſtones, ſpices, and gold, (which they fetched from Ophir) the preſents ſhe brought to Solomon. This place will alſo agree with what our Saviour ſays, that ſhe came from the ends of the earth; as there is no land beyond the Sabæans in Arabia, their country being bounded by the Indian ocean, the Perſian gulph, and the Rea-ſea. The Chriſtians of Abyſſinia however are confident, that the queen of Sheba came from their country, where it was a conſtant tradition, that ſhe had a ſon by Solomon, and from him their kings are deſcended.

5 There was no more ſpirit in her.] She was perfectly aſtoniſhed.

9 Bleſſed be the Lord thy God, &c.] This is an excellent admonition both to the people and to the king: ſhe directs the former to think themſelves highly obliged to God, who had given them ſuch a king; and the latter, to think that God made him king, in order to govern his people juſtly.

10 Spices very great ſtore, and precious ſtones.] This country was famous for myrrh, frankincenſe, and cinnamon, as Bochart abundantly ſhews from various authors: for their very fires were made of caſſia and cinnamon. He alſo proves that precious ſtones were ſo very common, that they adorned their cups, beds, ſtools, &c. with them. Patrick.

11 Alſug-

10 And ſhe gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of ſpices very great ſtore, and precious ſtones. There came no more ſuch abundance of ſpices as theſe which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.

11 And the navy alſo of Hiram that brought gold from Ophir, brought in from Ophir great plenty of almug-trees, and precious ſtones.

12 And the king made of the almug-trees pillars for the houſe of the LORD, and for the king's houſe, harps alſo and pſalteries for ſingers. There came no ſuch almug-trees, nor were ſeen unto this day.

13 And king Solomon gave unto the queen of Sheba all her deſire whatſoever ſhe aſked, beſides that which Solomon gave her of his royal bounty. So ſhe turned and went to her own country, ſhe and her ſervants.

14 ¶ Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was ſix hundred threeſcore and ſix talents of gold,

15 Beſides that he had of the merchantmen, and of the traffick of the ſpice-merchants, and of all the kings of Arabia, and of the governors of the country.

16 And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold: ſix hundred ſhekels of gold went to one target.

17 And he made three hundred ſhields of beaten gold: three pound of gold went to one ſhield. And the king put them in the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon.

18 Moreover, the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with the beſt gold.

19 The throne had ſix ſteps, and the top of the throne was round behind: and there were ſtays on either ſide on the place of the ſeat, and two lions ſtood beſide the ſtays.

20 And twelve lions ſtood there on the one ſide and on the other upon the ſix ſteps. There was not the like made in any kingdom.

21 And all king Solomon's drinking veſſels were of gold, and all the veſſels of the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon were of pure gold; none were of ſilver. It was nothing accounted of in the days of Solomon.

22 For the king had at ſea a navy of Tharſhiſh, with the navy of Hiram. Once in three years came the navy of Tharſhiſh, bringing gold and ſilver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

23 So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth for riches and for wiſdom.

24 And all the earth ſought to Solomon, to hear his wiſdom, which God had put in his heart.

25 And they brought every man his preſent, veſſels of ſilver and veſſels of gold, and garments, and armour, and ſpices, horſes, and mules, a rate year by year.

26 And Solomon gathered together chariots, and horſemen: and he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots and twelve thouſand horſemen, whom he beſtowed in the cities for chariots, and with the king at Jeruſalem.

27 And the king made ſilver to be in Jeruſalem as ſtones, and cedars made he to be as the ſycamore-trees that are in the vale for abundance.

28 And Solomon had horſes brought out of Egypt, and linen yarn: the king's merchants received the linen yarn at a price.

11 Almug-trees.] This word in 2 Chron. ix. 10. by a tranſpoſition of the letters is wrote algum-trees, but what is the right reading, or what the particular ſort of wood, is uncertain.---- Dr. Shaw ſays, we may take it for the cypreſs, which Diodorus Siculus, and Bochart acquaint us was equally known and flouriſhing in thoſe parts. This wood was of the cloſeſt grain, and conſequently fitteſt for making harps and pſalteries. The like uſe is ſtill made in Italy, and other places, of the cypreſs-wood, which is preferred to all others for violins, harpſichords, and other the like ſtringed inſtruments.

16 Two hundred targets of beaten gold.] Theſe targets and ſhields ſeem to have been made for ſtate and pomp, to be carried before him on ſpecial occaſions.

18 A great throne of ivory.] We never read of ivory till about the time of Solomon, who either brought elephants from India, or imported great quantities of ivory from thence; for in after-ages we read of ivory beds, and ivory palaces, &c. It was, however, as precious as gold in his time. Patrick.

Overlaid it with the beſt of gold.] It was not entirely covered with gold, but ſtudded with gold in particular places, that the mixture of gold and ivory, by increaſing the luſtre of each other, might render the throne more beautiful. Patrick.

20 There was not the like made in any kingdom.] i. e. There was no throne like it in the days of Solomon; but in after-ages we read, that the throne of the Parthian kings was of gold, encompaſſed with four golden pillars, beſet with precious ſtones; and that the kings of Perſia ſat in judgment under a golden vine, (and other trees of gold) whoſe bunches of grapes were made of various ſorts of precious ſtones. Patrick.

27 Cedars made he as the ſycamore-trees.] The ſycamore was a very common tree not only in Egypt, but in the Holy Land: the mummy cheſts and ſacred boxes were made of it. Shaw.

29 And a chariot came up and went out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty: and so for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, did they bring them out by their means.

CHAP. XI.

1 Solomon's wives and concubines in his old age draw him to idolatry. 9 God threateneth him. 14 His adversaries, 41 and death. 43 Rehoboam succeedeth him.

BUT king Solomon loved many strange women, together with the daughter of Pharaoh, women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians, and Hittites;

2 Of the nations concerning which the LORD said unto the children of Israel, Ye shall not go into them, neither shall they come in unto you: for surely they will turn away your heart after their gods. Solomon clave unto these in love.

3 And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines: and his wives turned away his heart.

4 For it came to pass when Solomon was old that his wives turned away his heart after other gods: and his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as was the heart of David his father.

5 For Solomon went after Ashtoreth the goddess of the Zidonians, and after Milcom the abomination of the Ammonites.

6 And Solomon did evil in the sight of the LORD, and went not fully after the LORD, as did David his father.

7 Then did Solomon build an high place for Chemosh the abomination of Moab, in the hill that is before Jerusalem; and for Molech the abomination of the children of Ammon.

8 And likewise did he for all his strange wives, which burned incense and sacrificed unto their gods.

9 ¶ And the LORD was angry with Solomon, because his heart was turned from the LORD God of Israel, which had appeared unto him twice.

10 And had commanded him concerning this thing, that he should not go after other gods: but he kept not that which the LORD commanded

11 Wherefore the LORD said unto Solomon, Forasmuch as this is done of thee, and thou hast not kept my covenant and my statutes which I have commanded thee, I will surely rend the kingdom from thee, and will give it to thy servant.

12 Notwithstanding, in thy days I will not do it, for David thy father's sake: but I will rend it out of the hand of thy son.

13 Howbeit, I will not rend away all the kingdom; but will give one tribe to thy son, for David my servant's sake, and for Jerusalem's sake which I have chosen.

14 ¶ And the LORD stirred up an adversary unto Solomon, Hadad the Edomite. He was of the king's seed in Edom.

---

29 A chariot came up, &c.] In order to understand the sense of this verse, it must be observed, that a toll or custom was anciently paid to the kings of Egypt, for all horses and chariots that were brought out of that kingdom; namely, six hundred shekels of silver for a chariot, and an hundred and fifty for a horse. But Solomon prevailed on his father-in-law, the king of Egypt, not to demand this tribute of the Israelites, and accept a yearly tax instead of it. By this means they were enabled to sell the horses and chariots they brought out of Egypt to the Hittites and Syrians much cheaper than they could purchase them in Egypt. Patrick.

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Solomon loved many strange women.] Hitherto we have seen nothing in Solomon but what was truly great; but the latter actions of his life sadly tarnish his character; for he gave himself up to the love of women, who were descended from idolatrous nations, and not proselyted to the Jewish religion. By this means Solomon committed two sins against the law; one in multiplying wives, the other in marrying those of strange nations who still retained their idolatry.

3 Seven hundred wives and three hundred concubines.] It is probable that he kept so many merely for state, after the manner of the eastern princes, as is the custom at this day, as father la Compte tells us in his History of China, where the emperor has a multitude of wives, chosen out of the most beautiful women in the country, many of whom he never saw. It is likewise said of the Great Mogul, that he has as many women as will make up a full thousand.

4 His wives turned away his heart after other gods.] It is astonishing that a person of Solomon's wisdom, who had twice conversed with the Almighty himself, should be persuaded by his wives to forsake the religion in which he had been so well instructed, and which he was so fully convinced to have been delivered to Moses by that Omnipotent Being, who had brought the Israelites from a land of bondage, placed him on the throne of David, and inspired him with that wisdom which rendered him famous throughout all the earth.

11 The Lord said unto Solomon, &c.] By some prophet; for we can hardly suppose he would again appear to him after so shameful a defection, unless we think he now appeared dressed in the robes of terror, to pronounce this sentence upon him.

14 Hadad the Edomite.] This person bore a mortal hatred to Solomon, ever since the death of David, who had attempted to destroy him and every male in the country. Patrick.

15 For it came to paſs when David was in Edom, and Joab the captain of the hoſt was gone up to bury the ſlain, after he had ſmitten every male in Edom;

16 (For ſix months did Joab remain there with all Iſrael, until he had cut off every male in Edom,)

17 That Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his father's ſervants with him, to go into Egypt; Hadad being yet a little child.

18 And they aroſe out of Midian, and came to Paran: and they took men with them out of Paran, and they came to Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt; which gave him an houſe, and appointed him victuals, and gave him land.

19 And Hadad found great favour in the ſight of Pharaoh, ſo that he gave him to wife the ſiſter of his own wife, the ſiſter of Tahpenes the queen.

20 And the ſiſter of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his ſon, whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaoh's houſe: and Genubath was in Pharaoh's houſhold among the ſons of Pharaoh.

21 And when Hadad heard in Egypt that David ſlept with his fathers, and that Joab the captain of the hoſt was dead, Hadad ſaid to Pharaoh, Let me depart, that I may go to mine own country.

22 Then Pharaoh ſaid unto him, But what haſt thou lacked with me, that behold, thou ſeekeſt to go to thine own country? and he anſwered, Nothing: howbeit, let me go in any wiſe.

23 And God ſtirred him up another adverſary, Rezon the ſon of Eliadah, which fled from his lord Hadadezer king of Zobah.

24 And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band, when David ſlew them of Zobah. And they went to Damaſcus, and dwelt therein, and reigned in Damaſcus.

25 And he was an adverſary to Iſrael all the days of Solomon, beſide the miſchief that Hadad did: and he abhorred Iſrael, and reigned over Syria.

26 And Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, an Ephrathite of Zereda, Solomon's ſervant, whoſe mother's name was Zeruah a widow woman, even he lifted up his hand againſt the king.

27 And this was the cauſe that he lifted up his hand againſt the king: Solomon built Millo, and repaired the breaches of the city of David his father.

28 And the man Jeroboam was a mighty man of valour: and Solomon ſeeing the young man that he was induſtrious, he made him ruler over all the charge of the houſe of Joſeph.

29 And it came to paſs at that time when Jeroboam went out of Jeruſalem, that the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite found him in the way: and he had clad himſelf with a new garment: and they two were alone in the field.

30 And Ahijah caught the new garment that was on him, and rent it in twelve pieces.

31 And he ſaid to Jeroboam, Take thee ten pieces: for thus ſaith the LORD the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee:

32 But he ſhall have one tribe for my ſervant David's ſake, and for Jeruſalem's ſake, the city which I have choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael.

33 Becauſe that they have forſaken me, and have worſhipped Aſhtaroth the goddeſs of the 25 An adverſary to Iſrael all the days of Solomon.] This is not to be underſtood of the whole reign of Solomon; but of all the days remaining of his life, after his wives publickly exerciſed their idolatry. Patrick.

27 Solomon built Millo.] It is ſaid to be one reaſon, why the Iſraelites revolted from Rehoboam, that his father had built Millo, i. e. Solomon had laid very heavy taxes upon the people, to enable him to defray the expences of his great works, and of this of Millo among the reſt. See chap. ix. 15. Lamy.

30 Ahijah caught the new garment and rent it in twelve pieces.] This is the firſt ſymbolical action we meet with in any prophet; but in after-ages inſtances of this kind became more frequent. Thus Jeremiah made himſelf bonds and yokes, and put them upon his neck, to ſignify the near approaching captivity of Jeruſalem, Jer. xxvii. 2. Iſaiah, to denote the captivity of Egypt and Ethiopia, walked naked, i. e. without his upper garment, and bare-foot, for three years, in the ſtreets, Iſaiah xx. 2, 3. The falſe prophet Zedekiah made himſelf horns of iron, and ſaid to Ahab, With theſe ſhalt thou puſh the Syrians till thou haſt conſumed them, 1 Kings, xxii. 11. The like practice continued under the goſpel; for Agabus, having bound his hands and feet with Paul's girdle, told the company, ſo ſhall the Jews at Jeruſalem bind the man that oweth this girdle, Acts xxi. 11.

33 The goddeſs of the Zidonians.] The diſtinction of ſex among the Pagan gods could not be introduced till the deification of mortals. It was therefore wrong to bring into the tranſlation of the Bible a notion, which was at that time a ſtranger to Paganiſm itſelf; and for which there is no foundation in the Hebrew text. Winder's Hiſt. of Knowledge.

Zidonians, Chemoſh the god of the Moabites, and Milcom the god of the children of Ammon, and have not walked in my ways, to do that which is right in mine eyes, and to keep my ſtatutes and my judgments, as did David his father.

34 Howbeit, I will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand: but I will make him prince all the days of his life, for David my ſervant's ſake, whom I choſe, becauſe he kept my commandments and my ſtatutes:

35 But I will take the kingdom out of his ſon's hand, and will give it unto thee, even ten tribes.

36 And unto his ſon will I give one tribe, that David my ſervant may have a light alway before me in Jeruſalem, the city which I have choſen me to put my name there.

37 And I will take thee, and thou ſhalt reign according to all that thy ſoul deſireth, and ſhalt be king over Iſrael.

38 And it ſhall be, if thou wilt hearken unto all that I command thee, and wilt walk in my ways, and do that is right in my ſight, to keep my ſtatutes and my commandments, as David my ſervant did; that I will be with thee, and build thee a ſure houſe, as I built for David, and will give Iſrael unto thee.

39 And I will for this afflict the ſeed of David, but not for ever.

40 Solomon ſought therefore to kill Jeroboam. And Jeroboam aroſe, and fled into Egypt, unto Shiſhak king of Egypt, and was in Egypt until the death of Solomon.

41 ¶ And the reſt of the acts of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wiſdom, are they not written in the book of the acts of Solomon?

42 And the time that Solomon reigned in Jeruſalem over all Iſrael was forty years.

43 ¶ And Solomon ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David his father. And Rehoboam his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XII.

1 Rehoboam refuſing the old men's counſel, 16 ten tribes revolt. 26 Jeroboam's idolatry.

AND Rehoboam went to Shechem: for all Iſrael were come to Shechem to make him king.

2 And it came to paſs when Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who was yet in Egypt, heard of it, (for he was fled from the preſence of king Solomon, and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt;)

3 That they ſent and called him. And Jeroboam and all the congregation of Iſrael came, and ſpake unto Rehoboam, ſaying,

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore make thou the grievous ſervice of thy father, and his heavy yoke which he put upon us, lighter, and we will ſerve thee.

39 I will for this afflict the ſeed of David, but not for ever.] For, ſays Raſi, in the days of the Meſſiah the kingdom ſhall be reſtored to the houſe of David. He might have added, that few returned from their captivity, except the houſe of Judah, who were delivered in a wonderful manner from Babylon. Patrick.

40 Solomon ſought to kill Jeroboam.] A ſign of his dotage, to endeavour to defeat the purpoſe of the Almighty.

Unto Shiſhak king of Egypt.] Moſt men are of opinion that this was the famous Seſoſtris, mentioned by Herodotus.

41 The book of the acts of Solomon.] Abarbinel is of opinion, that all the kings of Iſrael and Judah maintained proper perſons to write the tranſactions of their reigns.

43 Solomon ſlept with his fathers, &c.] Thus concludes the hiſtory of this great man, without any mention of his repentance; though he ſaw terrible puniſhments coming upon his family: which ſhould have moved him, one would think, to pull down the high places he had built for idolatrous worſhip, and abandon his wives, and do ſome remarkable honour to the Lord God of Iſrael: which if he did, the Divine Writer has not thought fit to record, but has left an eternal blot upon his memory, that all poſterity may have a frightful example of human weakneſs; and learn thereby to watch and pray, leſt they enter into temptation. The fall of Solomon ſeems to be an inſtance the moſt lamentable that ever happened, except that of the fallen angels: and ſhould be a warning and admonition to all men, that however they may think of doing whatever their eyes deſire, and of not with-holding their hearts from any joy; yet, in the end, they will find what experience taught him at laſt, that all is vanity and vexation of ſpirit; and that there is no profit in any kind of wickedneſs under the ſun; but that to fear God, and keep his commandments, is the whole duty of man.

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Rehoboam.] Solomon, if he had any more children beſides this ſon and two daughters, ſee chap. iv. 11, 15. the ſacred hiſtorian does not mention them: in the concluſion of his reign, he tells us, that his mother's name was Naamah, and that ſhe was an Ammoniteſs.

All Iſrael were come to Shechem to make him king.] Probably they made choice of this place becauſe it was in the tribe of Ephraim, where they could ſpeak with greater freedom than at Jeruſalem; and this ſeems the more likely by their ſending for Jeroboam to meet them there, as he would not venture to come to Jeruſalem.

2 Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt.] Some commentators read, returned out of Egypt; and the context lays a good foundation for their opinion. See Poole's Synop.

5 And he ſaid unto them, Depart yet for three days, then come again to me. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam conſulted with the old men that ſtood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, and ſaid, How do ye adviſe that I may anſwer this people?

7 And they ſpake unto him ſaying, If thou wilt be a ſervant unto this people this day, and will ſerve them, and anſwer them, and ſpeak good words to them, then they will be thy ſervants for ever.

8 But he forſook the council of the old men which they had given him, and conſulted with the young men that were grown up with him, and which ſtood before him:

9 And he ſaid unto them, What council give ye that we may anſwer this people, who have ſpoken to me, ſaying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us lighter.

10 And the young men that were grown up with him ſpake unto him, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou ſpeak unto this people that ſpake unto thee, ſaying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us; thus ſhalt thou ſay unto them, My little finger ſhall be thicker than my father's loins.

11 And now whereas my father did lade you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke: my father hath chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.

12 So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed, ſaying, Come to me again the third day.

13 And the king anſwered the people roughly, and forſook the old men's counſel that they gave him;

14 And ſpake to them after the counſel of the young men, ſaying, My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke: my father alſo chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.

15 Wherefore the king hearkened not unto the people: for the cauſe was from the LORD, that he might perform his ſaying which the LORD ſpake by Ahijah the Shilonite unto Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat.

16 ¶ So when all Iſrael ſaw that the king hearkened not unto them, the people anſwered the king, ſaying, What portion have we in David? neither have we inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe: to your tents, O Iſrael: now ſee to thine own houſe, David. So Iſrael departed unto their tents.

17 But as for the children of Iſrael which dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 Then king Rehoboam ſent Adoram, who was over the tribute; and all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died. Therefore king Rehoboam made ſpeed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jeruſalem.

19 So Iſrael rebelled againſt the houſe of David unto this day.

20 And it came to paſs when all Iſrael heard that Jeroboam was come again, that they ſent and called him unto the congregation, and made him king over all Iſrael: there was none that followed the houſe of David, but the tribe of Judah only.

21 And when Rehoboam was come to Je-

8 Conſulted with the young men that were grown up with him.] It was a common cuſtom among the kings of the Eaſt to have their ſons educated among other young lords of the ſame age, which, as it created a generous ſpirit of emulation, and both endeared the prince to the nobles, and the nobles to the prince, muſt greatly tend to the benefit of the public. So that Solomon's method and deſign in the education of his ſon were wiſe and well-concerted, though they failed of ſucceſs. Calmet.

10 My little finger ſhall be thicker than my father's loins.] They adviſe him to acknowledge, that his father had greatly oppreſſed them, and at the ſame time to declare that he would act in a far more tyrannical and oppreſſive manner.

11 My father hath chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.] This was ſtill worſe, to acknowledge that his father had treated the Iſraelites like beaſts of burden, but he would uſe them in a far more cruel manner; and inſtead of common whips, uſe thoſe full of thorns or rowels of iron, which would tear their very fleſh in pieces.

16 What portion have we in David?] We have here a true picture of an ungrateful world; for, ſurely, if ever any people were obliged to their prince, the Iſraelites were ſo to David. He had delivered them from all their enemies, who had for many years cruelly oppreſſed them; and from being ſervants to the Philiſtines, had made them their maſters; enlarged their kingdom to its utmoſt bounds, and given them peace on every ſide; ſo that they lived happily every man under his vine, and under his fig-tree.

18 Rehoboam made ſpeed to get him up to his chariot.] This is the firſt time we read of a king's riding in a chariot: Saul, David, and Solomon rode upon mules, afterwards chariots were uſed both by the kings of Judah and Iſrael. Patrick.

ruſalem, he aſſembled all the houſe of Judah, with the tribe of Benjamin, an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen men, which were warriors, to fight againſt the houſe of Iſrael, to bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon.

22 But the word of God came unto Shemaiah the man of God, ſaying,

23 Speak unto Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon king of Judah, and unto all the houſe of Judah and Benjamin, and to the remnant of the people, ſaying,

24 Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not go up, nor fight againſt your brethren the children of Iſrael: return every man to his houſe: for this thing is from me. They hearkened therefore to the word of the LORD, and returned to depart, according to the word of the LORD.

25 Then Jeroboam built Shechem in mount Ephraim, and dwelt therein; and went out from thence, and built Penuel.

26 ¶ And Jeroboam ſaid in his heart, Now ſhall the kingdom return to the houſe of David.

27 If this people go up to do ſacrifice in the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem, then ſhall the heart of this people turn again unto their lord, even unto Rehoboam king of Judah, and they ſhall kill me, and go again to Rehoboam king of Judah.

28 Whereupon the king took counſel, and made two calves of gold, and ſaid unto them, It is too much for you to go up to Jeruſalem: behold thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

29 And he ſet the one in Beth-el, and the other put he in Dan.

30 And this thing became a ſin; for the people went to worſhip before the one even unto Dan.

31 And he made an houſe of high places, and made prieſts of the loweſt of the people, which were not of the ſons of Levi.

32 And Jeroboam ordained a feaſt in the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like unto the feaſt that is in Judah, and he offered upon the altar. So did he in Beth-el, ſacrificing unto the calves that he had made: and he placed in Beth-el the prieſts of the high places which he had made.

33 So he offered upon the altar which he had made in Beth-el, the fifteenth day of the eighth month, even in the month which he had deviſed of his own heart; and ordained a feaſt unto the children of Iſrael: and he offered upon the altar, and burned incenſe.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Jeroboam's hand withereth, 6 and at the prayer of the prophet is reſtored. 23 The diſobedient prophet is ſlain by a lion. 33 Jeroboam's obſtinacy.

AND behold, there came a man of God out of Judah by the word of the LORD unto Beth-el: and Jeroboam ſtood by the altar to burn incenſe,

2 And he cried againſt the altar in the word of the LORD, and ſaid, O altar, altar, thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, a child ſhall be born unto the houſe of David, Joſiah by name; and upon thee ſhall he offer the prieſts of the high places

28 Behold thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.] Theſe are the ſame words which Aaron ſpoke upon a like occaſion. Exod. ii. 4.

31 Made prieſts of the loweſt of the people, which were not of the ſons of Levi.] The words which we render the loweſt of the people, properly ſignify out of all the people; i. e. he made all that were willing prieſts, be their tribe and family what it would: indeed this ſeemed to be a caſe of neceſſity; for the Levites refuſed to act in theſe idolatrous practices, as we learn from 2 Chron. vi. 14, and therefore he expelled them his kingdom, and ſeized on their cities and lands. Thus he eaſed his people from paying tythes, there being none to demand them; and not only transferred the kingdom from the houſe of David, but alſo the prieſthood from the houſe of Aaron. Patrick.

32 Jeroboam ordained a feaſt in the eighth month, &c.] The Jews held their feaſt of tabernacles on the fifteenth day of the ſeventh month, ſo that this feaſt was entirely of his own appointment: his chief intention being to alienate the minds of the people from the worſhip of the true God performed at Jeruſalem.

Notes on the Thirteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 There came a man of God out of Judah.] i. e. There came a prophet from Judah; for prophets only are called men of God in ſcripture.

2 A child ſhall be born unto the houſe of David, Joſiah by name.] The prophet ſaw the future tranſactions of the deſcendants of Jacob as if they were preſent; and though this prophecy was not fulfilled till three hundred and ſixty years after; yet he foretels it with all its circumſtances, points out the family, and even the very name of the perſon who was to perform it. Patrick.

Upon thee ſhall he offer the prieſts of the high-places, &c.] i. e. He ſhall ſlay the prieſts of the high-places, and then burn their bones, as he did the bones of thoſe which had been buried, and conſequently defile the altar. Patrick.

that burn incenſe upon thee, and men's bones ſhall be burned upon thee.

3 And he gave a ſign the ſame day, ſaying, This is the ſign which the LORD hath ſpoken; Behold the altar ſhall be rent, and the aſhes that are upon it ſhall be poured out.

4 And it came to paſs when king Jeroboam heard the ſaying of the man of God, which had cried againſt the altar in Beth-el, that he put forth his hand from the altar, ſaying, Lay hold on him. And his hand which he put forth againſt him dried up, ſo that he could not pull it again to him.

5 The altar alſo was rent, and the aſhes poured out from the altar, according to the ſign which the man of God had given by the word of the LORD.

6 ¶ And the king anſwered and ſaid unto the man of God, Intreat now the face of the LORD, thy God, and pray for me, that my hand may be reſtored me again. And the man of God beſought the LORD, and the king's hand was reſtored to him again, and became as it was before.

7 And the king ſaid unto the man of God, Come home with me, and refreſh thy ſelf, and I will give thee a reward.

8 And the man of God ſaid unto the king, If thou wilt give me half thine houſe, I will not go in with thee, neither will I eat bread nor drink water in this place:

9 For ſo was it charged me by the word of the LORD, ſaying, Eat no bread, nor drink water, nor turn again by the ſame way that thou cameſt.

10 So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came to Beth-el.

11 Now there dwelt an old prophet in Beth-el; and his ſons came and told him all the works that the man of God had done that day in Beth-el: the words which he had ſpoken unto the king, them they told alſo to their father.

12 And their father ſaid unto them, What way went he? for his ſons had ſeen what way the man of God went which came from Judah.

13 And he ſaid unto his ſons, Saddle me the aſs. So they ſaddled him the aſs; and he rode thereon,

14 And went after the man of God, and found him ſitting under an oak: and he ſaid unto him, Art thou the man of God that cameſt from Judah? and he ſaid, I am.

15 Then he ſaid unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread.

16 And he ſaid, I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee: neither will I eat bread, nor drink water with thee in this place.

17 For it was ſaid to me by the word of the LORD, Thou ſhalt eat no bread nor drink water there, nor turn again to go by the way that thou cameſt.

18 He ſaid unto him, I am a prophet alſo as thou art; and an angel ſpake unto me by the word of the LORD, ſaying, Bring him back with thee into thine houſe, that he may eat bread, and drink water. But he lyed unto him.

19 So he went back with him, and did eat bread in his houſe, and drank water.

20 And it came to paſs as they ſat at the table, that the word of the LORD came unto the prophet that brought him back:

21 And he cried unto the man of God that came from Judah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, Foraſmuch as thou haſt diſobeyed the mouth

6 Intreat now the face of the Lord thy God.] A ſurpriſing change indeed! that the prince who a moment ago threatened to puniſh the man of God, now deſires him to pray to that Being for aſſiſtance whoſe worſhip he had deſtroyed, and was now offering incenſe to idols.

The king's hand was reſtored him again.] God did not intend to deſtroy Jeroboam, but to reform him, and therefore granted the requeſt of the prophet; whereby a new miracle was wrought for his converſion.

7 Come home with me, and refreſh thyſelf, and I will give thee a reward.] A ſtrange inſenſibility of the favour God had beſtowed on him; ſurely it was enough to have led him to repentance, at the ſame time it moved him to be grateful to the prophet. His hand was miraculouſly reſtored, but his mind remained as corrupted as before.

9 Eat no bread, nor drink water, nor turn again by the ſame way that thou cameſt.] The reaſon why this prophet was forbid to eat or drink with the people of Beth-el is obvious, becauſe he was to have no familiarity with idolaters; but why he was not to return by the ſame way he came, is not ſo evident. Some think that the reaſon for this command was to prevent the prophet's receiving any harm from the inhabitants of Beth-el, who, in revenge for his ſevere denunciations againſt their altar and worſhip, might lay wait for him on the road, had he taken that by which he came. Calmet.

20 It came to paſs as they ſat at the table, that the word of the Lord, &c.] In the Hebrew a word is here wanting, which the Arabic verſion only ſupplies; it reads thus: As they ſat at the table and did eat, that the word of the Lord, &c. Kennicott.

of the LORD, and haſt not kept the commandment which the LORD thy God commanded thee;

22 But cameſt back, and haſt eaten bread and drunk water in the place of the which the LORD did ſay to thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water; thy carcaſe ſhall not come unto the ſepulchre of thy fathers.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs, after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk, that he ſaddled for him the aſs, to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back.

24 And when he was gone, a lion met him by the way, and ſlew him: and his carcaſe was caſt in the way, and the aſs ſtood by it, the lion alſo ſtood by the carcaſe.

25 And behold, men paſſed by, and ſaw the carcaſe caſt in the way, and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe: and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt.

26 And when the prophet that brought him back from the way heard thereof, he ſaid, It is the man of God, who was diſobedient unto the word of the LORD: therefore the LORD hath delivered him unto the lion, which hath torn him, and ſlain him, according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake unto him.

27 And he ſpake to his ſons, ſaying, Saddle me the aſs. And they ſaddled him.

28 And he went and found his carcaſe caſt in the way, and the aſs and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe: the lion had not eaten the carcaſe, nor torn the aſs.

29 And the prophet took up the carcaſe of the man of God, and laid it upon the aſs, and brought it back. And the old prophet came to the city, to mourn, and to bury him.

30 And he laid his carcaſe in his own grave; and they mourned over him, ſaying, Alas, my brother!

31 And it came to paſs after he had buried him, that he ſpake to his ſons, ſaying, When I am dead, then bury me in the ſepulchre wherein the man of God is buried: lay my bones beſide his bones.

32 For the ſaying which he cried by the word of the LORD againſt the altar in Beth-el, and againſt all the houſes of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria, ſhall ſurely come to paſs.

33 ¶ After this thing Jeroboam returned not from his evil way, but made again of the loweſt of the people prieſts of the high places: whoſoever would, he conſecrated him, and he became one of the prieſts of the high places.

34 And this thing became ſin unto the houſe of Jeroboam, even to cut it off, and to deſtroy it from off the face of the earth.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Abijah being ſick, Jeroboam ſendeth his wife diſguiſed with preſents to the prophet Ahijah at Shiloh. 5 Ahijah forewarned, denounceth God's judgment.

24 A lion met him by the way, and ſlew him.] Many have thought the fate of this prophet too ſevere: but they would do well to conſider, that whenever God in an extraordinary manner communicates his will to a prophet, he always makes ſuch a ſenſible impreſſion upon his mind, that he cannot but perceive himſelf actuated by a Divine Spirit, and conſequently muſt be aſſured of the evidence of his own revelation. This evidence the prophet that was ſent to Bethel had: the conſideration of this circumſtance ſhould have made him diffident of what the other told him, at leaſt till he had ſhewn him ſome divine teſtimony to convince him: had he acted as he ought to have done herein, having received the command from God, he ſhould not have looked upon himſelf as diſcharged from it by any authority inferior to that which enjoined it. God enjoined the command, but a falſe prophet, an inhabitant of a place notorious for idolatry, perſuades him to an act of diſobedience, contrary to his own inclination, and the duty he owed to a far ſuperior command. Let us not ſay then his crime was ſmall, and his puniſhment too ſevere: but let us learn from hence to hold faſt our faith without wavering, and continue to walk ſtedfaſtly in the way which the Lord hath commanded us; neither turning aſide to the right hand, nor to the left: ever remembering that we cannot err when we do the will of our Father which is in heaven.

His carcaſe was caſt in the way, &c.] This ſevere judgment was to admoniſh all prophets to obſerve every part of God's commands, and to ſhew Jeroboam what he might expect, ſince God ſpared not a much leſs offender.

28 He went and found his carcaſe caſt in the way, and the aſs and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe, &c.] We have here a cluſter of miracles: the lion, contrary to his nature, neither eats the carcaſe, tears the aſs, meddles with the travellers that paſs by, nor hurts the old prophet or his aſs. All this was doubtleſs done to convince the people, that the man of God was not ſlain by accident, but that the lion had been directed by a ſupernatural power.

31 Lay my bones beſide his bones.] The reaſon of this requeſt of the prophet ſeems to be, that hearing what the prophet from Judah had foretold againſt the altar in Beth-el, viz. that men's bones ſhould be burnt upon it, he was deſirous that his bones ſhould be unmoleſted, and therefore requeſted to be buried in the ſame ſepulchre: accordingly we read, 2 Kings, chap. xxiii. 16, 17, that Joſiah burnt the bones out of the ſepulchres, but when he came to the grave of the man of God from Judah, he ſaid, Let him alone, let no man move his bones---ſo they let him alone, &c. And thus the LXX underſtood it, for they add at the end of the verſe, That my bones may be ſafe with his bones.

AT that time Abijah the ſon of Jeroboam fell ſick.

2 And Jeroboam ſaid to his wife, Ariſe, I pray thee, and diſguiſe thy ſelf, that thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam; and get thee to Shiloh: behold, there is Ahijah the prophet, which told me that I ſhould be king over this people.

3 And take with thee ten loaves, and cracknels, and a cruſe of honey, and go to him: he ſhall tell thee what ſhall become of the child.

4 And Jeroboam's wife did ſo, and aroſe, and went to Shiloh, and came to the houſe of Ahijah. But Ahijah could not ſee; for his eyes were ſet by reaſon of his age.

5 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Ahijah, Behold, the wife of Jeroboam cometh to aſk a thing of thee for her ſon; for he is ſick: thus and thus ſhalt thou ſay unto her. For it ſhall be when ſhe cometh in, that ſhe ſhall feign her ſelf to be another woman.

6 And it was ſo, when Ahijah heard the ſound of her feet as ſhe came in at the door, that he ſaid, Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam: why feigneſt thou thy ſelf to be another? for I am ſent to thee with heavy tidings.

7 Go, tell Jeroboam, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Foraſmuch as I exalted thee from among the people, and made thee prince over my people Iſrael,

8 And rent the kingdom away from the houſe of David, and gave it thee; and yet thou haſt not been as my ſervant David, who kept my commandments, and who followed me with all his heart, to do that only which was right in mine eyes,

9 But haſt done evil above all that were before thee: for thou haſt gone and made thee other gods, and molten images, to provoke me to anger, and haſt caſt me behind thy back:

10 Therefore behold, I will bring evil upon the houſe of Jeroboam, and will cut off from Jeroboam him that piſſeth againſt the wall, and him that is ſhut up and left in Iſrael, and will take away the remnant of the houſe of Jeroboam, as a man taketh away dung, till it be all gone.

11 Him that dieth of Jeroboam in the city ſhall the dogs eat; and him that dieth in the field ſhall the fowls of the air eat: for the LORD hath ſpoken it.

12 Ariſe thou therefore, get thee to thine own houſe; and when thy feet enter into the city, the child ſhall die.

13 And all Iſrael ſhall mourn for him, and bury him: for he only of Jeroboam ſhall come to the grave, becauſe in him there is found ſome good thing toward the LORD God of Iſrael in the houſe of Jeroboam.

14 Moreover, the LORD ſhall raiſe him up a king over Iſrael, who ſhall cut off the houſe of Jeroboam that day: but what? even now:

15 For the LORD ſhall ſmite Iſrael as a reed is ſhaken in the water, and he ſhall root up Iſrael out of this good land which he gave to their fathers, and ſhall ſcatter them beyond the

Notes on the Fourteenth Chapter.

Ver. 3 Take with thee ten loaves, &c.] They that went to enquire of a prophet uſed to make him ſome preſent, as a token of their reſpect.

6 Why feigneſt thou thyſelf to be another?] The reaſon why Jeroboam ſent his wife to conſult the prophet at Shiloh was to keep the tranſaction an inviolable ſecret; for had it been divulged, his whole government might have been in danger: becauſe it is natural to think, if his ſubjects came to underſtand that he put no confidence in the golden calves he had ſet up, but, on the contrary, had recourſe to the worſhippers of Jehovah, they would forſake theſe ſenſeleſs idols, and return to the ſervice of the God of Iſrael, whom they had ſo imprudently forſaken. The queen then was the only perſon he could truſt: and he thought it proper ſhe ſhould go diſguiſed, that the prophet might be more open in what he ſhould foretel. But how groſly was he miſtaken! It is ſurpriſing that he could be ſo far infatuated as to think, that the perſon who was capable of foretelling the fate of his ſon, ſhould not at the ſame time b able to ſee through this fraud and diſguiſe. The prophet does not wait for her to deliver her meſſage, but cries out, on her entering the houſe, Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam; why feigneſt thou thyſelf to be another?

10 Will cut off from Jeroboam, &c.] I will cut off every male. As the preſent tranſlation is ambiguous, and may offend a modeſt ear, it were better to render it by the word men, which is the true meaning, as ſeveral learned gentlemen have obſerved.

14 But what? even now.] But when? even now. What did I ſay? it ſhall happen even now. Kimchi, by putting no ſtop in the paſſage, reads it thus: "But what is this which ſhall "now happen, to that which ſhall come hereafter?" That is, the preſent calamities ſhall be nothing to the future. Patrick.

15 As a reed is ſhaken in the water.] i. e. They ſhall be in perpetual commotions by civil wars, having no quiet, but be continually changing their kings.

river, becauſe they have made their groves, provoking the LORD to anger.

16 And he ſhall give Iſrael up, becauſe of the ſins of Jeroboam, who did ſin, and who made Iſrael to ſin.

17 And Jeroboam's wife aroſe, and departed, and came to Tirzah: and when ſhe came to the threſhold of the door, the child died.

18 And they buried him, and all Iſrael mourned for him, according to the word of the LORD which he ſpake by the hand of his ſervant Ahijah the prophet.

19 And the reſt of the acts of Jeroboam, how he warred, and how he reigned, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

20 And the days which Jeroboam reigned were two and twenty years: and he ſlept with his fathers, and Nadab his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

21 And Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon reigned in Judah. Rehoboam was forty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſeventeen years in Jeruſalem, the city which the LORD did chooſe out of all the tribes of Iſrael to put his name there. And his mother's name was Naamah an Ammoniteſs.

22 And Judah did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and they provoked him to jealouſy with their ſins which they had committed, above all that their fathers had done.

23 For they alſo built them high places, and images, and groves on every high hill, and under every green tree.

24 And there were alſo ſodomites in the land: and they did according to all the abominations of the nations which the LORD caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

25 And it came to paſs in the fifth year of king Rehoboam, that Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem:

26 And he took away the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the king's houſe; he even took away all: and he took away all the ſhields of gold which Solomon had made.

27 And king Rehoboam made in their ſtead braſen ſhields, and committed them unto the hands of the chief of the guard, which kept the door of the king's houſe.

28 And it was ſo, when the king went into the houſe of the LORD, that the guard bare them, and brought them back into the guard-chamber.

29 Now the reſt of the acts of Rehoboam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

30 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all their days.

31 And Rehoboam ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David. And his mother's name was Naamah an Ammoniteſs. And Abijam his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XV.

NOW in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, reigned Abijam over Judah.

17 Tirzah.] This city ſtood in the tribe of Manaſſeh, and had been famous in ancient times. Jeroboam now made it his royal ſeat.

19 The book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.] Not the book in our Bibles, called Chronicles; but in ſuch a book as that wherein the acts of Solomon were recorded day by day. See chap. xi. 41.

24 Sodomites.] Whoremaſters, ſo Mr. Pilkington thinks it ſhould be rendered.

25 Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem.] It may ſeem ſtrange that Shiſhak, who was ſo nearly allied to Rehoboam, ſhould come up againſt him, and take his royal city. But Rehoboam was not the ſon of Pharaoh's daughter, therefore no relation to Shiſhak.

26 He took away the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord, &c.] Thoſe prodigious treaſures which David and Solomon had amaſſed, were, in five years after Solomon's death, carried into Egypt: hence we learn what little dependence can be laid on riches.

30 There was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all their days.] 1 Kings, xii. 24, &c. it is ſaid, that God commanded Rehoboam and his people not to fight againſt the Iſraelites, and they obeyed: but though the Jews were not to make war upon the Iſraelites, they had liberty to defend themſelves if attacked; and as they were now two rival nations, it is natural to think that there were frequent acts of hoſtility committed on the borders, though they never engaged in a pitched battle. Patrick.

Notes on the Fifteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 In the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam---reigned Abijam over Judah.] This ſeems to diſagree with what is ſaid, ver. 9, con-

2 Three years reigned he in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Maachah the daughter of Abiſhalom.

3 Aud he walked in all the ſins of his father, which he had done before him: and his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God, as the heart of David his father.

4 Nevertheleſs, for David's ſake did the LORD his God give him a lamp in Jeruſalem, to ſet up his ſon after him, and to eſtabliſh Jeruſalem:

5 Becauſe David did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, and turned not aſide from any thing that he commanded him all the days of his life, ſave only in the matter of Uriah the Hittite.

6 And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all the days of his life.

7 Now the reſt of the acts of Abijam, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? and there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam.

8 ¶ And Abijam ſlept with his fathers; and they buried him in the city of David. And Aſa his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

9 And in the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Iſrael reigned Aſa over Judah.

10 And forty and one years reigned he in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Maachah the daughter of Abiſhalom.

11 And Aſa did that which was right in the eyes of the LORD, as did David his father.

12 And he took away the ſodomites out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made.

13 And alſo Maachah his mother, even her he removed from being queen, becauſe ſhe had made an idol in a grove; and Aſa deſtroyed her idol, and burned it by the brook Kidron.

14 But the high places were not removed: nevertheleſs, Aſa's heart was perfect with the LORD all his days.

15 And he brought in the things which his father had dedicated, and the things which himſelf had dedicated, into the houſe of the LORD, ſilver, and gold, and veſſels.

16 And there was war between Aſa and Baaſha king of Iſrael all their days.

17 And Baaſha king of Iſrael went up againſt Judah, and built Ramah, that he might not ſuffer any to go out or come in to Aſa king of Judah.

18 Then Aſa took all the ſilver and the gold that were left in the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the king's houſe, and delivered them into the hand of his ſervants: and king Aſa ſent them to Ben-hadad the ſon of Tabrimon, the ſon of Hezion, king of Syria, that dwelt at Damaſcus, ſaying,

19 There is a league between me and thee, and between my father and thy father: behold, I have ſent unto thee a preſent of ſilver and gold; come and break thy league with Baaſha king of Iſrael, that he may depart from me.

20 So Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Aſa, and ſent the captains of the hoſts which he had againſt the cities of Iſrael, and ſmote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-beth-maachah, and all Cinneroth, with all the land of Naphtali.

21 And it came to paſs, when Baaſha heard thereof, that he left off building of Ramah and dwelt in Tirzah.

22 Then king Aſa made a proclamation throughout all Judah; none was exempted: and they took away the ſtones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baaſha had concerning Aſa, who, we are told, began his reign in the twentieth year of Jeroboam, and reigned three years. But it ſhould be remembered, that it is common, both in ſcripture and other authors, to reckon part for a whole year. So Abijam began to reign in ſome part of Jeroboam's eighteenth year, continued his reign the whole nineteenth, and died in the twentieth, and was thence reckoned to have reigned three years. Patrick.

12 The ſodomites.] The whoremaſters. See chap. xiv. 24. The ancient verſions give no countenance to our calling this a ſodomite; nor do I ſee any grounds for charging the Iſraelites, with being ſo frequently, and ſo notoriouſly guilty of thoſe abominable practices. Pilkington's Remarks.

14 The high places were not removed.] He had taken away all the high places where they ſacrificed to ſtrange gods, but not thoſe wherein God alone was worſhipped. His authority was not probably great enough for this, the people having been ſo long indulged in this licence. Patrick.

18 Aſa took all the ſilver and the gold, &c.] In caſes of extreme danger, it was always held lawful to employ ſacred things in the defence of the country; but there was no neceſſity here. God had appeared wonderfully againſt a much more powerful enemy than Baaſha, and therefore he ought to have confided in him for help, as the prophet Hanani told him, 2 Chron. xvi. 7, &c. Patrick.

19 I have ſent unto thee a preſent.] The original word here properly ſignifies a bribe. Pilkington's Remarks.

builded: and king Asa built with them Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpah.

23 The rest of all the acts of Asa, and all his might, and all that he did, and the cities which he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? nevertheless, in the time of his old age, he was diseased in his feet.

24 ¶ And Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead.

25 And Nadab the son of Jeroboam began to reign over Israel in the second year of Asa king of Judah, and reigned over Israel two years.

26 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

27 And Baasha the son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, conspired against him; and Baasha smote him at Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines. For Nadab and all Israel laid siege to Gibbethon.

28 Even in the third year of Asa king of Judah did Baasha slay him, and reigned in his stead.

29 And it came to pass when he reigned, that he smote all the house of Jeroboam: he left not to Jeroboam any that breathed, until he had destroyed him, according unto the saying of the LORD which he spake by his servant Ahijah the Shilonite:

30 Because of the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and which he made Israel sin, by his provocation wherewith he provoked the LORD God of Israel to anger.

31 Now the rest of the acts of Nadab, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

32 And there was war between Asa and Baasha king of Israel all their days.

33 ¶ In the third year of Asa king of Judah began Baasha the son of Ahijah to reign over all Israel in Tirzah, twenty and four years.

34 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sin wherewith he made Israel to sin.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Jehu's prophecy against Baasha. 8 Zimri's conspiracy. 29 Ahab's wicked reign. 34 Joshua's curse upon Hiel the builder of Jericho fulfilled.

THEN the word of the LORD came to Jehu the son of Hanani against Baasha, saying,

2 Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust, and made thee prince over my people Israel; and thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to sin, to provoke me to anger with their sins;

3 Behold, I will take away the posterity of Baasha, and the posterity of his house: and will make thy house like the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat.

4 Him that dieth of Baasha in the city shall the dogs eat, and him that dieth of his in the fields shall the fowls of the air eat.

5 Now the rest of the acts of Baasha, and what he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

6 So Baasha slept with his fathers, and was buried in Tirzah. And Ela his son reigned in his stead.

7 And also by the hand of the prophet Jehu the son of Hanani, came the word of the LORD, against Baasha, and against his house, even for all the evil that he did in the sight of

---

28 In the third year of Asa king of Judah, did Baasha slay him.] What was the pretence for this conspiracy we are not told; but it is probable he had many assistants in it: otherwise we cannot well conceive how he could slay him, when he was in the midst of his army at Gibbethon. Patrick.

32 And there was war, &c.] This verse, which is exactly the same as the 16th, is not in the Vatican Septuagint.

Notes on the Sixteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Jehu the son of Hanani, &c.] This prophet lived to the end of the reign of Jehoshaphat; and his father was a prophet before him. There was, indeed, a succession of prophets during the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, as Abarbinel has observed. Patrick.

2 Forasmuch as I exalted thee out of the dust, &c.] His accession to the kingdom was from the Divine decree, but the form and manner of it was from himself, from his own ambition and covetousness; and as it was wicked and cruel, is therefore charged upon him as a wilful murder, ver. 7. Poole.

the LORD, in provoking him to anger with the work of his hands, in being like the houſe of Jeroboam; and becauſe he killed him.

8 ¶ In the twenty and ſixth year of Aſa king of Judah began Ela the ſon of Baaſha to reign over Iſrael in Tirzah, two years.

9 And his ſervant Zimri, captain of half his chariots, conſpired againſt him, as he was in Tirzah drinking himſelf drunk in the houſe of Arza ſteward of his houſe in Tirzah.

10 And Zimri went in and ſmote him, and killed him, in the twenty and ſeventh year of Aſa king of Judah, and reigned in his ſtead.

11 And it came to paſs when he began to reign, as ſoon as he ſat on his throne, that he ſlew all the houſe of Baaſha: he left him not one that piſſeth againſt the wall, neither of his kinſfolks, nor of his friends.

12 Thus did Zimri deſtroy all the houſe of Baaſha, according to the word of the LORD which he ſpake againſt Baaſha by Jehu the prophet;

13 For all the ſins of Baaſha, and the ſins of Elah his ſon, by which they ſinned, and by which they made Iſrael to ſin, in provoking the LORD God of Iſrael to anger with their vanities.

14 Now the reſt of the acts of Elah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

15 In the twenty and ſeventh year of Aſa king of Judah, did Zimri reign ſeven days in Tirzah. And the people were encamped againſt Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philiſtines, 16 And the people that were encamped heard ſay, Zimri hath conſpired, and hath alſo ſlain the king: wherefore all Iſrael made Omri, the captain of the hoſt, king over Iſrael that day in the camp.

17 And Omri went up from Gibbethon, and all Iſrael with him, and they beſieged Tirzah.

18 And it came to paſs when Zimri ſaw that the city was taken, that he went into the palace of the king's houſe, and burned the king's houſe over him with fire, and died:

19 For his ſins which he ſinned in doing evil in the ſight of the LORD, in walking in the way of Jeroboam, and in his ſin which he did, to make Iſrael ſin.

20 Now the reſt of the acts of Zimri, and his treaſon that he wrought, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

21 Then were the people of Iſrael divided into two parts: half of the people followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath, to make him king; and half followed Omri.

22 But the people that followed Omri, prevailed againſt the people that followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath. So Tibni died, and Omri reigned.

23 In the thirty and one year of Aſa king of Judah began Omri to reign over Iſrael twelve years: ſix years reigned he in Tirzah.

24 And he bought the hill Samaria of Shemer for two talents of ſilver, and built on the hill, and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer, owner of the hill, Samaria.

25 But Omri wrought evil in the eyes of the LORD, and did worſe than all that were before him.

26 For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and in his ſin wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin, to provoke the LORD God of Iſrael to anger with their vanities.

27 Now the reſt of the acts of Omri, which he did, and his might that he ſhewed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

10 Zimri went in, and ſmote him, &c.] Thus was the vengeance threatened againſt him executed ſpeedily; his houſe being ſoon made, according to the word of the Lord, like the houſe of Jeroboam: for as Nadab the ſon of Jeroboam reigned only two years, ſo Elah the ſon of Baaſha reigned no more; and as Nadab was killed with the ſword, ſo alſo was Elah. Thus was there a remarkable ſimilarity between Jeroboam and Baaſha, in their lives and in their deaths; in their ſons, and in their family. Patrick.

11 He left him not one, &c.] See note on chap. xiv. 10.

18 Zimri burnt the king's houſe over him, &c.] Profane hiſtory has preſerved the memory of princes who have choſen to die in this manner, rather than fall by the ſword, whereof Sardanapalus is one of the moſt ancient, and moſt notorious examples. Univerſal Hiſtory, vol. IV. p. 306.

24 Called the name of the city Samaria.] Samaria was ſituated in the midſt of the tribe of Ephraim on a fruitful and pleaſant hill, and ſoon became the capital city of the kingdom of Iſrael. It is conjectured by Bochart, who traced the ruins of it, to have been once larger than Jeruſalem; but now it conſiſts of nothing but a few cottages and convents, inhabited by ſome Greek monks. Wells's Geography.

28 So Omri ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria. And Ahab his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

29 ¶ And in the thirty and eighth year of Aſa king of Judah began Ahab the ſon of Omri to reign over Iſrael: and Ahab the ſon of Omri reigned over Iſrael in Samaria twenty and two years.

30 And Ahab the ſon of Omri did evil in the ſight of the LORD above all that were before him.

31 And it came to paſs as if it had been a light thing for him to walk in the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, that he took to wife Jezebel the daughter of Ethbaal king of the Zidonians, and went and ſerved Baal, and worſhipped him.

32 And he reared up an altar for Baal in the houſe of Baal, which he had built in Samaria.

33 And Ahab made a grove: and Ahab did more to provoke the LORD God of Iſrael to anger than all the kings of Iſrael that were before him.

34 ¶ In his days did Hiel the Bethelite build Jericho: he laid the foundation thereof in Abiram his firſt-born, and ſet up the gates thereof in his youngeſt ſon Segub, according to the word of the LORD which he ſpake by Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Elijah, propheſying againſt Ahab, is ſent to Cherith, where the ravens feed him. 8 He is ſent to the widow of Zarephath. 17 He raiſeth the widow's ſon.

AND Elijah the Tiſhbite, who was of the inhabitants of Gilead, ſaid unto Ahab, As the LORD God of Iſrael liveth, before whom I ſtand, there ſhall not be dew nor rain theſe years, but according to my word.

2 And the word of the LORD came unto him, ſaying,

3 Get thee hence, and turn thee eaſtward, and hide thy ſelf by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

4 And it ſhall be that thou ſhalt drink of the brook; and I have commanded the ravens to feed thee there.

5 So he went, and did according unto the word of the LORD: for he went and dwelt by the brook Cherith, that is before Jordan.

6 And the ravens brought him bread and fleſh in the morning, and bread and fleſh in the evening; and he drank of the brook.

7 And it came to paſs after a while, that the brook dried up, becauſe there had been no rain in the land.

8 ¶ And the word of the LORD came unto him, ſaying,

9 Ariſe, get thee to Zarephath, which belongeth to Zidon, and dwell there: behold, I have commanded a widow woman there to ſuſtain thee.

31 Served Baal.] Baal, in the Hebrew, ſignifies Lord; and, as Selden obſerves, was anciently the name of the true God, until the world grew wicked, and began to apply it to the ſun. In after-ages it was applied to other ſtars; and in proceſs of time to any of their kings, whoſe memory was dear to them. Patrick.

34 In his days did Hiel the Beth-elite build Jericho, &c.] He was either ignorant that Jericho was devoted to God, as the firſt-fruits of the conqueſt of Canaan, and therefore never to be rebuilt; or ſo impious as not to regard the words of Joſhua: but he found, to his coſt, that the ſentence that great general had pronounced on the rebuilder of Jericho proved true; for his eldeſt ſon died when he laid the firſt ſtone of it, and ſo all the reſt of his children, one after another, as the building advanced, till at laſt his youngeſt ſon died when it was finiſhed. See note on Joſhua vi. 26. A moſt remarkable inſtance of the certainty of Divine threatnings, and that God never forgets what he hath ſaid, but continues always the ſame.

Notes on the Seventeenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Elijah the Tiſhbite.] The great care God ſtill ſhewed for his people, notwithſtanding the many ſins they had committed to provoke him to anger, was ſo remarkable, that in every king's reign, from the firſt to the laſt, there was one prophet at leaſt to inſtruct, admoniſh, and correct them. And now, in the reign of Ahab, when idolatry was carried to its higheſt pitch, God raiſed up an extraordinary prophet to call the Iſraelites to repentance. He is called the Tiſhbite, from Thiſbe, a town on the other ſide Jordan, in the tribe of Gad, where he was born. Patrick.

3 Hide thyſelf by the brook Cherith.] It is generally agreed, that this brook was near the river Jordan, and on the weſt ſide of it.

6 The ravens brought him bread and fleſh in the morning, &c.] A learned German has proved from many authors, that there was in the country of Bethſchan, in Decapolis, a little town by the brook Cherith called Oreb, or Orbo: he therefore explains the word Orbim, which we tranſlate ravens, of the inhabitants of this little town; ſome of whom, he contends, daily carried bread and fleſh to Elijah, who was hid in a cave near this little town: and he ſupports this interpretation by the opinions of Chaldee, Arabic, and Jewiſh writers. See Memoirs of Literature, Numb. 7, April, 1710. Orbim, accolæ villæ inſinibus Arabum, Elia dederunt alimenta. Jerom. iii. 119.

And as she was going to fetch it, he called to her, and said, Bring me, I pray thee, a morsel of bread in thine hand. I.Kings Chap.XVII, Ve.11.

10 So he aroſe, and went to Zarephath. And when he came to the gate of the city, behold, the widow woman was there gathering of ſticks: and he called to her, and ſaid, Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water in a veſſel that I may drink.

11 And as ſhe was going to fetch it, he called to her, and ſaid, Bring me, I pray thee, a morſel of bread in thine hand.

12 And ſhe ſaid, As the LORD thy God liveth, I have not a cake, but an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oil in a cruſe: and behold, I am gathering two ſticks, that I may go in, and dreſs it for me and my ſon, that we may eat it, and die.

13 And Elijah ſaid unto her, Fear not: go, and do as thou haſt ſaid: but make me thereof a little cake firſt, and bring it unto me, and after make for thee and for thy ſon.

14 For thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, The barrel of meal ſhall not waſte, neither ſhall the cruſe of oil fail, until the day that the LORD ſendeth rain upon the earth.

15 And ſhe went, and did according to the ſaying of Elijah: and ſhe, and he, and her houſe did eat many days.

16 And the barrel of meal waſted not, neither did the cruſe of oil fail, according to the word of the LORD which he ſpake by Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs after theſe things, that the ſon of the woman, the miſtreſs of the houſe, fell ſick; and his ſickneſs was ſo ſore that there was no breath left in him.

18 And ſhe ſaid unto Elijah, What have I to do with thee, O thou man of God? art thou come unto me to call my ſin to remembrance, and to ſlay my ſon?

19 And he ſaid unto her, Give me thy ſon. And he took him out of her boſom, and carried him up into a loft where he abode, and laid him upon his own bed.

20 And he cried unto the LORD, and ſaid, O LORD my God, haſt thou alſo brought evil upon the widow with whom I ſojourn, by ſlaying her ſon?

21 And he ſtretched himſelf upon the child three times, and cried unto the LORD, and ſaid, O LORD my God, I pray thee, let this child's ſoul come into him again.

22 And the LORD heard the voice of Elijah; and the ſoul of the child came into him again, and he revived.

23 And Elijah took the child, and brought him down out of the chamber into the houſe, and delivered him unto his mother: and Elijah ſaid, See thy ſon liveth.

24 And the woman ſaid to Elijah, Now by this I know that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the LORD in thy mouth is truth.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Elijah meeteth with good Obadiah. 17 He reproveth Ahab, and convinceth Baal's prophets. 41 He obtaineth rain.

AND it came to paſs after many days, that the word of the LORD came to Elijah in the third year, ſaying, Go, ſhew thy ſelf unto Ahab; and I will ſend rain upon the earth.

2 And Elijah went to ſhew himſelf unto Ahab. And there was a ſore famine in Samaria.

it is called in the New Teſtament, Sarepta, was ſituated between Tyre and Zidon. All that remains of it at preſent are a ſmall number of houſes on the tops of the mountains, a few miles from the ſea: but there is reaſon to believe that the principal part of the city ſtood below, in the ſpace between the hills and the ſea, becauſe there are ſtill large ruins to be ſeen there. Well's Geography.

15 She, and he, and her houſe did eat many days.] i. e. Two years; for one year of the famine was paſt before he came to Zarephath, and he dwelt here till the end of the famine, which continued one year more. Patrick.

24 By this I know that thou art a man of God.] The woman had before ſufficient reaſon to believe that Elijah was a prophet of the Lord, by the miraculous increaſe of the meal and oil; though upon his not curing her ſon when he lay ſick, but rather ſuffering him to die, her faith began to fail. Whereas, upon ſeeing him raiſed from the dead, her faith revived with her ſon; and, through the joy of having him reſtored, ſhe conſidered this laſt miracle as much greater than the former. Le Clerc.

Notes on the Eighteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The word of the Lord came to Elijah in the third year.] Both our bleſſed Saviour and St. James tells us, that there was no rain for three years and ſix months. But this difference is eaſily reconciled; for the land of Canaan had rain only twice a year, called the former and the latter rain. It is therefore natural to think, that Ahab imputed the beginning of the drought to natural cauſes; but after waiting ſix months longer, without perceiving any ſigns of rain, he began to be enraged at Elijah, as the cauſe of this national judgment: from this time the years are to be computed, though from the firſt notice that Elijah gave Ahab of his approaching calamity to the concluſion of it, were certainly three years and a half. Patrick.

3 And Ahab called Obadiah, which was the governor of his houſe. Now Obadiah feared the LORD greatly:

4 For it was ſo, when Jezebel cut off the prophets of the LORD, that Obadiah took an hundred prophets, and hid them by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water.

5 And Ahab ſaid unto Obadiah, Go into the land, unto all fountains of water, and unto all brooks: peradventure we may find graſs to ſave the horſes and mules alive, that we loſe not all the beaſts.

6 So they divided the land between them to paſs throughout it: Ahab went one way by himſelf, and Obadiah went another way by himſelf.

7 And as Obadiah was in the way, behold, Elijah met him: and he knew him, and fell on his face, and ſaid, Art thou that my lord Elijah?

8 And he anſwered him, I am: go tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

9 And he ſaid, What have I ſinned, that thou wouldeſt deliver thy ſervant into the hand of Ahab, to ſlay me?

10 As the LORD thy God liveth, there is no nation or kingdom whither my lord hath not ſent to ſeek thee: and when they ſaid, He is not there; he took an oath of the kingdom and nation, that they found thee not.

11 And now thou ſayeſt, Go, tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here.

12 And it ſhall come to paſs, as ſoon as I am gone from thee, that the Spirit of the LORD ſhall carry thee whither I know not; and ſo when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he ſhall ſlay me. But I thy ſervant fear the LORD from my youth.

13 Was it not told my lord what I did when Jezebel ſlew the prophets of the LORD, how I hid an hundred men of the LORD's prophets by fifty in a cave, and fed them with bread and water?

14 And now thou ſayeſt, Go, tell thy lord, Behold, Elijah is here: and he ſhall ſlay me.

15 And Elijah ſaid, As the LORD of hoſts liveth, before whom I ſtand, I will ſurely ſhew my ſelf unto him to day.

16 So Obadiah went to meet Ahab, and told him. And Ahab went to meet Elijah.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs when Ahab ſaw Elijah, that Ahab ſaid unto him, Art thou he that troubleth Iſrael?

18 And he anſwered, I have not troubled Iſrael; but thou and thy father's houſe, in that ye have forſaken the commandments of the LORD, and thou haſt followed Baalim.

19 Now therefore ſend, and gather to me all Iſrael unto mount Carmel, and the prophets of Baal four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the groves four hundred, which eat at Jezebel's table.

20 So Ahab ſent unto all the children of Iſrael, and gathered the prophets together unto mount Carmel.

21 And Elijah came unto all the people, and ſaid, How long halt ye between two opinions? if the LORD be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him. And the people anſwered him not a word.

22 Then ſaid Elijah unto the people, I, even I only, remain a prophet of the LORD; but Baal's prophets are four hundred and fifty men.

23 Let them therefore give us two bullocks, and let them chooſe one bullock for themſelves, and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under: and I will dreſs the other bullock, and lay it on wood, and put no fire under.

24 And call ye on the name of your gods, and I will call on the name of the LORD: and the god that anſwereth by fire, let him be God. And all the people anſwered and ſaid, It is well ſpoken.

3 Ahab called Obadiah.] This perſon ſeems to have been a truly religious man, one who worſhipped God alone, and had a ſingular affection for his ſervants.

12 The ſpirit of the Lord ſhall carry thee whither I know not.] Shall ſnatch thee away from hence, as ſometimes the prophets were ſuddenly tranſported by an inviſible power to places far diſtant from that where they were at preſent. Patrick.

13 I hid an hundred men of the Lord's prophets, &c.] Elijah, in his appeal to the people, tells them, I, even I only, remain a prophet of the Lord, ver. 22; and therefore we can hardly imagine, that the hundred preſerved by Obadiah were men actually inſpired, and inveſted with a prophetic character, but ſuch only as were the diſciples of the prophets. For it is probable, that even in Jezebel's time, there were remaining in Iſrael ſchools of the prophets, which ſhe endeavoured to deſtroy, that there might be none remaining to inſtruct the people in the true religion. Le Clerc.

24 All the people anſwered and ſaid, It is well ſpoken.] What notions

25 And Elijah ſaid unto the prophets of Baal, Chooſe ye one bullock for your ſelves, and dreſs it firſt; for ye are many: and call on the name of your gods, but put no fire under.

26 And they took the bullock which was given them, and they dreſſed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning even until noon, ſaying, O Baal, hear us. But there was no voice, nor any that anſwered. And they leaped upon the altar which was made.

27 And it came to paſs at noon, that Elijah mocked them, and ſaid, Cry aloud: for he is a god; either he is talking, or he is purſuing, or he is in a journey; or peradventure he ſleepeth, and muſt be awaked.

28 And they cried aloud, and cut themſelves after their manner with knives, and lancets, till the blood guſhed out upon them.

29 And it came to paſs, when mid-day was paſt, and they propheſied until the time of the offering of the evening ſacrifice, that there was neither voice, nor any to anſwer, nor any that regarded.

30 And Elijah ſaid unto all the people, Come near unto me. And all the people came near unto him. And he repaired the altar of the LORD that was broken down.

31 And Elijah took twelve ſtones, according to the number of the tribes of the ſons of Jacob, unto whom the word of the LORD came, ſaying, Iſaael ſhall be thy name.

32 And with the ſtones he built an altar in the name of the LORD: and he made a trench about the altar as great as would contain two meaſures of ſeed.

33 And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood, and ſaid, Fill four barrels with water, and pour it on the burnt-ſacrifice, and on the wood.

34 And he ſaid, Do it the ſecond time. And they did it the ſecond time. And he ſaid, Do it the third time. And they did it the third time.

35 And the water ran round about the altar; and he filled the trench alſo with water.

36 And it came to paſs at the time of the offering of the evening ſacrifice, that Elijah the prophet came near, and ſaid, LORD God of Abraham, Iſaac, and of Iſrael, let it be known this day that thou art God in Iſrael, and that I am thy ſervant, and that I have done all theſe things at thy word.

37 Hear me, O LORD, hear me, that this people may know that thou art the LORD God, and that thou haſt turned their heart back again.

38 Then the fire of the LORD fell, and conſumed the burnt-ſacrifice, and the wood, and the ſtones, and the duſt, and licked up the water that was in the trench.

notions the worſhippers of Baal might have of the power of their god is hard to ſay; but as ſending down fire from heaven was not, in their opinion, above the power of evil ſpirits, it is poſſible ſome tradition concerning the exploits of their Baal, in this particular, might have been handed down to them from the ancient worſhippers of that god; who being thought the ſun, and to exceed all the heavenly bodies in heat, might, they hoped, upon this grand occaſion, exert his power, and burn up their ſacrifice. However, they thought it the wiſeſt method to accept the prophet's challenge; for, as it was propoſed in ſuch fair terms, they muſt, had they refuſed it, have forfeited all their credit with the people.

27 Cry aloud: for he is a god, either he is talking, &c.] There is ſomething very keen and ſarcaſtical in theſe expreſſions of the prophet, which could not fail of highly provoking the idolatrous prieſts, at a time when they began to deſpair of any anſwer from their god, and conſequently expected to be expoſed as the propagators of a falſe religion.

28 They cut themſelves with knives and lancets.] A ſtrange method, one would think, to obtain the favour of their gods! yet, if we look into antiquity, we ſhall find, that nothing was more common, in the religious rites of ſeveral nations, than this barbarous cuſtom. Modern travellers tell us, that in Turky, Perſia, and ſeveral parts of the Indies, there are a kind of fanatics, who think they do a very meritorious thing, highly acceptable to the Deity, in cutting and mangling their own fleſh. Calmet and Le Clerc.

30 He repaired the altar of the Lord that was broken down.] This altar was certainly one of thoſe which were built in the time of the judges of Iſrael; when, for want of a fixed place of worſhip, ſuch ſtructures were permitted. Both Tacitus and Suetonius ſpeak of the god of Carmel, whom Veſpaſian went to conſult when he was in Judea; adding, that his prieſt Baſilides promiſed him all manner of ſucceſs; but that there was neither temple nor ſtatue upon the mountain, but one altar only, venerable for its antiquity. This altar had doubtleſs its original from that on which Elijah offered this memorable ſacrifice, and which even the heathens held ſo ſacred, that, when they became maſters of the country, they would not place ſo much as an image near it. Calmet.

33 Fill four barrels with water, and pour it on the burnt-ſacrifice and on the wood.] This was done to render the miracle more conſpicuous and convincing; for it evidently ſhewed there could be no fallacy in it, no fire concealed in or about the altar, but that the lightning which was to conſume the ſacrifice came from heaven at his invocation. Patrick.

38 The fire of the Lord fell.] God had before declared his approbation of his worſhippers by ſending down fire to conſume their 39 And when all the people ſaw it, they fell on their faces: and they ſaid, The LORD, he is the God; the LORD he is the God.

40 And Elijah ſaid unto them, Take the prophets of Baal; let not one of them eſcape. And they took them. And Elijah brought them down to the brook Kiſhon, and ſlew them there.

41 ¶ And Elijah ſaid unto Ahab, Get thee up, eat and drink; for there is a ſound of abundance of rain.

42 So Ahab went up to eat and to drink. And Elijah went up to the top of Carmel; and he caſt himſelf down upon the earth, and put his face between his knees,

43 And ſaid to his ſervant, Go up now, look toward the ſea. And he went up, and looked, and ſaid, There is nothing. And he ſaid, Go again ſeven times.

44 And it came to paſs at the ſeventh time, that he ſaid, Behold, there ariſeth a little cloud out of the ſea like a man's hand. And he ſaid, Go up, ſay unto Ahab, Prepare thy chariot, and get thee down, that the rain ſtop thee not.

45 And it came to paſs in the mean while, that the heaven was black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain. And Ahab rode and went to Jezreel.

46 And the hand of the LORD was on Elijah: and he girded up his loins, and ran before Ahab to the entrance of Jezreel.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Elijah threatened by Jezebel, 4 is comforted by an angel. 9 God ſendeth him to anoint Hazael, Jehu, and Eliſha. 19 Eliſha followeth Elijah.

AND Ahab told Jezebel all that Elijah had done, and withal, how he had ſlain all the prophets with the ſword.

2 Then Jezebel ſent a meſſenger unto Elijah, ſaying, So let the gods do to me, and more alſo, if I make not thy life as the life of one of them by to-morrow about this time.

3 And when he ſaw that, he aroſe and went for his life, and came to Beer-ſheba, which belongeth to Judah, and left his ſervant there.

4 ¶ But he himſelf went a day's journey into the wilderneſs, and came and ſat down under a juniper-tree: and he requeſted for himſelf that he might die, and ſaid, It is enough; now, O LORD, take away my life: for I am not better than my fathers.

5 And as he lay and ſlept under a juniper-tree, behold then, an angel touched him, and ſaid unto him, Ariſe and eat.

6 And he looked, and behold, there was a cake baken on the coals, and a cruſe of water at his head. And he did eat and drink, and laid him down again.

7 And the angel of the LORD came again the ſecond time, and touched him, and ſaid, Ariſe and eat; becauſe the journey is too great for thee.

8 And he aroſe, and did eat and drink, and went in the ſtrength of that meat forty days and forty nights, unto Horeb the mount of God.

9 ¶ And he came thither unto a cave, and lodged there. And behold, the word of the LORD came to him; and he ſaid unto him, What doeſt thou here, Elijah?

10 And he ſaid, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hoſts: for the children of Iſrael have forſaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and ſlain thy prophets with the ſword; and I, even I only, am left: and they ſeek my life, to take it away.

their ſacrifices, Lev. ix. 24.---and Judg. vi. 21. And though perhaps it may be poſſible for evil ſpirits to make fire deſcend from the clouds, yet ſince they can do nothing without the Divine permiſſion, it is abſurd to think they ſhould obtain it in a matter of competition between the true and falſe religion.

39 The Lord, he is the God: the Lord, &c.] They were deeply affected by this amazing proof which God had given them, that he only was to be worſhipped. Patrick.

46 He girded up his loins.] They wore long and looſe garments in this country, and therefore girded them up, when they had occaſion to make expedition. Patrick.

Notes on the Nineteenth Chapter.

Ver. 2 Jezebel ſent a meſſenger unto Elijah, &c.] This was certainly the effect of her blind rage, and not of prudence; which would have adviſed her to conceal her deſigns till they were ripe for execution; whereas, by ſending him word, ſhe gave him notice of his danger, and admoniſhed him to eſcape by flight.

3 When he ſaw that, he aroſe, &c.] This paſſage is rendered in the ancient verſions, He was afraid, and aroſe and went away. Pilk. Rem.

11 Behold,

11 And he ſaid, Go forth, and ſtand upon the mount before the LORD. And behold, the LORD paſſed by, and a great and ſtrong wind rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks before the LORD; but the LORD was not in the wind: and after the wind an earthquake; but the LORD was not in the earthquake:

12 And after the earthquake a fire; but the LORD was not in the fire: and after the fire a ſtill ſmall voice.

13 And it was ſo, when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle, and went out, and ſtood in the entering-in of the cave. And behold, there came a voice unto him, and ſaid, What doeſt thou here, Elijah?

14 And he ſaid, I have been very jealous for the LORD God of hoſts: becauſe the children of Iſrael have forſaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and ſlain thy prophets with the ſword: and I, even I only, am left; and they ſeek my life, to take it away.

15 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Go, return on thy way to the wilderneſs of Damaſcus: and when thou comeſt, anoint Hazael to be king over Syria.

16 And Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi ſhalt thou anoint to be king over Iſrael: and Eliſha, the ſon of Shaphet of Abel-Meholah ſhalt thou anoint to be prophet in thy room.

17 And it ſhall come to paſs, that him that eſcapeth the ſword of Hazael, ſhall Jehu ſlay: and him that eſcapeth from the ſword of Jehu, ſhall Eliſha ſlay.

18 Yet I have left me ſeven thouſand in Iſrael, all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kiſſed him.

19 ¶ So he departed thence and found Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat, who was plowing with twelve yoke of oxen before him, and he with the twelfth. And Elijah paſſed by him, and caſt his mantle upon him.

20 And he left the oxen, and ran after Elijah, and ſaid, Let me, I pray thee, kiſs my father and my mother, and then I will follow thee. And he ſaid unto him, Go back again: for what have I done to thee?

21 And he returned back from him; and took a yoke of oxen, and ſlew them, and boiled their fleſh with the inſtruments of the oxen, and gave unto the people, and they did eat. Then he aroſe, and went after Elijah, and miniſtered unto him.

CHAP. XX.

1 Ben-hadad beſieged Samaria. 13 The Syrians are ſlain. 31 Ahab diſmiſſeth Ben-hadad. 35 A prophet reproveth him.

AND Ben-hadad the king of Syria gathered all his hoſt together: and there were thirty and two kings with him, and horſes, and chariots: and he went up and beſieged Samaria, and warred againſt it.

2 And he ſent meſſengers to Ahab king of Iſrael into the city, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Ben-hadad,

3 Thy ſilver and thy gold is mine; thy wives alſo and thy children, even the goodlieſt, are mine.

4 And the king of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid, My lord O king, according to thy ſaying, I am thine, and all that I have.

11 Behold, the Lord paſſeth by, &c.] The generality of interpreters have conſidered this paſſage as a figurative deſcription of the goſpel diſpenſation, which came not in ſuch a terrible manner as the law did, with ſtorms, thunders, lightnings, and earthquakes, but with great lenity and ſweetneſs; wherein God ſpeaks to us by his ſon, uſing only gentle arguments and ſoft perſuaſions.

17 Him that eſcapeth the ſword of Hazael ſhall Jehu ſlay: and him that eſcapeth from the ſword of Jehu ſhall Eliſha ſlay.] i. e. "God has, in his providence, appointed three perſons to puniſh "the Iſraelites, according to their deſerts; one or other of "which ſhall infallibly execute his judgments upon them." It may be aſked, how the prophet Eliſha can be ſaid to ſlay, being by profeſſion a pacifick man, and never engaged in war? But when we conſider the two and forty children which he deſtroyed, the ſore famine which, by God's appointment, he ſent upon the Iſraelites, and the many ſevere comminations he denounced againſt them, which were fulfilled; we ſhall find ſufficient reaſon to juſtify the expreſſion. Poole.

18 I have left me ſeven thouſand in Iſrael.] This ſeems to have been added to correct Elijah's miſtake, who imagined that he alone remained a true worſhipper of God in Iſrael.

19 Caſt his mantle upon him.] The mantle was the proper habit of prophets, therefore Elijah's caſting it upon him was the ceremony here uſed for his inauguration. Poole.

Notes on the Twentieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 And Ben-hadad, &c.] The LXX place this chapter after chap. xxi: ſo does Joſephus; and the method ſeems more natural. Wall.

Went up and beſieged Samaria.] He went up to beſiege Samaria; for his army was defeated before he reached that city.

4 I am thine, and all that I have.] He was content to be his vaſſal, and to hold all that he enjoyed of him: but Ben-hadad demanded the property of all he had.

5 And the meſſengers came again, and ſaid, Thus ſpeaketh Ben-hadad, ſaying, Although I have ſent unto thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt deliver me thy ſilver and thy gold, and thy wives and thy children;

6 Yet I will ſend my ſervants unto thee tomorrow about this time, and they ſhall ſearch thine houſe, and the houſes of thy ſervants; and it ſhall be, that whatſoever is pleaſant in thine eyes, they ſhall put it in their hand, and take it away.

7 Then the king of Iſrael called all the elders of the land, and ſaid, Mark, I pray you, and ſee how this man ſeeketh miſchief: for he ſent unto me for my wives, and for my children, and for my ſilver, and for my gold; and I denied him not.

8 And all the elders and all the people ſaid unto him, Hearken not unto him, nor conſent.

9 Wherefore he ſaid unto the meſſengers of Ben-hadad, Tell my lord the king, All that thou didſt ſend for to thy ſervant at the firſt, I will do: but this thing I may not do. And the meſſengers departed, and brought him word again.

10 And Ben-hadad ſent unto him, and ſaid, The gods do ſo unto me and more alſo, if the duſt of Samaria ſhall ſuffice for handfuls for all the people that follow me.

11 And the king of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid, Tell him, Let not him that girdeth on his harneſs boaſt himſelf as he that putteth it off.

12 And it came to paſs, when Ben-hadad heard this meſſage, as he was drinking, he and the kings in the pavilions, that he ſaid unto his ſervants, Set yourſelves in array. And they ſet themſelves in array againſt the city.

13 ¶ And behold, there came a prophet unto Ahab king of Iſrael, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, Haſt thou ſeen all this great multitude? behold, I will deliver it into thine hand this day; and thou ſhalt know that I am the LORD.

14 And Ahab ſaid, By whom? And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, Even by the young men of the princes of the provinces. Then he ſaid, Who ſhall order the battle? And he anſwered, Thou.

15 Then he numbered the young men of the princes of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty-two: and after them he numbered all the people, even all the children of Iſrael, being ſeven thouſand.

16 And they went out at noon. But Ben-hadad was drinking himſelf drunk in the pavilions, he and the kings, the thirty and two kings that helped him.

17 And the young men of the princes of the provinces went out firſt, and Ben-hadad ſent out, and they told him, ſaying, There are men come out of Samaria.

18 And he ſaid, Whether they be come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they be come out for war, take them alive.

19 So theſe young men of the princes of the provinces came out of the city, and the army which followed them.

20 And they ſlew every one his man. And the Syrians fled; and Iſrael purſued them: and Ben-hadad the king of Syria eſcaped on an horſe, with the horſemen.

21 And the king of Iſrael went out, and ſmote the horſes and chariots, and ſlew the Syrians with a great ſlaughter.

22 And the prophet came to the king of Iſrael, and ſaid unto him, Go, ſtrengthen thy ſelf, and mark and ſee what thou doeſt: for at the return of the year the king of Syria will come up againſt thee.

23 And the ſervants of the king of Syria ſaid unto him, Their gods are gods of the hills;

10 The gods do ſo to me, and more alſo, &c.] He wiſhes he may periſh, if he did not bring ſuch an army againſt the king of Iſrael, that if every ſoldier in it ſhould take a handful of his country, nothing of it would be left remaining. Patrick.

14 The young men of the princes of the provinces.] It was by theſe young men, and not by old experienced officers, that this battle was to be gained; that it might appear, that the victory was wholly owing to the aſſiſtance of God, and not to the valour of the troops. Poole.

23 Their gods are gods of the hills, &c.] According to the heathen mythology, there was a great variety of gods, each of which had their particular juriſdiction: ſome preſided over whole countries, others had only particular places under their care; ſome were gods of woods, ſome of rivers, and others of mountains. And probably the Syrians imagined that the God of Iſrael was a God of the mountains, becauſe they ſaw that the land of Canaan was a mountainous country, and that the Iſraelites delighted to worſhip in high-places. They might alſo have heard that their law was given on the top of a mountain; they knew that their celebrated temple ſtood on a famous eminence, and that Samaria was alſo built on the top of a hill, near which they received ſo ſignal a defeat. Patrick.

therefore they were ſtronger than we: but let us fight againſt them in the plain, and ſurely we ſhall be ſtronger than they.

24 And do this thing, Take the kings away, every man out of his place, and put captains in their rooms.

25 And number thee an army, like the army that thou haſt loſt, horſe for horſe, and chariot for chariot: and we will fight againſt them in the plain, and ſurely we ſhall be ſtronger than they. And he hearkened unto their voice, and did ſo.

26 And it came to paſs at the return of the year, that Ben-hadad numbered the Syrians, and went up to Aphek, to fight againſt Iſrael.

27 And the children of Iſrael were numbered, and were all preſent, and went againſt them: and the children of Iſrael pitched before them, like two little flocks of kids; but the Syrians filled the country.

28 And there came a man of God, and ſpake unto the king of Iſrael, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, Becauſe the Syrians have ſaid, The LORD is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys: therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD.

29 And they pitched one over-againſt the other ſeven days. And ſo it was, that in the ſeventh day the battle was joined: and the children of Iſrael ſlew of the Syrians an hundred thouſand footmen in one day.

30 But the reſt fled to Aphek, into the city; and there a wall fell upon twenty and ſeven thouſand of the men that were left. And Ben-hadad fled, and came into the city, into an inner chamber.

31 ¶ And his ſervants ſaid unto him, Behold now, we have heard that the kings of the houſe of Iſrael are merciful kings: let us, I pray thee, put ſackcloth on our loins, and ropes upon our heads, and go out to the king of Iſrael: peradventure he will ſave thy life.

32 So they girded ſackcloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads, and came to the king of Iſrael, and ſaid, Thy ſervant Ben-hadad ſaith, I pray thee, let me live. And he ſaid, Is he yet alive? he is my brother.

33 Now the men did diligently obſerve whether any thing would come from him, and did haſtily catch it: and they ſaid, Thy brother Ben-hadad. Then he ſaid, Go ye, bring him. Then Ben-hadad came forth to him; and he cauſed him to come up into the chariot.

34 And Ben-hadad ſaid unto him, The cities which my father took from thy father, I will reſtore: and thou ſhalt make ſtreets for thee in Damaſcus, as my father made in Samaria. Then ſaid Ahab, I will ſend thee away with this covenant. So he made a covenant with him, and ſent him away.

35 ¶ And a certain man of the ſons of the prophets ſaid unto his neighbour in the word of the LORD, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man refuſed to ſmite him.

36 Then ſaid he unto him, Becauſe thou haſt not obeyed the voice of the LORD, behold, as ſoon as thou art departed from me, a lion ſhall ſlay thee. And as ſoon as he was departed from him, a lion found him, and ſlew him.

---

26 Went up to Aphek to fight againſt Iſrael.] Aphek was ſituated in Libanus, upon the river Adonis, between Heliopolis and Biblos, and, in all probability, is the ſame that Paul Lucas, in his voyage to the Levant (vol. I. chap. 20.) mentions, as ſwallowed up in a lake, about nine miles in circumference, wherein there are ſeveral houſes all entire to be ſeen under water. The ancients tell us, that the ſoil about this place was very bituminous, which ſeems to confirm their opinion, who think, that ſubterraneous fires conſumed the ſolid ſubſtance of the earth whereon the city ſtood, ſo that it ſunk at once, and a lake was ſoon formed in its place. Calmet.

30 A wall fell upon twenty and ſeven thouſand, &c.] Probably there were many towers built upon this wall, into which the vanquiſhed fled.

32 Girded ſackcloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads.] This was the dreſs of humble ſupplicants in thoſe times: the ſackcloth on their loins was a token of great ſorrow for what they had done; and the ropes on their heads an indication that they ſubmitted to whatever puniſhment Ahab ſhould think proper to lay upon them. Patrick.

34 Thou ſhalt make ſtreets for thee in Damaſcus, &c.] It is generally imagined that by ſtreets is meant citadels or fortifications, to be a bridle and reſtraint upon the metropolis of the Syrians, that they might not make any new incurſions into the land of Iſrael.

36 Becauſe thou haſt not obeyed the voice of the Lord---a lion ſhall ſlay thee.] The crime of the refuſer ſeems to have conſiſted in this, that as he well knew the authority of God's commands, and that this was the very thing that he enjoined, yet out of an indiſcreet compaſſion to his brother, he refuſed to comply. As he was equally a prophet with the other, had been bred up in the ſame ſchool with him, and well underſtood the weight of the requeſt uttered in the name of the Lord, he was inexcuſable; becauſe diſobedience to a Divine command was by the con-

37 Then he found another man, and said, Smite me, I pray thee. And the man smote him, so that in smiting he wounded him.

38 So the prophet departed, and waited for the king by the way, and disguised himself with ashes upon his face.

39 And as the king passed by, he cried unto the king: and he said, Thy servant went out into the midst of the battle, and behold, a man turned aside, and brought a man unto me, and said, Keep this man: if by any means he be missing, then shall thy life be for his life, or else thou shalt pay a talent of silver.

40 And as thy servant was busy here and there, he was gone. And the king of Israel said unto him, So shall thy judgment be; thou thy self hast decided it.

41 And he hasted, and took the ashes away from his face; and the king of Israel discerned him that he was of the prophets.

42 And he said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people.

43 And the king of Israel went to his house heavy and displeased, and came to Samaria.

CHAP. XXI.

Ahab is denied Naboth's vineyard. 5 Jezebel causeth Naboth to be condemned. 17 Elijah denounceth judgment against Ahab and Jezebel.

AND it came to pass after these things, that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard, which was in Jezreel, hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria.

2 And Ahab spake unto Naboth, saying, Give me thy vineyard, that I may have it for a garden of herbs, because it is near unto my house: and I will give thee for it a better vineyard than it; or if it seem good to thee, I will give thee the worth of it in money.

3 And Naboth said to Ahab, The LORD forbid it me, that I should give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee.

4 And Ahab came into his house heavy and displeased, because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken to him. For he had said, I will not give thee the inheritance of my fathers. And he laid him down upon his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no bread.

5 ¶ But Jezebel his wife came to him, and said unto him, Why is thy spirit so sad that thou eatest no bread?

6 And he said unto her, Because I spake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and said unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or else, if it please thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it: and he answered, I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 And Jezebel his wife said unto him, Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel? arise, and eat bread, and let thine heart be merry: I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8 So she wrote letters in Ahab's name, and sealed them with his seal, and sent the letters unto the elders and to the nobles that were in his city dwelling with Naboth.

construction of the law held capital; and therefore the punishment inflicted upon him was no more than he had brought upon himself by an ill-timed compassion.

42 Thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people.] Ahab's great offence consisted in suffering so horrid a blasphemer as Ben-hadad, to go unpunished, which was contrary to an express law, Lev. xxiv. 16; and this law extended not to those only that were born in the land, but to strangers likewise that were among them, and in their power, as Ben-hadad certainly was. God had delivered him into Ahab's hand for his blasphemy, as he had promised, ver. 28. and therefore this act of Providence, compared with the law, plainly intimated, that he was appointed by God for destruction; but Ahab was so far from punishing him as he deserved, that he treated him like a friend and a brother, dismissed him upon easy terms, and took his bare word for the performance of the covenant, without the least regard to the reparation of God's honour. Poole.

Notes on the Twenty-first Chapter.

Ver. 1 And it came to pass after these things, &c.] Naboth dwelt in Jezreel, and his vineyard was in Samaria, near the palace of Ahab: it should therefore be translated, And it came to pass after these things, that Naboth the Jezreelite, who dwelt in Jezreel, had a vineyard in Samaria, hard by the palace of king Ahab. Essay for a New Translation, &c.

3 The Lord forbid it me, that I should give the inheritance of my father unto thee.] The law of Moses prohibited the alienation of lands, unless a man was reduced to poverty, in which case he might sell them till the jubilee, when they were to revert to him again. But as Naboth had no occasion to sell his vineyard, so he considered that if he should part with it purely to please the king, it would be annexed to the palace, and neither he nor his children should ever be able to recover it; so by this act, he should both offend God, and injure his posterity, which he, being a religious man, would not venture to do. Poole.

9 And ſhe wrote in the letters, ſaying, Proclaim a faſt, and ſet Naboth on high among the people:

10 And ſet two men, ſons of Belial, before him, to bear witneſs againſt him, ſaying, Thou didſt blaſpheme God and the king. And then carry him out, and ſtone him, that he may die.

11 And the men of his city, even the elders and the nobles who were the inhabitants in his city, did as Jezebel had ſent unto them, and as it was written in the letters which ſhe had ſent unto them.

12 They proclaimed a faſt, and ſet Naboth on high among the people.

13 And there came in two men, children of Belial, and ſat before him: and the men of Belial witneſſed againſt him, even againſt Naboth, in the preſence of the people, ſaying, Naboth did blaſpheme God and the king. Then they carried him forth out of the city, and ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died.

14 Then they ſent to Jezebel, ſaying, Naboth is ſtoned, and is dead.

15 And it came to paſs when Jezebel heard that Naboth was ſtoned, and was dead, that Jezebel ſaid to Ahab, Ariſe, take poſſeſſion of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refuſed to give thee for money: for Naboth is not alive, but dead.

16 And it came to paſs when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab roſe up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take poſſeſſion of it.

17 ¶ And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying,

18 Ariſe, go down to meet Ahab king of Iſrael, which is in Samaria: behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone down to poſſeſs it.

19 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, Haſt thou killed, and alſo taken poſſeſſion? And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth, ſhall dogs lick thy blood, even thine.

20 And Ahab ſaid to Elijah, Haſt thou found me, O mine enemy? And he anſwered, I have found thee: becauſe thou haſt ſold thy ſelf to work evil in the ſight of the LORD.

21 Behold, I will bring evil upon thee, and will take away thy poſterity, and will cut off from Ahab him that piſſeth againſt the wall, and him that is ſhut up and left in Iſrael,

22 And will make thine houſe like the houſe of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and like the houſe of Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah, for the provocation wherewith thou haſt provoked me to anger, and made Iſrael to ſin.

23 And of Jezebel alſo ſpake the LORD, ſaying, The dogs ſhall eat Jezebel by the wall of Jezreel.

24 Him that dieth of Ahab in the city the dogs ſhall eat; and him that dieth in the field ſhall the fowls of the air eat.

25 But there was none like unto Ahab, which did ſell himſelf to work wickedneſs in the ſight of the LORD, whom Jezebel his wife ſtirred up.

26 And he did very abominably in following idols, according to all things as did the Amorites, whom the LORD caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

27 And it came to paſs when Ahab heard thoſe words, that he rent his clothes, and put ſackcloth upon his fleſh, and faſted, and lay in ſackcloth, and went ſoftly.

9 Set Naboth on high, &c.] i. e. Bring him to his trial, in which caſe the priſoner was ſet up on high, to be eaſily ſeen by the judges and court.

13 They ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died.] Princes never want inſtruments to execute their pleaſure: yet it is ſtrange, that among all theſe judges and great men, there ſhould be none that abhorred ſo bare-faced a villainy. It muſt, however, be remembered, that the whole nation had long ſince thrown off all fear and ſenſe of God, and proſtituted their conſciences to pleaſe the king. Poole.

19 In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth, ſhall dogs lick thy blood.] This prophecy was at firſt doubtleſs intended to be literally fulfilled, but upon Ahab's repentance, the puniſhment was transferred from him to his ſon Jehoram, in whom it was actually accompliſhed; for his dead body was caſt into the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite, for the dogs to devour, 2 Kings, ix. 25.

27 When Ahab heard thoſe words---he rent his cloaths, and put ſackcloth upon his fleſh, &c.] In conſideration of Ahab's repentance God revoked, at leaſt in part, the ſentence he had denounced againſt him, and transferred it to his poſterity: and yet we do not find that he brought forth any fruits meet for repentance; neither renouncing his ſuperſtitions, nor deſtroying his idols, nor reſtoring Naboth's vineyard, nor re-eſtabliſhing the true worſhip of God. Probably his repentance was true, though imperfect, and his ſorrow ſincere, though of no long duration;

28 And the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying,

29 Seeſt thou how Ahab humbleth himſelf before me? becauſe he humbleth himſelf before me, I will not bring the evil in his days: but in his ſon's days will I bring the evil upon his houſe.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ahab, ſeduced by falſe prophets, is ſlain at Ramoth-gilead. 37 The dogs lick up his blood. 41 Jehoſhaphat's good reign, 45 and acts. 51 Ahaziah's evil reign.

AND they continued three years without war between Syria and Iſrael.

2 And it came to paſs in the third year, that Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah came down to the king of Iſrael.

3 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto his ſervants, Know ye that Ramoth in Gilead is our's, and we be ſtill, and take it not out of the hand of the king of Syria?

4 And he ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, Wilt thou go with me to battle to Ramoth-gilead? And Jehoſhaphat ſaid to the king of Iſrael, I am as thou art, my people as thy people, my horſes as thy horſes.

5 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Enquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

6 Then the king of Iſrael gathered the prophets together about four hundred men, and ſaid unto them, Shall I go againſt Ramoth-gilead to battle, or ſhall I forbear? And they ſaid, Go up: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.

7 And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD beſides, that we might enquire of him?

8 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one man, Micaiah the ſon of Imlah, by whom we may enquire of the LORD: but I hate him; for he doth not propheſy good concerning me, but evil. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay ſo.

9 Then the king of Iſrael called an officer, and ſaid, Haſten hither Micaiah the ſon of Imlah.

10 And the king of Iſrael and Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah ſat each on his throne, having put on their robes, in a void place in the entrance of the gate of Samaria; and all the prophets propheſied before them.

11 And Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah made him horns of iron: and he ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, With theſe ſhalt thou puſh the Syrians, until thou have conſumed them.

12 And all the prophets propheſied ſo, ſaying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and proſper: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the king's hand.

13 And the meſſenger that was gone to call Micaiah ſpake unto him, ſaying, Behold now, the words of the prophets declare good unto the king with one mouth: let thy word, I pray thee, be like the word of one of them, and ſpeak that which is good.

14 And Micaiah ſaid, As the LORD liveth, what the LORD ſaith unto me, that will I ſpeak.

15 So he came to the king. And the king ſaid unto him, Micaiah, ſhall we go againſt Ramoth-gilead to battle, or ſhall we forbear? And he anſwered him, Go, and proſper: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.

16 And the king ſaid unto him, How many times ſhall I adjure thee that thou tell me nothing but that which is true in the name of the LORD?

17 And he ſaid, I ſaw all Iſrael ſcattered upon the hills, as ſheep that have not a ſhepin the mean time, this inſtance of Divine lenity is left upon record to encourage the firſt dawnings of our repentance, and to aſſure us, that our good and gracious God, who keepeth mercy for thouſands, and forgiveth iniquity, will not break the bruiſed reed, nor quench the ſmoaking flax, but bring forth judgment unto truth. Stackhouſe.

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 15 Go, and proſper: for the Lord ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.] This anſwer to Ahab's queſtion was doubtleſs ſpoken ironically, and in mockery to the promiſes which the other prophets had made him. The true purport of it is this--- "Since thou art more deſirous of pleaſing thyſelf, than of "knowing the truth, purſue the advice of thy prophets, expect "the ſucceſs they promiſe thee, and prove the truth of their "predictions by dear bought experience." Poole.

herd. And the LORD ſaid, Theſe have no maſter: let them return every man to his houſe in peace.

18 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, Did I not tell thee that he would propheſy no good concerning me, but evil?

19 And he ſaid, Hear thou therefore the word of the LORD: I ſaw the LORD ſitting on his throne, and all the hoſt of heaven ſtanding by him, on his right hand and on his left:

20 And the LORD ſaid, Who ſhall perſuade Ahab, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one ſaid on this manner, and another ſaid on that manner.

21 And there came forth a ſpirit, and ſtood before the LORD, and ſaid, I will perſuade him.

22 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Wherewith? And he ſaid, I will go forth, and I will be a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And he ſaid, Thou ſhalt perſuade him, and prevail alſo: go forth, and do ſo.

23 Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all theſe thy prophets, and the LORD hath ſpoken evil concerning thee.

24 But Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah went near, and ſmote Micaiah on the cheek, and ſaid, Which way went the ſpirit of the LORD from me to ſpeak unto thee?

25 And Micaiah ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee in that day, when thou ſhalt go into an inner chamber to hide thy ſelf.

26 And the king of Iſrael ſaid, Take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon the governor of the city, and to Joaſh the king's ſon;

27 And ſay, Thus ſaith the king, Put this fellow in the priſon, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I come in peace.

28 And Micaiah ſaid, If thou return at all in peace, the LORD hath not ſpoken by me: and he ſaid, Hearken, O people, every one of you.

29 So the king of Iſrael and Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

30 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, I will diſguiſe my ſelf, and enter into the battle; but put thou on thy robes. And the king of Iſrael diſguiſed himſelf, and went into the battle.

31 But the king of Syria commanded his thirty and two captains that had rule over his chariots, ſaying, Fight neither with ſmall nor great, ſave only with the king of Iſrael.

32 And it came to paſs, when the captains of the chariots ſaw Jehoſhaphat, that they ſaid, Surely it is the king of Iſrael. And they turned aſide to fight againſt him: and Jehoſhophat cried out.

33 And it came to paſs, when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Iſrael, that they turned back from purſuing him.

34 And a certain man drew a bow at a venture, and ſmote the king of Iſrael between the joints of the harneſs: wherefore he ſaid unto the driver of his chariot, Turn thine hand, and carry me out of the hoſt; for I am wounded.

35 And the battle increaſed that day: and the king was ſtayed up in his chariot againſt the Syrians, and died at even: and the blood ran out of the wound into the midſt of the chariot.

36 And there went a proclamation throughout the hoſt about the going down of the ſun, ſaying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own country.

19, 20, 21, 22 I ſaw the Lord ſitting on his throne, and all the hoſt of heaven ſtanding by him on his right hand, and on his left, &c.] It is not to be thought, there was any ſuch conſultation before the Divine Majeſty, who ſhould be employed to perſuade him to undo himſelf; but theſe repreſentations are contrived to bring down inviſible things to the meaneſt capacities of men. It is plain, that the ſpeech of Micaiah was no more than a parabolical repreſentation of a certain event, which not long after came to paſs; that ſeveral of the circumſtances which are thrown in it, are in a great meaſure ornamental, and intended only to illuſtrate the narration; and, conſequently, are not to be taken in a literal ſenſe, but in the manner of other parables, where the end and deſign of the ſpeaker is chiefly to be conſidered; which, in Micaiah's caſe, was to ſhew the reaſon why ſo many prophets declared what was falſe upon this occaſion; namely, becauſe they were moved, not by the ſpirit of truth, but by that of adulation. Stackhouſe.

25 Thou ſhalt ſee in that day, when thou ſhalt go into an inner chamber to hide thyſelf.] For fear he ſhould be taken and puniſhed as a falſe prophet, and the cauſe of Ahab's death. Patrick.

31 Fight only with the king of Iſrael.] Ben-hadad gave this order, either out of policy, as the ſhorteſt way to put an end to the war, or with a deſign to take him priſoner, in order to wipe out the ſtain of his own captivity, and recover the honour and advantage he had loſt. Poole.

37 ¶ So the king died, and was brought to Samaria; and they buried the king in Samaria.

38 And one washed the chariot in the pool of Samaria; and the dogs licked up his blood; and they washed his armour; according unto the word of the LORD which he spake.

39 Now the rest of the acts of Ahab, and all that he did, and the ivory house which he made, and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

40 So Ahab slept with his fathers; and Ahaziah his son reigned in his stead.

41 ¶ And Jehoshaphat the son of Asa began to reign over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel.

42 Jehoshaphat was thirty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five years in Jerusalem. And his mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

43 And he walked in all the way of Asa his father, he turned not aside from it, doing that which was right in the eyes of the LORD: nevertheless, the high places were not taken away; for the people offered and burned incense yet in the high places.

44 And Jehoshaphat made peace with the king of Israel.

45 ¶ Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, and his might that he shewed, and how he warred, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

46 And the remnant of the sodomites which remained in the days of his father Asa, he took out of the land.

47 There was then no king in Edom: a deputy was king.

48 Jehoshaphat made ships of Tharshish to go to Ophir for gold: but they went not; for the ships were broken at Ezion-geber.

49 Then said Ahaziah the son of Ahab unto Jehoshaphat, Let my servants go with thy servants in the ships. But Jehoshaphat would not.

50 And Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Jehoram his son reigned in his stead.

51 ¶ Ahaziah the son of Ahab began to reign over Israel in Samaria the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and reigned two years over Israel.

52 And he did evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin.

53 For he served Baal, and worshipped him, and provoked to anger the LORD God of Israel, according to all that his father had done.

38 The dogs licked up his blood.] They licked up the blood mixed with water wherewith his chariot and armour was washed. Thus the prophecy of Elijah was partly fulfilled, even in the common acceptation.

48 Jehoshaphat made ships of Tharshish.] He built ships after the model of those which traded to Tharshish, or Tarsus, the metropolis of Cilicia, always remarkable for its extensive trade.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE KINGS,

COMMONLY CALLED,

The Fourth Book of the KINGS.

THE ARGUMENT.

This Book is a continuation of the hiſtory of the kings of Judah and Iſrael to the diſſolution of both kingdoms, by carrying the ten tribes captive into Aſſyria by Shalmaneſer, and the other two to Babylon, by Nebuchadnezzar, comprehending the ſpace of about 168 years.

CHAP. I.

1 Moab rebelleth. 2 Ahaziah, ſending to Baal-zebub, hath his judgement by Elijah. 5 Elijah twice bringeth fire from heaven on Ahaziah's meſſengers. 17 Jehoram ſucceedeth Ahaziah.

THEN Moab rebelled againſt Iſrael, after the death of Ahab.

2 ¶ And Ahaziah fell down through a lattiſe in his upper chamber that was in Samaria, and was ſick: and he ſent meſſengers, and ſaid unto them, Go, enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron, whether I ſhall recover of this diſeaſe.

3 But the angel of the LORD ſaid to Elijah the Tiſhbite, Ariſe, go up to meet the meſſengers of the king of Samaria, and ſay unto them, Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael, that ye go to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron?

4 Now therefore thus ſaith the LORD, Thou ſhalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die. And Elijah departed.

5 ¶ And when the meſſengers turned back unto him, he ſaid unto them, Why are ye now turned back?

6 And they ſaid unto him, There came a man up to meet us, and ſaid unto us, Go, turn again unto the king that ſent you, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael, that thou ſendeſt to enquire of Baal-zebub the God of Ekron? therefore thou ſhalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die.

7 And he ſaid unto them, What manner of man was he which came up to meet you, and told you theſe words?

8 And they anſwered him, He was an hairy man, and girt with a girdle of leather about his loins. And he ſaid, It is Elijah the Tiſhbite.

Notes on the Firſt Chapter.

Ver. 2 Ahaziah fell down through a lattiſe in his upper chamber, &c.] In the Eaſtern countries the roofs of the houſes were flat, and ſurrounded with a battlement, or balluſtrade, which being rotten, and Ahaziah leaning careleſsly over it, gave way and he fell into the court. See note on 1 Sam. ix. 25.

Go, enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron, &c.] Baal-zebub ſignifies the god of flies: but how this idol obtained that appellation is not ſo eaſy to diſcover. Pliny tells us, when there was a terrible plague in Africa, occaſioned by vaſt quantities of flies, they ſacrificed to the god Achore, (the god of Ekron) and immediately the flies all died, and the diſtemper ceaſed its ravages: and hence this idol ſeems to have its name. Patrick.

4 Thou ſhalt not come down from thy bed.] At the end of each chamber in theſe antient buildings, there was a little gallery raiſed, three, four, or five feet above the floor, with a balluſtrade in the front of it, with a few ſteps likewiſe leading up to it: here they placed their beds; a ſituation frequently alluded to in the ſcriptures.

8 He was an hairy man.] Either the hair of his head and beard was long, or his habit was made of ſkins with the hair on, as 9 Then the king ſent unto him a captain of fifty, with his fifty. And he went up to him. And behold, he ſat on the top of an hill. And he ſpake unto him, Thou man of God, the king hath ſaid, Come down.

10 And Elijah anſwered, and ſaid to the captain of fifty, If I be a man of God, then let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee and thy fifty. And there came down fire from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.

11 Again alſo he ſent unto him another captain of fifty, with his fifty. And he anſwered and ſaid unto him, O man of God, thus hath the king ſaid, Come down quickly.

12 And Elijah anſwered, and ſaid unto them, If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven, and conſume thee and thy fifty. And the fire of God came down from heaven, and conſumed him and his fifty.

13 And he ſent again a captain of the third fifty, with his fifty. And the third captain of fifty went up, and came and fell on his knees before Elijah, and beſought him, and ſaid unto him; O man of God, I pray thee, let my life, and the life of theſe fifty thy ſervants be precious in thy ſight.

14 Behold, there came fire down from heaven, and burned up the two captains of the former fifties, with their fifties: therefore let my life now be precious in thy ſight.

15 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Elijah, Go down with him; be not afraid of him. And he aroſe, and went down with him unto the king.

16 And he ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Foraſmuch as thou haſt ſent meſſengers to enquire of Baal-zebub the god of Ekron; is it not becauſe there is no God in Iſrael to enquire of his word? therefore thou ſhalt not come down off that bed on which thou art gone up, but ſhalt ſurely die.

17 ¶ So he died, according to the word of the LORD which Elijah had ſpoken. And Jehoram reigned in his ſtead, in the ſecond year of Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah; becauſe he had no ſon.

18 Now the reſt of the acts of Ahaziah which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

CHAP. II.

1 Elijah divideth Jordan, and granting Eliſha his requeſt, is taken up. 12 Eliſha divideth Jordan; 19 he healeth the waters. 23 Children mocking Eliſha are deſtroyed.

AND it came to paſs when the LORD would take up Elijah into heaven by a whirlwind, that Elijah went with Eliſha from Gilgal.

2 And Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Tarry here, I pray thee: for the LORD hath ſent me to Beth-el. And Eliſha ſaid unto him, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Beth-el.

3 And the ſons of the prophets that were at Beth-el came forth to Eliſha, and ſaid unto him, Knoweſt thou that the LORD will take away thy maſter from thy head to day? And he ſaid, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

the antient heroes were cloathed, particularly the prophets, who wandered about in ſheep-ſkins, and goat-ſkins, &c.

10 Let fire come down from heaven.] The Hebrew may properly be rendered, fire will come, &c. This is plain, and agreeable to the Greek verſion, which has, fire will deſcend from heaven. And had this rendering been obſerved by our tranſlators in this and many other places, the words of Elijah would have been better underſtood; and ſeveral paſſages in the Pſalms, which now ſeem to be revengeful wiſhes and imprecations, would have plainly appeared to be, what they really are, prophetical denunciations and predictions. Morris's Sermons, p. 111.

17 Jehoram reigned in his ſtead, in the ſecond year of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah.] This paſſage ſeems a little difficult, but it muſt be remembered, that the kings of Judah and Iſrael appointed their ſucceſſors, and even in their life-time gave them a ſhare in the adminiſtration, as is plain from ſeveral inſtances. And we read in 2 Chron. xxi. 3. that Jehoſhaphat gave the kingdom to Jehoram, becauſe he was his firſt-born, and gave gifts to the reſt of his ſons. It is therefore natural to ſuppoſe that Jehoram reigned ſome time with his father, in order to prevent his brethren from forming parties againſt him, with regard to the ſucceſſion. Now, if we grant that Jehoſhaphat declared his ſon Jehoram his partner in the kingdom ſeven years before his death, the whole difficulty will be removed; for then Jehoram the ſon of Ahab might begin his reign in the ſecond year of Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, i. e. in the ſecond year that he reigned with his father, who was then alive; and Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat may be ſaid to have begun his reign in the fifth year of Jehoram the ſon of Ahab, meaning the time, when after his father's death, he began to reign alone. Calmet and Patrick.

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 3 The ſons of the prophets that were at Beth-el.] i. e. The diſciples of the prophets, ſuch as were educated at that place and trained up in religion and virtue, on whom God by degrees beſtowed his ſpirit, and whom the ſuperior prophets employed in the ſame capacity as the apoſtles did the evangeliſts, namely,

4 And Elijah ſaid unto him, Eliſha, tarry here, I pray thee: for the LORD hath ſent me to Jericho. And he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5 And the ſons of the prophets that were at Jericho came to Eliſha, and ſaid unto him, Knoweſt thou that the LORD will take away thy maſter from thy head to-day? And he anſwered, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

6 And Elijah ſaid unto him, Tarry, I pray thee here: for the LORD hath ſent me to Jordan. And he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.

7 And fifty men of the ſons of the prophets went, and ſtood to view afar off: and they two ſtood by Jordan.

8 And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and ſmote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither, ſo that they two went over on dry ground.

9 And it came to paſs when they were gone over, that Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Aſk what I ſhall do for thee, before I be taken away from thee. And Eliſha ſaid, I pray thee, let a double portion of thy ſpirit be upon me.

10 And he ſaid, Thou haſt aſked a hard thing: nevertheleſs, if thou ſee me when I am taken from thee, it ſhall be ſo unto thee; but if not, it ſhall not be ſo.

11 And it came to paſs as they ſtill went on, and talked, that behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horſes of fire, and parted them both aſunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven.

12 ¶ And Eliſha ſaw it, and he cried, My father, my father, the chariot of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof. And he ſaw him no more: and he took hold of his own clothes, and rent them in two pieces.

13 He took up alſo the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and went back, and ſtood by the bank of Jordan;

14 And he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, and ſmote the waters, and ſaid, Where is the LORD God of Elijah? and when he alſo had ſmitten the waters, they parted hither and thither: and Eliſha went over.

15 And when the ſons of the prophets which were to view at Jericho ſaw him, they ſaid, The ſpirit of Elijah doth reſt on Eliſha. And they came to meet him, and bowed themſelves to the ground before him.

16 And they ſaid unto him, Behold now, there be with thy ſervants fifty ſtrong men; let them go, we pray thee, and ſeek thy maſter: leſt peradventure the ſpirit of the LORD hath taken him up, and caſt him upon ſome mountain, or into ſome valley. And he ſaid, Ye ſhall not ſend.

17 And when they urged him till he was aſhamed, he ſaid, Send. They ſent therefore namely, to publiſh their propheſies and inſtructions to the people, in ſuch places as they themſelves could not viſit. Surely this is a remarkable inſtance of God's love to an apoſtate people, that in thoſe corrupt times, and in the very place where the golden calves were worſhipped, he ſtill continued the ſchools of the prophets, in order to recover them from idolatry.

Knoweſt thou that the Lord will take away thy maſter from thy head to day?] The ſenſe of the queſtion is, Knoweſt thou that the Lord will this day deprive thee of thy maſter's inſtructions?

9 I pray thee, let a double portion of thy ſpirit be upon me.] Biſhop Patrick thinks he did not deſire to have as much more ſpirit as Elijah had; that would have been arrogant; but that he only deſired to excel his brethren, the ſons of the prophets; and as his only intention in aſking this double portion was to render him more ſerviceable in his generation, he ſeems not to be blameable for requeſting what our bleſſed Saviour himſelf granted to his diſciples, the power of working greater miracles than himſelf had done. Le Clerc.

11 Behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horſes of fire, &c.] This account of Elijah's tranſlation is not to be taken in a literal ſenſe; ſince a fiery chariot and horſes would not have been a proper vehicle for a body as yet not impregnated with immortality. As fleſh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, we muſt ſuppoſe that the ſame Almighty power, which, at the laſt trump, will make our corruptible nature put on incorruption, and our mortal put on immortality, changed Elijah's terreſtrial into a celeſtial body, and endowed it with ſuch faculties, as were neceſſary for the enjoyment of thoſe paradiſaical manſions in the great Jehovah's kingdom, to which it was paſſing. And ſurely nothing could be a more convincing proof of a future life; eſpecially when we conſider that this inſtance was intended as a type of a much greater event, the aſcenſion of the great Redeemer of mankind, who was to deſtroy death, and open the kingdom of heaven to all believers. Stackhouſe.

15 When the ſons of the prophets ſaw him.] The relative refers not to the perſon of Elijah, but to the miracle which they ſaw wrought by him; and therefore ſhould have been rendered, When they ſaw it. Pilk. Rem.

16 Perad-venture the ſpirit of the Lord, &c.] i. e. The power of God; which frequently carried the prophets through the air, and with amazing celerity removed them to very diſtant places; 1 Kings, xviii, 12. And Acts viii. 39. we read, that the ſpirit of the Lord caught Philip away, &c.

fifty men; and they ſought three days, but found him not.

18 And when they came again to him, (for he tarried at Jericho,) he ſaid unto them, Did I not ſay unto you, Go not?

19 ¶ And the men of the city ſaid unto Eliſha, Behold, I pray thee, the ſituation of this city is pleaſant, as my lord ſeeth: but the water is nought and the ground barren.

20 And he ſaid, Bring me a new cruſe, and put ſalt therein. And they brought it to him.

21 And he went forth unto the ſpring of the waters, and caſt the ſalt in there, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have healed theſe waters; there ſhall not be from thence any more death or barren land.

22 So the waters were healed unto this day, according to the ſaying of Eliſha which he ſpake.

23 ¶ And he went up from thence unto Beth-el: and as he was going up by the way, there came forth little children out of the city, and mocked him, and ſaid unto him, Go up, thou bald-head, go up, thou bald-head.

24 And he turned back, and looked on them, and curſed them in the name of the LORD. And there came forth two ſhe-bears out of the wood, and tare forty and two children of them.

25 And he went from thence to mount Carmel, and from thence he returned to Samaria.

CHAP. III.

1 Jehoram's reign. 4 Meſha rebelleth. 16 Eliſha obtaineth water, and promiſe of victory. 21 The Moabites are overcome.

NOW Jehoram the ſon of Ahab began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria in the eighteenth year of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, and reigned twelve years.

2 And he wrought evil in the ſight of the LORD; but not like his father, and like his mother: for he put away the image of Baal that his father had made.

3 Nevertheleſs, he cleaved unto the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, which made Iſrael to ſin; he departed not therefrom.

4 ¶ And Meſha king of Moab was a ſheepmaſter, and rendered unto the king of Iſrael an hundred thouſand lambs, and an hundred thouſand rams with the wool.

5 But it came to paſs when Ahab was dead, that the king of Moab rebelled againſt the king of Iſrael.

6 And king Jehoram went out of Samaria the ſame time, and numbered all Iſrael.

7 And he went and ſent to Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah, ſaying, The king of Moab hath rebelled againſt me: wilt thou go with me againſt Moab to battle? And he ſaid, I will go up: I am as thou art, my people as thy people, and my horſes as thy horſes.

8 And he ſaid, Which way ſhall we go up? And he anſwered, The way through the wilderneſs of Edom.

9 So the king of Iſrael went, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom: and they fetched a compaſs of ſeven days journey: and there was no water for the hoſt, and for the cattle that followed them.

10 And the king of Iſrael ſaid, Alas! that the LORD hath called theſe three kings together to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

11 But Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD that we may enquire of 23, 24 There came forth little children out of the city, and mocked him, &c.] Beth-el, where Jeroboam had ſet up a golden calf, was a place ſtrangely addicted to idolatry, whoſe inhabitants had no ſmall averſion to Eliſha, as being the ſucceſſor of one who had been a profeſſed enemy to their wicked worſhip. It is therefore reaſonable to ſuppoſe, that thoſe children, (if indeed they were children, for the word ſignifies alſo grown youths) who mocked Eliſha were excited to it by their parents; therefore the judgment was juſt, in God's puniſhing the wickedneſs of thoſe parents by the death of their children, who, though they ſuffered in this life, were reſcued from the danger of an idolatrous education, which might have been of fatal tendency both to their preſent and future ſtate. In the mean time it muſt be acknowledged, that the inſolence of theſe mockers was very provoking; the honour of God himſelf was ſtruck at in the reproaches thrown upon his ſervant, and in one of his moſt glorious and miraculous works, the aſſumption of Elijah into heaven. God therefore as a terror to other idolaters, as well as for the honour and authority of his prophets, thought proper to puniſh them in this remarkable manner, and confirm the word which had gone out of his ſervant's mouth. Stackhouſe.

24 Two ſhe-bears, &c.] They had probably been robbed of their whelps, which made them more outragious.

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 2 The image of Baal, &c.] i. e. The pillar, or column of Baal. Lamy.

the LORD by him? And one of the king of Israel's servants answered and said, Here is Elisha the son of Shaphat, which poured water on the hands of Elijah.

12 And Jehoshaphat said, The word of the LORD is with him. So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat, and the king of Edom went down to him.

13 And Elisha said unto the king of Israel, What have I to do with thee? get thee to the prophets of thy father, and to the prophets of thy mother. And the king of Israel said unto him, Nay: for the LORD hath called these three kings together, to deliver them into the hand of Moab.

14 And Elisha said, As the LORD of hosts liveth, before whom I stand, surely, were it not that I regard the presence of Jehoshaphat the king of Judah, I would not look toward thee, nor see thee.

15 But now bring me a minstrel. And it came to pass when the minstrel played, that the hand of the LORD came upon him.

16 ¶ And he said, Thus saith the LORD, Make this valley full of ditches.

17 For thus saith the LORD, Ye shall not see wind, neither shall ye see rain; yet that valley shall be filled with water that ye may drink, both ye, and your cattle, and your beasts.

18 And this is but a light thing in the sight of the LORD: he will deliver the Moabites also into your hand.

19 And ye shall smite every fenced city and every choice city, and shall fell every good tree, and stop all wells of water, and marr every good piece of land with stones.

20 And it came to pass in the morning, when the meat-offering was offered, that behold, there came water by the way of Edom, and the country was filled with water.

21 ¶ And when all the Moabites heard that the kings were come up to fight against them, they gathered all that were able to put on armour, and upward, and stood in the border.

22 And they rose up early in the morning, and the sun shone upon the water, and the Moabites saw the water on the other side as red as blood:

23 And they said, This is blood: the kings are surely slain, and they have smitten one another: now therefore, Moab, to the spoil.

24 And when they came to the camp of Israel, the Israelites rose up and smote the Moabites, so that they fled before them: but they went forward smiting the Moabites, even in their country.

25 And they beat down the cities, and on every good piece of land cast every man his stone, and filled it: and they stopped all the wells of water, and felled all the good trees: only in Kir-haraseth left they the stones thereof: howbeit the slingers went about it, and smote it.

26 And when the king of Moab saw that the battle was too sore for him, he took with him seven hundred men that drew swords, to break through even unto the king of Edom: but they could not.

27 Then he took his eldest son that should have reigned in his stead, and offered him for a burnt-offering upon the wall. And there was great indignation against Israel: and they departed from him, and returned to their own land.

CHAP. IV.

1 Elisha multiplieth the widow's oil. 8 He giveth a son to the Shunammite. 18 He raiseth her dead son.

20 There came water by the way of Edom, and the country was filled with water.] This water was doubtless produced in a miraculous manner; and therefore must surely affect the idolatrous king of Israel, to see that the God whose worship he had despised, and whose altars he had thrown down, was so benevolent as to supply the necessities of those who had abandoned his laws, and worshipped other gods to provoke him to anger.

23 They said, This is blood: the kings are surely slain.] They knew there was no spring in the valley; and no rain having fallen, were convinced it could not be water, and therefore concluded that it must be blood, which the reflection of the rays of the sun seemed to confirm. Hence they naturally imagined that the armies had slain one another, and being easily persuaded to believe what they were so desirous of finding true, they attacked the confederate army, and were totally defeated. Patrick.

27 There was great indignation against Israel.] The words may be rendered, great repentance in Israel; i. e. they were extremely sorry and troubled at this inhuman sacrifice, and wished they had not pushed the war to such extremity, as it had produced so barbarous an action. Patrick.

NOW there cried a certain woman of the wives of the ſons of the prophets unto Eliſha, ſaying, Thy ſervant my huſband is dead; and thou knoweſt that thy ſervant did fear the LORD: and the creditor is come to take unto him my two ſons to be bond-men.

2 And Eliſha ſaid unto her, What ſhall I do for thee? tell me, what haſt thou in the houſe? And ſhe ſaid, Thine handmaid hath not any thing in the houſe ſave a pot of oil.

3 Then he ſaid, Go, borrow thee veſſels abroad of all thy neighbours, even empty veſſels; borrow not a few.

4 And when thou art come in, thou ſhalt ſhut the door upon thee and upon thy ſons, and ſhalt pour out into all thoſe veſſels, and thou ſhalt ſet aſide that which is full.

5 So ſhe went from him, and ſhut the door upon her, and upon her ſons; who brought the veſſels to her, and ſhe poured out.

6 And it came to paſs when the veſſels were full, that ſhe ſaid unto her ſon, Bring me yet a veſſel. And he ſaid unto her, There is not a veſſel more. And the oil ſtayed.

7 Then ſhe came and told the man of God. And he ſaid, Go, ſell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy children of the reſt.

8 ¶ And it fell on a day, that Eliſha paſſed to Shunem, where was a great woman? and ſhe conſtrained him to eat bread. And ſo it was, that as oft as he paſſed by, he turned in thither to eat bread.

9 And ſhe ſaid unto her huſband, Behold now, I perceive that this is an holy man of God which paſſeth by us continually.

10 Let us make a little chamber, I pray thee, on the wall; and let us ſet for him there a bed, and a table, and a ſtool, and a candleſtick: and it ſhall be when he cometh to us, that he ſhall turn in thither.

11 And it fell on a day that he came thither, and he turned into the chamber, and lay there.

12 And he ſaid to Gehazi his ſervant, Call this Shunammite. And when he had called her, ſhe ſtood before him.

13 And he ſaid unto him, Say now unto her, Behold, thou haſt been careful for us with all this care; what is to be done for thee? wouldeſt thou be ſpoken for to the king, or to the captain of the hoſt? And ſhe anſwered, I dwell among mine own people.

14 And he ſaid, What then is to be done for her? And Gehazi anſwered, Verily ſhe hath no child, and her huſband is old.

15 And he ſaid, Call her. And when he had called her, ſhe ſtood in the door.

16 And he ſaid, About this ſeaſon, according to the time of life, thou ſhalt embrace a ſon. And ſhe ſaid, Nay, my lord, thou man of God, do not lye unto thine handmaid.

17 And the woman conceived, and bare a ſon at that ſeaſon that Eliſha had ſaid unto her, according to the time of life.

18 ¶ And when the child was grown, it fell on a day that he went out to his father to the reapers.

19 And he ſaid unto his father, My head, my head. And he ſaid to a lad, Carry him to his mother.

20 And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother, he ſat on her knees till noon, and then died.

21 And ſhe went up, and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and ſhut the door upon him, and went out.

22 And ſhe called unto her huſband, and ſaid, Send me, I pray thee, one of the young

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The creditor is come to take unto him my two ſons to be bond-men.] The Jewiſh law conſidered children as the proper goods of their parents, who had power to ſell them for ſeven years, as their creditors had to compel them to do it in order to pay their debts; and from the Jews this cuſtom was propagated to the Athenians, and from them to the Romans. This cuſtom is now obſerved in the Mogul's country. See Voyage to the Eaſt Indies.

8 There was a great woman.] i. e. A rich woman, one of a great eſtate; who probably kept a great houſe.

10 Make a little chamber on the wall.] Dr. Shaw obſerves, that the houſes of the Orientals have commonly a ſmaller one annexed, which ſometimes riſes one ſtory higher than the houſe; ſometimes it is built over the porch or gateway, and has a door of communication into the gallery of the houſe, beſides another door which opens immediately from a privy ſtairs, down into the porch or ſtreet, without giving the leaſt diſturbance to the family: in theſe back-houſes, as they are called, ſtrangers are uſually lodged: of this nature was the little chamber built by the Shunammite for Eliſha. See his Travels, p. 214. 4to.

men, and one of the asses, that I may run to the man of God, and come again.

23 And he said, Wherefore wilt thou go to him to day? it is neither new-moon, nor sabbath. And she said, It shall be well.

24 Then she saddled an ass, and said to her servant, Drive, and go forward; slack not thy riding for me, except I bid thee.

25 So she went and came unto the man of God to mount Carmel. And it came to pass when the man of God saw her afar off, that he said to Gehazi his servant, Behold, yonder is that Shunammite:

26 Run now, I pray thee, to meet her, and say unto her, Is it well with thee? is it well with thy husband? is it well with the child? And she answered, It is well.

27 And when she came to the man of God to the hill, she caught him by the feet: but Gehazi came near to thrust her away. And the man of God said, Let her alone; for her soul is vexed within her: and the LORD hath hid it from me, and hath not told me.

28 Then she said, Did I desire a son of my lord? did I not say, Do not deceive me?

29 Then he said to Gehazi, Gird up thy loins, and take my staff in thine hand, and go thy way: if thou meet any man, salute him not: and if any salute thee, answer him not again: and lay my staff upon the face of the child.

30 And the mother of the child said, As the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And he arose, and followed her.

31 And Gehazi passed on before them, and laid the staff upon the face of the child: but there was neither voice, nor hearing. Wherefore he went again to meet him, and told him, saying, The child is not awaked.

32 And when Elisha was come into the house, behold, the child was dead, and laid upon his bed.

33 He went in therefore, and shut the door upon them twain, and prayed unto the LORD.

34 And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands, and he stretched himself upon the child; and the flesh of the child waxed warm.

35 Then he returned, and walked in the house to and fro; and went up and stretched himself upon him: and the child sneezed seven times, and the child opened his eyes.

36 And he called Gehazi, and said, Call this Shunammite. So he called her. And when she was come in unto him, he said, Take up thy son.

37 Then she went in, and fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the ground, and took up her son, and went out.

38 And Elisha came again to Gilgal. And there was a dearth in the land; and the sons of the prophets were sitting before him: and he said unto his servant, Set on the great pot, and seethe pottage for the sons of the prophets.

39 And one went out into the field to gather herbs, and found a wild vine, and gathered thereof wild gourds his lap full, and came and shred them into the pot of pottage: for they knew them not.

40 So they poured out for the men to eat; and it came to pass as they were eating of the pottage, that they cried out, and said, O thou man of God, there is death in the pot: and they could not eat thereof.

41 But he said, Then bring meal. And he cast it into the pot; and he said, Pour out for the people, that they may eat. And there was no harm in the pot.

42 And there came a man from Baal-shalisha, and brought the man of God bread of the first-fruits, twenty loaves of barley, and full ears of corn in the husk thereof. And he said, Give unto the people, that they may eat.

43 And his servitor said, What, should I set this before an hundred men? He said again, Give the people, that they may eat: for thus saith the LORD, They shall eat, and shall leave thereof.

38 Seethe pottage for the sons of the prophets.] Hence we may observe that they lived together in society, and, after being instructed, eat together with their master.

39 A wild vine.] Probably the coloquintida plant, or as Lamy calls it, the colocynthida, which is intolerably bitter, and purges excessively.

41 Bring meal, and he cast it into the pot---and there was no harm, &c.] This alteration was not owing to any virtue in the meal, but entirely to the power of God.

44 So he ſet it before them, and they did eat, and left thereof, according to the word of the LORD.

CHAP. V.

1 Naaman is cured of his leproſy. 15 Eliſha refuſeth Naaman's gifts. 20 Gehazi is ſmitten with leproſy.

NOW Naaman, captain of the hoſt of the king of Syria, was a great man with his maſter, and honourable, becauſe by him the LORD had given deliverance unto Syria: he was alſo a mighty man in valour, but he was a leper.

2 And the Syrians had gone out by companies, and had brought away captive out of the land of Iſrael a little maid; and ſhe waited on Naaman's wife.

3 And ſhe ſaid unto her miſtreſs, Would God my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria: for he would recover him of his leproſy.

4 And one went in, and told his lord, ſaying, Thus and thus ſaid the maid that is of the land of Iſrael.

5 And the king of Syria ſaid, Go to, go, and I will ſend a letter unto the king of Iſrael. And he departed, and took with him ten talents of ſilver, and ſix thouſand pieces of gold, and ten changes of raiment.

6 And he brought the letter to the king of Iſrael, ſaying, Now, when this letter is come unto thee, behold, I have therewith ſent Naaman my ſervant to thee, that thou mayeſt recover him of his leproſy.

7 And it came to paſs when the king of Iſrael had read the letter, that he rent his clothes, and ſaid, Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth ſend unto me to recover a man of his leproſy? wherefore conſider, I pray you, and ſee how he ſeeketh a quarrel againſt me.

8 And it was ſo, when Eliſha the man of God had heard that the king of Iſrael had rent his clothes, that he ſent to the king, ſaying, Wherefore haſt thou rent thy clothes? let him come now to me, and he ſhall know that there is a prophet in Iſrael.

9 So Naaman came with his horſes and with his chariot, and ſtood at the door of the houſe of Eliſha.

10 And Eliſha ſent a meſſenger unto him, ſaying, Go, and waſh in Jordan ſeven times, and thy fleſh ſhall come again unto thee, and thou ſhalt be clean.

11 But Naaman was wroth, and went away, and ſaid, Behold, I thought, He will ſurely come out to me, and ſtand, and call on the name of the LORD his God, and ſtrike his hand over the place, and recover the leper.

12 Are not Abana and Pharpar, rivers of Damaſcus, better than all the waters of Iſrael? may I not waſh in them, and be clean? So he turned, and went away in a rage.

13 And his ſervants came near, and ſpake unto him, and ſaid, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do ſome great thing, wouldeſt thou not have done it? how much rather then when he ſaith to thee, Waſh and be clean?

14 Then went he down, and dipped himſelf ſeven times in Jordan, according to the ſaying of the man of God: and his fleſh came again like unto the fleſh of a little child, and he was clean.

15 ¶ And he returned to the man of God, he and all his company, and came, and ſtood before him: and he ſaid, Behold, now I know that there is no God in all the earth but in Iſrael: now therefore, I pray thee, take a bleſſing of thy ſervant.

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 4 One went in and told his lord, &c.] The Vulgate reads, Naaman went in and told his lord, i. e. the king; which, according to the context, ſeems to be the true reading.

7 He rent his cloaths, and ſaid, Am I God, &c.] He looked upon it as blaſphemy, to aſcribe that power to him which belonged only to God. Patrick.

10 Eliſha ſent a meſſenger unto him, ſaying, &c.] The reaſon of Eliſha's not appearing before the Syrian general, was probably to ſupport the character and dignity of a prophet of the moſt high God; eſpecially as this had a tendency to raiſe the honour of his religion and miniſtry, and give Naaman a truer idea of his miraculous cure, when he found it was entirely effected by the Divine Power and Goodneſs. Poole.

Waſh in Jordan ſeven times.] The law required that lepers, in order to their cleanſing, ſhould be ſprinkled ſeven times, Lev. xiv. 7. the prophet therefore ordered Naaman to dip himſelf as often.

16 But he ſaid, As the LORD liveth, before whom I ſtand, I will receive none. And he urged him to take it; but he refuſed.

17 And Naaman ſaid, Shall there not then I pray thee, be given to thy ſervant two mules burden of earth? for thy ſervant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering nor ſacrifice unto other gods, but unto the LORD.

18 In this thing the LORD pardon thy ſervant, that when my maſter goeth into the houſe Rimmon to worſhip there, and he leaneth on my hand, and I bow my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon; when I bow down my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the LORD pardon thy ſervant in this thing.

19 And he ſaid unto him, Go in peace. So he departed from him a little way.

20 ¶ But Gehazi the ſervant of Eliſha, the man of God, ſaid, Behold, my maſter hath ſpared Naaman this Syrian, in not receiving at his hands that which he brought: but as the LORD liveth, I will run after him, and take ſomewhat of him.

21 So Gehazi followed after Naaman, and when Naaman ſaw him running after him, he lighted down from the chariot to meet him, and ſaid, Is all well?

22 And he ſaid, All is well. My maſter hath ſent me, ſaying, Behold, even now there be come to me from mount Ephraim two young men of the ſons of the prophets: give them, I pray thee, a talent of ſilver, and two changes of garments.

23 And Naaman ſaid, Be content, take two talents. And he urged him, and bound two talents of ſilver in two bags, with two changes of garments, and laid them upon two of his ſervants; and they bare them before him.

24 And when he came to the tower, he took them from their hand, and beſtowed them in the houſe; and he let the men go, and they departed.

25 But he went in and ſtood before his maſter. And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Whence comeſt thou, Gehazi? And he ſaid, Thy ſervant went no whither.

26 And he ſaid unto him, Went not mine heart with thee, when the man turned again from his chariot to meet thee? is it a time to receive money, and to receive garments, and olive-yards, and vine-yards, and ſheep, and oxen, and men-ſervants, and maid ſervants?

27 The leproſy therefore of Naaman ſhall cleave unto thee, and unto thy ſeed for ever. And he went out from his preſence a leper as white as ſnow.

CHAP. VI.

1 Eliſha cauſeth iron to ſwim. 8 He diſcloſeth the king of Syria's counſel, 13 and ſmiteth his army with blindneſs.

AND the ſons of the prophets ſaid unto Eliſha, Behold now, the place where we dwell with thee is too ſtrait for us.

2 Let us go, we pray thee, unto Jordan, and take thence every man a beam, and let us make us a place there where we may dwell. And he anſwered, Go ye.

17 Shall there not then---be given to thy ſervant two mules burden of earth?] He deſired the prophet to give him ſome of the earth of the land to build an altar unto the Lord; thinking that he who had impregnated the waters of Iſrael with ſuch ſalutiferous principles, could do the ſame by the earth, and render it uſeful and beneficial to him in other inſtances.

18 When my maſter goeth into the houſe of Rimmon.] It is thought by the generality of interpreters, that this god was the ſun, as the Syrians worſhipped that planet: it is certain however that they called their pomegranates Rimmon; and therefore, as their country abounded with pomegranate-trees, whoſe fruit is not only of a delicious taſte, but alſo of great uſe on account of the liquor it produces, it is not unreaſonable to think that the Syrians gave the name of Pomegranate to their god, in the ſame manner as the Greeks and Romans gave that of Ceres to the goddeſs of Corn. Lamy.

When I bow down myſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the Lord pardon thy ſervant in this thing.] This paſſage will fairly bear to be rendered in the preter tenſe, and then we ſhall find, that Naaman does not aſk pardon for an offence he intended to commit, but for a crime he had been already guilty of; The Lord pardon thy ſervant, that when my maſter went into the houſe of Rimmon, and he leaned on my hand, and I bowed myſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the Lord pardon thy ſervant in this thing. Surely none can think the prophet acted out of character for approving of this ingenuous declaration, and the deſire he expreſſed of the prophet's interceſſion with God in his behalf; as it argued a mind truly ſenſible of its former tranſgreſſion, and a firm reſolution to avoid it for the future.

27 The leproſy of Naaman ſhall cleave unto thee, and unto thy ſeed for ever.] Unto many generations, as the words for ever frequently ſignify. This ſentence was juſtly merited by wicked Gehazi; for his crime was aggravated with the following circumſtances: a greedy covetouſneſs, which is idolatry; a profanation of the name of God; an abſolute theft, in keeping that to himſelf which was given for others; deliberate and impudent lying; a deſperate contempt of God's omniſcience, juſtice, and holineſs; an horrible reproach thrown on the prophet and his religion; and a pernicious ſcandal given to Naaman, and every other Syrian who ſhould happen to hear of this tranſaction. Poole.

3 And one ſaid, Be content, I pray thee, and go with thy ſervants. And he anſwered, I will go.

4 So he went with them. And when they came to Jordan, they cut down wood.

5 But as one was felling a beam, the ax head fell into the water: and he cried, and ſaid, Alas, maſter! for it was borrowed.

6 And the man of God ſaid, Where fell it? And he ſhewed him the place. And he cut down a ſtick, and caſt it in thither; and the iron did ſwim.

7 Therefore ſaid he, Take it up to thee. And he put out his hand, and took it.

8 ¶ Then the king of Syria warred againſt Iſrael, and took council with his ſervants, ſaying, In ſuch and ſuch a place ſhall be my camp.

9 And the man of God ſent unto the king of Iſrael, ſaying, Beware that thou paſs not ſuch a place; for thither the Syrians are come down.

10 And the king of Iſrael ſent to the place which the man of God told him and warned him of, and ſaved himſelf there, not once nor twice.

11 Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was ſore troubled for this thing; and he called his ſervants, and ſaid unto them, Will ye not ſhew me which of us is for the king of Iſrael?

12 And one of his ſervants ſaid, None, my lord O king: but Eliſha the prophet, that is in Iſrael, telleth the king of Iſrael the words that thou ſpeakeſt in thy bed-chamber.

13 ¶ And he ſaid, Go, and ſpy where he is, that I may ſend and fetch him. And it was told him, ſaying, Behold, he is in Dothan.

14 Therefore ſent he thither horſes and chariots and a great hoſt; and they came by night, and compaſſed the city about.

15 And when the ſervant of the man of God was riſen early, and gone forth, behold, an hoſt compaſſed the city, both with horſes and chariots. And his ſervant ſaid unto him, Alas, my maſter! how ſhall we do?

16 And he anſwered, Fear not: for they that be with us are more than they that be with them.

17 And Eliſha prayed, and ſaid, LORD, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may ſee. And the LORD opened the eyes of the young man; and he ſaw: and behold, the mountain was full of horſes and chariots of fire round about Eliſha.

18 And when they came down to him, Eliſha prayed unto the LORD, and ſaid, Smite this people, I pray thee, with blindneſs. And he ſmote them with blindneſs, according to the word of Eliſha.

19 And Eliſha ſaid unto them, This is not the way, neither is this the city: follow me, and I will bring you to the man whom ye ſeek. But he led them to Samaria.

20 And it came to paſs when they were come into Samaria, that Eliſha ſaid, LORD, open the eyes of theſe men, that they may ſee. And the LORD opened their eyes, and they ſaw; and behold, they were in the midſt of Samaria.

21 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Eliſha, when he ſaw them, My father, ſhall I ſmite them? ſhall I ſmite them?

22 And he anſwered, Thou ſhalt not ſmite them: wouldeſt thou ſmite thoſe whom thou haſt taken captive with thy ſword and with thy bow? ſet bread and water before them that they may eat and drink, and go to their maſter.

23 And he prepared great proviſion for them: and when they had eaten and drunk, he ſent them away, and they went to their maſter. So the bands of Syria came no more into the land of Iſrael.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 10 Not once nor twice.] i. e. Frequently.

17 The mountain was full of horſes and chariots of fire.] It muſt be allowed that angels, whether ſpiritual, or, as others think, clothed with ſome material form, cannot be ſeen by mortal eyes; therefore Eliſha himſelf, without a peculiar favour from God, could not diſcern the heavenly hoſt, which at this time encamped about him: ſo he requeſts of God, that, for the removal of his fears, and for the confirmation of his faith, his ſervant might be indulged with the ſame privilege.

22 Wouldſt thou ſmite thoſe whom thou haſt taken captive with thy ſword? &c.] Though, according to the rigour of arms, a conqueror is at liberty to put whatever enemies fall into his hands to the ſword; yet the laws of humanity and compaſſion ſhould always reſtrain us from treating with the utmoſt ſeverity ſuch as ſurrender themſelves, and implore our mercy.

23 The bands of Syria came no more into the land of Iſrael.] i. e. They made no more incurſions; but determined to fall upon the Iſraelites at once, with a regular army.

24 And it came to paſs after this, that Ben-hadad king of Syria gathered all his hoſt, and went up, and beſieged Samaria.

25 And there was a great famine in Samaria: and behold, they beſieged it until an aſs's head was ſold for fourſcore pieces of ſilver, and the fourth part of a cab of dove's dung for five pieces of ſilver.

26 And as the king of Iſrael was paſſing by upon the wall, there cried a woman unto him, ſaying, Help, my lord O king.

27 And he ſaid, If the LORD do not help thee, whence ſhall I help thee? out of the barn-floor, or out of the wine-preſs?

28 And the king ſaid unto her, What aileth thee? And ſhe anſwered, This woman ſaid unto me, Give thy ſon, that we may eat him to-day, and we will eat my ſon to-morrow.

29 So we boiled my ſon, and did eat him: and I ſaid unto her on the next day, Give thy ſon that we may eat him: and ſhe hath hid her ſon.

30 And it came to paſs when the king heard the words of the woman, that he rent his clothes; and he paſſed by upon the wall, and the people looked, and behold, he had ſack-cloth within upon his fleſh.

31 Then he ſaid, God do ſo and more alſo to me, if the head of Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat ſhall ſtand on him this day.

32 But Eliſha ſat in his houſe; and the elders ſat with him: and the king ſent a man from before him: but ere the meſſenger came to him, he ſaid to the elders, See ye how this ſon of a murderer hath ſent to take away mine head? look when the meſſenger cometh, ſhut the door, and hold him faſt at the door: is not the ſound of his maſter's feet behind him?

33 And while he yet talked with them, behold, the meſſenger came down unto him: and he ſaid, Behold, this evil is of the LORD; what ſhould I wait for the LORD any longer?

CHAP. VII.

1 Eliſha propheſieth incredible plenty in Samaria.
17 The unbelieving lord is troden to death.

THEN Eliſha ſaid, Hear ye the word of the LORD, thus ſaith the LORD, To-morrow about this time ſhall a meaſure of fine flour be ſold for a ſhekel, and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, in the gate of Samaria.

2 Then a lord on whoſe hand the king leaned anſwered the man of God, and ſaid, Behold, if the LORD would make windows in heaven, might this thing be? And he ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes, but ſhalt not eat thereof.

3 And there were four leprous men at the entering-in at the gate: and they ſaid one to another, Why ſit we here until we die?

4 If we ſay, we will enter into the city, then the famine is in the city, and we ſhall die there: and if we ſit ſtill here, we die alſo. Now therefore come, and let us fall unto the hoſt of the Syrians; if they ſave us alive, we ſhall live; and if they kill us, we ſhall but die.

---

25 An aſs's head was ſold for fourſcore pieces of ſilver.] If we compute theſe pieces of ſilver, or ſhekels, at fifteen pence a-piece, they amount to five pounds ſterling; a prodigious price for what had ſo little meat on it, and that, according to the law, unclean. But, in times of famine, the Jews themſelves were abſolved from the obſervation of the law. Calmet.

The fourth part of a cab.] This meaſure is no where elſe mentioned in ſcripture, it contained as much as the ſhells of twenty-four eggs would hold: the fourth part therefore is about three quarters of a pint.

Doves dung.] The word in the original ſignifies vetches or pulſe, and ſo it ſhould have been rendered here. Travellers tell us, that at Grand Cairo and Damaſcus there are magazines, where they conſtantly fry this kind of grain, which the pilgrims buy, and take with them, as part of the proviſion for their journey. Shaw.

28, 29 Give thy ſon, that we may eat him to-day, &c.] A moſt ſhocking relation, and a terrible effect of the Divine vengeance, which Moſes had long ſince told the Iſraelites would fall upon them, if they rebelled againſt God, Deut. xxviii. 53, &c.

30 Hold him faſt at the door.] i. e. Stop the meſſenger at the door; for his maſter is following to revoke the order.

33 Behold, this evil is of the Lord, what ſhould I wait for the Lord any longer?] Theſe words ſeem to have been ſpoken by the king, in a fit of deſpair. He could not but acknowledge that the evil was from the Lord; but declared he had no hopes of redreſs, ſince they were driven to ſuch extremities that women eat their own children. Patrick.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 To-morrow about this time ſhall a meaſure of fine flour be ſold for a ſhekel.] The Hebrew word which we render meaſure, contained about a peck of our meaſure.

2 If the Lord make windows in heaven.] He was incredulous, and ſeemed to laugh at what the prophet ſaid.

3 There were four leprous men at the gate.] They do not ſeem to have been excluded the city merely on account of their diſtemper, but becauſe they were entirely uſeleſs: they could neither fight, nor work in communion with others. Patrick.

5 And they roſe up in the twilight to go unto the camp of the Syrians: and when they were come to the uttermoſt part of the camp of Syria, behold, there was no man there.

6 For the LORD had made the hoſt of the Syrians to hear a noiſe of chariots and a noiſe of horſes, even the noiſe of a great hoſt: and they ſaid one to another, Lo, the king of Iſrael hath hired againſt us the kings of the Hittites and the kings of the Egyptians to come upon us.

7 Wherefore they aroſe and fled in the twilight, and left their tents, and their horſes, and their aſſes, even the camp as it was, and fled for their life.

8 And when theſe lepers came to the uttermoſt part of the camp, they went into one tent, and did eat and drink, and carried thence ſilver, and gold, and raiment, and went and hid it; and came again and entered into another tent, and carried thence alſo, and went and hid it.

9 Then they ſaid one another, We do not well: this day is a day of good tidings, and we hold our peace: if we tarry to the morning light, ſome miſchief will come upon us: now therefore come, that we may go and tell the king's houſhold.

10 So they came, and called unto the porter of the city: and they told them, ſaying, We came to the camp of the Syrians, and behold, there was no man there, neither voice of man, but horſes tied, and aſſes tied, and the tents as they were.

11 And he called the porters; and they told it to the king's houſe within.

12 And the king aroſe in the night, and ſaid unto his ſervants, I will now ſhew you what the Syrians have done to us. They know that we be hungry; therefore are they gone out of the camp, to hide themſelves in the field, ſaying, When they come out of the city, we ſhall catch them alive, and get into the city.

13 And one of his ſervants anſwered and ſaid, Let ſome take, I pray thee, five of the horſes that remain, which are left in the city, (behold, they are as all the multitude of Iſrael that are left in it: behold, I ſay, they are even as all the multitude of the Iſralites that are conſumed,) and let us ſend and ſee.

14 They took therefore two chariot-horſes, and the king ſent after the hoſt of the Syrians, ſaying, Go, and ſee.

15 And they went after them unto Jordan: and lo, all the way was full of garments and veſſels, which the Syrians had caſt away in their haſte. And the meſſengers returned and told the king.

16 And the people went out, and ſpoiled the tents of the Syrians. So a meaſure of fine flour was ſold for a ſhekel, and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, according to the word of the LORD.

17 ¶ And the king appointed the lord on whoſe hand he leaned, to have the charge of the gate: and the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died, as the man of God had ſaid, who ſpake when the king came down to him.

18 And it came to paſs as the man of God had ſpoken to the king, ſaying, Two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel, and a meaſure of fine flour for a ſhekel, ſhall be to-morrow about this time in the gate of Samaria:

19 And that lord anſwered the man of God, and ſaid, Now behold, if the LORD ſhould make windows in heaven, might ſuch a thing be? And he ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes, but ſhalt not eat thereof.

20 And ſo it fell out unto him: for the people trode upon him in the gate, and he died.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The Shunammite hath her land reſtored. 7 Hazael killeth his maſter, and ſucceedeth him. 16 Jehoram's wicked reign. 24 Ahaziah ſucceedeth him.

THEN ſpake Eliſha unto the woman whoſe ſon he had reſtored to life, ſay-

17 The people trode upon him in the gate, and he died.] Thus the ſentence pronounced by the prophet was literally fulfilled; for he ſaw the plenty, but was killed before he could eat of it.

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 A famine---ſhall come upon the land ſeven years.] As their iniquities increaſed, ſo did their puniſhments. The Jews will have this to be the terrible famine mentioned by the prophet Joel; four years of which were cauſed by noxious creatures devouring all the fruits of the earth, and the other three by a want of rain. Patrick.

10 Go, ing, Ariſe, and go thou and thine houſhold, and ſojourn whereſoever thou canſt ſojourn: for the LORD hath called for a famine; and it ſhall alſo come upon the land ſeven years.

2 And the woman aroſe, and did after the ſaying of the man of God: and ſhe went with her houſhold, and ſojourned in the land of the Philiſtines ſeven years.

3 And it came to paſs at the ſeven years end, that the woman returned out of the land of the Philiſtines: and ſhe went forth to cry unto the king for her houſe, and for her land.

4 And the king talked with Gehazi the ſervant of the man of God, ſaying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great things that Eliſha hath done.

5 And it came to paſs as he was telling the king how he had reſtored a dead body to life, that behold, the woman whoſe ſon he had reſtored to life, cried to the king for her houſe, and for her land. And Gehazi ſaid, My lord O king, this is the woman, and this is her ſon, whom Eliſha reſtored to life.

6 And when the king aſked the woman, ſhe told him. So the king appointed unto her a certain officer, ſaying, Reſtore all that was her's, and all the fruits of the field, ſince the day that ſhe left the land, even until now.

7 ¶ And Eliſha came to Damaſcus; and Ben-hadad the king of Syria was ſick, and it was told him, ſaying, The man of God is come hither.

8 And the king ſaid unto Hazael, Take a preſent in thine hand, and go meet the man of God, and enquire of the LORD by him, ſaying, Shall I recover of this diſeaſe?

9 So Hazael went to meet him, and took a preſent with him, even of every good thing in Damaſcus, forty camels burden, and came and ſtood before him, and ſaid, Thy ſon Ben-hadad king of Syria hath ſent me to thee, ſaying, Shall I recover of this diſeaſe?

10 And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Go, ſay unto him, Thou mayeſt certainly recover: howbeit, the LORD hath ſhewed me that he ſhall ſurely die.

11 And he ſettled his countenance ſtedfaſtly, until he was aſhamed: and the man of God wept.

12 And Hazael ſaid, Why weepeth my lord? And he anſwered, Becauſe I know the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Iſrael: their ſtrong holds wilt thou ſet on fire, and their young men wilt thou ſlay with the ſword, and wilt daſh their children, and rip up their women with child.

13 And Hazael ſaid, But what, is thy ſervant a dog that he ſhould do this great thing? And Eliſha anſwered, The LORD hath ſhewed me that thou ſhalt be king over Syria.

14 So he departed from Eliſha, and came to his maſter; who ſaid to him, What ſaid Eliſha to thee? And he anſwered, he told me that thou ſhouldeſt ſurely recover.

15 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that he took a thick cloth, and dipped it in water, and ſpread it on his face, ſo that he died. And Hazael reigned in his ſtead.

16 And in the fifth year of Joram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael, Jehoſhaphat being then king of Judah, Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah began to reign.

17 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jeruſalem.

18 And he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, as did the houſe of Ahab: for the daughter of Ahab was his wife: and he did evil in the ſight of the LORD.

19 Yet the LORD would not deſtroy Judah, for David his ſervant's ſake, as he promiſed him to give him alway a light, and to his children.

20 In his days Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah, and made a king over themſelves.

21 So Joram went over to Zair, and all the chariots with him: and he roſe by night and 10 Go, ſay unto him, thou mayeſt certainly recover, &c.] The preſent reading in the text of the Hebrew Bibles ſeems preferable to the marginal reading in this place, and will ſtand thus, Go ſay, Thou ſhalt not recover, for the Lord hath ſhewed me that he ſhall ſurely die. Kennicott.

13 What is thy ſervant a dog, &c.] He humbles himſelf, as much as to ſay, Can a contemptible animal do ſuch great things?

15 He took a thick cloth, and dipt it in water, and ſpread it on his face, ſo that he died.] He ſuffocated him with the cloth, which he pretended to lay on his face to cool him.

19 To give him always a light, and to his children.] A ſucceſſion of princes, not to be compleated till the appearance of the Meſſiah, whoſe kingdom will continue to all eternity.

ſmote the Edomites which compaſſed him about, and the captains of the chariots: and the people fled into their tents.

22 Yet Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. Then Libnah revolted at the ſame time.

23 And the reſt of the acts of Joram, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

24 ¶ And Joram ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David. And Ahaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

25 In the twelfth year of Joram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael did Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign.

26 Two and twenty years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Athaliah, the daughter of Omri king of Iſrael.

27 And he walked in the way of the houſe of Ahab, and did evil in the ſight of the LORD, as did the houſe of Ahab: for he was the ſon-in-law of the houſe of Ahab.

28 And he went with Joram the ſon of Ahab to the war againſt Hazael king of Syria in Ramoth-gilead; and the Syrians wounded Joram.

29 And king Joram went back to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had given him at Ramah, when he fought againſt Hazael king of Syria. And Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah went down to ſee Joram the ſon of Ahab in Jezreel, becauſe he was ſick.

CHAP. IX.

1 Jehu is anointed. 11 He killeth Joram in the field of Naboth. 30 Jezebel eaten by dogs.

AND Eliſha the prophet called one of the children of the prophets, and ſaid unto him, Gird up thy loins, and take this box of oil in thine hand, and go to Ramoth-gilead:

2 And when thou comeſt thither, look out there Jehu the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, the ſon of Nimſhi, and go in, and make him ariſe up from among his brethren, and carry him to an inner chamber;

3 Then take the box of oil, and pour it on his head, and ſay, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have anointed thee king of Iſrael. Then open the door, and flee, and tarry not.

4 So the young man, even the young man the prophet, went to Ramoth-gilead.

5 And when he came, behold, the captains of the hoſt were ſitting; and he ſaid, I have an errand to thee, O captain. And Jehu ſaid, Unto which of all us? And he ſaid, To thee, O captain.

6 And he aroſe, and went into the houſe; and he poured the oil on his head, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, I have anointed thee king over the people of the LORD, even over Iſrael.

7 And thou ſhalt ſmite the houſe of Ahab thy maſter, that I may avenge the blood of my ſervants the prophets, and the blood of all the ſervants of the LORD, at the hand of Jezebel.

8 For the whole houſe of Ahab ſhall periſh: and I will cut off from Ahab him that piſſeth againſt the wall, and him that is ſhut up and left in Iſrael.

9 And I will make the houſe of Ahab like the houſe of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, and like the houſe of Baaſha the ſon of Ahijah.

10 And the dogs ſhall eat Jezebel in the portion of Jezreel, and there ſhall be none to bury her. And he opened the door, and fled.

11 ¶ Then Jehu came forth to the ſervants of his lord: and one ſaid unto him, Is all well? wherefore came this mad fellow to thee? And he ſaid unto them, Ye know the man and his communication.

22 Libnah revolted at the ſame time.] Libnah was a conſiderable city in the tribe of Judah, and belonged to the prieſts. The reaſon of this revolt ſeems to have been, becauſe he endeavoured to ſet up his idolatrous worſhip among them, contrary to the laws of God. Patrick.

26 Athaliah daughter of Omri.] Athaliah was the daughter of Ahab, but brought up and educated by Omri her grandfather, and thence called his daughter. Patrick.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Eliſha the prophet called one of the children of the prophets.] Elijah was commanded to anoint Jehu; but, by Ahab's repentance, God deferred the judgment pronounced upon him and his family, ſo that the execution of it was left to Eliſha. Patrick.

11 Wherefore came this mad fellow to thee?] There were ſeveral reaſons which induced Jehu's officers to have a contemptible opinion of the prophets. The Jews obſerve there was ſomething in their looks and geſtures which made them paſs for madmen among thoſe who did not know them; which is agreeable to what we read of Saul, who lay uncovered a whole day and night while

12 And they ſaid, It is falſe: tell us now. And he ſaid, Thus and thus ſpake he to me, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I have anointed thee king over Iſrael.

13 Then they haſted, and took every man his garment, and put it under him on the top of the ſtairs, and blew with trumpets, ſaying, Jehu is king.

14 So Jehu the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, the ſon of Nimſhi, conſpired againſt Joram. (Now Joram had kept Ramoth-gilead, he and all Iſrael, becauſe of Hazael king of Syria.

15 But king Joram was returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had given him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria.) And Jehu ſaid, If it be your minds, then let none go forth nor eſcape out of the city, to go to tell it in Jezreel.

16 So Jehu rode in a chariot, and went to Jezreel; for Joram laid there. And Ahaziah king of Judah was come down to ſee Joram.

17 And there ſtood a watchman on the tower in Jezreel, and he ſpied the company of Jehu as he came, and ſaid, I ſee a company. And Joram ſaid, Take an horſemen, and ſend to meet them, and let him ſay, Is it peace?

18 So there went one on horſeback to meet him, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu ſaid, What haſt thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me. And the watchman told, ſaying, The meſſenger came to them, but he cometh not again.

19 Then he ſent out a ſecond on horſeback, which came to them, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the king, Is it peace? And Jehu anſwered, What haſt thou to do with peace? turn thee behind me.

20 And the watchman told, ſaying, He came even unto them, and cometh not again: and the driving is like the driving of Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi; for he driveth furiouſly.

21 And Joram ſaid, Make ready. And his chariot was made ready. And Joram king of Iſrael, and Ahaziah king of Judah went out, each in his chariot, and they went out againſt Jehu, and met him in the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite.

22 And it came to paſs when Joram ſaw Jehu, that he ſaid, Is it peace, Jehu? And he anſwered, What peace, ſo long as the whoredoms of thy mother Jezebel and her witchcrafts are ſo many?

23 And Joram turned his hands, and fled, and ſaid to Ahaziah, There is treachery, O Ahaziah.

24 And Jehu drew a bow with his full ſtrength, and ſmote Jehoram between his arms, and the arrow went out of his heart, and he ſunk down in his chariot.

25 Then ſaid Jehu to Bidkar his captain, Take up, and caſt him in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite. For remember how that when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father, the LORD laid this burden upon him;

26 Surely I have ſeen yeſterday the blood of Naboth and the blood of his ſons, ſaith the LORD; and I will requite thee in this plat, ſaith the LORD. Now therefore take and caſt him into the plat of ground, according to the word of the LORD.

27 But when Ahaziah the king of Judah ſaw this, he fled by the way of the garden-houſe.

while the ſpirit was upon him, 1 Sam. xix. 24. We read alſo that the leading men of the tribe of Judah treated the prophets of the Lord as fools and madmen, Jerem. xxix. 26. What might ſtill add to the uncommonneſs of their figure and behaviour was the oddneſs of their dreſs, their living by themſelves, and ſeldom appearing in public, but upon ſome very extraordinary errand; which often proved of a dangerous nature, and put them in fear whilſt they went about it. Univ. Hiſt.

17 There ſtood a watchman on the tower in Jezreel.] It was cuſtomary, both in peace and war, to place watchmen on high places wherever the king was, to prevent his being ſurpriſed: and it is natural to think that Joram would keep a watchful eye upon every company that appeared, eſpecially from the quarter of Ramoth-gilead, where his army lay. Patrick and Calmet.

22 What peace, ſo long as the whoredoms of thy mother Jezebel, and her witchcrafts are ſo many?] i. e. While her idolatries, wherewith ſhe bewitches the people, are ſtill continued, and even multiplied: he upbraids him with his mother's ſins, becauſe they were much more notorious and infamous than his own.

24 The arrow went out at his heart.] Septuagint, Went through his heart.

25 Remember how that when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father, &c.] With the reſt of his guard, when he went to take poſſeſſion of Naboth's vineyard. Patrick.

26 The blood of Naboth, and the blood of his ſons.] We do not find in all the hiſtory of Naboth, any mention of the death of his ſons. It is not improbable, that, as Naboth had been accuſed of high treaſon, all his family were involved in his ruin: what ſeems to confirm this opinion is, that we do not find Elijah ever putting the king in mind of reſtoring the vineyard to Naboth's children; probably becauſe there were no heirs left.

And Jehu followed after him, and ſaid, Smite him alſo in the chariot. And they did ſo at the going up to Gur, which is by Ibleam. And he fled to Megiddo, and died there.

28 And his ſervants carried him in a chariot to Jeruſalem, and buried him in his ſepulchre with his fathers in the city of David.

29 And in the eleventh year of Joram the ſon of Ahab began Ahaziah to reign over Judah.

30 ¶ And when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it, and ſhe painted her face, and tired her head, and looked out at a window.

31 And as Jehu entered in at the gate, ſhe ſaid, Had Zimri peace, who ſlew his maſter?

32 And he lifted up his face to the window, and ſaid, Who is on my ſide? who? And there looked out to him two or three eunuchs.

33 And he ſaid, Throw her down. So they threw her down: and ſome of her blood was ſprinkled on the wall, and on the horſes: and he trode her under foot.

34 And when he was come in, he did eat and drink, and ſaid, Go, ſee now this curſed woman, and bury her: for ſhe is a king's daughter.

35 And they went to bury her: but they found no more of her than her ſkull, and the feet, and the palms of her hands.

36 Wherefore they came again, and told him. And he ſaid, This is the word of the LORD which he ſpake by his ſervant Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying, In the portion of Jezreel ſhall dogs eat the fleſh of Jezebel:

37 And the carcaſe of Jezebel ſhall be as dung upon the face of the field in the portion of Jezreel; ſo that they ſhall not ſay, This is Jezebel.

CHAP. X.

1 Jehu cauſeth ſeventy of Ahab's children to be beheaded. 18 He deſtroyeth the worſhippers of Baal, 29 yet followeth Jeroboam's ſins.

AND Ahab had ſeventy ſons in Samaria. And Jehu wrote letters, and ſent to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel, to the elders, and to them that brought up Ahab's children, ſaying,

2 Now as ſoon as this letter cometh to you, ſeeing your maſter's ſons are with you, and there are with you chariots and horſes, a fenced city alſo, and armour;

3 Look even out the beſt and meeteſt of your maſter's ſons, and ſet him on his father's throne, and fight for your maſter's houſe.

4 But they were exceedingly afraid and ſaid, Behold, two kings ſtood not before him: how then ſhall we ſtand?

5 And he that was over the houſe, and he that was over the city, the elders alſo, and the bringers up of the children, ſent to Jehu, ſaying, We are thy ſervants, and will do all that thou ſhalt bid us; we will not make any king: do thou that which is good in thine eyes.

6 Then he wrote a letter the ſecond time to them, ſaying, If ye be mine, and if ye will hearken unto my voice, take ye the heads of the men your maſter's ſons, and come to me to Jezreel by to-morrow this time. Now the king's ſons, being ſeventy perſons, were with the great men of the city, which brought them up.

7 And it came to paſs when the letter came to them, that they took the king's ſons, and ſlew ſeventy perſons, and put their heads in baſkets, and ſent him them to Jezreel.

30 She painted her face, and tired her hair, and looked out at a window.] The Hebrew ſays, She put her eyes in paint, i. e. ſhe uſed ſtibium, to make her eyes and eyebrows look black and large, which was reckoned a great ornament. Dr. Shaw obſerves, there was generally but one window or balcony towards the ſtreet in the houſes of the Orientals, (the reſt opening towards the quadrangle or court), which was never opened but on great ſolemnities; and ſuch was the window or balcony at which Jezebel appeared. He further ſays, that the Mooriſh ladies tinge their eyelids with the powder of lead ore; the ſooty colour, which is thus communicated to the eyes, is thought to add a great degree of gracefulneſs to perſons of all complexions.

32 There looked out to him two or three eunuchs.] Theſe perſons, in the eaſtern countries, attended upon queens in their chambers; and, by their care and diligence, were often promoted to places of great truſt and profit.

34 She is a king's daughter.] She was daughter of Eth-baal, king of Tyre: ſhe was alſo the wife and mother of a king.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Jehu wrote letters, and ſent to Samaria, unto the rulers of Jezreel.] The Septuagint reads, to the rulers of Samaria; which is undoubtedly the right reading; as ſeems plain from the context. See Dr. Wall and Pilkington.

8 And there came a meſſenger, and told him, ſaying, They have brought the heads of the king's ſons. And he ſaid, Lay ye them in two heaps at the entering-in of the gate until the morning.

9 And it came to paſs in the morning, that he went out, and ſtood, and ſaid to all the people, Ye be righteous: behold, I conſpired againſt my maſter, and ſlew him: but who ſlew all theſe?

10 Know now that there ſhall fall unto the earth nothing of the word of the LORD which the LORD ſpake concerning the houſe of Ahab: for the LORD hath done that which he ſpake by his ſervant Elijah.

11 So Jehu ſlew all that remained of the houſe of Ahab in Jezreel, and all his great men, and his kinſfolks, and his prieſts, until he left him none remaining.

12 And he aroſe and departed, and came to Samaria. And as he was at the ſhearing-houſe in the way,

13 Jehu met with the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah, and ſaid, Who are ye? And they anſwered, We are the brethren of Ahaziah; and we go down to ſalute the children of the king and the children of the queen.

14 And he ſaid, Take them alive. And they took them alive, and ſlew them at the pit of the ſhearing-houſe, even two and forty men; neither left he any of them.

15 And when he was departed thence, he lighted on Jehonadab the ſon of Rechab coming to meet him: and he ſaluted him, and ſaid to him, Is thine heart right, as my heart is with thy heart? And Jehonadab anſwered, It is. If it be, give me thine hand. And he gave him his hand; and he took him up to him into the chariot.

16 And he ſaid, Come with me, and ſee my zeal for the LORD. So they made him ride in his chariot.

17 And when he came to Samaria, he ſlew all that remained unto Ahab in Samaria, till he had deſtroyed him, according to the ſaying of the LORD which he ſpake to Elijah.

18 ¶ And Jehu gathered all the people together, and ſaid unto them, Ahab ſerved Baal a little; but Jehu ſhall ſerve him much.

19 Now therefore call unto me all the prophets of Baal, all his ſervants, and all his prieſts; let none be wanting: for I have a great ſacrifice to do to Baal: whoſoever ſhall be wanting, he ſhall not live. But Jehu did it in ſubtilty, to the intent that he might deſtroy the worſhippers of Baal.

20 And Jehu ſaid, Proclaim a ſolemn aſſembly for Baal. And they proclaimed it.

21 And Jehu ſent through all Iſrael: and all the worſhippers of Baal came, ſo that there was not a man left that came not. And they came into the houſe of Baal; and the houſe of Baal was full from one end to another.

22 And he ſaid unto him that was over the veſtry, Bring forth veſtments for all the worſhippers of Baal. And he brought them forth veſtments.

23 And Jehu went, and Jehonadab the ſon of Rechab, into the houſe of Baal, and ſaid unto the worſhippers of Baal, Search, and look that there be here with you none of the ſervants of the LORD, but the worſhippers of Baal only.

24 And when they went in to offer ſacrifices and burnt-offerings, Jehu appointed fourſcore men without, and ſaid, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands eſcape, he that letteth him go, his life ſhall be for the life of him.

25 And it came to paſs as ſoon as he had

9 I conſpired againſt my maſter, and ſlew him: but who ſlew all theſe?] Beſides the accompliſhment of the Divine decree, Jehu's further deſign in requeſting this cruel ſervice of the rulers of the nation was, that he might thereby engage them in the ſame crime with himſelf; beſides, by the murder of Ahab's kinſmen, they were deprived of any perſon of diſtinction to head them; and by this expedient Jehu thought he ſhould in ſome meaſure leſſen the odium of his own barbarous and perfidious conduct; for this is the ſenſe of his appeal to the people. Calmet.

15 He lighted on Jehonadab the ſon of Rechab, coming to meet him.] Several learned men are of opinion, that this Jehonadab was the perſon who gave the precepts mentioned in Jeremiah, chap. xxxv. to his children.

Give me thine hand.] We are not to ſuppoſe that Jehu aſked him for his hand in order to aſſiſt him in getting into his chariot; but that Jehonadab would give him an aſſurance that he would aſſiſt him in the proſecution of his deſigns: for to give the hand ſignifies to promiſe. Pilk. Rem.

made an end of offering the burnt-offering, that Jehu ſaid to the guard and to the captains, Go in, and ſlay them; let none come forth. And they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword; and the guard and the captains caſt them out, and went to the city of the houſe of Baal.

26 And they brought forth the images out of the houſe of Baal, and burned them.

27 And they brake down the image of Baal, and brake down the houſe of Baal, and made it a draught-houſe unto this day.

28 Thus Jehu deſtroyed Baal out of Iſrael.

29 ¶ Howbeit, from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin, Jehu departed not from after them, to wit, the golden calves that were in Bethel, and that were in Dan.

30 And the LORD ſaid unto Jehu, Becauſe thou haſt done well in executing that which is right in mine eyes, and haſt done unto the houſe of Ahab, according to all that was in mine heart, thy children of the fourth generation ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael.

31 But Jehu took no heed to walk in the law of the LORD God of Iſrael with all his heart: for he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam, which made Iſrael to ſin.

32 In thoſe days the LORD began to cut Iſrael ſhort: and Hazael ſmote them in all the coaſts of Iſrael;

33 From Jordan eaſt-ward, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manaſſites, from Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, even Gilead, and Baſhan.

34 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehu, and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

35 And Jehu ſlept with his fathers: and they buried him in Samaria. And Jehoahaz his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

36 And the time that Jehu reigned over Iſrael in Samaria was twenty and eight years.

CHAP. XI.

1 Jehoaſh, being ſaved from Athaliah's maſſacre,

AND when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah ſaw that her ſon was dead, ſhe aroſe and deſtroyed all the ſeed royal.

2 But Jehoſheba the daughter of king Joram, ſiſter of Ahaziah, took Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah, and ſtole him from among the king's ſons which were ſlain; and they hid him, even him and his nurſe, in the bed-chamber, from Athaliah, ſo that he was not ſlain.

3 And he was with her hid in the houſe of the LORD ſix years. And Athaliah did reign over the land.

4 ¶ And the ſeventh year Jehoiada ſent and fetched the rulers over hundreds, with the captains and the guard, and brought them to him into the houſe of the LORD, and made a covenant with them, and took an oath of them in the houſe of the LORD, and ſhewed them the king's ſon.

5 And he commanded them, ſaying, This is the thing that ye ſhall do; a third part of 27 Made it a draught-houſe unto this day.] Which was the higheſt contempt that could poſſibly be put upon it. To this kind of puniſhment the decree which Darius made in favour of the Jews, plainly alludes: Whoever ſhall alter this word, let timber be pulled down from his houſe, and being ſet up, let him be hanged thereon, and let his houſe be made a dunghill.

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 When Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah ſaw that her ſon was dead, ſhe aroſe and deſtroyed all the ſeed royal.] The terrible fate of theſe royal families cannot be read without horror; and is ſufficient to make any one bleſs Providence for having been born of meaner parentage. The whole offſpring of Jeroboam, Baaſha, and Ahab, kings of Iſrael, was cut off for their idolatry, ſo that there was not one left; and the kings of Judah having contracted an affinity with the houſe of Ahab, were ſo deſtroyed by three ſucceſſive maſſacres, that there was but one left. For, firſt Jehoram ſlew all his brethren; then Jehu ſlew all his brother's children; and now Athaliah deſtroyed all that her executioners could meet with. Enraged to ſee Ahab's family cut off, ſhe determined to do the ſame by the houſe of David. And, being of the houſe of Ahab, ſhe had reaſon to apprehend, that Jehu would not long ſuffer her to live; her only ſafe way therefore was uſurp the throne; but this ſhe well knew would be impoſſible, without deſtroying all the royal progeny, who were no friends to the worſhip of Baal, which ſhe was determined to maintain. Variorum.

4 Jehoiada.] He was a perſon of great authority, and knowing that Athaliah was an uſurper, and that he had the right heir in his poſſeſſion, thought he had ſufficient warrant to dethrone her, and ſet up him who had the undoubted title to the crown. Patrick.

5 A third part of you ſhall be keepers of the watch of the king's houſe.] Septuagint reads, Shall keep the watch of the king's houſe at the gate; meaning the gate of the temple that led to the king's houſe: the three parties were to keep the three gates; this firſt party, the gate of the king's houſe, that nobody ſhould break through. Wall.

you that enter in on the ſabbath ſhall even be keepers of the watch of the king's houſe;

6 And a third part ſhall be at the gate of Sur; and a third part at the gate behind the guard: ſo ſhall ye keep the watch of the houſe that it not be broken down.

7 And two parts of all you that go forth on the ſabbath, even they ſhall keep the watch of the houſe of the LORD about the king.

8 And ye ſhall compaſs the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand: and he that cometh within the ranges, let him be ſlain. And be ye with the king as he goeth out, and as he cometh in.

9 And the captains over the hundreds did according to all things that Jehoiada the prieſt commanded: and they took every man his men that were to come in on the ſabbath, with them that ſhould go out on the ſabbath, and came to Jehoiada the prieſt.

10 And to the captains over hundreds did the prieſt give king David's ſpears and ſhields, that were in the temple of the LORD.

11 And the guard ſtood, every man with his weapons in his hand, round about the king, from the right corner of the temple to the left corner of the temple, along by the altar and the temple.

12 And he brought forth the king's ſon, and put the crown upon him, and gave him the teſtimony; and they made him king, and anointed him; and they clapped their hands, and ſaid, God ſave the king.

13 And when Athaliah heard the noiſe of the guard and of the people, ſhe came to the people into the temple of the LORD.

14 And when ſhe looked, behold, the king ſtood by a pillar, as the manner was, and the princes and the trumpeters by the king, and all the people of the land rejoiced, and blew with trumpets. And Athaliah rent her clothes, and cried, Treaſon, treaſon.

15 But Jehoiada the prieſt commanded the captains of the hundreds, the officers of the hoſt, and ſaid unto them, Have her forth without the ranges; and him that followeth her, kill with the ſword. For the prieſt had ſaid, Let her not be ſlain in the houſe of the LORD.

16 And they laid hands on her, and ſhe went by the way by the which the horſes came into the king's houſe; and there was ſhe ſlain.

17 And Jehoiada made a covenant between the LORD, and the king and the people, that they ſhould be the LORD's people; between the king alſo and the people.

18 And all the people of the land went into the houſe of Baal, and brake it down; his altars and his images brake they in pieces throughly, and ſlew Mattan the prieſt of Baal before the altars. And the prieſt appointed officers over the houſe of the LORD.

19 And he took the rulers over hundreds, and the captains, and the guard, and all the people of the land; and they brought down the king from the houſe of the LORD, and came by the way of the gate of the guard to the king's houſe. And he ſat on the throne of the kings.

20 And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was in quiet: and they ſlew Athaliah with the ſword beſide the king's houſe.

21 Seven years old was Jehoaſh when he began to reign.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jehoaſh reigneth well all the days of Jehoiada.
19 He is ſlain by his ſervants.

IN the ſeventh year of Jehu Jehoaſh began to reign; and forty years reigned he in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Zibiah of Beer-ſheba.

2 And Jehoaſh did that which was right in the ſight of LORD, all his days wherein Jehoiada the prieſt inſtructed him.

10 To the captains over hundreds did the prieſts give king David's ſpears and ſhields, &c.] The officers, who were admitted to a knowledge of Jehoiada's deſigns, came into the temple unarmed, for fear of giving ſuſpicion. But as David had erected a kind of ſacred armoury in one of the apartments, wherein the weapons and other trophies, taken from their enemies (and as monuments of their victories dedicated to the Lord) were depoſited; Jehoiada took care, upon this occaſion, to have this magazine of military ſtores opened, ſo that there was no want of any ſort of arms. Joſephus.

14 The king ſtood by a pillar.] i. e. Stood upon the throne, which was by the entrance into the prieſts court. Lamy.

3 But the high places were not taken away: the people ſtill ſacrificed and burned incenſe in the high places.

4 And Jehoaſh ſaid to the prieſts, All the money of the dedicated things that is brought into the houſe of the LORD, even the money of every one that paſſeth the account, the money that every man is ſet at, and all the money that cometh into any man's heart to bring into the houſe of the LORD,

5 Let the prieſts take it to them, every man of his acquaintance; and let them repair the breaches of the houſe, whereſoever any breach ſhall be found.

6 But it was ſo, that in the three and twentieth year of king Jehoaſh the prieſts had not repaired the breaches of the houſe.

7 Then king Jehoaſh called for Jehoiada the prieſt and the other prieſts, and ſaid unto them, Why repair ye not the breaches of the houſe? now therefore receive no more money of your acquaintance, but deliver it for the breaches of the houſe.

8 And the prieſts conſented to receive no more money of the people, neither to repair the breaches of the houſe.

9 But Jehoiada the prieſt took a cheſt, and bored a hole in the lid of it, and ſet it beſide the altar, on the right ſide as one cometh into the houſe of the LORD: and the prieſts that kept the door put therein all the money that was brought into the houſe of the LORD.

10 And it was ſo, when they ſaw that there was much money in the cheſt, that the king's ſcribe and the high prieſt came up, and they put up in bags, and told the money that was found in the houſe of the LORD.

11 And they gave the money, being told, into the hands of them that did the work, that had the overſight of the houſe of the LORD: and they laid it out to the carpenters and builders, that wrought upon the houſe of the LORD,

12 And to maſons, and hewers of ſtone, and to buy timber and hewed ſtone to repair the breaches of the houſe of the LORD, and for all that was laid out for the houſe to repair it.

13 Howbeit, there were not made for the houſe of the LORD, bowls of ſilver, ſnuffers, baſons, trumpets, any veſſels of gold, or veſſels of ſilver, of the money that was brought into the houſe of the LORD.

14 But they gave that to the workmen, and repaired therewith the houſe of the LORD.

15 Moreover, they reckoned not with the men into whoſe hand they delivered the money to be beſtowed on workmen: for they dealt faithfully.

16 The treſpaſs-money and ſin-money was not brought into the houſe of the LORD: it was the prieſts.

17 ¶ Then Hazael king of Syria went up, and fought againſt Gath, and took it: and Hazael ſet his face to go to up Jeruſalem.

18 And Jehoaſh king of Judah took all the hallowed things that Jehoſhaphat and Jehoram and Ahaziah, his fathers, kings of Judah, had dedicated, and his own hallowed things, and all the gold that was found in the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and in the king's houſe, and ſent it to Hazael king of Syria: and he went away from Jeruſalem.

19 ¶ And the reſt of the acts of Joaſh, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And his ſervants aroſe, and made a conſpiracy, and ſlew Joaſh in the houſe of Millo, which goeth down to Silla.

21 For Jozachar the ſon of Shimeath and Jehozabad the ſon of Shomer, his ſervants, ſmote him, and he died; and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David. And Amaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Jehoahaz's wicked reign. 14 Eliſha's death. 20 His bones revive a dead man.

IN the three and twentieth year of Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah king of Judah Jehoahaz the ſon of Jehu began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned ſeventeen years.

2 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, and followed the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, which made Iſrael to ſin; he departed not therefrom.

3 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Iſrael, and he delivered them into the hand of Hazael king of Syria, and into the hand of Ben-hadad the ſon of Hazael, all their days.

4 And Jehoahaz beſought the LORD, and the LORD hearkened unto him: for he ſaw the oppreſſion of Iſrael, becauſe the king of Syria oppreſſed them.

5 And the LORD gave Iſrael a ſaviour, ſo that they went out from under the hand of the Syrians: and the children of Iſrael dwelt in their tents, as before-time.

6 Nevertheleſs, they departed not from the ſins of the houſe of Jeroboam, who made Iſrael ſin, but walked therein: and there remained the grove alſo in Samaria.

7 Neither did he leave of the people to Jehoahaz but fifty horſemen, and ten chariots, and ten thouſand footmen: for the king of Syria had deſtroyed them, and had made them like the duſt by threſhing.

8 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoahaz, and all that he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

9 And Jehoahaz ſlept with his fathers: and they buried him in Samaria. And Joaſh his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

10 In the thirty and ſeventh year of Joaſh king of Judah began Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned ſixteen years.

11 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD; he departed not from all the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael ſin; but he walked therein.

12 And the reſt of the acts of Joaſh, and all that he did, and his might wherewith he fought againſt Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

13 And Joaſh ſlept with his fathers; and Jeroboam ſat upon his throne: and Joaſh was buried in Samaria with the kings of Iſrael.

14 ¶ Now Eliſha was fallen ſick of his ſickneſs whereof he died. And Joaſh the king of Iſrael came down unto him, and wept over his face, and ſaid, O my father, my father, the chariot of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof.

15 And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Take bow and arrows. And he took unto him bow and arrows.

16 And he ſaid to the king of Iſrael, Put thine hand upon the bow. And he put his hand upon it: and Eliſha put his hands upon the king's hands.

17 And he ſaid, Open the window eaſtward. And he opened it. Then Eliſha ſaid, Shoot. And he ſhot. And he ſaid, The arrow of the LORD's deliverance, and the arrow of deliverance from Syria: for thou ſhalt ſmite the Syrians in Aphek till thou have conſumed them.

18 And he ſaid, Take the arrows. And he took them. And he ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Smite upon the ground. And he ſmote thrice, and ſtayed.

Notes on the Thirteenth Chapter.

Ver. 5 The Lord gave Iſrael a ſaviour, ſo that they went out from under the hand of the Syrians.] The LXX read, God gave Iſrael a deliverance: there is no particular perſon mentioned. Wall.

10 In the thirty and ſeventh year of Joaſh king of Judah, began Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz to reign over Iſrael.] He reigned with his father three years; for, otherwiſe, he muſt have begun his reign in the thirty-ninth or fortieth year of Joaſh king of Judah. Patrick.

15 Take bow and arrows, &c.] This was a ſymbolical action, whereby the prophet intended to repreſent the victory which he had promiſed the king of Iſrael againſt the Syrians, more plainly to him. His ſhooting the arrow eaſtward, or to that part of the country which the Syrians had taken from his anceſtors, was a declaration of war againſt them: and ſtriking the other arrows againſt the ground was an indication how many victories he was to obtain; but his ſtopping his hand too ſoon, denoted the imperfection of his conqueſts, which diſpleaſed the prophet. Le Clerc.

19 And the man of God was wroth with him, and ſaid, Thou ſhouldeſt have ſmitten five or ſix times; then hadſt thou ſmitten Syria till thou hadſt conſumed it: whereas now thou ſhalt ſmite Syria but thrice.

20 ¶ And Eliſha died, and they buried him. And the bands of the Moabites invaded the land at the coming-in of the year.

21 And it came to paſs as they were burying a man, that behold, they ſpied a band of men; and they caſt the man into the ſepulchre of Eliſha: and when the man was let down, and touched the bones of Eliſha, he revived, and ſtood up on his feet.

22 But Hazael king of Syria oppreſſed Iſrael all the days of Jehoahaz.

23 And the LORD was gracious unto them, and had compaſſion on them, and had reſpect unto them, becauſe of his covenant with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and would not deſtroy them, neither caſt he them from his preſence as yet.

24 So Hazael king of Syria died; and Ben-hadad his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

25 And Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz took again out of the hand of Ben-hadad the ſon of Hazael the cities which he had taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father by war. Three times did Joaſh beat him, and recovered the cities of Iſrael.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Amaziah's good reign. 17 He is ſlain by a conſpiracy. 21 Azariah ſucceedeth him.

IN the ſecond year of Joaſh ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael reigned Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah.

2 He was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and reigned twenty and nine years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jeruſalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, yet not like David his father: he did according to all things as Joaſh his father did.

4 Howbeit, the high places were not taken away: as yet the people did ſacrifice and burn incenſe on the high places.

5 And it came to paſs as ſoon as the kingdom was confirmed in his hand, that he ſlew his ſervants which had ſlain the king his father.

6 But the children of the murderers he ſlew not; according unto that which is written in the book of the law of Moſes, wherein the LORD commanded, ſaying, The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children, nor the children be put to death for the fathers; but every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin.

7 He ſlew of Edom in the valley of ſalt ten thouſand, and took Selah by war, and called the name of it Joktheel unto this day.

8 Then Amaziah ſent meſſengers to Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz ſon of Jehu king of Iſrael, ſaying, Come, let us look one another in the face.

9 And Jehoaſh the king of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah king of Judah, ſaying, The thiſtle

19 The man of God was wroth with him.] The prophet had juſt reaſon for being offended for his not believing God, who had wrought ſo many ſignal miracles in favour of the Iſraelites; for not relying on the prediction of him, who, according to his own acknowledgment, had been a conſtant defender of the ſtate, the chariots of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof, and now even in his dying moments, was full of good wiſhes, and intentions for his country.

21 They caſt the man into the ſepulchre of Eliſha.] The common places of burial among the Hebrews were in the fields, or caverns dug in a rock, with niches for the corpſe to be placed in, and at the entrance of the ſepulchre there was an hewn ſtone which might be removed at pleaſure. Joſephus.

He revived, and ſtood up on his feet.] This ſtupendous miracle ſufficiently confirmed both the ſucceſs he had promiſed the king, and the belief of a future life; in which ſenſe ſome part of the character given of him by the author of Eccleſiaſticus, may not be improperly underſtood. Eliſha was filled with Elijah's ſpirit: whilſt he lived, no word could overcome him, and after his death his body propheſied. He did wonders in his life, and at his death were his works marvellous, Eccleſ. xlviii. 12, &c.

Notes on the Fourteenth Chapter.

Ver. 6 The children of murderers he ſlew not.] In this he acted like a good man, contrary to the cuſtom of many kingdoms; where, if any one be guilty of high treaſon, not only he, but his children likewiſe, though innocent, are equally devoted to deſtruction. Le Clerc.

7 The valley of ſalt.] See note on 2 Sam. viii. 13.

Took Selah by war.] Selah ſignifies a rock, and anſwers to the Greek word petra; whence moſt commentators think, that this city had its name from its ſituation on a rock, and that the adjacent tract was called Arabia Petræa, from its being full of rocks. Wells.

Called the name of it Joktheel.] In remembrance, as ſome imagine, of his having obliged the inhabitants to obſerve the laws of Moſes; the word ſignifying obedience to God.

8 Come, let us look one another in the face.] Amaziah, being encouraged by his late victory, was determined to be revenged for the ſlaughter of his anceſtors by Jehu, and therefore ſent this open declaration of war, conceived in the mildeſt terms poſſible. Calmet.

that was in Lebanon ſent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, ſaying, Give thy daughter to my ſon to wife: and there paſſed by a wild beaſt that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thiſtle.

10 Thou haſt indeed ſmitten Edom, and thine heart hath lifted thee up: glory of this, and tarry at home: for why ſhouldeſt thou meddle to thy hurt, that thou ſhouldeſt fall, even thou, and Judah with thee?

11 But Amaziah would not hear. Therefore Jehoaſh king of Iſrael went up; and he and Amaziah king of Judah looked one another in the face at Beth-ſhemeſh, which belongeth to Judah.

12 And Judah was put to the worſe before Iſrael, and they fled every man to their tents.

13 And Jehoaſh king of Iſrael took Amaziah king of Judah, the ſon of Jehoaſh the ſon of Ahaziah, at Beth-ſhemeſh, and came to Jeruſalem, and brake down the wall of Jeruſalem, from the gate of Ephraim unto the corner-gate, four hundred cubits.

14 And he took all the gold and ſilver, and all the veſſels that were found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the treaſures of the king's houſe, and hoſtages, and returned to Samaria.

15 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoaſh which he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

16 And Jehoaſh ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Iſrael; and Jeroboam his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

17 ¶ And Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah lived after the death of Jehoaſh ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael fifteen years.

18 And the reſt of the acts of Amaziah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

19 Now they made a conſpiracy againſt him in Jeruſalem: and he fled to Lachiſh; but they ſent after him to Lachiſh, and ſlew him there.

20 And they brought him on horſes: and he was buried at Jeruſalem with his fathers in the city of David.

21 ¶ And all the people of Judah took Azariah, which was ſixteen years old, and made him king in ſtead of his father Amaziah.

22 He built Elath, and reſtored it to Judah, after that the king ſlept with his fathers.

23 In the fifteenth year of Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh king of Iſrael began to reign in Samaria, and reigned forty and one years.

24 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: he departed not from all the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

25 He reſtored the coaſt of Iſrael from the entering of Hamath unto the ſea of the plain, according to the word of the LORD God of Iſrael which he ſpake by the hand of his ſervant Jonah, the ſon of Amittai, the prophet, which was of Gath-hepher.

26 For the LORD ſaw the affliction of Iſrael, that it was very bitter: for there was not any ſhut up, nor any left, nor any helper for Iſrael.

CHAP. XV.

1 Azariah's good reign. 5 Jotham and other kings. 32 Jotham's good reign.

IN the twenty and ſeventh year of Jeroboam king of Iſrael began Azariah ſon of Amaziah king of Judah to reign.

2 Sixteen years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Jecholiah of Jeruſalem.

3 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah had done;

4 Save that the high places were not removed: the people ſacrificed and burned incenſe ſtill on the high places.

5 ¶ And the LORD ſmote the king, ſo that he was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a ſeveral houſe. And Jotham the king's ſon was over the houſe, judging the people of the land.

6 And the reſt of the acts of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

7 So Azariah ſlept with his fathers: and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David. And Jotham his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

8 In the thirty and eighth year of Azariah king of Judah did Zechariah the ſon of Jeroboam reign over Iſrael in Samaria ſix months.

9 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, as his fathers had done: he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

10 And Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh conſpired againſt him, and ſmote him before the people, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead.

11 And the reſt of the acts of Zechariah, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

12 This was the word of the LORD, which he ſpake unto Jehu, ſaying, Thy ſons ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael unto the fourth generation. And ſo it came to paſs.

13 Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh began to reign in the nine and thirtieth year of Uzziah king of Judah, and he reigned a full month in Samaria.

14 For Menahem the ſon of Gadi went up from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and ſmote Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh in Samaria, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead.

15 And the reſt of the acts of Shallum, and his conſpiracy which he made, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

16 Then Menahem ſmote Tiphſah, and all

Notes on the Fifteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 In the twenty and ſeventh year of Jeroboam king of Iſrael, began Azariah ſon of Amaziah king of Judah to reign.] Commentators have taken a great deal of pains to reconcile a ſeeming contradiction in this computation. For if Amaziah the father of Azariah or Ozihu lived no more than fifteen years after the beginning of Jeroboam's reign, then Ozihu muſt begin his, not in the twenty-ſeventh, but in the ſixteenth of Jeroboam: it is therefore ſuppoſed that there was an interregnum of eleven or twelve years between the death of Amaziah and the inauguration of his ſon; who being left an infant of four years old when his father died, was committed to the guardianſhip of the grandees of the nation, till he was ſixteen, when they placed him on the throne of his anceſtors in the twenty-ſeventh year of Jeroboam.

5 The Lord ſmote him, ſo that he was a leper.] The cauſe of this ſtroke is related at large, 2 Chron. xxvi. 23. By a ſeveral houſe the Jews underſtand a houſe in the country, where he might have liberty to take his pleaſure, but not intermeddle with public affairs. Patrick.

12 Thy ſons ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael to the fourth generation.] God had promiſed Jehu, that for executing his will upon the houſe of Ahab, he would continue the throne of Iſrael in his family for four generations; and accordingly Jehoahaz, Jehoaſh, Jeroboam, and Zechariah ſucceed him: but becauſe he did it, not ſo much in obedience to the Divine command, as to ſatisfy his private and ambitious views, and in a method of cruelty abhorred by the Divine nature, God cuts his family ſhort as ſoon as he had fulfilled his promiſe to him, and thereby accompliſhed the prophecy of Hoſea, I will revenge the blood of Jezreel upon the houſe of Jehu, and will cauſe to ceaſe the kingdom of the houſe of Iſrael, chap. i. 4. Perhaps it was in remembrance of this prophecy, as well as of the promiſe which gave the kingdom to Jehu's poſterity during four generations only, that Shallum was encouraged to attempt the life of Zechariah. Patrick and Poole.

16 Menahem ſmote Tiphſah---and the coaſts thereof from Tirzah.] This Tiphſah was ſome place not far from Tirzah, which ſtood in the tribe of Ephraim. Wells.

He ſmote it and all the women, &c.] By this abominable cruelty he thought to terrify the whole kingdom, that none might dare to withſtand him. Patrick.

that were therein, and the coaſts thereof from Tirzah: becauſe they opened not to him, therefore he ſmote it; and all the women therein that were with child he ripped up.

17 In the nine and thirtieth year of Azariah king of Judah began Menahem the ſon of Gadi to reign over Iſrael, and reigned ten years in Samaria.

18 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: he departed not all his days from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

19 And Pul the king of Aſſyria came againſt the land: and Menahem gave Pul a thouſand talents of ſilver, that his hand might be with him, to confirm the kingdom in his hand.

20 And Menahem exacted the money of Iſrael, even of all the mighty men of wealth, of each man fifty ſhekels of ſilver, to give to the king of Aſſyria. So the king of Aſſyria turned back, and ſtayed not there in the land.

21 And the reſt of the acts of Menahem, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael?

22 And Menahem ſlept with his fathers; and Pekahiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

23 In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekahiah the ſon of Menahem began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned two years.

24 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

25 But Pekah the ſon of Remaliah, a captain of his, conſpired againſt him, and ſmote him in Samaria, in the palace of the king's houſe, with Argob, and Arieh, and with him fifty men of the Gileadites: and he killed him and reigned in his room.

26 And the reſt of the acts of Pekahiah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

27 In the two and fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekah the ſon of Remaliah began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned twenty years.

28 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD: he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin.

29 In the days of Pekah king of Iſrael came Tiglath-pileſer king of Aſſyria, and took Ijon, and Abel-beth-maachah, and Janoah, and Kedeſh, and Hazor, and Gilead, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali, and carried them captive to Aſſyria.

30 And Hoſhea the ſon of Elah made a conſpiracy againſt Pekah the ſon of Remaliah, and ſmote him, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead, in the twentieth year of Jotham the ſon of Uzziah.

31 And the reſt of the acts of Pekah, and all that he did, behold, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Iſrael.

32 ¶ In the ſecond year of Pekah the ſon of Remaliah king of Iſrael began Jotham the ſon of Uzziah king of Judah to reign.

33 Five and twenty years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Jeruſha the daughter of Zadok.

34 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD: he did according to all that his father Uzziah had done.

35 Howbeit, the high places were not removed: the people ſacrificed and burned incenſe ſtill in the high places. He built the higher gate of the houſe of the LORD.

36 Now the reſt of the acts of Jotham, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

37 In thoſe days the LORD began to ſend

19 Pul the king of Aſſyria, &c.] This Pul is thought to have been the father of Sardanapalus, who was called Sardan, with Pul, his father's name annexed, as Merodach, king of Babylon, was called Merodach-Baladan, becauſe he was the ſon of Baladan. Prideaux and Wall.

29 Carried them captive to Aſſyria.] This was the ſecond deportation of the Iſraelites, the firſt being made by Pul, who carried away the two tribes and a half, ſituated beyond Jordan. The king of Aſſyria alſo carried away, among other rich plunder, the golden calf, which Jeroboam had ſet up at Beth-el, and which had been conſtantly worſhipped by the ten tribes: and the other which was in Dan, was taken away by Pul, when he invaded Galilee, in which province that city ſtood. Patrick.

38 And Jotham ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father: and Ahaz his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Ahaz's wicked reign. 17 He ſpoileth the temple. 19 Hezekiah ſucceedeth him.

IN the ſeventeenth year of Pekah the ſon of Remaliah Ahaz the ſon of Jotham king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign, and reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem, and did not that which was right in the ſight of the LORD his God, like David his father.

3 But he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, yea, and made his ſon to paſs through the fire, according to the abominations of the heathen whom the LORD caſt out from before the children of Iſrael.

4 And he ſacrificed and burned incenſe in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

5 Then Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah ſon of Remaliah king of Iſrael, came up to Jeruſalem to war: and they beſieged Ahaz, but could not overcome him.

6 At that time Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath to Syria, and drave the Jews from Elath: and the Syrians came to Elath, and dwelt there unto this day.

7 So Ahaz ſent meſſengers to Tiglath-pileſer king of Aſſyria, ſaying, I am thy ſervant and thy ſon: come up, and ſave me out of the hand of the king of Syria, and out of the hand of the king of Iſrael, which riſe up againſt me.

8 And Ahaz took the ſilver and gold that was found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the treaſures of the king's houſe, and ſent it for a preſent to the king of Aſſyria.

9 And the king of Aſſyria hearkened unto him: for the king of Aſſyria went up againſt Damaſcus, and took it, and carried the people of it captive to Kir, and ſlew Rezin.

10 And king Ahaz went to Damaſcus to meet Tiglath-pileſer king of Aſſyria, and ſaw an altar that was at Damaſcus: and king Ahaz ſent to Urijah the prieſt the faſhion of the altar, and the pattern of it, according to all the workmanſhip thereof.

11 And Urijah the prieſt built an altar according to all that king Ahaz had ſent from Damaſcus: ſo Urijah the prieſt made it againſt king Ahaz came from Damaſcus.

12 And when the king was come from Damaſcus, the king ſaw the altar: and the king approached to the altar, and offered thereon.

13 And he burned his burnt-offering and his meat-offering, and poured his drink-offering, and ſprinkled the blood of his peace-offerings upon the altar.

14 And he brought alſo the braſen altar which was before the LORD, from the fore-front of the houſe, from between the altar and the houſe of the LORD, and put it on the north-ſide of the altar.

15 And king Ahaz commanded Urijah the prieſt, ſaying, Upon the great altar burn the morning burnt-offering, and the evening meat offering; and the king's burnt-ſacrifice, and his meat-offering; with the burnt-offering of all the people of the land, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings: and ſprinkle upon it all the blood of the burnt-offering, and all the blood of the ſacrifice: and the braſen altar ſhall be for me to enquire by.

16 Thus did Urijah the prieſt according to all that king Ahaz commanded.

17 ¶ And king Ahaz cut off the borders of the baſes, and removed the laver from off them; and took down the ſea from off the braſen oxen

Notes on the Sixteenth Chapter.

Ver. 3 Made his ſon to paſs through the fire, &c.] He excelled all that went before him in wickedneſs; for he even imitated the abominable idolaters whom God caſt out before the children of Iſrael, by burning his children in the fire to his idols. But it is uncertain whether he did that, or only made his ſon paſs through the fire, by way of luſtration. Patrick.

that were under it, and put it upon a pavement of ſtones.

18 And the covert for the ſabbath that they had built in the houſe, and the king's entry without, turned he from the houſe of the LORD, for the king of Aſſyria.

19 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Ahaz which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

20 And Ahaz ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David: and Hezekiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Hoſhea's wicked reign. 5 Samaria for their ſins is captivated. 24 The ſtrange nations, being plagued with lions, make a mixture of religons.

IN the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah began Hoſhea the ſon of Elah to reign in Samaria over Iſrael, nine years.

2 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, but not as the kings of Iſrael that were before him.

3 Againſt him came up Shalmaneſer king of Aſſyria; and Hoſhea became his ſervant, and gave him preſents.

4 And the king of Aſſyria found conſpiracy in Hoſhea: for he had ſent meſſengers to So king of Egypt, and brought no preſent to the king of Aſſyria, as he had done year by year: therefore the king of Aſſyria ſhut him up, and bound him in priſon.

5 ¶ Then the king of Aſſyria came up throughout all the land, and went up to Samaria, and beſieged it three years.

6 In the ninth year of Hoſhea, the king of Aſſyria took Samaria, and carried Iſrael away into Aſſyria, and placed them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

7 For ſo it was, that the children of Iſrael had ſinned againſt the LORD their God, which had brought them up out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and had feared other gods,

8 And walked in the ſtatutes of the heathen whom the LORD caſt out from before the children of Iſrael, and of the kings of Iſrael, which they had made.

9 And the children of Iſrael did ſecretly thoſe things that were not right againſt the LORD their God, and they built them high places in all their cities, from the tower of the watchmen to the fenced city.

10 And they ſet them up images and groves in every high hill, and under every green tree:

11 And there they burned incenſe in all the high places, as did the heathen whom the LORD carried away before them; and wrought wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger.

12 For they ſerved idols, whereof the LORD had ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall not do this thing.

13 Yet the LORD teſtified againſt Iſrael, and againſt Judah, by all the prophets, and by all the ſeers, ſaying, Turn ye from your evil ways, and keep my commandments and my ſtatutes, according to all the law which I commanded your fathers, and which I ſent to you by my ſervants the prophets.

14 Notwithſtanding, they would not hear, but hardened their necks, like to the neck of 18 The covert for the ſabbath that they had built in the houſe.] Commentators are greatly divided with regard to the meaning of the word which we tranſlate covert, and the reaſon why it was called the covert for the ſabbath: the moſt probable opinion is, that it was a covered place, where the king ſat, in the porch of the temple, on the ſabbath and other great ſolemnities. It is conjectured that Ahaz took this away to expreſs his contempt of the ſabbath. Patrick.

Notes on the Seventeenth Chapter.

Ver. 2 He did that which was evil, but not as the kings of Iſrael that were before him.] Though he did not himſelf keep the law of Moſes, yet he ſuffered others to do it; and even to go up to Jeruſalem to worſhip the Lord.

4 So king of Egypt, &c.] This So, with whom Hoſhea entered into confederacy, is, in prophane authors, called Sabacon, the famous Ethiopian mentioned by Herodotus and Diodorus Siculus, who, in the beginning of Hezekiah's reign, invaded Egypt; and having taken Boccaris, the king thereof, priſoner, cauſed him to be burnt alive, and then ſeized on his kingdom. Prideaux.

9 The children of Iſrael did ſecretly, &c.] The context informs us that the crimes of the Iſraelites were of a public nature: neither the Hebrew nor any of the antient verſions juſtify the preſent tranſlation. Pilk. Rem.

10 Under every green tree.] The Hebrew which we tranſlate groves, as before obſerved, ſignifies the idols placed in groves, and ſhould have been ſo rendered: for how could groves be ſet under every green tree?

14 They hardened their necks.] i. e. They were obſtinate.

Did not believe in the Lord their God.] This was the ſource of all the ſins they committed; they did not believe the prophets of the Lord, but liſtened to deceivers.

15 They

their fathers, that did not believe in the LORD their God.

15 And they rejected his ſtatutes, and his covenant that he made with their fathers, and his teſtimonies which he teſtified againſt them; and they followed vanity, and became vain, and went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had charged them that they ſhould not do like them.

16 And they left all the commandments of the LORD their God, and made them molten images, even two calves, and made a grove, and worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved Baal.

17 And they cauſed their ſons and their daughters to paſs through the fire, and uſed divination and inchantments, and ſold themſelves to do evil in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

18 Therefore the LORD was very angry with Iſrael, and removed them out of his ſight: there was none left but the tribe of Judah only.

19 Alſo Judah kept not the commandments of the LORD their God, but walked in the ſtatutes of Iſrael which they made.

20 And the LORD rejected all the ſeed of Iſrael, and afflicted them, and delivered them into the hand of ſpoilers, until he had caſt them out of his ſight.

21 For he rent Iſrael from the houſe of David; and they made Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat king: and Jeroboam drave Iſrael from following the LORD, and made them ſin a great ſin.

22 For the children of Iſrael walked in all the ſins of Jeroboam which he did; they departed not from them:

23 Until the LORD removed Iſrael out of his ſight, as he had ſaid by all his ſervants the prophets. So was Iſrael carried away out of their own land to Aſſyria unto this day.

24 ¶ And the king of Aſſyria brought men from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria, inſtead of the children of Iſrael: and they poſſeſſed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof.

25 And ſo it was at the beginning of their dwelling there, that they feared not the LORD: therefore the LORD ſent lions among them, which ſlew ſome of them.

26 Wherefore they ſpake to the king of Aſſyria, ſaying, The nations which thou haſt removed, and placed in the cities of Samaria, know not the manner of the God of the land: therefore he hath ſent lions among them, and behold, they ſlay them, becauſe they know not the manner of the God of the land.

27 Then the king of Aſſyria commanded, ſaying, Carry thither one of the prieſts whom ye brought from thence; and let them go and dwell there, and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land.

28 Then one of the prieſts whom they had carried away from Samaria came and dwelt in Beth-el, and taught them how they ſhould fear the LORD.

29 Howbeit, every nation made gods of their own, and put them in the houſes of the high places which the Samaritans had made, every nation in their cities wherein they dwelt.

30 And the men of Babylon made Succoth-

15 They followed vanity, and became vain.] They worſhipped idols, and became ſtupid like their gods.

17 They ſold themſelves to do evil.] i. e. They gave themſelves up to it.

25 They feared not the Lord; therefore the Lord ſent lions among them, &c.] Inſtead of lions, Joſephus ſays they were infected with a dreadful plague, ſo that the place was in a manner depopulated: but allowing it to be lions, why ſhould theſe new inhabitants be more afflicted than the Iſraelites, who feared the Lord as little as they: but it ſhould be remembered, that though the Iſraelites were addicted to idolatry, yet they did not deny the Divine Power and Providence: they only imagined that their idols were the intermediate cauſes, whereby the bleſſings of the ſupreme God might be conveyed to them; whereas theſe new-comers believed the idols they worſhipped to be the true gods, and had no conceptions of an Almighty Being, who made and governed the world. Calmet.

28 How they ſhould fear the Lord.] i. e. The manner how they ſhould worſhip him, according to the law of Moſes.

30 The men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth.] Or Succot Benoth, which Lamy ſays, ſignifies tents for young women, i. e. they built a temple, round which were tents, in which the young women proſtituted themſelves in honour of Venus, p. 390: for thus, according to Herodous, Venus was honoured at Babylon.

The men of Cuth made Nergal.] The moſt probable opinion is, that Nergal ſignified fire; for theſe Cuthites, who were afterwards called Perſians, adored fire, and, in honour of the ſun, kept a perpetual flame burning on their altars.

The men of Hamath made Aſhima.] Some of the Rabbins tell us, that this deity was worſhipped under the ſhape of a goat; others, of a ſatyr: but as it is well known that the Syrians adored the ſun, and as aſuman, in the Perſian language, ſignifies heaven, benoth, and the men of Cuth made Nergal, and the men of Hamath made Aſhima,

31 And the Avites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites burned their children in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech the gods of Sepharvaim.

32 So they feared the LORD, and made unto themſelves of the loweſt of them prieſts of the high places, which ſacrificed for them in the houſes of the high places.

33 They feared the LORD, and ſerved their own gods, after the manner of the nations whom they carried away from thence.

34 Unto this day they do after the former manners: they fear not the LORD, neither do they after their ſtatutes, or after their ordinances, or after the law and commandment which the LORD commanded the children of Jacob, whom he named Iſrael;

35 With whom the LORD had made a covenant, and charged them, ſaying, Ye ſhall not fear other gods, nor bow yourſelves to them, nor ſerve them, nor ſacrifice to them;

36 But the LORD who brought you up out of the land of Egypt with great power and a ſtretched-out arm, him ſhall ye fear, and him ſhall ye worſhip, and to him ſhall ye do ſacrifice.

37 And the ſtatutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment which he wrote for you, ye ſhall obſerve to do for evermore; and ye ſhall not fear other gods.

38 And the covenant that I have made with you ye ſhall not forget; neither ſhall ye fear other gods.

39 But the LORD your God ye ſhall fear; and he ſhall deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.

40 Howbeit they did not hearken, but they did after their former manner.

41 So theſe nations feared the LORD, and ſerved the graven images, both their children, and their children's children: as did their fathers, ſo do they unto this day.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Hezekiah's good reign. 4 He deſtroyeth idolatry, and proſpereth. 9 Samaria is carried captive for their ſins.

NOW it came to paſs in the third year of Hoſhea ſon of Elah king of Iſrael, that Hezekiah the ſon of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign.

2 Twenty and five years old was he when he began to reign; and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jeruſalem. His mother's name alſo was Abi the daughter of Zechariah.

3 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that David his father did.

4 ¶ He removed the high-places, and brake the images, and cut down the groves, and brake in pieces the braſen ſerpent that Moſes had made: for unto thoſe days the children of Iſrael did burn incenſe to it: and he called it Nehuſhtan.

heaven, it is probable that the Syrians derived from thence the name of their god, who was repreſented by a large pillar, of a pyramidical form, the hieroglyphic of fire. Calmet.

31 Nibhaz and Tartak.] Some think one of theſe names ſignifies the ſun, and the other a chariot: and hence theſe two idols may, both together, denominate the ſun mounted on his car, as the poets often repreſented that bright luminary.

Burnt their children in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech.] Moloch, Milcom, and Melech, in the language of different nations, all ſignify a king, and imply the ſun, which was called the king of heaven: and therefore the addition of Adra, which ſignifies powerful, to the one, and of Anam, which implies to anſwer, to the other, means no more than the mighty, or the oracular Moloch. The children which were offered to him ſufficiently ſhews that he was the ſame with the Moloch of the Ammonites, or the Saturn of the Phœnicians. Calmet and Patrick.

41 So theſe nations feared the Lord, and ſerved their graven images.] i. e. They joined the worſhip of their own idols with that of God: in the ſame manner as the Iſraelites before them had blended the worſhip of the golden calves with that of the Holy One of Iſrael. Patrick.

Notes on the Eighteenth Chapter.

Ver. 2 Twenty and five years old was he when he began to reign.] It is before ſaid of Ahaz (chap. xvi. 2.) that he was but twenty years old when he began to reign, and that he reigned ſixteen. Now if his ſon Hezekiah was twenty-five years old at his father's death, it muſt follow, that his father, when he begat him, was only eleven years old, which ſeems incredible. But it muſt be remembered, that it is very common, both in ſacred and prophane authors, in the computation of time, to take no notice whether the year they mention be perfect or imperfect, whether finiſhed or but newly begun. Hence we may very naturally ſuppoſe, that Ahaz was near one and twenty years old when he began to reign, and near ſeven years older when he died: and, on the other hand, that Hezekiah, when he began to reign, was but juſt entered into his five and twentieth year, and by this means Ahaz might be near fourteen years old when he begat Hezekiah; which is no extraordinary thing, if the nature of the climate where he lived be conſidered. Bochart, &c.

4 He removed the high places.] i. e. The altars that were upon

5 He truſted in the LORD God of Iſrael; ſo that after him was none like him among all the kings of Judah, nor any that were before him.

6 For he clave to the LORD, and departed not from following him, but kept his commandments, which the LORD commanded Moſes.

7 And the LORD was with him; and he proſpered whitherſoever he went forth. And he rebelled againſt the king of Aſſyria, and ſerved him not.

8 He ſmote the Philiſtines, even unto Gaza, and the borders thereof, from the tower of the watchmen to the fenced city.

9 ¶ And it came to paſs in the fourth year of king Hezekiah, which was the ſeventh year of Hoſhea ſon of Elah king of Iſrael, that Shalmaneſer king of Aſſyria came up againſt Samaria, and beſieged it.

10 And at the end of three years they took it: even in the ſixth year of Hezekiah, that is, the ninth year of Hoſhea king of Iſrael, Samaria was taken.

11 And the king of Aſſyria did carry away Iſrael unto Aſſyria, and put them in Halah and in Habor by the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes:

12 Becauſe they obeyed not the voice of the LORD their God, but tranſgreſſed his covenant, and all that Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded, and would not hear them, nor do them.

13 Now in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah did Sennacherib king of Aſſyria come up againſt all the fenced cities of Judah, and took them.

14 And Hezekiah king of Judah ſent to the king of Aſſyria to Lachiſh, ſaying, I have offended; return from me: that which thou putteſt on me, I will bear. And the king of Aſſyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah three hundred talents of ſilver and thirty talents of gold.

15 And Hezekiah gave him all the ſilver that was found in the houſe of the LORD, and in the treaſures of the king's houſe.

16 At that time did Hezekiah cut off the gold from the doors of the temple of the LORD, and from the pillars which Hezekiah king of Judah had overlaid, and gave it to the king of Aſſyria.

17 And the king of Aſſyria ſent Tartan, and Rabſaris, and Rab-ſhakeh from Lachiſh to king Hezekiah, with a great hoſt againſt Jeruſalem. And they went up and came to Jeruſalem. And when they were come up, they came and ſtood by the conduit of the upper-pool, which is in the high-way of the fuller's field.

18 And when they had called to the king, there came out to them Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder.

19 And Rab-ſhakeh ſaid unto them, Speak ye now to Hezekiah, Thus ſaith the great king, the king of Aſſyria, What confidence is this wherein thou truſteſt?

20 Thou ſayeſt, (but they are but vain words,) I have counſel and ſtrength for the war. Now on whom doſt thou truſt, that thou rebelleſt againſt me?

the hills. He did not ſtay till he was firmly ſettled in his kingdom before he began a reformation in religion, though he muſt know that he run a great hazard in attempting to aboliſh idolatry, which had been confirmed by ſo many years preſcription.

Brake in pieces the braſen ſerpent that Moſes had made: for unto thoſe days the children of Iſrael did burn incenſe to it.] We muſt not ſuppoſe, that from the days of Moſes, the Iſraelites conſidered this braſen ſerpent as an object of religious worſhip; for neither David nor Solomon, nor Aſa nor Jehoſhaphat would have permitted it. It is more probable therefore, that in the general defection which happened after the reigns of theſe princes, the people either worſhipped the God of Iſrael under that image, or, what is worſe, ſubſtituted a heathen god in his room, and worſhipped the braſen ſerpent, as his image; which they might more eaſily be induced to do, becauſe the practice of ſome neighbouring nations was to worſhip God under the figure of a ſerpent. Upon this account Hezekiah choſe rather to deſtroy this memorial of God's wonderful mercy to his people in the wilderneſs, than to ſuffer it any longer to be abuſed to idolatry. Calmet.

He called it Nehuſhtan.] Which ſignifies, a thing of braſs; as if he had ſaid, It is ſurpriſing how any perſon could be ſo ſtupid to worſhip this ſerpent, or flatter himſelf that it had any power to ſave, when it is only common braſs!

14 Three hundred talents of ſilver, and thirty talents of gold.] Three hundred and fifty one thouſand pounds of our money. Prideaux.

17 Tartan, and Rabſaris, and Rab-ſhakeh, &c.] Theſe are not the proper names of the men, but denote their employment and offices. Tartan ſignifies the preſident of the counſel; Rabſaris the chief eunuch; and Rab-ſhakeh the principal cup-bearer. Le Clerc.

19, 20 And Rab-ſhakeh ſaid unto them, &c.] The Jews are of opinion, that Rab-ſhakeh, from his ſpeaking Hebrew ſo fluently, was either an apoſtate Jew, or one of the captivity of Iſrael.

21 Now behold, thou truſteſt upon the ſtaff of this bruiſed reed, even upon Egypt, on which if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: ſo is Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that truſt on him.

22 But if ye ſay unto me, We truſt in the LORD our God: is not that he whoſe high places, and whoſe altars Hezekiah hath taken away, and hath ſaid to Judah and Jeruſalem, Ye ſhall worſhip before this altar in Jeruſalem?

23 Now therefore, I pray thee, give pledges to my lord the king of Aſſyria, and I will deliver thee two thouſand horſes, if thou be able on thy part to ſet riders upon them.

24 How then wilt thou turn away the face of one captain of the leaſt of my maſter's ſervants, and put thy truſt on Egypt for chariots and for horſemen?

25 Am I now come up without the LORD againſt this place to deſtroy it? The LORD ſaid to me, Go up againſt this land, and deſtroy it.

26 Then ſaid Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, and Shebna, and Joah, unto Rab-ſhakeh, Speak, I pray thee, to thy ſervants in the Syrian language; for we underſtand it: and talk not with us in the Jews language, in the ears of the people that are on the wall.

27 But Rab-ſhakeh ſaid unto them, Hath my maſter ſent me to thy maſter, and to thee, to ſpeak theſe words? hath he not ſent me to the men which ſit on the wall, that they may eat their own dung and drink their own piſs with you?

28 Then Rab-ſhakeh ſtood, and cried with a loud voice in the Jews language, and ſpake, ſaying, Hear the word of the great king, the king of Aſſyria:

29 Thus ſaith the king, Let not Hezekiah deceive you: for he ſhall not be able to deliver you out of his hand:

30 Neither let Hezekiah make you truſt in the LORD, ſaying, The LORD will ſurely deliver us, and this city ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.

31 Hearken not unto Hezekiah. For thus ſaith the king of Aſſyria, Make an agreement with me by a preſent, and come out to me, and then eat ye every man of his own vine, and every one of his own fig-tree, and drink ye every one the waters of his own ciſtern:

32 Until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of oil-olive and honey, that ye may live and not die: and hearken not unto Hezekiah, when he perſuadeth you, ſaying, The LORD will deliver us.

33 Hath any of the gods of the nations delivered at all his land out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria?

34 Where are the gods of Hamath, and of Arpad? where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivah? have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?

35 Who are they among all the gods of the countries that have delivered their country out of mine hand, that the LORD ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of mine hand?

36 But the people held their peace, and anſwered him not a word. For the king's commandment was, ſaying, Anſwer him not.

37 Then came Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the recorder, to Hezekiah with their clothes rent, and told him the words of Rab-ſhakeh.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Hezekiah mourning, ſendeth to Iſaiah to pray for them. 6 He comforteth them. 8 Sennacherib ſendeth a blaſphemous letter to Hezekiah.

It is certain, that he was a very eloquent man, and his ſpeech excellently adapted to raiſe ſedition among the beſieged.

21 Now, behold, thou truſteſt upon the ſtaff of this bruiſed reed, even upon Egypt, &c.] This compariſon is excellently adapted to denote an ally, that is not only weak and unable to help, but alſo dangerous to thoſe who rely on him for ſuccour: and his repreſenting the power of Egypt to be as brittle as the reeds growing on the banks of the Nile, (for to theſe doubtleſs the Syrian author alludes) is a great beauty in the ſimilitude.

23 I will deliver thee two thouſand horſes, &c.] He ſeems to challenge him to come out and fight with his maſter; and if he could give ſecurity to make that uſe of them, he would furniſh him with two thouſand horſes, provided he was able to find the ſame number of men to mount them: a very inſolent ſpeech.

36 The king's commandment was, Anſwer him not.] A very wiſe and pious order. Hezekiah believed God would anſwer for himſelf, not by words, but in deeds. Patrick.

Notes

14 Hezekiah's prayer. 35 An angel ſlayeth the Aſſyrians. 36 Sennacherib is ſlain by his ſons.

AND it came to paſs when king Hezekiah heard it, that he rent his clothes, and covered himſelf with ſackcloth, and went into the houſe of the LORD.

2 And he ſent Eliakim, which was over the houſhold, and Shebna the ſcribe, and the elders of the prieſts, covered with ſackloth, to Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz.

3 And they ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Hezekiah, This day is a day of trouble and of rebuke and blaſphemy: for the children are come to the birth, and there is not ſtrength to bring forth.

4 It may be the LORD thy God will hear all the words of Rab-ſhakeh, whom the king of Aſſyria his maſter hath ſent to reproach the living God; and will reprove the words which the LORD thy God hath heard: wherefore lift up thy prayer for the remnant that are left.

5 So the ſervants of king Hezekiah came to Iſaiah.

6 ¶ And Iſaiah ſaid unto them, Thus ſhall ye ſay to your maſter, Thus ſaith the LORD, Be not afraid of the words which thou haſt heard, with which the ſervants of the king of Aſſyria have blaſphemed me.

7 Behold, I will ſend a blaſt upon him, and he ſhall hear a rumor, and ſhall return to his own land: and I will cauſe him to fall by the ſword in his own land.

8 ¶ So Rab-ſhakeh returned, and found the king of Aſſyria warring againſt Libnah: for he had heard that he was departed from Lachiſh.

9 And when he heard ſay of Tirhakah king of Ethiopia, Behold, he is come out to fight againſt thee: he ſent meſſengers again unto Hezekiah, ſaying,

10 Thus ſhall ye ſpeak to Hezekiah king of Judah, ſaying, Let not thy God in whom thou truſteſt deceive thee, ſaying, Jeruſalem ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the king of Aſſyria.

11 Behold, thou haſt heard what the kings of Aſſyria have done to all lands, by deſtroying them utterly: and ſhalt thou be delivered?

12 Have the gods of the nations delivered them which my fathers have deſtroyed; as Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Thelaſar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and Ivah?

14 ¶ And Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the meſſengers, and read it: and Hezekiah went up into the houſe of the LORD, and ſpread it before the LORD.

15 And Hezekiah prayed before the LORD, and ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, which dwelleſt between the cherubims, thou art the God, even thou alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; thou haſt made heaven and earth.

16 LORD, bow down thine ear, and hear: open, LORD, thine eyes, and ſee: and hear the words of Sennacherib, which hath ſent him to reproach the living God.

17 Of a truth, LORD, the kings of Aſſyria have deſtroyed the nations and their lands,

18 And have caſt their gods into the fire: for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and ſtone: therefore they have deſtroyed them.

19 Now therefore, O LORD our God, I beſeech thee, ſave thou us out of his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou art the LORD God, even thou only.

20 Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz ſent to Hezekiah, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, That which thou haſt prayed to me againſt Sennacherib king of Aſſyria I have heard.

21 This is the word that the LORD hath ſpoken concerning him, The virgin, the daugh-

23, 24 By thy meſſengers thou haſt reproached the Lord, and haſt ſaid, with the multitnde of my chariots am I come up to the height of the mountains, &c.] The prophet, in this anſwer to Hezekiah, has given us an admirable deſcription of the ridiculous vanity and oſtentation of a king, puffed up with great ſucceſs. As if he had ſaid; "What can reſiſt the force of my victorious "arms? Or where is the place that is inacceſſible to the "ſtrength and activity of my troops? CHAP. XX.

1 Hezekiah receiving a meſſage of death, by prayer hath his life lengthened. 8 The ſun goeth ten degrees backward for a ſign. 20 Manaſſes ſucceedeth Hezekiah.

IN thoſe days was Hezekiah ſick unto death. And the prophet Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz came to him, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Set thine houſe in order; for thou ſhalt die, and not live.

2 Then he turned his face to the wall, and prayed unto the LORD, ſaying,

3 I beſeech thee, O LORD, remember now how I have walked before thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy ſight. And Hezekiah wept ſore.

4 And it came to paſs afore Iſaiah was gone out into the middle court, that the word of the LORD came to him, ſaying,

5 Turn again, and tell Hezekiah the captain of my people, Thus ſaith the LORD, the God of David thy father, I have heard thy prayer, I have ſeen thy tears: behold, I will heal thee; on the third day thou ſhalt go up unto the houſe of the LORD.

6 And I will add unto thy days fifteen years: and I will deliver thee, and this city out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria; and I will defend this city for mine own ſake, and for my ſervant David's ſake.

7 And Iſaiah ſaid, Take a lump of figs. And they took, and laid it on the boil, and he recovered.

8 ¶ And Hezekiah ſaid unto Iſaiah, What ſhall be the ſign that the LORD will heal me, and that I ſhall go up into the houſe of the LORD the third day?

9 And Iſaiah ſaid, This ſign ſhalt thou have of the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he hath ſpoken: ſhall the ſhadow go forward ten degrees, or go back ten degrees?

10 And Hezekiah anſwered, It is a light thing for the ſhadow to go down ten degrees: nay, but let the ſhadow return backward ten degrees.

11 And Iſaiah the prophet cried unto the LORD: and he brought the ſhadow ten degrees backward, by which it had gone down in the dial of Ahaz.

Notes on the Twentieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 In thoſe days was Hezekiah ſick unto death.] Though the ſacred hiſtorian has placed this ſickneſs immediately after the defeat and death of Sennacherib, yet it is ſufficiently evident that it happened before that time; for God promiſes, in the meſſage he was pleaſed to ſend him by the prophet Iſaiah, that he would deliver Jeruſalem out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria, ver. 6. Nor will it be difficult to determine the year when this ſickneſs happened: Hezekiah reigned in all nine and twenty years, 2 Kings, xviii. 2: he had reigned fourteen years when Sennacherib invaded him, 2 Kings, xviii. 13; and after his ſickneſs he reigned fifteen years, 2 Kings, xx. 6. Conſequently this ſickneſs happened in the very ſame year that the king of Aſſyria invaded Judea; but the ſacred penman thought proper to defer the account of it till he had finiſhed the hiſtory of Sennacherib, that he might not break the thread of the narrative. Calmet.

2 He turned his face towards the wall.] i. e. From his attendants, that the fervency of his devotion might be leſs obſerved.

3 Hezekiah wept ſore.] Being as yet childleſs, he ſaw the royal family of David extinct, and all hopes of the Meſſiah's being born of his race, abortive; he ſaw the impending ſtorm that threatened his country with deſolation, and as there was none of his family to ſucceed him, all things in danger of falling into confuſion: this diſmal proſpect melted him into tears, as it ſeemed to extinguiſh all his hopes, and conſummate all his fears.

7 Take a lump of figs.] A roaſted fig, with ſome white ſugar powdered, is now uſed as a ſuppurative to a plague-boil at Conſtantinople. Phil. Tranſ. vol. XLVII. p. 387.

11 He brought the ſhadow ten degrees backward, &c.] The generality of interpreters have ſuppoſed that the ſun actually went backward, but had that been the caſe, it muſt have been perceived all over the world, which certainly it was not. The prophet here does not mean that the ſun went backward, but only the rays of the ſun: the words may be thus naturally rendered, The beams of the ſun (being miraculouſly inflected)

12 At that time Berodach-baladan the ſon of Baladan, king of Babylon, ſent letters and a preſent unto Hezekiah: for he had heard that Hezekiah had been ſick.

13 And Hezekiah hearkened unto them, and ſhewed them all the houſe of his precious things, the ſilver, and the gold, and the ſpices, and the precious ointment, and all the houſe of his armour, and all that was found in his treaſures: there was nothing in his houſe, nor in all his dominion, that Hezekiah ſhewed them not.

14 Then came Iſaiah the prophet unto king Hezekiah, and ſaid unto him, What ſaid theſe men? and from whence came they unto thee? And Hezekiah ſaid, They are come from a far country, even from Babylon.

15 And he ſaid, What have they ſeen in thine houſe? And Hezekiah anſwered, All the things that are in mine houſe have they ſeen: there is nothing among my treaſures that I have not ſhewed them.

16 And Iſaiah ſaid unto Hezekiah, Hear the word of the LORD.

17 Behold, the days come, that all that is in thine houſe, and that which thy fathers have laid up in ſtore unto this day, ſhall be carried into Babylon: nothing ſhall be left, ſaith the LORD.

18 And of thy ſons that ſhall iſſue from thee which thou ſhalt beget, ſhall they take away; and they ſhall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 Then ſaid Hezekiah unto Iſaiah, Good is the word of the LORD which thou haſt ſpoken. And he ſaid, Is it not good, if peace and truth be in my days?

20 ¶ And the reſt of the acts of Hezekiah, and all his might, and how he made a pool, and a conduit, and brought water into the city, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

21 And Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers: and Manaſſeh his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Manaſſeh's reign. 3 His great idolatry. 19 Amon's wicked reign. 23 He being ſlain, Joſiah is made king.

MAnaſſeh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and reigned fifty and five years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Hephzi-bah.

2 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD after the abominations of the heathen whom the LORD caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

3 ¶ For he built up again the high places which Hezekiah his father had deſtroyed; and he reared up altars for Baal, and made a grove, as did Ahab king of Iſrael; and worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved them.

4 And he built altars in the houſe of the LORD, of which the LORD ſaid, in Jeruſalem will I put my name.

5 And he built altars for all the hoſt of heaven in the two courts of the houſe of the LORD.

6 And he made his ſons paſs through the fire, and obſerved times and uſed inchantments, and dealt with familiar ſpirits, and wizards: he wrought much wickedneſs in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he ſet a graven image of the grove that he had made, in the houſe of which the LORD cauſed the ſhadow to go back over ten of the degrees, or ſteps, which it had paſſed upon Ahaz's dial, or flight of ſteps. For to ſuppoſe, that the whole fabrick of the univerſe went back, or that even the earth alone did ſo, is unneceſſary, becauſe the buſineſs was not to lengthen the day, as in Joſhua, but only to put the ſhadow back ſo many degrees. Beſides, the original word does not ſignify a dial, but ſteps or ſtairs, and ſo the LXX render it, agreeably with Joſephus: for the gnomon dial is not ſuppoſed to have been invented till about 200 years after Hezekiah. See Univerſal Hiſtory, vol IV. p. 165, note S.

16 Hear the word of the Lord.] Hezekiah's offence ſeems to lay, not ſo much in the oſtentation of his military ſtores and treaſures, as in not giving due glory to God for ſo ſignal a miracle, and his recovery thereupon. Calmet.

19 Good is the word of the Lord which thou haſt ſpoken, &c.] The words in the original are to this effect: What thou haſt told me from God is good; I willingly ſubmit to it. But ſhall peace and truth continue for my time? God is juſt in all his ways: but do theſe threats relate to me, or to my poſterity only? Happy for me, if he will ſuſpend the execution of his wrath during the ſmall portion of time I have to live. Calmet.

Notes on the Twenty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 3 Made a grove.] i. e. An oratory.

4 He built altars in the houſe of the Lord.] In the ſanctuary itſelf: the outward courts are mentioned in the next verſe.

7 He ſet a graven image of the grove that he had made.] i. e. He ſet up the graven image of the oratory in the houſe of the Lord.

ſaid to David, and to Solomon his ſon, In this houſe, and in Jeruſalem which I have choſen out of all tribes of Iſrael, will I put my name for ever.

8 Neither will I make the feet of Iſrael move any more out of the land which I gave their fathers; only if they will obſerve to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my ſervant Moſes commanded them.

9 But they hearkened not: and Manaſſeh ſeduced them to do more evil than did the nations whom the LORD deſtroyed before the children of Iſrael.

10 And the LORD ſpake by his ſervants the prophets, ſaying,

11 Becauſe Maneſſah king of Judah hath done theſe abominations, and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites did, which were before him, and hath made Judah alſo to ſin with his idols:

12 Therefore thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Behold, I am bringing ſuch evil upon Jeruſalem and Judah, that whoſoever heareth of it, both his ears ſhall tingle.

13 And I will ſtretch over Jeruſalem the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the houſe of Ahab: and I will wipe Jeruſalem as a man wipeth a diſh, wiping it, and turning it upſide down.

14 And I will forſake the remnant of mine inheritance, and deliver them into the hand of their enemies; and they ſhall become a prey and a ſpoil to all their enemies;

15 Becauſe they have done that which was evil in my ſight, and have provoked me to anger ſince the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt, even unto this day.

16 Moreover, Manaſſeh ſhed innocent blood very much, till he had filled Jeruſalem from one end to another: beſide his ſin wherewith he made Judah to ſin, in doing that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD.

17 Now the reſt of the acts of Manaſſeh, and all that he did, and his ſin that he ſinned, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

18 And Manaſſeh ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the garden of his own houſe, in the garden of Uzza: and Amon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

19 ¶ Amon was twenty and two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Meſhullemeth the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.

20 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, as his father Manaſſeh did.

21 And he walked in all the way that his father walked in, and ſerved the idols that his father ſerved, and worſhipped them:

22 And he forſook the LORD God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the LORD.

23 ¶ And the ſervants of Amon conſpired againſt him, and ſlew the king in his own houſe.

24 And the people of the land ſlew all them that had conſpired againſt king Amon; and the people of the land made Joſiah his ſon king in his ſtead.

25 Now the reſt of the acts of Amon which he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

---

13 I will ſtretch over Jeruſalem the line of Samaria.] This metaphor is taken from thoſe who uſe a line in laying out the lots of ſeveral perſons, and ſignifies that Jeruſalem ſhould ſuffer the ſame fate as Samaria had done; be viſited with famine, deſtroyed by the ſword, and its inhabitants carried into captivity. Patrick.

The plummet of the houſe of Ahab.] As they had imitated his ſin, ſo they ſhould ſhare in his puniſhment, whoſe houſe was utterly deſtroyed. Patrick.

I will wipe Jeruſalem as a man wipeth a diſh, &c,] I will take away all its inhabitants, as a diſh is freed from its contents, by wiping and turning it upſide down. Patrick.

16 Moreover, Manaſſeh ſhed innocent blood, &c.] He put to death the prophets, and all thoſe who oppoſed his impiety; among whom was the prophet Iſaiah, whom he cauſed to be ſawn aſunder with a wooden ſaw, to make his torments more exquiſite. Calmet,

18 Manaſſeh---was buried in the garden of his own houſe.] This garden is generally ſuppoſed to be the place where Azariah, who died a leper, was buried; and that Manaſſeh choſe to be buried there, as unworthy to be laid in the ſepulchres of the kings of Judah. His miſerable captivity, repentance, and reformation, are only mentioned in 2 Chron. xxxiii. 11, &c.

22 He forſook the Lord God of his fathers.] The moſt abominable wickedneſs and licentiouſneſs had overſpread the land: among the princes, judges and magiſtrates, reigned injuſtice, oppreſſion, cruelty, and all manner of debauchery; among the prieſts, pride, avarice, and a ſhameful traffic of religion; among the people, ignorance and impiety; altars reared every where to Baal, and the whole hoſt of heaven, and the very ſanctuary polluted by the filthy idol of the groves. Univerſal Hiſtory, vol. IV. p. 173.

26 And he was buried in his ſepulchre, in the garden of Uzza: and Joſiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Joſiah's good reign. 3 He taketh care for the repair of the temple. 8 Hilkiah findeth the book of the law. 15 Huldah propheſieth the deſtruction of Jeruſalem.

JOſiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty and one years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Jedidah the daughter of Adaiah of Boſcath.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, and walked in all the way of David his father, and turned not aſide to the right hand or to the left.

3 ¶ And it came to paſs in the eighteenth year of king Joſiah, that the king ſent Shaphan the ſon of Azaliah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſcribe, to the houſe of the LORD, ſaying,

4 Go up to Hilkiah the high prieſt, that he may ſum the ſilver which is brought into the houſe of the LORD, which the keepers of the door have gathered of the people.

5 And let them deliver it into the hand of the doers of the work, that have the overſight of the houſe of the LORD: and let them give it to the doers of the work, which is in the houſe of the LORD, to repair the breaches of the houſe,

6 Unto carpenters, and builders, and maſons, and to buy timber and hewn ſtone to repair the houſe.

7 Howbeit, there was no reckoning made with them of the money that was delivered into their hand, becauſe they dealt faithfully.

8 ¶ And Hilkiah the high prieſt ſaid unto Shaphan the ſcribe, I have found the book of the law in the houſe of the LORD. And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it.

9 And Shaphan the ſcribe came to the king, and brought the king word again, and ſaid, Thy ſervants have gathered the money that was found in the houſe, and have delivered it into the hand of them that do the work, that have the overſight of the houſe of the LORD.

10 And Shaphan the ſcribe ſhewed the king, ſaying, Hilkiah the prieſt hath delivered me a book. And Shaphan read it before the king.

11 And it came to paſs, when the king had heard the words of the book of the law, that he rent his clothes.

12 And the king commanded Hilkiah the prieſt, and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, and Achbor the ſon of Michaiah, and Shaphan the ſcribe, and Aſahiah a ſervant of the king's, ſaying,

13 Go ye, enquire of the LORD for me, and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning the words of this book that is found; for great is the wrath of the LORD that is kindled againſt us, becauſe our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according unto all that which is written concerning us.

14 So Hilkiah the prieſt, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Aſahiah, went unto Huldah the propheteſs, the wife of Shallum the ſon of Tikvah, the ſon of Harhas, keeper of the wardrobe. Now ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem in the college. And they communed with her.

15 ¶ And ſhe ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Tell the man that ſent you to me,

16 Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read.

17 Becauſe they have forſaken me, and have burned incenſe unto other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 8 I have found the book of the law in the houſe of the Lord.] This was probably the original book of the law written by Moſes himſelf, and by God's command, laid up in the moſt holy place. The Jews tell us, that Manaſſeh had blotted the name of Jehovah out of all the copies he could find: Hilkiah therefore rejoiced that he had found the original, by which all the reſt might be corrected. Patrick.

14 Huldah the propheteſs.] This is the only mention we have of this propheteſs, though ſhe was doubtleſs an excellent woman, by the king's conſulting her on this occaſion, when both Jeremiah and Zephaniah were prophets in Judah: though probably they were not then near at hand. Patrick.

of their hands; therefore my wrath ſhall be kindled againſt this place, and ſhall not be quenched.

18 But to the king of Judah, which ſent you to enquire of the LORD, thus ſhall ye ſay to him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, As touching the words which thou haſt heard;

19 Becauſe thine heart was tender, and thou haſt humbled thy ſelf before the LORD, when thou heardeſt what I ſpake againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants thereof, that they ſhould become a deſolation and a curſe, and haſt rent thy clothes, and wept before me; I alſo have heard thee, ſaith the LORD.

20 Behold therefore, I will gather thee unto thy fathers, and thou ſhalt be gathered into thy grave in peace: and thine eyes ſhall not ſee all the evil which I will bring upon this place. And they brought the king word again.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Joſiah cauſeth the book of the law to be read. 3 He reneweth the covenant of the Lord, 4 and deſtroyeth idolatry.

AND the king ſent, and they gathered unto him all the elders of Judah, and of Jeruſalem.

2 And the king went up into the houſe of the LORD, and all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem with him, and the prieſts, and the prophets, and all the people both ſmall and great: and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant which was found in the houſe of the LORD.

3 ¶ And the king ſtood by a pillar, and made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his commandments and his teſtimonies and his ſtatutes, with all their heart and all their ſoul, to perform the words of this covenant that were written in this book. And all the people ſtood to the covenant.

4 ¶ And the king commanded Hilkiah the high prieſt, and the prieſts of the ſecond order, and the keepers of the door, to bring forth out of the temple of the LORD all the veſſels that were made for Baal, and for the grove, and for all the hoſt of heaven. And he burned them without Jeruſalem, in the fields of Kidron, and carried the aſhes of them unto Beth-el.

5 And he put down the idolatrous prieſts, whom the kings of Judah had ordained to burn incenſe in the high places, in the cities of Judah, and in the places round about Jeruſalem, them alſo that burned incenſe unto Baal, to the ſun, and to the moon, and to the planets, and to all the hoſt of heaven.

6 And he brought out the grove from the houſe of the LORD, without Jeruſalem, unto the brook Kidron, and burned it at the brook Kidron, and ſtamped it ſmall to powder, and caſt the powder thereof upon the graves of the children of the people.

7 And he brake down the houſes of the ſodomites that were by the houſe of the LORD, where the women wove hangings for the grove.

8 And he brought all the prieſts out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the prieſts had burned incenſe, from Geba to Beer-ſheba, and brake down the high places of the gates that were in the entering-in of the gate of Joſhua the governor of the city, which were on a man's left hand at the gate of the city.

9 Nevertheleſs, the prieſts of the high places came not up to the altar of the LORD in Jeruſalem, but they did eat of the unleavened bread among their brethren.

10 And he defiled Topheth, which is in the valley of the children of Hinnom, that no man might make his ſon or his daughter to paſs through the fire to Moloch.

20 Behold, I will gather thee to thy fathers.] A ſtrange promiſe, had it meant no more but, Thou ſhalt lie down with thy fathers, or thou ſhalt die: but certainly here is a twofold bleſſing, viz. that his ſoul ſhould be gathered to the ſouls of his pious anceſtors, and his earthly part ſhould likewiſe be joined to theirs, and laid in the ſepulchres of the kings of Judah. Peters on Job.

Notes on the Twenty-third Chapter.

Ver. 5 Them alſo that burnt incenſe unto Baal, to the ſun, &c.] It ſhould be, unto Baal the ſun; for the words in the Hebrew, Baal the ſun, have no copulative vau betwixt them, whereas it is prefixed to all the reſt. Winder's Hiſtory of Knowledge.

6 He brought out the grove from the houſe of the Lord.] i. e. He brought out Aſhtoreth, or the image of the grove.

8 Brake down the high places of the gates, &c.] i. e. Altars, probably erected there to offer incenſe to thoſe titular gods, to whom their idolatrous kings had committed the care of the city.

11 And he took away the horſes that the kings of Judah had given to the ſun, at the entering-in of the houſe of the LORD, by the chamber of Nathan-melech the chamberlain, which was in the ſuburbs, and burned the chariots of the ſun with fire.

12 And the altars that were on the top of the upper chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made, and the altars which Manaſſeh had made in the two courts of the houſe of the LORD, did the king beat down, and brake them down from thence, and caſt the duſt of them into the brook Kidron.

13 And the high places that were before Jeruſalem, which were on the right hand of the mount of corruption, which Solomon the king of Iſrael had builded for Aſhtoreth the abomination of the Zidonians, and for Chemoſh the abomination of the Moabites, and for Milcom the abomination of the children of Ammon, did the king defile.

14 And he brake in pieces the images, and cut down the groves, and filled their places with the bones of men.

15 Moreover, the altar that was at Beth-el, and the high place which Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who made Iſrael to ſin, had made, both that altar and the high place he brake down, and burned the high place, and ſtamped it ſmall to powder, and burned the grove.

16 And as Joſiah turned himſelf, he ſpied the ſepulchres that were in the mount, and ſent and took the bones out of the ſepulchre, and burned them upon the altar, and polluted it, according to the word of the LORD which the man of God proclaimed, who proclaimed theſe words.

17 Then he ſaid, What title is that that I ſee? And the men of the city told him, It is the ſepulchre of the man of God which came from Judah, and proclaimed theſe things that thou haſt done againſt the altar of Beth-el.

18 And he ſaid, Let him alone, let no man move his bones. So they let his bones alone, with the bones of the prophet that came out of Samaria.

19 And all the houſes alſo of the high places that were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Iſrael had made to provoke the LORD to anger, Joſiah took away, and did to them according to all the acts that he had done in Beth-el.

20 And he ſlew all the prieſts of the high places that were there, upon the altars, and burned men's bones upon them, and returned to Jeruſalem.

21 And the king commanded all the people, ſaying, Keep the paſs-over unto the LORD your God, as it is written in the book of this covenant.

22 Surely there was not holden ſuch a paſs-over, from the days of the judges that judged Iſrael, nor in all the days of the kings of Iſrael, nor of the kings of Judah;

23 But in the eighteenth year of king Joſiah, wherein this paſs-over was holden to the LORD in Jeruſalem.

24 Moreover, the workers with familiar ſpirits, and the wizards, and the images, and the idols, and all the abominations that were ſpied in the land of Judah and in Jeruſalem, did Joſiah put away, that he might perform the words of the law which were written in the book that Hilkiah the prieſt found in the houſe of the LORD.

11 He took away the horſes that the kings of Judah had given to the ſun, &c.] It is certain, that all the people of the Eaſt worſhipped the ſun, and conſecrated horſes to it, becauſe they were nimble and ſwift in their courſe. The ancients had a notion that the ſun itſelf was carried about in a chariot; and therefore chariots, as well as horſes, were dedicated to it: for in them the king and his great officers went out every morning at the eaſt-gate of the city, to ſalute and adore the ſun at his coming above the horizon. Bochart.

13 Mount of corruption.] The mount of Olives, but called the Mount of Corruption, from the idols that were placed there, and which corrupted the people from their religion.

Which Solomon the king of Iſrael had builded, &c.] It is not doubted but the idolatrous temples built by Solomon, had been demoliſhed by ſuch religious kings as Aſa, Jehoſhaphat, and Hezekiah, but rebuilt by their impious ſucceſſors.

16 According to the word of the Lord, &c.] Theſe tranſactions were foretold by the man of God from Judah, three hundred and ſixty years before they happened. See 1 Kings, xiii. 2. In the Septuagint are ſeveral words in this place which are not in the Hebrew, which ſeem genuine, and probably were in the copy from whence the LXX made their verſion; I ſhall here include them in a parentheſis---According to the word of the Lord, which the man of God proclaimed (when Jeroboam ſtood, on the feaſt, by the altar. And he turned, and lifted up his eyes to the ſepulchre of the man of God) who proclaimed theſe words.

22 There was not holden ſuch a paſſover, from the days of the judges, &c.] i. e. The ceremonies of this feaſt were more ſtrictly obſerved now, than they had ever been ſince the days of Samuel, it being held according to the antient form preſcribed in the authentic book of the law, lately found by Hilkiah.

25 And like unto him was there no king before him, that turned to the LORD with all his heart, and with all his ſoul, and with all his might, according to all the law of Moſes; neither after him aroſe there any like him.

26 Notwithſtanding, the LORD turned not from the fierceneſs of his great wrath, wherewith his anger was kindled againſt Judah, becauſe of all the provocations that Manaſſeh had provoked him withal.

27 And the LORD ſaid, I will remove Judah alſo out of my ſight, as I have removed Iſrael, and will caſt off this city Jeruſalem, which I have choſen, and the houſe of which I ſaid, My name ſhall be there.

28 Now the reſt of the acts of Joſiah, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

29 In his days Pharaoh-nechoh king of Egypt went up againſt the king of Aſſyria to the river Euphrates: and king Joſiah went againſt him; and he ſlew him at Megiddo, when he had ſeen him.

30 And his ſervants carried him in a chariot dead from Megiddo, and brought him to Jeruſalem, and buried him in his own ſepulchre. And the people of the land took Jehoahaz the ſon of Joſiah, and anointed him, and made him king in his father's ſtead.

31 Jehoahaz was twenty and three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

32 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.

33 And Pharaoh-nechoh put him in bands at Riblah, in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jeruſalem, and put the land to a tribute of an hundred talents of ſilver, and a talent of gold.

34 And Pharaoh-nechoh made Eliakim the ſon of Joſiah king in the room of Joſiah his father, and turned his name to Jehoiakim, and took Jehoahaz away: and he came to Egypt, and died there.

35 And Jehoiakim gave the ſilver and the gold to Pharaoh; but he taxed the land to give the money according to the commandment of Pharaoh; he exacted the ſilver and the gold of the people of the land, of every one according to his taxation, to give it unto Pharaoh-nechoh.

36 Jehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign; and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Zebudah the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah.

37 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Jehoiakim rebelling, procureth his own ruin. 10 Jeruſalem is taken. 17 Zedekiah's evil reign.

IN his days Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up, and Jehoiakim became his ſervant three years: then he turned and rebelled againſt him.

2 And the LORD ſent againſt him bands of the Chaldees, and bands of the Syrians, and bands of the Moabites, and bands of the children of Ammon, and ſent them againſt Judah to deſtroy it; according to the word of the LORD, which he ſpake by his ſervants the prophets.

3 Surely at the commandment of the LORD

26 The Lord turned not from the fierceneſs of his great wrath, &c.] All the virtues of Joſiah, his great care and indefatigable induſtry to extirpate idolatry, were not ſufficient to obtain a revocation of the ſentence God had pronounced againſt Judah, for their abominable tranſgreſſions. It ſeems, that though the people complied with the preſent reformation, yet it proceeded principally from a fear of incurring the king's diſpleaſure, or of feeling the ſeverity of his juſtice. Their hearts were not right towards God, as appears from the writings of the prophets who lived in theſe times; and therefore God had no reaſon to reverſe his decree. Calmet and Le Clerc.

34 He took Jehoahaz away, and he came to Egypt, and died there.] Thus the prophecy of Jeremiah was literally fulfilled: Weep ye not for the dead, (i. e. for Joſiah) neither bemoan him, but weep ſore for him that goeth away: for he ſhall return no more, nor ſee his native country, &c. but he ſhall die in the place whither they have led him captive, Jer. xxii. 10, 11, 12. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-fourth Chapter.

Ver. 3 At the commandment of the Lord came this upon Judah, &c.] Manaſſeh had ſo corrupted the whole body of the people, that all Joſiah's pains to reform them were of no effect: accordingly we find, that, immediately upon his death, his ſon relapſed into the old idolatry. Patrick.

came this upon Judah, to remove them out of his ſight, for the ſins of Manaſſeh, according to all that he did;

4 And alſo for the innocent blood that he ſhed: for he filled Jeruſalem with innocent blood; which the LORD would not pardon.

5 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoiakim, and all that he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah?

6 So Jehoiakim ſlept with his fathers; and Jehoachin his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

7 And the king of Egypt came not again any more out of his land: for the king of Babylon had taken from the river of Egypt unto the river Euphrates all that pertained to the king of Egypt.

8 Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jeruſalem three months. And his mother's name was Nehuſhta the daughter of Elnathan of Jeruſalem.

9 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.

10 ¶ At that time the ſervants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up againſt Jeruſalem, and the city was beſieged.

11 And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came againſt the city, and his ſervants did beſiege it.

12 And Jehoachin the king of Judah went out to the king of Babylon, he, and his mother, and his ſervants, and his princes, and his officers: and the king of Babylon took him in the eighth year of his reign.

13 And he carried out thence all the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the king's houſe, and cut in pieces all the veſſels of gold which Solomon king of Iſrael had made in the temple of the LORD, as the LORD had ſaid.

14 And he carried away all Jeruſalem, and all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, even ten thouſand captives, and all the craftſmen, and ſmiths: none remained, ſave the pooreſt ſort of the people of the land.

15 And he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon, and the king's mother, and the king's wives, and his officers, and the mighty of the land, thoſe carried he into captivity from Jeruſalem to Babylon.

16 And all the men of might, even ſeven thouſand, and craftſmen and ſmiths a thouſand, all that were ſtrong and apt for war, even them the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon.

17 ¶ And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah his father's brother king in his ſtead, and changed his name to Zedekiah.

18 Zedekiah was twenty and one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah.

19 And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done.

20 For through the anger of the LORD it came to paſs in Jeruſalem and Judah, until he had caſt them out from his preſence, that Zedekiah rebelled againſt the king of Babylon.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Jeruſalem is beſieged; 4 Zedekiah taken, his ſons ſlain, and his eyes put out.

AND it came to paſs in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came, he, and all his hoſt, againſt Jeruſalem, and pitched againſt it: and they built forts againſt it round about.

2 And the city was beſieged unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

3 And on the ninth day of the fourth month,

8 Jehoiachin was eighteen years old, when he began to reign.] 2 Chron. xxxvi. 9, it is ſaid he was only eight years old. But if we conſider that it was very common for kings to make their ſons aſſociates in the kingdom, the difference is eaſily reconciled, by ſuppoſing that, when his father had reigned one year, he took him to reign in conjunction with him when he was only eight years old: ſo that the book of Chronicles computes from the time he began to reign with his father, and the book of Kings from the time he began to reign alone. But perhaps, after all, the tranſcriber of the book of Chronicles has committed an error, by writing eight for eighteen years. Patrick.

13 Cut in pieces all the veſſels of gold which Solomon, &c.] i. e. He carried them with him to Babylon, or cut them off from the temple; for theſe veſſels were preſerved entire, and not cut to pieces, as appears from Dan. v. 2.

the famine prevailed in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land.

4 ¶ And the city was broken up, and all the men of war fled by night, by the way of the gate, between two walls, which is by the king's garden; now the Chaldees were against the city round about, and the king went the way toward the plain.

5 And the army of the Chaldees purſued after the king, and overtook him in the plains of Jericho: and all his army were ſcattered from him.

6 So they took the king, and brought him up to the king of Babylon to Riblah; and they gave judgment upon him.

7 And they ſlew the ſons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him with fetters of braſs, and carried him to Babylon.

8 And in the fifth month, on the ſeventh day of the month, which is the nineteenth year of king Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, came Nebuzaradan captain of the guard, a ſervant of the king of Babylon, unto Jeruſalem:

9 And he burned the houſe of the LORD, and the king's houſe, and all the houſes of Jeruſalem, and every great man's houſe burned he with fire.

10 And all the army of the Chaldees, that were with the captain of the guard, brake down the walls of Jeruſalem round about.

11 Now the reſt of the people that were left in the city, and the fugitives that fell away to the king of Babylon, with the remnant of the multitude, did Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carry away.

12 But the captain of the guard left of the poor of the land to be vine-dreſſers and huſbandmen.

13 And the pillars of braſs that were in the houſe of the LORD, and the baſes, and the braſen ſea that was in the houſe of the LORD, did the Chaldees brake in pieces, and carried the braſs of them to Babylon.

14 And the pots, and the ſhovels, and the ſnuffers, and the ſpoons, and all the veſſels of braſs wherewith they miniſtred, took they away.

15 And the fire-pans, and the bowls, and ſuch things as were of gold, in gold, and of ſilver, in ſilver, the captain of the guard took away.

16 The two pillars, one ſea, and the baſes which Solomon had made for the houſe of the LORD; the braſs of all theſe veſſels was without weight.

17 The height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, and the chapiter upon it was braſs: and the height of the chapiter three cubits; and the wreathen-work, and pomegranates upon the chapiter round about, all of braſs: and like unto theſe had the ſecond pillar with wreathen-work.

18 And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief prieſt, and Zephaniah the ſecond prieſt, and the three keepers of the door.

19 And out of the city he took an officer that was ſet over the men of war, and five men of them that were in the king's preſence, which were found in the city, and the principal ſcribe of the hoſt, which muſtered the people of the land, and threeſcore men of the people of the land that were found in the city.

20 And Nebuzar-adan captain of the guard took theſe, and brought them to the king of Babylon to Riblah.

21 And the king of Babylon ſmote them, and ſlew them at Riblah in the land of Hamath.

Notes on the Twenty-fifth Chapter.

Ver. 4 All the men of war fled by night, by the way of the gate, between two walls.] In Jeremiah it is thus expreſſed; They went by the way of the king's garden, by the gate between the two walls: ſo that as the king's garden faced the country, probably there was ſome private gate through which they eſcaped.

7 And put out the eyes of Zedekiah---and carried him to Babylon.] Thus the two famous prophecies of Ezekiel and Jeremiah, which ſeemed to contradict each other, were both fulfilled. I will bring him to Babylon to the lord of the Chaldeans, yet ſhall he not ſee it, though he die there, Ezek. xii. 13. He ſhall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon, and ſhall ſpeak to him mouth to mouth, and his eyes ſhall behold his eyes, Jerem. xxxii. 4. For Zedekiah was carried to Riblah, where he ſaw the king of Babylon, and ſpoke to him, and ſaw his children executed; but had afterwards his eyes put out, and was then carried to Babylon, where he was incapable of ſeeing the city.

9 He burnt the houſe of the Lord.] Thus was the celebrated temple built by Solomon laid in aſhes, after it had ſtood four hundred and twenty-four years three months and eight days, according to Uſher's computation.

21 So Judah was carried away.] 468 years after the beginning of the reign of David; 388 years from the diviſion of the ten tribes from Judah and Benjamin, and 134 ſince the deſtruction of the ten tribes according to Uſher's account.

math. So Judah was carried away out of their land.

22 And as for the people that remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left, even over them he made Gedaliah the ſon of Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan ruler.

23 And when all the captains of the armies, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedaliah governor, there came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, even Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, and Johanan the ſon of Careah, and Seraiah the ſon of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah the ſon of a Maachathite, they and their men.

24 And Gedaliah ſware to them, and to their men, and ſaid unto them, Fear not to be the ſervants of the Chaldees: dwell in the land, and ſerve the king of Babylon, and it ſhall be well with you.

25 But it came to paſs in the ſeventh month, that Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, the ſon of Eliſhama, of the ſeed royal, came, and ten men with him, and ſmote Gedaliah that he died, and the Jews and the Chaldees that were with him at Mizpah.

26 And all the people both ſmall and great, and the captains of the armies, aroſe, and came to Egypt: for they were afraid of the Chaldees.

27 And it came to paſs in the ſeven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the ſeven and twentieth day of the month, that Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, did lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah out of priſon;

28 And he ſpake kindly to him, and ſet his throne above the throne of the kings that were with him in Babylon.

29 And changed his priſon-garments: and he did eat bread continually before him all the days of his life.

30 And his allowance was a continual allowance given him of the king, a daily rate for every day, all the days of his life.

THE

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES.

THE ARGUMENT.

Ezra is generally ſuppoſed to have been the author of the two books of Chronicles: becauſe the book of Ezra begins with the ſame words wherewith theſe books end. They were written after the Babyloniſh captivity, and in the reign of Cyrus, mention being made of that prince in the laſt chapter of the ſecond book. They are a ſort of abridgement of all the ſacred hiſtory, from Adam to the return of the Jews from captivity, extracted from thoſe books of the Bible which are ſtill extant, and from other annals now loſt. In almoſt every chapter we meet with tranſactions omitted in the book of Kings, and many particulars relating to the goſpel explained.—This firſt book goes down as far as the death of king David.

CHAP. I.

1 Adam's line to Noah. 5 The ſons of Japheth. 8 The ſons of Ham. 17 The ſons of Shem. 24 Shem's line to Abraham. 29 Iſhmael's ſons. 32 The ſons of Keturah. 34 The poſterity of Abraham by Eſau.

ADAM, Sheth, Enoſh,
2 Kenan, Mahalaleel, Jered,
3 Henoch, Methuſelah, Lamech,
4 Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

5 ¶ The ſons of Japheth; Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meſhech, and Tiras.

6 And the ſons of Gomer; Aſhchenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah.

7 And the ſons of Javan; Eliſhah, and Tarſhiſh, Kittim, and Dodanim.

8 ¶ The ſons of Ham; Cuſh, and Mizraim, Put, and Canaan.

9 And the ſons of Cuſh; Seba, and Havilah, and Sabta, and Raamah, and Sabtecha. And the ſons of Raamah; Sheba and Dedan.

10 And Cuſh begat Nimrod. He began to be mighty upon the earth.

11 And Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim, 12 And Pathruſim, and Caſluhim, (of whom came the Philiſtines,) and Caphthorim.

13 And Canaan begat Zidon his firſt born, and Heth,

14 The Jebuſite alſo, and the Amorite, and the Girgaſhite.

15 And the Hivite, and the Archite, and the Sinite,

16 And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite.

17 ¶ The ſons of Shem; Elam, and Aſhur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram, and Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and Meſhech.

Notes on the Firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 Adam, Seth, Enoſh.] He mentions only their names briefly, but the meaning is, Adam begat Seth, Seth Enos, and ſo on. In this chapter we have a compendious account of the poſterity of Adam to Noah; the poſterity of Noah by Japheth, Ham, and Shem, to Abraham, the father of the faithful: and an account of the children of Abraham by Hagar, Keturah, and Sarah, from whom the Iſraelites ſprung, and of whoſe ſeed, in the fulneſs of time, was born the great Meſſiah.

17 Uz and Hul, and Gether, and Meſhech.] Theſe were not the ſons, but the grandſons of Shem, by Aram his youngeſt ſon, as appears from Gen. x. 22. But the ſcripture generally calls grandſons by the name of ſons. Thus Laban is called the ſon of Nahor, though he was only his grandſon by Bethuel, Gen. xxix. 5.

18 And Arphaxad begat Shelah, and Shelah begat Eber.

19 And unto Eber were born two ſons: the name of the one was Peleg; becauſe in his days the earth was divided: and his brother's name was Joktan.

20 And Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah, 21 Hadoram alſo, and Uzal, and Diklah,

22 And Ebal, and Abimael, and Sheba.

23 And Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab. All theſe were the ſons of Joktan.

24 ¶ Shem, Arphaxad, Shelah,

25 Eber, Pelug, Reu,

26 Serug, Nahor, Terah,

27 Abram; the ſame is Abraham.

28 The ſons of Abraham; Iſaac, and Iſhmael.

29 ¶ Theſe are their generations, The firſt-born of Iſhmael, Nebajoth; then Kedar, Adbeel, and Mibſam,

30 Miſhma, and Duma, Maſſa, Hadad, and Tema,

31 Jetur, Naphiſh, and Kedemah. Theſe are the ſons of Iſhmael.

32 ¶ Now the ſons of Keturah, Abraham's concubine: ſhe bare Zimran, and Jokſhan, and Medan, and Midian, and Iſhbak, and Shuah. And the ſons of Jokſhan; Sheba, and Dedan.

33 And the ſons of Midian; Ephah, and Epher, and Henoch, and Abida, and Eldaah. All theſe are the ſons of Keturah.

34 ¶ And Abraham begat Iſaac. The ſons of Iſaac; Eſau and Iſrael.

35 The ſons of Eſau; Eliphaz, Reuel, and Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah.

36 The ſons of Eliphaz; Teman, and Omar, Zephi, and Gatam, Kenaz, and Timna, and Amalek.

37 The [ſons of Reuel; Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah.

38 And the ſons of Seir; Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah, and Diſhon, and Ezar, and Diſhan.

39 And the ſons of Lotan; Hori, and Homam: and Timna was Lotan's ſiſter.

40 The ſons of Shobal; Alian, and Manahath, and Ebal, Shephi, and Onam. And the ſons of Zibeon; Ajah, and Anah.

41 The ſons of Anah; Diſhon. And the ſons of Diſhon; Amram, and Eſhban, and Ithran, and Cheran.

42 The ſons of Ezer; Bilhan, and Zavan, and Jakan. The ſons of Diſhan; Uz, and Aran.

43 Now theſe are the kings that reigned in the land of Edom before any king reigned over the children of Iſrael; Bela the ſon of Beor: and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

44 And when Bela was dead, Jobab the ſon of Zerah of Bozrah, reigned in his ſtead.

45 And when Jobab was dead, Huſham of the land of the Temanites, reigned in his ſtead.

46 And when Huſham was dead, Hadad the ſon of Bedad, which ſmote Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his city was Avith.

47 And when Hadad was dead, Samlah of Maſrekah, reigned in his ſtead.

48 And when Samlah was dead, Shaul of Rehoboth by the river, reigned in his ſtead.

49 And when Shaul was dead, Baal-hanan the ſon of Achbor, reigned in his ſtead.

50 And when Baal-hanan was dead, Hadad reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his city was Pai; and his wife's name was Mehetabel the daughter of Matred the daughter of Mezahab.

51 Hadad died alſo. And the dukes of Edom were; duke Timna, duke Aliah, duke Jetheth, 52 Duke Aholibamah, duke Elah, duke Pinon.

53 Duke Kenaz, duke Teman, duke Mibzar,

54 Duke Magdiel, duke Iram. Theſe are the dukes of Edom.

CHAP. II.

1 The ſons of Iſrael. 3 The poſterity of Judah. 13 The children of Jeſſe. 18 Caleb's poſterity. 21 Hezron's poſterity. 25 Jerahmeel's poſterity.

36 Timnah and Amalek.] Timnah was the concubine (not the ſon) of Eliphaz, and the mother (not the brother) of Amalek. The Arabic verſion and the Alexandrian copy of the Greek have the true reading; Timnah, which was the concubine of Eliphaz, bare him Amalek. Kennicott.

38 The ſons of Seir; Lotan, and Shobal, &c.] Seir was the ancient lord of the country of Seir, from whom it had its name.

THESE are the ſons of Iſrael; Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Iſſachar, and Zebulun,

2 Dan, Joſeph, and Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad, and Aſher.

3 ¶ The ſons of Judah; Er, and Onan, and Shelah: which three were born unto him of the daughter of Shua the Canaaniteſs. And Er, the firſt-born of Judah, was evil in the ſight of the LORD; and he ſlew him.

4 And Tamar his daughter-in-law bare him Pharez and Zerah. All the ſons of Judah were five.

5 The ſons of Pharez; Hezron, and Hamul.

6 And the ſons of Zerah; Zimri, and Ethan, and Heman, and Calcol, and Dara; five of them in all.

7 And the ſons of Carmi; Achar, the troubler of Iſrael, who tranſgreſſed in the thing accurſed.

8 And the ſons of Ethan; Azariah.

9 The ſons alſo of Hezron, that were born unto him; Jerahmeel, and Ram, and Chelubai.

10 And Ram begat Amminadab; and Amminadab begat Nahſhon, prince of the children of Judah;

11 And Nahſhon begat Salma, and Salma begat Boaz,

12 And Boaz begat Obed, and Obed begat Jeſſe.

13 ¶ And Jeſſe begat his firſt-born Eliab, and Abinadab the ſecond, and Shimma the third,

14 Nethaneel the fourth, Raddai the fifth,

15 Ozem the ſixth, David the ſeventh:

16 Whoſe ſiſters were Zeruiah, and Abigail. And the ſons of Zeruiah: Abiſhai, and Joab, and Aſahel, three.

17 And Abigail bare Amaſa: and the father of Amaſa was Jether the Iſhmeelite.

18 ¶ And Caleb the ſon of Hezron begat children of Azubah his wife, and of Jerioth: her ſons are theſe; Jeſher, and Shobab, and Ardon.

19 And when Azubah was dead, Caleb took unto him Ephrath, which bare him Hur.

20 And Hur begat Uri, and Uri begat Bezaleel.

21 ¶ And afterward Hezron went into the daughter of Machir the father of Gilead, whom he married when he was threeſcore years old; and ſhe bare him Segub.

22 And Segub begat Jair, who had three and twenty cities in the land of Gilead.

23 And he took Geſhur, and Aram, with the towns of Jair, from them, with Kenath and the towns thereof, even threeſcore cities. All theſe belonged to the ſons of Machir, the father of Gilead.

24 And after that Hezron was dead in Caleb-ephratah, then Abiah Hezron's wife bare him Aſher the father of Tekoa.

25 ¶ And the ſons of Jerahmeel the firſt-born of Hezron were, Ram the firſt-born, and Bunah, and Oren, and Ozem, and Ahijah.

26 Jerahmeel had alſo another wife, whoſe name was Atarah; ſhe was the mother of Onam.

27 And the ſons of Ram the firſt-born of Jerahmeel were, Maaz, and Jamin, and Eker.

28 And the ſons of Onam were, Shammai, and Jada. And the ſons of Shammai; Nadab, and Abiſhur.

29 And the name of the wife of Abiſhur was Abihail, and ſhe bare him Ahban, and Molid.

30 And the ſons of Nadab; Seled, and Appaim. But Seled died without children.

31 And the ſons of Appaim; Iſhi. And the ſons of Iſhi; Sheſhan. And the children of Sheſhan; Ahlai.

32 And the ſons of Jada the brother of Shamma; Jether and Jonathan. And Jether died without children.

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 3 The ſons of Judah.] The reaſon why Judah is here placed firſt is, becauſe the Saviour of the world was to ſpring from that tribe, according to the celebrated prophecy of Jacob: The ſceptre ſhall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh come, Gen. xlix. 10.

7 Achar, the troubler of Iſrael.] His true name was Achan, Joſh. vii. but is here called Achar, which ſignifies troubler; becauſe of the ſin he committed in the accurſed thing, and brought wrath upon the whole congregation. Patrick.

18 Caleb begat children of Azubah his wife, and of Jerioth.] The Hebrew expreſſes no more than Caleb begat Azubah wife and Jerioth, the other four words *children of—his---of---*being inſerted to make out the ſenſe; but the Syriac and Arabic verſions ſeem to have preſerved the true reading, which is this, Caleb begat Jerioth by Azubah his wife.

33 And the ſons of Jonathan; Peleth, and Zazai. Theſe were the ſons of Jerahmeel.

34 Now Sheſhan had no ſons, but daughters. And Sheſhan had a ſervant, an Egyptian, whoſe name was Jarha.

35 And Sheſhan gave his daughter to Jarha his ſervant to wife; and ſhe bare him Attai.

36 And Attai begat Nathan, and Nathan begat Zabad,

37 And Zabad begat Ephlal, and Ephlal begat Obed,

38 And Obed begat Jehu, and Jehu begat Azariah.

39 And Azariah begat Helez, and Helez begat Eleaſah,

40 And Eleaſah begat Siſamai, and Siſamai begat Shallum,

41 And Shallum begat Jekamiah, and Jekamiah begat Eliſhama.

42 Now the ſons of Caleb the brother of Jerahmeel were, Meſha his firſt-born, which was the father of Ziph; and the ſons of Mareſhah the father of Hebron.

43 And the ſons of Hebron: Korah, and Tappuah, and Rekem, and Shema.

44 And Shema begat Raham, the father of Jorkoam: and Rekem begat Shammai.

45 And the ſon of Shammai was Maon: and Maon was the father of Beth-zur.

46 And Ephah Caleb's concubine bare Haran, and Moza, and Gazez: and Haran begat Gazez.

47 And the ſons of Jahdi; Regem, and Jotham and Geſhan, and Pelet, and Ephah, and Shaaph.

48 Maachah Caleb's concubine bare Sheber, and Tirhanah.

49 She bare alſo Shaaph the father of Madmannah, Sheva the father of Machbenah, and the father of Gibea: and the daughter of Caleb was Achſa.

50 Theſe were the ſons of Caleb the ſon of Hur, the firſt-born of Ephratah; Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim, 51 Salma the father of Beth-lehem, Hareph the father of Beth-gader.

52 And Shobal the father of Kirjath-jearim had ſons; Haroeh, and half of the Manahethites.

53 And the families of Kirjath-jearim; the Ithrites, and the Puhites, and the Shumathites, and the Miſhraites; of them came the Zareathites, and the Eſhtaulites.

54 The ſons of Salma; Beth-lehem, and the Netophathites, Ataroth, the houſe of Joab, and half of the Manahethites, the Zorites.

55 And the families of the ſcribes which dwelt at Jabez; the Tirathites, the Shimeathites, and Suchathites: theſe are the Kenites that came of Hemath, the father of the houſe of Rechab.

CHAP. III.

1 The ſons of David. 10 His line to Zedekiah. 17 The ſucceſſors of Jeconiah.

NOW theſe were the ſons of David which were born unto him in Hebron; the firſt-born Amnon, of Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs; the ſecond Daniel, of Abigail the Carmeliteſs:

2 The third, Abſalom the ſon of Maachah the daughter of Talmai king of Geſhur: the fourth, Adonijah the ſon of Haggith:

3 The fifth, Shephatiah of Abital; the ſixth, Ithream by Eglah his wife.

4 Theſe ſix were born unto him in Hebron; and there he reigned ſeven years and ſix months: and in Jeruſalem he reigned thirty and three years.

5 And theſe were born unto him in Jeruſalem; Shimea, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon, four, of Bath-ſhua the daughter of Ammiel:

6 Ibhar alſo, and Eliſhama, and Eliphelet,

7 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

8 And Eliſhama, and Eliada, and Eliphelet, nine.

49 The father of Gibea.] i. e. The founder, or ruler of Gibea, a city in the tribe of Judah; it being a common expreſſion to call the founder of a city, the father of it.

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 3 Eglah his wife.] The Jews are of opinion that this was Michal, the daughter of Saul, becauſe ſhe was his only legal wife; the others he took according to the cuſtom then reigning among the Iſraelites. Patrick.

8 Eliſhama---Eliphelet.] Theſe words ſeem to be an interpolation, being before mentioned at the 6th verſe.

Notes

9 These were all the ſons of David beſide the ſons of the concubines, and Tamar their ſiſter.

10 ¶ And Solomon's ſon was Rehoboam, Abia his ſon, Aſa his ſon, Jehoſhaphat his ſon,

11 Joram his ſon, Ahaziah his ſon, Joaſh his ſon,

12 Amaziah his ſon, Azariah his ſon, Jotham his ſon,

13 Ahaz his ſon, Hezekiah his ſon, Manaſſeh his ſon,

14 Amon his ſon, Joſiah his ſon.

15 And the ſons of Joſiah were the firſt born Johanan, the ſecond Jehoiakim, the third Zedekiah, the fourth Shallum.

16 And the ſons of Jehoiakim, Jeconiah his ſon, Zedekiah his ſon.

17 ¶ And the ſons of Jeconiah; Aſſir, Salathiel his ſon,

18 Malchirim alſo, and Pedaiah, and Shenazar, Jecamiah, Hoſhama, and Nedabiah.

19 And the ſons of Pedaiah were, Zerubbabel, and Shimei: and the ſons of Zerubbabel; Meſhullum, and Hananiah, and Shelomith their ſiſter:

20 And Haſhubah, and Ohel, and Berechiah, and Haſadiah, Juſhab-heſed, five.

21 And the ſons of Hananiah; Pelatiah, and Jeſaiah: the ſons of Rephaiah, the ſons of Arnan, the ſons of Obadiah, the ſons of Shechaniah.

22 And the ſons of Shechaniah; Shemaiah: and the ſons of Shemaiah; Hatuſh, and Igeal, and Bariah, and Neariah, and Shaphat, ſix.

23 And the ſons of Neariah; Elioenai, and Hezekiah, and Azrikam, three.

24 And the ſons of Elioenai were, Hodaiah, and Eliaſhib, and Pelaiah, and Akkub, and Johanan, and Dalaiah, and Anani, ſeven.

CHAP. IV.

1, 11 The poſterity of Judah by Caleb the ſon of Hur. 5 Of Aſhur the poſthumous ſon of Hezron. 9 Of Jabez, and his prayer. 21 The poſterity of Shelah, 24 and of Simeon. 39 Their conqueſt of Gedor, &c.

THE ſons of Judah: Pharez, Hezron, and Carmi, and Hur, and Shobal.

2 And Reaiah the ſon of Shobal begat Jahath; and Jahath begat Ahumai, and Lahad. Theſe are the families of the Zorathites.

3 And theſe were of the father of Etam; Jezreel, and Iſhma, and Idbaſh: and the name of their ſiſter was Hazeleponi.

4 And Penuel the father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Huſhah. Theſe are the ſons of Hur, the firſt-born of Ephratah, the father of Beth-lehem.

5 ¶ And Aſhur the father of Tekoa had two wives, Helah and Naarah.

6 And Naarah bare him Ahuzam, and Hepher, and Temeni, and Haahaſhtari. Theſe were the ſons of Naarah.

7 And the ſons of Helah were Zereth, and Jezoar, and Ethnan.

8 And Coz begat Anub, and Zobebah, and the families of Aharhel, the ſon of Harum.

9 ¶ And Jabez was more honourable than his brethren: and his mother called his name Jabez, ſaying, Becauſe I bare him with ſorrow.

10 And Jabez called on the God of Iſrael, ſaying, Oh that thou wouldeſt bleſs me indeed, and enlarge my coaſt, and that thine hand might be with me, and that thou wouldeſt keep me from evil, that it may not grieve me. And God granted him that which he requeſted.

11 ¶ And Chelub the brother of Shuah begat Mehir, which was the father of Eſhton.

12 And Eſhton begat Beth-rapha, and Paſeah, and Tehinnah the father of Ir-nahaſh: theſe are the men of Rechah.

13 And the ſons of Kenaz; Othniel, and Seraiah: and the ſons of Othniel: Hathath.

14 And Meonothai begat Ophrah: and Seraiah begat Joab the father of the valley of Charaſhim; for they were craftſmen.

15 And the ſons of Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh: Iru, Elah, and Naam: and the ſons of Elah, even Kenaz.

16 And the ſons of Jehaleleel; Ziph, and Ziphah, Tiria, and Aſareel.

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 3 Theſe were of the father of Etam.] This is the verſion of the Hebrew: the original MSS have it ſons, inſtead of father, agreeably to all the antient verſions.

18 Bithaiah,

17 And the ſons of Ezra were, Jether, and Mered, and Epher, and Jalon: and ſhe bare Miriam, and Shammai, and Iſhbah the father of Eſhtemoa.

18 And his wife Jehudijah bare Jered the father of Gedor, and Heber the father of Socho, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah. And theſe are the ſons of Bithiah the daughter of Pharaoh, which Mered took.

19 And the ſons of his wife Hodiah, the ſiſter of Naham, the father of Keilah the Garmite, and Eſhtemoa the Maachathite.

20 And the ſons of Shimon were, Amnon, and Rinnah, Ben-hanan, and Tilon. And the ſons of Iſhi, were, Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth.

21 ¶ The ſons of Shelah the ſon of Judah were, Er the father of Lechah, and Laadah the father of Mareſhah, and the familes of the houſe of them that wrought fine linnen, of the houſe of Aſhbea, 22 And Jokim, and the men of Chozeba, and Joaſh, and Saraph, who had the dominion in Moab, and Jaſhubi-lehem. And theſe are ancient things.

23 Theſe were the potters, and thoſe that dwelt amongſt plants and hedges: there they dwelt with the king for his work.

24 ¶ The ſons of Simeon were Nemuel, and Jamin, Jarib, Zerah and Shaul;

25 Shallum his ſon, Mibſam his ſon, Miſhma his ſon.

26 And the ſons of Miſhma; Hamuel his ſon, Zachur his ſon, Shimei his ſon.

27 And Shimei had ſixteen ſons and ſix daughters; but his brethren had not many children, neither did all their family multiply, like to the children of Judah.

28 And they dwelt at Beer-ſheba, and Moladah, and Hazar-ſhual,

29 And at Bilhah, and at Ezem, and at Tolad,

30 And at Bethuel, and at Hormah, and at Ziklag,

31 And at Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-ſuſim, and at Beth-birei, and at Shaaraim: theſe were their cities, unto the reign of David.

32 And their villages were, Etam, and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen, and Aſhan, five cities, 33 And all their villages that were round about the ſame cities, unto Baal. Theſe were their habitations, and their genealogy.

34 And Meſhobab, and Jamlech, and Joſhah, the ſon of Amaziah,

35 And Joel, and Jehu the ſon of Joſibiah, the ſon of Seraiah, the ſon of Aſiel,

36 And Elioenai, and Jaakobah, and Jeſhohaiah, and Aſaiah, and Adiel, and Jeſimiel, and Benaiah,

37 And Ziza the ſon of Shiphi, the ſon of Allon, the ſon of Jedaiah, the ſon of Shimri, the ſon of Shemaiah.

38 Theſe mentioned by their names, were princes in their families: and the houſe of their fathers increaſed greatly.

39 ¶ And they went to the entrance of Gedor, even unto the eaſt-ſide of the valley, to ſeek paſture for their flocks.

40 And they found fat paſture and good, and the land was wide, and quiet, and peaceable; for they of Ham had dwelt there of old.

41 And theſe written by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and ſmote their tents, and the habitations that were found there, and deſtroyed them utterly unto this day, and dwelt in their rooms; becauſe there was paſture there for their flocks.

42 And ſome of them, even of the ſons of Simeon, five hundred men, went to mount Seir, having for their captains Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Rephaiah, and Uzziel, the ſons of Iſhi.

43 And they ſmote the reſt of the Amalekites, that were eſcaped, and dwelt there unto this day.

CHAP. V.

1 The line, and habitations of Reuben. 11 The chief men, and habitations of Gad.

18 Bithaiah, the daughter of Pharaoh.] Not the king of Egypt, but ſome Iſraelite called by that name. Patrick.

24 The ſons of Simeon.] The Samaritan text, and the Hebrew of Gen. xlvi. 16. agree in ſaying, that the ſons of Simeon were, Jemuel, and Jamin, and Ohad, and Jachin, and Zohar, and Shaul, &c. which is therefore the moſt probable reading. Pilk.

31 Theſe were their cities, &c.] i. e. They dwelt in theſe cities when David aſcended the throne of Iſrael.

NOW the ſons of Reuben the firſt-born of Iſrael, (for he was the firſt-born; but foraſmuch as he defiled his father's bed, his birth-right was given unto the ſons of Joſeph the ſon of Iſrael: and the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birth-right.

2 For Judah prevailed above his brethren, and of him came the chief ruler; but the birth-right was Joſeph's:)

3 The ſons, I ſay, of Reuben the firſt-born of Iſrael were, Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.

4 The ſons of Joel; Shemaiah his ſon, Gog his ſon, Shimei his ſon,

5 Micha his ſon, Reaia his ſon, Baal his ſon,

6 Beerah his ſon, whom Tilgath-pilneſer king of Aſſyria carried away captive. He was prince of the Reubenites.

7 And his brethren by their families, when the genealogy of their generations was reckoned, were the chief, Jeiel, and Zechariah,

8 And Bela the ſon of Azaz, the ſon of Shema, the ſon of Joel, who dwelt in Aroer, even unto Nebo, and Baal-meon.

9 And eaſtward he inhabited unto the entering-in of the wilderneſs from the river Euphrates: becauſe their cattle were multiplied in the land of Gilead.

10 And in the days of Saul they made war with the Hagarites, who fell by their hand: and they dwelt in their tents throughout all the eaſt-land of Gilead.

11 ¶ And the children of Gad dwelt over-againſt them, in the land of Baſhan unto Salcah;

12 Joel the chief, and Shapham the next, and Jaanai, and Shaphat in Baſhan.

13 And their brethren of the houſe of their fathers were, Michael, and Meſhullam, and Sheba, and Jorai, and Jachan, and Zia, and Heber, ſeven.

14 Theſe are the children of Abihail the ſon of Huri, the ſon of Jaroah, the ſon of Gilead, the ſon of Michael, the ſon of Jeſhiſhai, the ſon of Jahdo, the ſon of Buz;

15 Ahi the ſon of Abdiel, the ſon of Guni, chief of the houſe of their fathers.

16 And they dwelt in Gilead in Baſhan, and in her towns, and in all the ſuburbs of Sharon, upon their borders.

17 All theſe were reckoned by genealogies in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam king of Iſrael.

18 The ſons of Reuben, and the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh, of valiant men, men able to bear buckler and ſword, and to ſhoot with bow, and ſkilful in war, were four and forty thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore, that went out to the war.

19 And they made war with the Hagarites, with Jetur, and Nephiſh, and Nodab.

20 And they were helped againſt them, and the Hagarites were delivered into their hand, and all that were with them: for they cried to God in the battle, and he was intreated of them; becauſe they put their truſt in him.

21 And they took away their cattle; of their camels fifty thouſand and of ſheep two hundred and fifty thouſand, and of aſſes two thouſand, and of men an hundred thouſand.

22 For there fell down many ſlain, becauſe the war was of God. And they dwelt in their ſteads until the captivity.

23 And the children of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh dwelt in the land: they increaſed from Baſhan unto Baal-hermon and Senir, and unto mount Hermon.

24 And theſe were the heads of the houſe of their fathers, even Epher, and Iſhi, and Eliel, and Azriel, and Jeremiah, and Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, mighty men of valour, famous men, and heads of the houſe of their fathers.

25 And they tranſgreſſed againſt the God of

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 2 Of him came the chief ruler.] By the chief ruler is here meant, firſt, David, and after him the Meſſiah.

6 Tilgath-pilneſer.] He is called Tiglath-pileſer, 2 Kings, xv. 29. and the Greek, Syriac, and Arabic verſions confirm this reading.

16 In all the ſuburbs of Sharon.] The country of Sharon abounded with excellent paſtures, and produced the moſt generous wines. There were two Sharons; one in the eaſt, inhabited by the Gadites, the other in the weſt, not far from the famous city of Joppa, Acts ix. 35.

19 They made war with the Hagarites, with Jetur, &c.] Theſe were different tribes of Iſhmaelites, being all deſcended from Iſhmael, the ſon of Hagar.

25 They tranſgreſſed againſt the God of their fathers.] Probably they were the firſt that worſhipped the gods of the heathens, therefore God delivered them firſt into the hand of their enemies, who carried them captive into a ſtrange land. Patrick.

their fathers, and went a whoring after the gods of the people of the land, whom God deſtroyed before them.

26 And the God of Iſrael ſtirred up the ſpirit of Pul king of Aſſyria, and the ſpirit of Tilgath-pilneſer king of Aſſyria, and he carried them away, even the Reubenites and the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, and brought them unto Halah, and Habor, and Hara, and to the river Gozan, unto this day.

CHAP. VI.

1 The ſons of Levi; 4 The line of the prieſts. 49 The office of Aaron, and his line.

THE ſons of Levi; Gerſhon, Kohath, and Merari.

2 And the ſons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel.

3 And the children of Amram; Aaron, and Moſes, and Miriam. The ſons alſo of Aaron; Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

4 ¶ Eleazar begat Phinehas, Phinehas begat Abiſhua,

5 And Abiſhua begat Bukki, and Bukki, begat Uzzi,

6 And Uzzi begat Zerahiah, and Zerahiah begat Meraioth,

7 Meraioth begat Amariah, and Amariah begat Ahitub,

8 And Ahitub begat Zadok, and Zadok begat Ahimaaz,

9 And Ahimaaz begat Azariah, and Azariah begat Johanan,

10 And Johanan begat Azariah, (he it is that executed the prieſt's office, in the temple that Solomon built in Jeruſalem:)

11 And Azariah begat Amariah, and Amariah begat Ahitub,

12 And Ahitub begat Zadok, and Zadok begat Shallum,

13 And Shallum begat Hilkiah, and Hilkiah begat Azariah,

14 And Azariah begat Seraiah, and Seraiah begat Jehozadak,

15 And Jehozadak went into captivity, when the LORD carried away Judah and Jeruſalem by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.

16 The ſons of Levi; Gerſhom, Kohath, and Merari.

17 And theſe be the names of the ſons of Gerſhom; Libni, and Shimei.

18 And the ſons of Kohath were, Amram, and Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel.

19 The ſons of Merari; Mahli, and Muſhi. And theſe are the families of the Levites according to their fathers.

20 Of Gerſhom; Libni his ſon, Jahath his ſon, Zimmah his ſon,

21 Joah his ſon, Iddo his ſon, Zerah his ſon, Jeaterai his ſon,

22 The ſons of Kohath; Amminadab his ſon, Korah his ſon, Aſſir his ſon,

23 Elkanah his ſon, and Ebiaſaph his ſon, and Aſſir his ſon,

24 Tahath his ſon, Uriel his ſon, Uzziah his ſon, and Shaul his ſon.

25 And the ſons of Elkanah; Amaſai, and Ahimoth,

26 As for Elkanah: the ſons of Elkanah; Zophai his ſon, and Nahath his ſon, 27 Eliab his ſon, Jeroham his ſon, Elkanah his ſon.

28 And the ſons of Samuel; the firſt-born Vaſhni, and Abiah.

29 The ſons of Merari; Mahli, Libni his ſon, Shimei his ſon, Uzza his ſon, 30 Shimea his ſon, Haggiah his ſon, Aſaiah his ſon.

31 And theſe are they whom David ſet over the ſervice of ſong in the houſe of the LORD, after that the ark had reſt.

32 And they miniſtered before the dwelling-place of the tabernacle of the congregation with ſinging, until Solomon had built the houſe of the LORD in Jeruſalem: and then they waited on their office according to their order.

33 And theſe are they that waited with their children. Of the ſons of the Kohathites;

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 14 Seraiah begat Jehozadak.] Seraiah was carried to Riblah by the Babyloniſh army, and there put to death by order of Nebuchadnezzar; ſo that in him ended the ſucceſſion of high-prieſts under the firſt temple, and their number from Zadok amounted to twelve. Patrick.

28 The firſt-born Vaſhni, and Abiah.] The Syriac and Arabic verſions have from a perfect copy rightly rendered the words, The firſt-born Joel, and the ſecond Abiah; agreeable to 1 Sam. viii. 2.

Heman a ſinger, the ſon of Joel, the ſon of Shemuel,

34 The ſon of Elkanah, the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Eliel, the ſon of Toah,

35 The ſon of Zuph, the ſon of Elkanah, the ſon of Mahath, the ſon of Amaſai,

36 The ſon of Elkanah, the ſon of Joel, the ſon of Azariah, the ſon of Zephaniah,

37 The ſon of Tahath, the ſon of Aſſir, the ſon of Ebiaſaph, the ſon of Korah, 38 The ſon of Izhar, the ſon of Kohath, the ſon of Levi, the ſon of Iſrael.

39 And his brother Aſaph, who ſtood on his right hand, even Aſaph the ſon of Berachiah, the ſon of Shimea,

40 The ſon of Michael, the ſon of Baaſeiah, the ſon of Malchiah,

41 The ſon of Ethni, the ſon of Zerah, the ſon of Adaiah,

42 The ſon of Ethan, the ſon of Zimmah, the ſon of Shimei,

43 The ſon of Jahath, the ſon of Gerſhom, the ſon of Levi.

44 And their brethren the ſons of Merari, ſtood on the left hand: Ethan the ſon of Kiſhi, the ſon of Abdi, the ſon of Malluch,

45 The ſon of Haſhabiah, the ſon of Amaziah, the ſon of Hilkiah,

46 The ſon of Amzi, the ſon of Bani, the ſon of Shamer,

47 The ſon of Mahli, the ſon of Muſhi, the ſon of Merari, the ſon of Levi.

48 Their brethren alſo the Levites were appointed unto all manner of ſervice of the tabernacle of the houſe of God.

49 ¶ But Aaron and his ſons offered upon the altar of the burnt-offering, and on the altar of incenſe, and were appointed for all the work of the place moſt holy, and to make an atonement for Iſrael according to all that Moſes the ſervant of God had commanded.

50 And theſe are the ſons of Aaron; Eleazar his ſon, Phinehas his ſon, Abiſhua his ſon,

51 Bukki his ſon, Uzzi his ſon, Zeraiah his ſon,

52 Meraioth his ſon, Amariah his ſon, Ahitub his ſon,

53 Zadok his ſon, Ahimaaz his ſon.

54 ¶ Now theſe are their dwelling-places throughout their caſtles in their coaſts of the ſons of Aaron, of the families of the Kohathites: for theirs was the lot.

55 And they gave them Hebron in the land of Judah, and the ſuburbs thereof round about it.

56 But the fields of the city and the villages thereof they gave to Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh.

57 And to the ſons of Aaron they gave the cities of Judah, namely, Hebron, the city of refuge, and Libnah with her ſuburbs, and Jattir, and Eſhtemoa, with their ſuburbs.

58 And Hilen with her ſuburbs, Debir with her ſuburbs.

59 And Aſhan with her ſuburbs, and Bethſhemeſh with her ſuburbs:

60 And out of the tribe of Benjamin: Geba with her ſuburbs, and Alemeth with her ſuburbs, and Anathoth with her ſuburbs. All their cities throughout their families were thirteen cities.

61 And unto the ſons of Kohath, which were left of the family of that tribe, were cities given out of the half-tribe, namely, out of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, by lot, ten cities.

62 And to the ſons of Gerſhom throughout their families were given out of the tribe of Iſſachar, and out of the tribe of Aſher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the tribe of Manaſſeh in Baſhan, thirteen cities.

63 Unto the ſons of Merari were given by lot, throughout their families, out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

64 And the children of Iſrael gave to the Levites theſe cities with their ſuburbs.

65 And they gave by lot out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, and out of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, theſe cities, which are called by their names.

43 The ſon of Gerſhom.] We have an account of the poſterity of Levi by his ſon Gerſhom twice given; ſee ver. 17, &c. but with great variation.

57 They gave the cities of Judah.] The ſenſe abſolutely diſallows the word Judah; it is alſo rejected in its parallel place: ſee Joſhua xxi. 13. Kennicott.

66 And the reſidue of the families of the ſons of Kohath had cities of their coaſts out of the tribe of Ephraim.

67 And they gave unto them, of the cities of refuge, Shechem in mount Ephraim with her ſuburbs; they gave alſo Gezer with her ſuburbs,

68 And Jokmeam with her ſuburbs, and Beth-horon with her ſuburbs,

69 And Aijalon with her ſuburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her ſuburbs:

70 And out of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh; Aner with her ſuburbs, and Bileam with her ſuburbs, for the family of the remnant of the ſons of Kohath.

71 Unto the ſons of Gerſhom were given out of the family of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, Golan in Baſhan with her ſuburbs, and Aſhtaroth with her ſuburbs:

72 And out of the tribe of Iſſachar; Kedeſh with her ſuburbs, Daberath with her ſuburbs,

73 And Ramoth with her ſuburbs, and Anem with her ſuburbs:

74 And out of the tribe of Aſher; Maſhal with her ſuburbs, and Abdon with her ſuburbs,

75 And Hukok with her ſuburbs, and Rehob with her ſuburbs:

76 And out of the tribe of Naphtali; Kedeſh in Galilee with her ſuburbs, and Hammon with her ſuburbs, and Kirjath-aim with her ſuburbs.

77 Unto the reſt of the children of Merari were given out of the tribe of Zebulun, Rimmon with her ſuburbs, Tabor with her ſuburbs:

78 And on the other ſide Jordan by Jericho, on the eaſt-ſide of Jordan, were given them out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer in the wilderneſs with her ſuburbs, and Jahzah with her ſuburbs,

79 Kedemoth alſo with her ſuburbs, and Mephaath with her ſuburbs:

80 And out of the tribe of Gad; Ramoth in Gilead with her ſuburbs, and Mahanaim with her ſuburbs, 81 And Heſhbon with her ſuburbs, and Jazer with her ſuburbs.

CHAP. VII.

1 The ſons of Iſſachar, 6 of Benjamin, 13 of Naphtali, 14 of Manaſſeh, 20 and Ephraim.

NOW the ſons of Iſſachar were, Tola, and Puah, and Jaſhab, and Shimron, four.

2 And the ſons of Tola; Uzzi, and Rephaiah, and Jeriel, and Jahmai, and Jibſam, and Shemuel, heads of their father's houſe, to wit, of Tola: they were valiant men of might in their generations; whoſe number was in the days of David two and twenty thouſand and ſix hundred.

3 And the ſons of Uzzi; Izrahiah: and the ſons of Izrahiah; Michael, and Obadiah, and Joel, Iſhiah, five: all of them chief men.

4 And with them, by their generations, after the houſe of their fathers, were bands of ſoldiers for war, ſix and thirty thouſand men: for they had many wives and ſons.

5 And their brethren among all the families of Iſſachar were valiant men of might, reckoned in all by their genealogies fourſcore and ſeven thouſand.

6 ¶ The ſons of Benjamin; Bela, and Becher, and Jediael, three.

7 And the ſons of Bela; Ezbon, and Uzzi, and Uzziel, and Jerimoth, and Iri, five; heads of the houſe of their fathers, mighty men of valour; and were reckoned by their genealogies twenty and two thouſand and thirty and four.

8 And the ſons of Becher; Zemira, and Joaſh, and Eliezer, and Elioenai, and Omri, and Jerimoth, and Abiah, and Anathoth, and Alameth. All theſe are the ſons of Becher.

9 And the number of them, after their genealogy by their generations, heads of the houſe of their fathers, mighty men of valour, was twenty thouſand and two hundred.

10 The ſons alſo of Jediael; Bilhan: and the ſons of Bilhan; Jeuſh, and Benjamin, and 70 Bileam with her ſuburbs.] This place is called Ibleam in the book of Joſhua: but length of time made great alterations in the names of places and things, as will appear by ſeveral other places mentioned in theſe chapters. Patrick.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 4 They had many wives and ſons.] They were very fruitful and propagated the more, becauſe they had many wives, who bare them many ſons: and thoſe ſons probably took many wives for the greater encreaſe of their family. Patrick.

Ehud, and Chenaanah, and Zethan, and Tharſhiſh, and Ahiſhahar.

11 All theſe the ſons of Jediael, by the heads of their fathers, mighty men of valour, were ſeventeen thouſand and two hundred ſoldiers, fit to go out for war and battle.

12 Shuppim alſo, and Huppim, the children of Ir, and Huſhim, the ſons of Aher.

13 ¶ The ſons of Naphtali; Jahziel and Guni, and Jezer, and Shallum; the ſons of Bilhah.

14 ¶ The ſons of Manaſſeh; Aſhriel, whom ſhe bare: (but his concubine the Aramiteſs bare Machir the father of Gilead:

15 And Machir took to wife the ſiſter of Huppim and Shuppim, whoſe ſiſter's name was Maachah;) and the name of the ſecond was Zelophehad: and Zelophehad had daughters.

16 And Maachah the wife of Machir bare a ſon, and ſhe called his name Pereſh; and the name of his brother was Shereſh; and his ſons were, Ulam and Rakem.

17 And the ſons of Ulam; Bedan. Theſe were the ſons of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh.

18 And his ſiſter Hammoleketh bare Iſhod, and Abiezer, and Mahalah.

19 And the ſons of Shemidah were, Ahian, and Shechem, and Likhi, and Aniam.

20 ¶ And the ſons of Ephraim; Shuthelah, and Bered his ſon, and Tahath his ſon, and Eladah his ſon, and Tahath his ſon, 21 And Zabad his ſon, and Shuthelah his ſon, and Ezer, and Elead, whom the men of Gath, that were born in that land ſlew, becauſe they came down to take away their cattle.

22 And Ephraim their father mourned many days, and his brethren came to comfort him.

23 And when he went in to his wife, ſhe conceived and bare a ſon, and he called his name Beriah, becauſe it went evil with his houſe.

24 (And his daughter was Sherah, who built Beth-horon the nether, and the upper, and Uzzen-ſherah.)

25 And Rephah was his ſon, alſo Reſheph, and Telah his ſon, and Tahan his ſon,

26 Laadan his ſon, Ammihud his ſon, Eliſhama his ſon,

27 Non his ſon, Jehoſhuah his ſon.

28 And their poſſeſſions and habitations were Beth-el and the towns thereof, and eaſtward Naaran, and weſt-ward Gezer with the towns thereof, Schechem alſo and the towns thereof, unto Gaza and the towns thereof:

29 And by the borders of the children of Manaſſeh, Beth-ſhean and her towns, Taanach and her towns, Megiddo and her towns, Dor and her towns. In theſe dwelt the children of Joſeph the ſon of Iſrael.

30 The ſons of Aſher; Imnah, and Iſuah, and Iſhua, and Beriah, and Serah their ſiſter.

31 And the ſons of Beriah; Heber, and Malchiel, who is the father of Birzavith.

32 And Heber begat Japhlet, and Shomer, and Hotham, and Shua their ſiſter.

33 And the ſons of Japhlet; Paſach, and Bimhal, and Aſhvath. Theſe are the children of Japhlet.

34 And the ſons of Shamer; Ahi, and Rohgah, Jehubbah, and Aram.

35 And the ſons of his brother Helem; Zophah, and Imna, and Sheleſh, and Amal.

36 The ſons of Zophah; Suah, and Harnepher, and Shual, and Beri, and Imrah, 37 Bezer, and Hod, and Shamma, and Shilſhah, and Ithran, and Beera.

38 And the ſons of Jether; Jephunneh, and Piſpah, and Ara.

39 And the ſons of Ulla; Arah, and Haniel, and Rezia.

40 All theſe were the children of Aſher, heads of their father's houſe, choice and mighty men of valour, chief of the princes. And the number throughout the genealogy of them that were apt to the war and to battle, was twenty and ſix thouſand men.

---

21 Whom the men of Gath ſlew, becauſe they came down to take away their cattle.] This is the only place where this piece of hiſtory is mentioned, and probably the tranſaction happened before the children of Iſrael came out of Egypt; for it appears, from the following verſe, that Ephraim was alive when theſe children were ſlain. Patrick.

40 The number throughout the genealogy of them---was twenty and ſix thouſand.] Though theſe people lived in a rich and delicious country, abounding with wine, oil, and other good things, yet they did not give themſelves up to ſloth and lazineſs, but were a warlike and valiant people. Patrick.

Notes

CHAP. VIII.

1 The ſons and chief men of Benjamin. 33 The ſtock of Saul and Jonathan.

NOW Benjamin begat Bela his firſt-born, Aſhbel the ſecond, and Aharah the third,
2 Nohah the fourth, and Rapha the fifth.
3 And the ſons of Bela were, Addar, and Gera, and Abihud,
4 And Abiſhua, and Naaman, and Ahoah,
5 And Gera, and Shephuphan, and Huram.
6 And theſe are the ſons of Ehud: theſe are the heads of the fathers of the inhabitants of Geba, and they removed them to Manahath:
7 And Naaman, and Ahiah, and Gera, he removed them, and begat Uzza, and Ahihud.
8 And Shaharaim begat children in the country of Moab, after he had ſent them away; Huſhim and Baara were his wives.
9 And he begat of Hodeſh his wife, Joab, and Zibia, and Meſha, and Malcham,
10 And Jeuz, and Shachia, and Mirma. Theſe were his ſons, heads of the fathers.
11 And of Huſhim he begat Abitub, and Elpaal.
12 The ſons of Elpaal; Eber, and Miſham, and Shamed, who built Ono, and Lod with the towns thereof:
13 Beriah alſo, and Shema, who were heads of the fathers of the inhabitants of Aijalon, who drove away the inhabitants of Gath:
14 And Ahio, Shaſhak, and Jeremoth,
15 And Zebadiah, and Arad, and Ader,
16 And Michael, and Iſpah, and Joha, the ſons of Beriah;
17 And Zebadiah, and Meſhullam, and Hezeki, and Heber,
18 Iſhmerai alſo, and Jezliah, and Jobab, the ſons of Elpaal:
19 And Jakim, and Zichri, and Zabdi,
20 And Elienai, and Zilthai, and Eliel,
21 And Adaiah, and Beraiah, and Shimrath, the ſons of Shimhi;
22 And Iſhpan, and Heber, and Eliel,
23 And Abdon, and Zichri, and Hanan,
24 And Hannaniah, and Elam, and Antothijah,
25 And Iphedeiah, and Penuel, the ſons of Shaſhak;
26 And Shamſherai, and Shehariah, and Athaliah,
27 And Jareſiah, and Eliah, and Zichri, the ſons of Jeroham.
28 Theſe were heads of the fathers, by their generations, chief men. Theſe dwelt in Jeruſalem.
29 And at Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon; whoſe wife's name was Maachah:
30 And his firſt-born ſon Abdon, and Zur, and Kiſh, and Baal, and Nadab, 31 And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zacher.
32 And Mikloth begat Shimeah. And theſe alſo dwelt with their brethren in Jeruſalem, over-againſt them.
33 ¶ And Ner begat Kiſh, and Kiſh begat Saul; and Saul begat Jonathan, and Mal-chiſhua, and Abinadab, and Eſh-baal.
34 And the ſon of Jonathan was Merib-baal; and Merib-baal begat Micah.
35 And the ſons of Micah were, Pithon, and Melech, Tarea, and Ahaz.
36 And Ahaz begat Jehoadah; and Jehoadah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri begat Moza,
37 And Moza begat Binea: Rapha was his ſon, Eleaſah his ſon, Azel his ſon:
38 And Azel had ſix ſons, whoſe names are theſe, Azrikam, Bocheru, and Iſhmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan. All theſe were the ſons of Azel.
39 And the ſons of Eſhek his brother were, Ulam his firſt-born, Jehuſh the ſecond, and Eliphelet the third.
40 And the ſons of Ulam were mighty men

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 13 Drove away the inhabitants of Gath.] Probably in revenge for the ſlaughter they had formerly made of their brethren the Ephraimites. See verſe 21 of the foregoing chapter. Patrick.

29 At Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon.] Here begins the genealogy of Benjamin, which is repeated at the 35th, 36th, &c. verſes of the next chapter, with ſome ſmall variation.

40 The ſons of Ulam were mighty men of valour, archers.] The Hebrew word, which we render archers, ſignifies thoſe that tread the bow; becauſe their ſteel bows were ſo ſtrong, that they could not bend them with their arms, but ſat down, and preſſing them with their feet, drew the arrow with both hands, that it might fly with the greater force. Patrick.

of valour, archers, and had many ſons, and ſons ſons, an hundred and fifty. All theſe are of the ſons of Benjamin.

CHAP. IX.

1 The original of Iſrael's and Judah's genealogies. 27 The charge of certain Levites. 35 Saul's and Jonathan's ſtock.

SO all Iſrael were reckoned by genealogies, and behold, they were written in the book of the kings of Iſrael and Judah, who were carried away to Babylon for their tranſgreſſion.

2 Now the firſt inhabitants that dwelt in their poſſeſſions in their cities were, the Iſraelites, the prieſts, Levites, and the Nethinims.

3 And in Jeruſalem dwelt of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin, and of the children of Ephraim, and Manaſſeh:

4 Uthai the ſon of Ammihud, the ſon of Omri, the ſon of Imri, the ſon of Bani, of the children of Pharez the ſon of Judah.

5 And of the Shilonites; Aſaiah the firſt-born, and his ſons.

6 And of the ſons of Zerah; Jeuel, and their brethren, ſix hundred and ninety.

7 And the ſons of Benjamin; Sallu the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Hodaviah, the ſon of Haſenuah,

8 And Ibneiah the ſon of Jeroham, and Elah the ſon of Uzzi, the ſon of Michri, and Meſhullam the ſon of Shephatiah, the ſon of Reuel, the ſon of Ibnijah;

9 And their brethren, according to their generations, nine hundred and fifty and ſix. All theſe men were chief of the fathers in the houſe of their fathers.

10 And of the prieſts; Jedaiah, and Jehoiarib, and Jachin,

11 And Azariah the ſon of Hilkiah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Zadok, the ſon of Meraioth, the ſon of Ahitub, the ruler of the houſe of God;

12 And Adaiah the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Paſhur, the ſon of Malchijah, and Maaiſiai the ſon of Adiel, the ſon of Jahzerah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Meſhillemith, the ſon of Immer,

13 And their brethren, heads of the houſe of their fathers, a thouſand and ſeven hundred and threeſcore; very able men for the work of the ſervice of the houſe of God.

14 And of the Levites: Shemaiah the ſon of Haſhub, the ſon of Azrikam, the ſon of Haſhabiah, of the ſons of Merari;

15 And Bakbakkar, Hereſh, and Galal, and Mattaniah the ſon of Micah, the ſon of Zichri, the ſon of Aſaph:

16 And Obadiah the ſon of Shemaiah, the ſon of Galal, the ſon of Jeduthun; and Berechiah the ſon of Aſa, the ſon of Elkanah, that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites.

17 And the porters were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and their brethren: Shallum was the chief;

18 Who hitherto waited in the king's gate eaſt ward: they were porters in the companies of the children of Levi.

19 And Shallum the ſon of Kore, the ſon of Ebiaſaph, the ſon of Korah, and his brethren, of the houſe of his father, the Korahites, were over the work of the ſervice, keepers of the gates of the tabernacle: and their fathers being over the hoſt of the LORD, were keepers of the entry.

20 And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar was the ruler over them in time paſt, and the LORD was with him, 21 And Zechariah the ſon of Meſhelemiah was porter of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 All theſe which were choſen to be porters in the gates were two hundred and twelve. Theſe were reckoned by their genealogy in their villages: whom David and Samuel the ſeer did ordain in their ſet-office.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 3 In Jeruſalem dwelt of the children of Judah, and of Benjamin, and of Ephraim, and Manaſſeh.] Hence we may obſerve, that ſome of the ten tribes returned with thoſe of Judah and Benjamin. Indeed the proclamation of Cyrus excepted none, but gave all the people of that nation liberty to return to their own country. Patrick.

11 The ruler of the houſe of God.] Rather, a ruler in the houſe of God; for he was not high-prieſt, that office being filled by Joſhua, as we learn from Ezra iii. 2, and Haggai i. 1. By the houſe of God is to be underſtood the houſe of the tabernacle; for the temple of Solomon was deſtroyed, and the ſecond temple not yet built. Patrick.

I. CHRON. Chap. X. Ve. 4, 5.

23 So they and their children had the oversight of the gates of the houſe of the LORD, namely, the houſe of the tabernacle, by wards.

24 In four quarters were the porters, toward the eaſt, weſt, north, and ſouth.

25 And their brethren, which were in their villages, were to come after ſeven days from time to time with them.

26 For theſe Levites, the four chief porters, were in their ſet-office, and were over the chambers and treaſuries of the houſe of God.

27 ¶ And they lodged round about the houſe of God, becauſe the charge was upon them, and the opening thereof every morning pertained to them.

28 And certain of them had the charge of the miniſtring-veſſels, that they ſhould bring them in and out by tale.

29 Some of them alſo were appointed to overſee the veſſels, and all the inſtruments of the ſanctuary, and the fine flour, and the wine, and the oil, and the frankincenſe, and the ſpices.

30 And ſome of the ſons of the prieſts made the ointment of the ſpices.

31 And Mattithiah, one of the Levites, who was the firſt-born of Shallum the Korahite, had the ſet-office over the things that were made in the pans.

32 And other of their brethren, of the ſons of the Kohathites, were over the ſhew-bread to prepare it every ſabbath.

33 And theſe are the ſingers, chief of the fathers of the Levites, who remaining in the chambers were free: for they were employed in that work day and night.

34 Theſe chief fathers of the Levites were chief throughout their generations: theſe dwelt at Jeruſalem.

35 ¶ And in Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon, Jehiel, whoſe wife's name was Maachah:

36 And his firſt-born ſon Abdon, then Zur, and Kiſh, and Baal, and Ner, and Nadab, 37 And Gedor, and Ahio, and Zechariah, and Mikloth.

38 And Mikloth begat Shimeam. And they alſo dwelt with their brethren at Jeruſalem, over-againſt their brethren.

39 And Ner begat Kiſh, and Kiſh begat Saul: and Saul begat Jonathan, and Malchi-ſhua, and Abinadab, and Eſh-baal.

40 And the ſon of Jonathan was Merib-baal: and Merib-baal begat Micah.

41 And the ſons of Micah were, Pithon, and Melech, and Tahrea, and Ahaz.

42 And Ahaz begat Jarah; and Jarah begat Alemeth, and Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri begat Moza;

43 And Moza begat Binea; and Rephaiah his ſon, Eleaſah his ſon, Azel his ſon.

44 And Azel had ſix ſons, whoſe names are theſe, Azrikam, Bocheru, and Iſhmael, and Sheariah, and Obadiah, and Hanan: theſe were the ſons of Azel.

CHAP. X.

1 Saul's overthrow and death. 8 The Philiſtines triumph over him. 11 Jabeſh-gilead's kindneſs to him and his ſons.

NOW the Philiſtines fought againſt Iſrael; and the men of Iſrael fled from before the Philiſtines, and fell down ſlain in mount Gilboa.

2 And the Philiſtines followed hard after Saul and after his ſons; and the Philiſtines ſlew Jonathan and Abinadab, and Malchi-ſhua, the ſons of Saul.

3 And the battle went ſore againſt Saul, and the archers hit him, and he was wounded of the archers.

4 Then ſaid Saul to his armour-bearer, Draw thy ſword, and thruſt me through therewith; leſt theſe uncircumciſed come, and abuſe me. But his armour-bearer would not; for he was ſore afraid. So Saul took a ſword, and fell upon it.

5 And when his armour-bearer ſaw that

33 They were employed in that work day and night.] i.e. In learning and teaching to ſing, and to play on different kinds of muſical inſtruments, as appears from chap. xxvi. Patrick.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now the Philiſtines, &c.] This hiſtory has already been related in Sam. xxi. nearly in the ſame words; but is here repeated to introduce the hiſtory of David.

Saul was dead, he fell likewiſe on the ſword, and died.

6 So Saul died, and his three ſons, and all his houſe died together.

7 And when all the men of Iſrael that were in the valley ſaw that they fled, and that Saul and his ſons were dead, then they forſook their cities, and fled; and the Philiſtines came and dwelt in them.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow when the Philiſtines came to ſtrip the ſlain, that they found Saul and his ſons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And when they had ſtripped him, they took his head, and his armour, and ſent into the land of the Philiſtines round about, to carry tidings unto their idols, and to the people.

10 And they put his armour in the houſe of their gods, and faſtened his head in the temple of Dagon.

11 ¶ And when all Jabeſh-gilead heard all that the Philiſtines had done to Saul,

12 They aroſe, all the valiant men, and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his ſons, and brought them to Jabeſh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabeſh, and faſted ſeven days.

13 So Saul died for his tranſgreſſion which he committed againſt the LORD, even againſt the word of the LORD which he kept not, and alſo for aſking counſel of one that had a familiar ſpirit to enquire of it;

14 And enquired not of the LORD: therefore he ſlew him, and turned the kingdom unto David the ſon of Jeſſe.

CHAP. XI.

1 David made king. 4 He winneth the caſtle of Zion from the Jebuſites by Joab's valour. 10 A catalogue of his worthies.

THEN all Iſrael gathered themſelves to David unto Hebron, ſaying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy fleſh.

2 And Moreover in time paſt, even when Saul was king, thou waſt he that leddeſt out and broughteſt in Iſrael: and the LORD thy God ſaid unto thee, Thou ſhalt feed my people Iſrael, and thou ſhalt be ruler over my people Iſrael.

3 Therefore came all the elders of Iſrael to the king to Hebron; and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD; and they anointed David king over Iſrael, according to the word of the LORD by Samuel.

4 ¶ And David and all Iſrael went to Jeruſalem, which is Jebus; where the Jebuſites were, the inhabitants of the land.

5 And the inhabitants of Jebus ſaid to David, Thou ſhalt not come hither. Nevertheleſs, David took the caſtle of Zion, which is the city of David.

6 And David ſaid, Whoſoever ſmiteth the Jebuſites firſt, ſhall be chief and captain. So Joab the ſon of Zeruiah went firſt up, and was chief.

7 And David dwelt in the caſtle; therefore they called it, The city of David.

8 And he built the city round about, even from Millo round about: and Joab repaired the reſt of the city.

9 So David waxed greater and greater: for the LORD of hoſts was with him.

10 ¶ Theſe alſo are the chief of the mighty men, whom David had, who ſtrengthened themſelves with him in his kingdom, and with all Iſrael, to make him king according to the word of the LORD concerning Iſrael.

11 And this is the number of the mighty men whom David had; Jaſhobeam an Hachmonite, the chief of the captains. He lifted

6 Saul died, and his ſons, and all his houſe.] i. e. All the perſons of his houſe that were preſent at this battle: nor did his family ever recover itſelf after this terrible blow.

13 So Saul died for his tranſgreſſion, &c.] The two principal crimes of this monarch were his ſparing the Amalekites, and his conſulting the witch of Endor. Patrick.

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then.] i. e. After the death of Iſhboſheth; for many things paſſed between the death of Saul, and the tranſaction the ſacred hiſtorian is now going to recite, which are related in the 1ſt, 2d, 3d, and 4th chapters of the 2d of Samuel. Patrick. This chapter being nearly the ſame as the firſt ten verſes of 2 Sam. chap. v. and the 23d chapter of the ſame book, commencing at the 8th verſe, the reader is deſired to refer to thoſe paſſages.

3 According to the word of the Lord by Samuel.] Theſe words are not found in the book of Samuel, but are here added to ſhew how the people came to know that God had promiſed the kingdom to David. Patrick.

Notes

up his ſpear againſt three hundred, ſlain by him at one time.

12 And after him was Eleazar the ſon of Dodo the Ahohite, who was one of the three mighties.

13 He was with David at Paſ-dam-mim, and there the Philiſtines were gathered together to battle, where was a parcel of ground full of barley; and the people fled from before the Philiſtines.

14 And they ſet themſelves in the midſt of that parcel, and delivered it, and ſlew the Philiſtines; and the LORD ſaved them by a great deliverance.

15 Now three of the thirty captains went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam, and the hoſt of the Philiſtines encamped in the valley of Rephaim.

16 And David was then in the hold, and the Philiſtines garriſon was then at Beth-lehem.

17 And David longed, and ſaid, Oh that one would give me drink of the water of the well of Beth-lehem that is at the gate!

18 And the three brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtines, and drew water out of the well of Beth-lehem that was by the gate, and took it and brought it to David: but David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD,

19 And ſaid, My God forbid it me, that I ſhould do this thing: ſhall I drink the blood of theſe men that have put their lives in jeopardy? for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it. Therefore he would not drink it. Theſe things did theſe three mightieſt.

20 And Abiſhai the brother of Joab, he was chief of the three; for lifting up his ſpear againſt three hundred, he ſlew them, and had a name among the three.

21 Of the three he was more honourable than the two; for he was their captain: howbeit he attained not unto the firſt three.

22 Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, the ſon of a valiant man, of Kabzeel, who had done many acts: he ſlew two lion-like men of Moab; alſo he went down and ſlew a lion in a pit in a ſnowy day.

23 And he ſlew an Egyptian, a man of great ſtature, five cubits high; and in the Egyptian's hand was a ſpear like a weaver's beam; and he went down to him with a ſtaff, and plucked the ſpear out of the Egyptian's hand, and ſlew him with his own ſpear.

24 Theſe things did Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, and had a name among the three mighties.

25 Behold, he was honourable among the thirty, but attained not to the firſt three. And David ſet him over his guard.

26 Alſo the valiant men of the armies were Aſahel, the brother of Joab, Elhanan the ſon of Dodo of Beth-lehem,

27 Shammoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite,

28 Ira the ſon of Ikkeſh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Antothite,

29 Sibbecai the Huſhathite, Ilai the Ahohite,

30 Maharai the Netophathite, Heled the ſon of Baanah the Netophathite,

31 Ithai the ſon of Ribai of Gibeah that pertained to the children of Benjamin, Benaiah the Pirathonite,

32 Hurai of the brooks of Gaaſh, Abiel the Arbathite,

33 Azmaveth the Baharumite, Eliahba the Shaalbonite,

34 The ſons of Haſhem the Gizonite, Jonathan the ſon of Shage the Hararite,

35 Ahiam the ſon of Sacar the Hararite, Eliphal the ſon of Ur,

36 Hepher the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite,

37 Hezro the Carmelite, Naarai the ſon of Ezbai,

38 Joel the brother of Nathan, Mibhar the ſon of Haggeri,

39 Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Berothite the armour-bearer of Joab the ſon of Zeruiah,

40 Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite,

41 Uriah the Hittite, Zabad the ſon of Ahlai,

42 Adina the ſon of Shiza the Reubenite, a captain of the Reubenites, and thirty with him,

43 Hanan the ſon of Maachah, and Joſhaphat the Mithnite,

44 Uzzia the Aſhterathite, Shama and Jehiel the ſons of Hothan the Aroerite,

45 Jediael

45 Jediael the ſon of Shimri, and Joha his brother, the Tizite,

46 Eliel the Mahavite, and Jeribai, and Joſhaviah, the ſons of Elnaam, and Ithmah the Moabite, 47 Eliel, and Obed, and Jaſiel the Meſobaite.

CHAP. XII.

1 The companies that came to David at Ziglag.
23 The armies that came to him at Hebron.

NOW theſe are they that came to David to Ziklag, while he yet kept himſelf cloſe becauſe of Saul the ſon of Kiſh: and they were among the mighty men, helpers of the war.

2 They were armed with bows, and could uſe both the right hand and the left in hurling ſtones, and ſhooting arrows out of a bow, even of Saul's brethren, of Benjamin.

3 The chief was Ahiezer, then Joaſh, the ſons of Shemaah the Gibeathite; and Jeziel, and Pelet, the ſons of Azmaveth; and Berachah, and Jehu the Antothite,

4 And Iſmaiah the Gibeonite, a mighty man among the thirty, and over the thirty; and Jeremiah, and Jahaziel, and Johanan, and Joſabad the Gederathite,

5 Eluzai, and Jerimoth, and Bealiah, and Shemariah, and Shephatiah, the Haruphite,

6 Elkanah, and Jeſiah, and Azareel, and Joezer, and Jaſhobeam, the Korhites,

7 And Joelah, and Zebadiah, the ſons of Jeroham of Gedor.

8 And of the Gadites there ſeparated themſelves unto David into the hold to the wilderneſs men of might, and men of war fit for the battle, that could handle ſhield and buckler, whoſe faces were like the faces of lions, and were as ſwift as the roes upon the mountains;

9 Ezer the firſt, Obadiah the ſecond, Eliab, the third,

10 Niſhmannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth,

11 Attai the ſixth, Eliel the ſeventh,

12 Johanan the eighth, Elzabad the ninth,

13 Jeremiah the tenth, Machbani the eleventh.

14 Theſe were of the ſons of Gad, captains of the hoſt: one of the leaſt was over a hundred, and the greateſt over a thouſand.

15 Theſe are they that went over Jordan in the firſt month, when it had overflown all his banks; and they put to flight all them of the valleys, both toward the eaſt, and toward the weſt.

16 And there came of the children of Benjamin and Judah to the hold unto David.

17 And David went out to meet them, and anſwered and ſaid unto them, If ye be come peaceably unto me to help me, mine heart ſhall be knit unto you: but if ye be come to betray me to mine enemies, ſeeing there is no wrong in mine hands, the God of our fathers look thereon, and rebuke it.

18 Then the ſpirit came upon Amaſai, who was chief of the captains, and he ſaid, Thine are we, David, and on thy ſide, thou ſon of Jeſſe: peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be to thine helpers; for thy God helpeth thee. Then David received them, and made them captains of the band.

19 And there fell ſome of Manaſſeh to David when he came with the Philiſtines againſt Saul to battle. But they helped them not: for the lords of the Philiſtines, upon adviſement, ſent him away, ſaying, He will fall to his maſter Saul, to the jeopardy of our heads.

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Theſe are they that came to David.] The ſacred writer here mentions thoſe perſons who joined David in his exile; they are omitted in the book of Samuel.

2 Saul's brethren of Benjamin.] Something extraordinary muſt have happened, to induce Saul's kindred to forſake him. Poſſibly they could not bear to ſee an innocent perſon perſecuted in ſo violent a manner, eſpecially after he had refuſed to hurt the perſon who thus purſued him, when he had it in his power.

8 Whoſe faces were like the faces of lions, and were as ſwift as the roes upon the mountains.] A beautiful hyperbole! by the roe, according to Dr. Shaw, we are to underſtand the antilope: ſee 2 Sam. ii. 18.

15 Theſe are they which went over Jordan in the firſt month, when it had overflown all his banks.] This is given as an inſtance of their intrepidity, in venturing to paſs the Jordan at this dangerous ſeaſon: and, in all probability, without the help of any boat, notwithſtanding the violence and rapidity of the current.

They put to flight all them of the valleys.] Theſe were probably the inhabitants of the countries bordering on Jordan, who took this opportunity to invade the Iſraelites.

18 The ſpirit came upon Amaſai.] i. e. God inſpired him with an intrepid boldneſs to profeſs, in the name of his companions, their fidelity to David in ſuch pathetic words, as convinced him they were really his friends. Patrick.

20 As he went to Ziklag, there fell to him of Manaſſeh, Adnah, and Jozabad, and Jediael, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Zilthai, captains of the thouſands that were of Manaſſeh.

21 And they helped David againſt the band of the rovers: for they were all mighty men of valour, and were captains in the hoſt.

22 For at that time day by day there came to David to help him, until it was a great hoſt, like the hoſt of God.

23 ¶ And theſe are the numbers of the bands that were ready armed to the war, and came to David to Hebron, to turn the kingdom of Saul to him, according to the word of the LORD.

24 The children of Judah, that bear ſhield and ſpear, were ſix thouſand and eight hundred, ready armed to the war.

25 Of the children of Simeon, mighty men of valour for the war, ſeven thouſand and one hundred.

26 Of the children of Levi, four thouſand and ſix hundred.

27 And Jehoiada was the leader of the Aaronites, and with him were three thouſand and ſeven hundred.

28 And Zadok, a young man mighty of valour, and of his father's houſe twenty and two captains.

29 And of the children of Benjamin the kindred of Saul, three thouſand: for hitherto the greateſt part of them had kept the ward of the houſe of Saul.

30 And of the children of Ephraim, twenty thouſand and eight hundred, mighty men of valour, famous throughout the houſe of their fathers.

31 And of the half tribe of Manaſſeh, eighteen thouſand, which were expreſſed by name to come and make David king.

32 And of the children of Iſſachar, which were men that had underſtanding of the times, to know what Iſrael ought to do: the heads of them were two hundred, and all their brethren were at their commandment.

33 Of Zebulun, ſuch as went forth to battle, expert in war, with all inſtruments of war, fifty thouſand, which could keep rank: they were not of double heart.

34 And of Naphtali, a thouſand captains, and with them, with ſhield and ſpear, thirty and ſeven thouſand.

35 And of the Danites expert in war, twenty and eight thouſand and ſix hundred.

36 And of Aſher, ſuch as went forth to battle, expert in war, forty thouſand.

37 And on the other ſide of Jordan, of the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, with all manner of inſtruments of war for the battle, an hundred and twenty thouſand.

38 All theſe men of war, that could keep rank, came with a perfect heart to Hebron, to make David king over all Iſrael: and all the reſt alſo of Iſrael were of one heart to make David king.

39 And there they were with David three days, eating and drinking: for their brethren had prepared for them.

40 Moreover, they that were nigh them, even unto Iſſachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali, brought bread on aſſes, and on camels, and on mules, and on oxen, and meat, meal, cakes of figs, and bunches of raiſins, and wine, and oil, and oxen, and ſheep abundantly; for there was joy in Iſrael.

CHAP. XIII.

1 David fetcheth the ark from Kirjath-jearim.
9 Uzza being ſmitten, the ark is left at the houſe of Obed-edom.

AND David conſulted with the captains of thouſands and of hundreds, and with every leader.

22 A great hoſt, like the hoſt of God.] i. e. A very formidable army, which might be compared to the hoſt of heaven, becauſe they were numerous, and many of them illuſtrious perſons.

32 Men that had underſtanding of the times.] i. e. Who were well verſed in political affairs, and knew what was moſt proper to be done in all exigencies of human life; as the words immediately following ſufficiently indicate. Patrick.

39 They were with David three days, eating and drinking.] This was certainly the moſt ſplendid ſhow that was ever exhibited: this feaſt laſted three days, for three hundred forty-eight thouſand and eight hundred brave men. Patrick.

40 For there was joy in Iſrael.] They were greatly pleaſed to ſee an end of their diviſions, by being united under one king, whom they had great reaſon to hope would procure them both peace and plenty in their dwellings.

2 And David said unto all the congregation of Israel, If it seem good unto you, and that it be of the LORD our God, let us send abroad unto our brethren every where that are left in all the land of Israel, and with them also to the priests and Levites which are in their cities and suburbs, that they may gather themselves unto us.

3 And let us bring again the ark of our God to us: for we enquired not at it in the days of Saul.

4 And all the congregation said that they would do so: for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.

5 So David gathered all Israel together, from Shihor of Egypt even unto the entering of Hemath, to bring the ark of God from Kirjath-jearim.

6 And David went up, and all Israel, to Baalah, that is, to Kirjath-jearim, which belongeth to Judah, to bring up thence the ark of God the LORD, that dwelleth between the cherubims, whose name is called on it.

7 And they carried the ark of God in a new cart, out of the house of Abinadab: and Uzza and Ahio drave the cart.

8 And David and all Israel played before God with all their might, and with singing, and with harps, and with psalteries, and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

9 ¶ And when they came unto the threshingfloor of Chidon, Uzza put forth his hand to hold the ark: for the oxen stumbled.

10 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against Uzza, and he smote him, because he put his hand to the ark: and there he died before God.

11 And David was displeased because the LORD had made a breach upon Uzza: wherefore that place is called Perez-uzza to this day.

12 And David was afraid of God that day, saying, How shall I bring the ark of God home to me?

13 So David brought not the ark home to himself to the city of David, but carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.

14 And the ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom in his house three months. And the LORD blessed the house of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Hiram's kindness to David. 2 David's felicity in people, wives, and children. 8 His two victories.

NOW Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and timber of cedars, with masons and carpenters, to build him an house.

2 ¶ And David perceived that the LORD had confirmed him king over Israel: for his kingdom was lifted up on high, because of his people Israel.

3 And David took more wives at Jerusalem: and David begat more sons and daughters.

4 Now these are the names of his children which he had in Jerusalem; Shammua, and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon,

5 And Ibhar, and Elishua, and Elpalet,

6 And Nogah, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

7 And Elishama, and Beeliada, and Eliphalet.

8 ¶ And when the Philistines heard that David was anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines went up to seek David: and David heard of it, and went out against them.

9 And the Philistines came and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

10 And David enquired of God, saying, Shall I go up against the Philistines, and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the LORD said unto him, Go up; for I will deliver them into thine hand.

11 So they came up to Baal-perazim, and David ſmote them there. Then David ſaid, God hath broken-in upon mine enemies by mine hand, like the breaking-forth of waters: therefore they called the name of that place, Baal-perazim.

12 And when they had left their gods there, David gave commandment, and they were burned with fire.

13 And the Philiſtines yet again ſpread themſelves abroad in the valley.

14 Therefore David enquired again of God: and God ſaid unto him, Go not up after them; turn away from them, and come upon them over-againſt the mulberry-trees.

15 And it ſhall be, when thou ſhalt hear a ſound of going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, that then thou ſhalt go out to battle: for God is gone forth before thee to ſmite the hoſt of the Philiſtines.

16 David therefore did as God commanded him: and they ſmote the hoſt of the Philiſtines from Gibeon even to Gazer.

17 And the fame of David went out into all lands; and the LORD brought the fear of him upon all nations.

CHAP. XV.

1 David's order about bringing the ark from Obed-edom. 25 He performeth it with great joy. 29 Michal deſpiſeth him.

AND David made him houſes in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched for it a tent.

2 Then David ſaid, None ought to carry the ark of God but the Levites: for them hath the LORD choſen to carry the ark of God, and to miniſter unto him for ever.

3 And David gathered all Iſrael together to Jeruſalem, to bring up the ark of the LORD unto his place which he had prepared for it.

4 And David aſſembled the children of Aaron, and the Levites.

5 Of the ſons of Kohath; Uriel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twenty.

6 Of the ſons of Merari; Aſiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred and twenty.

7 Of the ſons of Gerſhom; Joel the chief, and his brethren an hundred and thirty.

8 Of the ſons of Elizaphan; Shamaiah the chief, and his brethren two hundred.

9 Of the ſons of Hebron; Eliel the chief, and his brethren fourſcore.

10 Of the ſons of Uzziel; Aminadab the chief, and his brethren an hundred and twelve.

11 And David called for Zadok and Abiathar the prieſts, and for the Levites, for Uriel, Aſaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and Aminadab.

12 And ſaid unto them, Ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites: ſanctify yourſelves, both ye and your brethren, that ye may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Iſrael unto the place that I have prepared for it.

13 For becauſe ye did it not at the firſt, the LORD our God made a breach upon us, for that we ſought him not after the due order.

14 So the prieſts and the Levites ſanctified themſelves to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Iſrael.

15 And the children of the Levites bare the ark of God upon their ſhoulders, with the ſtaves thereon, as Moſes commanded, according to the word of the LORD.

16 And David ſpake to the chief of the Levites, to appoint their brethren to be the ſingers with inſtruments of muſick, pſalteries, and harps, and cymbals, ſounding, by lifting up the voice with joy.

17 So the Levites appointed Heman the ſon of Joel; and of his brethren, Aſaph the ſon of Berechiah; and of the ſons of Merari their brethren, Ethan the ſon of Kuſhaiah:

18 And with them their brethren of the ſecond degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and

Notes on the Fifteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 David---prepared a place for the ark of God.] The tabernacle made by Moſes in the wilderneſs was now at Gibeon; but David did not think proper to bring it from thence, and therefore cauſed a new tent to be pitched for it.

2 None ought to carry the ark of God, but the Levites.] The former miſcarriage had taught David to uſe the ark with more reverence; and take care that the Levites, according to an expreſs precept of the law, ſhould bear it on their ſhoulders. Patrick.

16 Lifting up the voice with joy.] Singing ſo loud, that the people might hear, and liſt up their hearts unto the Lord.

Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaſeiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, the porters.

19 So the ſingers, Heman, Aſaph, and Ethan, were appointed to ſound with cymbals of braſs;

20 And Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaſeiah, and Benaiah, with pſalteries on Alamoth;

21 And Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps on the Sheminith to excel.

22 And Chenaniah chief of the Levites, was for ſong: he inſtructed about the ſong, becauſe he was ſkilful.

23 And Berechiah and Elkanah were door-keepers for the ark.

24 And Shebaniah, and Jehoſhaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amaſai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliazar the prieſts, did blow with the trumpets before the ark of God: and Obed-edom and Jehiah were door-keepers for the ark.

25 ¶ So David and the elders of Iſrael and the captains over thouſands went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the houſe of Obed-edom with joy.

26 And it came to paſs when God helped the Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that they offered ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams.

27 And David was clothed with a robe of fine linen, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the ſingers, and Chenaniah the maſter of the ſong, with the ſingers: David alſo had upon him an ephod of linen.

28 Thus all Iſrael brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with ſhouting, and with ſound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noiſe with pſalteries and harps.

29 ¶ And it came to paſs as the ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul looking out at a window ſaw king David dancing and playing: and ſhe deſpiſed him in her heart.

CHAP. XVI.

1 David's feſtival ſacrifice. 4 He ordereth a choir to ſing thankſgiving. 7 The pſalm of thankſgiving.

SO they brought the ark of God, and ſet it in the midſt of the tent that David had pitched for it: and they offered burnt-ſacrifices and peace-offerings before God.

2 And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings and the peace-offerings, he bleſſed the people in the name of the LORD.

3 And he dealt to every one of Iſrael, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of fleſh, and a flagon of wine.

4 ¶ And he appointed certain of the Levites to miniſter before the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank and praiſe the LORD God of Iſrael:

5 Aſaph the chief, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obed-edom: and Jeiel with pſalteries, and with harps; but Aſaph made a ſound with cymbals:

6 Benaiah alſo and Jahaziel the prieſts with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God.

7 ¶ Then on that day David delivered firſt this pſalm to thank the LORD, into the hand of Aſaph and his brethren.

8 Give thanks unto the LORD, call upon his name, make known his deeds among the people.

9 Sing unto him, ſing pſalms unto him, talk ye of all his wonderous works.

10 Glory ye in his holy name; let the heart of them rejoice that ſeek the LORD.

26 God helped the Levites that bare the ark.] i. e. He preſerved them from committing any error, ſo that they carried it without offence. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixteenth Chapter.

Ver. 7 On that day, David delivered firſt this pſalm.] Heb. This David ordained in the firſt place at that time; i. e. he then ordered that God ſhould be praiſed by Aſaph and his aſſiſtants in the following manner: this ſolemn ſervice began on the day he brought up the ark to its place in Jeruſalem, and was afterwards conſtantly continued. Patrick.

8 Give thanks unto the Lord, &c.] This beautiful hymn is taken from the 105th and the 96th pſalms; what remarks therefore may be thought neceſſary, will be properly reſerved to illuſtrate thoſe pſalms.

11 Seek the LORD and his ſtrength, ſeek his face continually.

12 Remember his marvellous works that he hath done, his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth;

13 O ye ſeed of Iſrael his ſervant, ye children of Jacob his choſen ones.

14 He is the LORD our God; his judgments are in all the earth.

15 Be ye mindful always of his covenant; the word which he commanded to a thouſand generations.

16 Even of the covenant which he made with Abraham, and of his oath unto Iſaac;

17 And hath confirmed the ſame to Jacob for a law, and to Iſrael for an everlaſting covenant,

18 Saying, Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan, the lot of your inheritance.

19 When ye were but few, even a few, and ſtrangers in it;

20 And when they went from nation to nation, and from one kingdom to another people;

21 He ſuffered no man to do them wrong: yea, he reproved kings for their ſakes,

22 Saying, Touch not mine anointed, and do my prophets no harm.

23 Sing unto the LORD, all the earth; ſhew forth from day to day his ſalvation.

24 Declare his glory among the heathen; his marvellous works among all nations.

25 For great is the LORD, and greatly to be praiſed: he alſo is to be feared above all gods.

26 For all the gods of the people are idols: but the LORD made the heavens.

27 Glory and honour are in his preſence, ſtrength and gladneſs are in his place.

28 Give unto the LORD, ye kindreds of the people, give unto the LORD glory and ſtrength.

29 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name: bring an offering and come before him: worſhip the LORD in the beauty of holineſs.

30 Fear before him, all the earth: the world alſo ſhall be ſtable, that it be not moved.

31 Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice: and let men ſay among the nations, The LORD reigneth.

32 Let the ſea roar, and the fulneſs thereof: let the fields rejoice, and all that is therein.

33 Then ſhall the trees of the wood ſing out at the preſence of the LORD, becauſe he cometh to judge the earth.

34 O give thanks to the LORD; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

35 And ſay ye, Save us, O God of our ſalvation, and gather us together, and deliver us from the heathen, that we may give thanks to thy holy name, and glory in thy praiſe.

36 Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael for ever and ever. And all the people ſaid, Amen, and praiſed the LORD.

37 So he left there before the ark of the covenant of the LORD Aſaph and his brethren, to miniſter before the ark continually, as every day's work required:

38 And Obed-edom, with their brethren, threeſcore and eight; Obed-edom alſo the ſon of Jeduthun, and Hoſah, to be porters:

39 And Zadok the prieſt and his brethren the prieſts, before the tabernacle of the LORD, in the high-place that was at Gibeon,

40 To offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD upon the altar of the burnt-offering continually morning and evening, and to do according to all that is written in the law of the LORD, which he commanded Iſrael;

41 And with them Heman and Jeduthun, and the reſt that were choſen, who were expreſſed by name, to give thanks to the LORD, becauſe his mercy endureth for ever:

42 And with them Heman and Jeduthun with trumpets and cymbals, for thoſe that ſhould make a ſound, and with muſical inſtruments of God. And the ſons of Jeduthun were porters.

43 And all the people departed every man to his houſe: and David returned to bleſs his houſe.

39 Zadok the prieſt and his brethren, &c.] Zadok was the ſecond prieſt, and miniſtered in the tabernacle of Moſes, which was then at Gibeon. Here the ordinary worſhip of God was performed, and the daily ſacrifices offered on the altar made by Moſes: but the extraordinary worſhip was performed before the ark at Jeruſalem, where Abiathar the high-prieſt attended.

CHAP. XVII.

3 David forbidden to build God an houſe, 11 is promiſed bleſſings in his ſeed. 16 His prayer and thankſgiving.

NOW it came to paſs, as David ſat in his houſe, that David ſaid to Nathan the prophet, Lo, I dwell in an houſe of cedars, but the ark of the covenant of the LORD remaineth under curtains.

2 Then Nathan ſaid unto David, Do all that is in thine heart; for God is with thee.

3 ¶ And it came to paſs the ſame night, that the word of God came to Nathan, ſaying,

4 Go, and tell David my ſervant, Thus ſaith the LORD, Thou ſhalt not build me an houſe to dwell in.

5 For I have not dwelt in an houſe ſince the day that I brought up Iſrael, unto this day; but have gone from tent to tent, and from one tabernacle to another.

6 Whereſoever I have walked with all Iſrael, ſpake I a word to any of the judges of Iſrael whom I commanded to feed my people, ſaying, Why have ye not built me an houſe of cedars?

7 Now therefore thus ſhalt thou ſay unto my ſervant David, Thus ſaith the LORD of hoſts, I took thee from the ſheep-cote, even from following the ſheep, that thou ſhouldeſt be ruler over my people Iſrael.

8 And I have been with thee whitherſoever thou haſt walked, and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee, and have made thee a name like the name of the great men that are in the earth.

9 Alſo I will ordain a place for my people Iſrael, and will plant them, and they ſhall dwell in their place, and ſhall be moved no more; neither ſhall the children of wickedneſs waſte them any more, as at the beginning,

10 And ſince the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Iſrael: moreover, I will ſubdue all thine enemies. Furthermore, I tell thee that the LORD will build thee an houſe.

11 ¶ And it ſhall come to paſs, when thy days be expired that thou muſt go to be with thy fathers, that I will raiſe up thy ſeed after thee, which ſhall be of thy ſons; and I will eſtabliſh his kingdom.

12 He ſhall build me an houſe, and I will ſtabliſh his throne for ever.

13 I will be his father, and he ſhall be my ſon: and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee.

14 But I will ſettle him in mine houſe and in my kingdom for ever; and his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for evermore.

15 According to all theſe words and according to all this viſion ſo did Nathan ſpeak unto David.

16 ¶ And David the king came, and ſat before the LORD, and ſaid, Who am I, O LORD God, and what is mine houſe, that thou haſt brought me hitherto?

17 And yet this was a ſmall thing in thine eyes, O God: for thou haſt alſo ſpoken of thy ſervant's houſe for a great while to come, and haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of high degree, O LORD God.

18 What can David ſpeak more to thee for the honour of thy ſervant? for thou knoweſt thy ſervant.

19 O LORD, for thy ſervant's ſake, and according to thine own heart haſt thou done all this greatneſs, in making known all theſe great things.

20 O LORD, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beſides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

21 And what one nation in the earth is like thy people Iſrael, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name of

Notes on the Seventeenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 As David ſat in his houſe, &c.] See 2 Sam. chap. vii.

14 I will ſettle him in mine houſe, and in my kingdom for ever.] In 2 Sam. vii. 16. it is ſaid thine houſe, and thy kingdom; which ſufficiently proves, that this principally belongs to the Meſſiah, of whom David was only a type, or figure.

17 Thou---haſt regarded me according to the eſtate of a man of high degree.] Victorius Strigelius thinks the words may be rendered, Thou haſt looked upon me in the form of a man, who art in the higheſt the Lord God: which he looks upon as a prophecy of the Meſſiah, who was really the Lord God, but took upon him our nature, and appeared in the form of a man.

greatneſs and terribleneſs, by driving out nations from before thy people whom thou haſt redeemed out of Egypt?

22 For thy people Iſrael didſt thou make thine own people for ever; and thou, LORD, becameſt their God.

23 Therefore now, LORD, let the thing that thou haſt ſpoken concerning thy ſervant, and concerning his houſe, be eſtabliſhed for ever, and do has thou haſt ſaid.

24 Let it even be eſtabliſhed, that thy name may be magnified for ever, ſaying, The LORD of hoſts is the God of Iſrael, even a God to Iſrael: and let the houſe of David thy ſervant be eſtabliſhed before thee.

25 For thou, O my God, haſt told thy ſervant, that thou wilt build him an houſe: therefore thy ſervant hath found in his heart to pray before thee.

26 And now, LORD, thou art God, and haſt promiſed this goodneſs unto thy ſervant.

27 Now therefore let it pleaſe thee to bleſs the houſe of thy ſervant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou bleſſeſt, O LORD, and it ſhall be bleſſed for ever.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 David ſubdueth the Philiſtines, and the Moabites. 3 He ſmiteth Hadarezer, and the Syrians.

NOW after this it came to paſs that David ſmote the Philiſtines, and ſubdued them, and took Gath and her towns out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

2 And he ſmote Moab; and the Moabites became David's ſervants, and brought gifts.

3 ¶ And David ſmote Hadarezer king of Zobah unto Hamath, as he went to eſtabliſh his dominion by the river Euphrates.

4 And David took from him a thouſand chariots, and ſeven thouſand horſemen, and twenty thouſand footmen: David alſo houghed all the chariot-horſes, but reſerved of them an hundred chariots.

5 And when the Syrians of Damaſcus came to help Hadarezer king of Zobah, David ſlew of the Syrians two and twenty thouſand men.

6 Then David put garriſons in Syria-damaſcus, and the Syrians became David's ſervants, and brought gifts. Thus the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

7 And David took the ſhields of gold that were on the ſervants of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jeruſalem.

8 Likewiſe from Tibhath, and from Chun, cities of Hadarezer, brought David very much braſs, wherewith Solomon made the braſen-ſea, and the pillars, and the veſſels of braſs.

9 Now when Tou king of Hamath heard how David had ſmitten all the hoſt of Hadarezer king of Zobah;

10 He ſent Hadoram his ſon to king David, to enquire of his welfare, and to congratulate him, becauſe he had fought againſt Hadarezer, and ſmitten him; for Hadarezer had warred with Tou; and with him all manner of veſſels of gold, and ſilver, and braſs.

11 Them alſo king David dedicated unto the LORD, with the ſilver and the gold that he brought from all theſe nations; from Edom, and from Moab, and from the children of Ammon, and from the Philiſtines, and from Amalek.

12 Moreover, Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah ſlew of the Edomites in the valley of ſalt eighteen thouſand.

13 And he put garriſons in Edom; and all the Edomites became David's ſervants. Thus the LORD preſerved David whitherſoever he went.

14 So David reigned over all Iſrael, and executed judgement and juſtice among all his people.

15 And Joab the ſon of Zeruiah was over the hoſt; and Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud, recorder;

16 And Zadok the ſon of Ahitub, and Abimelech the ſon of Abiathar, were the prieſts; and Shavſha was ſcribe;

17 And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and the ſons of David were chief about the king.

CHAP. XIX.

1 David's meſſengers ſent to comfort Hanun are villainouſly intreated. 6 The Ammonites are overcome.

NOW it came to paſs after this that Nahaſh the king of the children of Ammon died, and his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

2 And David ſaid, I will ſhew kindneſs unto Hanun the ſon of Nahaſh, becauſe his father ſhewed kindneſs to me. And David ſent meſſengers to comfort him concerning his father. So the ſervants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon, to Hanun, to comfort him.

3 But the princes of the children of Ammon ſaid to Hanun, Thinkeſt thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath ſent comforters unto thee? are not his ſervants come unto thee for to ſearch, and to overthrow, and to ſpy out the land?

4 Wherefore Hanun took David's ſervants, and ſhaved them, and cut off their garments in the midſt hard by their buttocks, and ſent them away.

5 Then there went certain, and told David how the men were ſerved. And he ſent to meet them: for the men were greatly aſhamed. And the king ſaid, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon ſaw that they had made themſelves odious to David, Hanun and the children of Ammon ſent a thouſand talents of ſilver to hire them chariots and horſemen out of Meſopotamia, and out of Syria-maachah, and out of Zobah.

7 So they hired thirty and two thouſand chariots, and the king of Maachah and his people; who came and pitched before Medeba: and the children of Ammon gathered themſelves together from their cities, and came to battle.

8 And when David heard of it, he ſent Joab, and all the hoſt of the mighty men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array before the gate of the city: and the kings that were come were by themſelves in the field.

10 Now when Joab ſaw that the battle was ſet againſt him before and behind, he choſe out of all the choice of Iſrael, and put them in array againſt the Syrians.

11 And the reſt of the people he delivered unto the hand of Abiſhai his brother, and they ſet themſelves in array againſt the children of Ammon.

12 And he ſaid, If the Syrians be too ſtrong for me, then thou ſhalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too ſtrong for thee, then I will help thee.

13 Be of good courage, and let us behave our ſelves valiantly for our people, and for the cities of our God: and let the LORD do that which is good in his ſight.

14 So Joab and the people that were with him drew nigh before the Syrians unto the battle; and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon ſaw that the Syrians were fled, they likewiſe fled before Abiſhai his brother, and entered into the city. Then Joab came to Jeruſalem.

16 And when the Syrians ſaw that they were put to the worſe before Iſrael, they ſent meſſengers, and drew forth the Syrians that were beyond the river: and Shophach the captain of the hoſt of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And it was told David; and he gathered all Iſrael, and paſſed over Jordan, and came upon them, and ſet the battle in array againſt them. So when David had put the battle in array againſt the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 But the Syrians fled before Iſrael; and David ſlew of the Syrians ſeven thouſand men which fought in chariots, and forty thouſand footmen, and killed Shophach the captain of the hoſt.

Notes on the Nineteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 It came to paſs after this, that Nahaſh the king of the children of Ammon died.] This whole tranſaction has already been fully related, 2 Sam. x. to which the reader is referred.

7 They hired thirty and two thouſand chariots.] More probably they hired thirty and two thouſand who fought in chariots.

Notes

19 And when the ſervants of Hadarezer ſaw that they were put to the worſe before Iſrael, they made peace with David, and became his ſervants: neither would the Syrians help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAP. XX.

1 Rabbah is beſieged by Joab, ſpoiled by David, and the people tortured. 4 Three overthrows of the Philiſtines.

AND it came to paſs, that after the year was expired, at the time that kings go out to battle, Joab led forth the power of the army, and waſted the country of the children of Ammon, and came and beſieged Rabbah: but David tarried at Jeruſalem: and Joab ſmote Rabbah, and deſtroyed it.

2 And David took the crown of their king from off his head, and found it to weigh a talent of gold, and there were precious ſtones in it; and it was ſet upon David's head: and he brought alſo exceeding much ſpoil out of the city.

3 And he brought out the people that were in it, and cut them with ſaws and with harrows of iron, and with axes. Even ſo dealt David with all the cities of the children of Ammon. And David and all the people returned to Jeruſalem.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs after this that there aroſe war at Gezer with the Philiſtines, at which time Sibbechai the Huſhathite ſlew Sippai that was of the children of the giant, and they were ſubdued.

5 And there was war again with the Philiſtines; and Elhanan the ſon of Jair ſlew Lahmi the brother of Goliath the Gittite, whoſe ſpear-ſtaff was like a weaver's beam.

6 And yet again there was war at Gath, where was a man of great ſtature, whoſe fingers and toes were four and twenty, ſix on each hand, and ſix on each foot: and he was alſo was the ſon of the giant.

7 But when he defied Iſrael, Jonathan the ſon of Shimea David's brother ſlew him.

8 Theſe were born unto the giant in Gath: and they fell by the hand of David, and by the hand of his ſervants.

CHAP. XXI.

1 David numbereth the people. 8 He repenteth, 9 and chooſeth the peſtilence.

AND Satan ſtood up againſt Iſrael, and provoked David to number Iſrael.

2 And David ſaid to Joab, and to the rulers of the people, Go, number Iſrael from Beer-ſheba even to Dan; and bring the number of them to me, that I may know it.

3 And Joab anſwered, The LORD make his people an hundred times ſo many more as they be: but, my lord the king, are they not all my lord's ſervants? why then doth my lord require this thing? why will he be a cauſe of treſpaſs to Iſrael?

4 Nevertheleſs, the king's word prevailed againſt Joab. Wherefore Joab departed, and went throughout all Iſrael, and came to Jeruſalem.

5 And Joab gave the ſum of the number of the people unto David. And all they of Iſrael were a thouſand thouſand and an hundred thouſand men that drew ſword: and Judah was four hundred threeſcore and ten thouſand men that drew ſword.

6 But Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them: for the king's word was abominable to Joab.

7 And God was diſpleaſed with this thing; therefore he ſmote Iſrael.

8 ¶ And David ſaid unto God, I have ſinned

6 Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them: for the king's word was abominable to Joab.] We have here the true reaſon why neither the Levites nor Benjamites were numbered, namely, becauſe the work was odious to Joab; and therefore he left off before he had numbered theſe two tribes. Patrick.

greatly, becauſe I have done this thing: but now, I beſeech thee, do away the iniquity of thy ſervant; for I have done very fooliſhly.

9 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Gad, David's ſeer, ſaying,

10 Go, and tell David, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD, I offer thee three things: chooſe thee one of them that I may do it unto thee.

11 So Gad came to David, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Chooſe thee

12 Either three years famine; or three months to be deſtroyed before thy foes, while that the ſword of thine enemies overtaketh thee; or elſe three days the ſword of the LORD, even the peſtilence in the land, and the angel of the LORD deſtroying throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael. Now therefore adviſe thy ſelf what word I ſhall bring again to him that ſent me.

13 And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtrait: let me fall now into the hand of the LORD; for very great are his mercies: but let me not fall into the hand of man.

14 So the LORD ſent a peſtilence upon Iſrael: and there fell of Iſrael ſeventy thouſand men.

15 And God ſent an angel unto Jeruſalem to deſtroy it: and as he was deſtroying, the LORD beheld, and he repented him of the evil, and ſaid to the angel that deſtroyed, It is enough, ſtay now thine hand. And the angel of the LORD ſtood by the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.

16 And David lift up his eyes, and ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtand between the earth and the heaven, having a drawn ſword in his hand ſtretched out over Jeruſalem. Then David and the elders of Iſrael, who were clothed in ſackloth, fell upon their faces.

17 And David ſaid unto God, Is it not I that commanded the people to be numbered? even I it is that have ſinned and done evil indeed; but as for theſe ſheep, what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, O LORD my God, be on me, and on my father's houſe; but not on thy people, that they ſhould be plagued.

18 Then the angel of the LORD commanded Gad to ſay to David, that David ſhould go up and ſet up an altar unto the LORD in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite.

19 And David went up at the ſaying of Gad, which he ſpake in the name of the LORD.

20 And Ornan turned back, and ſaw the angel; and his four ſons with him hid themſelves. Now Ornan was threſhing wheat.

21 And as David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and ſaw David, and went out of the threſhing-floor, and bowed himſelf to David with his face to the ground.

22 Then David ſaid to Ornan, Grant me the place of this threſhing-floor, that I may build an altar therein unto the LORD: thou ſhalt grant it me for the full price: that the plague may be ſtayed from the people.

23 And Ornan ſaid unto David, Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do that which is good in his eyes: lo, I give thee the oxen alſo for burnt-offerings, and the threſhing-inſtruments for wood, and the wheat for the meat-offering; I give it all.

24 And king David ſaid to Ornan, Nay; but I will verily buy it for the full price: for I will not take that which is thine for the LORD, nor offer burnt-offerings without coſt.

25 So David gave to Ornan for the place ſix hundred ſhekels of gold by weight.

26 And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings, and called upon the LORD; and he anſwered him from heaven by fire upon the altar of burnt-offering.

27 And the LORD commanded the angel; and he put up his ſword again into the ſheath thereof.

28 At that time, when David ſaw that the LORD had anſwered him in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite, then he ſacrificed there.

29 For the tabernacle of the LORD which Moſes made in the wilderneſs, and the altar of the burnt-offering were at that ſeaſon in the high place at Gibeon.

CHAP. XXII.

1 David prepareth for the building of the temple. 6 He inſtructeth Solomon.

THEN David ſaid, This is the houſe of the LORD God, and this is the altar of the burnt-offering for Iſrael.

2 And David commanded to gather together the ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael; and he ſet maſons to hew wrought ſtones to build the houſe of God.

3 And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates; and for the joinings; and braſs in abundance without weight;

4 Alſo cedar-trees in abundance: for the Zidonians and they of Tyre brought much cedar-wood to David.

5 And David ſaid, Solomon my ſon is young and tender, and the houſe that is to be builded for the LORD muſt be exceeding magnifical, of fame and of glory thoughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.

6 ¶ Then he called for Solomon his ſon, and charged him to build an houſe for the LORD God of Iſrael.

7 And David ſaid to Solomon, My ſon, as for me, it was in my mind to build an houſe unto the name of the LORD my God:

8 But the word of the LORD came to me, ſaying, Thou haſt ſhed blood abundantly, and haſt made great wars: thou ſhalt not build an houſe unto my name, becauſe thou haſt ſhed much blood upon the earth in my ſight.

9 Behold, a ſon ſhall be born to thee, who ſhall be a man of reſt; and I will give him reſt from all his enemies round about: for his name ſhall be Solomon, and I will give peace and quietneſs unto Iſrael in his days.

10 He ſhall build an houſe for my name; and he ſhall be my ſon, and I will be his father; and I will eſtabliſh the throne of his kingdom over Iſrael for ever.

11 Now, my ſon, the LORD be with thee, and proſper thou, and build the houſe of the LORD thy God, as he hath ſaid of thee.

12 Only the LORD give thee wiſdom and underſtanding, and give thee charge concerning Iſrael, that thou mayeſt keep the law of the LORD thy God.

13 Then ſhalt thou proſper, if thou takeſt heed to fulfil the ſtatutes and judgments which the LORD charged Moſes with concerning Iſrael. Be ſtrong, and of good courage; dread not, nor be diſmayed.

14 Now behold, in my trouble I have prepared for the houſe of the LORD an hundred thouſand talents of gold, and a thouſand thouſand talents of ſilver; and of braſs, and iron, without weight: for it is in abundance: timber alſo and ſtone have I prepared: and thou mayeſt add thereto.

15 Moreover, there are workmen with thee in abundance, hewers, and workers of ſtone and timber, and all manner of cunning men for every manner of work.

16 Of the gold, the ſilver, and the braſs, and the iron there is no number. Ariſe therefore, and be doing, and the LORD be with thee.

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 1 This is the houſe of the Lord God.] David ſeems to have been inſpired by God with this thought, and probably concluded, from the ſignal marks he had given of his acceptance of the ſacrifice, that this was the ſpot on which the temple muſt be built. Patrick

This is the altar of the burnt-offering for Iſrael.] i. e. Here, when the temple is finiſhed, ſhall all the houſe of Iſrael offer their ſacrifices. Patrick.

5 Solomon my ſon is young, &c.] David conſidered both the youth of his ſon, and the magnificence of the temple he was to build; and therefore did every thing in his power to aſſiſt him in the undertaking. Patrick.

8 Thou haſt ſhed blood abundantly, &c.] This reaſon is not mentioned in Samuel; but here it is recorded to ſhew, that none but a peaceable monarch was approved by God to build his houſe; that he might be an emblem of the King of Peace, the Lord of the Church, who was prefigured in all ſuch great tranſactions. Patrick.

10 He ſhall be my ſon, &c.] Theſe words can properly belong to none but the Meſſiah; for Solomon reigned but forty years, after which his kingdom was divided; hence St. Paul applies them to Chriſt: Heb. i. 5. Patrick.

14 A hundred thouſand talents of gold, &c.] According to biſhop Cumberland's computation, this ſum amounts to upwards of four hundred and ſixty one millions of money; a ſum immenſe and incredible! the numbers given by Joſephus are often more correct and authentic than thoſe we at preſent find in the text. His words are, ten thouſand talents of gold, and a hundred thouſand talents of ſilver. Kennicott and Pilkington.

17 David alſo commanded all the princes of Iſrael to help Solomon his ſon, ſaying, 18 Is not the LORD your God with you? and hath he not given you reſt on every ſide? for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into mine hand; and the land is ſubdued before the LORD, and before his people.

19 Now ſet your heart and your ſoul to ſeek the LORD your God; ariſe therefore, and build ye the ſanctuary of the LORD God, to bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy veſſels of God, into the houſe that is to be built to the name of the LORD.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Solomon made king. 2 The Levites ordered. 7 The ſons of Gerſhon, 12 Kohath, 21 and Merari.

SO when David was old and full of days, he made Solomon his ſon king over Iſrael.

2 ¶ And he gathered together all the princes of Iſrael, with the prieſts and the Levites.

3 Now the Levites were numbered from the age of thirty years and upward: and their number by their pools, man by man, was thirty and eight thouſand.

4 Of which twenty and four thouſand were to ſet forward the work of the houſe of the LORD; and ſix thouſand were officers and judges;

5 Moreover, four thouſand were porters: and four thouſand praiſed the LORD with the inſtruments which I made, ſaid David, to praiſe therewith.

6 And David divided them into courſes among the ſons of Levi, namely, Gerſhon, Kohath, and Merari.

7 Of the Gerſhonites were Laadan, and Shimei.

8 The ſons of Laadan; the chief was Jehiel, and Zetham, and Joel, three.

9 The ſons of Shimei; Shelomith, and Haziel, and Haran, three. Theſe were the chief of the fathers of Laadan.

10 And the ſons of Shimei were, Jahath, Zina, and Jeuſh, and Beriah. Theſe four were the ſons of Shimei.

11 And Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the ſecond: but Jeuſh and Beriah had not many ſons; therefore they were in one reckoning, according to their father's houſe.

12 ¶ The ſons of Kohath; Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four.

13 The ſons of Amram; Aaron, and Moſes. And Aaron was ſeparated that he ſhould ſanctify the moſt holy things, he and his ſons for ever, to burn incenſe before the LORD, to miniſter unto him, and to bleſs in his name for ever.

14 Now concerning Moſes the man of God, his ſons were named of the tribe of Levi.

15 The ſons of Moſes were, Gerſhom, and Eliezer.

16 Of the ſons of Gerſhom, Shebuel was the chief.

17 And the ſons of Eliezer were, Rehabiah the chief. And Eliezer had none other ſons; but the ſons of Rehabiah were very many.

18 Of the ſons of Izhar, Shelomith the chief.

19 Of the ſons of Hebron; Jeriah the firſt, Amariah the ſecond, Jehaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth.

20 Of the ſons of Uzziel; Micah the firſt, and Jeſiah the ſecond.

21 ¶ The ſons of Merari; Mahli, and Muſhi. The ſons of Mahli; Eleazar, and Kiſh:

22 And Eleazar died, and had no ſons, but daughters: and their brethren the ſons of Kiſh took them.

23 The ſons of Muſhi; Mahli, and Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

24 Theſe were the ſons of Levi after the 19 Now ſet your heart and your ſoul to ſeek the Lord your God, &c.] David earneſtly beſeeches them not to neglect this opportunity of peace which God had given them, as the proper ſeaſon for ſuch a work. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-third Chapter.

Ver. 4 Six thouſand were officers and judges.] God had ordered judges and officers to be ſettled in all their gates, Deut. xvi. 18. but this command ſeems to have been long neglected; David himſelf not being able to reſtore their judicatures to their antient dignity and order, till the latter end of his reign, when he had ſubdued all his enemies. Patrick.

14 Now concerning Moſes the man of God, his ſons were named of the tribe of Levi.] We have here a remarkable inſtance of the modeſty and humility of Moſes: who, though he had ſuch an intimate familiarity with the Divine Majeſty, yet he never advanced his ſons to any poſt of dignity, but left them all Levites, ſervants to the prieſts, who were the ſeed of Aaron. Patrick.

houſe of their fathers; even the chief of the fathers, as they were counted by number of names by their polls, that did the work for the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD, from the age of twenty years and upward.

25 For David ſaid, The LORD God of Iſrael hath given reſt unto his people, that they may dwell in Jeruſalem for ever;

26 And alſo unto the Levites: they ſhall no more carry the tabernacle, nor any veſſels of it for the ſervice thereof.

27 For by the laſt words of David the Levites were numbered from twenty years old and above:

28 Becauſe their office was to wait on the ſons of Aaron, for the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD, in the courts, and in the chambers, and in the purifying of all holy things, and the work of the ſervice of the houſe of God.

29 Both for the ſhew-bread, and for the fine flour for meat-offering, and for the unleavened cakes, and for that which is baked in the pan, and for that which is fried, and for all manner of meaſure and ſize;

30 And to ſtand every morning to thank and praiſe the LORD, and likewiſe at even;

31 And to offer all burnt-ſacrifices unto the LORD in the ſabbaths, in the new-moons and on the ſet-feaſts, by number, according to the order commanded unto them continually before the LORD:

32 And that they ſhould keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the holy place, and the charge of the ſons of Aaron their brethren, in the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 The diviſions of the ſons of Aaron into four and twenty orders. 20 The Kohathites, 27 and the Merarites divided by lot.

NOW theſe are the diviſions of the ſons of Aaron. The ſons of Aaron; Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

2 But Nadab and Abihu died before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the prieſt's office.

3 And David diſtributed them, both Zadok of the ſons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the ſons of Ithamar, according to their offices in their ſervice.

4 And there were more chief men found of the ſons of Eleazar than of the ſons of Ithamar; and thus were they divided: Among the ſons of Eleazar there were ſixteen chief men of the houſe of their fathers, and eight among the ſons of Ithamar according to the houſe of their fathers.

5 Thus were they divided by lot, one ſort with another; for the governors of the ſanctuary, and governors of the houſe of God, were of the ſons of Eleazar, and of the ſons of Ithamar.

6 And Shemaiah the ſon of Nethaneel the ſcribe, one of the Levites, wrote them before the king and the princes, and Zadok the prieſt, and Ahimelech the ſon of Abiathar, and before the chief of the fathers of the prieſts and Levites: one principal houſhold being taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar.

7 Now the firſt lot came forth to Jehoiarib, the ſecond to Jedaiah,

8 The third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim,

9 The fifth to Malchijah, the ſixth to Mijamin,

10 The ſeventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah,

11 The ninth to Jeſhuah, the tenth to Shecaniah,

12 The eleventh to Eliaſhib, the twelfth to Jakim,

13 The thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeſhebeab,

31 To offer all burnt-ſacrifices unto the Lord, &c.] i. e. They were to praiſe God at the time when the ſacrifices were offered; for it belonged to the prieſts alone to offer the burnt-ſacrifices.

3 Of Jeduthun: the ſons of Jeduthun; Gedaliah, and Zeri, and Jeſhaiah, Haſhabiah, Mattithiah, ſix, under the hands of their father Jeduthun, who propheſied with a harp, to give thanks and to praiſe the LORD.

4 Of Heman: the ſons of Heman; Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-ezer, Joſhbekaſhah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth:

porters, even among the chief men, having wards one againſt another, to miniſter in the houſe of the LORD.

13 ¶ And they caſt lots, as well the ſmall as the great, according to the houſe of their fathers for every gate.

14 And the lot eaſt-ward fell to Shelemiah. Then for Zechariah his ſon, a wiſe counſellor, they caſt lots; and his lot came out north-ward.

15 To Obed-edom ſouth-ward; and to his ſons, the houſe of Aſuppim.

16 To Shuppim and Hoſah the lot came forth weſt-ward, with the gate Shallecheth, by the cauſey of the going up, ward againſt ward.

17 Eaſt-ward were ſix Levites, north-ward four a day, ſouth-ward four a day, and toward Aſuppim two and two.

18 At Parbar weſt-ward, four at the cauſey, and two at Parbar.

19 Theſe are the diviſions of the porters among the ſons of Kore, and among the ſons of Merari.

20 ¶ And of the Levites, Ahijah was over the treaſures of the houſe of God, and over the treaſures of the dedicated things.

21 As concerning the ſons of Laadan; the ſons of the Gerſhonite Laadan, chief fathers, even of Laadan the Gerſhonite, were Jehieli.

22 The ſons of Jehieli; Zetham, and Joel his brother, which were over the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD.

23 Of the Amramites, and the Izharites, the Hebronites, and the Uzzielites:

24 And Shebuel the ſon of Gerſhom, the ſon of Moſes, was ruler over the treaſures.

25 And his brethren by Eliezer; Rehabiah his ſon, and Jeſhaiah his ſon, and Joram his ſon, and Zichri his ſon, and Shelomith his ſon.

26 Which Shelomith and his brethren were over all the treaſures of the dedicated things, which David the king and the chief fathers, the captains over thouſands and hundreds, and the captains over the hoſt had dedicated.

27 Out of the ſpoils won in battles did they dedicate to maintain the houſe of the LORD.

28 And all that Samuel the ſeer, and Saul the ſon of Kiſh, and Abner the ſon of Ner, and Joab the ſon of Zeruiah had dedicated, and whoſoever had dedicated any thing, it was under the hand of Shelomith, and of his brethren.

29 ¶ Of the Izharites, Chenaniah and his ſons were for the outward buſineſs over Iſrael, for officers and judges.

30 And of the Hebronites, Haſhabiah and his brethren, men of valour, a thouſand and ſeven hundred, were officers among them of Iſrael on this ſide Jordan weſt-ward, in all the buſineſs of the LORD, and in the ſervice of the king.

31 Among the Hebronites was Jerijah the chief, even among the Hebronites, according to the generations of his fathers. In the fortieth year of the reign of David they were ſought for, and there were found among them mighty men of valour at Jazer of Gilead.

32 And his brethren, men of valour, were two thouſand and ſeven hundred chief fathers, whom king David made rulers over the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, for every matter pertaining to God, and affairs of the king.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 The twelve captains for every ſeveral month.
16 The princes of the twelve tribes.

NOW the children of Iſrael after their number, to wit, the chief fathers and captains of thouſands and hundreds, and their officers that ſerved the king in any matter of the 14 To miniſter in the houſe of the Lord.] This was not a mean miniſtry, as the word porter ſounds among us, but they were like the ſtanding guard of a king in his palace.

15 The houſe of Aſuppim.] Probably a place where the veſſels and treaſures of the temple were depoſited; for Obed-edom, whoſe ſons were placed at Aſuppim, is ſaid, 2 Chron. xxv. 24. to have the cuſtody of the treaſures. Patrick.

16 By the cauſey of the going up.] By the cauſey is meant the aſcent made by Solomon from his own houſe to the temple.

29 The outward buſineſs.] i. e. The buſineſs without the city of Jeruſalem; Bertram thinks it conſiſted in their being aſſeſſors with the ordinary judges.

Notes on the Twenty-ſeventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now the children of Iſrael, &c.] The eccleſiaſtical affairs being ſettled, we have next an account of the manner in which the militia, as we may call it, was diſpoſed, in order to render it ſerviceable on all occaſions. It was diſtributed into twelve legions, each conſiſting of twenty-four thouſand men, who were commanded by one of the chief of the fathers; under whom courſes, which came in and went out month by month, throughout all the months of the year, of every courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

2 Over the firſt courſe for the firſt month was Jaſhobeam the ſon of Zabdiel: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

3 Of the children of Perez was the chief of all the captains of the hoſt for the firſt month.

4 And over the courſe of the ſecond month was Dodai an Ahohite, and of his courſe was Mikloth alſo the ruler: in his courſe likewiſe were twenty and four thouſand.

5 The third captain of the hoſt for the third month was Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada a chief prieſt: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

6 This is that Benaiah who was mighty among the thirty, and above the thirty: and in his courſe was Ammizabad his ſon.

7 The fourth captain for the fourth month was Aſahel the brother of Joab, and Zebadiah his ſon after him: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

8 The fifth captain for the fifth month was Shamhuth the Izrahite: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

9 The ſixth captain for the ſixth month was Ira the ſon of Ikkeſh the Tekoite: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

10 The ſeventh captain for the ſeventh month was Helez the Pelonite, of the children of Ephraim: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

11 The eighth captain for the eighth month was Sibbecai the Huſhathite, of the Zarhites: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

12 The ninth captain for the ninth month was Abiezer the Anetothite, of the Benjamites: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

13 The tenth captain for the tenth month was Maharai the Netophathite, of the Zarhites: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

14 The eleventh captain for the eleventh month was Benaiah the Pirathonite, of the children of Ephraim: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

15 The twelfth captain for the twelfth month was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel: and in his courſe were twenty and four thouſand.

16 ¶ Furthermore, over the tribes of Iſrael: the ruler of the Reubenites was Eliezer the ſon of Zichri; of the Simeonites, Shepatiah the ſon of Maachah;

17 Of the Levites, Haſhabiah the ſon of Kemuel; of the Aaronites, Zadok;

18 Of Judah, Elihu one of the brethren of David; of Iſſachar, Omri the ſon of Michael;

19 Of Zebulun, Iſhmaiah the ſon of Obadiah; of Naphtali, Jerimoth the ſon of Azriel;

20 Of the children of Ephraim, Hoſhea the ſon of Azaziah; of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, Joel the ſon of Pedaiah;

21 Of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh in Gilead, Iddo the ſon of Zechariah; of Benjamin Jaaſiel the ſon of Abner;

22 Of Dan, Azareel the ſon of Jeroham: theſe were the princes of the tribes of Iſrael.

23 But David took not the number of them for twenty years old and under: becauſe the LORD had ſaid he would increaſe Iſrael like to the ſtars of the heavens.

24 Joab the ſon of Zeruiah began to number, but he finiſhed not, becauſe there fell wrath for it againſt Iſrael; neither was the number put in the account of the chronicles of king David.

whom there were captains of thouſands in every legion, ſimilar to what we call colonels, commanding a thouſand men. There were alſo centurions, or captains of hundreds, and under them inferior officers. Each of theſe legions attended one month, for the ſecurity of the king and kingdom; at the end of which they retired to their reſpective places of abode, and another legion ſucceeded. So their courſe came on but once in a year, for one month, which made it an eaſy duty to them. Patrick.

5 Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada, a chief prieſt.] The word which we render a chief prieſt, ſignifies alſo a chief prince, and ſhould have been ſo tranſlated here; for Benaiah was neither high-prieſt nor ſagan, or ſecond prieſt, theſe offices being filled by Abiathar and Zadok. Patrick.

7 The fourth captain was Aſahel.] Hence we learn that theſe courſes were eſtabliſhed at the beginning of David's reign; for Aſahel was killed while he reigned in Hebron, before he was king over all Iſrael. Patrick.

16 Furthermore, over the tribes of Iſrael, &c.] Beſides the twelve great captains already mentioned, each tribe had a ruler, who was called one of the princes of the tribes of Iſrael, ver. 22. Theſe rulers had the chief authority under the king. Patrick.

17 The Aaronites.] Were not a diſtinct tribe; but being a different order from the reſt of the Levites, they had a peculiar chief to preſide over them.

25 And over the king's treaſures was Azmaveth the ſon of Adiel; and over the ſtore-houſes in the fields, in the cities, and in the villages, and in the caſtles, was Jehonathan the ſon of Uzziah.

26 And over them that did the work of the field for tillage of the ground was Ezri the ſon of Chelub.

27 And over the vineyards was Shimei the Ramathite: over the increaſe of the vineyards for the wine-cellars was Zabdi the Shiphmite.

28 And over the olive-trees and the ſycomore-trees that were in the low plains, was Baalhanan the Gederite: and over the cellars of oil was Joaſh.

29 And over the herds that fed in Sharon was Shitrai the Sharonite: and over the herds that were in the valleys was Shaphat the ſon of Adlai.

30 Over the camels alſo was Obil the Iſhmeelite: and over the aſſes was Jehdeiah the Meronothite.

31 And over the flocks was Jaziz the Hagerite. All theſe were the rulers of the ſubſtance which was king David's.

32 Alſo Jonathan David's uncle was a counſeller, a wiſe man, and a ſcribe: and Jehiel the ſon of Hachmoni was with the king's ſons.

33 And Ahithophel was the king's counſeller; and Huſhai the Archite was the king's companion.

34 And after Ahithophel was Jehoiada the ſon of Benaiah, and Abiathar: and the general of the king's army was Joab.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 David exhorteth to fear God. 9, 20. He encourageth Solomon to build the temple.

AND David aſſembled all the princes of Iſrael, the princes of the tribes, and the captains of the companies that miniſtred to the king by courſe, and the captains over the thouſands, and captains over the hundreds, and the ſtewards over all the ſubſtance and poſſeſſion of the king, and of his ſons, with the officers, and with the mighty men, and with all the valiant men, unto Jeruſalem.

2 Then David the king ſtood up upon his feet, and ſaid, Hear me, my brethren, and my people: As for me, I had in mine heart to build an houſe of reſt for the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and for the foot ſtool of our God, and had made ready for the building:

3 But God ſaid unto me, Thou ſhalt not build an houſe for my name, becauſe thou haſt been a man of war, and haſt ſhed blood.

4 Howbeit, the LORD God of Iſrael choſe me before all the houſe of my father to be king over Iſrael for ever. For he hath choſen Judah to be the ruler; and of the houſe of Judah, the houſe of my father; and among the ſons of my father, he liked me to make me king over all Iſrael:

5 And of all my ſons, (for the LORD hath given me many ſons) he hath choſen Solomon my ſon to ſit upon the throne of the kingdom of the LORD over Iſrael.

6 And he ſaid unto me, Solomon thy ſon, he ſhall build my houſe and my courts: for I have choſen him to be my ſon, and I will be his father.

7 Moreover, I will eſtabliſh his kingdom for ever, if he be conſtant to do my commandments and my judgements, as at this day.

8 Now therefore in the ſight of all Iſrael the congregation of the LORD, and in the audience of our God, keep and ſeek for all the commandments of the LORD your God: that ye may poſſeſs this good land, and leave it for an inheritance for your children after you for ever.

9 ¶ And thou, Solomon my ſon, know thou

Notes on the Twenty-eighth Chapter.

Ver. 2 The foot ſtool of our God.] This expreſſion imports no more than the ark of the covenant: for the Divine Glory ſitting upon the wings of the cherubims, over the mercy-ſeat, his feet (to ſpeak after the manner of men) reſted upon the ark. Pat.

8 Keep and ſeek for all the commandments of the Lord.] It is not enough to know the will of God; we muſt alſo keep it; i. e. we muſt obey his commands, and practiſe the duties he hath enjoined. But, in order to know his commandments, we muſt ſeek and ſtudy them; for no man ſhall be excuſed for a ſupine ignorance. Patrick.

That ye may poſſeſs the good land, &c.] It was in vain to expect the continuance of God's favour, unleſs they perſevered ſtedfaſtly in his obedience.

9 Thou, Solomon my ſon, know thou, &c.] i. e. In ſcripture-language, acknowledge and love him.

Serve him with a perfect heart, &c.] He was to expreſs his love the God of thy father, and ſerve him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind. For the LORD ſearcheth all hearts, and underſtandeth all the imaginations of the thoughts. If thou ſeek him, he will be found of thee; but if thou forſake him, he will caſt thee off for ever.

10 Take heed now: for the LORD hath choſen thee to build an houſe for the ſanctuary: be ſtrong, and do it.

11 Then David gave to Solomon his ſon the pattern of the porch, and the houſes thereof, of the treaſuries thereof, and of the upper chambers thereof, and of the inner parlours thereof, and of the place of the mercy-ſeat,

12 And the pattern of all that he had by the ſpirit, of the courts of the houſe of the LORD, and of all the chambers round about, of the treaſuries of the houſe of God, and of the treaſuries of the dedicated things:

13 Alſo for the courſes of the prieſts and the Levites, and for all the work of the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD, and for all the veſſels of ſervice in the houſe of the LORD.

14 He gave of gold by weight, for things of gold, for all inſtruments of all manner of ſervice; ſilver alſo for all inſtruments of ſilver, by weight, for all inſtruments of every kind of ſervice:

15 Even the weight for the candleſticks of gold, and for their lamps of gold, by weight for every candleſtick, and for the lamps thereof; and for the candleſticks of ſilver by weight, both for the candleſtick, and alſo for the lamps thereof, according to the uſe of every candleſtick.

16 And by weight he gave gold for the tables of ſhew-bread, for every table; and likewiſe ſilver for the tables of ſilver.

17 Alſo pure gold for the fleſh-hooks, and the bowls, and the cups: and for the golden baſons he gave gold by weight for every baſon; and likewiſe ſilver by weight for every baſon of ſilver:

18 And for the altar of incenſe, refined gold by weight; and gold for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubims, that ſpread out their wings, and covered the ark of the covenant of the LORD.

19 All this, ſaid David, the LORD made me underſtand in writing by his hand upon me, even all the works of this pattern.

20 ¶ And David ſaid to Solomon his ſon, Be ſtrong and of good courage, and do it: fear not, nor be diſmayed: for the LORD God, even my God, will be with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forſake thee, until thou haſt finiſhed all the work for the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD.

21 And behold, the courſes of the prieſts and the Levites, even they ſhall be with thee for all the ſervice of the houſe of God: and there ſhall be with thee for all manner of workmanſhip every willing ſkilful man, for any manner of ſervice: alſo the princes and all the people will be wholly at thy commandment.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 David by his example cauſeth the princes and people to offer. 10 His thankſgiving. 26 His reign and death.

FUrthermore, David the king ſaid unto all the congregation, Solomon my ſon, whom God alone hath choſen, is yet young and tender, and the work is great: for the palace is not for man, but for the LORD God.

2 Now I have prepared with all my might for the houſe of my God, the gold for things to be made of gold, and the ſilver for things of ſilver, and the braſs for things of braſs, the iron love by an entire obedience to God, in the moſt chearful and exemplary manner.

11 The pattern of the porch, and of the houſes thereof.] This pattern ſeems to have included the whole houſe, with all its apartments; eſpecially of the two parts of it called the holy place, and the holy of holies, which were perfectly diſtinct houſes, being ſeparated by a partition. Patrick.

12 The pattern of all that he had by the ſpirit.] God ſuggeſted to David, by his ſpirit, how he would have his houſe built, and the ſeveral parts of which it was to be compoſed; as he had before given directions to Moſes about the ſtructure of the tabernacle.

18 Gold for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubims.] They are called the chariot, becauſe God is ſaid not only to ſit, but alſo to ride upon the cherubims, Pſalm xviii. 10.

19 All this, ſaid David, the Lord made me underſtand, &c.] i. e. God was pleaſed to reveal all this as diſtinctly to him, as if it had been written on his mind; as the ten commandments were on the tables of ſtone. Patrick.

for things of iron, and wood for things of wood: onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet, gliſtering ſtones, and of divers colours, and all manner of precious ſtones, and marble-ſtones in abundance.

3 Moreover, becauſe I have ſet my affection to the houſe of my God, I have of mine own proper good, of gold and ſilver, which I have given to the houſe of my God, over and above all that I have prepared for the holy houſe,

4 Even three thouſand talents of gold of the gold of Ophir, and ſeven thouſand talents of refined ſilver, to overlay the walls of the houſes withal:

5 The gold for things of gold, and the ſilver for things of ſilver, and for all manner of work to be made by the hands of artificers. And who then is willing to conſecrate his ſervice this day unto the LORD?

6 Then the chief of the fathers and princes of the tribes of Iſrael, and the captains of thouſands and of hundreds, with the rulers of the king's work, offered willingly,

7 And gave for the ſervice of the houſe of God, of gold, five thouſand talents and ten thouſand drams; and of ſilver, ten thouſand talents; and of braſs, eighteen thouſand talents; and one hundred thouſand talents of iron.

8 And they with whom precious ſtones were found, gave them to the treaſure of the houſe of the LORD, by the hand of Jehiel the Gerſhonite.

9 Then the people rejoiced, for that they offered willingly, becauſe with perfect heart they offered willingly to the LORD: and David the king alſo rejoiced with great joy.

10 ¶ Wherefore David bleſſed the LORD before all the congregation: and David ſaid, bleſſed be thou, LORD God of Iſrael our father, for ever and ever.

11 Thine, O LORD, is the greatneſs, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majeſty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all.

12 Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reigneſt over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give ſtrength unto all.

13 Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praiſe thy glorious name.

14 But who am I, and what is my people, that we ſhould be able to offer ſo willingly after this ſort? for all things come of thee, and of thine own have we given thee.

15 For we are ſtrangers before thee, and ſojourners, as were all our fathers; our days on the earth are as a ſhadow, and there is none abiding.

16 O LORD our God, all this ſtore that we have prepared to build thee an houſe for thine holy name, cometh of thine hand, and is all thine own.

17 I know alſo, my God, that thou trieſt the heart, and haſt pleaſure in uprightneſs. As for me, in the uprightneſs of mine heart I have willingly offered all theſe things: and now have I ſeen with joy thy people which are preſent here to offer willingly unto thee.

18 O LORD God of Abraham, Iſaac, and of Iſrael our fathers, keep this for ever in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and prepare their heart unto thee:

19 And give unto Solomon my ſon a perfect heart to keep thy commandments, thy teſtimonies, and thy ſtatutes, and to do all theſe things, and to build the palace for the which I have made proviſion.

20 And David ſaid to all the congregation, Now bleſs the LORD your God. And all the congregation bleſſed the LORD God of their fathers, and bowed down their heads, and worſhipped the LORD and the king.

21 And they ſacrificed ſacrifices unto the Notes on the Twenty-ninth Chapter.

Ver. 4 Three thouſand talents of gold, &c.] Dean Prideaux obſerves two things concerning this immenſe quantity of gold which David dedicated to the temple of God; firſt, that it was that of Ophir, therefore he muſt have eſtabliſhed a navigation in his time, otherwiſe he could not have heaped it to that degree: ſecondly, that the ſum was ſo prodigious, that it is probable it was reckoned by another ſort of talents, of leſs value than the Moſaic talents; for what David gave, chap. xxii. 14. and what is afterwards reckoned in this chapter, if valued by theſe talents, was enough wherewith to have built all the temple of ſolid ſilver.

11 Thine, O Lord, is the greatneſs, and the power, and the glory, &c.] This is a moſt noble declaration of the ſenſe he had of the Divine perfections, with a thankful acknowledgment of God's immenſity, power, goodneſs, eternity, and majeſty.

LORD, and offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD on the morrow after that day, even a thouſand bullocks, a thouſand rams, and a thouſand lambs, with their drink-offerings, and ſacrifices in abundance for all Iſrael:

22 And did eat and drink before the LORD on that day with great gladneſs. And they made Solomon the ſon of David king the ſecond time, and anointed him unto the LORD to be the chief governor, and Zadok to be prieſt.

23 Then Solomon ſat on the throne of the LORD as king inſtead of David his father, and proſpered, and all Iſrael obeyed him.

24 And all the princes and the mighty men, and all the ſons likewiſe of king David, ſubmitted themſelves unto Solomon the king.

25 And the LORD magnified Solomon exceedingly in the ſight of all Iſrael, and beſtowed upon him ſuch royal majeſty as had not been on any king before him in Iſrael.

26 ¶ Thus David the ſon of Jeſſe reigned over all Iſrael.

27 And the time that he reigned over Iſrael was forty years, ſeven years reigned he in Hebron, and thirty and three years reigned he in Jeruſalem.

28 And he died in a good old age, full of days, riches, and honour. And Solomon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

29 Now the acts of David the king, firſt and laſt, behold, they are written in the book of Samuel the ſeer, and in the book of Nathan the prophet, and in the book of Gad the ſeer,

30 With all his reign and his might, and the times that went over him, and over Iſrael, and over all the kingdoms of the countries.

26 Thus David the ſon of Jeſſe, reigned over all Iſrael.] i. e. This is a brief account of the tranſactions of David during his reign; eſpecially the latter part of it.

THE SECOND BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES.

THE ARGUMENT.

This Book contains an account of the kingdom of Judah from the commencement of Solomon's reign, till the return of the Iſraelites from the Babyloniſh captivity; and mentions ſeveral particulars omitted in the books of Kings.

CHAP. I.

1 The ſolemn offering of Solomon at Gibeon. 7 His choice of wiſdom is bleſſed by God. 13 His ſtrength and wealth.

AND Solomon the ſon of David was ſtrengthened in his kingdom, and the LORD his God was with him, and magnified him exceedingly.

2 Then Solomon ſpake unto all Iſrael, to the captains of thouſands and of hundreds, and to the judges, and to every governor in all Iſrael, the chief of the fathers.

3 So Solomon and all the congregation with him went to the high place that was at Gibeon:

Notes on the Firſt Chapter.

Ver. 3 Solomon went to the high place that was at Gibeon, &c.] Though the tabernacle and altar made by Moſes in the wilderneſs were now at Gibeon; yet the ark of the covenant was in the city of David. The reaſon of their being ſeparated, according to Con. Pelicanus was, that even in thoſe days, God intimated to the Iſraelites, that he did not regard the ceremonial worſhip, when the people were under the government of ſuch for there was the tabernacle of the congregation of God, which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD had made in the wilderneſs.

4 But the ark of God had David brought up from Kirjath-jearim to the place which David had prepared for it: for he had pitched a tent for it at Jeruſalem.

5 Moreover, the braſen altar that Bezaleel the ſon of Uri the ſon of Hur had made, he put before the tabernacle of the LORD: and Solomon and the congregation ſought unto it.

6 And Solomon went up thither to the braſen altar before the LORD, which was at the tabernacle of the congregation, and offered a thouſand burnt-offerings upon it.

7 ¶ In that night did God appear unto Solomon, and ſaid unto him, Aſk what I ſhall give thee.

8 And Solomon ſaid unto God, Thou haſt ſhewed great mercy unto David my father, and haſt made me to reign in his ſtead.

9 Now, O LORD God, let thy promiſe unto David my father, be eſtabliſhed; for thou haſt made me king over a people like the duſt of the earth in multitude.

10 Give me now wiſdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people: for who can judge this thy people that is ſo great?

11 And God ſaid to Solomon, Becauſe this was in thine heart, and thou haſt not aſked riches, wealth, or honour, nor the life of thine enemies, neither yet haſt aſked long life; but haſt aſked wiſdom and knowledge for thy ſelf, that thou mayeſt judge my people, over whom I have made thee king:

12 Wiſdom and knowledge is granted unto thee, and I will give thee riches, and wealth, and honour, ſuch as none of the kings have had that have been before thee, neither ſhall there any after thee have the like.

13 ¶ Then Solomon came from his journey to the high place that was at Gibeon, to Jeruſalem, from before the tabernacle of the congregation, and reigned over Iſrael.

14 And Solomon gathered chariots and horſemen: and he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen, which he placed in the chariot-cities, and with the king at Jeruſalem.

15 And the king made ſilver and gold at Jeruſalem as plenteous as ſtones, and cedar-trees made he as the ſycomore-trees that are in the vale for abundance.

16 And Solomon had horſes brought out of Egypt, and linen yarn: the king's merchants received the linen yarn at a price.

17 And they fetched up and brought forth out of Egypt a chariot for ſix hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and an horſe for an hundred and fifty. And ſo brought they out horſes for all the kings of the Hittites, and for the kings of Syria, by their means.

CHAP. II.

1, 17 Solomon's labourers for the building of the temple. 3 His meſſage to Huram. 11 Huram's kind anſwer.

AND Solomon determined to build an houſe for the name of the LORD, and an houſe for his kingdom.

2 And Solomon told out threeſcore and ten thouſand men to bear burdens, and fourſcore thouſand to hew in the mountain, and three thouſand and ſix hundred to overſee them.

3 ¶ And Solomon ſent to Huram the king of Tyre, ſaying, As thou didſt deal with David my father, and didſt ſend him cedars to build him an houſe to dwell therein, even ſo deal with me.

4 Behold, I build an houſe to the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to him, and to burn before him ſweet incenſe, and for the continual ſhew-bread, and for the burnt-offerings morning and evening, on the ſabbaths, and on the new-moons, and on the ſolemn feaſts of the LORD our God. This is an ordinance for ever to Iſrael.

Notes

5 And the houſe which I build is great: for great is our God above all gods.

6 But who is able to build him an houſe, ſeeing the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain him? who am I then that I ſhould build him an houſe, ſave only to burn ſacrifice before him?

7 Send me now therefore a man cunning to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs, and in iron, and in purple, and crimſon, and blue, and that can ſkill to grave with the cunning men that are with me in Judah and in Jeruſalem, whom David my father did provide.

8 Send me alſo cedar-trees, fir-trees, and algum-trees out of Lebanon; for I know that thy ſervants can ſkill to cut timber in Lebanon: and behold, my ſervants ſhall be with thy ſervants.

9 Even to prepare me timber in abundance: for the houſe which I am about to build ſhall be wonderful great.

10 And behold, I will give to thy ſervants the hewers that cut timber, twenty thouſand meaſures of beaten wheat, and twenty thouſand meaſures of barley, and twenty thouſand baths of wine, and twenty thouſand baths of oil.

11 ¶ Then Huram the king of Tyre anſwered in writing, which he ſent to Solomon, Becauſe the LORD hath loved his people, he hath made thee king over them.

12 Huram ſaid moreover, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael that made heaven and earth, who hath given to David the king a wiſe ſon, endued with prudence and underſtanding, that might build an houſe for the LORD, and an houſe for his kingdom.

13 And now I have ſent a cunning man, endued with underſtanding, of Huram my father's;

14 The ſon of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father was a man of Tyre; ſkilful to work in gold and in ſilver, in braſs, in iron, in ſtone, and in timber, in purple, in blue, and in fine linen, and in crimſon; alſo to grave any manner of graving, and to find out every device which ſhall be put to him, with thy cunning men, and with the cunning men of my lord David thy father.

15 Now therefore, the wheat, and the barley, the oil, and the wine which my lord hath ſpoken of, let him ſend unto his ſervants:

16 And we will cut wood out of Lebanon, as much as thou ſhalt need: and we will bring it to thee in flotes by ſea, to Joppa; and thou ſhalt carry it up to Jeruſalem.

17 ¶ And Solomon numbered all the ſtrangers that were in the land of Iſrael, after the numbering wherewith David his father had numbered them; and they were found an hundred and fifty thouſand and three thouſand and ſix hundred.

18 And he ſet threeſcore and ten thouſand of them to be bearers of burdens, and fourſcore thouſand to be hewers in the mountain, and three thouſand and ſix hundred overſeers to ſet the people a work.

1 The place and time of building the temple. 3 The meaſure and ornaments of the houſe. 11 The cherubims.

THEN Solomon began to build the houſe of the LORD at Jeruſalem in mount Moriah, where the LORD appeared unto David his father, in the place that David had pre-

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 6 Who is able to build him an houſe? &c.] He would not have Huram imagine (in Kings called Hiram) that he had ſuch an unworthy idea of God, as to think he could be comprehended in any houſe, being immenſe beyond conception: but only for his worſhippers to aſſemble in, and there perform the duties of religion. Patrick.

8 Algum-trees.] See note on 1 Kings, x. 11. See alſo chap. v. and vii. of the ſame book, where moſt of theſe tranſactions are recorded.

17 Solomon numbered all the ſtrangers, &c.] Theſe were the remainder of the Amorites, Hittites, &c. who had embraced the Jewiſh religion. David had before numbered them, that he might know their ſtrength and condition, and diſtinguiſh them from Jews, by employing them in ſuch offices as he did not think fit for the Iſraelites. Patrick.

pared in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

2 And he began to build in the second day of the second month, in the fourth year of his reign.

3 ¶ Now these are the things wherein Solomon was instructed for the building of the house of God: the length by cubits after the first measure was threescore cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

4 And the porch that was in the front of the house, the length of it was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the height was an hundred and twenty: and he overlaid it within with pure gold.

5 And the greater house he cieled with fir-tree, which he overlaid with fine gold, and set thereon palm-trees and chains.

6 And he garnished the house with precious stones for beauty: and the gold was gold of Parvaim.

7 He overlaid also the house, the beams, the posts, and the walls thereof, and the doors thereof with gold, and graved cherubims on the walls.

8 And he made the most holy house, the length whereof was according to the breadth of the house, twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof twenty cubits: and he overlaid it with fine gold, amounting to six hundred talents.

9 And the weight of the nails was fifty shekels of gold. And he overlaid the upper chambers with gold.

10 And in the most holy house he made two cherubims of image-work, and overlaid them with gold.

11 ¶ And the wings of the cherubims were twenty cubits long: one wing of the one cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house; and the other wing was likewise five cubits, reaching to the wing of the other cherub.

12 And one wing of the other cherub was five cubits, reaching to the wall of the house; and the other wing was five cubits also, joining to the wing of the other cherub.

13 The wings of these cherubims spread themselves forth twenty cubits: and they stood on their feet, and their faces were inward.

14 And he made the vail of blue, and purple, and crimson, and fine linen, and wrought cherubims thereon.

15 Also he made before the house two pillars of thirty and five cubits high, and the chapiter that was on the top of each of them was five cubits.

16 And he made chains, as in the oracle, and put them on the heads of the pillars; and made an hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chains.

17 And he reared up the pillars before the temple, one on the right hand, and the other on the left; and called the name of that on the right hand, Jachin; and the name of that on the left, Boaz.

CHAP. IV.

1 The altar of brass. 2 The molten sea. 6 The ten lavers, candlesticks, and tables. 19 The instruments of gold.

MOreover, he made an altar of brass, twenty cubits the length thereof, and twenty cubits the breadth thereof, and ten cubits the height thereof.

2 ¶ Also he made a molten sea of ten cubits from brim to brim, round in compass, and five cubits the height thereof; and a line of thirty cubits did compass it round about.

3 These are the things wherein Solomon was instructed for the building of the house of God.] The Targum translates it thus: these are the dimensions of the foundation of the temple, which Solomon began to build.

4 The height was an hundred and twenty.] This is a very different account from that in 1 Kings, vi. 2. where it is said to be thirty cubits. Kimchi thinks that the porch was but thirty cubits high, whereas the temple itself was one hundred and twenty.

6 Gold of Parvaim.] Some learned commentators observe, that Parvaim was another name for the island Taprobanes, which we call Sumatra, and abounds with fine gold. Lamy.

9 He overlaid the upper chambers with gold.] The word which we render upper chambers signifies also the ceiling, and should have been so translated; for the chambers were not overlaid with gold, but the ceiling, walls, and floors of the holy and most holy place were covered with it. Patrick.

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 He made an altar of brass, &c.] This was much larger than that made by Moses; but was doubtless executed according to the direction of God, who had informed David in what manner all such things should be made. For the particulars of this chapter, see 1 Kings, vii.

3 And under it was the ſimilitude of oxen, which did compaſs it round about; ten in a cubit, compaſſing the ſea round about. Two rows of oxen were caſt, when it was caſt.

4 It ſtood upon twelve oxen, three looking toward the north, and three looking toward the weſt, and three looking toward the ſouth, and three looking toward the eaſt: and the ſea was ſet above upon them, and all their hinder parts were inward.

5 And the thickneſs of it was an hand-breadth, and the brim of it like the work of the brim of a cup, with flowers of lilies; and it received and held three thouſand baths.

6 ¶ He made alſo ten lavers, and put five on the right hand, and five on the left, to waſh in them: ſuch things as they offered for the burnt-offering they waſhed in them; but the ſea was for the prieſts to waſh in.

7 And he made ten candleſticks of gold according to their form, and ſet them in the temple, five on the right hand, and five on the left.

8 He made alſo ten tables, and placed them in the temple, five on the right ſide, and five on the left. And he made an hundred baſons of gold.

9 Furthermore, he made the court of the prieſts, and the great court, and doors for the court, and overlaid the doors of them with braſs.

10 And he ſet the ſea on the right ſide of the eaſt-end, over-againſt the ſouth.

11 And Huram made the pots, and the ſhovels, and the baſons. And Huram finiſhed the work that he was to make for king Solomon for the houſe of God;

12 To wit, the two pillars, and the pommels, and the chapiters which were on the top of the two pillars, and the two wreaths to cover the two pommels of the chapiters, which were on the top of the pillars;

13 And four hundred pomegranates on the two wreaths, two rows of pomegranates on each wreath, to cover the two pommels of the chapiters, which were upon the pillars.

14 He made alſo baſes, and lavers made he upon the baſes.

15 One ſea, and twelve oxen under it:

16 The pots alſo, and the ſhovels, and the fleſh-hooks, and all their inſtruments, did Huram his father make to king Solomon for the houſe of the LORD of bright braſs.

17 In the plain of Jordan did the king caſt them, in the clay-ground, between Succoth and Zeredathah.

18 Thus Solomon made all theſe veſſels in great abundance: for the weight of the braſs could not be found out.

19 ¶ And Solomon made all the veſſels that were for the houſe of God, the golden altar alſo, and the tables whereon the ſhew-bread was ſet;

20 Moreover, the candleſticks with their lamps, that they ſhould burn after the manner, before the oracle, of pure gold;

21 And the flowers, and the lamps, and the tongs made he of gold, and that perfect gold;

22 And the ſnuffers, and the baſons, and the ſpoons, and the cenſers, of pure gold: and the entry of the houſe, the inner doors thereof for the moſt holy place, and the doors of the houſe of the temple, were of gold.

CHAP. V.

1 The dedicated treaſures. 2 The bringing up of the ark of the covenant. 11 God being praiſed, giveth a ſign of his favour.

THUS all the work that Solomon made for the houſe of the LORD was finiſhed: and Solomon brought in all the things that David his father had dedicated; and the ſilver, and the gold, and all the inſtruments put he among the treaſures of the houſe of God.

3 Two rows of oxen were caſt, when it was caſt.] i. e. The oxen and the ſea were caſt together, and not faſtened afterwards. Kimchi.

5 It held three thouſand baths.] 1 Kings, vii. 26, ſays only two thouſand baths; to reconcile theſe paſſages, we may ſuppoſe, that the quantity of water which was commonly in it was two thouſand baths, but if filled to the top, it would contain three thouſand.

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Solomon brought in all the things that David had dedicated, &c.] David had made ſuch vaſt preparations for building the houſe of God, that there was more than ſufficient for the whole work; and this ſurplus Solomon depoſited in the treaſury of the temple. 1 Kings, viii. contains nearly the ſame account as this chapter and the next, therefore the reader is referred thither.

2 ¶ Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel, and all the heads of the tribes, the chief of the fathers of the children of Israel unto Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of the city of David, which is Zion.

3 Wherefore all the men of Israel assembled themselves unto the king in the feast, which was in the seventh month.

4 And all the elders of Israel came; and the Levites took up the ark.

5 And they brought up the ark, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, these did the priests and the Levites bring up.

6 Also king Solomon, and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled unto him before the ark, sacrificed sheep and oxen which could not be told nor numbered for multitude.

7 And the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD unto his place, to the oracle of the house, into the most holy place, even under the wings of the cherubims.

8 For the cherubims spread forth their wings over the place of the ark, and the cherubims covered the ark and the staves thereof above.

9 And they drew out the staves of the ark, that the ends of the staves were seen from the ark before the oracle; but they were not seen without. And there it is unto this day.

10 There was nothing in the ark save the two tables which Moses put therein at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel, when they came out of Egypt.

11 ¶ And it came to pass when the priests were come out of the holy place, (for all the priests that were present were sanctified, and did not then wait by course:

12 Also the Levites which were the singers, all of them of Asaph, of Heman, of Jeduthun, with their sons and their brethren, being arrayed in white linen, having cymbals and psalteries and harps, stood at the east-end of the altar, and with them an hundred and twenty priests sounding with trumpets:)

13 It came even to pass, as the trumpeters and singers were as one, to make one sound to be heard in praising and thanking the LORD; and when they lifted up their voice with the trumpets and cymbals and instruments of musick, and praised the LORD, saying, For he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever: that then the house was filled with a cloud, even the house of the LORD;

14 So that the priests could not stand to minister by reason of the cloud: for the glory of the LORD had filled the house of God.

CHAP. VI.

1 Solomon having blessed the people, blesseth God.
12 His prayer at the consecration of the temple.

THEN said Solomon, The LORD hath said that he would dwell in the thick darkness.

2 But I have built an house of habitation for thee, and a place for thy dwelling for ever.

3 And the king turned his face, and blessed the whole congregation of Israel: and all the congregation of Israel stood.

4 And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who hath with his hands fulfilled that which he spake with his mouth to my father David, saying,

5 Since the day that I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city among all the tribes of Israel to build an house in, that my name might be there; neither chose I any man to be a ruler over my people Israel:

6 But I have chosen Jerusalem, that my name might be there; and have chosen David to be over my people Israel.

---

6 Solomon and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled, &c.] Nothing could be more pleasing than to see such harmony as here appeared among all orders of men; both teachers and learners, magistrates, soldiers and people, all joined in promoting the service and honour of God. Certainly we, who call ourselves Christians, should carefully study to promote such unity among ourselves, that we may all form one fold, under the great Shepherd and Bishop of our souls. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Dwell in the thick darkness.] See 1 Kings, viii. 12, &c.

5 Neither chuse I any man to be a ruler over my people Israel.] These words are very different from those in 1 Kings, viii. 16. where it is said, I chose David to be over my people Israel: till whose time, there was no settled succession of a ruler, that he and his posterity should reign over them: but God raised up judges out of what tribe and family he pleased: and when he made

7 Now it was in the heart of David my father to build an houſe for the name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

8 But the LORD ſaid to David my father, Foraſmuch as it was in thine heart to build an houſe for my name, thou didſt well in that it was in thine heart:

9 Notwithſtanding, thou ſhalt not build the houſe; but thy ſon which ſhall come forth out of thy loins, he ſhall build the houſe for my name.

10 The LORD therefore hath performed his word that he hath ſpoken: for I am riſen up in the room of David my father, and am ſet on the throne of Iſrael, as the LORD promiſed, and have built the houſe for the name of the LORD God of Iſrael.

11 And in it have I put the ark; wherein is the covenant of the LORD that he made with the children of Iſrael.

12 ¶ And he ſtood before the altar of the LORD in the preſence of all the congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his hands;

13 For Solomon had made a braſen ſcaffold, of five cubits long, five cubits broad, and three cubits high, and had ſet it in the midſt of the court: and upon it he ſtood, and kneeled down upon his knees before all the congregation of Iſrael, and ſpread forth his hands towards heaven.

14 And ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, there is no God like thee in the heaven, nor in the earth; which keepeſt covenant, and ſheweſt mercy unto thy ſervants, that walk before thee with all their hearts:

15 Thou which haſt kept with thy ſervant David my father that which thou haſt promiſed him; and ſpeakeſt with thy mouth, and haſt fulfilled it with thine hand, as it is this day.

16 Now therefore, O LORD God of Iſrael, keep with thy ſervant David my father, that which thou haſt promiſed him, ſaying, There ſhall not fail thee a man in my ſight to ſit upon the throne of Iſrael; yet ſo, that thy children take heed to their way to walk in my law, as thou haſt walked before me.

17 Now then, O LORD God of Iſrael, let thy word be verified which thou haſt ſpoken unto thy ſervant David.

18 But will God in very deed dwell with men on the earth? behold, heaven, and the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much leſs this houſe which I have built?

19 Have reſpect therefore to the prayer of thy ſervant, and to his ſupplication, O LORD my God, to hearken unto the cry and the prayer which thy ſervant prayeth before thee:

20 That thine eyes may be open upon this houſe day and night, upon the place whereof thou haſt ſaid, that thou wouldeſt put thy name there; to hearken unto the prayer which thy ſervant prayeth towards this place.

21 Hearken therefore unto the ſupplications of thy ſervant, and of thy people Iſrael, which they ſhall make towards this place: hear thou from thy dwelling-place, even from heaven; and when thou heareſt, forgive.

22 If a man ſin againſt his neighbour, and an oath be laid upon him to make him ſwear, and the oath come before thine altar in this houſe;

23 Then hear thou from heaven, and do, and judge thy ſervants, by requiting the wicked, by recompenſing his way upon his own head; and by juſtifying the righteous, by giving him according to his righteouſneſs.

24 And if thy people Iſrael be put to the worſe before the enemy, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee; and ſhall return and confeſs thy name, and pray and make ſupplication before thee in this houſe;

25 Then hear thou from the heavens, and forgive the ſin of thy people Iſrael, and bring them again unto the land which thou gaveſt to them and to their fathers.

26 When the heaven is ſhut up, and there is no rain, becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee; yet if they pray towards this place, and confeſs thy name, and turn from their ſin when thou doſt afflict them;

27 Then hear thou from heaven, and forgive the ſin of thy ſervants, and of thy people Iſrael, when thou haſt taught them the good way wherein they ſhould walk; and ſend rain upon thy land which thou haſt given unto thy people for an inheritance.

28 If there be dearth in the land, if there be peſtilence, if there be blaſting, or mildew, locuſts, or caterpillers; if their enemies beſiege them in the cities of their land; whatſoever ſore, or whatſoever ſickneſs there be:

29 Then what prayer or what ſupplication ſoever ſhall be made of any man, or of all thy people Iſrael, when every one ſhall know his own ſore and his own grief, and ſhall ſpread forth his hands in this houſe:

30 Then hear thou from heaven thy dwelling-place, and forgive, and render unto every man according unto all his ways, whoſe heart thou knoweſt; (for thou only knoweſt the hearts of the children of men:)

31 That they may fear thee, to walk in thy ways ſo long as they live in the land which thou gaveſt unto their fathers.

32 Moreover, concerning the ſtranger, which is not of thy people Iſrael, but is come from a far country for thy great name's ſake, and thy mighty hand, and thy ſtretched-out arm; if they come and pray in this houſe;

33 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling-place, and do according to all that the ſtranger calleth to thee for; that all people of the earth may know thy name, and fear thee, as doth thy people Iſrael, and may know that this houſe which I have built is called by thy name.

34 If thy people go out to war againſt their enemies by the way that thou ſhalt ſend them, and they pray unto thee toward this city which thou haſt choſen, and the houſe which I have built for thy name:

35 Then hear thou from the heavens, their prayer and their ſupplication, and maintain their cauſe.

36 If they ſin againſt thee, (for there is no man which ſinneth not,) and thou be angry with them, and deliver them over before their enemies, and they carry them away captives unto a land far off or near;

37 Yet, if they bethink themſelves in the land whither they are carried captive, and turn and pray unto thee in the land of their captivity, ſaying, We have ſinned, we have done amiſs, and have dealt wickedly;

38 If they return to thee with all their heart and with all their ſoul in the land of their captivity, whither they have carried them captives, and pray toward their land which thou gaveſt unto their fathers, and toward the city which thou haſt choſen, and toward the houſe which I have built for thy name:

39 Then hear thou from the heavens, even from thy dwelling-place, their prayer and their ſupplications, and maintain their cauſe, and forgive thy people which have ſinned againſt thee.

40 Now, my God, let, I beſeech thee, thine eyes be open, and let thine ears be attent unto the prayer that is made in this place.

41 Now therefore ariſe, O LORD God, into thy reſting-place, thou, and the ark of thy ſtrength: let thy prieſts, O LORD God, be clothed with ſalvation, and let thy ſaints rejoice in goodneſs.

42 O LORD God, turn not away the face of thine anointed; remember the mercies of David thy ſervant.

CHAP. VII.

1 God giving teſtimony to Solomon's prayer, the people worſhip him. 4 Solomon's ſacrifice.

NOW when Solomon had made an end of praying, the fire came down from heaven, and conſumed the burnt-offering and the ſacrifices: and the glory of the LORD filled the houſe.

41 Now therefore ariſe, O Lord God, into thy reſting-place, &c.] Theſe words are part of Pſalm cxxxii. 8, 9. with a little alteration, which the king now uſed in his addreſs to God, to beſeech him to take up here his habitation, together with his ark: to defend his prieſts who miniſtred to him in this place, that they might obtain his bleſſings for others: ſo that all the people might rejoice in his goodneſs, and be ſafe under the ſhadow of his wings. Patrick.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Fire came down and conſumed the burnt-offering.] This is added to what is recorded in 1 Kings, viii. 11, to ſhew God's acceptation

2 And the priests could not enter into the house of the LORD, because the glory of the LORD had filled the LORD's house.

3 And when all the children of Israel saw how the fire came down, and the glory of the LORD upon the house, they bowed themselves with their faces to the ground upon the pavement, and worshipped, and praised the LORD, saying, For he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever.

4 ¶ Then the king and all the people offered sacrifices before the LORD.

5 And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of twenty and two thousand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.

6 And the priests waited on their offices: the Levites also with instruments of musick of the LORD, which David the king had made to praise the LORD, because his mercy endureth for ever, when David praised by their ministry: and the priests sounded trumpets before them, and all Israel stood.

7 Moreover, Solomon hallowed the middle of the court that was before the house of the LORD: for there he offered burnt-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings, because the brasen altar which Solomon had made was not able to receive the burnt-offerings, and the meat-offerings, and the fat.

8 Also at the same time Solomon kept the feast seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great congregation, from the entering-in of Hamath unto the river of Egypt.

9 And in the eighth day they made a solemn assembly: for they kept the dedication of the altar seven days, and the feast seven days.

10 And on the three and twentieth day of the seventh month he sent the people away into the tents, glad and merry in heart for the goodness that the LORD had shewed unto David, and to Solomon, and to Israel his people.

11 Thus Solomon finished the house of the LORD, and the king's house: and all that came into Solomon's heart to make in the house of the LORD, and in his own house, he prosperously effected.

12 And the LORD appeared to Solomon by night, and said unto him, I have heard thy prayer, and have chosen this place to my self for an house of sacrifice.

13 If I shut up heaven that there be no rain, of if I command the locusts to devour the land, of if I send pestilence among my people;

14 If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.

15 Now mine eyes shall be open, and mine ears attent unto the prayer that is made in this place.

16 For now have I chosen and sanctified this house, that my name may be there for ever: and mine eyes and mine heart shall be there perpetually

17 And as for thee, if thou wilt walk before me, as David thy father walked, and do according to all that I have commanded thee, and shalt observe my statutes and my judgments;

18 Then will I establish the throne of thy kingdom, according as I have covenanted with David thy father, saying, There shall not fail thee a man to be ruler in Israel.

19 But if ye turn away and forsake my statutes and my commandments which I have set before you, and shall go and serve other gods, and worship them;

20 Then will I pluck them up by the roots, out of my land which I have given them; and this house, which I have sanctified for my name, will I cast out of my sight, and will make it to be a proverb and a by-word among all nations.

21 And this house, which is high, shall be an astonishment to every one that passeth by it; so that he shall say, Why hath the LORD done thus unto this land and unto this house?

22 And it shall be answered, Because they forsook the LORD God of their fathers, which acceptation of Solomon's prayer and sacrifices, and give him assurance that he would be present in this place, and grant all their petitions.

13 If I shut up heaven, &c.] Famine and pestilence were two sore punishments inflicted on them by God for their sins; the former was sometimes caused by want of rain, and sometimes by locusts, which devoured all the fruits of the ground. Patrick. This chapter is contained in the 8th and 9th chapters of 1 Kings.

brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, and laid hold on other gods, and worſhipped them, and ſerved them: therefore hath he brought all this evil upon them.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Solomon's buildings. 7 The Gentiles made tributaries. 12 Solomon's yearly ſacrifices.

AND it came to paſs at the end of twenty years, wherein Solomon had built the houſe of the LORD, and his own houſe,

2 That the cities which Huram had reſtored to Solomon, Solomon built them, and cauſed the children of Iſrael to dwell there.

3 And Solomon went to Hamath-zobah, and prevailed againſt it.

4 And he built Tadmor in the wilderneſs, and all the ſtore-cities which he built in Hamath.

5 Alſo he built Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, fenced cities, with walls, gates, and bars;

6 And Baalath, and all the ſtore-cities that Solomon had, and all the chariot-cities, and the cities of the horſemen, and all that Solomon deſired to build in Jeruſalem, and in Lebanon, and throughout all the land of his dominion.

7 ¶ As for all the people that were left of the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, which were not of Iſrael,

8 But of their children who were left after them in the land, whom the children of Iſrael conſumed not; them did Solomon make to pay tribute until this day.

9 But of the children of Iſrael did Solomon make no ſervants for his work: but they were men of war, and chief of his captains, and captains of his chariots and horſemen.

10 And theſe were the chief of king Solomon's officers, even two hundred and fifty, that bare rule over the people.

11 And Solomon brought up the daughter of Pharaoh out of the city of David unto the houſe that he had built for her: for he ſaid, My wife ſhall not dwell in the houſe of David king of Iſrael, becauſe the places are holy, whereunto the ark of the LORD hath come.

12 ¶ Then Solomon offered burnt-offerings unto the LORD on the altar of the LORD, which he had built before the porch;

13 Even after a certain rate every day, offering according to the commandment of Moſes, on the ſabbaths, and on the new-moons, and on the ſolemn feaſts, three times in the year, even in the feaſt of unleavened bread, and in the feaſt of weeks, and in the feaſt of tabernacles.

14 And he appointed, according to the order of David his father, the courſes of the prieſts to their ſervice, and the Levites to their charges, to praiſe and miniſter before the prieſts, as the duty of every day required; the porters alſo by their courſes, at every gate: for ſo had David the man of God commanded.

15 And they departed not from the commandment of the king unto the prieſts and Levites, concerning any matter, or concerning the treaſures.

16 Now all the work of Solomon was prepared unto the day of the foundation of the houſe of the LORD, and until it was finiſhed. So the houſe of the LORD was perfected.

17 Then went Solomon to Ezion-geber, and to Eloth, at the ſea-ſide in the land of Edom.

18 And Huram ſent him, by the hands of his ſervants, ſhips, and ſervants that had knowledge of the ſea; and they went with the ſervants of Solomon to Ophir, and took thence four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and brought them to king Solomon.

CHAP. IX.

1 The queen of Sheba admireth Solomon's wiſdom. 13 Solomon's riches. 29 His death.

AND when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon, ſhe came to prove Solomon with hard queſtions at Jeruſalem,

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 3 Solomon went to Hamath-zobath.] This country lay between the Euphrates and Damaſcus; the former being its eaſtern, and the latter its weſtern boundary. Patrick.

4 He built Tadmor in the wilderneſs.] See note on 1 Kings, ix. 18.

5 Beth-horon the upper, and Beth-horon the nether, &c.] Only the nether Beth-horon is mentioned, 1 Kings, ix. 17. They were both built before this time; ſo that Solomon only repaired and beautified them.

with a very great company, and camels that bare ſpices, and gold in abundance, and precious ſtones: and when ſhe was come to Solomon, ſhe communed with him of all that was in her heart.

2 And Solomon told her all her queſtions; and there was nothing hid from Solomon which he told her not.

3 And when the queen of Sheba had ſeen the wiſdom of Solomon, and the houſe that he had built,

4 And the meat of his table and the ſitting of his ſervants, and the attendance of his miniſters, and their apparel; his cup-bearers alſo, and their apparel; and his aſcent by which he went up into the houſe of the LORD; there was no more ſpirit in her.

5 And ſhe ſaid to the king, It was a true report which I heard in mine own land, of thine acts, and of thy wiſdom;

6 Howbeit, I believed not their words, until I came, and mine eyes had ſeen it. And behold, the one half of the greatneſs of thy wiſdom was not told me: for thou exceedeſt the fame that I heard.

7 Happy are thy men, and happy are theſe thy ſervants, which ſtand continually, before thee, and hear thy wiſdom.

8 Bleſſed be the LORD thy God, which delighted in thee to ſet thee on his throne, to be king for the LORD thy God. Becauſe thy God loved Iſrael, to eſtabliſh them for ever, therefore made he thee king over them, to do judgment and juſtice.

9 And ſhe gave the king an hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of ſpices great abundance and precious ſtones: neither was there any ſuch ſpices as the queen of Sheba gave king Solomon.

10 And the ſervants alſo of Huram, and the ſervants of Solomon, which brought gold from Ophir, brought algum-trees, and precious ſtones.

11 And the king made of the algum-trees, terriſes to the houſe of the LORD, and to the king's palace, and harps and pſalteries for ſingers And there were none ſuch ſeen before in the land of Judah.

12 And king Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all her deſire, whatſoever ſhe aſked, beſide that which ſhe had brought unto the king. So ſhe turned, and went away to her own land, ſhe and her ſervants.

13 ¶ Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was ſix hundred and threeſcore and ſix talents of gold;

14 Beſides that which chapmen and merchants brought. And all the kings of Arabia, and governors of the country brought gold and ſilver to Solomon.

15 And king Solomon made two hundred targets of beaten gold: ſix hundred ſhekels of beaten gold went to one target.

16 And three hundred ſhields made he of beaten gold: three hundred ſhekels of gold went to one ſhield. And the king put them in the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon.

17 Moreover, the king made a great throne of ivory, and overlaid it with pure gold.

18 And there were ſix ſteps to the throne, with a footſtool of gold, which were faſtened to the throne, and ſtays on each ſide of the ſitting-place, and two lions ſtanding by the ſtays.

19 And twelve lions ſtood there on the one ſide and on the other, upon the ſix ſteps. There was not the like made in any kingdom.

20 And all the drinking-veſſels of king Solomon were of gold, and all the veſſels of the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon were of pure gold; none were of ſilver; it was not any thing accounted of in the days of Solomon.

21 For the king's ſhips went to Tarſhiſh

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 2 Solomon told her all her queſtions, &c.] This chapter is little more than a repetition of what is before related in 1 Kings, x. We may however obſerve here, that the queſtions put to Solomon by the queen of Sheba were religious, particularly concerning the ſervice of God: our Saviour himſelf tells us, that ſhe came to hear the wiſdom of Solomon, and ſhould therefore riſe up in judgment againſt that generation who refuſed to liſten to his inſtructions: it is ſaid, 1 Kings, x. 1, that the fame ſhe heard of Solomon was concerning the name of the Lord. Patrick.

21 Apes and peacocks.] What is here rendered apes and peacocks, from the context, I am perſuaded, that the Greek tranſlators of the book of Kings more properly underſtood them to mean ſome kinds of precious ſtones: but of what particular ſort it would be in vain to enquire. Pilkington's Remarks.

with the ſervants of Huram; every three years once came the ſhips of Tarſhiſh bringing gold and ſilver, ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

22 And king Solomon paſſed all the kings of the earth in riches and wiſdom.

23 And all the kings of the earth ſought the preſence of Solomon, to hear his wiſdom, that God had put in his heart.

24 And they brought every man his preſent, veſſels of ſilver, and veſſels of gold, and raiment, harneſs, and ſpices, horſes, and mules, a rate year by year.

25 And Solomon had four thouſand ſtalls for horſes and chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen: whom he beſtowed in the chariot-cities, and with the king at Jeruſalem.

26 And he reigned over all the kings, from the river even unto the land of the Philiſtines, and to the border of Egypt.

27 And the king made ſilver in Jeruſalem as ſtones, and cedar-trees made he as the ſycomore-trees, that are in the low plains, in abundance.

28 And they brought unto Solomon horſes out of Egypt, and out of all lands.

29 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Solomon, firſt and laſt, are they not written in the book of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the viſions of Iddo the ſeer againſt Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat?

30 And Solomon reigned in Jeruſalem over all Iſrael forty years.

31 And Solomon ſlept with his fathers, and he was buried in the city of David his father. And Rehoboam his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. X.

1 Rehoboam refuſing the old men's counſel, 16 ten tribes revolt, 18 and he fleeth.

AND Rehoboam went to Shechem: for to Shechem were all Iſrael come to make him king.

2 And it came to paſs when Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, who was in Egypt, whither he had fled from the preſence of Solomon the king, heard it, that Jeroboam returned out of Egypt.

3 And they ſent and called him. So Jeroboam and all Iſrael came, and ſpake to Rehoboam, ſaying,

4 Thy father made our yoke grievous: now therefore eaſe thou ſomewhat the grievous ſervitude of thy father, and his heavy yoke that he put upon us, and we will ſerve thee.

5 And he ſaid unto them, Come again unto me after three days. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam took counſel with the old men that had ſtood before Solomon his father while he yet lived, ſaying, What counſel give ye me to return anſwer to this people?

7 And they ſpake unto him, ſaying, If thou be kind to this people, and pleaſe them, and ſpeak good words to them, they will be thy ſervants for ever.

8 But he forſook the counſel which the old men gave him, and took counſel with the young men that were brought up with him, that ſtood before him.

9 And he ſaid unto them, What advice give ye that we may return anſwer to this people, which have ſpoken to me, ſaying, Eaſe ſomewhat the yoke that thy father did put upon us?

10 And the young men that were brought up with him, ſpake unto him, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou anſwer the people that ſpake unto thee, ſaying, Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it ſomewhat lighter for us; thus ſhalt thou ſay unto them, My little finger ſhall be thicker than my father's loins.

---

27 The king made ſilver in Jeruſalem as ſtones.] An hyperbolical expreſſion, ſignifying an incredible abundance.

29 The reſt of the acts of Solomon---are they not written in the book of Nathan the prophet, &c.] Abarbinel is of opinion, that there were two books of the acts of Solomon; one containing an account of the beginning of his reign, his noble buildings, and the ſplendor in which he lived, written by Nathan the prophet; the other an account of what paſſed in the latter part of his life, how he fell into idolatry, and the puniſhments with which he was threatened, written by Ahijah the Shilonite and Iddo the ſeer: for the latter wrote the acts of Jeroboam, which could not be well related without touching upon ſome part of Solomon's reign. Patrick.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Rehoboam went to Shechem, &c.] For an account of this tranſaction the reader is referred to 1 Kings, xii. I ſhall only obſerve here, that this complaint of the people was doubtleſs owing to Solomon's idolatry; for being unable to ſupport the vaſt expences of ſo many wives and concubines, and alſo of building them temples for the worſhip of their gods, he had recourſe to oppreſſive meaſures, and loaded the people with heavy taxes. Patrick.

Notes

11 For whereas my father put a heavy yoke upon you I will put more to your yoke: my father chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.

12 So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam on the third day, as the king bade, ſaying, Come again to me on the third day.

13 And the king anſwered them roughly; and king Rehoboam forſook the counſel of the old men,

14 And anſwered them after the advice of the young men, ſaying, My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add thereto: my father chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions.

15 So the king hearkened not unto the people; for the cauſe was of God, that the LORD might perform his word which he ſpake by the hand of Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat.

16 ¶ And when all Iſrael ſaw that the king would not hearken unto them, the people anſwered the king, ſaying, What portion have we in David? and we have none inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe: every man to your tents, O Iſrael: and now, David, ſee to thine own houſe. So all Iſrael went to their tents.

17 But as for the children of Iſrael that dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them.

18 ¶ Then king Rehoboam ſent Hadoram that was over the tribute; and the children of Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died. But king Rehoboam made ſpeed to get him up to his chariot, to flee to Jeruſalem.

19 And Iſrael rebelled againſt the houſe of David unto this day.

CHAP. XI.

1 Rehoboam raiſing an army to ſubdue Iſrael, is forbidden by Shemaiah. 18 His wives.

AND when Rehoboam was come to Jeruſalem, he gathered of the houſe of Judah and Benjamin an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen men which were warriors, to fight againſt Iſrael, that he might bring the kingdom again to Rehoboam.

2 But the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah the man of God, ſaying,

3 Speak unto Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon king of Judah, and to all Iſrael in Judah and Benjamin, ſaying,

4 Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye ſhall not go up, nor fight againſt your brethren: return every man to his houſe: for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the words of the LORD, and returned from going againſt Jeroboam.

5 And Rehoboam dwelt in Jeruſalem, and built cities for defence in Judah.

6 He built even Beth-lehem, and Etam, and Tekoa,

7 And Beth-zur, and Shoco, and Adullam,

8 And Gath, and Mareſhah, and Ziph,

9 And Adoraim, and Lachiſh, and Azekah,

10 And Zorah, and Aijalon, and Hebron, which are in Judah, and in Benjamin, fenced cities.

11 And he fortified the ſtrong holds, and put captains in them, and ſtore of victual, and of oil and wine.

12 And in every ſeveral city he put ſhields and ſpears, and made them exceeding ſtrong, having Judah and Benjamin on his ſide.

13 And the prieſts and the Levites, that were in all Iſrael, reſorted to him out of all their coaſts.

14 For the Levites left their ſuburbs and their poſſeſſion, and came to Judah and Jeruſalem: for Jeroboam and his ſons had caſt them off from executing the prieſt's office unto the LORD:

15 And he ordained him prieſts for the high-places, and for the devils, and for the calves which he had made.

16 And after them out of all the tribes of Iſrael, ſuch as ſet their hearts to ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael, came to Jeruſalem, to ſacrifice unto the LORD God of their fathers.

17 So they ſtrengthened the kingdom of

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 13 The prieſts and the Levites--reſorted to him out of all their coaſts.] Thus the tribe of Levi was added to that of Judah: the tribe of Simeon too ſeems to have been, partly at leaſt, united with Judah; for we read, verſe 6, that Rehoboam built Etam, which was a town in the tribe of Simeon. Patrick.

17 Three years they walked in the way of David, &c.] While they kept the commandments of the Lord, and worſhipped him in the beauty of holineſs, Judah had nothing to fear; but when they forſook the God of their fathers, and introduced the idol-

Judah, and made Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon ſtrong, three years: for three years they walked in the way of David and Solomon.

18 ¶ And Rehoboam took him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the ſon of David to wife, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the ſon of Jeſſe:

19 Which bare him children; Jeuſh; and Shamariah, and Zaham.

20 And after her, he took Maachah the daughter of Abſalom; which bare him Abijah, and Attai, and Ziza, and Shelomith.

21 And Rehoboam loved Maachah the daughter of Abſalom above all his wives and his concubines. For he took eighteen wives and threeſcore concubines; and begat twenty and eight ſons, and threeſcore daughters.

22 And Rehoboam made Abijah the ſon of Maachah the chief, to be ruler among his brethren: for he thought to make him king.

23 And he dealt wiſely, and diſperſed of all his children throughout all the countries of Judah and Benjamin, unto every fenced city: and he gave them victual in abundance. And he deſired many wives.

CHAP. XII.

1 Rehoboam forſaking God, is puniſhed by Shiſhak. 13 His reign, and death.

AND it came to paſs when Rehoboam had eſtabliſhed the kingdom, and had ſtrengthened himſelf, he forſook the law of the LORD, and all Iſrael with him.

2 And it came to paſs that in the fifth year of king Rehoboam Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem, becauſe they had tranſgreſſed againſt the LORD,

3 With twelve hundred chariots, and threeſcore thouſand horſemen: and the people were without number that came with him out of Egypt, the Lubims, the Sukkiims, and the Ethiopians.

4 And he took the fenced cities which pertained to Judah, and came to Jeruſalem.

5 Then came Shemaiah the prophet to Rehoboam, and to the princes of Judah, that were gathered together to Jeruſalem becauſe of Shiſhak, and ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD, Ye have forſaken me, and therefore have I alſo left you in the hand of Shiſhak.

6 Whereupon the princes of Iſrael and the king humbled themſelves; and they ſaid, The LORD is righteous.

7 And when the LORD ſaw that they humbled themſelves, the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah, ſaying, They have humbled themſelves: therefore I will not deſtroy them, but I will grant them ſome deliverance; and my wrath ſhall not be poured out upon Jeruſalem by the hand of Shiſhak.

8 Nevertheleſs, they ſhall be his ſervants; that they may know my ſervice, and the ſervice of the kingdoms of the countries.

9 So Shiſhak king of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem, and took away the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the king's houſe; he took all: he carried away alſo the ſhields of gold which Solomon had made.

10 Inſtead of which king Rehoboam made ſhields of braſs, and committed them to the hands of the chief of the guard, that kept the entrance of the king's houſe.

11 And when the king entered into the houſe of the LORD, the guard came and fetched them, and brought them again into the guard-chamber.

12 And when he humbled himſelf, the wrath of the LORD turned from him, that he would not deſtroy him altogether: and alſo in Judah things went well.

atry of the heathen, they became a prey to their enemies, and were at laſt carried away captive by Nebuchadnezzar.

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 He forſook the law of the Lord.] He no ſooner ſaw himſelf eſtabliſhed in his kingdom than he threw off all reſtraint, and introduced the worſhip of falſe gods, which he derived from his mother, who was an Ammoniteſs.

3 The Lubims, the Sukkiims, and the Ethiopians.] The Lubims were a people of Lybia, a famous country of Africa, adjoining to Egypt. The Sukkiims dwelt in caves and dens on the coaſt of the Red-ſea. The people called Cuſh, which we tranſlate Ethiopians, were either the inhabitants of a country on the ſouth of Egypt, or the Scenitæ in Arabia; for the name was common to both. Patrick.

7 When the Lord ſaw that they humbled themſelves, &c.] Their humiliation ſo far prevailed upon God, that he reſpited the deſtruction, which then ſeemed inevitable; promiſing, that he would not ſuffer Shiſhak to execute wholly the ſentence he had pronounced againſt them for their impieties.

Notes

13 ¶ So king Rehoboam ſtrengthened himſelf in Jeruſalem, and reigned. For Rehoboam was one and forty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſeventeen years in Jeruſalem, the city which the LORD had choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael to put his name there. And his mother's name was Naamah an Ammoniteſs.

14 And he did evil, becauſe he prepared not his heart to ſeek the LORD.

15 Now the acts of Rehoboam, firſt and laſt, are they not written in the book of Shemaiah the prophet, and of Iddo the ſeer, concerning genealogies? And there were wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam continually.

16 And Rehoboam ſlept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David. And Abijah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Abijah ſucceeding, maketh war againſt Jeroboam, 13 and overcometh him.

NOW in the eighteenth year of king Jeroboam began Abijah to reign over Judah.

2 He reigned three years in Jeruſalem. His mother's name alſo was Michaiah the daughter of Uriel of Gibeah. And there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam.

3 And Abijah ſet the battle in array with an army of valiant men of war, even four hundred thouſand choſen men: Jeroboam alſo ſet the battle in array againſt him with eight hundred thouſand choſen men, being mighty men of valour.

4 And Abijah ſtood up upon mount Zemaraim, which is in mount Ephraim, and ſaid, Hear me, thou Jeroboam, and all Iſrael;

5 Ought ye not to know that the LORD God of Iſrael gave the kingdom over Iſrael to David for ever, even to him and to his ſons by a covenant of ſalt?

6 Yet Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, the ſervant of Solomon the ſon of David, is riſen up, and hath rebelled againſt his lord.

7 And there are gathered unto him vain men the children of Belial, and have ſtrengthened themſelves againſt Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon, when Rehoboam was young and tender-hearted, and could not withſtand them.

8 And now ye think to withſtand the kingdom of the LORD in the hand of the ſons of David; and ye be a great multitude, and there are with you golden calves, which Jeroboam made you for gods.

9 Have ye not caſt out the prieſts of the LORD the ſons of Aaron, and the Levites, and have made you prieſts after the manner of the nations of other lands? ſo that whoſoever cometh to conſecrate himſelf with a young bullock and ſeven rams, the ſame may be a prieſt of them that are no gods.

10 But as for us, the LORD is our God, and we have not forſaken him; and the prieſts which miniſter unto the LORD are the ſons of Aaron, and the Levites wait upon their buſineſs.

11 And they burn unto the LORD every morning and every evening burnt-ſacrifices and ſweet incenſe: the ſhew-bread alſo ſet they in order upon the pure table; and the candleſtick of gold with the lamps thereof, to burn every evening: for we keep the charge of the LORD our God: but ye have forſaken him.

12 And behold, God himſelf is with us for our captain, and his prieſts with ſounding trumpets to cry alarm againſt you, O children of Iſrael, fight ye not againſt the LORD God of your fathers; for ye ſhall not proſper.

13 ¶ But Jeroboam cauſed an ambuſhment to come about behind them: ſo they were before Judah, and the ambuſhment was behind them.

14 And when Judah looked back, behold, the battle was before and behind: and they cried unto the LORD, and the prieſts ſounded with the trumpets.

15 Then the men of Judah gave a ſhout:

Notes on the Thirteenth Chapter.

Ver. 3 Four hundred thouſand---eight hundred thouſand.] Theſe numbers ſeem incredible, and are probably corrupted by the addition of a cypher, and inſtead of 400,000, and 800,000, were at firſt 40,000, and 80,000, as ſeveral MSS and editions teſtify. Kennicott.

5 A covenant of ſalt.] See note on Numb. xviii. 19.

12 Fight ye not againſt the Lord God of your fathers.] He concludes his ſpeech with telling them, that if they fought, it was not againſt him, but againſt the Lord, and therefore they could not hope for ſucceſs. Patrick.

13 Jeroboam cauſed an ambuſhment, &c.] He did not attempt to anſwer the ſpeech of Abijah, and no longer truſted to his numerous army, but had recourſe to ſtratagem to defeat Judah.

and as the men of Judah ſhouted, it came to paſs that God ſmote Jeroboam and all Iſrael before Abijah and Judah.

16 And the children of Iſrael fled before Judah: and God delivered them into their hand.

17 And Abijah and his people ſlew them with a great ſlaughter: ſo there fell down ſlain of Iſrael five hundred thouſand choſen men.

18 Thus the children of Iſrael were brought under at that time, and the children of Judah prevailed, becauſe they relied upon the LORD God of their fathers.

19 And Abijah purſued after Jeroboam, and took cities from him, Beth-el with the towns thereof, and Jeſhanah with the towns thereof, and Ephraim with the towns thereof.

20 Neither did Jeroboam recover ſtrength again in the days of Abijah: and the LORD ſtruck him, and he died.

21 But Abijah waxed mighty, and married fourteen wives, and begat twenty and two ſons, and ſixteen daughters.

22 And the reſt of the acts of Abijah and his ways, and his ſayings, are written in the ſtory of the prophet Iddo.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Aſa ſucceeding, deſtroyeth idolatry, 9 calling on God, he overcometh Zerah, and ſpoileth the Ethiopians.

SO Abijah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David. And Aſa his ſon reigned in his ſtead. In his days the land was quiet ten years.

2 And Aſa did that which was good and right in the eyes of the LORD his God:

3 For he took away the altars of the ſtrange gods, and the high places, and brake down the images, and cut down the groves:

4 And commanded Judah to ſeek the LORD God of their fathers, and to do the law and the commandment.

5 Alſo he took away out of all the cities of Judah the high places and the images: and the kingdom was quiet before him.

6 And he built fenced cities in Judah: for the land had reſt, and he had no war in thoſe years; becauſe the LORD had given him reſt.

7 Therefore he ſaid unto Judah, Let us build theſe cities, and make about them walls and towers, gates and bars, while the land is yet before us; becauſe we have ſought the LORD our God, we have ſought him, and he hath given us reſt on every ſide. So they built, and proſpered.

8 And Aſa had an army of men that bare targets and ſpears, out of Judah three hundred thouſand, and out of Benjamin, that bare ſhields and drew bows, two hundred and fourſcore thouſand: all theſe were mighty men of valour.

9 ¶ And there came out againſt them Zerah the Ethiopian with an hoſt of a thouſand thouſand, and three hundred chariots; and he came unto Mareſhah.

10 Then Aſa went out againſt him, and they ſet the battle in array in the valley of Zephathah at Mareſhah.

11 And Aſa cried unto the LORD his God, and ſaid, LORD, it is nothing with thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power: help us, O LORD our God; for we reſt on thee, and in thy name we go againſt this multitude. O LORD, thou art our God; let not man prevail againſt thee.

12 So the LORD ſmote the Ethiopians before Aſa, and before Judah; and the Ethiopians fled.

13 And Aſa and the people that were with him purſued them unto Gerar: and the Ethiopians were overthrown, that they could not recover themſelves; for they were deſtroyed before the LORD and before his hoſt; and they carried away very much ſpoil.

14 And they ſmote all the cities round about

17 Five hundred thouſand choſen men.] Many learned men have thought that a cypher has been, through negligence, added to this and the numbers at verſe the third.

Notes on the Fourteenth Chapter.

Ver. 8 Three hundred thouſand, &c.] The numbers here have probably been corrupted, as in the foregoing chapter.

9 Zerah the Ethiopian.] i. e. The king of the Arabians, as the original word Cuſh here ſignifies.

11 Lord, it is nothing with thee to help, &c.] Or, as the Targum renders it, "There is none beſides thee, who helpeſt "both the ſtrong and the weak." Patrick.

13 The Ethiopians were overthrown, &c.] The victory was ſo complete, that they could not rally their forces to renew the fight.

15 They

Gerar; for the fear of the LORD came upon them: and they ſpoiled all the cities; for there was exceeding much ſpoil in them.

15 They ſmote alſo the tents of cattle, and carried away ſheep and camels in abundance, and returned to Jeruſalem.

CHAP. XV.

1 Aſa, moved by Azariah, maketh a ſolemn covenant with God. 16 He putteth down Maachah his mother for idolatry.

AND the Spirit of God came upon Azariah the ſon of Oded.

2 And he went out to meet Aſa, and ſaid unto him, Hear ye me, Aſa, and all Judah and Benjamin; the LORD is with you, while ye be with him; and if ye ſeek him, he will be found of you: but if ye forſake him, he will forſake you.

3 Now for a long ſeaſon Iſrael hath been without the true God, and without a teaching prieſt, and without law.

4 But when they in their trouble did turn unto the LORD God of Iſrael, and ſought him, he was found of them.

5 And in thoſe times there was no peace to him that went out, nor to him that came in, but great vexations were upon all the inhabitants of the countries.

6 And nation was deſtroyed of nation, and city of city: for God did vex them with all adverſity.

7 Be ye ſtrong therefore, and let not your hands be weak: for your work ſhall be rewarded.

8 And when Aſa heard theſe words, and the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took courage, and put away the abominable idols out of all the land of Judah and Benjamin, and out of the cities which he had taken from mount Ephraim, and renewed the altar of the LORD that was before the porch of the LORD.

9 And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and the ſtrangers with them out of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, and out of Simeon: for they fell to him out of Iſrael in abundance, when they ſaw that the LORD his God was with him.

10 So they gathered themſelves together at Jeruſalem in the third month, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Aſa.

11 And they offered unto the LORD the ſame time, of the ſpoil which they had brought, ſeven hundred oxen, and ſeven thouſand ſheep.

12 And they entered into a covenant to ſeek the LORD God of their fathers, with all their heart and with all their ſoul;

13 That whoſoever would not ſeek the LORD God of Iſrael ſhould be put to death, whether ſmall or great, whether man or woman.

14 And they ſware unto the LORD with a loud voice, and with ſhouting, and with trumpets, and with cornets.

15 And all Judah rejoiced at the oath: for they had ſworn with all their heart, and ſought him with their whole deſire, and he was found of them: and the LORD gave them reſt round about.

16 ¶ And alſo concerning Maachah the mother of Aſa the king, he removed her from being queen, becauſe ſhe had made an idol in a grove: and Aſa cut down her idol, and ſtamped it, and burned it at the brook Kidron.

17 But the high places were not taken away out of Iſrael: nevertheleſs, the heart of Aſa was perfect all his days.

18 And he brought into the houſe of God the things that his father had dedicated, and that he himſelf had dedicated, ſilver, and gold, and veſſels.

---

15 They ſmote alſo their tents, &c.] The abundance of camels which Aſa took, ſufficiently prove that they were Arabians, who had great numbers of theſe creatures. Patrick.

Notes on the Fifteenth Chapter.

Ver. 3 For a long ſeaſon Iſrael hath been without the true God.] i. e. It is long ſince the houſe of Iſrael departed from the houſe of David, becauſe of Jeroboam; in which they have not worſhipped God, but the golden calves.

5 In thoſe times there was no peace, &c.] We read of no ſuch troubles hitherto in Iſrael; the words therefore ſhould be tranſlated, In thoſe times there ſhall be no peace; and at the next verſe, nation ſhall be deſtroyed of nation, &c. Patrick.

8 The prophecy of Oded.] Probably we ſhould here read, Azariah the ſon of Oded. See ver. 1. Kennicott.

15 They had ſworn with all their heart, &c.] Doubtleſs, many of them at that time actually determined to ſerve the Lord, who had wrought ſo many wonders in Iſrael: but ſo treacherous is the human heart, that they ſoon forgot the oath they had made, and relapſed into their former idolatry.

17 The high places were not taken away out of Iſrael.] He had taken away the high places in Judah; but thoſe in the territories which he had conquered from Iſrael ſtill remained.

19 And there was no more war unto the five and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Asa by the aid of the Syrians, diverteth Baasha from building of Ramah. 11 He seeketh not to God in his disease, but to the physicians. 13 His death and burial.

IN the sixth and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa Baasha king of Israel came up against Judah, and built Ramah, to the intent that he might let none go out or come in to Asa king of Judah.

2 Then Asa brought out silver and gold out of the treasures of the house of the LORD, and of the king's house, and sent to Ben-hadad king of Syria that dwelt at Damascus, saying,

3 There is a league between me and thee, as there was between my father and thy father, behold, I have sent thee silver and gold; go, break thy league with Baasha king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

4 And Ben-hadad hearkened unto king Asa, and sent the captains of his armies against the cities of Israel; and they smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the store-cities of Naphtali.

5 And it came to pass, when Baasha heard it, that he left off building of Ramah, and let his work cease.

6 Then Asa the king took all Judah; and they carried away the stones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baasha was a building; and he builded therewith Geba and Mizpah.

7 And at that time Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah, and said unto him, Because thou hast relied on the king of Syria, and not relied on the LORD thy God, therefore is the host of the king of Syria escaped out of thine hand.

8 Were not the Ethiopians and the Lubims a huge host, with very many chariots and horsemen? yet, because thou didst rely on the LORD, he delivered them into thine hand.

9 For the eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to shew himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect towards him. Herein thou hast done foolishly: therefore from henceforth thou shalt have wars.

10 Then Asa was wroth with the seer, and put him in a prison-house; for he was in a rage with him because of this thing. And Asa oppressed some of the people the same time.

11 ¶ And behold, the acts of Asa, first and last, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel.

12 And Asa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet, until his disease was exceeding great: yet in his disease he sought not to the LORD, but to the physicians.

13 ¶ And Asa slept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his reign.

14 And they buried him in his own sepulchres, which he had made for himself in the city of David, and laid him in the bed which was filled with sweet odours and divers kinds of spices prepared by the apothecaries art; and they made a very great burning for him.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Jehoshaphat reigneth well, and prospereth. 7 He sendeth Levites to teach Judah. 12 His greatness, captains, and armies.

AND Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his stead, and strengthened himself against Israel.

2 And he placed forces in all the fenced cities of Judah, and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken.

3 And the LORD was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the first ways of his father David, and sought not unto Baalim;

Notes on the Sixteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 In the six and thirtieth year of the reign of Asa, Baasha, &c.] Baasha died in the six and twentieth year of Asa; therefore the best authors are of opinion, that an error is crept into the text by the carelessness of some transcriber. Patrick.

7 Hanani the seer.] It should be, Jehu the son of Hanani. See 1 Kings, xvi. 1.

8 The Lubims.] See chap. xii. 3.

12 He sought not to the Lord, but to the physicians.] His crime was in relying more on the skill of the physicians, than on the goodness and power of God.

14 They made a very great burning for him.] This must be understood of the perfumes which were burnt at his funeral, which was a custom derived from the antient Egyptians; for the Israelites never used to burn their dead. Lamy.

Notes

4 But ſought to the LORD God of his father, and walked in his commandments, and not after the doings of Iſrael.

5 Therefore the LORD ſtabliſhed the kingdom in his hand; and all Judah brought to Jehoſhaphat preſents; and he had riches and honour in abundance.

6 And his heart was lifted up in the ways of the LORD: moreover, he took away the high places and groves out of Judah.

7 ¶ Alſo in the third year of his reign he ſent to his princes, even to Ben-hail and to Obadiah, and to Zechariah, and to Nethaneel, and to Michaiah, to teach in the cities of Judah.

8 And with them he ſent Levites, even Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Aſahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, Levites; and with them Eliſhama, and Jehoram, prieſts.

9 And they taught in Judah, and had the book of the law of the LORD with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Judah, and taught the people.

10 And the fear of the LORD fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, ſo that they made no war againſt Jehoſhaphat.

11 Alſo ſome of the Philiſtines brought Jehoſhaphat preſents, and tribute-ſilver; and the Arabians brought him flocks, ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred rams, and ſeven thouſand and ſeven hundred he-goats.

12 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat waxed great exceedingly; and he built in Judah caſtles, and cities of ſtore.

13 And he had much buſineſs in the cities of Judah: and the men of war, mighty men of valour, were in Jeruſalem.

14 And theſe are the numbers of them according to the houſe of their fathers; of Judah, the captains of thouſands; Adnah the chief, and with him mighty men of valour three hundred thouſand.

15 And next to him was Jehohanan the captain, and with him two hundred and fourſcore thouſand.

16 And next him was Amaſiah the ſon of Zichri, who willingly offered himſelf unto the LORD; and with him two hundred thouſand mighty men of valour.

17 And of Benjamin; Eliada a mighty man of valour, and with him armed men with bow and ſhield two hundred thouſand.

18 And next him was Jehozabad, and with him an hundred and fourſcore thouſand ready prepared for the war.

19 Theſe waited on the king, beſides thoſe whom the king put in the fenced cities throughout all Judah.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Jehoſhaphat goeth with Ahab againſt Ramoth-gilead. 4 Ahab ſeduced by falſe prophets is ſlain.

NOW Jehoſhaphat had riches and honour in abundance, and joined affinity with Ahab.

2 And after certain years he went down to Ahab to Samaria. And Ahab killed ſheep and oxen for him in abundance, and for the people that he had with him and perſuaded him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead.

3 And Ahab king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat king of Judah, Wilt thou go with me to Ramoth-gilead? And he anſwered him, I am as thou art, and my people as thy people: and we will be with thee in the war.

4 ¶ And

Notes on the Seventeenth Chapter.

Ver. 6 His heart was lift up in the ways of the Lord.] He formed very exalted reſolutions to promote the worſhip of God.

7 He ſent to his princes---to teach in the cities of Judah.] What the proper buſineſs of theſe princes, in their circuit round the kingdom, was, is a matter of ſome diſpute among the learned: the moſt probable opinion is, that they admoniſhed and required the people to obſerve the laws of God, and left the particular explication and enforcement of them to thoſe of the ſacred order, who went along with them; ſupporting them, in the mean time, in the execution of their office, and obliging the people to receive them with reſpect, to hear them with attention, and to practiſe what they taught. Patrick.

10 The fear of the Lord.] i. e. A very great fear.

14 Theſe are the numbers.] There muſt have been ſome great error committed here, for the numbers are ſo prodigious, that no wiſe man would defend them; viz. one million one hundred and ſixty thouſand mighty men of valour that waited upon the king at Jeruſalem. Kennicott.

Notes on the Eighteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Jehoſhaphat---joined affinity with Ahab.] His ſon married Athaliah the daughter of Ahab, 2 Kings, viii. 18.

2 Ahab killed ſheep and oxen, &c.] i. e. He entertained Jehoſhaphat and his retinue with great ſplendour. See 1 Kings, chap. xxii. and the notes.

4 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat ſaid unto the king of Iſrael, Enquire, I pray thee, at the word of the LORD to day.

5 Therefore the king of Iſrael gathered together of the prophets four hundred men, and ſaid unto them, Shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or ſhall I forbear? And they ſaid, Go up; for God will deliver it into the king's hand.

6 But Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Is there not here a prophet of the LORD beſides, that we might enquire of him?

7 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one man, by whom we may enquire of the LORD: but I hate him; for he never propheſied good unto me, but always evil: the ſame is Micaiah the ſon of Imla. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the king ſay ſo.

8 And the king of Iſrael called for one of his officers, and ſaid, Fetch quickly Micaiah the ſon of Imla.

9 And the king of Iſrael and Jehoſhaphat king of Judah ſat either of them on his throne, clothed in their robes, and they ſat in a void place, at the entering-in of the gate of Samaria: and all the prophets propheſied before them.

10 And Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah, had made him horns of iron, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, With theſe thou ſhalt puſh Syria until they be conſumed.

11 And all the prophets propheſied ſo, ſaying, Go up to Ramoth-gilead, and proſper: for the LORD ſhall deliver it into the hand of the king.

12 And the meſſenger that went to call Micaiah, ſpake to him, ſaying, Behold, the words of the prophets declare good to the king with one aſſent; let thy word therefore, I pray thee, be like one of their's, and ſpeak thou good.

13 And Micaiah ſaid, As the LORD liveth, even what my God ſaith, that will I ſpeak.

14 And when he was come to the king, the king ſaid unto him, Micaiah, ſhall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or ſhall I forbear? And he ſaid, Go ye up, and proſper, and they ſhall be delivered into your hand.

15 And the king ſaid to him, How many times ſhall I adjure thee that thou ſay nothing but the truth to me in the name of the LORD?

16 Then he ſaid, I did ſee all Iſrael ſcattered upon the mountains, as ſheep that have no ſhepherd. And the LORD ſaid, Theſe have no maſter; let them return therefore every man to his houſe in peace.

17 And the king of Iſrael ſaid to Jehoſhaphat, Did I not tell thee that he would not propheſy good unto me, but evil?

18 Again he ſaid, Therefore hear the word of the LORD; I ſaw the LORD ſitting upon his throne, and all the hoſt of heaven ſtanding on his right hand and on his left.

19 And the LORD ſaid, Who ſhall entice Ahab king of Iſrael, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead? And one ſpake ſaying after this manner, and another ſaying after that manner.

20 Then there came out a ſpirit, and ſtood before the LORD, and ſaid, I will entice him. And the LORD ſaid unto him, Wherewith?

21 And he ſaid, I will go out, and be a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And the LORD ſaid, Thou ſhalt entice him, and thou ſhalt alſo prevail: go out, and do even ſo.

22 Now therefore behold, the LORD hath put a lying ſpirit in the mouth of theſe thy prophets, and the LORD hath ſpoken evil againſt thee.

23 Then Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah came near, and ſmote Micaiah upon the cheek, and ſaid, Which way went the ſpirit of the LORD from me to ſpeak unto thee?

24 And Micaiah ſaid, Behold, thou ſhalt ſee on that day, when thou ſhalt go into an inner chamber to hide thy ſelf.

25 Then the king of Iſrael ſaid, Take ye Micaiah, and carry him back to Amon the governor of the city, and to Joaſh the king's ſon;

26 And ſay, Thus ſaith the king, Put this fellow in the priſon, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I return in peace.

27 And Micaiah ſaid, If thou certainly return in peace, then hath not the LORD ſpoken by me. And he ſaid, Hearken, all ye people.

28 So the king of Iſrael and Jehoſhaphat the the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead.

29 And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat, I will diſguiſe my ſelf, and will go to the battle; but put thou on thy robes. So the king of Iſrael diſguiſed himſelf, and they went to the battle.

30 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of the chariots that were with him, ſaying, Fight ye not with ſmall or great, ſave only with the king of Iſrael.

31 And it came to paſs when the captains of the chariots ſaw Jehoſhaphat, that they ſaid, It is the king of Iſrael. Therefore they compaſſed him about to fight: but Jehoſhaphat cried out, and the LORD helped him, and God moved them to depart from him.

32 For it came to paſs, that when the captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the king of Iſrael, they turned back again from purſuing him.

33 And a certain man drew a bow at a venture, and ſmote the king of Iſrael between the joints of the harneſs: therefore he ſaid to his chariot-man, Turn thine hand, that thou mayeſt carry me out of the hoſt; for I am wounded.

34 And the battle increaſed that day: howbeit the king of Iſrael ſtayed himſelf up in his chariot againſt the Syrians until the even: and about the time of the ſun going down he died.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Jehoſhaphat viſiteth his kingdom. 5 His inſtructions to the judges.

AND Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah returned to his houſe in peace to Jeruſalem.

2 And Jehu the ſon of Hanani the ſeer went out to meet him, and ſaid to king Jehoſhaphat, Shouldeſt thou help the ungodly, and love them that hate the LORD? therefore is wrath upon thee from before the LORD.

3 Nevertheleſs, there are good things found in thee, in that thou haſt taken away the groves out of the land, and haſt prepared thine heart to ſeek God.

4 And Jehoſhaphat dwelt at Jeruſalem: and he went out again through the people, from Beer-ſheba to mount Ephraim, and brought them back unto the LORD God of their fathers.

5 ¶ And he ſet judges in the land throughout all the fenced cities of Judah, city by city,

6 And ſaid to the judges, Take heed what ye do: for ye judge not for man, but for the LORD, who is with you in the judgment.

7 Wherefore, now let the fear of the LORD be upon you; take heed, and do it: for there is no iniquity with the LORD our God, nor reſpect of perſons, nor taking of gifts.

8 Moreover, in Jeruſalem did Jehoſhaphat ſet of the Levites, and of the prieſts, and of the chief of the fathers of Iſrael, for the judgement of the LORD, and for controverſies, when they returned to Jeruſalem.

9 And he charged them, ſaying, Thus ſhall ye do in the fear of the LORD, faithfully, and with a perfect heart.

10 And what cauſe ſoever ſhall come to you of your brethren that dwell in their cities, between blood and blood, between law and commandment, ſtatutes and judgements, ye ſhall even warn them that they treſpaſs not againſt the LORD, and ſo wrath come upon you, and upon your brethren: this do, and ye ſhall not treſpaſs.

11 And behold, Amariah the chief prieſt is over you in all matters of the LORD; and Zebadiah the ſon of Iſhmael, the ruler of the houſe of Judah, for all the king's matters: alſo the Levites ſhall be officers before you. Deal courageouſly, and the LORD ſhall be with the good.

CHAP. XX.

1 Jehoſhaphat proclaimeth a faſt. 5 His prayer. 22 The overthrow of his enemies. 31 His reign.

Notes on the Nineteenth Chapter.

Ver. 3 Thou haſt taken away the groves.] Rather, the idols.

6 Judge ye not for man, but for the Lord, &c.] The Targum tranſlates this paſſage in the following manner: Take heed what ye do; for ye do not judge before the ſons of men, but before the word of the Lord; and his glorious preſence reſides among you in the act of judgment. From which it is evident, that the ancient Jews believed more perſons than one in the Deity. Patrick.

10 Between blood and blood.] Some underſtand this of kindred; others think it related to the queſtion, whether when a perſon was killed, it was done intentionally, or by accident? Patrick.

IT came to paſs after this alſo, that the children of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and with them other beſides the Ammonites, came againſt Jehoſhaphat to battle.

2 Then came ſome that told Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, There cometh a great multitude againſt thee from beyond the ſea on this ſide of Syria, and behold, they be in Hazazon-tamar, which is En-gedi.

3 And Jehoſhaphat feared, and ſet himſelf to ſeek the LORD, and proclaimed a faſt throughout all Judah.

4 And Judah gathered themſelves together to aſk help of the LORD; even out of all the cities of Judah they came to ſeek the LORD.

5 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat ſtood in the congregation of Judah and Jeruſalem, in the houſe of the LORD, before the new court.

6 And ſaid, O LORD God of our fathers, art thou not God in heaven? and ruleſt not thou over all the kingdoms of the heathen? and in thine hand is there not power and might, ſo that none is able to withſtand thee?

7 Art not thou our God, who didſt drive out the inhabitants of this land before thy people Iſrael, and gaveſt it to the ſeed of Abraham thy friend for ever?

8 And they dwelt therein, and have built thee a ſanctuary therein for thy name, ſaying,

9 If, when evil cometh upon us, as the ſword, judgment, or peſtilence, or famine, we ſtand before this houſe, and in thy preſence, (for thy name is in this houſe,) and cry unto thee in our affliction, then thou wilt hear and help.

10 And now behold, the children of Ammon, and Moab, and mount Seir, whom thou wouldeſt not let Iſrael invade when they came out of the land of Egypt, but they turned from them, and deſtroyed them not;

11 Behold, I ſay, how they reward us, to come to caſt us out of thy poſſeſſion, which thou haſt given us to inherit.

12 O our God, wilt thou not judge them? for we have no might againſt this great company that cometh againſt us: neither know we what to do: but our eyes are upon thee.

13 And all Judah ſtood before the LORD, with their little ones, their wives and their children.

14 ¶ Then upon Jahaziel the ſon of Zechariah, the ſon of Benaiah, the ſon of Jeiel, the ſon of Mattaniah, a Levite of the ſons of Aſaph, came the ſpirit of the LORD in the midſt of the congregation;

15 And he ſaid, Hearken ye, all Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and thou king Jehoſhaphat, Thus ſaith the LORD unto you, Be not afraid, nor diſmayed, by reaſon of this great multitude; for the battle is not your's, but God's.

16 To-morrow go ye down againſt them: behold, they come up by the cliff of Ziz, and ye ſhall find them at the end of the brook, before the wilderneſs of Jeruel.

17 Ye ſhall not need to fight in this battle: ſet your ſelves, ſtand ye ſtill, and ſee the ſalvation of the LORD with you, O Judah and Jeruſalem: fear not, nor be diſmayed; to-morrow go out againſt them: for the LORD will be with you.

18 And Jehoſhaphat bowed his head with his face to the ground: and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem fell before the LORD, worſhipping the LORD.

19 And the Levites, of the children of the Kohathites, and the children of the Korhites, ſtood up to praiſe the LORD God of Iſrael with a loud voice on high.

20 And they roſe early in the morning, and Hazazon-tamar.] A place ſituated among palm-trees.

6 O Lord God of our fathers, &c.] This is the moſt excellent prayer made by any of their kings; expreſſing the greateſt confidence in God, and repreſenting to him the juſtice of their cauſe. He begins with acknowledging God's irreſiſtible and ſupreme power, which extends over all his creatures both in heaven and earth, being all the creatures of his hand. Patrick.

11 Behold, how they reward us.] Ingratitude is a moſt odious ſin; but to return evil for good is the very higheſt pitch of wickedneſs. Patrick.

12 Wilt thou not judge them?] Wilt thou not puniſh them?

went forth into the wilderneſs of Tekoa: and as they went forth, Jehoſhaphat ſtood and ſaid, Hear me, O Judah, and ye inhabitants of Jeruſalem; Believe the LORD your God, ſo ſhall ye be eſtabliſhed; believe his prophets, ſo ſhall ye proſper.

21 And when he had conſulted with the people, he appointed ſingers unto the LORD, and that ſhould praiſe the beauty of holineſs as they went out before the army, and to ſay, Praiſe the LORD; for his mercy endureth for ever.

22 ¶ And when they began to ſing and to praiſe, the LORD ſet ambuſhments againſt the children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, which were come againſt Judah; and they were ſmitten.

23 For the children of Ammon and Moab ſtood up againſt the inhabitants of mount Seir, utterly to ſlay and deſtroy them: and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, every one helped to deſtroy another.

24 And when Judah came toward the watch-tower in the wilderneſs, they looked unto the multitude, and behold, they were dead bodies fallen to the earth, and none eſcaped.

25 And when Jehoſhaphat and his people came to take away the ſpoil of them, they found among them in abundance both riches with the dead bodies, and precious jewels, which they ſtripped off for themſelves, more than they could carry away: and they were three days in gathering of the ſpoil; it was ſo much.

26 And on the fourth day they aſſembled themſelves in the valley of Berachah; for there they bleſſed the LORD. Therefore the name of the ſame place was called, The valley of Berachah unto this day.

27 Then they returned every man of Judah and Jeruſalem, and Jehoſhaphat in the fore-front of them, to go again to Jeruſalem with joy; for the LORD had made them to rejoice over their enemies.

28 And they came to Jeruſalem with pſalteries, and harps, and trumpets, unto the houſe of the LORD.

29 And the fear of God was on all the kingdoms of thoſe countries, when they had heard that the LORD fought againſt the enemies of Iſrael.

30 So the realm of Jehoſhaphat was quiet: for his God gave him reſt round about.

31 ¶ And Jehoſhaphat reigned over Judah: he was thirty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and five years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi.

32 And he walked in the way of Aſa his father, and departed not from it, doing that which was right in the ſight of the LORD.

33 Howbeit, the high places were not taken away: for as yet the people had not prepared their hearts unto the God of their fathers.

34 Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoſhaphat, firſt and laſt, behold, they are written in the book of Jehu the ſon of Hanani, who is mentioned in the book of the kings of Iſrael.

35 And after this did Jehoſhaphat king of Judah join himſelf with Ahaziah king of Iſrael, who did very wickedly.

36 And he joined himſelf with him to make ſhips to go to Tarſhiſh: and they made the ſhips in Ezion-gaber.

37 Then Eliezer the ſon of Dodavah of Mareſhah propheſied againſt Jehoſhaphat, ſaying, Becauſe thou haſt joined thy ſelf with Ahaziah, the LORD hath broken thy works. And the ſhips were broken, that they were not able to go to Tarſhiſh.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Jehoram ſucceedeth Jehoſhaphat. 5 His wicked reign. 18 His incurable diſeaſe, infamous death and burial.

23 The children of Ammon and Moab ſtood up againſt the inhabitants of mount Seir, &c.] Theſe laſt were ordered to fall upon Judah by an ambuſhment; but by ſome miſtake they fell upon the Ammonites, their own confederates. This exaſperated them and the Moabites ſo much, that they deſtroyed all the inhabitants of Seir, miſtaking them for Jews; when this was performed, they continued in ſuch confuſion, that they fell upon one another, ſtill imagining they were deſtroying the Jews. Patrick.

33 The high places were not taken away.] The high places where God was worſhipped were not taken away; though thoſe where they ſacrificed to idols were deſtoyed.

NOW Jehoſhaphat ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David. And Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

2 And he had brethren the ſons of Jehoſhaphat, Azariah, and Jehiel, and Zechariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah. All theſe were the ſons of Jehoſhaphat king of Iſrael.

3 And their father gave them great gifts of ſilver and of gold and of precious things, with fenced cities in Judah: but the kingdom gave he to Jehoram; becauſe he was the firſt-born.

4 Now when Jehoram was riſen up to the kingdom of his father, he ſtrengthened himſelf, and ſlew all his brethren with the ſword, and divers alſo of the princes of Iſrael.

5 ¶ Jehoram was thirty and two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jeruſalem.

6 And he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, like as did the houſe of Ahab: for he had the daughter of Ahab to wife: and he wrought that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD.

7 Howbeit, the LORD would not deſtroy the houſe of David, becauſe of the covenant that he made with David, and as he promiſed to give a light to him and to his ſons for ever.

8 In his days the Edomites revolted from under the dominion of Judah, and made themſelves a king.

9 Then Jehoram went forth with his princes, and all his chariots with him: and he roſe up by night, and ſmote the Edomites which compaſſed him in, and the captains of the chariots.

10 So the Edomites revolted from under the hand of Judah unto this day. The ſame time alſo did Libnah revolt from under his hand; becauſe he had forſaken the LORD God of his fathers.

11 Moreover, he made high places in the mountains of Judah, and cauſed the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to commit fornication, and compelled Judah thereto.

12 And there came a writing to him from Elijah the prophet, ſaying, Thus ſaith the LORD God of David thy father, Becauſe thou haſt not walked in the ways of Jehoſhaphat thy father, nor in the ways of Aſa king of Judah,

13 But haſt walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael, and haſt made Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to go a whoring, like to the whoredoms of the houſe of Ahab, and alſo haſt ſlain thy brethren of thy father's houſe, which were better than thy ſelf:

14 Behold, with a great plague will the LORD ſmite thy people, and thy children, and thy wives, and all thy goods.

15 And thou ſhalt have great ſickneſs by diſeaſe of thy bowels, until thy bowels fall out by reaſon of the ſickneſs day by day.

16 Moreover, the LORD ſtirred up againſt Jehoram the ſpirit of the Philiſtines, and of the Arabians, that were near the Ethiopians.

17 And they came up into Judah, and brake into it, and carried away all the ſubſtance that was found in the king's houſe, and his ſons alſo and his wives; ſo that there was never a ſon left him, ſave Jehoahaz the youngeſt of his ſons.

18 ¶ And after all this the LORD ſmote him in his bowels with an incurable diſeaſe.

19 And it came to paſs that in proceſs of time, after the end of two years, his bowels fell out by reaſon of his ſickneſs: ſo he died of ſore diſeaſes. And his people made no burning for him, like the burning of his fathers.

20 Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jeruſalem eight years, and departed without being deſired. Howbeit, they buried him in the city of David, but not in the ſepulchres of the kings.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ahaziah ſucceeding, reigneth wickedly. 5 He is ſlain by Jehu. 10 Athaliah deſtroying all the ſeed royal, ſave Joaſh, uſurpeth the kingdom.

Notes on the Twenty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 12 There came a writing---from Elijah the prophet.] Several learned commentators have ſuppoſed, that there has been a miſtake in ſome tranſcriber, and the name of Elijah put for that of Eliſha; or that the Elijah, by whom the letter was ſent, was not the Elijah who was taken up into heaven, but another of the ſame name. Patrick.

20 He reigned in Jeruſalem eight years, and departed without being deſired.] i. e. His ſubjects did not wiſh he ſhould live any longer, but were glad a period was ſo ſoon put to his reign.

Notes

AND the inhabitants of Jeruſalem made Ahaziah his youngeſt ſon king in his ſtead. For the band of men that came with the Arabians to the camp, had ſlain all the eldeſt. So Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah reigned.

2 Forty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem. His mother's name alſo was Athaliah the daughter of Omri.

3 He alſo walked in the ways of the houſe of Ahab: for his mother was his counſeller to do wickedly.

4 Wherefore he did evil in the ſight of the LORD, like the houſe of Ahab: for they were his counſellers after the death of his father, to his deſtruction.

5 ¶ He walked alſo after their counſel, and went with Jehoram the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael to war againſt Hazael king of Syria at Ramoth-Gilead: and the Syrians ſmote Joram.

6 And he returned to be healed in Jezreel, becauſe of the wounds which were given him at Ramah, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria. And Azariah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah went down to ſee Jehoram the ſon of Ahab at Jezreel, becauſe he was ſick.

7 And the deſtruction of Ahaziah was of God by coming to Joram: for when he was come, he went out with Jehoram againſt Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi, whom the LORD had anointed to cut off the houſe of Ahab.

8 And it came to paſs that when Jehu was executing judgement upon the houſe of Ahab, and found the princes of Judah, and the ſons of the brethren of Ahaziah, that miniſtered to Ahaziah, he ſlew them.

9 And he ſought Ahaziah: and they caught him, (for he was hid in Samaria) and brought him to Jehu: and when they had ſlain him, they buried him, becauſe, ſaid they, he is the ſon of Jehoſhaphat, who ſought the LORD with all his heart. So the houſe of Ahaziah had no power to keep ſtill the kingdom.

10 ¶ But when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah ſaw that her ſon was dead, ſhe aroſe, and deſtroyed all the ſeed royal of the houſe of Judah.

11 But Jehoſhabeath the daughter of the king took Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah, and ſtole him from among the king's ſons that were ſlain, and put him and his nurſe in a bed-chamber. So Jehoſhabeath the daughter of king Jehoram, the wife of Jehoiada the prieſt (for ſhe was the ſiſter of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah, ſo that ſhe ſlew him not.

12 And he was with them hid in the houſe of God ſix years; and Athaliah reigned over the land.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Jehoiada maketh Joaſh king. 12 Athaliah is ſlain. 16 Jehoiada reſtoreth the worſhip of God.

AND in the ſeventh year Jehoiada ſtrengthened himſelf, and took the captains of hundreds, Azariah the ſon of Jeroham, and Iſhmael the ſon of Jehohanan, and Azariah the ſon of Obed, and Maaſeiah the ſon of Adaiah, and Eliſhaphat the ſon of Zichri, into covenant with him.

2 And they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the chief of the fathers of Iſrael, and they came to Jeruſalem.

3 And all the congregation made a covenant with the king in the houſe of God. And he ſaid unto them, Behold, the king's ſon ſhall reign, as the LORD hath ſaid of the ſons of David.

4 This is the thing that ye ſhall do; A third part of you entering on the ſabbath of the prieſts and of the Levites, ſhall be porters of the doors;

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 2 Forty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign.] In 2 Kings, viii. 26. he is ſaid to be only twenty-two years old: one of theſe readings is undoubtedly falſe.

9 He ſought Ahaziah, &c.] See notes on 2 Kings, ix. 27, 28.

Notes on the Twenty-third Chapter.

Ver. 2 The chief of the fathers of Iſrael.] Some were under the government of the king of Judah: and others, who were known to be well affected to religion, were invited to give their aſſiſtance. But it is moſt probable, Judah is here called Iſrael, the principal perſons of which were acquainted with Jehoiada's intentions. See notes on 2 Kings, xi. Patrick.

5 And a third part ſhall be at the king's houſe; and a third part at the gate of the foundation: and all the people ſhall be in the courts of the houſe of the LORD.

6 But let none come into the houſe of the LORD, ſave the prieſts, and they that miniſter of the Levites; they ſhall go in, for they are holy: but all the people ſhall keep the watch of the LORD.

7 And the Levites ſhall compaſs the king round about, every man with his weapons in his hand: and whoſoever elſe cometh into the houſe, he ſhall be put to death: but be ye with the king when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.

8 So the Levites and all Judah did according to all things that Jehoiada the prieſt had commanded, and took every man his men that were to come in on the ſabbath, with them that were to go out on the ſabbath: for Jehoiada the prieſt diſmiſſed not the courſes.

9 Moreover, Jehoiada the prieſt delivered to the captains of hundreds ſpears, and bucklers, and ſhields, that had been king David's, which were in the houſe of God.

10 And he ſet all the people, every man having his weapon in his hand, from the right ſide of the temple to the left ſide of the temple, along by the altar and the temple, by the king round about.

11 Then they brought out the king's ſon, and put upon him the crown, and gave him the teſtimony, and made him king. And Jehoiada and his ſons anointed him, and ſaid, God ſave the king.

12 ¶ Now when Athaliah heard the noiſe of the people running and praiſing the king, ſhe came to the people into the houſe of the LORD.

13 And ſhe looked, and behold, the king ſtood at his pillar, at the entering-in, and the princes and the trumpets by the king: and all the people of the land rejoiced, and ſounded with trumpets, alſo the ſingers with inſtruments of muſick, and ſuch as taught to ſing praiſe. Then Athaliah rent her clothes, and ſaid, Treaſon, treaſon.

14 Then Jehoiada the prieſt brought out the captains of hundreds that were ſet over the hoſt, and ſaid unto them, Have her forth of the ranges: and whoſo followeth her, let him be ſlain with the ſword. For the prieſt ſaid, Slay her not in the houſe of the LORD.

15 So they laid hands on her; and when ſhe was come to the entering of the horſe-gate, by the king's houſe, they ſlew her there.

16 ¶ And Jehoiada made a covenant between him, and between all the people, and between the king, that they ſhould be the LORD's people.

17 Then all the people went to the houſe of Baal, and brake it down, and brake his altars and his images in pieces, and ſlew Mattan the prieſt of Baal before the altars.

18 Alſo Jehoiada appointed the offices of the houſe of the LORD by the hand of the prieſts the Levites, whom David had diſtributed in the houſe of the LORD, to offer the burnt-offerings of the LORD, as it is written in the law of Moſes, with rejoicing and with ſinging, as it was ordained by David.

19 And he ſet the porters at the gates of the houſe of the LORD, that none which was unclean in any thing ſhould enter in.

20 And he took the captains of hundreds, and the nobles, and the governors of the people, and all the people of the land, and brought down the king from the houſe of the LORD: and they came through the high gate into the king's houſe, and ſet the king upon the throne of the kingdom.

21 And all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet, after that they had ſlain Athaliah with the ſword.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Joaſh reigneth well all the days of Jehoiada. 15 Jehoiada being dead, 17 Joaſh falleth to idolatry. 23 He is ſlain.

JOaſh was ſeven years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jeruſalem. His mother's name alſo was Zibeah of Beer-ſheba.

2 And Joaſh did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD all the days of Jehoiada the prieſt.

3 And Jehoiada took for him two wives; and he begat ſons and daughters.

4 And

4 And it came to paſs after this, that Joaſh was minded to repair the houſe of the LORD.

5 And he gathered together the prieſts and the Levites, and ſaid to them, Go out into the cities of Judah, and gather of all Iſrael money to repair the houſe of your God from year to year, and ſee that ye haſten the matter. Howbeit the Levites haſtened it not.

6 And the king called for Jehoiada the chief, and ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou not required of the Levites to bring-in out of Judah and out of Jeruſalem the collection according to the commandment of Moſes the ſervant of the LORD, and of the congregation of Iſrael, for the tabernacle of witneſs?

7 For the ſons of Athaliah that wicked woman had broken up the houſe of God; and alſo all the dedicated things of the houſe of the LORD did they beſtow upon Baalim.

8 And at the king's commandment they made a cheſt, and ſet it without at the gate of the houſe of the LORD.

9 And they made a proclamation through Judah and Jeruſalem, to bring-in to the LORD the collection that Moſes the ſervant of God laid upon Iſrael in the wilderneſs.

10 And all the princes and all the people rejoiced, and brought-in, and caſt into the cheſt, until they had made an end.

11 Now it came to paſs, that at what time the cheſt was brought unto the king's office by the hand of the Levites, and when they ſaw that there was much money; the king's ſcribe and the high prieſt's officer came and emptied the cheſt, and took it, and carried it to his place again. Thus they did day by day, and gathered money in abundance.

12 And the king and Jehoiada gave it to ſuch as did the work of the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD, and hired maſons and carpenters to repair the houſe of the LORD, and alſo ſuch as wrought iron and braſs to mend the houſe of the LORD.

13 So the workmen wrought, and the work was perfected by them, and they ſet the houſe of God in his ſtate, and ſtrengthened it.

14 And when they had finiſhed it, they brought the reſt of the money before the king and Jehoiada, whereof were made veſſels for the houſe of the LORD, even veſſels to miniſter, and to offer withal, and ſpoons, and veſſels of gold and ſilver. And they offered burnt-offerings in the houſe of the LORD continually all the days of Jehoiada.

15 ¶ But Jehoiada waxed old, and was full of days when he died; an hundred and thirty years old was he when he died.

16 And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, becauſe he had done good in Iſrael, both towards God, and towards his houſe.

17 ¶ Now after the death of Jehoiada came the princes of Judah, and made obeiſance to the king. Then the king hearkened unto them.

18 And they left the houſe of the LORD God of their fathers, and ſerved groves and idols: and wrath came upon Judah and Jeruſalem for this their treſpaſs.

19 Yet he ſent prophets to them, to bring them again unto the LORD, and they teſtified againſt them: but they would not give ear.

20 And the Spirit of God came upon Zechariah the ſon of Jehoiada the prieſt, which ſtood above the people, and ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith God, Why tranſgreſs ye the commandments of the LORD, that ye cannot proſper; becauſe ye have forſaken the LORD, he hath alſo forſaken you.

21 And they conſpired againſt him, and ſtoned him with ſtones at the commandment of the king, in the court of the houſe of the LORD.

22 Thus Joaſh the king remembred not the kindneſs which Jehoiada his father had done to him, but ſlew his ſon. And when he died,

Notes on the Twenty-fourth Chapter.

Ver. 7 The ſons of Athaliah had broken up the houſe of God.] i. e. Azariah, and the ſons of his brethren, mentioned chap. xxii. 8. for his brethren themſelves were carried away captive before their father died, chap. xxi. 17. Patrick.

21 Stoned him with ſtones at the commandment of the king.] This crime, beſides the contempt they ſhewed to God's prophet, and the place where he was murdered, was greatly augmented by the ſin of ingratitude; for he was the ſon of him to whom the king owed both his life and crown.

22 The Lord look upon it, and require it.] Theſe words muſt he ſaid, the LORD look upon it, and require it.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs at the end of the year, that the hoſt of Syria came up againſt him: and they came to Judah and Jeruſalem, and deſtroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and ſent all the ſpoil of them unto the king of Damaſcus.

24 For the army of the Syrians came with a ſmall company of men, and the LORD delivered a very great hoſt into their hand, becauſe they had forſaken the LORD God of their fathers: ſo they executed judgment againſt Joaſh.

25 And when they were departed from him (for they left him in great diſeaſes) his own ſervants conſpired againſt him, for the blood of the ſons of Jehoiada the prieſt, and ſlew him on his bed; and he died: and they buried him in the city of David, but they buried him not in the ſepulchres of the kings.

26 And theſe are they that conſpired againſt him, Zabad the ſon of Shimeath an Ammoniteſs, and Jehozabad the ſon of Shimrith a Moabiteſs.

27 Now concerning his ſons, and the greatneſs of the burdens laid upon him, and the repairing of the houſe of God, behold, they are written in the ſtory of the book of the kings. And Amaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Amaziah beginneth to reign well. 3 He executeth juſtice on the traitors. 5 Having hired an army of Iſraelites againſt the Edomites, at the word of a prophet he loſeth an hundred talents, and diſmiſeth them. 11 He overthroweth the Edomites. 17 He provoketh Joaſh to his overthrow. 25 His reign. 27 He is ſlain by conſpiracy.

AMaziah was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty and nine years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jeruſalem.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, but not with a perfect heart.

3 ¶ Now it came to paſs, when the kingdom was eſtabliſhed to him, that he ſlew his ſervants that had killed the king his father.

4 But he ſlew not their children, but did as it is written in the law in the book of Moſes, where the LORD commanded, ſaying, The fathers ſhall not die for the children, neither ſhall the children die for the fathers, but every man ſhall die for his own ſin.

5 ¶ Moreover, Amaziah gathered Judah together, and made them captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, according to the houſes of their fathers, throughout all Judah and Benjamin: and he numbered them from twenty years old and above, and found them three hundred thouſand choice men, able to go forth to war, that could handle ſpear and ſhield.

6 He hired alſo an hundred thouſand mighty men of valour out of Iſrael for an hundred talents of ſilver.

7 But there came a man of God to him, ſaying, O king, let not the army of Iſrael go with thee: for the LORD is not with Iſrael, to wit, with all the children of Ephraim.

8 But if thou wilt go, do it, be ſtrong for the battle: God ſhall make thee fall before the enemy: for God hath power to help, and to caſt down.

9 And Amaziah ſaid to the man of God. But what ſhall we do for the hundred talents which I have given to the army of Iſrael? And the man of God anſwered, The LORD is able to give thee much more than this.

10 Then Amaziah ſeparated them, to wit, the army that was come to him out of Ephraim, to go home again: wherefore their anger was greatly kindled againſt Judah, and they returned home in great anger.

11 ¶ And Amaziah ſtrengthened himſelf, be conſidered as ſpoken by the ſpirit of prophecy, and not through a deſire of revenge, and therefore it ſhould be, The Lord will requite this deed: this prophetic ſentence was no ſooner pronounced than executed; for, before the year was expired, the Syrians came up againſt Jeruſalem, and deſtroyed all the princes of the people; and Joaſh himſelf was murdered by his own ſervants. See ver. 25.

Notes on the Twenty-fifth Chapter.

Ver. 2 He did that which was right in the ſight of the Lord, but not with a perfect heart.] He kept the law of Moſes, but not from a principle of ſolid piety, 2 Kings, xxiv.

6 An hundred thouſand mighty men of valour.] Probably there is ſome miſtake in the numbers; for we are aſſured, they were ſo greatly reduced but a few years before, that there were left of the people of Iſrael only 50 horſemen, 10 chariots, and 10,000 footmen. See 2 Kings, xiii. 7.

and led forth his people, and went to the valley of ſalt, and ſmote of the children of Seir ten thouſand.

12 And other ten thouſand left alive did the children of Judah carry away captive, and brought them unto the top of the rock, and caſt them down from the top of the rock, that they were broken all in pieces.

13 But the ſoldiers of the army which Amaziah ſent back, that they ſhould not go with him to battle, fell upon the cities of Judah, from Samaria even unto Beth-horon, and ſmote three thouſand of them, and took much ſpoil.

14 Now it came to paſs, after that Amaziah was come from the ſlaughter of the Edomites, that he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and ſet them up to be his gods, and bowed down himſelf before them, and burned incenſe unto them.

15 Wherefore the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Amaziah, and he ſent unto him a prophet, which ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou ſought after the gods of the people, which could not deliver their own people out of thine hand?

16 And it came to paſs as he talked with him, that the king ſaid unto him, Art thou made of the king's counſel? forbear; why ſhouldeſt thou be ſmitten? Then the prophet forbare, and ſaid, I know that God hath determined to deſtroy thee, becauſe thou haſt done this, and haſt not hearkened unto my counſel.

17 ¶ Then Amaziah king of Judah took advice, and ſent to Joaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz the ſon of Jehu king of Iſrael, ſaying, Come, let us ſee one another in the face.

18 And Joaſh king of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah king of Judah, ſaying, The thiſtle that was in Lebanon ſent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, ſaying, Give thy daughter to my ſon to wife: and there paſſed by a wild beaſt that was in Lebanon, and trode down the thiſtle.

19 Thou ſayeſt, Lo, thou haſt ſmitten the Edomites, and thine heart liſteth thee up to boaſt: abide now at home; why ſhouldeſt thou meddle to thine hurt, that thou ſhouldeſt fall, even thou and Judah with thee?

20 But Amaziah would not hear; for it came of God, that he might deliver them into the hand of their enemies, becauſe they ſought after the Gods of Edom.

21 So Joaſh the king of Iſrael went up; and they ſaw one another in the face, both he and Amaziah king of Judah, at Beth-ſhemeſh, which belongeth to Judah.

22 And Judah was put to the worſe before Iſrael, and they fled every man to his tent.

23 And Joaſh king of Iſrael took Amaziah king of Judah the ſon of Joaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz at Beth-ſhemeſh, and brought him to Jeruſalem, and brake down the wall of Jeruſalem from the gate of Ephraim to the corner-gate, four hundred cubits.

24 And he took all the gold and the ſilver, and all the veſſels that were found in the houſe of God with Obed-edom, and the treaſures of the king's houſe, the hoſtages alſo, and returned to Samaria.

25 ¶ And Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh king of Judah lived after the death of Joaſh ſon of Jehoahaz king of Iſrael fifteen years.

26 Now the reſt of the acts of Amaziah, firſt and laſt, behold, are they not written in the book of the kings of Judah and Iſrael?

27 ¶ Now after the time that Amaziah did turn away from following the LORD, they made a conſpiracy againſt him in Jeruſalem; and he fled to Lachiſh: but they ſent to Lachiſh after him, and ſlew him there.

28 And they brought him upon horſes, and buried him with his fathers in the city of Judah.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Uzziah ſucceedeth his father. 16 He invadeth the prieſt's office, and is ſmitten with leproſy. 22 He dieth, and Jotham ſucceedeth him.

14 Amaziah---brought the gods of the children of Seir, and ſet them up to be his gods.] No apology can be made for idolatry; for ſurely it is the greateſt madneſs for any perſon to adore ſuch gods as could not deliver their own people, as the prophet very juſtly obſerves in his ſpeech to Amaziah in the following verſe.

18 The thiſtle in Lebanon, &c.] 2 Kings, xiv. 9.

27 They made a conſpiracy againſt Jeruſalem, &c.] He abandoned the worſhip of God before the death of Joaſh, therefore this conſpiracy was formed a great while before it was carried into execution.

THEN all the people of Judah took Uzziah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king in the room of his father Amaziah.

2 He built Eloth, and restored it to Judah, after that the king slept with his fathers.

3 Sixteen years old was Uzziah when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name also was Jecoliah of Jerusalem.

4 And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah did.

5 And he sought God in the days of Zechariah, who had understanding in the visions of God: and as long as he sought the LORD, God made him to prosper.

6 And he went forth and warred against the Philistines, and brake down the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod, and built cities about Ashdod, and among the Philistines.

7 And God helped him against the Philistines, and against the Arabians that dwelt in Gur-baal, and the Mehunims.

8 And the Ammonites gave gifts to Uzziah: and his name spread abroad even to the entering-in of Egypt: for he strengthened himself exceedingly.

9 Moreover, Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the corner-gate, and at the valley-gate, and at the turning of the wall, and fortified them.

10 Also he built towers in the desert, and digged many wells: for he had much cattle, both in the low-country, and in the plains; husbandmen also, and vine-dressers in the mountains, and in Carmel: for he loved husbandry.

11 Moreover, Uzziah had an host of fighting men, that went out to war by bands, according to the number of their account, by the hand of Jeiel the scribe, and Maaseiah the ruler, under the hand of Hananiah one of the king's captains.

12 The whole number of the chief of the fathers of the mighty men of valour were two thousand and six hundred.

13 And under their hand was an army, three hundred thousand and seven thousand and five hundred that made war with mighty power, to help the king against the enemy.

14 And Uzziah prepared for them throughout all the host shields, and spears, and helmets, and habergeons, and bows, and slings to cast stones.

15 And he made in Jerusalem engines invented by cunning men, to be on the towers and upon the bulwarks, to shoot arrows and great stones withal. And his name spread far abroad: for he was marvellously helped till he was strong.

16 ¶ But when he was strong, his heart was lifted up to his destruction: for he transgressed against the LORD his God, and went into the temple of the LORD to burn incense upon the altar of incense.

17 And Azariah the priest went in after him, and with him fourscore priests of the LORD, that were valiant men:

18 And they withstood Uzziah the king, and said unto him, It appertaineth not unto thee, Uzziah, to burn incense unto the LORD, but to the priests the sons of Aaron, that are consecrated to burn incense: go out of the sanctuary; for thou hast trespassed, neither shall it be for thine honour from the LORD God.

19 Then Uzziah was wroth, and had a censer in his hand to burn incense: and while he was wroth with the priests, the leprosy even rose up in his forehead before the priests, in the house of the LORD, from beside the incense-altar.

Notes on the Twenty-sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Uzziah.] He is called Azariah, 2 Kings, xiv. 21.

5 He sought God in the days of Zechariah.] This was not Zechariah the prophet, whose writings are found in the sacred canon, but probably his son.

7 The Mehunims.] A people of Arabia deserta.

9 Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem, &c.] Great part of the wall of this city had been broken down in the reign of his father by Joash king of Israel, as we read in the foregoing chapter, therefore Uzziah rebuilt and strengthened it with towers.

10 He built towers in the desert.] These towers were erected to defend the shepherds from sudden incursions of their enemies, particularly the Arabs. Patrick.

15 He made engines.] These were contrived so as to throw large stones and arrows from the walls and towers.

16 His heart was lifted up to his destruction.] This example confirms what has been often observed, that few can bear great prosperity with moderation. Patrick.

20 And Azariah the chief prieſt, and all the prieſts looked upon him, and behold, he was leprous in his forehead, and they thruſt him out from thence; yea, himſelf haſted alſo to go out, becauſe the LORD had ſmitten him.

21 And Uzziah the king was a leper unto the day of his death, and dwelt in a ſeveral houſe, being a leper; for he was cut off from the houſe of the LORD: and Jotham his ſon was over the king's houſe, judging the people of the land.

22 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Uzziah, firſt and laſt, did Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz write.

23 So Uzziah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the field of the burial which belonged to the kings: for they ſaid, He is a leper. And Jotham his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Jotham reigning well proſpereth. 5 He ſubdueth the Ammonites. 7 His reign. 9 Ahaz ſucceedeth him.

JOtham was twenty and five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem. His mother's name alſo was Jeruſhah the daughter of Zadok.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that his father Uzziah did: howbeit, he entered not into the temple of the LORD. And the people did yet corruptly.

3 He built the high-gate of the houſe of the LORD, and on the wall of Ophel he built much.

4 Moreover, he built cities in the mountains of Judah, and in the foreſts he built caſtles and towers.

5 ¶ He fought alſo with the king of the Ammonites, and prevailed againſt them. And the children of Ammon gave him the ſame year an hundred talents of ſilver, and ten thouſand meaſures of wheat, and ten thouſand of barley. So much did the children of Ammon pay unto him, both the ſecond year and the third.

6 So Jotham became mighty, becauſe he prepared his ways before the LORD his God.

7 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Jotham, and all his wars, and his ways, lo, they are written in the book of the kings of Iſrael and Judah.

8 He was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem.

9 ¶ And Jotham ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David. And Ahaz his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 Ahaz, reigning wickedly, is afflicted by the Syrians. 26 He dying, Hezekiah ſucceedeth him.

AHAZ was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem: but he did not that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, like David his father.

2 For he walked in the ways of the kings of Iſrael, and made alſo molten images for Baalim.

3 Moreover, he burned incenſe in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom, and burned his children in the fire, after the abominations of the heathen whom the LORD had caſt out before the children of Iſrael.

4 He ſacrificed alſo, and burned incenſe in the high places, and on the hills, and under every green tree.

5 Wherefore the LORD his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria; and they ſmote him, and carried away a great multitude of them captives, and brought them to Damaſcus. And he was alſo delivered into the hand of the king of Iſrael, who ſmote him with a great ſlaughter.

6 For Pekah the ſon of Remaliah ſlew in Judah an hundred and twenty thouſand in one

21 Uzziah was a leper unto the day of his death.] It was a capital crime to meddle with divine miniſtrations, as is evident from the caſe of Nadab and Abihu, Levit. x. 1, 2.

Notes on the Twenty-ſeventh Chapter.

Ver. 2 He entered not into the temple of the Lord.] i. e. He did not, like him, profanely enter the temple to offer incenſe.

Ver. 3 Burnt his children in the fire.] Or, made his children paſs through the fire: for the words are ambiguous.

day, which were all valiant men; becauſe they had forſaken the LORD God of their fathers.

7 And Zichri a mighty man of Ephraim ſlew Maaſeiah the king's ſon, and Azrikam the governor of the houſe, and Elkanah that was next to the king.

8 And the children of Iſrael carried away captive of their brethren two hundred thouſand women, ſons and daughters, and took alſo away much ſpoil from them, and brought the ſpoil to Samaria.

9 But a prophet of the LORD was there whoſe name was Oded: and he went out before the hoſt that came to Samaria, and ſaid unto them, Behold, becauſe the LORD God of your fathers was wroth with Judah, he hath delivered them into your hand, and ye have ſlain them in a rage, that reacheth up unto heaven.

10 And now ye purpoſe to keep under the children of Judah and Jeruſalem for bond-men and bond-women unto you: but are there not with you, even with you, ſins againſt the LORD your God?

11 Now hear me therefore, and deliver the captives again, which ye have taken captive of your brethren: for the fierce wrath of the LORD is upon you.

12 Then certain of the heads of the children of Ephraim, Azariah the ſon of Johanan, Berechiah the ſon of Meſhillemoth, and Jehizkiah the ſon of Shallum, and Amaſa the ſon of Hadlai, ſtood up againſt them that came from the war,

13 And ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall not bring in the captives hither: for whereas we have offended againſt the LORD already, ye intend to add more to our ſins and to our treſpaſs: for our treſpaſs is great, and there is fierce wrath againſt Iſrael.

14 So the armed men left the captives and the ſpoil, before the princes and all the congregation.

15 And the men which were expreſſed by name roſe up, and took the captives, and with the ſpoil clothed all that were naked among them, and arrayed them, and ſhod them, and gave them to eat and to drink, and anointed them, and carried all the feeble of them upon aſſes, and brought them to Jericho the city of palm-trees, to their brethren: then they returned to Samaria.

16 At that time did king Ahaz ſend unto the kings of Aſſyria to help him.

17 For again the Edomites had come and ſmitten Judah, and carried away captives.

18 The Philiſtines alſo had invaded the cities of the low-country, and of the ſouth of Judah, and had taken Beth-ſhemeſh, and Ajalon, and Gederoth, and Shocho with the villages thereof, and Timnah with the villages thereof, Gimzo alſo and the villages thereof: and they dwelt there.

19 For the LORD brought Judah low becauſe of Ahaz king of Iſrael: for he made Judah naked, and tranſgreſſed ſore againſt the LORD.

20 And Tilgath-pilneſer king of Aſſyria came unto him, and diſtreſſed him, but ſtrengthened him not.

21 For Ahaz took away a portion out of the houſe of the LORD, and out of the houſe of the king, and of the princes, and gave it unto the king of Aſſyria: but he helped him not.

22 And in the time of his diſtreſs did he treſpaſs yet more againſt the LORD: this is that king Ahaz.

23 For he ſacrificed unto the gods of Damaſcus, which ſmote him: and he ſaid, Becauſe the gods of the kings of Syria help them, therefore will I ſacrifice to them, that they may 9 With a rage that reacheth up to heaven.] That had no bounds, and cried to heaven for vengeance upon the Iſraelites.

14 Left the captives and the ſpoil before the princes, &c.] A remarkable inſtance of obedience in the people, who did not heſitate a moment to return not only the captives, but alſo the ſpoil, which was very conſiderable.

15 Arrayed them and ſhod them, &c.] Here was an extraordinary act of goodneſs, not only to releaſe poor captives, but to diſmiſs them, equipt with all things neceſſary for their return home.

19 He made Judah naked.] i. e. He deprived them, by his tranſgreſſions, of the Divine protection.

20 Tilgath-pilneſer---came unto him, and diſtreſſed him, but ſtrengthened him not.] It is ſaid, 2 Kings, xvi. 9, that he did help him; he came indeed to his aſſiſtance againſt the king of Syria, took Damaſcus, and delivered Ahaz from the power of the Syrians; but this was of little ſervice to Ahaz, who was deſirous of recovering the cities taken from him by the Philiſtines. He lent him no forces, nor enabled him to recruit his own: on the contrary, he weakened him, both by exhauſting his treaſures, and taking Samaria, which laid his country open to an invaſion on that ſide, and which actually happened in the next reign. Patrick.

help me. But they were the ruin of him and of all Iſrael.

24 And Ahaz gathered together the veſſels of the houſe of God, and cut in pieces the veſſels of the houſe of God, and ſhut-up the doors of the houſe of the LORD, and he made him altars in every corner of Jeruſalem.

25 And in every ſeveral city of Judah he made high places to burn incenſe unto other gods, and provoked to anger the LORD God of his fathers.

26 ¶ Now the reſt of his acts, and of all his ways, firſt and laſt, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Judah and Iſrael.

27 And Ahaz ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, even in Jeruſalem: but they brought him not into the ſepulchres of the kings of Iſrael. And Hezekiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Hezekiah's good reign. 3 He reſtoreth religion. 12 The houſe of God cleanſed.

HEzekiah began to reign when he was five and twenty years old, and he reigned nine and twenty years in Jeruſalem. And his mother's name was Abijah the daughter of Zechariah.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, according to all that David his father had done.

3 ¶ He in the firſt year of his reign, in the firſt month, opened the doors of the houſe of the LORD, and repaired them.

4 And he brought in the prieſts and the Levites, and gathered them together into the eaſt-ſtreet,

5 And ſaid unto them, Hear me, ye Levites, ſanctify now your ſelves, and ſanctify the houſe of the LORD God of your fathers, and carry forth the filthineſs out of the holy place.

6 For our fathers have treſpaſſed, and done that which was evil in the eyes of the LORD our God, and have forſaken him, and have turned away their faces from the habitation of the LORD, and turned their backs.

7 Alſo they have ſhut up the doors of the porch, and put out the lamps, and have not burned incenſe, nor offered burnt-offerings in the holy place, unto the God of Iſrael.

8 Wherefore the wrath of the LORD was upon Judah and Jeruſalem, and he hath delivered them to trouble, to aſtoniſhment, and to hiſſing, as ye ſee with your eyes.

9 For lo, our fathers have fallen by the ſword, and our ſons and our daughters and our wives are in captivity for this.

10 Now it is in mine heart to make a covenant with the LORD God of Iſrael, that his fierce wrath may turn away from us.

11 My ſons, be not now negligent: for the LORD hath choſen you to ſtand before him, to ſerve him, and that ye ſhould miniſter unto him, and burn incenſe.

12 ¶ Then the Levites aroſe, Mahath the ſon of Amaſai, and Joel the ſon of Azariah, of the ſons of the Kohathites: and of the ſons of Merari; Kiſh the ſon of Abdi, and Azariah the ſon of Jehalelel: and of the Gerſhonites; Joah the ſon of Zimmah, and Eden the ſon of Joah:

13 And of the ſons of Elizaphan; Shimri, and Jeiel: and of the ſons of Aſaph; Zechariah, and Mattaniah:

14 And of the ſons of Heman; Jehiel, and Shimei: and of the ſons of Jeduthun; Shemaiah, and Uzziel.

15 And they gathered their brethren, and ſanctified themſelves, and came, according to the commandment of the king, by the words of the LORD, to cleanſe the houſe of the LORD.

Notes on the Twenty-ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Hezekiah began to reign, &c.] See notes on 2 Kings, xviii.

3 In the firſt year of his reign, in the firſt month.] His beginning ſo very ſoon to reform religion, ſufficiently demonſtrates his great zeal for the glory of God. He did not ſtay till he was eſtabliſhed on the throne, but began the reformation as ſoon as he aſcended it, being perſuaded that the ſureſt way of rendering his reign proſperous, and his people happy, was to aboliſh idolatry, and reſtore the worſhip of the God of Iſrael. Patrick.

10 It is in mine heart to make a covenant, &c.] He was determined to renew the covenant between God and his people, becauſe he foreſaw that immediate deſtruction would otherwiſe fall on the whole nation for their iniquities. Patrick.

11 My ſons, be not now negligent.] He uſes the moſt pathetic language in exhorting the Levites to forſake their errors, and exert themſelves in reforming the people. Patrick.

16 And the priests went into the inner part of the house of the LORD to cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the LORD, into the court of the house of the LORD. And the Levites took it, to carry it out abroad into the brook Kidron.

17 Now they began on the first day of the first month to sanctify, and on the eighth day of the month came they to the porch of the LORD: so they sanctified the house of the LORD in eight days, and in the sixteenth day of the first month they made an end.

18 Then they went in to Hezekiah the king, and said, We have cleansed all the house of the LORD, and the altar of burnt-offering, with all the vessels thereof, and the shew-bread table, with all the vessels thereof.

19 Moreover, all the vessels which king Ahaz in his reign did cast away in his transgression, have we prepared and sanctified, and behold, they are before the altar of the LORD.

20 Then Hezekiah the king rose early, and gathered the rulers of the city, and went up to the house of the LORD.

21 And they brought seven bullocks, and seven rams, and seven lambs, and seven he-goats, for a sin-offering for the kingdom, and for the sanctuary, and for Judah. And he commanded the priests the sons of Aaron to offer them on the altar of the LORD.

22 So they killed the bullocks, and the priests received the blood, and sprinkled it on the altar: likewise when they had killed the rams, they sprinkled the blood upon the altar: they killed also the lambs, and they sprinkled the blood upon the altar.

23 And they brought forth the he-goats for the sin-offering before the king and the congregation: and they laid their hands upon them.

24 And the priests killed them, and they made reconciliation with their blood upon the altar, to make an atonement for all Israel. For the king commanded that the burnt-offering and the sin-offering should be made for all Israel.

25 And he set the Levites in the house of the LORD with cymbals, with psalteries, and with harps, according to the commandment of David, and of Gad the king's seer, and Nathan the prophet: for so was the commandment of the LORD by his prophets.

26 And the Levites stood with the instruments of David, and the priests with the trumpets.

27 And Hezekiah commanded to offer the burnt-offering upon the altar. And when the burnt-offering began, the song of the LORD began also with the trumpets, and with the instruments ordained by David king of Israel.

28 And all the congregation worshipped, and the singers sang, and the trumpeters sounded: and all this continued until the burnt-offering was finished.

29 And when they had made an end of offering, the king and all that were present with him bowed themselves and worshipped.

30 Moreover, Hezekiah the king and the princes commanded the Levites to sing praise unto the LORD, with the words of David, and of Asaph the seer. And they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed their heads and worshipped.

31 Then Hezekiah answered and said, Now ye have consecrated yourselves unto the LORD, come near and bring sacrifices and thank-offerings into the house of the LORD. And the congregation brought in sacrifices and thank-offerings; and as many as were of a free heart, burnt-offerings.

32 And the number of the burnt-offerings which the congregation brought was threescore and ten bullocks, an hundred rams, and two hundred lambs: all these were for a burnt-offering to the LORD.

33 And the consecrated things were six hundred oxen, and three thousand sheep.

34 But the priests were too few, so that they could not slay all the burnt-offerings: wherefore their brethren the Levites did help them till the work was ended, and until the other priests had sanctified themselves: for the Levites were more upright in heart to sanctify themselves than the priests.

21 Seven he-goats, &c.] It is remarkable, that the word which here signifies a he-goat, was never used by the Hebrews till after the Babylonish captivity, when we find it in Daniel, who lived at Babylon: and is therefore an argument, that this book was written by Ezra, after the return of the Jews from that captivity, during which he had learned the Chaldee language. Patrick.

35 And also the burnt-offerings were in abundance, with the fat of the peace-offerings, and the drink-offerings for every burnt-offering. So the service of the house of the LORD was set in order.

36 And Hezekiah rejoiced, and all the people, that God had prepared the people: for the thing was done suddenly.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Hezekiah proclaimeth a pass-over. 13 The assembly destroy the altars of idolatry.

AND Hezekiah sent to all Israel, and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manessah, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the pass-over unto the LORD God of Israel.

2 For the king had taken counsel, and his princes, and all the congregation in Jerusalem, to keep the pass-over in the second month.

3 For they could not keep it at that time, because the priests had not sanctified themselves sufficently, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem.

4 And the thing pleased the king, and all the congregation.

5 So they established a decree, to make proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beersheba even to Dan, that they should come to keep the pass-over unto the LORD God of Israel at Jerusalem: for they had not done it of a long time in such sort as it was written.

6 So the posts went with the letters from the king and his princes throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king, saying, Ye children of Israel, turn again unto the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, and he will return to the remnant of you, that are escaped out of the hand of the kings of Assyria.

7 And be not ye like your fathers, and like your brethren, which trespassed against the LORD God of their fathers, who therefore gave them up to desolation, as ye see.

8 Now be ye not stiff-necked, as your fathers were, but yield your selves unto the LORD, and enter into his sanctuary, which he hath sanctified for ever: and serve the LORD your God, that the fierceness of his wrath may turn away from you.

9 For if ye turn again unto the LORD, your brethren and your children shall find compassion before them that lead them captive, so that they shall come again into this land: for the LORD your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you, if ye return unto him.

10 So the posts passed from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh, even unto Zebulun: but they laughed them to scorn, and mocked them.

11 Nevertheless, divers of Asher and Manasseh and of Zebulun humbled themselves, and came to Jerusalem,

12 Also in Judah the hand of God was to give them one heart to do the commandment of the king and of the princes, by the word of the LORD.

13 ¶ And there assembled at Jerusalem much people to keep the feast of unleavened bread in the second month, a very great congregation.

14 And they arose, and took away the altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense took they away, and cast them into the brook Kidron.

15 Then they killed the pass-over on the fourteenth day of the second month: and the priests and the Levites were ashamed, and sanctified themselves, and brought in the burnt-offerings into the house of the LORD.

Notes on the Thirtieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, &c.] The most probable reason why Hezekiah sent to invite the subjects of Hoshea to repair to Jerusalem, to celebrate this passover, was this; the golden calves in Beth-el and Dan were taken away, one by Tilgathpilneser, and the other by his son Salmaneser; and therefore the apostate Israelites, being deprived of their idols, began to return to the Lord, and to go up to Jerusalem to worship, for some time before Hezekiah sent to invite them.

6 So the posts went with the letters.] An instance of the great zeal of Zedekiah, who sent speedy messengers express, that timely notice might be given to every one, to prepare themselves for this service.

16 And they ſtood in their place after their manner, according to the law of Moſes the man of God: the prieſts ſprinkled the blood, which they received of the hand of the Levites.

17 For there were many in the congregation that were not ſanctified: therefore the Levites had the charge of the killing of the paſs-overs for every one that was not clean, to ſanctify them unto the LORD.

18 For a multitude of the people, even many of Ephraim, and Manaſſeh, Iſſachar, and Zebulun, had not cleanſed themſelves, yet did they eat the paſs-over otherwiſe than it was written. But Hezekiah prayed for them, ſaying, The good LORD pardon every one

19 That prepareth his heart to ſeek God, the LORD God of his fathers, though he be not cleanſed according to the purification of the ſanctuary.

20 And the LORD hearkened to Hezekiah, and healed the people.

21 And the children of Iſrael that were preſent at Jeruſalem kept the feaſt of unleavened bread ſeven days with great gladneſs: and the Levites and the prieſts praiſed the LORD day by day, ſinging with loud inſtruments unto the LORD.

22 And Hezekiah ſpake comfortably unto all the Levites that taught the good knowledge of the LORD: and they did eat throughout the feaſt ſeven days, offering peace-offerings, and making confeſſion to the LORD God of their fathers.

23 And the whole aſſembly took counſel to keep other ſeven days: and they kept other ſeven days with gladneſs.

24 For Hezekiah king of Judah did give to the congregation a thouſand bullocks, and ſeven thouſand ſheep; and the princes gave to the congregation a thouſand bullocks, and ten thouſand ſheep: and a great number of prieſts ſanctified themſelves.

25 And all the congregation of Judah, with the prieſts and the Levites, and all the congregation that came out of Iſrael, and the ſtrangers that came out of the land of Iſrael, and that dwelt in Judah rejoiced.

26 So there was great joy in Jeruſalem: for ſince the time of Solomon the ſon of David king of Iſrael there was not the like in Jeruſalem.

27 Then the prieſts the Levites aroſe, and bleſſed the people: and their voice was heard, and their prayer came up to his holy dwelling-place, even unto heaven.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 The people forward in deſtroying idolatry. 11 Hezekiah appointeth officers to diſpoſe of the tithes. 20 His ſincerity.

NOW when all this was finiſhed, all Iſrael that were preſent went out to the cities of Judah, and brake the images in pieces, and cut down the groves, and threw down the high places and the altars out of all Judah and Benjamin, in Ephraim alſo and Manaſſeh, until they had utterly deſtroyed them all. Then all the children of Iſrael returned every man to his poſſeſſion into their own cities.

2 And Hezekiah appointed the courſes of the prieſts and the Levites after their courſes, every man according to his ſervice, the prieſts and Levites for burnt-offerings, and for peace-offerings, to miniſter and to give thanks, and to praiſe in the gates of the tents of the LORD.

3 He appointed alſo the king's portion of his ſubſtance for the burnt-offerings, to wit, for the morning and evening burnt-offerings, and the burnt-offerings for the ſabbaths, and for the new-moons, and for the ſet-feaſts, as it is written in the law of the LORD.

4 Moreover, he commanded the people that dwelt in Jeruſalem to give the portion of the prieſts and the Levites, that they might be encouraged in the law of the LORD.

27 The prieſts the Levites aroſe, and bleſſed the people.] That is, ſuch of the Levites as were prieſts ſtood, and diſmiſſed the congregation with bleſſings; a ceremony ordained by a Divine commandment, Numb. vi. 22, 23. Patrick.

Notes on the Thirty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 When all this was finiſhed, &c.] i. e. What is mentioned in the foregoing chapter; and when the people were diſmiſſed with pious inſtructions from the Levites, they deſtroyed the monuments of idolatry that remained in the ſeveral cities of the kingdom.

2 In the gates of the tents of the Lord.] i. e. In the temple of the Lord; the ark anciently reſiding in a tent, and all houſes were called by that name.

5 And as ſoon as the commandment came abroad, the children of Iſrael brought in abundance the firſt-fruits of corn, wine, and oil, and honey, and of all the increaſe of the field; and the tithe of all things brought they in abundantly.

6 And concerning the children of Iſrael and Judah that dwelt in the cities of Judah, they alſo brought in the tithe of oxen and ſheep, and the tithe of holy things which were conſecrated unto the LORD their God, and laid them by heaps.

7 In the third month they began to lay the foundation of the heaps, and finiſhed them in the ſeventh month.

8 And when Hezekiah and the princes came and ſaw the heaps, they bleſſed the LORD and his people Iſrael.

9 Then Hezekiah queſtioned with the prieſts and the Levites concerning the heaps.

10 And Azariah the chief prieſt of the houſe of Zadok anſwered him, and ſaid; Since the people began to bring the offerings into the houſe of the LORD, we have had enough to eat, and have left plenty: for the LORD hath bleſſed his people: and that which is left, is this great ſtore.

11 ¶ Then Hezekiah commanded to prepare chambers in the houſe of the LORD; and they prepared them,

12 And brought in the offerings and the tithes and the dedicated things faithfully: over which Cononiah the Levite was ruler, and Shimei his brother was the next.

13 And Jehiel, and Azaziah, and Nahath, and Aſahel, and Jerimoth, and Jozabad, and Eliel, and Iſmachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah were overſeers under the hand of Cononiah and Shimei his brother, at the commandment of Hezekiah the king, and Azariah the ruler of the houſe of God.

14 And Kore the ſon of Imnah the Levite, the porter toward the eaſt, was over the free-will-offerings of God, to diſtribute the oblations of the LORD, and the moſt holy things.

15 And next him were Eden, and Miniamin, and Jeſhua, and Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah, in the cities of the prieſts, in their ſet-office, to give to their brethren by courſes, as well to the great as to the ſmall:

16 Beſide their genealogy of males, from three years old and upward, even unto every one that entereth into the houſe of the LORD, his daily portion for their ſervice in their charges according to their courſes;

17 Both the genealogy of the prieſts by the houſe of their fathers, and the Levites from twenty years old and upward, in their charges by their courſes;

18 And to the genealogy of all their little ones, their wives, and their ſons, and their daughters, through all the congregation: for in their ſet-office they ſanctified themſelves in holineſs.

19 Alſo of the ſons of Aaron the prieſts which were in the fields of the ſuburbs of their cities, in every ſeveral city, the men that were expreſſed by name, to give portions to all the males among the prieſts, and to all that were reckoned by genealogies among the Levites.

20 ¶ And thus did Hezekiah throughout all Judah, and wrought that which was good and right and truth before the LORD his God.

21 And in every work that he began in the ſervice of the houſe of God, and in the law and in the commandments to ſeek his God, he did it with all his heart, and proſpered.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 Sennacherib invadeth Judah. 21 An angel deſtroyeth the Aſſyrians. 24 Hezekiah's ſickneſs, and recovery. 32 He dying, Manaſſeh ſucceedeth him.

AFTER theſe things and the eſtabliſhment thereof, Sennacherib king of Aſſyria came and entered into Judah, and encamped againſt the fenced cities, and thought to win them for himſelf.

8 When Hezekiah and the princes came and ſaw the heaps, they bleſſed the Lord.] They gave thanks to God, who had given them ſuch plenty of good things, and a heart to offer ſo generouſly.

18 In their ſet office they ſanctified themſelves in holineſs.] Or, in faith they ſanctified themſelves in holineſs; i. e. they attended on their miniſtry at the temple, not doubting but they ſhould be provided with all the neceſſaries of life.

2 And when Hezekiah ſaw that Sennacherib was come, and that he was purpoſed to fight againſt Jeruſalem;

3 He took counſel with his princes and his mighty men, to ſtop the waters of the fountains which were without the city. And they did help him.

4 So there was gathered much people together, who ſtopped all the fountains, and the brook that ran through the midſt of the land, ſaying, Why ſhould the kings of Aſſyria come and find much water?

5 Alſo he ſtrengthened himſelf, and built up all the wall that was broken, and raiſed it up to the towers, and another wall without, and repaired Millo in the city of David, and made darts and ſhields in abundance.

6 And he ſet captains of war over the people, and gathered them together to him in the ſtreet of the gate of the city, and ſpake comfortably to them, ſaying,

7 Be ſtrong and courageous, be not afraid nor diſmayed for the king of Aſſyria, nor for all the multitude that is with him: for there be more with us than with him.

8 With him is an arm of fleſh; but with us is the LORD our God, to help us, and to fight our battles. And the people reſted themſelves upon the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

9 After this did Sennacherib king of Aſſyria ſend his ſervants to Jeruſalem(but he himſelf laid ſiege againſt Lachiſh, and all his power with him) unto Hezekiah king of Judah, and unto all Judah that were at Jeruſalem, ſaying,

10 Thus ſaith Sennacherib king of Aſſyria, Whereon do ye truſt, that ye abide in the ſiege in Jeruſalem?

11 Doth not Hezekiah perſuade you to give over your ſelves to die by famine and by thirſt, ſaying, The LORD our God ſhall deliver us out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria?

12 Hath not the ſame Hezekiah taken away his high places and his altars, and commanded Judah and Jeruſalem, ſaying, Ye ſhall worſhip before one altar, and burn incenſe upon it?

13 Know ye not what I and my fathers have done unto all the people of other lands? were the gods of the nations of thoſe lands any ways able to deliver their lands out of mine hand?

14 Who was there among all the gods of thoſe nations, that my fathers utterly deſtroyed, that could deliver his people out of mine hand, that your God ſhould be able deliver you out of mine hand?

15 Now therefore let not Hezekiah deceive you, nor perſuade you on this manner, neither yet believe him: for no god of any nation or kingdom was able to deliver his people out of mine hand, and out of the hand of my fathers: how much leſs ſhall your God deliver you out of mine hand?

16 And his ſervants ſpake yet more againſt the LORD God, and againſt his ſervant Hezekiah.

17 He wrote alſo letters to rail on the LORD God of Iſrael, and to ſpeak againſt him, ſaying, As the gods of the nations of other lands have not delivered their people out of mine hand, ſo ſhall not the God of Hezekiah deliver his people out of mine hand.

18 Then they cried with a loud voice, in the Jews ſpeech unto the people of Jeruſalem that were on the wall, to affright them, and to trouble them; that they might take the city.

19 And they ſpake againſt the God of Jeruſalem as againſt the gods of the people of the earth, which were the work of the hands of man.

20 And for this cauſe Hezekiah, the king, and the prophet Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz, prayed and cried to heaven.

21 ¶ And the LORD ſent an angel, which cut off all the mighty men of valour, and the leaders and captains in the camp of the king of Aſſyria. So he returned with ſhame of face to his own land. And when he was come into the houſe of his god, they that came forth of his own bowels ſlew him there with the ſword.

22 Thus the LORD ſaved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem from the hand of Sennacherib the king of Aſſyria, and from the hand of all other, and guided them on every ſide.

23 And many brought gifts unto the LORD to Jeruſalem, and preſents to Hezekiah king of Judah: ſo that he was magnified in the ſight of all nations from thenceforth.

24 ¶ In thoſe days Hezekiah was ſick to the death, and prayed unto the LORD: and he ſpake unto him, and he gave him a ſing.

25 But Hezekiah rendered not again according to the benefit done unto him; for his heart was lifted up: therefore there was wrath upon him, and upon Judah and Jeruſalem.

26 Notwithſtanding, Hezekiah humbled himſelf for the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, ſo that the wrath of the LORD came not upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

27 And Hezekiah had exceeding much riches and honour: and he made himſelf treaſuries for ſilver, and for gold, and for precious ſtones, and for ſpices, and for ſhields, and for all manner of pleaſant jewels;

28 Store-houſes alſo for the increaſe of corn, and wine, and oil; and ſtalls for all manner of beaſts, and cotes for flocks.

29 Moreover, he provided him cities, and poſſeſſions of flocks and herds in abundance: for God had given him ſubſtance very much.

30 This ſame Hezekiah alſo ſtopped the upper water-courſe of Gihon, and brought it ſtraight down to the weſt-ſide of the city of David. And Hezekiah proſpered in all his works.

31 Howbeit, in the buſineſs of the ambaſſadors of the princes of Babylon, who ſent unto him to enquire of the wonder that was done in the land, God left him to try him, that he might know all that was in his heart.

32 ¶ Now the reſt of the acts of Hezekiah, and his goodneſs, behold, they are written in the viſion of Iſaiah the prophet the ſon of Amoz, and in the book of the kings of Judah and Iſrael.

33 And Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers, and they buried him in the chiefeſt of the ſepulchres of the ſons of David. And all Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem did him honour at his death. And Manaſſeh his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

MAnaſſeh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty and five years in Jeruſalem:

2 But did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, like unto the abominations of the heathen whom the LORD had caſt out before the children of Iſrael:

3 For he built again the high places which Hezekiah his father had broken down, and he reared up altars for Baalim, and made groves, and worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved them.

4 Alſo he built altars in the houſe of the LORD, whereof the LORD had ſaid, In Jeruſalem ſhall my name be for ever.

5 And he built altars for all the hoſt of heaven in the two courts of the houſe of the LORD.

6 And he cauſed his children to paſs through the fire in the valley of the ſon of Hinnom: alſo he obſerved times, and uſed inchantments, and uſed witchcraft, and dealt with a familiar ſpirit, and with wizards: he wrought much evil in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

7 And he ſet a carved image, the idol which he had made, in the houſe of God, of which God had ſaid to David and to Solomon his ſon, In this houſe, and in Jeruſalem, which I have choſen before all the tribes of Iſrael, will I put my name for ever.

8 Neither will I any more remove the foot of Iſrael from out of the land which I have appointed for your fathers; ſo that they will take heed to do all that I have commanded them, according to the whole law and the ſtatutes and the ordinances by the hand of Moſes.

9 So Manaſſeh made Judah and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem to err, and to do worſe than the heathen whom the LORD had deſtroyed before the children of Iſrael.

10 And the LORD ſpake to Manaſſeh, and to his people: but they would not hearken.

11 ¶ Wherefore the LORD brought upon them the captains of the hoſt of the king of Aſſyria, which took Manaſſeh among the thorns, and bound him with fetters, and carried him to Babylon.

12 ¶ And when he was in affliction, he beſought the LORD his God, and humbled himſelf greatly before the God of his fathers, 13 And prayed unto him: and he was entreated of him, and heard his ſupplication, and brought him again to Jeruſalem into his kingdom. Then Manaſſeh knew that the LORD he was God.

14 Now after this, he built a wall without the city of David, on the weſt-ſide of Gihon, in the valley, even to the entering-in at the fiſh-gate, and compaſſed about Ophel, and raiſed it up a very great height, and put captains of war in all the fenced cities of Judah.

15 And he took away the ſtrange gods, and the idol out of the houſe of the LORD, and all the altars that he had built in the mount of the houſe of the LORD, and in Jeruſalem, and caſt them out of the city.

16 And he repaired the altar of the LORD, and ſacrificed thereon peace-offerings and thank-offerings, and commanded Judah to ſerve the LORD God of Iſrael.

17 Nevertheleſs, the people did ſacrifice ſtill in the high places, yet unto the LORD their God only.

18 Now the reſt of the acts of Manaſſeh, and his prayer unto his God, and the words of the ſeers that ſpake to him in the name of the LORD God of Iſrael, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Iſrael.

19 His prayer alſo, and how God was entreated of him, and all his ſins, and his treſpaſs, and the places wherein he built high places, and ſet up groves and graven images before he was humbled; behold, they are written among the ſayings of the ſeers.

20 ¶ So Manaſſeh ſlept with his fathers; and they buried him in his own houſe. And Amon his ſon reigned in his ſtead.

21 ¶ Amon was two and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned two years in Jeruſalem.

22 But he did that which was evil in the ſight of the LORD, as did Manaſſeh his father: for Amon ſacrificed unto all the carved images which Manaſſeh his father had made, and ſerved them;

23 And humbled not himſelf before the LORD, as Manaſſeh his father had humbled himſelf; but Amon treſpaſſed more and more.

24 And his ſervants conſpired againſt him, and ſlew him in his own houſe.

25 ¶ But the people of the land ſlew all them that had conſpired againſt king Amon; and the people of the land made Joſiah his ſon king in his ſtead.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Joſiah's good reign. 3 He deſtroyeth idolatry. 8 He repaireth the temple, 29 and cauſing the law to be read, reneweth the covenant with God.

JOſiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jeruſalem one and thirty years.

2 And he did that which was right in the ſight of the LORD, and walked in the ways of David his father, and declined neither to the right hand nor to the left.

3 ¶ For in the eighth year of his reign, while he was yet young, he began to ſeek after the God of David his father: and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jeruſalem from the high places, and the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images.

4 And they brake down the altars of Baalim in his preſence; and the images that were on high above them he cut down: and the groves, and the carved images, and the molten images he brake in pieces, and made duſt of them, and ſtrowed it upon the graves of them that had ſacrificed unto them.

5 And he burned the bones of the prieſts upon their altars, and cleanſed Judah and Jeruſalem.

6 And ſo did he in the cities of Manaſſeh, and Ephraim, and Simeon, even unto Naphtali, with their mattocks, round about.

7 And when he had broken down the altars and the groves, and had beaten the graven images into powder, and cut down all the idols throughout all the land of Iſrael, he returned to Jeruſalem.

8 ¶ Now in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had purged the land, and the houſe, he ſent Shaphan the ſon of Azaliah, and Maaſeiah the governor of the city, and Joah the ſon of Joahaz the recorder, to repair the houſe of the LORD his God.

9 And when they came to Hilkiah the high prieſt, they delivered the money that was brought into the houſe of God, which the Levites that kept the doors had gathered of the hand of Manaſſeh and Ephraim, and of all the remnant of Iſrael, and of all Judah, and Benjamin, and they returned to Jeruſalem.

10 And they put it in the hand of the workmen that had the overſight of the houſe of the LORD, and they gave it to the workmen that wrought in the houſe of the LORD, to repair and mend the houſe:

11 Even to the artificers and builders gave they it, to buy hewn ſtone, and timber for couplings, and to floor the houſes which the kings of Judah had deſtroyed.

12 And the men did the work faithfully: and the overſeers of them were Jahath, and Obadiah, the Levites, of the ſons of Merari; and Zechariah, and Meſhullam, of the ſons of the Kohathites, to ſet it forward; and other of the Levites, all that could ſkill of inſtruments of muſick.

13 Alſo they were over the bearers of burdens, and were overſeers of all that wrought the work in any manner of ſervice: and of the Levites there were ſcribes, and officers, and porters.

14 And when they brought out the money that was brought into the houſe of the LORD, Hilkiah the prieſt found the book of the law of the LORD, given by Moſes.

15 And Hilkiah anſwered and ſaid to Shaphan the ſcribe, I have found the book of the Notes on the Thirty-fourth Chapter.

Ver. 3 In the eighth year of his reign, &c.] His pious inclination of worſhipping the God of Iſrael appeared very early: for he was only ſixteen years of age, when he openly declared his reſolution of ſerving the Lord God of his fathers, and propoſed David for his pattern. See 2 Kings, xxii. xxiii.

14 Found a book of the law of the Lord given by Moſes.] In the Hebrew it is, a book of the law of the Lord, by the hand of Moſes; i. e. as Mr. Kennicott underſtands it, in the hand-writing of Moſes: for, ſays he, though there are fifteen places in the Old Teſtament, which mention the words law of Moſes and book of Moſes, yet this one place only mentions the book of the law in the hand (or by the hand) of Moſes: the reaſon of which ſeems to be, that the other places ſpeak of that law in general; but this place ſpeaks of one particular MS, namely, the original. And as to the point of age, it might be the original, for from the death of Moſes to the death of Joſiah, at the utmoſt computation, was not more than 950 years; an age exceeded by that of ſeveral MSS preſerved at this day. law in the houſe of the LORD. And Hilkiah delivered the book to Shaphan.

16 And Shaphan carried the book to the king, and brought the king word back again, ſaying, All that was committed to thy ſervants, they do it.

17 And they have gathered together the money that was found in the houſe of the LORD, and have delivered it into the hand of the overſeers, and to the hand of the workmen.

18 Then Shaphan the ſcribe told the king, ſaying, Hilkiah the prieſt hath given me a book. And Shaphan read it before the king.

19 And it came to paſs when the king had heard the words of the law, that he rent his clothes.

20 And the king commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan, and Abdon the ſon of Micah, and Shaphan the ſcribe, and Aſaiah a ſervant of the king's, ſaying,

21 Go, enquire of the LORD for me, and for them that are left in Iſrael and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that is found: for great is the wrath of the LORD that is poured out upon us, becauſe our fathers have not kept the word of the LORD, to do after all that is written in this book.

22 And Hilkiah, and they that the king had appointed, went to Huldah the propheteſs, the wife of Shallum the ſon of Tikvath, the ſon of Haſrah, keeper of the wardrobe. Now ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem in the college. And they ſpake to her to that effect.

23 And ſhe anſwered them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Tell ye the man that ſent ye to me,

24 Thus ſaith the LORD, Behold, I will bring evil upon this place, and upon the inhabitants thereof, even all the curſes that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah.

25 Becauſe they have forſaken me, and have burned incenſe to other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands; therefore my wrath ſhall be poured out upon this place, and ſhall not be quenched.

26 And as for the king of Judah, who ſent you to enquire of the LORD, ſo ſhall ye ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael concerning the words which thou haſt heard;

27 Becauſe thine heart was tender, and thou didſt humble thy ſelf before God, when thou heardeſt his words againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants thereof, and humbledſt thy ſelf before me, and didſt rend thy clothes, and weep before me; I have even heard thee alſo, ſaith the LORD.

28 Behold, I will gather thee to thy fathers, and thou ſhalt be gathered to thy grave in peace, neither ſhall thine eyes ſee all the evil that I will bring upon this place, and upon the inhabitants of the ſame. So they brought the king word again.

29 ¶ Then the king ſent and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jeruſalem.

30 And the king went up into the houſe of the LORD, and all the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and the prieſts, and the Levites, and all the people great and ſmall: and he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the houſe of the LORD.

31 And the king ſtood in his place, and made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD, and to keep his commandments and his teſtimonies and his ſtatutes, with all his heart and with all his ſoul, to perform the words of the covenant which are written in this book.

32 And he cauſed all that were preſent in Jeruſalem and Benjamin to ſtand to it. And the inhabitants of Jeruſalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers.

33 And Joſiah took away all the abominations out of all the countries that pertained to the children of Iſrael, and made all that were

30 He read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant.] It can hardly be ſuppoſed, that both Joſiah and all the nation of Judah, were entirely ignorant of what the book of the law contained; eſpecially when it is remembered that Jeremiah and other prophets were now living, who were very converſant in this book, and made it their buſineſs to inſtruct the people in the precepts it contained. But it is plain, that they did not give a proper attention to the words of it; particularly that paſſage in Deut. xxviii. 38, where Moſes foretold the captivity of Samaria, and afterwards of Judah. Patrick.

preſent in Iſrael to ſerve, even to ſerve the LORD their God. And all his days they departed not from following the LORD, the God of their fathers.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 Joſiah keepeth a ſolemn paſs-over. 20 He provoking Pharaoh-necho, is ſlain at Megiddo. 25 Lamentations for him.

MOreover, Joſiah kept a paſs-over unto the LORD in Jeruſalem: and they killed the paſs-over on the fourteenth day of the firſt month.

2 And he ſet the prieſts in their charges, and encouraged them to the ſervice of the houſe of the LORD;

3 And ſaid unto the Levites that taught all Iſrael, which were holy unto the LORD, Put the holy ark in the houſe which Solomon the ſon of David king of Iſrael did build; it ſhall not be a burden upon your ſhoulders: ſerve now the LORD your God, and his people Iſrael,

4 And prepare your ſelves by the houſes of your fathers, after your courſes, according to the writing of David king of Iſrael, and according to the writing of Solomon his ſon.

5 And ſtand in the holy place according to the diviſions of the families of the fathers of your brethren the people, and after the diviſion of the families of the Levites.

6 So kill the paſs-over, and ſanctify your ſelves, and prepare your brethren, that they may do according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

7 And Joſiah gave to the people of the flock, lambs and kids, all for the paſs-over-offerings, for all that were preſent, to the number of thirty thouſand; and three thouſand bullocks: theſe were of the king's ſubſtance.

8 And his princes gave willingly unto the people, to the prieſts and to the Levites: Hilkiah, and Zechariah, and Jehiel, rulers of the houſe of God, gave unto the prieſts for the paſs-over-offerings two thouſand and ſix hundred ſmall cattle, and three hundred oxen.

9 Conaniah alſo, and Shemaiah, and Nethaneel, his brethren, and Haſhibiah, and Jeiel, and Jozabad, chief of the Levites, gave unto the Levites for paſs-over-offerings five thouſand ſmall cattle, and five hundred oxen.

10 So the ſervice was prepared, and the prieſts ſtood in their place, and the Levites in their courſes, according to the king's commandment.

11 And they killed the paſs-over, and the prieſts ſprinkled the blood from their hands, and the Levites flayed them.

12 And they removed the burnt-offerings, that they might give according to the diviſions of the families of the people, to offer unto the LORD, as it is written in the book of Moſes. And ſo did they with the oxen.

13 And they roaſted the paſs-over with fire, according to the ordinance: but the other holy offerings ſod they in pots, and in caldrons, and in pans, and divided them ſpeedily among all the people.

14 And afterward they made ready for themſelves and for the prieſts: becauſe the prieſts the ſons of Aaron were buſied in offering of burnt-offerings and the fat until night; therefore the Levites prepared for themſelves and for the prieſts the ſons of Aaron.

15 And the ſingers the ſons of Aſaph were in their place, according to the commandment of David, and Aſaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the king's ſeer; and the porters waited at every gate; they might not depart from their ſervice; for their brethren the Levites prepared for them.

16 So all the ſervice of the LORD was prepared the ſame day, to keep the paſs-over, and to offer burnt-offerings upon the altar of the LORD, according to the commandment of king Joſiah.

17 And the children of Iſrael that were preſent kept the paſs-over at that time, and the feaſt of unleavened bread ſeven days.

18 And there was no paſs-over like to that kept in Iſrael from the days of Samuel the prophet; neither did all the kings of Iſrael keep ſuch a paſs-over as Joſiah kept, and the priests, and the Levites, and all Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

19 In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah was this pass-over kept.

20 ¶ After all this, when Josiah had prepared the temple, Necho king of Egypt came up to fight against Charchemish by Euphrates: and Josiah went out against him.

21 But he sent ambassadors to him, saying, What have I to do with thee, thou king of Judah? I come not against thee this day, but against the house wherewith I have war: for God commanded me to make haste: forbear thee from meddling with God, who is with me, that he may destroy thee not.

22 Nevertheless, Josiah would not turn his face from him, but disguised himself that he might fight with him, and hearkened not unto the words of Necho from the mouth of God, and came to fight in the valley of Megiddo.

23 And the archers shot at king Josiah: and the king said to his servants, Have me away; for I am sore wounded.

24 His servants therefore took him out of that chariot, and put him in the second chariot that he had; and they brought him to Jerusalem, and he died, and was buried in one of the sepulchres of his fathers. And all Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah.

25 ¶ And Jeremiah lamented for Josiah: and all the singing-men and the singing-women spake of Josiah in their lamentations to this day, and made them an ordinance in Israel: and behold, they are written in the lamentations.

26 Now the rest of the acts of Josiah, and his goodness, according to that which was written in the law of the LORD,

27 And his deeds first and last, behold, they are written in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah.

25 They made them an ordinance in Israel.] That they should never forget this fatal stroke; after which they never saw good days.

Behold, they are written in the lamentations.] It is plain from hence, that the Jews used to make lamentations or mournful songs upon the death of great men, and had collections of this kind of composition. The author of the book of Samuel has preserved those that were made upon the death of Saul and Jonathan, of Abner and Absalom: but this mournful poem, which the disconsolate prophet made on the immature death of good Josiah, has [illegible] been handed down to us; which is a loss the more to be deplored, as, in all probability, it was a master-piece in its kind, since there never was an author more affected with his subject, or more capable of filling it with all the tender sentiments of sorrow and compassion. Calmet.

13 And he alſo rebelled againſt king Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him ſwear by God: but he ſtiffened his neck, and hardned his heart from turning unto the LORD God of Iſrael.

14 Moreover, all the chief of the prieſts and the people tranſgreſſed very much, after all the abominations of the heathen; and polluted the houſe of the LORD which he had hallowed in Jeruſalem.

15 And the LORD God of their fathers ſent to them by his meſſengers, riſing up betimes, and ſending; becauſe he had compaſſion on his people and on his dwelling-place:

16 But they mocked the meſſengers of God, and deſpiſed his words, and miſuſed his prophets, until the wrath of the LORD aroſe againſt his people, till there was no remedy.

17 Therefore he brought upon them the king of the Chaldees, who ſlew their young men with the ſword in the houſe of their ſanctuary, and had no compaſſion upon young man or maiden, old man, or him that ſtooped for age: he gave them all into his hand.

18 And all the veſſels of the houſe of God, great and ſmall, and the treaſures of the houſe of the LORD, and the treaſures of the king, and of his princes: all theſe he brought to Babylon.

19 And they burned the houſe of God, and brake down the wall of Jeruſalem, and burned all the palaces thereof with fire, and deſtroyed all the goodly veſſels thereof.

20 And them that had eſcaped from the ſword carried he away to Babylon: where they were ſervants to him and his ſons until the reign of the kingdom of Perſia:

21 To fulfil the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had enjoyed her ſabbaths: for as long as ſhe lay deſolate, ſhe kept ſabbath, to fulfil threeſcore and ten years.

22 ¶ Now in the firſt year of Cyrus king of Perſia, that the word of the LORD ſpoken by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accompliſhed, the LORD ſtirred up the ſpirit of Cyrus king of Perſia, that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it alſo in writing, ſaying,

23 Thus ſaith Cyrus king of Perſia, All the kingdoms of the earth hath the LORD God of heaven given me; and he hath charged me to build him an houſe in Jeruſalem which is in Judah. Who is there among you of all his people? the LORD his God be with him, and let him go up.

---

15 Riſing betimes, and ſending.] To riſe betimes ſignifies in Scripture to do a thing with care, diligence, and affection.

He had compaſſion on his people, and on his dwelling-place.] To this compaſſion they owed a ſucceſſion of prophets in every king's reign, who earneſtly preſſed them to reform. But the Jews had ſuch a ſtrange propenſity to idolatry, that if they worſhipped the Lord during the reign of a good king, they immediately returned to their old crimes when a bad one aſcended the throne.

22, 23 Now in the firſt year of Cyrus, &c.] That theſe two verſes are an interpolation, the beginning of Ezra ſufficiently proves, where they are repeated; ſo that the ſecond book of Chronicles ſhould have concluded with the 21ſt verſe of this chapter.

EZRA.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Book of Ezra is a continuation of the Chronicles, and compriſes the hiſtory of the Jews, from the time that Cyrus made the decree for their return, to the 20*th year of* Artaxerxes Longimanus, which was about 100 years. It was all compoſed by Ezra, except the ſix firſt chapters; for we find at the beginning of the ſeventh chapter, that he did not return till the time of Artaxerxes.

CHAP. I.

1 The proclamation of Cyrus, for the building of the temple. 5 The people provide for their return. 7 Cyrus reſtoreth the veſſels of the temple to Sheſhbazzar.

NOW in the firſt year of Cyrus king of Perſia, that the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the LORD ſtirred up the ſpirit of Cyrus king of Perſia, that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, and put it alſo in writing, ſaying,

2 Thus ſaith Cyrus king of Perſia, The LORD God of heaven hath given me all the kingdoms of the earth: and he hath charged me to build him an houſe at Jeruſalem which is in Judah.

3 Who is there among you of all his people? his God be with him, and let him go up to Jeruſalem which is in Judah, and build the houſe of the LORD God of Iſrael (he is the God) which is in Jeruſalem.

4 And whoſoever remaineth in any place where he ſojourneth, let the men of his place help him with ſilver, and with gold, and with goods, and with beaſts, beſides the free-will-offering for the houſe of God that is in Jeruſalem.

5 ¶ Then roſe up the chief of the fathers of Judah and Benjamin, and the prieſts and the Levites, with all them whoſe ſpirit God had raiſed to go up, to build the houſe of the LORD which is in Jeruſalem.

6 And all they that were about them ſtrengthened their hands with veſſels of ſilver, with gold, with goods, and with beaſts, and with precious things, beſides all that was willingly offered.

7 ¶ Alſo Cyrus the king brought forth the veſſels of the houſe of the LORD, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought forth out of Jeruſalem, and had put them in the houſe of his gods;

Notes on the First Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now in the firſt year of Cyrus king of Perſia.] This is that famous Cyrus, who, an hundred and forty years before the temple was deſtroyed, and two hundred years before he was born, was mentioned by name in the prophecy of Iſaiah, as deſigned by God for the reſtoring his people; ſee chap. xliv. 28. and xlv. 1. Patrick.

That the word of the Lord, &c.] Jeremiah had foretold, that after ſeventy years were accompliſhed, the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans ſhould be deſtroyed, and the people of Judah reſtored to their own land. Jer. xxv. 12. xxix. 10. Patrick.

The Lord ſtirred up the ſpirit of Cyrus king of Perſia, &c.] It is highly probable, that this decree in favour of the Jews was, in a great meaſure, owing to the good offices of Daniel. Cyrus, at his firſt coming to Babylon, found him there, famed for his great wiſdom over all the Eaſt, and, in many things, for a knowledge ſuperior to the reſt of mankind: and probably Daniel might ſhow the king thoſe paſſages in Iſaiah, wrote many years before he was born, which mention him by name, as a great prince, a conqueror, and the reſtorer of his people, by cauſing the temple to be built, and the city of Jeruſalem reinhabited. For it is evident from the decree itſelf, that Cyrus had ſeen thoſe prophecies; and ſurely no perſon was more proper to ſhow them to him, and to recommend the accompliſhment of them to his princely care, than Daniel, who was in ſo great credit with him, and was ſo paſſionately concerned for the reſtoration of Sion. Prideaux's Connect.

7 Cyrus brought forth the veſſels, &c.] Where by a ſingular providence they had been preſerved till this time; being looked upon as ſacred things, which Nebuchadnezzar would not convert to his own private uſe, but dedicated to his gods. Patrick.

8 Sheſh-

8 Even thoſe did Cyrus king of Perſia bring forth by the hand of Mithredath the treaſurer, and numbered them unto Sheſhbazzar the prince of Judah.

9 And this is the number of them: thirty chargers of gold, a thouſand chargers of ſilver, nine and twenty knives,

10 Thirty baſons of gold, ſilver baſons of a ſecond ſort four hundred and ten, and other veſſels a thouſand.

11 All the veſſels of gold, and of ſilver, were five thouſand and four hundred. All theſe did Sheſhbazzar bring up with them of the captivity that were brought up from Babylon unto Jeruſalem.

CHAP. II.

1 Who returned from Babylon. 64 Their number and ſubſtance. 68 Their oblations.

NOW theſe are the children of the province that went up out of the captivity, of thoſe which had been carried away, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away unto Babylon, and came again unto Jeruſalem and Judah, every one unto his city;

2 Which came with Zerubbabel, Jeſhua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilſhan, Mizpar, Bigvai, Rehum, Baanah. The number of the men of the people of Iſrael.

3 The children of Paroſh, two thouſand an hundred ſeventy and two.

4 The children of Shephatiah, three hundred ſeventy and two.

5 The children of Arah, ſeven hundred ſeventy and five.

6 The children of Pahath-moab, of the children of Jeſhua and Joab, two thouſand eight hundred and twelve.

7 The children of Elam, a thouſand two hundred fifty and four.

8 The children of Zattu, nine hundred forty and five.

9 The children of Zaccai, ſeven hundred and threeſcore.

10 The children of Bani, ſix hundred forty and two.

11 The children of Bebai, ſix hundred twenty and three.

12 The children of Azgad, a thouſand two hundred twenty and two.

13 The children of Adonikam, ſix hundred ſixty and ſix.

14 The children of Bigvai, two thouſand fifty and ſix.

15 The children of Adin, four hundred fifty and four.

16 The children of Ater of Hezekiah, ninety and eight.

17 The children of Bezai, three hundred twenty and three.

18 The children of Jorah, an hundred and twelve.

19 The children of Haſhum, two hundred twenty and three.

20 The children of Gibbar, ninety and five.

21 The children of Beth-lehem, an hundred twenty and three.

22 The men of Netophah, fifty and ſix.

23 The men of Anathoth, an hundred twenty and eight.

24 The children of Azmaveth, forty and two.

25 The children of Kirjath-arim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, ſeven hundred and forty and three.

26 The children of Ramah and Gaba, ſix hundred twenty and one.

27 The men of Michmas, an hundred twenty and two.

8 Sheſhbazzar the prince of Judah.] His name was originally Zerubbabel. It was common for the great men of Judah to have two names; one of their own country, and another of the Chaldeans. Zerubbabel was born in Babylon, and his name, which ſignifies an exile or ſtranger in Babylon, implies the miſery of the people of Iſrael at that time; but Sheſhbazzar, which ſignifies fine linen and gold, ſeems to be a name of a better omen, and to denote their future flouriſhing condition. Patrick.

10 Four hundred and ten.] From the parallel account in Eſdras, chap. ii. 13. and the authority of ſeveral MSS, it is plain the number of theſe veſſels ſhould have been 2410. Kennicott.

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 1 Theſe are the children of the province, &c.] By the province is undoubtedly meant Judea, as is plain from the parallel place in Eſdras, chap. v. 7. which ſays, Theſe are they of Jewry, that came up from the captivity, &c. For the variation in the names of the chiefs and of the men of Iſrael, and the difference of the numbers mentioned in this chapter and in Nehemiah, chap. vii. and Eſdras v. ſee Mr. Kennicott's Diſſert. vol. II. p. 508, where he has at one view laid all the variations before the eye of the reader.

28 The men of Beth-el and Ai, two hundred twenty and three.
29 The children of Nebo, fifty and two.
30 The children of Magbish, an hundred fifty and six.
31 The children of the other Elam, a thousand two hundred fifty and four.
32 The children of Harim, three hundred and twenty.
33 The children of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, seven hundred twenty and five.
34 The children of Jericho, three hundred forty and five.
35 The children of Senaah, three thousand and six hundred and thirty.
36 The priests: the children of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, nine hundred seventy and three.
37 The children of Immer, a thousand fifty and two.
38 The children of Pashur, a thousand two hundred forty and seven.
39 The children of Harim, a thousand and seventeen.
40 The Levites: the children of Jeshua, and Kadmiel, of the children of Hodaviah, seventy and four.
41 The singers: the children of Asaph, an hundred twenty and eight.
42 The children of the porters: the children of Shallum, the children of Ater, the children of Talmon, the children of Akkub, the children of Hatita, the children of Shobai, in all an hundred thirty and nine.
43 The Nethinims: the children of Ziha, the children of Hasupha, the children of Tabbaoth, 44 The children of Keros, the children of Siaha, the children of Padon,
45 The children of Lebanah, the children of Hagabah, the children of Akkub,
46 The children of Hagab, the children of Shalmai, the children of Hanan,
47 The children of Giddel, the children of Gahar, the children of Reaiah,
48 The children of Rezin, the children of Nekoda, the children of Gazzam,
49 The children of Uzza, the children of Paseah, the children of Besai,
50 The children of Asnah, the children of Mehunim, the children of Nephusim,
51 The children of Bakbuk, the children of Hakupha, the children of Harhur,
52 The children of Bazluth, the children of Mehida, the children of Harsha,
53 The children of Barkos, the children of Sisera, the children of Thamah,
54 The children of Neziah, the children of Hatipha,
55 The children of Solomon's servants: the children of Sotai, the children of Sophereth, the children of Peruda,
56 The children of Jaalah, the children of Darkon, the children of Giddel,
57 The children of Shephatiah, the children of Hattil, the children of Pochereth of Zebaim, the children of Ami.
58 All the Nethinims, and the children of Solomon's servants were three hundred ninety and two.
59 And these were they which went up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsa, Cherub, Addan, and Immer: but they could not shew their father's house, and their seed, whether they were of Israel:
60 The children of Delaiah, the children of Tobiah, the children of Nekoda, six hundred fifty and two.
61 And of the children of the priests: the children of Habaiah, the children of Koz, the children of Barzillai: which took a wife of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite, and was called after their name.
62 These sought their register among those that were reckoned by genealogy, but they were not found: therefore were they, as polluted, put from the priesthood.
63 And the Tirshatha said unto them, that they should not eat of the most holy things till there stood up a priest with Urim and with Thummim.

55 The children of Solomon's servants.] These were probably the descendants of those who came from the neighbouring nations to assist Solomon in building the temple; and, having embraced the Jewish religion, were appropriated to take care of that structure.

63 The Tirshatha.] Signifies probably chief governor, or king's commis-

64 ¶ The whole congregation together was forty and two thousand three hundred and threescore,

65 Besides their servants and their maids, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred thirty and seven: and there were among them two hundred singing-men and singing-women.

66 Their horses were seven hundred thirty and six; their mules, two hundred forty and five;

67 Their camels, four hundred thirty and five; their asses, six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

68 ¶ And some of the chief of the fathers, when they came to the house of the LORD which is at Jerusalem, offered freely for the house of God to set it up in his place.

69 They gave after their ability unto the treasure of the work, threescore and one thousand drams of gold, and five thousand pound of silver, and one hundred priests garments.

70 So the priests and the Levites, and some of the people, and the singers, and the porters, and the Nethinims dwelt in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

CHAP. III.

1 The altar is set up. 4 Offerings frequented. 8 The foundations of the temple laid.

AND when the seventh month was come, and the children of Israel were in the cities, the people gathered themselves together as one man to Jerusalem.

2 Then stood up Jeshua the son of Jozadak, and his brethren the priests, and Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and his brethren, and builded the altar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt-offerings thereon, as it is written in the law of Moses the man of God.

3 And they set the altar upon his bases; for fear was upon them because of the people of those countries: and they offered burnt-offerings thereon unto the LORD, even burnt-offerings morning and evening;

4 ¶ They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is written, and offered the daily burnt-offerings by number, acording to the custom, as the duty of every day required;

5 And afterward offered the continual burnt-offering, both of the new moons, and of all the set-feasts of the LORD, that were consecrated, and of every one that willingly offered a free-will offering unto the LORD.

6 From the first day of the seventh month began they to offer burnt-offerings unto the LORD. But the foundation of the temple of the LORD was not yet laid.

7 They gave money also unto the masons, and to the carpenters; and meat, and drink, and oil unto them of Zidon, and to them of Tyre, to bring cedar-trees from Lebanon to the sea of Joppa; according to the grant that they had of Cyrus king of Persia.

8 ¶ Now in the second year of their coming unto the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second month, began Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua the son of Jozadak; and the remnant of their brethren the priests and the Levites, and all they that were come out of the captivity unto Jerusalem; and appointed the Levites, from twenty years old and upward, to set forward the work of the house of the LORD.

9 Then stood Jeshua with his sons and his brethren, Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of Judah together, to set forward the workmen commissioner: Nehemiah is so called, chap. viii. 9, and x. 1.

Till there stood up a priest with Urim and Thummim.] Till the Lord himself should decide, by means of such a high priest as there was in the first temple, whether they were the sons of Aaron or not. It is probable, that the Urim and Thummim, together with other kinds of prophecy, and the many extraordinary tokens of God's power and presence, ceased with that generation which returned from captivity, or immediately after the finishing of the second temple: as if God had appointed that long interval of time for a fast or vigil, as an introduction to the fulness of time, when God would pour out his spirit upon all flesh, upon the Gentile as well as the Jew; to teach the Israelites, that he was not their God alone, but also of the Gentiles. Patrick.

64 Forty and two thousand three hundred and threescore.] If we add the several sums together, enumerated in the foregoing verses, the total will be no more than 29,818. But it should be remembered, that great numbers of the other tribes of Israel, besides those of Judah and Benjamin, came from Babylon; and these not being able to make out their descent, were not mentioned by their families as the others were. Patrick.

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 3 They set the altar upon his bases.] Before they began to lay the foundation of the temple; for they would not intermit their sacrifices while it was building.

in the houſe of God: the ſons of Henadad, with their ſons and their brethren the Levites.

10 And when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of the LORD, they ſet the prieſts in their apparel with trumpets, and the Levites the ſons of Aſaph with cymbals, to praiſe the LORD, after the ordinance of David king of Iſrael.

11 And they ſang together by courſe, in praiſing and giving thanks unto the LORD; becauſe he is good, for his mercy endureth for ever towards Iſrael. And all the people ſhouted with a great ſhout when they praiſed the LORD, becauſe the foundation of the houſe of the LORD was laid.

12 But many of the prieſts and Levites, and chief of the fathers, who were ancient men, that had ſeen the firſt houſe, when the foundation of this houſe was laid before their eyes, wept with a loud voice; and many ſhouted aloud for joy:

13 So that the people could not diſcern the noiſe of the ſhout of joy from the noiſe of the weeping of the people: for the people ſhouted with a loud ſhout, and the noiſe was heard afar off.

CHAP. IV.

1 The building hindered. 7 The letter to Artaxerxes. 17 His decree.

NOW when the adverſaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the LORD God of Iſrael;

2 Then they came to Zerubbabel, and to the chief of the fathers, and ſaid unto them, Let us build with you: for we ſeek your God, as ye do; and we do ſacrifice unto him, ſince the days of Eſar-haddon king of Aſſur, which brought us up hither.

3 But Zerubbabel and Jeſhua, and the reſt of the chief of the fathers of Iſrael, ſaid unto them, Ye have nothing to do with us to build an houſe unto our God; but we our ſelves together will build unto the LORD God of Iſrael, as king Cyrus the king of Perſia hath commanded us.

4 Then the people of the land weakened the hands of the people of Judah, and troubled them in building,

5 And hired counſellors againſt them to fruſtrate their purpoſe, all the days of Cyrus king of Perſia, even until the reign of Darius king of Perſia.

6 And in the reign of Ahaſuerus, in the beginning of his reign, wrote they unto him an accuſation againſt the inhabitants of Judah and Jeruſalem.

7 ¶ And in the days of Artaxerxes wrote Biſhlam, Mithridath, Tabeel, and the reſt of their companions unto Artaxerxes king of Perſia; and the writing of the letter was written in the Syrian tongue, and interpreted in the Syrian tongue.

8 Rehum the chancellor and Shimſhai the ſcribe wrote a letter againſt Jeruſalem to Artaxerxes the king, in this ſort:

9 Then wrote Rehum the chancellor, and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and the reſt of their companions; the Dinaites, the Apharſathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharſites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the Suſanchites, the Dehavites, and the Elamites,

12 Many wept with a loud voice, and many ſhouted aloud for joy.] The young people ſhouted for joy, while the old men wept aloud: for though the temple was intended to be built as large as the former, yet there were not ſuch excellent ſtones for laying the foundations, as in that built by Solomon; nor could they hope to finiſh it in ſo magnificent a manner. The Shechinah, together with a prieſt with the Urim and Thummim, were alſo wanting. Notwithſtanding this, they ought to have been thankful to God for the liberty of worſhipping him in the beauty of holineſs, and again enjoying their own land. Patrick.

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The adverſaries of Judah and Benjamin.] i. e. The Samaritans; theſe were not of the ſeed of Iſrael, but the poſterity of that mixed multitude, whom Shalmanezar king of Aſſyria ſent from Cuthah, Ava, Hamath, Sepharvaim, and other provinces, to inhabit thoſe parts, out of which he had carried the ten Iſraelitiſh tribes. Univ. Hiſt.

4 Weakened the hands of the people.] i. e. Diſcouraged them.

5 Hired counſellors to fruſtrate their purpoſe.] They corrupted ſome of the king of Perſia's council to obſtruct the work. Patrick.

Even until the reign of Darius, king of Perſia.] Probably the Darius here mentioned was Darius Hyſtaſpis, whoſe ſecond year was the eighteenth after the firſt of Cyrus, according to the computation of Huetius.

6 In the reign of Ahaſuerus.] This was not the prince mentioned in the book of Eſther, though it is not eaſy to tell preciſely what king of Perſia is here meant.

7 The writing of the letter was written, and interpreted in the Syrian tongue.] i. e. Both the letter and a large expoſition of it were written in that language.

10 And the reſt of the nations whom the great and noble Aſnappar brought over, and ſet in the cities of Samaria, and the reſt that are on this ſide the river, and at ſuch a time.

11 This is the copy of the letter that they ſent unto him, even unto Artaxerxes the king; Thy ſervants the men on this ſide the river, and at ſuch a time.

12 Be it known unto the king, that the Jews which came up from thee to us are come unto Jeruſalem, building the rebellious and the bad city, and have ſet up the walls thereof, and joined the foundations.

13 Be it known now unto the king, that if this city be builded, and the walls ſet up again, then will they not pay toll, tribute, and cuſtom, and ſo thou ſhalt endamage the revenue of the kings.

14 Now becauſe we have maintenance from the king's palace, and it was not meet for us to ſee the king's diſhonour; therefore have we ſent and certified the king;

15 That ſearch may be made in the book of the records of thy fathers: ſo ſhalt thou find in the book of the records, and know, that this city is a rebellious city, and hurtful unto kings and provinces, and that they have moved ſedition within the ſame of old time: for which cauſe was this city deſtroyed.

16 We certify the king, that if this city be builded again, and the walls thereof ſet up, by this means thou ſhalt have no portion on this ſide the river.

17 ¶ Then ſent the king an anſwer unto Rehum the chancellor, and to Shimſhai the ſcribe, and to the reſt of their companions that dwell in Samaria, and unto the reſt beyond the river, Peace, and at ſuch a time.

18 The letter which ye ſent unto us hath been plainly read before me.

19 And I commanded, and ſearch hath been made, and it is found, that this city of old time hath made inſurrection againſt kings, and that rebellion and ſedition have been made therein.

20 There have been mighty kings alſo over Jeruſalem, which have ruled over all countries beyond the river; and toll, tribute and cuſtom was paid unto them.

21 Give ye now commandment to cauſe theſe men to ceaſe, and that this city be not builded, until another commandment ſhall be given from me.

22 Take heed now that ye fail not to do this: why ſhould damage grow to the hurt of the kings?

23 Now when the copy of king Artaxerxes' letter was read before Rehum and Shimſhai the ſcribe, and their companions, they went up in haſte to Jeruſalem unto the Jews, and made them to ceaſe by force and power.

24 Then ceaſed the work of the houſe of God which is at Jeruſalem. So it ceaſed unto the ſecond year of the reign of Darius king of Perſia.

CHAP. V.

Zerubbabel and Jeſhua ſet forward the building.

THEN the prophets, Haggai the prophet and Zechariah the ſon of Iddo, propheſied unto the Jews that were in Judah and Jeruſalem in the name of the God of Iſrael, even unto them.

2 Then roſe up Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak, and began to build the houſe of God which is at Jeruſalem: and with them were the prophets of God helping them.

3 At the ſame time came to them Tatnai governor on this ſide the river, and Shetharboznai, and their companions, and ſaid thus unto them, Who hath commanded you to build this houſe, and to make up this wall?

---

10 Whom the great and noble Aſnappar, &c.] Some ſuppoſe that the word Aſnappar is another name for Salmanezer, who ſent theſe colonies hither. But it is more reaſonable to ſuppoſe that he was ſome principal commander, who was intruſted to conduct them over the Euphrates, and ſee them ſettled in thoſe countries. Patrick.

14 Becauſe we have maintenance, &c.] The Hebrew is, We are ſalted with the ſalt of the palace; i. e. they received their ſalary from the king; for it ſeems, they received their ſtipend in ſalt, from whence it was called a ſalary.

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Propheſied unto the Jews, &c.] Rather, as the words may be rendered, againſt them; for they reproved them ſharply, becauſe they did not build the temple.

4 Then ſaid we unto them after this manner, What are the names of the men that make this building?

5 But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews that they could not cauſe them to ceaſe, till the matter came to Darius: and then they returned anſwer by letter concerning this matter.

6 The copy of the letter that Tatnai governor on this ſide the river, and Shethar-boznai, and his companions the Apharſachites, which were on this ſide the river, ſent unto Darius the king:

7 They ſent a letter unto him wherein was written thus; Unto Darius the king, all peace.

8 Be it known unto the king, that we went into the province of Judea, to the houſe of the great God, which is builded with great ſtones, and timber is laid in the walls, and this work goeth faſt on, and proſpereth in their hands.

9 Then aſked we thoſe elders, and ſaid unto them thus, Who commanded you to build this houſe, and to make up theſe walls?

10 We aſked their names alſo, to certify thee, that we might write the names of the men that were the chief of them.

11 And thus they returned us anſwer, ſaying, We are the ſervants of the God of heaven and earth, and build the houſe that was builded theſe many years ago, which a great king of Iſrael builded and ſet up.

12 But after that our fathers had provoked the God of heaven unto wrath, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, the Chaldean, who deſtroyed this houſe, and carried the people away into Babylon.

13 But in the firſt year of Cyrus the king of Babylon, the ſame king Cyrus made a decree to build this houſe of God.

14 And the veſſels alſo of gold and ſilver of the houſe of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple that was in Jeruſalem, and brought them into the temple of Babylon, thoſe did Cyrus the king take out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered unto one whoſe name was Sheſhbazzar, whom he had made governor;

15 And ſaid unto him, Take theſe veſſels, go, carry them into the temple that is in Jeruſalem, and let the houſe of God be builded in his place.

16 Then came the ſame Sheſhbazzar, and laid the foundation of the houſe of God which is in Jeruſalem. And ſince that time even until now hath it been in building, and yet it is not finiſhed.

17 Now therefore, if it ſeem good to the king, let there be ſearch made in the king's treaſure-houſe which is there at Babylon, whether it be ſo that a decree was made of Cyrus the king to build this houſe of God at Jeruſalem, and let the king ſend his pleaſure to us concerning this matter.

CHAP. VI.

1 Darius advanceth the building. 13 The temple is finiſhed. 16 The feaſt of the dedication is kept, 19 and the paſs-over.

THEN Darius the king made a decree, and ſearch was made in the houſe of the rolls, where the treaſures were laid up in Babylon.

2 And there was found at Achmetha, in the palace that is in the province of the Medes, a roll, and therein was a record thus written:

3 In the firſt year of Cyrus the king the ſame Cyrus the king made a decree concerning the houſe of God at Jeruſalem, Let the houſe be builded, the place where they offered ſacrifices, and let the foundations thereof be ſtrongly laid: the height thereof threeſcore cubits, and the breadth thereof threeſcore cubits:

4 With three rows of great ſtones, and a

8 Builded with great ſtones.] Iarchi, Kimchi, and others tranſlate it marble ſtones, and the LXX choice ſtones.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 2 There was found at Achmetha, &c.] This city was afterwards called Ecbatana, where the kings of Perſia kept their court. It is plain from hence, that Darius was a prince of great goodneſs; for though he ſearched in vain the records at Babylon, he did not decree any thing againſt the Jews; but ordered a farther ſearch to be made at Achmetha, where the roll, containing the decree of Cyrus, in favour of the Jews, was found. Patrick.

6 Be row of new timber; and let the expences be given out of the king's house.

5 And also let the golden and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took forth out of the temple which is at Jerusalem, and brought unto Babylon, be restored, and brought again unto the temple which is at Jerusalem, every one to his place, and place them in the house of God.

6 Now therefore, Tatnai governor beyond the river, Shethar-boznai, and your companions the Apharsachites, which are beyond the river, be ye far from thence.

7 Let the work of this house of God alone: let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews build this house of God in his place.

8 Moreover, I make a decree, what ye shall do to the elders of these Jews for the building of this house of God; that of the king's goods, even of the tribute beyond the river, forthwith expences be given unto these men, that they be not hindered.

9 And that which they have need of, both young bullocks, and rams, and lambs for the burnt-offerings of the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the appointment of the priests which are at Jerusalem, let it be given them day by day without fail:

10 That they may offer sacrifices of sweet savours unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king, and of his sons.

11 Also I have made a decree, that whosoever shall alter this word, let timber be pulled down from his house, and being set up, let him be hanged thereon; and let his house be made a dunghill for this.

12 And the God that hath caused his name to dwell there, destroy all kings and people that shall put to their hand to alter and destroy this house of God which is at Jerusalem. I Darius have made a decree; let it be done with speed.

13 ¶ Then Tatnai governor on this side the river, Shethar-boznai, and their companions, according to that which Darius the king had sent, so they did speedily.

14 And the elders of the Jews builded, and they prospered through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet, and Zechariah the son of Iddo. And they builded, and finished it according to the commandment of the God of Israel, and according to the commandment of Cyrus, and Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Persia.

15 And this house was finished on the third day of the month Adar, which was in the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

16 ¶ And the children of Israel, the priests and the Levites, and the rest of the children of the captivity, kept the dedication of this house of God with joy.

17 And offered at the dedication of this house of God an hundred bullocks, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs; and for a sin-offering for all Israel, twelve he-goats, according to the number of the tribes of Israel.

18 And they set the priests in their divisions, and the Levites in their courses, for the service of God which is at Jerusalem; as it is written in the book of Moses.

19 ¶ And the children of the captivity kept the pass-over upon the fourteenth day of the first month.

20 For the priests and the Levites were purified together, all of them were pure, and killed the pass-over for all the children of the captivity, and for their brethren the priests, and for themselves.

21 And the children of Israel which were come again out of captivity, and all such as had separated themselves unto them, from the filthiness of the heathen of the land, to seek the LORD God of Israel, did eat,

22 And kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with joy: for the LORD had made them joyful, and turned the heart of the king of Assyria unto them, to strengthen their hands in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

6 Be ye far from thence.] Come not near Jerusalem, to give them any disturbance.

16 The children of Israel.] By the children of Israel are to be understood not only the two tribes of Judah and Benjamin, but all those of the other tribes, great numbers of whom were now at Jerusalem. Patrick.

CHAP. VII.

1 Ezra goeth up to Jeruſalem. 11 The commiſſion of Artaxerxes. 27 God is praiſed.

NOW after theſe things, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Perſia, Ezra the ſon of Seraiah, the ſon of Azariah, the ſon of Hilkiah,

2 The ſon of Shallum, the ſon of Zadok, the ſon of Ahitub,

3 The ſon of Amariah, the ſon of Azariah, the ſon of Meraioth,

4 The ſon of Zerahiah, the ſon of Uzzi, the ſon of Bukki.

5 The ſon of Abiſhua, the ſon of Phinehas, the ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the chief prieſt:

6 This Ezra went up from Babylon; and he was a ready ſcribe in the law of Moſes, which the LORD God of Iſrael had given: and the king granted him all his requeſt, according to the hand of the LORD his God upon him.

7 And there went up ſome of the children of Iſrael, and of the prieſts, and the Levites, and the ſingers, and the porters, and the Nethinims, unto Jeruſalem, in the ſeventh year of Artaxerxes the king.

8 And he came to Jeruſalem in the fifth month, which was in the ſeventh year of the king.

9 For upon the firſt day of the firſt month began he to go up from Babylon, and on the firſt day of the fifth month came he to Jeruſalem, according to the good hand of his God upon him.

10 For Ezra had prepared his heart to ſeek the law of the LORD, and to do it, and to teach in Iſrael ſtatutes and judgements.

11 ¶ Now this is the copy of the letter that the king Artaxerxes gave unto Ezra the prieſt, the ſcribe, even a ſcribe of the words of the commandments of the LORD, and of his ſtatutes to Iſrael.

12 Artaxerxes king of kings, unto Ezra the prieſt, a ſcribe of the law of the God of heaven, perfect peace, and at ſuch a time.

13 I make a decree, that all they of the people of Iſrael, and of his prieſts, and Levites in my realm, which are minded of their own free-will to go up to Jeruſalem, go with thee.

14 Foraſmuch as thou art ſent of the king, and of his ſeven counſellers, to enquire concerning Judah and Jeruſalem, according to the law of thy God which is in thine hand;

15 And to carry the ſilver and the gold which the king and his counſellers have freely offered unto the God of Iſrael, whoſe habitation is in Jeruſalem,

16 And all the ſilver and the gold that thou canſt find in all the province of Babylon, with the free-will-offering of the people, and of the prieſts, offering willingly for the houſe of their God which is in Jeruſalem:

17 That thou mayeſt buy ſpeedily with this money, bullocks, rams, lambs, with their meat-offerings and their drink-offerings, and offer them upon the altar of the houſe of your God which is in Jeruſalem.

18 And whatſoever ſhall ſeem good to thee and to thy brethren to do with the reſt of the ſilver and the gold, that do after the will of your God.

19 The veſſels alſo that are given thee for the ſervice of the houſe of thy God, thoſe deliver thou before the God of Jeruſalem.

20 And whatſoever more ſhall be needful for the houſe of thy God, which thou ſhalt have occaſion to beſtow, beſtow it out of the king's treaſure-houſe.

21 And I, even I Artaxerxes the king, do make a decree to all the treaſurers which are beyond the river, that whatſoever Ezra the prieſt, the ſcribe of the law of the God of heaven, ſhall require of you, it be done ſpeedily;

22 Unto an hundred talents of ſilver, and to an hundred meaſures of wheat, and to an hun-

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 6 Ezra---was a ready ſcribe in the law of Moſes.] The word here rendered a ready ſcribe ſignifies one that taught God's law, and inſtructed the people out of it, in which ſenſe we find the word ſcribes uſed in the New Teſtament: for when our Saviour is ſaid to have taught the people, as one having authority, and not as the ſcribes, we are plainly given to underſtand, that theſe ſcribes were not tranſcribers, but teachers and expounders of the law, though they did not do it with proper authority. Patrick.

dred baths of wine, and to an hundred baths of oil, and ſalt without preſcribing how much.

23 Whatſoever is commanded by the God of heaven, let it be diligently done for the houſe of the God of heaven: for why ſhould there be wrath againſt the realm of the king and his ſons?

24 Alſo we certify you, that touching any of the prieſts and Levites, ſingers, porters, Nethinims, or miniſters of this houſe of God, it ſhall not be lawful to impoſe toll, tribute, or cuſtom upon them.

25 And thou, Ezra, after the wiſdom of thy God that is in thine hand, ſet magiſtrates and judges, which may judge all the people that are beyond the river, all ſuch as know the laws of thy God; and teach ye them that know them not.

26 And whoſoever will not do the law of thy God, and the law of the king, let judgement be executed ſpeedily upon him, whether it be unto death, or to baniſhment, or to confiſcation of goods, or to impriſonment.

27 ¶ Bleſſed be the LORD God of our fathers, which hath put ſuch a thing as this in the king's heart, to beautify the houſe of the LORD which is in Jeruſalem:

28 And hath extended mercy unto me before the king and his counſellers, and before all the king's mighty princes. And I was ſtrengthened as the hand of the LORD my God was upon me, and I gathered together out of Iſrael chief men to go up with me.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Ezra's companions from Babylon. 15 He ſendeth to Iddo for miniſters of the temple. 21 He kepeeth a faſt.

THESE are now the chief of their fathers, and this is the genealogy of them that went up with me from Babylon, in the reign of Artaxerxes the king.

2 Of the ſons of Phinehas; Gerſhom: of the ſons of Ithamar; Daniel: of the ſons of David; Hattuſh.

3 Of the ſons of Shecaniah, of the ſons of Pharoſh; Zechariah: and with him were reckoned by genealogy of the males an hundred and fifty.

4 Of the ſons of Pahath-moab; Elihoenai the ſon of Zerahiah, and with him two hundred males.

5 Of the ſons of Shechaniah; the ſon of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred males.

6 Of the ſons alſo of Adin; Ebed the ſon of Jonathan, and with him fifty males.

7 And of the ſons of Elam; Jeſhaiah the ſon of Athaliah, and with him ſeventy males.

8 And of the ſons of Shephatiah; Zebadiah, the ſon of Michael, and with him fourſcore males.

9 Of the ſons of Joab; Obadiah the ſon of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen males.

10 And of the ſons of Shelomith; the ſon of Joſiphiah, and with him an hundred and threeſcore males.

11 And of the ſons of Bebai; Zechariah the ſon of Bebai, and with him twenty and eight males.

12 And of the ſons of Azgad; Johanan the ſon of Hakkatan, and with him an hundred and ten males.

13 And of the laſt ſons of Adonikam, whoſe names are theſe, Eliphelet, Jeiel, and Shemaiah, and with them threeſcore males.

14 Of the ſons alſo of Bigvai; Uthai, and Zabbud, and with them ſeventy males.

15 ¶ And I gathered them together to the river that runneth to Ahava; and there abode

23 Whatſoever is commanded by the God of heaven, let it be diligently done for the houſe of the God of heaven.] Theſe words expreſs the higheſt ſenſe of God, his ſupreme authority, and the regard that is due to his ſacred commands, from the greateſt kings. Here Jacobus Capellus cries out in a kind of rapture, O words to be written upon the palaces of kings in letters of gold, and engraven upon the minds of all the faithful with a ſtile of adamant! Patrick.

24 Touching any of the prieſts and Levites, &c.] That, as Wolphius notes, they who watched and prayed for the public good, might be freed from all other cares.

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 15 I gathered them together to the river that runneth to Ahava.] This was a river of Aſſyria. It was common for thoſe who travelled from Babylon to Jeruſalem, in order to avoid the ſcorching heat in the deſerts of Arabia, to direct their courſe at firſt to the northward; and then, turning weſtward, to paſs through Syria into Paleſtine; but as Ezra intended to aſſemble as many Iſraelites as poſſible, and carry them with him to Jeruſalem, he paſſed through this country, and halted in that of Ava, or Ahava, from whence he might ſend meſſengers to the we in tents three days: and I viewed the people, and the priests, and found there none of the sons of Levi.

16 Then sent I for Eliezer, for Ariel, for Shemaiah, and for Elnathan, and for Jarib, and for Elnathan, and for Nathan, and for Zechariah, and for Meshullam, chief men; also for Joiarib, and for Elnathan, men of understanding.

17 And I sent them with commandment unto Iddo the chief at the place Casiphia, and I told them what they should say unto Iddo, and to his brethren the Nethinims, at the place Casiphia, that they should bring unto us ministers for the house of our God.

18 And by the good hand of our God upon us they brought us a man of understanding of the sons of Mahli, the son of Levi, the son of Israel, and Sherebiah, with his sons and his brethren eighteen;

19 And Hashabiah, and with him Jeshaiah of the sons of Merari, his brethren, and their sons, twenty;

20 Also of the Nethinims whom David and the princes had appointed for the service of the Levites, two hundred and twenty Nethinims: all of them were expressed by name.

21 ¶ Then I proclaimed a fast there, at the river of Ahava, that we might afflict ourselves before our God, to seek of him a right way for us, and for our little ones, and for all our substance.

22 For I was ashamed to require of the king a band of soldiers and horsemen to help us against the enemy in the way: because we had spoken unto the king, saying, The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek him, but his power and his wrath is against all them that forsake him.

23 So we fasted and besought our God for this: and he was intreated of us.

24 Then I separated twelve of the chief of the priests, Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their brethren with them,

25 And weighed unto them the silver and the gold and the vessels, even the offering of the house of our God, which the king and his counsellors, and his lords, and all Israel, there present had offered.

26 I even weighed unto their hand six hundred and fifty talents of silver, and silver vessels an hundred talents, and of gold an hundred talents;

27 Also twenty basons of gold of a thousand drams; and two vessels of fine copper, precious as gold.

28 And I said unto them, Ye are holy unto the LORD; the vessels are holy also; and the silver and the gold are a free-will-offering unto the LORD God of your fathers.

29 Watch ye, and keep them, until ye weigh them before the chief of the priests and the Levites, and chief of the fathers of Israel at Jerusalem, in the chambers of the house of the LORD.

30 So took the priests and the Levites the weight of the silver and the gold and the vessels, to bring them to Jerusalem unto the house of our God.

31 Then we departed from the river of Ahava on the twelfth day of the first month, to go unto Jerusalem: and the hand of our God was upon us, and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy, and of such as lay in wait by the way.

32 And we came to Jerusalem, and abode there three days.

33 Now on the fourth day was the silver and the gold and the vessels weighed in the house of our God, by the hand of Meremoth the son of Uriah the priest: and with him was Eleazar the son of Phinehas: and with them was Jozabad the son of Jeshua, and Noadiah the son of Binnui, Levites:

Caspian mountains, in order to invite such Jews as resided there to join their brethren, now on their journey to their own land. Le Clerc and Calmet.

20 Nethinims.] They were employed in carrying wood and water for the use of the temple; the word implies the same as dedititii, men given for that purpose. Patrick.

21, 22 Then I proclaimed a fast, &c.] Which was a necessary duty, because they were apprehensive of enemies, who lay in wait for them, and were ashamed to ask any guard of the king; who, not being fully instructed in divine matters, might possibly think that what they had said of the favour of God towards them, and the prophecies concerning their restoration, were only empty boasts, in case they distrusted his power and favour, by making application to the king for his protection. Patrick.

Notes

34 By number and by weight of every one. And all the weight was written at that time.

35 Alſo the children of thoſe that had been carried away which were come out of the captivity, offered burnt-offerings unto the God of Iſrael, twelve bullocks for all Iſrael, ninety and ſix rams, ſeventy and ſeven lambs, twelve he-goats for a ſin-offering: all this was a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

36 And they delivered the king's commiſſions unto the king's lieutenants, and to the governors on this ſide the river: and they furthered the people, and the houſe of God.

CHAP. IX.

1 Ezra mourneth for the affinity of the people with ſtrangers. 5 He prayeth to God.

NOW when theſe things were done, the princes came to me, ſaying, The people of Iſrael, and the prieſts and the Levites have not ſeparated themſelves from the people of the lands, doing according to their abominations, even of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebuſites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites.

2 For they have taken of their daughters for themſelves, and for their ſons; ſo that the holy ſeed have mingled themſelves with the people of thoſe lands: yea, the hand of the princes and rulers hath been chief in this treſpaſs.

3 And when I heard this thing, I rent my garment and my mantle, and plucked off the hair of my head and of my beard, and ſat down aſtoniſhed.

4 Then were aſſembled unto me every one that trembled at the words of the God of Iſrael, becauſe of the tranſgreſſion of thoſe that had been carried away; and I ſat aſtoniſhed until the evening ſacrifice.

5 ¶ And at the evening ſacrifice I aroſe up from my heavineſs; and having rent my garment and my mantle, I fell upon my knees, and ſpread out my hands unto the LORD my God,

6 And ſaid, O my God, I am aſhamed and bluſh to lift up my face to thee, my God: for our iniquities are increaſed over our head, and our treſpaſs is grown up unto the heavens.

7 Since the days of our fathers have we been in a great treſpaſs unto this day; and for our iniquities have we, our kings, and our prieſts been delivered into the hand of the kings of the land, to the ſword, to captivity, and to a ſpoil, and to confuſion of face, as it is this day.

8 And now for a little ſpace grace hath been ſhewed from the LORD our God, to leave us a remnant to eſcape, and to give us a nail in his holy place, that our God may lighten our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our bondage.

9 For we were bondmen, yet our God hath not forſaken us in our bondage, but hath extended mercy unto us in the ſight of the kings of Perſia, to give us a reviving, to ſet up the houſe of our God, and to repair the deſolations thereof, and to give us a wall in Judah and in Jeruſalem.

10 And now, O our God, what ſhall we ſay after this? for we have forſaken thy commandments,

11 Which thou haſt commanded by thy ſervants the prophets, ſaying, The land unto which ye go to poſſeſs it is an unclean land with the filthineſs of the people of the lands, with their abominations, which have filled it from one end to another with their uncleanneſs.

12 Now therefore give not your daughters

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The people of Iſrael—have not ſeparated themſelves from the people of the land.] i. e. Contrary to the precepts of the law, they have contracted marriages with the inhabitants of the land: nor is this wickedneſs committed by the loweſt of the people only, but alſo by the prieſts and Levites themſelves. Patrick.

6 O my God, I am aſhamed, and bluſh to lift up my face to thee, &c.] This is one of the moſt pathetic addreſſes to God recorded in the holy ſcriptures.

8 To give us a nail in his holy place.] Till the building of the temple, the children of Iſrael lived in tents, which were faſtened to the ground by nails or pins; and therefore the true meaning of the expreſſion is, that God had given them a ſettled abode, after a long captivity.

9 To give us a wall in Judah and Jeruſalem.] The Hebrew word ſignifies alſo a hedge or fence, ſuch as were uſually made for the folds of ſheep. Ezra uſes this expreſſion to denote the ſingular care of God, who being the ſhepherd of Iſrael, had gathered together his ſcattered flock, and brought them back into their ancient folds; in which he preſerved them even when they had no wall for their defence, under the powerful protection of the king of Perſia. Patrick.

unto their ſons, neither take their daughters unto your ſons, nor ſeek their peace or their wealth for ever: that ye may be ſtrong, and eat the good of the land, and leave it for an inheritance to your children for ever.

13 And after all that is come upon us for our evil deeds and for our great treſpaſs, ſeeing that thou our God haſt puniſhed us leſs than our iniquities deſerve, and haſt given us ſuch deliverance as this;

14 Should we again break thy commandments, and join in affinity with the people of theſe abominations? wouldeſt not thou be angry with us till thou hadſt conſumed us, ſo that there ſhould be no remnant nor eſcaping?

15 O LORD God of Iſrael, thou art righteous: for we remain yet eſcaped, as it is this day: behold, we are before thee in our treſpaſſes: for we cannot ſtand before thee becauſe of this.

CHAP. X.

1 Shechaniah encourageth Ezra to reform the ſtrange marriages. 6 Ezra mourning, aſſembleth the people. 9 The people at the exhortation of Ezra repent, and promiſe amendment. 18 The names of them which had married ſtrange wives.

NOW when Ezra had prayed, and when he had confeſſed, weeping and caſting himſelf down before the houſe of God, there aſſembled unto him out of Iſrael a very great congregation of men and women and children: for the people wept very ſore.

2 And Shechaniah the ſon of Jehiel, one of the ſons of Elam, anſwered and ſaid unto Ezra, We have treſpaſſed againſt our God, and have taken ſtrange wives of the people of the land: yet now there is hope in Iſrael concerning this thing.

3 Now therefore let us make a covenant with our God, to put away all the wives, and ſuch as are born of them according to the counſel of my lord, and of thoſe that tremble at the commandment of our God; and let it be done according to the law.

4 Ariſe: for this matter belongeth unto thee: we alſo will be with thee: be of good courage, and do it.

5 Then aroſe Ezra, and made the chief prieſts, the Levites, and all Iſrael to ſwear that they ſhould do according to this word. And they ſware.

6 ¶ Then Ezra roſe up from before the houſe of God, and went into the chamber of Johanan the ſon of Eliaſhib: and when he came thither, he did eat no bread, nor drink water: for he mourned becauſe of the tranſgreſſion of them that had been carried away.

7 And they made proclamation throughout Judah and Jeruſalem, unto all the children of the captivity, that they ſhould gather themſelves together unto Jeruſalem:

8 And that whoſoever would not come within three days, according to the counſel of the princes and the elders, all his ſubſtance ſhould be forfeited, and himſelf ſeparated from the congregation of thoſe that had been carried away.

9 ¶ Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin gathered themſelves together unto Jeruſalem within three days. It was the ninth month, and the twentieth day of the month; and all the people ſat in the ſtreet of the houſe of God, trembling becauſe of this matter, and for the great rain.

10 And Ezra the prieſt ſtood up, and ſaid unto them, Ye have tranſgreſſed, and have taken ſtrange wives, to increaſe the treſpaſs of Iſrael.

11 Now therefore make confeſſion unto the LORD God of your fathers, and do his pleaſure: and ſeparate your ſelves from the people of the land, and from the ſtrange wives.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now when Ezra had prayed, &c.] As this prayer was made at the evening ſacrifice, when the greateſt part of the people were aſſembled to worſhip the Lord, and as it was uttered with great paſſion, and the higheſt expreſſions of grief and ſorrow, it is no wonder that the people were greatly moved; eſpecially to ſee ſuch a perſon as Ezra, a prieſt of God, and a great ruler under the king of Perſia, ſo dejected, full of fear, confuſion, and aſtoniſhment. Patrick.

6 When he came thither, he did eat no bread.] The word when is not in the Hebrew; therefore it had better be tranſlated, till he came thither he had eaten nothing. Patrick.

12 Then all the congregation anſwered and ſaid with a loud voice, As thou haſt ſaid, ſo muſt we do.

13 But the people are many, and it is a time of much rain, and we are not able to ſtand without, neither is this a work of one day or two: for we are many that have tranſgreſſed in this thing.

14 Let now our rulers of all the congregation ſtand, and let all them which have taken ſtrange wives in our cities come at appointed times, and with them the elders of every city, and the judges thereof, until the fierce wrath of our God for this matter be turned from us.

15 Only Jonathan the ſon of Aſahel and Jahaziah the ſon of Tikvah were employed about this matter: and Meſhullam, and Shabbethai the Levite helped them.

16 And the children of the captivity did ſo. And Ezra the prieſt, with certain chief of the fathers, after the houſe of their fathers, and all of them by their names, were ſeparated, and ſat down in the firſt day of the tenth month to examine the matter.

17 And they made an end with all the men that had taken ſtrange wives by the firſt day of the firſt month.

18 ¶ And among the ſons of the prieſts there were found that had taken ſtrange wives: namely, of the ſons of Jeſhua the ſon of Jozadak, and his brethren; Maaſeiah, and Eliezer, and Jarib, and Gedaliah.

19 And they gave their hands, that they would put away their wives; and being guilty, they offered a ram of the flock for their treſpaſs.

20 And of the ſons of Immer; Hanani, and Zebadiah.

21 And of the ſons of Harim; Maaſeiah, and Elijah and Shemaiah, and Jehiel, and Uzziah.

22 And of the ſons of Paſhur; Elioenai, Maaſeiah, Iſhmael, Nethaneel, Jozabad, and Elaſah.

23 Alſo of the Levites; Jozabad, and Shimei, and Kelaiah (the ſame is Kelita) Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer.

24 Of the ſingers alſo; Eliaſhib: and of the porters; Shallum, and Telem, and Uri.

25 Moreover, of Iſrael: of the ſons of Paroſh; Ramiah, and Jeziah, and Malchiah, and Miamin, and Eleazar, and Malchijah, and Benaiah.

26 And of the ſons of Elam; Mattaniah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, and Abdi, and Jeremoth, and Eliah.

27 And of the ſons of Zattu; Elioenai, Eliaſhib, Mattaniah, and Jeremoth, and Zabad, and Aziza.

THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH.

THE ARGUMENT.

Nehemiah, the author of this book, was cup-bearer to the king of Perſia; of whom he obtained leave to return to Judea to rebuild the city of Jeruſalem. He continues the hiſtory of Ezra, from the 20th year of Artaxerxes to the reign of Darius Nothus, in all about forty years.

CHAP. I.

1 Nehemiah underſtanding by Hanani the miſery of Jeruſalem, mourneth, faſteth, and prayeth.
5 His prayer.

THE words of Nehemiah the ſon of Hachaliah. And it came to paſs in the month Chiſleu, in the twentieth year, as I was in Shuſhan the palace,

2 That Hanani, one of my brethren, came, he and certain men of Judah; and I aſked them concerning the Jews that had eſcaped, which were left of the captivity, and concerning Jeruſalem.

3 And they ſaid unto me, The remnant that are left of the captivity there in the province are in great affliction and reproach: the wall of Jeruſalem alſo is broken down, and the gates thereof are burned with fire.

4 And it came to paſs when I heard theſe words, that I ſat down and wept, and mourned certain days and faſted, and prayed before the God of heaven,

5 ¶ And ſaid, I beſeech thee, O LORD God of heaven, the great and terrible God, that keepeth covenant and mercy for them that love him and obſerve his commandments:

6 Let thine ear now be attentive, and thine eyes open, that thou mayeſt hear the prayer of thy ſervant, which I pray before thee now day and night for the children of Iſrael thy ſervants, and confeſs the ſins of the children of Iſrael, which we have ſinned againſt thee: both I and my father's houſe have ſinned.

7 We have dealt very corruptly againſt thee, and have not kept the commandments nor the ſtatutes nor the judgments which thou commandedſt thy ſervant Moſes.

8 Remember, I beſeech thee, the word that thou commandedſt thy ſervant Moſes, ſaying, If ye tranſgreſs, I will ſcatter you abroad among the nations:

9 But if ye turn unto me, and keep my commandments, and do them; though there were of you caſt out unto the uttermoſt part of the heaven, yet will I gather them from thence, and will bring them unto the place that I have choſen to ſet my name there.

10 Now theſe are thy ſervants and thy people, whom thou haſt redeemed by thy great power and by thy ſtrong hand.

11 O LORD, I beſeech thee, let now thine

5 I beſeech thee, O Lord God of heaven.] This was the ſtile in which they mentioned God after the captivity, and ſignifies his ſovereign dominion over all things contained within the compaſs of the heavens, the ſun, moon, and ſtars, angels, men, and all creatures in general. Patrick.

11 I was the king's cup-bearer.] A poſt of great honour in the Perſian court, becauſe of the privilege he enjoyed of being daily in the king's preſence, and conſequently of gaining his favour for obtaining any petition he ſhould think fit to aſk: and that it was a place of great profit is evident, becauſe Nehemiah had amaſſed ſuch immenſe riches, that he was enabled to ſupport himſelf, with all the charges attending his government, without laying any burden on the people. Prideaux.

ear be attentive to the prayer of thy ſervant, and to the prayer of thy ſervants, who deſire to fear thy name: and proſper, I pray thee, thy ſervant this day, and grant him mercy in the ſight of this man. For I was the king's cup-bearer.

CHAP. II.

1 Artaxerxes ſendeth Nehemiah to Jeruſalem. 12 He vieweth the ruins; 17 and inciteth the Jews to build.

AND it came to paſs in the month Niſan, in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king, that wine was before him: and I took up the wine, and gave it unto the king. Now I had not been before-time ſad in his preſence.

2 Wherefore the king ſaid unto me, Why is thy countenance ſad, ſeeing thou art not ſick? this is nothing elſe but ſorrow of heart. Then I was very ſore afraid,

3 And ſaid unto the king, Let the king live for ever: why ſhould not my countenance be ſad, when the city, the place of my fathers ſepulchres, lieth waſte, and the gates thereof are conſumed with fire?

4 Then the king ſaid unto me, For what doſt thou make requeſt? So I prayed to the God of heaven.

5 And I ſaid unto the king, If it pleaſe the king, and if thy ſervant have found favour in thy ſight, that thou wouldeſt ſend me unto Judah, unto the city of my fathers ſepulchres, that I may build it.

6 And the king ſaid unto me, the queen alſo ſitting by him, For how long ſhall thy journey be? and when wilt thou return? So it pleaſed the king to ſend me, and I ſet him a time.

7 Moreover, I ſaid unto the king, If it pleaſe the king, let letters be given me to the governors beyond the river, that they may convey me over till I come into Judah;

8 And a letter unto Aſaph the keeper of the king's foreſt, that he may give me timber, to make beams for the gates of the palace which appertained to the houſe, and for the wall of the city, and for the houſe that I ſhall enter into. And the king granted me, according to the good hand of my God upon me.

9 Then I came to the governors beyond the river, and gave them the king's letters. Now the king had ſent captains of the army, and horſemen with me.

10 When Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the ſervant the Ammonite heard of it, it grieved them exceedingly that there was come a man to ſeek the welfare of the children of Iſrael.

11 So I came to Jeruſalem, and was there three days.

12 ¶ And I aroſe in the night, I and ſome few men with me; neither told I any man what my God had put in my heart to do at Jeruſalem: neither was there any beaſt with me, ſave the beaſt that I rode upon.

13 And I went out by night by the gate of the valley, even before the dragon-well, and to the dung-port, and viewed the walls of Jeruſalem, which were broken down, and the gates thereof were conſumed with fire.

14 Then I went on to the gate of the fountain, and to the king's pool: but there was no place for the beaſt that was under me to paſs.

15 Then went I up in the night by the brook, and viewed the wall, and turned back, and entered by the gate of the valley, and ſo returned.

16 And the rulers knew not whither I went, or what I did; neither had I as yet told it to the Jews, nor to the prieſts, nor to the nobles,

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 1 It came to paſs in the month Niſan.] Part of March and April: This was almoſt four months after he was informed of the deplorable ſtate of Jeruſalem; the reaſon why he did not petition the king ſooner to viſit Jeruſalem, was probably, becauſe his turn of waiting did not come ſooner: beſides, he would ſcarce undertake ſo long and dangerous a journey in the midſt of winter. Poole and Patrick.

3 Why ſhould not my countenance be ſad, &c.] It is natural for men to have a great regard for the ſepulchres of their anceſtors, and to be grieved at ſeeing the place, where their aſhes are depoſited, become deſolate. Patrick.

6 It pleaſed the king to ſend me, &c.] Probably he aſked leave to be abſent a few months; after which it is likely he returned to Shuſhan according to appointment: and the king ſent him back as his governor for twelve years. Patrick.

nor to the rulers, nor to the reſt that did the work.

17 ¶ Then ſaid I unto them, Ye ſee the diſtreſs that we are in, how Jeruſalem lieth waſte, and the gates thereof are burned with fire: come, and let us build up the wall of Jeruſalem, that we be no more a reproach.

18 Then I told them of the hand of my God which was good upon me; as alſo the king's words that he had ſpoken unto me. And they ſaid, Let us riſe up and build. So they ſtrengthened their hands for this good work.

19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, and Tobiah the ſervant the Ammonite, and Geſhem the Arabian, heard it, they laughed us to ſcorn, and deſpiſed us, and ſaid What is this thing that ye do? will ye rebel againſt the king?

20 Then anſwered I them, and ſaid unto them, The God of heaven, he will proſper us; therefore we his ſervants will ariſe and build: but ye have no portion, nor right, nor memorial in Jeruſalem.

CHAP. III.

The names and order of them that builded the wall.

THEN Eliaſhib the high prieſt roſe up with his brethren the prieſts, and they builded the ſheep-gate; they ſanctified it, and ſet up the doors of it; even unto the tower of Meah they ſanctified it, unto the tower of Hananeel.

2 And next unto him builded the men of Jericho. And next to them builded Zaccur the ſon of Imri.

3 But the fiſh-gate did the ſons of Haſſenah build, who alſo laid the beams thereof, and ſet up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

4 And next unto them repaired Meremoth the ſon of Urijah, the ſon of Koz. And next unto them repaired Meſhullam the ſon of Berechiah, the ſon of Meſhezabeel. And next unto them repaired Zadok the ſon of Baana.

5 And next unto them the Tekoites repaired; but their nobles put not their necks to the work of their Lord.

6 Moreover, the old gate repaired Jehoiada the ſon of Paſeah, and Meſhullam the ſon of Beſodeiah; they laid the beams thereof, and ſet up the doors thereof, and the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

7 And next unto them repaired Melatiah the Gibeonite, and Jadon the Meronothite, the men of Gibeon, and of Mizpeh, unto the throne of the governor on this ſide the river.

8 Next unto them repaired Uzziel the ſon of Harhaiah, of the goldſmiths. Next unto him alſo repaired Hananiah the ſon of one of the apothecaries, and they fortified Jeruſalem unto the broad wall.

9 And next unto them repaired Rephaiah the ſon of Hur, the ruler of the half-part of Jeruſalem.

10 And next unto them repaired Jedaiah the ſon of Harumaph, even over-againſt his houſe. And next unto him repaired Huttuſh the ſon of Haſhabniah.

11 Malcijah the ſon of Harim, and Haſhub the ſon of Pahath-moab repaired the other piece, and the tower of the furnaces.

12 And next unto him repaired Shallum the ſon of Haloheſh, the ruler of the half-part of Jeruſalem, he and his daughters.

13 The valley-gate repaired Hanun, and the inhabitants of Zanoah; they built it, and ſet up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof, and a thouſand cubits on the wall unto the dung-gate.

14 But the dung-gate repaired Malchiah the ſon of Rechab, the ruler of part of Beth-haccerem; he built it, and ſet up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof.

15 But the gate of the fountain repaired Shallun the ſon of Col-hozeh, the ruler of part

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 1 Eliaſhib the high prieſt roſe up, &c.] The work was begun by Eliaſhib, who, with his brethren, gave a noble example, in being the firſt in rebuilding the wall of the city, which was broken down. Patrick.

The ſheep-gate.] This was on the ſouth ſide of the city, in that part of the valley which looked towards mount Sion.

of Mizpah; he built it, and covered it, and ſet up the doors thereof, the locks thereof, and the bars thereof, and the wall of the pool of Siloah by the king's garden, and unto the ſtairs that go down from the city of David.

16 After him repaired Nehemiah the ſon of Azbuk, the ruler of the half-part of Beth-zur, unto the place over-againſt the ſepulchres of David, and to the pool that was made, and unto the houſe of the mighty.

17 And after him repaired the Levites, Rehun the ſon of Bani. Next unto him repaired Haſhabiah the ruler of the half-part of Keilah, in his part.

18 After him repaired their brethren, Bavai the ſon of Henadad, the ruler of the half-part of Keilah.

19 And next to him repaired Ezer the ſon of Jeſhua, the ruler of Mizpah, another piece over-againſt the going-up to the armoury at the turning of the wall.

20 After him Baruch the ſon of Zabbai earneſtly repaired the other piece, from the turning of the wall unto the door of the houſe of Eliaſhib the high prieſt.

21 After him repaired Meremoth the ſon of Urijah, the ſon of Koz, another piece, from the door of the houſe of Eliaſhib even to the end of the houſe of Eliaſhib.

22 And after him repaired the prieſts, the men of the plain.

23 After him repaired Benjamin, and Haſhub, over-againſt their houſe. After him repaired Azariah the ſon of Maaſeiah, the ſon of Ananiah, by his houſe.

24 After him repaired Binnui the ſon of Henadad, another piece, from the houſe of Azariah unto the turning of the wall, even unto the corner.

25 Palal the ſon of Uzai, over-againſt the turning of the wall, and the tower which lieth out from the king's high houſe that was by the court of the priſon. After him Pedaiah the ſon of Paroſh.

26 Moreover, the Nethinims dwelt in Ophel, unto the place over-againſt the water-gate toward the eaſt, and the tower that lieth out.

27 And after them the Tekoites repaired another piece, over-againſt the great tower that lieth out, even unto the wall of Ophel.

28 From above the horſe-gate repaired the prieſts, every one over-againſt his houſe.

29 After them repaired Zadok the ſon of Immer over-againſt his houſe. After him repaired alſo Shemeiah the ſon of Shechaniah, the keeper of the eaſt-gate.

30 After him repaired Hananiah the ſon of Shelemiah, and Hanun the ſixth ſon of Zalaph, another piece. After him repaired Meſhullam the ſon of Berechiah over-againſt his chamber.

31 After him repaired Malciah the goldſmith's ſon unto the place of the Nethinims, and of the merchants, over againſt the gate Miphkad, and to the going-up of the corner.

32 And between the going-up of the corner unto the ſheep-gate repaired the goldſmiths and the merchants.

CHAP. IV.

1 While the enemies ſcoff, Nehemiah prayeth.
7 He ſetteth a watch.

BUT it came to paſs, that when Sanballat heard that we builded the wall, he was wroth, and took great indignation, and mocked the Jews.

2 And he ſpake before his brethren and the army of Samaria, and ſaid, What do theſe feeble Jews? will they fortify themſelves? will they ſacrifice? will they make an end in a day? will they revive the ſtones out of the heaps of the rubbiſh, which are burned?

26 Moreover, the Nethinims.] Not only the prieſts and Levites, but the meaneſt perſons that belonged to the houſe of God, contributed to the work. Patrick. The names of thoſe that repaired the walls of Jeruſalem are commemorated, becauſe it was a work of virtue and piety to reſtore the holy city: it was an inſtance of religion and courage, to defend the true worſhippers of God, that they might ſerve him in quietneſs and ſafety, and in the midſt of ſo many enemies to go on with this work in a pious confidence of the power of God to ſupport them. Patrick.

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 2 Will they make an end in a day?] Reports had been ſpread that ſo many were at work, as if they intended to build the wall, keep a feaſt, and dedicate it, all in one day: hence he takes occaſion to laugh at their fooliſh diligence, and the haſte they made in the work. Patrick.

3 Now Tobiah the Ammonite was by him, and he ſaid, Even that which they build, if a fox go up, he ſhall even break down their ſtone-wall.

4 Hear, O our God; for we are deſpiſed: and turn their reproach upon their own head, and give them for a prey in the land of captivity:

5 And cover not their iniquity, and let not their ſin be blotted out from before thee: for they have provoked thee to anger before the builders.

6 So built we the wall; and all the wall was joined together unto the half thereof: for the people had a mind to work.

7 ¶ But it came to paſs that when Sanballat and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Aſhdodites heard that the walls of Jeruſalem were made up, and that the breaches began to be ſtopped, then they were very wroth,

8 And conſpired all of them together to come and to fight againſt Jeruſalem, and to hinder it.

9 Nevertheleſs, we made our prayer unto our God, and ſet a watch againſt them, day and night, becauſe of them.

10 And Judah ſaid, the ſtrength of the bearers of burdens is decayed, and there is much rubbiſh; ſo that we are not able to build the wall.

11 And our adverſaries ſaid, They ſhall not know, neither ſee, till we come in the midſt among them, and ſlay them, and cauſe the work to ceaſe.

12 And it came to paſs that when the Jews which dwelt by them came, they ſaid unto us ten times, From all places whence ye ſhall return unto us, they will be upon you.

13 Therefore ſet I in the lower places behind the wall, and on the higher places, I even ſet the people after their families with their ſwords, their ſpears, and their bows.

14 And I looked, and roſe up, and ſaid unto the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the reſt of the people, Be not ye afraid of them: remember the LORD which is great and terrible, and fight for your brethren, your ſons and your daughters, your wives and your houſes.

15 And it came to paſs when our enemies heard that it was known unto us, and God had brought their counſel to nought, that we returned all of us to the wall every one unto his work.

16 And it came to paſs from that time forth, that the half of my ſervants wrought in the work, and the other half of them held both the ſpears, the ſhields, and the bows, and the habergeons; and the rulers were behind all the houſe of Judah.

17 They which builded on the wall, and they that bare burdens, with thoſe that laded, every one with one of his hands wrought in the work, and with the other hand held a weapon.

18 For the builders, every one had his ſword girded by his ſide, and ſo builded. And he that ſounded the trumpet was by me.

19 And I ſaid unto the nobles, and to the rulers, and to the reſt of the people, The work is great and large, and we are ſeparated upon the wall, one far from another.

20 In what place therefore ye hear the ſound of the trumpet, reſort ye thither unto us. Our God ſhall fight for us.

21 So we laboured in the work: and half of them held the ſpears, from the riſing of the morning till the ſtars appeared.

22 Likewiſe at the ſame time ſaid I unto the 5 Let not their ſin be blotted out from before thee.] Theſe words, if taken in their literal ſenſe, ſeem as if he prayed that their ſins might never be forgiven: but it ſhould be remembered that he ſpoke by the ſpirit of prophecy, foreſeeing that, from their malicious and implacable ſpirit againſt God and his people, they would never be capable of his mercy, but at laſt be utterly deſtroyed. Patrick.

10 The ſtrength of the bearers of burdens is decayed.] The labourers had wrought ſo long and ſo hard at the work, that they were no longer able to ſupport the fatigue.

12 They ſaid unto us ten times.] The expreſſion ten times, here ſignifies a great many times.

13 From all places whence ye ſhall return unto us, they will be upon you.] The laſt words of this ſentence, they will be upon you, are not in the Hebrew, and only ſerve to render the paſſage obſcure. The ſenſe is, that ſeveral Jews, who reſided near the enemy, having diſcovered their deſigns, informed their brethren of the different ſtratagems they had formed for oppoſing them: if any words are added, they ſhould be, they informed us of our danger. Patrick.

17 Every one with one of his hands wrought in the work, &c.] A figurative ſpeech, and ſignifies, that they were well appointed either to build or fight; it being impoſſible for them to work, if both their hands had not been at liberty. Patrick.

Notes

people, Let every one with his ſervant lodge within Jeruſalem, that in the night they may be a guard to us, and labour on the day.

23 So neither I, nor my brethren, nor my ſervants, nor the men of the guard which followed me, none of us put off our clothes, ſaving that every one put them off for waſhing.

CHAP. V.

1 The Jews complain of their debt, mortgage, and bondage. 6 Nehemiah cauſeth reſtitution. 14 He forbeareth his own allowance, and keepeth hoſpitality.

AND there was a great cry of the people, and of their wives, againſt their brethren the Jews.

2 For there were that ſaid, We, our ſons, and our daughters are many: therefore we take up corn for them, that we may eat, and live.

3 Some alſo there were that ſaid, We have mortgaged our lands, vineyards, and houſes, that we might buy corn, becauſe of the dearth.

4 There were alſo that ſaid, We have borrowed money for the king's tribute, and that upon our lands and vineyards.

5 Yet now our fleſh is as the fleſh of our brethren, our children as their children: and lo, we bring into bondage our ſons and our daughters to be ſervants, and ſome of our daughters are brought into bondage already: neither is it in our power to redeem them; for other men have our lands and vineyards.

6 ¶ And I was very angry when I heard their cry and theſe words.

7 Then I conſulted with my ſelf, and I rebuked the nobles, and the rulers, and ſaid unto them, Ye exact uſury, every one of his brother. And I ſet a great aſſembly againſt them.

8 And I ſaid unto them, We, after our ability, have redeemed our brethren the Jews, which were ſold unto the heathen; and will ye even ſell your brethren? or ſhall they be ſold unto us? Then held they their peace, and found nothing to anſwer.

9 Alſo I ſaid, It is not good that ye do: ought ye not to walk in the fear of our God, becauſe of the reproach of the heathen our enemies?

10 I likewiſe, and my brethren, and my ſervants, might exact of them money and corn: I pray you, let us leave off this uſury.

11 Reſtore, I pray you, to them, even this day, their lands, their vineyards, their oliveyards, and their houſes, alſo the hundredth part of the money, and of the corn, the wine, and the oil, that ye exact of them.

12 Then ſaid they, We will reſtore them, and will require nothing of them; ſo will we do as thou ſayeſt. Then I called the prieſts, and took an oath of them, that they ſhould do according to this promiſe.

13 Alſo I ſhook my lap, and ſaid, So God ſhake out every man from his houſe, and from his labour, that performeth not this promiſe, even thus be he ſhaken out, and emptied. And all the congregation ſaid, Amen, and praiſed the LORD. And the people did according to this promiſe.

14 ¶ Moreover, from the time that I was appointed to be their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year even unto the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes the

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 There was a great cry of the people againſt their brethren.] The poor made grievous complaints againſt the rich, for taking the advantage of their neceſſities and exacting uſury. This oppreſſion reduced them ſo low, that they were obliged to mortgage their lands, houſes, and even to ſell their children to enable them to buy bread for their ſupport. What increaſed the cruelty of this exaction was, that it was made at a time when their enemies threatened to deſtroy them all; ſo that they were obliged to purchaſe corn at the unreaſonable rates demanded by their rich brethren, or periſh with hunger.

3 Becauſe of the dearth.] Not long before this there had been a great ſcarcity, for want of rain. During this diſtreſs, the rich had obliged their brethren to part with all they had; and now another dearth, occaſioned by the multitudes of people in the city, and their enemies hindering the country people from coming with proviſions, rendered their condition truly deplorable. Patrick.

11 The hundredth part of the money, &c.] This was the uſury they exacted, being one per cent. for every month, or twelve per cent. for the whole year. Such was the exorbitant uſury demanded afterwards by the Romans, as Salmaſius has obſerved. Patrick.

14 I and my brethren have not eaten the bread of the governor.] i. e. We have not made uſe of the allowances made for the governors appointed by the king of Perſia, to provide them a table. He refuſed this juſt maintenance, becauſe he ſaw it would be burthenſome to his countrymen, living upon his own eſtate in Judea, and the ſalary he had from the king of Perſia as his cup-bearer.

king, that is, twelve years, I and my brethren have not eaten the bread of the governor.

15 But the former governors that had been before me were chargeable unto the people, and had taken of them bread and wine, beſide forty ſhekels of ſilver; yea, even their ſervants bare rule over the people: but ſo did not I, becauſe of the fear of God.

16 Yea, alſo I continued in the work of this wall, neither bought we any land: and all my ſervants were gathered thither unto the work.

17 Moreover, there were at my table an hundred and fifty of the Jews and rulers, beſides thoſe that came unto us from among the heathen that are about us.

18 Now that which was prepared for me, daily, was one ox, and ſix choice ſheep; alſo fowls were prepared for me, and once in ten days ſtore of all ſorts of wine: yet for all this required not I the bread of the governor, becauſe the bondage was heavy upon this people.

19 Think upon me, my God, for good, according to all that I have done for this people.

CHAP. VI.

1 Sanballat practiſeth to terrify Nehemiah. 15 The work is finiſhed. 17 Secret intelligence between the enemies and the nobles of Judah.

NOW it came to paſs, when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and Geſhem the Arabian, and the reſt of our enemies heard that I had builded the wall, and that there was no breach left therein; (though at that time I had not ſet up the doors upon the gates;)

2 That Sanballat and Geſhem ſent unto me, ſaying, Come, let us meet together in ſome one of the villages in the plain of Ono. But they thought to do me miſchief.

3 And I ſent meſſengers unto them, ſaying, I am doing a great work, ſo that I cannot come down: why ſhould the work ceaſe, whilſt I leave it, and come down to you?

4 Yet they ſent unto me four times after this ſort; and I anſwered them after the ſame manner.

5 Then ſent Sanballat his ſervant unto me in like manner the fifth time, with an open letter in his hand;

6 Wherein was written, It is reported among the heathen, and Gaſhmu ſaith it, that thou and the Jews think to rebel: for which cauſe thou buildeſt the wall, that thou mayeſt be their king according to theſe words.

7 And thou haſt alſo appointed prophets to preach of thee at Jeruſalem, ſaying, There is a king in Judah: and now ſhall it be reported to the king according to theſe words. Come now therefore, and let us take counſel together.

8 Then I ſent unto him, ſaying, There are no ſuch things done as thou ſayeſt, but thou feigneſt them out of thine own heart.

9 For they made all us afraid, ſaying, Their hands ſhall be weakened from the work, that it be not done. Now therefore, O God, ſtrengthen my hands.

10 Afterward I came unto the houſe of Shemaiah the ſon of Delaiah, the ſon of Mehetabeel, who was ſhut up; and he ſaid, Let us meet together in the houſe of God, within the temple, and let us ſhut the doors of the temple: for they will come to ſlay thee; yea, in the night will they come to ſlay thee.

11 And I ſaid, Should ſuch a man as I flee? and who is there that being as I am, would go into the temple to ſave his life? I will not go in.

12 And lo, I perceived that God had not

---

15 So did not I, becauſe of the fear of the Lord.] He did not this through oſtentation, but from his ſincere love to God and his country; for he eſteemed religion far above riches, and the laws of God were dearer to him than thouſands of gold and ſilver.

19 Think upon me, my God, for good, &c.] He expected his reward only from God, who he hoped would ſhow him the ſame kindneſs he had done for his people. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 10 Shemaiah.] Who was a prophet, whom Nehemiah probably took for his friend.

Let us meet together in the houſe of God, within the temple, &c.] i. e. In the ſanctuary; and whither he adviſed Nehemiah to retreat; but his real deſign was not only to diſgrace him, and diſhearten the people, when they ſaw the cowardice of their governor, but alſo to prepare the way for the enemy's aſſaulting and taking the city, when there were none to defend the walls; and probably to deſtroy Nehemiah, or ſecure his perſon till the city was betrayed into the hands of the enemy. Patrick and Poole.

11 Should ſuch a man as I flee?] Shall I, the chief governor, upon whoſe preſence, counſel, and conduct, the ſafety of the city and nation in a great meaſure depends; who have profeſſed ſuch confidence in God; who have had ſuch eminent experience of his powerful aſſiſtance, when the danger was much greater than now: ſhall I diſhonour God and religion, and betray the city and people by my cowardice? Patrick.

ſent him; but that he pronounced this prophecy againſt me: for Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him.

13 Therefore was he hired, that I ſhould be afraid, and do ſo, and ſin, and that they might have matter for an evil report, that they might reproach me.

14 My God, think thou upon Tobiah and Sanballat according to theſe their works, and on the propheteſs Noadiah, and the reſt of the prophets, that would have put me in fear.

15 ¶ So the wall was finiſhed in the twenty and fifth day of the month Elul, in fifty and two days.

16 And it came to paſs that when all our enemies heard thereof, and all the heathen that were about us ſaw theſe things, they were much caſt down in their own eyes: for they perceived that this work was wrought of our God.

17 ¶ Moreover, in thoſe days the nobles of Judah ſent many letters unto Tobiah, and the letters of Tobiah came unto them.

18 For there were many in Judah ſworn unto him, becauſe he was the ſon-in-law of Shechaniah the ſon of Arah; and his ſon Johanan had taken the daughter of Meſhullam the ſon of Berechiah.

19 Alſo they reported his good deeds before me, and uttered my words to him. And Tobiah ſent letters to put me in fear.

CHAP. VII.

1 Nehemiah committeth the charge of Jeruſalem to Hanani and Hananiah. 5 A regiſter of the genealogy of them which came at the firſt out of Babylon, 8 of the people, 39 of the prieſts, 43 of the Levites, 46 of the Nethinims, &c.

NOW it came to paſs when the wall was built, and I had ſet up the doors, and the porters and the ſingers and the Levites were appointed,

2 That I gave my brother Hanani, and Hananiah the ruler of the palace, charge over Jeruſalem: for he was a faithful man, and feared God above many.

3 And I ſaid unto them, Let not the gates of Jeruſalem be opened until the ſun be hot; and while they ſtand by, let them ſhut the doors, and bar them: and appoint watches of the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, every one in his watch, and every one to be over-againſt his houſe.

4 Now the city was large and great: but the people were few therein, and the houſes were not builded.

5 ¶ And my God put into mine heart to gather together the nobles, and the rulers, and the people, that they might be reckoned by genealogy. And I found a regiſter of the genealogy of them which came up at the firſt, and found written therein,

6 Theſe are the children of the province that went up out of the captivity, of thoſe that had been carried away, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away, and came again to Jeruſalem and to Judah, every one unto his city;

7 Who came with Zerubbabel, Jeſhua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilſhan, Miſpereth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah: the number, I ſay, of the men of the people of Iſrael was this;

---

15 So the wall was finiſhed---in fifty and two days.] This prodigious diſpatch will not appear incredible, when it is remembered that a vaſt number of voluntary men, full of zeal for the work themſelves, animated by the example of their rulers, and diſtributed in a proper manner for diſpatch, were employed in this work; that great part of it was ſtanding entire, only ſome few breaches here and there to be ſtopped up; and that their deſign was not to render the wall beautiful, but ſtrong.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 2 I gave my brother Hanani, and Hananiah---charge over Jeruſalem.] Nehemiah probably was now returning to Shuſhan, to give the king an account of the ſtate of affairs in Judea, and therefore was particularly careful to place ſuch men in the city as he knew would execute the truſt repoſed in them with the ſtricteſt fidelity. Hanani had given proof of his zeal for God and his country, in taking a journey from Judea to Shuſhan, to inform Nehemiah of the wretched ſtate of Jeruſalem, and to implore his aſſiſtance to relieve it. The reaſon why Nehemiah put ſuch truſt and confidence in Hananiah was, becauſe he was a man of conſcience, and acted on religious principles, which would render him proof againſt all temptations which the enemy during his abſence might throw in his way. Poole and Patrick.

5 My God put into mine heart to gather the nobles, &c.] It would be well if we, like the pious Nehemiah, had always God in our thoughts, as without his aſſiſtance we can do nothing, and aſcribe to him every good motion of our mind.

6 Theſe are the children.] Theſe are almoſt the ſame words which we read in the 2d chapter of Ezra, ver. 1. See the note on that place.

8 ¶ The children of Paroſh, two thouſand an hundred ſeventy and two.

9 The children of Shephatiah, three hundred ſeventy and two.

10 The children of Arah, ſix hundred fifty and two.

11 The children of Pahath-moab, of the children of Jeſhua and Joab, two thouſand and eight hundred and eighteen.

12 The children of Elam, a thouſand two hundred fifty and four.

13 The children of Zattu, eight hundred forty and five.

14 The children of Zaccai, ſeven hundred and threeſcore.

15 The children of Binnui, ſix hundred forty and eight.

16 The children of Bebai, ſix hundred twenty and eight.

17 The children of Azgad, two thouſand three hundred twenty and two.

18 The children of Adonikam, ſix hundred threeſcore and ſeven.

19 The children of Bigvai, two thouſand threeſcore and ſeven.

20 The children of Adin, ſix hundred fifty and five.

21 The children of Ater of Hezekiah, ninety and eight.

22 The children of Haſhum, three hundred twenty and eight.

23 The children of Bezai, three hundred twenty and four.

24 The children of Hariph, an hundred and twelve.

25 The children of Gibeon, ninety and five.

26 The men of Beth-lehem and Netophah, an hundred fourſcore and eight.

27 The men of Anathoth, an hundred twenty and eight.

28 The men of Beth-azmaveth, forty and two.

29 The men of Kirjath-jearim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, ſeven hundred forty and three.

30 The men of Ramah and Gaba, ſix hundred twenty and one.

31 The men of Michmas, an hundred and twenty and two.

32 The men of Beth-el and Ai, an hundred twenty and three.

33 The men of the other Nebo, fifty and two.

34 The children of the other Elam, a thouſand two hundred fifty and four.

35 The children of Harim, three hundred and twenty.

36 The children of Jericho, three hundred forty and five.

37 The children of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, ſeven hundred twenty and one.

38 The children of Senaah, three thouſand nine hundred and thirty.

39 ¶ The prieſts: the children of Jedaiah, of the houſe of Jeſhua nine hundred ſeventy and three.

40 the children of Immer, a thouſand fifty and two.

41 The children of Paſhur, a thouſand two hundred forty and ſeven.

42 The children of Harim, a thouſand and ſeventeen.

43 ¶ The Levites: the children of Jeſhua, of Kadmiel, and of the children of Hodevah, ſeventy and four.

44 The ſingers: the children of Aſaph, an hundred forty and eight.

45 The porters: The children of Shallum, the children of Ater, the children of Talmon, the children of Akkub, the children of Hatita, the children of Shobai, an hundred thirty and eight.

46 ¶ The Nethinims: the children of Ziha, the children of Haſhupha, the children of Tabbaoth,

47 The children of Keros, the children of Sia, the children of Padon,

8 The children of Phareſh, two thouſand one hundred ſeventy and two.] This genealogy differs, in ſome particulars, from that in Ezra, chap. ii. 5. But it ſhould be remembered that Nehemiah's was taken in Judea, after the finiſhing of the wall of Jeruſalem; and Ezra's in Babylon, before they returned to their own land.

50 The children of Reaiah, the children of Rezin, the children of Nekoda,

51 The children of Gazzam, the children of Uzza, the children of Phaſeah,

52 The children of Beſai, the children of Meunim, the children of Nephiſheſim,

53 The children of Bakbuk, the children of Hakupha, the children of Harhur,

54 The children of Bazlith, the children of Mehida, the children of Harſha,

55 The children of Barkos, the children of Siſera, the children of Tamah,

56 The children of Neziah, the children of Hatipha.

57 ¶ The children of Solomon's ſervants: the children of Sotai, the children of Sophereth, the children of Perida,

58 The children of Jaala, the children of Darkon, the children of Giddel,

59 The children of Shephatiah, the children of Hattil, the children of Pochereth of Zebaim, the children of Amon.

60 All the Nethinims, and the children of Solomon's ſervants, were three hundred ninety and two.

61 And theſe were they which went up alſo from Tel-melah, Tel-hareſha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer: but they could not ſhew their father's houſe, nor their ſeed, whether they were of Iſrael.

62 The children of Delaiah, the children of Tobiah, the children of Nekoda, ſix hundred forty and two.

63 ¶ And of the prieſts: the children of Habaiah, the children of Koz, the children of Barzillai, which took one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite to wife, and was called after their name.

64 Theſe ſought their regiſter among thoſe that were reckoned by genealogy, but it was not found: therefore were they, as polluted, put from the prieſthood.

65 And the Tirſhatha ſaid unto them, that they ſhould not eat of the moſt holy things till there ſtood up a prieſt with Urim and Thummim.

66 ¶ The whole congregation together was forty and two thouſand three hundred and threeſcore,

67 Beſide their man-ſervants, and their maid-ſervants, of whom there were ſeven thouſand three hundred thirty and ſeven: and they had two hundred forty and five ſinging-men and ſinging-women.

68 Their horſes, ſeven hundred thirty and ſix; their mules, two hundred forty and five;

69 Their camels, four hundred thirty and five; ſix thouſand ſeven hundred and twenty aſſes.

70 ¶ And ſome of the chief of the fathers gave unto the work. The Tirſhatha gave to the treaſure a thouſand drams of gold, fifty baſons, five hundred and thirty prieſts garments.

71 And ſome of the chief of the fathers gave to the treaſure of the work twenty thouſand drams of gold, and two thouſand and two hundred pound of ſilver.

72 And that which the reſt of the people gave was twenty thouſand drams of gold, and two thouſand pound of ſilver, and threeſcore and ſeven prieſts garments.

73 So the prieſts, and the Levites, and the porters, and the ſingers, and ſome of the people, and the Nethinims, and all Iſrael, dwelt in their cities; and when the ſeventh month came, the children of Iſrael were in their cities.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The manner of reading and hearing the law.
16 The feaſt of tabernacles kept.

AND all the people gathered themſelves together as one man into the ſtreet that was before the water-gate; and they ſpake unto Ezra the ſcribe to bring the book of the law of Moſes, which the LORD had commanded to Iſrael.

2 And Ezra the prieſt brought the law before the congregation, both of men and women, 65 The Tirſhatha.] See note on Ezra ii. 63.

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 All the people gathered themſelves together.] This was the firſt great feaſt after the walls of Jeruſalem were finiſhed.

2 Ezra brought forth the law, &c.] From this paſſage it is plain, that what the author of the ſecond book of Eſdras, chap. xiv. 21. ſays, that all the copies of the holy books had been burnt, with the temple, is an apocryphal ſtory. Lamy.

and all that could hear with underſtanding, upon the firſt day of the ſeventh month.

3 And he read therein before the ſtreet that was before the water-gate from the morning until mid-day before the men and the women, and thoſe that could underſtand; and the ears of all the people were attentive unto the book of the law.

4 And Ezra the ſcribe ſtood upon a pulpit of wood, which they had made for the purpoſe: and beſide him ſtood Mattithiah, and Shema, and Anaiah, and Urijah, and Hilkiah, and Maaſeiah, on his right hand; and on his left hand, Pedaiah, and Miſhael, and Malchiah, and Haſhum, and Haſhbadana, Zechariah, and Meſhullam.

5 And Ezra opened the book in the ſight of all the people; for he was above all the people: and when he opened it, all the people ſtood up.

6 And Ezra bleſſed the LORD, the great God. And all the people anſwered, Amen, Amen, with lifting up their hands: and they bowed their heads, and worſhipped the LORD with their faces to the ground.

7 Alſo Jeſhua, and Bani, and Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodijah, Maſeiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites cauſed the people to underſtand the law: and the people ſtood in their place.

8 So they read in the book, in the law of God diſtinctly, and gave the ſenſe, and cauſed them to underſtand the reading.

9 And Nehemiah, which is the Tirſhatha, and Ezra the prieſt the ſcribe, and the Levites that taught the people, ſaid unto all the people, This day is holy unto the LORD your God; mourn not, nor weep. For all the people wept when they heard the words of the law.

10 Then he ſaid unto them, Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the ſweet, and ſend portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared: for this day is holy unto our Lord: neither be ye ſorry; for the joy of the LORD is your ſtrength.

11 So the Levites ſtilled all the people, ſaying, Hold your peace; for the day is holy: neither be ye grieved.

12 And all the people went their way to eat and to drink, and to ſend portions, and to make great mirth, becauſe they had underſtood the words that were declared unto them.

13 And on the ſecond day were gathered together the chief of the fathers of all the people, the prieſts and the Levites, unto Ezra the ſcribe, even to underſtand the words of the law.

14 And they found written in the law which the LORD had commanded by Moſes, that the children of Iſrael ſhould dwell in booths in the feaſt of the ſeventh month;

15 And that they ſhould publiſh and proclaim in all their cities, and in Jeruſalem, ſaying, Go forth unto the mount, and fetch olive-branches, and pine-branches, and myrtle-branches, and palm-branches, and branches of thick trees, to make booths, as it is written.

16 ¶ So the people went forth, and brought them, and made themſelves booths, every one upon the roof of his houſe, and in their courts, and in the courts of the houſe of God, and in the ſtreet of the water-gate, and in the ſtreet of the gate of Ephraim.

17 And all the congregation of them that were come again out of the captivity made booths, and ſat under the booths: for ſince the days of Jeſhua the ſon of Nun, unto that day, had not the children of Iſrael done ſo. And there was very great gladneſs.

18 Alſo day by day, from the firſt day unto the laſt day, he read in the book of the law of God. And they kept the feaſt ſeven days, and on the eighth day was a ſolemn aſſembly, according unto the manner.

8 Cauſed the people to underſtand the reading.] The Iſraelites, during their long captivity, being uſed to the Chaldee, had forgot their mother tongue, therefore Ezra is ſuppoſed here to explain the ſcripture to them by turning the Hebrew into Chaldee: but M. du Pin interprets it of Ezra's explaining the difficult places of ſcripture, ſo as to adapt it to the underſtanding of the common people; and offers ſeveral reaſons to prove, that the Hebrew could not be ſo intirely loſt, as is here ſuppoſed, till ſome time after the captivity.

17 Since the days of Jeſhua unto that day, had not the children of Iſrael done ſo.] The meaning is, that the joy ſince that time had never been ſo great, as it was upon this occaſion: in the days of Joſhua they rejoiced, becauſe they had got poſſeſſion of the land of Canaan; and now they rejoiced for being again ſettled in it, after ſo long a captivity. Patrick.

Notes

CHAP. IX.

1 A ſolemn faſt, and repentance of the people. 4 The Levites confeſs God's goodneſs, and their wickedneſs.

NOW in the twenty and fourth day of this month the children of Iſrael were aſſembled with faſting, and with ſackclothes, and earth upon them.

2 And the ſeed of Iſrael ſeparated themſelves from all ſtrangers, and ſtood and confeſſed their ſins, and the iniquities of their fathers.

3 And they ſtood up in their place, and read in the book of the law of the LORD their God one fourth part of the day; and another fourth part they confeſſed, and worſhipped the LORD their God.

4 ¶ Then ſtood up upon the ſtairs, of the Levites, Jeſhua, and Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, and cried with a loud voice unto the LORD their God.

5 Then the Levites, Jeſhua, and Kadmiel, Bani, Haſhabniah, Sherebiah, Hodijah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah, ſaid, Stand up and bleſs the LORD your God for ever and ever. And bleſſed be thy glorious name, which is exalted above all bleſſing and praiſe.

6 Thou, even thou art LORD alone; thou haſt made heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all their hoſt, the earth and all things that are therein, the ſeas and all that is therein; and thou preſerveſt them all; and the hoſt of heaven worſhippeth thee.

7 Thou art the LORD the God, who didſt chooſe Abram, and broughteſt him forth out of Ur of the Chaldees, and gaveſt him the name of Abraham:

8 And foundeſt his heart faithful before thee, and madeſt a covenant with him, to give the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Jebuſites, and the Girgaſhites, to give it, I ſay, to his ſeed, and haſt performed thy words; for thou art righteous:

9 And didſt ſee the affliction of our fathers in Egypt, and heardeſt their cry by the Red-ſea:

10 And ſhewedſt ſigns and wonders upon Pharaoh, and all his ſervants, and on all the people of his land: for thou kneweſt that they dealt proudly againſt them. So didſt thou get thee a name, as it is this day.

11 And thou didſt divide the ſea before them, ſo that they went through the midſt of the ſea on the dry land: and their perſecutors thou threweſt into the deeps, as a ſtone into the mighty waters.

12 Moreover thou leddeſt them in the day by a cloudy pillar, and in the night by a pillar of fire, to give them light in the way wherein they ſhould go.

13 Thou cameſt down alſo upon mount Sina, and ſpakeſt with them from heaven, and gaveſt them right judgments and true laws, good ſtatutes and commandments:

14 And madeſt known unto them thy holy ſabbath, and commandeſt them precepts, ſtatutes and laws, by the hand of Moſes thy ſervant:

15 And gaveſt them bread from heaven for their hunger, and broughteſt forth water for them out of the rock for their thirſt, and promiſedſt them that they ſhould go-in to poſſeſs the land which thou hadſt ſworn to give them.

16 But they and our fathers dealt proudly, and hardened their necks, and hearkened not to thy commandments,

17 And refuſed to obey, neither were mindful of thy wonders that thou didſt among them; but hardened their necks and in their rebellion appointed a captain to return to their bondage: but thou art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, ſlow to anger, and of great kindneſs, and forſookeſt them not.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 In the twenty and fourth day of this month, &c.] The feaſt of tabernacles being ended, with great gladneſs of heart, a day was appointed for a ſolemn faſt, when they aſſembled in all the marks of mourning and humiliation, confeſſed their ſins, deprecated the judgments due to the iniquity of their fathers, acknowledged the omnipotence of God in creating and preſerving all things, and enumerated his gracious mercies in their ſundry deliverances from their enemies and perſecutors. Stackhouſe.

6 The hoſt of heaven worſhippeth thee.] Sometimes the ſtars, and ſometimes the angels are called the hoſt of heaven: but here is meant the latter, for the other are mentioned before, when he ſays, the heavens with all their hoſt. Patrick.

18 Yea, when they had made them a molten calf, and ſaid, This is thy god that brought thee up out of Egypt, and had wrought great provocations;

19 Yet thou in thy manifold mercies forſookeſt them not in the wilderneſs; the pillar of the cloud departed not from them by day, to lead them in the way; neither the pillar of fire by night, to ſhew them light, and the way wherein they ſhould go.

20 Thou gaveſt alſo thy good ſpirit to inſtruct them, and with-heldeſt not thy manna from their mouth, and gaveſt them water for their thirſt.

21 Yea, forty years didſt thou ſuſtain them in the wilderneſs ſo that they lacked nothing; their clothes waxed not old, and their feet ſwelled not.

22 Moreover, thou gaveſt them kingdoms and nations, and didſt divide them into corners. So they poſſeſſed the land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heſhbon, and the land of Og king of Bathan.

23 Their children alſo multipliedſt thou as the ſtars of heaven, and broughteſt them into the land, concerning which thou hadſt promiſed to their fathers that they ſhould go in to poſſeſs it.

24 So the children went in and poſſeſſed the land, and thou ſubduedſt before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, and gaveſt them into their hands, with their kings, and the people of the land, that they might do with them as they would.

25 And they took ſtrong cities, and a fat land, and poſſeſſed houſes full of all goods, wells digged, vineyards and olive-yards and fruit-trees in abundance. So they did eat, and were filled, and became fat, and delighted themſelves in thy great goodneſs.

26 Nevertheleſs, they were diſobedient, and rebelled againſt thee, and caſt thy law behind their backs, and ſlew thy prophets which teſtified againſt them to turn them to thee, and they wrought great provocations.

27 Therefore thou deliveredſt them into the hand of their enemies, who vexed them: and in the time of their trouble, when they cryed unto thee, thou heardeſt them from heaven; and according to thy manifold mercies thou gaveſt them ſaviours, who ſaved them out of the hand of their enemies.

28 But after they had reſt, they did evil again before thee: therefore lefteſt thou them in the hand of their enemies, ſo that they had the dominion over them: yet when they returned and cried unto thee, thou heardeſt them from heaven, and many times didſt thou deliver them, according to thy mercies;

29 And teſtifiedſt againſt them, that thou mighteſt bring them again unto thy law: yet they dealt proudly and hearkened not unto thy commandments, but ſinned againſt thy judgments, which if a man do, he ſhall live in them; and withdrew the ſhoulder, and hardened their neck, and would not hear.

30 Yet many years didſt thou forbear them, and teſtifiedſt againſt them by thy ſpirit in thy prophets: yet would they not give ear: therefore gaveſt thou them into the hand of the people of the lands.

31 Nevertheleſs, for thy great mercies ſake thou didſt not utterly conſume them, nor forſake them; for thou art a gracious and merciful God.

32 Now therefore, our God, the great, the mighty, and the terrible God, who keepeſt covenant and mercy; let not all the trouble ſeem little before thee that hath come upon us, on our kings, on our princes, and on our prieſts, and on our prophets, and on our fathers, and on all thy people, ſince the time of the kings of Aſſyria unto this day.

33 Howbeit, thou art juſt in all that is brought upon us: for thou haſt done right, but we have done wickedly:

---

20 Thou gaveſt alſo thy good ſpirit.] The ſpirit of prophecy reſted upon Moſes, God imparted to ſeventy other perſons, that they might be better governed, Numb. xi. 17.

22 Didſt divide them into corners.] This expreſſion is generally underſtood to relate to the ancient inhabitants of Canaan, whom God drove into corners.

The land of Sihon, and the land of the king of Heſhbon.] Rather, the land of Sihon, even the land of the king of Heſhbon: Heſhbon was the capital city of the kingdom of Sihon.

29 Which if a man do, he ſhall live in them.] i. e. Be a happy man.

36 Behold,

34 Neither have our kings, our princes, our priests, nor our fathers kept thy law, nor hearkened unto thy commandments and thy testimonies, wherewith thou didst testify against them.

35 For they have not served thee in their kingdom, and in thy great goodness that thou gavest them, and in the large and fat land which thou gavest before them, neither turned they from their wicked works.

36 Behold, we are servants this day, and for the land that thou gavest unto our fathers, to eat the fruit thereof and the good thereof, behold, we are servants in it.

37 And it yieldeth much increase unto the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins: also they have dominion over our bodies and over our cattle at their pleasure, and we are in great distress.

38 And because of all this we make a sure covenant, and write it; and our princes, Levites, and priests seal unto it.

CHAP. X.

1 The names of them that sealed the covenant.
29 The points of the covenant.

NOW those that sealed were, Nehemiah the Tirshatha, the son of Hachaliah, and Zidkijah,

22 Pelatiah, Hanan, Anaiah,
23 Hoshea, Hananiah, Hashub,
24 Hallohesh, Pileha, Shobek,
25 Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah,
26 And Ahijah, Hanan, Anan,
27 Malluch, Harim, Baanah.
28 And the rest of the people, the priests, the Levites, the porters, the singers, the Nethinims, and all they that had separated themselves from the people of the lands unto the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, every one having knowledge, and having understanding;
29 ¶ They clave to their brethren, their nobles, and entered into a curse and into an oath, to walk in God's law, which was given by 36 Behold, we are servants this day, &c.] Though God had, in a wonderful manner, restored them to their own land, yet the marks of his displeasure for their sins were still visible: they were only servants to others, not owners and proprietors of the lands which God had given to their fathers. Patrick.

37 They have dominion over our bodies, &c.] Their bodies were liable to be pressed to serve in the king's wars, or in his works; and their cattle to be seized for his use. Hence we may learn how ridiculously they boasted, John viii. 33, That they were never in bondage to any man; when they had been long slaves in Egypt, lately in Babylon, and even after they came from thence, as they here complain. Nay, they paid tribute to the Romans at the very time they made such foolish boasts before our Saviour.

38 We make a sure covenant, and write it, &c.] Pellicanus observes, it was of very little consequence what such an untowardly people promised; for what regard could they have to their own hand-writing, who had none to the ten commandments, written on tables of stone by the finger of God! It was, however, very useful that there should be a public instrument to convince them of their impiety, that they might be publickly confounded, when they perfidiously refused to obey the precepts of the law, by shewing them under their own hands their engagements to future fidelity. Patrick.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Now those that sealed, were Nehemiah, &c.] Nehemiah, as being governor under the king of Persia, and therefore the chief prince among them, sealed first. Patrick.

28 The rest of the people, &c.] As there were too many to subscribe and seal the writing, the principals did it in the name of the rest, who all declared that they looked upon it as their own act, and gave their full consent to what was done.

29 Entered into a curse, and into an oath, &c.] They obliged themselves by oath to observe the law; adding an imprecation on themselves, wishing all the curses in the law might fall upon them, if they did not obey all the precepts of it. Patrick.

Moſes the ſervant of God, and to obſerve and do all the commandments of the LORD our God, and his judgements and his ſtatutes:

30 And that we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land, nor take their daughters for our ſons:

31 And if the people of the land bring ware, or any victuals on the ſabbath-day to ſell, that we would not buy it of them on the ſabbath, or on the holy-day: and that we would leave the ſeventh year, and the exaction of every debt.

32 Alſo we made ordinances for us, to charge our ſelves yearly with the third part of a ſhekel for the ſervice of the houſe of our God;

33 For the ſhew-bread, and for the continual meat-offering, and for the continual burnt-offering, of the ſabbaths, of the new-moons, for the ſet-feaſts, and for the holy things, and for the ſin-offerings to make an atonement for Iſrael, and for all the work of the houſe of our God.

34 And we caſt the lots among the prieſts, the Levites, and the people, for the wood-offering, to bring it into the houſe of our God, after the houſes of our fathers, at times appointed, year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law:

35 And to bring the firſt-fruits of our ground, and the firſt-fruits of all the fruit of all trees, year by year, unto the houſe of the LORD:

36 Alſo the firſt-born of our ſons, and of our cattle, as it is written in the law, and the firſtlings of our herds and of our flocks, to bring to the houſe of our God, unto the prieſts that miniſter in the houſe of our God:

37 And that we ſhould bring the firſt-fruits of our dough, and our offerings, and the fruit of all manner of trees, of wine and of oil, unto the prieſts, to the chambers of the houſe of our God; and tithes of our ground unto the Levites, that the ſame Levites might have the tithes in all the cities of our tillage.

38 And the prieſt the ſon of Aaron ſhall be with the Levites when the Levites take tithes: and the Levites ſhall bring up the tithe of the tithes unto the houſe of our God, to the chambers, into the treaſure-houſe.

39 For the children of Iſrael and the children of Levi ſhall bring the offering of the corn, of the new wine, and the oil, unto the chambers, where are the veſſels of the ſanctuary, and the prieſts that miniſter, and the porters, and the ſingers: and we will not forſake the houſe of our God.

CHAP. XI.

1 The rulers, voluntary men, and the tenth man choſen by lot, dwell at Jeruſalem. 3 A catalogue of their names.

AND the rulers of the people dwelt at Jeruſalem: the reſt of the people alſo caſt lots, to bring one of ten to dwell in Jeruſalem the holy city, and nine parts to dwell in other cities.

2 And the people bleſſed all the men that willingly offered themſelves to dwell at Jeruſalem.

3 ¶ Now theſe are the chief of the province that dwelt in Jeruſalem: but in the cities of Judah dwelt every one in his poſſeſſion in their cities, to wit, Iſrael, the prieſts, and the Levites, and the Nethinims, and the children of Solomon's ſervants.

4 And at Jeruſalem dwelt certain of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin. Of the children of Judah; Athaiah the ſon of Uzziah, the ſon of Zechariah, the ſon of Amariah, the ſon of Shephatiah, the ſon of Mahalaleel, of the children of Perez;

30 That we would not give our daughters unto the people of the land, &c.] From this and the three following verſes, it is plain, that the principal articles they obliged themſelves to obſerve, by this covenant, were, 1ſt, Not to make intermarriages with the Gentiles. 2d, To obſerve the ſabbath and ſabbatical years. 3d, To pay their annual tribute for the reparation of the temple. And, 4th, To pay their tithes and firſt-fruits for the maintenance of the prieſts and Levites. And hence we may learn, that theſe laws had been chiefly neglected ſince their return from the captivity. Prideaux.

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 The rulers of the people dwelt at Jeruſalem.] The inhabitants of the neighbouring countries were ſo exaſperated at ſeeing the wall of Jeruſalem rebuilt, that many of the Jews were afraid to live there, thinking themſelves much ſafer in the country; the rulers therefore ſet them the example, by ſettling themſelves at Jeruſalem, in order to encourage the people to do the ſame: for which end they caſt lots, that among ten men it might be known whom God choſe to come thither. Patrick.

5 And Maaſeiah the ſon of Baruch, the ſon of Col-hozeh, the ſon of Hazaiah, the ſon of Adaiah, the ſon of Joiarib, the ſon of Zechariah, the ſon of Shiloni.

6 All the ſons of Perez that dwelt at Jeruſalem were four hundred threeſcore and eight valiant men.

7 And theſe are the ſons of Benjamin; Sallu the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Joed, the ſon of Pedaiah, the ſon of Kolaiah, the ſon of Maaſeiah, the ſon of Ithiel, the ſon of Jeſaiah.

8 And after him, Gabbai, Sallai, nine hundred twenty and eight.

9 And Joel the ſon of Zichri was their overſeer: and Judah the ſon of Senuah was ſecond over the city.

10 Of the prieſts: Jedaiah the ſon of Joarib, Jachin.

11 Seraiah the ſon of Hilkiah, the ſon of Meſhullam, the ſon of Zadok, the ſon of Meraioth, the ſon of Ahitub, was the ruler of the houſe of God.

12 And their brethren that did the work of the houſe were eight hundred twenty and two: and Adiah the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Pelaliah, the ſon of Amzi, the ſon of Zechariah, the ſon of Paſhur, the ſon of Malchiah,

13 And his brethren chief of the fathers, two hundred forty and two: and Amaſhai the ſon of Azareel, the ſon of Ahaſai, the ſon of Meſhillemoth, the ſon of Immer,

14 And their brethren mighty men of valour, an hundred twenty and eight: and their overſeer was Zabdiel the ſon of one of the great men.

15 Alſo of the Levites: Shemaiah the ſon of Haſhub, the ſon of Azrikam, the ſon of Haſhabiah, the ſon of Bunni.

16 And Shabbethai, and Jozabad of the chief of the Levites, had the overſight of the outward buſineſs of the houſe of God.

17 And Mattaniah the ſon of Micha, the ſon of Zabdi, the ſon of Aſaph, was the principal to begin the thankſgiving in prayer: and Bakbukiah the ſecond among his brethren, and Abda the ſon of Shammua, the ſon of Galal, the ſon of Jeduthun.

18 All the Levites in the holy city were two hundred fourſcore and four.

19 Moreover, the porters, Akkub, Talmon, and their brethren that kept the gates, were an hundred ſeventy and two.

20 And the reſidue of Iſrael, of the prieſts and the Levites, were in all the cities of Judah, every one in his inheritance.

21 But the Nethinims dwelt in Ophel: and Ziha and Giſpa were over the Nethinims.

22 The overſeer alſo of the Levites at Jeruſalem was Uzzi the ſon of Bani, the ſon of Haſhabiah, the ſon of Mattaniah, the ſon of Micha. Of the ſons of Aſaph, the ſingers were over the buſineſs of the houſe of God.

23 For it was the king's commandment concerning them, that a certain portion ſhould be for the ſingers, due for every day.

24 And Pethahiah the ſon of Meſhezabeel, of the children of Zerah the ſon of Judah, was at the king's hand in all matters concerning the people.

25 And for the villages, with their fields, ſome of the children of Judah dwelt at Kirjath-arba and in the villages thereof, and at Dibon and in the villages thereof, and at Jekabzeel and in the villages thereof,

26 And at Jeſhua, and at Moladah, and at Beth-phelet,

27 And at Hazar-ſhual, and at Beer-ſheba and in the villages thereof,

28 And at Ziklag, and at Mekonah and in the villages thereof,

29 And at En-rimmon, and at Zareah, and at Jarmuth,

30 Zanoah, Adullam, and in their villages, at Lachiſh and the fields thereof, at Azekah and in the villages thereof. And they dwelt from Beer-ſheba unto the valley of Hinnom.

31 The children alſo of Benjamin from Geba, dwelt at Michmaſh, and Aija, and Bethel, and in their villages,

23 It was the king's commandment concerning them, &c.] It is generally underſtood, that the king here mentioned was the king of Perſia, who, out of his great munificence, gave it for their better ſupport; it being common, in all countries, to have a particular regard for thoſe who ſung hymns in praiſe of their gods. Patrick.

24 Pethahiah---was at the king's hand.] i. e. Tranſacted the buſineſs of the city for the king: ſome imagine he was appointed by the king of Perſia to receive and anſwer all petitions from the people.

CHAP. XII.

1 The prieſts which came up with Zerubbabel.
10 The ſucceſſion of the high prieſt.

NOW theſe are the prieſts and the Levites that went up with Zerubbabel the ſon of Shealtiel, and Jeſhua: Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra,
2 Amariah, Malluch, Hattuſh,
3 Shechaniah, Rehum, Meremoth,
4 Iddo, Ginnetho, Abijah,
5 Miamin, Maadiah, Bilgah,
6 Shemaiah, and Joiarib, Jedaiah,
7 Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedaiah: theſe were the chief of the prieſts and of their brethren in the days of Jeſhua.
8 Moreover the Levites: Jeſhua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah, which was over the thankſgiving, he and his brethren.
9 Alſo Bakbukiah, and Unni, their brethren, were over-againſt them in the watches.
10 ¶ And Jeſhua begat Joiakim, Joiakim alſo begat Eliaſhib, and Eliaſhib begat Joiada, 11 And Joiada begat Jonathan, and Jonathan begat Jaddua.
12 And in the days of Joiakim were prieſts, the chief of the fathers: of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah;
13 Of Ezra, Meſhullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan;
14 Of Melicu, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joſeph;
15 Of Harim, Adna; of Meraioth, Helkai;
16 Of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meſhullam;
17 Of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin, of Moadiah, Piltai;
18 Of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan;
19 And of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi;
20 Of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber;
21 Of Hilkiah, Haſhabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethaneel.
22 The Levites in the days of Eliaſhib, Joiada, and Johanan, and Jaddua, were recorded chief of the fathers: alſo the prieſts, to the reign of Darius the Perſian.
23 The ſons of Levi, the chief of the fathers, were written in the book of the chronicles, even until the days of Johanan the ſon of Eliaſhib.
24 And the chief of the Levites: Haſhabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeſhua the ſon of Kadmiel, with their brethren over-againſt them, to praiſe and to give thanks, according to the commandment of David the man of God, ward over-againſt ward.
25 Mattaniah, and Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meſhullam, Talmon, Akkub, were porters keeping the ward, at the threſholds of the gates.
26 Theſe were in the days of Joiakim, the ſon of Jeſhua, the ſon of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah, the governor, and of Ezra the prieſt the ſcribe.
27 And at the dedication of the wall of Jeruſalem they ſought the Levites out of all their places, to bring them to Jeruſalem, to keep the dedication with gladneſs, both with thankſgivings, and with ſinging with cymbals, pſalteries, and with harps.
28 And the ſons of the ſingers gathered themſelves together, both out of the plain country round about Jeruſalem, and from the villages of Netophathi,
29 Alſo from the houſe of Gilgal, and out

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Theſe are the prieſts and the Levites.] i. e. The chief or heads of the prieſts and Levites.

11 Jaddua.] This is the ſame Jaddua who went to meet Alexander the Great in his pontifical habit, as he was coming to Jeruſalem from the conqueſt of Tyre and Gaza, and procured great privileges for the Jewiſh nation. See Univ. Hiſt. vol. X. p. 225.

27 At the dedication of the wall of Jeruſalem.] As Moſes dedicated the tabernacle in the wilderneſs, and Solomon the houſe of the Lord when it was firſt built, ſo Nehemiah, having put all things in good order, dedicated the city, as a place which God himſelf had choſen, and reſtored it to him again after it had been profaned by the devaſtations of the heathen. Poole and Patrick.

of the fields of Geba, and Azmaveth: for the ſingers had builded them villages round about Jeruſalem.

30 And the prieſts and the Levites purified themſelves, and purified the people, and the gates, and the wall.

31 Then I brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and appointed two great companies of them that gave thanks, whereof one went on the right hand upon the wall toward the dung-gate:

32 And after them went Hoſhaiah, and half of the princes of Judah,

33 And Azriah, Ezra, and Meſhullam,

34 Judah, and Benjamin, and Shemaiah, and Jeremiah.

35 And certain of the prieſts ſons with trumpets; namely, Zechariah the ſon of Jonathan, the ſon of Shemaiah, the ſon of Mattaniah the ſon of Michaiah, the ſon of Zaccur, the ſon of Aſaph;

36 And his brethren, Shemaiah, and Azarael, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethaneel, and Judah, Hanani, with the muſical inſtruments of David the man of God, and Ezra the ſcribe before them.

37 And at the fountain-gate which was over-againſt them, they went up by the ſtairs of the city of David, at the going-up of the wall, above the houſe of David, even unto the water-gate eaſt-ward.

38 And the other company of them that gave thanks, went over-againſt them, and I after them; and the half of the people upon the wall, from beyond the tower of the furnaces even unto the broad wall:

39 And from above the gate of Ephraim, and above the old-gate, and above the fiſh-gate, and the tower of Hananeel, and the tower of Meah, even unto the ſheep-gate: and they ſtood ſtill in the priſon-gate.

40 So ſtood the two companies of them that gave thanks in the houſe of God, and I, and the half of the rulers with me:

41 And the prieſts; Eliakim, Maaſeiah, Miniamin, Michaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah with trumpets;

42 And Maaſeiah, and Shemaiah, and Eleazar, and Uzzi, and Jehohanan, and Malchijah, and Elam, and Ezer. And the ſingers ſang aloud, with Jezrahiah their overſeer.

43 Alſo that day they offered great ſacrifices, and rejoiced: for God had made them rejoice with great joy: the wives alſo and the children rejoiced: ſo that the joy of Jeruſalem was heard even afar off.

44 And at that time were ſome appointed over the chambers for the treaſures, for the offerings, for the firſt-fruits, and for the tithes, to gather into them out of the fields of the cities the portions of the law for the prieſts and Levites: for Judah rejoiced for the prieſts and for the Levites that waited.

45 And both the ſingers and the porters kept the ward of their God, and the ward of the purification, according to the commandment of David and of Solomon his ſon.

46 For in the days of David and Aſaph of old there were chief of the ſingers, and ſongs of praiſe and thankſgiving unto God.

47 And all Iſrael in the days of Zerubbabel and in the days of Nehemiah gave the portions of the ſingers and the porters, every day his portion: and they ſanctified holy things unto the Levites; and the Levites ſanctified them unto the children of Aaron.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Separation made from the mixed multitude.
4 Nehemiah's return, and regulations.

ON that day they read in the book of Moſes in the audience of the people;

31 I brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and appointed two great companies of them, &c.] He ſeparated the prieſts, the Levites, and the princes of the people into two companies, one of which walked to the right hand, and the other to the left on the top of the walls: the two companies met in the temple, and there they ſtood ſtill, and compleated their thankſgivings with ſacrifices. Patrick.

43 The joy of Jeruſalem was heard afar off.] i. e. The report of it was ſpread into far diſtant countries. Patrick.

45 The ſingers and the porters kept the ward of their God, &c.] i. e. The former ſung orderly in their courſes, and praiſed God, and the latter duly obſerved the orders about purification, in not ſuffering any unclean perſon or thing to come into the houſe of God. Patrick.

47 They ſanctified holy things unto the Levites, &c.] i. e. The people ſet apart the tenth part of their harveſt for the uſe of the Levites: and the Levites ſeparated from their tithes the tenth part of them for the prieſts; according to the law of Moſes.

Notes on the Thirteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 On that day they read in the book of Moſes.] This did not and therein was found written, that the Ammonite and the Moabite ſhould not come into the congregation of God for ever;

2 Becauſe they met not the children of Iſrael with bread and with water, but hired Balaam againſt them that he ſhould curſe them: howbeit our God turned the curſe into a bleſſing.

3 Now it came to paſs when they had heard the law, that they ſeparated from Iſrael all the mixed multitude.

4 ¶ And before this, Eliaſhib the prieſt, having the overſight of the chamber of the houſe of our God, was allied unto Tobiah:

5 And he had prepared for him a great chamber, where aforetime they laid the meat-offerings, the frankincenſe, and the veſſels, and the tithes of the corn, the new wine, and the oil, which was commanded to be given to the Levites, and the ſingers, and the porters; and the offerings of the prieſts.

6 But in all this time was not I at Jeruſalem. For in the two and thirtieth year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon came I unto the king, and after certain days obtained I leave of the king.

7 And I came to Jeruſalem, and underſtood of the evil that Eliaſhib did for Tobiah, in preparing him a chamber in the courts of the houſe of God.

8 And it grieved me ſore: therefore I caſt forth all the houſhold-ſtuff of Tobiah out of the chamber.

9 Then I commanded, and they cleanſed the chambers: and thither brought I again the veſſels of the houſe of God, with the meat-offering and the frankincenſe.

10 And I perceived that the portions of the Levites had not been given them: for the Levites and the ſingers, that did the work, were fled every one to his field.

11 Then contended I with the rulers, and ſaid, Why is the houſe of God forſaken? And I gathered them together, and ſet them in their place.

12 Then brought all Judah the tithe of the corn, and the new wine, and the oil, unto the treaſuries.

13 And I made treaſurers over the treaſuries, Shelamiah the prieſt, and Zadok the ſcribe, and of the Levites Pedaiah: and next to them was Hanan the ſon of Zaccur, the ſon of Mattaniah: for they were counted faithful, and their office was to diſtribute unto their brethren.

14 Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and wipe not out my good deeds that I have done for the houſe of my God, and for the offices thereof.

15 In thoſe days ſaw I in Judah ſome treading wine-preſſes on the ſabbath, and bringing in ſheaves, and lading aſſes; as alſo wine, grapes, and figs, and all manner of burdens, not happen immediately after the dedication, but ſome time after Nehemiah was returned from Perſia: for it cannot be ſuppoſed that the people, who were ſo well affected to the miniſters of religion, ſhould ſo ſoon forget and neglect them. Patrick.

That the Ammonite and the Moabite ſhould not come into the congregation of God for ever.] This phraſe, of not entering into the congregation of the Lord, does not mean the public aſſemblies, for men of all nations, if willing to become proſelytes, were admitted into the Jewiſh communion, but it means a prohibition of marriage; for, according to the Rabbins, none of the houſe of Iſrael, of either ſex, were to contract marriage with any Gentiles, unleſs firſt converted to their religion; and, even in that caſe, ſome were debarred from it for ever, others in part, and others only for a limited time. Of the firſt ſort were all the ſeven nations of the Canaanites, Deut. vii. of the ſecond ſort were the Moabites and the Ammonites, whoſe males were excluded for ever, but not their females; and of the third ſort were the Edomites and Egyptians, with whom the Jews were not permitted to marry, until the third generation; but with all others they might freely make inter-marriages, whenever they became thoroughly proſelyted to their religion. Prideaux.

4 Before this, Eliaſhib the prieſt, having the overſight of the chamber of the houſe of our God, &c.] Here the ſingular number is uſed for the plural; for he had not the care of one chamber only, but of all the chambers. It is moſt probable that this Eliaſhib, (for there were ſeveral of the name) who was the author of the following profanation of the houſe of God, was the high prieſt: but he might die before Nehemiah returned from Babylon; for we hear nothing of the governor's reprehending him for it, which he doubtleſs would otherwiſe have done. Prideaux.

6 All this time was not I at Jeruſalem.] They took this bold ſtep while Nehemiah was retired to the court of Perſia.

8, It grieved me ſore.] He was filled with ſorrow and indignation at ſeeing an enemy to the Iſraelites brought into a part of the temple, that none of the ſons of Jacob, except the prieſts, were permitted to enter; and even the holy things removed, to make room for the houſhold ſtuff of this Ammonite: and what was ſtill a greater aggravation of the crime was, that all this was done by the high prieſt himſelf, who ought to have oppoſed ſuch an attempt with all his power.

14 Remember me, O my God, &c.] It is natural here to obſerve, that to make proviſion for the maintenance of God's miniſters and of his worſhip and ſervice, is a work of high eſteem with God: for theſe are the good deeds for which Nehemiah recommends himſelf to the Divine favour. Patrick.

which they brought into Jeruſalem on the ſabbath-day: and I teſtified againſt them in the day wherein they ſold victuals.

16 There dwelt men of Tyre alſo therein, which brought fiſh, and all manner of ware, and ſold on the ſabbath unto the children of Judah, and in Jeruſalem.

17 Then I contended with the nobles of Judah, and ſaid unto them, What evil thing is this that ye do, and profane the ſabbath-day?

18 Did not your fathers thus, and did not our God bring all this evil upon us, and upon this city? yet ye bring more wrath upon Iſrael by profaning the ſabbath.

19 And it came to paſs, that when the gates of Jeruſalem began to be dark before the ſabbath, I commanded that the gates ſhould be ſhut, and charged that they ſhould not be opened till after the ſabbath: and ſome of my ſervants ſet I at the gates, that there ſhould no burden be brought in on the ſabbath-day.

20 So the merchants aud ſellers of all kind of ware lodged without Jeruſalem once or twice.

21 Then I teſtified againſt them, and ſaid unto them, Why lodge ye about the wall? if ye do ſo again, I will lay hands on you. From that time forth came they no more on the ſabbath.

22 And I commanded the Levites that they ſhould cleanſe themſelves, and that they ſhould come and keep the gates, to ſanctify the ſabbath-day. Remember me, O my God, concerning this alſo, and ſpare me according to the greatneſs of thy mercy.

23 In thoſe days alſo ſaw I Jews that had married wives of Aſhdod, of Ammon, and of Moab:

24 And their children ſpake half in the ſpeech of Aſhdod, and could not ſpeak in the Jews language, but according to the language of each people.

25 And I contended with them, and curſed them, and ſmote certain of them, and plucked off their hair, and made them ſware by God, ſaying, Ye ſhall not give your daughters unto their ſons, nor take their daughters unto your ſons, or for your ſelves.

26 Did not Solomon king of Iſrael ſin by by theſe things? yet among many nations was there no king like him, who was beloved of his God, and God made him king over all Iſrael: nevertheleſs, even him did outlandiſh women cauſe to ſin.

27 Shall we then hearken unto you to do all this great evil, to tranſgreſs againſt our God, in marrying ſtrange wives.

28 And one of the ſons of Joiada, the ſon of Eliaſhib the high prieſt, was ſon in-law to Sanballat the Horonite: therefore I chaſed him from me.

29 Remember them, O my God, becauſe they have defiled the prieſthood, and the covenant of the prieſthood, and of the Levites.

30 Thus cleanſed I them from all ſtrangers, and appointed the wards of the prieſts and the Levites, every one in his buſineſs;

31 And for the wood-offering, at times appointed, and for the firſt-fruits. Remember me, O my God, for good.

22 I commanded the Levites, that they ſhould cleanſe themſelves---and keep the gates, &c.] It was natural to think that the Levites, by virtue of their character, would meet with more deference and reſpect than his domeſtic ſervants: he appointed them to this ſervice, that they might continue it when he and his ſervants were gone from Jeruſalem. Patrick.

25 I contended with them.] I expoſtulated the matter with them.

I curſed them.] I denounced God's judgments againſt them.

I ſmote certain of them.] I ordered the officers to ſcourge the moſt notorious offenders.

I plucked off their hair.] I commanded them to be ſhaved, thereby to put them to ſhame, and make them look like vile ſlaves. Poole.

28 I chaſed him from me.] i. e. I baniſhed him from Judea.

31 Remember me, O my God, for good.] Hence we ſhould remember, that whatever good actions we may have done, it was not by our own power, but by the aſſiſtance of God, and therefore we ought, like the good Nehemiah, to recommend ourſelves, and all we have done, to his gracious favour and acceptance. Patrick.

THE

THE BOOK OF ESTHER.

THE ARGUMENT.

This Book contains the history of Esther, a Jewish captive virgin, who, for her extraordinary beauty, was advanced to the throne of Persia, and by her interest with her royal husband Ahasuerus, procured to her countrymen a wonderful deliverance from Haman's intended massacre. Many Christian fathers suppose Ezra the author of this book; others Mordecai; but most of the Talmudists are of opinion that the great synagogue (to perpetuate the memory of that remarkable event, and to account for the origin of the feast of Purim) ordered this book to be composed, and afterwards admitted it into the sacred canon.

CHAP. I.

1 Ahasuerus maketh royal feasts. 10 Vashti's disobedience, 13 and punishment.

NOW it came to pass in the days of Ahasuerus, (this is Ahasuerus which reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, over an hundred and seven and twenty provinces;)

2 That in those days, when the king Ahasuerus sat on the throne of his kingdom, which was in Shushan the palace,

3 In the third year of his reign, he made a feast unto all his princes and his servants; the power of Persia and Media, the nobles and princes of the provinces, being before him:

4 When he shewed the riches of his glorious kingdom, and the honour of his excellent majesty, many days, even an hundred and fourscore days.

5 And when these days were expired, the king made a feast unto all the people that were present in Shushan the palace, both unto great and small, seven days, in the court of the garden of the king's palace;

6 Where were white, green, and blue hangings, fastened with cords of fine linen and pur-

Notes on the First Chapter.

Ver. 1 It came to pass in the days of Ahasuerus.] It is the general opinion, agreeable to Josephus, that the Ahasuerus of scripture was the Artaxerxes Longimanus of profane history; and the LXX throughout the whole book of Esther, where Ahasuerus is mentioned in the Hebrew text, translate it Artaxerxes. Prideaux.

2 When the king Ahasuerus sat on the throne of his kingdom.] i. e. When he enjoyed peace and tranquillity throughout his large dominions; for the history of his accession to the throne is this---Xerxes, his father, was privately murdered by Artabanes, captain of his guard; who instantly repaired to Ahasuerus, the third son of Xerxes, and pretended that Darius his eldest brother had committed this parricide, in order to make his way to the throne, and intended also to cut him off, to secure himself in the possession of it. This Ahasuerus believing, went immediately to his brother's apartment, and, by the assistance of this wicked person and his guards, slew him, thinking he only acted in his own defence. The design of Artabanes was to usurp the throne himself; but, for the present, placed Ahasuerus thereon, intending to depose him, as soon as matters were ripe for his own ascent. But Magabyzus, who had married one of the sisters of Ahasuerus, discovered to that monarch the whole plot; upon which Ahasuerus cut off Artabanes and his whole party, before their treason was come to maturity: and it is very probable, that to celebrate his deliverance, he appointed the extraordinary feast mentioned in the following verses. Prideaux.

In Shushan the palace.] Cyrus, and the rest of the Persian kings, after they had conquered the Medes, whose country lay at a great distance, fixed their royal seat at Shushan, that they might not be too far from Babylon, and make it the capital of Persia. It stood on the river Ulai, and was a place of great renown. Calmet.

6 The beds were of gold and silver.] It was the custom of the East to sit, or rather lay on beds or couches at their meat. The beds themselves were of the softest wool, but the bedsteads were overlaid with plates of gold and silver. Patrick.

ple to silver rings, and pillars of marble; the beds were of gold, and silver, upon a pavement of red, and blue, and white, and black marble.

7 And they gave them drink in vessels of gold, the vessels being diverse one from another, and royal wine in abundance, according to the state of the king.

8 And the drinking was according to the law; none did compel: for so the king had appointed to all the officers of his house, that they should do according to every man's pleasure.

9 Also Vashti the queen made a feast for the women in the royal house which belonged to king Ahasuerus.

10 ¶ On the seventh day, when the heart of the king was merry with wine, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the seven chamberlains that served in the presence of Ahasuerus the king,

11 To bring Vashti the queen before the king, with the crown royal, to shew the people and the princes her beauty; for she was fair to look on.

12 But the queen Vashti refused to come at the king's commandment by his chamberlains: therefore was the king very wroth, and his anger burned in him.

13 ¶ Then the king said to the wise-men, which knew the times, (for so was the king's manner towards all that knew law and judgment;

14 And the next unto him was Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan, the seven princes of Persia and Media, which saw the king's face, and which sat the first in the kingdom;)

15 What shall we do unto the queen Vashti according to law because she hath not performed the commandment of the king Ahasuerus by the chamberlains?

16 And Memucan answered before the king and the princes, Vashti the queen hath not done wrong to the king only, but also to all the princes, and to all the people that are in all the provinces of the king Ahasuerus.

17 For this deed of the queen shall come abroad unto all women, so that they shall despise their husbands in their eyes, when it shall be reported, The king Ahasuerus commanded Vashti the queen to be brought in before him, but she came not.

18 Likewise shall the ladies of Persia and Media say this day unto all the king's princes, which have heard of the deed of the queen. Thus shall there arise too much contempt and wrath.

19 If it please the king, let there go a royal commandment from him, and let it be written among the laws of the Persians and the Medes, that it be not altered, That Vashti come no more before king Ahasuerus; and let the king give her royal estate unto another that is better than she.

20 And when the king's decree which he shall make shall be published throughout all his empire, (for it is great) all the wives shall give to their husbands honour, both to great and small.

21 And the saying pleased the king and the princes, and the king did according to the word of Memucan.

22 For he sent letters into all the king's provinces, into every province according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their language, that every man should bear rule in his own house, and that it should be published according to the language of every people.

CHAP. II.

1 Out of the choice of virgins a queen is to be chosen. 15 Esther is elected.

AFTER these things, when the wrath of king Ahasuerus was appeased, he remembered Vashti, and what she had done, and what was decreed against her.

9 Vashti the queen.] It has been a great enquiry among the learned, who this Vashti was. But the question is of no great importance; as there is reason to think, that, before her marriage, there had been such a collection of virgins made for the king, as there was before that of Esther, and having the good fortune then to obtain the preference in the king's esteem, she was created queen: and if this be granted, it may naturally be supposed, that being a woman of no high descent, her family might, for that reason, be concealed. Calmet.

Made a feast for the women.] The women were always entertained separately from the men.

13 The king said to the wise men.] Men well versed in ancient histories (as Vitringa explains it) and in the laws and customs of their countries.

2 Then said the king's servants, that ministered unto him, Let there be fair young virgins sought for the king.

3 And let the king appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom, that they may gather together all the fair young virgins unto Shushan the palace, to the house of the women, unto the custody of Hege the king's chamberlain, keeper of the women; and let their things for purification be given them.

4 And let the maiden which pleaseth the king be queen instead of Vashti. And the thing pleased the king, and he did so.

5 Now in Shushan the palace there was a certain Jew whose name was Mordecai, the son of Jair, the son of Shimei, the son of Kish, a Benjamite:

6 Who had been carried away from Jerusalem with the captivity which had been carried away with Jechoniah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried away.

7 And he brought up Hadassah, that is, Esther, his uncle's daughter: for she had neither father nor mother, and the maid was fair and beautiful: whom Mordecai, when her father and mother were dead, took for his own daughter.

8 So it came to pass, when the king's commandment and his decree was heard, and when many maidens were gathered together unto Shushan the palace, to the custody of Hegai, that Esther was brought also unto the king's house, to the custody of Hegai keeper of the women.

9 And the maiden pleased him, and she obtained kindness of him; and he speedily gave her her things for purification, with such things as belonged to her, and seven maidens, which were meet to be given her, out of the king's house: and he preferred her and her maids unto the best place of the house of the women.

10 Esther had not shewed her people, nor her kindred: for Mordecai had charged her that she should not shew it.

11 And Mordecai walked every day before the court of the women's house, to know how Esther did, and what should become of her.

12 Now when every maid's turn was come to go-in to king Ahasuerus, after that she had been twelve months, according to the manner of the women, (for so were the days of their purifications accomplished, to wit, six months with oil of myrrhe, and six months with sweet odours, and with other things for the purifying of the women;)

13 Then thus came every maiden unto the king; whatsoever she desired was given her, to go with her out of the house of the women unto the king's house.

14 In the evening she went, and on the morrow she returned into the second house of the women, to the custody of Shaashgaz the king's chamberlain, which kept the concubines: she came-in unto the king no more, except the king delighted in her, and that she were called by name.

15 ¶ Now when the turn of Esther, the daughter of Abihail, the uncle of Mordecai, who had taken her for his daughter, was come to go-in unto the king, she required nothing but what Hegai the king's chamberlain the keeper of the women, appointed. And Esther obtained favour in the sight of all them that looked upon her.

16 So Esther was taken unto king Ahasuerus, into his house-royal, in the tenth month, which is the month Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign.

17 And the king loved Esther above all the women, and she obtained grace and favour in

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 7 He brought up Hadassah (that is Esther) his uncle's daughter.] This woman was born in Babylon; and therefore, in analogy to that language, they gave her the name of Hadassah, which, in Chaldee, signifies a myrtle; but her Persian name was Esther, which some derive from the Greek word aster, a star. Patrick.

16 Esther was taken unto king Ahasuerus, into his house royal.] She was not, like the rest, sent back in the morning to the second house of the women, but kept in the royal house, the king intending to make her more than a concubine. This second house of the women was made for the reception of the concubines, who were treated with all the splendor of an eastern court, being accounted the king's secondary wives: no man was permitted to marry them; and on the king's decease, they became the property of his successor. Poole.

his ſight more than all the virgins; ſo that he ſet the royal crown upon her head, and made her queen inſtead of Vaſhti.

18 Then the king made a great feaſt unto all his princes and his ſervants, even Eſther's feaſt; and he made a releaſe to the provinces, and gave gifts, according to the ſtate of the king.

19 And when the virgins were gathered together the ſecond time, then Mordecai ſat in the king's gate.

20 Eſther had not yet ſhewed her kindred, nor her people; as Mordecai had charged her: for Eſther did the commandment of Mordecai, like as when ſhe was brought up with him.

21 In thoſe days, while Mordecai ſat in the king's gate, two of the king's chamberlains, Bigthan and Tereſh, of thoſe which kept the door, were wroth, and ſought to lay hand on king Ahaſuerus.

22 And the thing was known to Mordecai, who told it unto Eſther the queen; and Eſther certified the king thereof in Mordecai's name.

23 And when inquiſition was made of the matter, it was found out: therefore they were both hanged on a tree. And it was written in the book of the chronicles before the king.

CHAP. III.

Haman advanced by the king, and deſpiſed by Mordecai, ſeeketh revenge upon all the Jews.

AFTER theſe things did king Ahaſuerus promote Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite, and advanced him, and ſet his ſeat above all the princes that were with him.

2 And all the king's ſervants that were in the king's gate, bowed, and reverenced Haman: for the king had ſo commanded concerning him. But Mordecai bowed not, nor did him reverence.

3 Then the king's ſervants which were in the king's gate, ſaid unto Mordecai, Why tranſgreſſeſt thou the king's commandment?

4 Now it came to paſs, when they ſpake daily unto him, and he hearkened not unto them, that they told Haman, to ſee whether Mordecai's matters would ſtand: for he had told them that he was a Jew.

5 And when Haman ſaw that Mordecai bowed not, nor did him reverence, then was Haman full of wrath.

6 And he thought ſcorn to lay hands on Mordecai alone; for they had ſhewed him the people of Mordecai: wherefore Haman ſought to deſtroy all the Jews that were throughout the whole kingdom of Ahaſuerus, even the people of Mordecai.

7 In the firſt month, that is the month Niſan, in the twelfth year of king Ahaſuerus, they caſt Pur, that is, the lot, before Haman, from day to day, and from month to month, to the twelfth month, that is, the month Adar.

8 And Haman ſaid unto king Ahaſuerus, There is a certain people ſcattered abroad and diſperſed among the people, in all the provinces of thy kingdom; and their laws are diverſe from all people; neither keep they the king's laws: therefore it is not for the king's profit to ſuffer them.

9 If it pleaſe the king, let it be written that they may be deſtroyed: and I will pay ten thouſand talents of ſilver to the hands of thoſe

18 Gave gifts according to the ſtate of the king.] The manner of the Perſian king was, to give his queens, at their marriage, ſuch a city to buy them cloaths, another for their hair, another for their necklaces and other ornaments, and ſo on for the reſt of their expences. Patrick.

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 1 Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite.] He was deſcended from Agag, king of Amalek, whom Samuel hewed in pieces in Gilgal.

5 When Haman ſaw that Mordecai bowed not, nor did him reverence.] This behaviour of Mordecai incenſed Haman to ſuch a degree, that in his rage he formed the deſperate reſolution of being not only revenged on the perſon of Mordecai, but alſo to deſtroy the whole race of the Jews; well remembering that his anceſtors the Amalekites had been driven from their country, and the whole nation almoſt entirely exterminated by the Jews.

7 In the firſt month---they caſt---the lot, before Haman, &c.] According to the eaſtern ſuperſtition, Haman endeavoured to diſcover, by caſting lots, what day was moſt favourable, and what moſt unfortunate to the Jews. And by this means the deſtruction of the Jews was delayed till the laſt month of the year: an evident proof, that though the lot be caſt in the lap, yet the whole diſpoſing thereof is from the Lord: for hereby almoſt a whole year intervened between the deſign and its execution, which gave time for Eſther to intercede with the king for revoking the decree, and diſappointing the conſpiracy. What we call lots, the Perſians call Purim, and therefore the Jews gave the name of Purim to this feaſt. Lamy.

9 I will pay ten thouſand talents of ſilver.] An immenſe ſum, but this probably he intended to pay out of the effects of the maſſacred Jews. Patrick.

that have the charge of the buſineſs, to bring it into the king's treaſuries.

10 And the king took his ring from his hand, and gave it unto Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite, the Jews enemy.

11 And the king ſaid unto Haman, The ſilver is given to thee, the people alſo, to do with them as it ſeemeth good to thee.

12 Then were the king's ſcribes called on the thirteenth day of the firſt month, and there was written according to all that Haman had commanded unto the king's lieutenants, and to the governors that were over every province, and to the rulers of every people of every province according to the writing thereof, and to every people after their language; in the name of king Ahaſuerus was it written, and ſealed with the king's ring.

13 And the letters were ſent by poſts into all the king's provinces, to deſtroy, to kill, and to cauſe to periſh all Jews, both young and old, little children and women, in one day, even upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month Adar, and to take the ſpoil of them for a prey.

14 The copy of the writing for a commandment to be given in every province was publiſhed unto all people, that they ſhould be ready againſt that day.

15 The poſts went out, being haſtened by the king's commandment, and the decree was given in Shuſhan the palace. And the king and Haman ſat down to drink, but the city Shuſhan was perplexed.

CHAP. IV.

1 Mordecai and the Jews mourn. 15 Eſther appointeth a faſt.

WHEN Mordecai perceived all that was done, Mordecai rent his clothes, and put on ſackcloth with aſhes, and went out into the midſt of the city, and cried with a loud and bitter cry;

2 And came even before the king's gate: for none might enter into the king's gate clothed with ſackcloth.

3 And in every province whitherſoever the king's commandment and his decree came, there was great mourning among the Jews, and faſting, and weeping and wailing; and many lay in ſackcloth and aſhes.

4 So Eſther's maids and her chamberlains came and told it her. Then was the queen exceedingly grieved; and ſhe ſent raiment to clothe Mordecai, and to take away his ſackcloth from him: but he received it not.

5 Then called Eſther for Hatach, one of the king's chamberlains, whom he had appointed to attend upon her, and gave him a commandment to Mordecai, to know what it was, and why it was.

6 So Hatach went forth to Mordecai, unto the ſtreet of the city, which was before the king's gate.

7 And Mordecai told him of all that had happened unto him, and of the ſum of the money that Haman had promiſed to pay to the king's treaſuries for the Jews, to deſtroy them.

8 Alſo he gave him the copy of the writing of the decree that was given at Shuſhan to deſtroy them, to ſhew it unto Eſther, and to declare it unto her, and to charge her that ſhe ſhould go-in unto the king to make ſupplication unto him, and to make requeſt before him for her people.

9 And Hatach came and told Eſther the words of Mordecai.

10 Again Eſther ſpake unto Hatach, and gave him commandment unto Mordecai;

11 All the king's ſervants and the people of 13 The letters were ſent by poſts into all the king's provinces.] The firſt inſtitution of poſts is generally aſcribed to the Perſians. The monarchs of that extenſive empire, that they might have intelligence of what paſſed in all the provinces of their vaſt dominions, placed centinels on eminences, at convenient diſtances, where towers were built; which centinels gave notice of publick occurrences to one another, with a very loud and ſhrill voice; by which means news was tranſported from one extremity of the kingdom to another, with ſurpriſing expedition. But as this could be practiſed only in the caſe of general news, Cyrus, as Xenophon informs us, provided couriers, and erected offices on all the high roads, for keeping poſt-horſes and delivering packets from one to another. Calmet.

15 The city of Shuſhan was perplexed.] For there were many reſiding there.

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 11 Whoever---ſhall come in unto the king into the inner court, who is not called, there is one law of his, to put him to death.] For the preſervation of royal majeſty, it was enacted by the Medes, the king's provinces do know, that whoſoever, whether man or woman, ſhall come unto the king into the inner court, who is not called, there is one law of his to put him to death, except ſuch to whom the king ſhall hold out the golden ſcepter, that he may live: but I have not been called to come in unto the king theſe thirty days.

12 And they told to Mordecai Eſther's words.

13 Then Mordecai commanded to anſwer Eſther, Think not with thy ſelf that thou ſhalt eſcape in the king's houſe, more than all the Jews.

14 For if thou altogether holdeſt thy peace at this time, then ſhall there enlargement and deliverance ariſe to the Jews from another place, but thou and thy father's houſe ſhall be deſtroyed: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for ſuch a time as this?

15 ¶ Then Eſther bade them return Mordecai this anſwer,

16 Go, gather together all the Jews that are preſent in Shuſhan, and faſt ye for me, and neither eat nor drink three days, night or day: I alſo and my maidens will faſt likewiſe; and ſo will I go-in unto the king, which is not according to the law: and if I periſh, I periſh.

17 So Mordecai went his way, and did according to all that Eſther had commanded him.

CHAP. V.

Eſther obtaining the king's favour, inviteth the king and Haman to a banquet.

NOW it came to paſs on the third day, that Eſther put on her royal apparel, and ſtood in the inner court of the king's houſe, over-againſt the king's houſe: and the king ſat upon his royal throne in the royal houſe, over-againſt the gate of the houſe.

2 And it was ſo when the king ſaw Eſther the queen ſtanding in the court, that ſhe obtained favour in his ſight: and the king held out to Eſther the golden ſcepter that was in his hand. So Eſther drew near, and touched the top of the ſcepter.

3 Then ſaid the king unto her, What wilt thou queen Eſther? and what is thy requeſt? it ſhall be even given thee to the half of the kingdom.

4 And Eſther anſwered, If it ſeem good unto the king, let the king and Haman come this day unto the banquet that I have prepared for him.

5 Then the king ſaid, Cauſe Haman to make haſte, that he may do as Eſther hath ſaid. So the king and Haman came to the banquet that Eſther had prepared.

6 And the king ſaid unto Eſther at the banquet of wine, What is thy petition? and it ſhall be granted thee: and what is thy requeſt? even to the half of the kingdom it ſhall be performed.

7 Then anſwered Eſther, and ſaid, My petition and my requeſt is;

8 If I have found favour in the ſight of the king, and if it pleaſe the king to grant my petition and to perform my requeſt, let the king and Haman come to the banquet that I ſhall prepare for them, and I will do to morrow as the king hath ſaid.

9 Then went Haman forth that day joyful, and with a glad heart: but when Haman ſaw Mordecai in the king's gate, that he ſtood not up nor moved for him, he was full of indignation againſt Mordecai.

10 Nevertheleſs, Haman refrained himſelf:

Medes, that no perſon ſhould be admitted into the king's preſence; but that, if he had any buſineſs with him, he ſhould tranſact it by the intercourſe of his miniſters: this cuſtom paſſed from the Medes to the Perſians.

16 Neither eat nor drink three days, night or day.] This is not to be underſtood as if the people were to take no kind of ſuſtenance for three days, becauſe few could ſupport ſo long a faſt; but that they ſhould neither eat nor drink any thing more than what was abſolutely neceſſary for the ſupport of life.

If I periſh, I periſh.] I am content to venture my life in ſo good a cauſe; a ſpeech of courage and reſolution.

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 2 The king held out to Eſther the golden ſcepter.] In token of his favour and inviting her approach.

4 Let the king and Haman come this day to the banquet, &c.] It was very prudent not to open her mind at once to the king, but firſt to endear his affections by feaſting, muſic, dancing, and whatever might pleaſe him; and doubtleſs her inviting his favourite at the ſame time was very agreeable to him.

8 I will do to morrow as the king hath ſaid.] i. e. I will tomorrow, at the banquet of wine, make my requeſt to the king. There was ſufficient reaſon for Eſther's uſing theſe cautions, as her requeſt was by no means trifling: ſhe had a favourite miniſter to encounter, and, what was ſtill more, ſhe was going to petition the king to revoke his own decree. Patrick.

and when he came home, he ſent and called for his friends, and Zereſh his wife.

11 And Haman told them of the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and all the things wherein the king had promoted him, and how he had advanced him above the princes and ſervants of the king.

12 Haman ſaid moreover, Yea, Eſther the queen did let no man come in with the king unto the banquet that ſhe had prepared, but myſelf: and to morrow am I invited unto her alſo with the king.

13 Yet all this availeth me nothing, ſo long as I ſee Mordecai the Jew ſitting at the king's gate.

14 Then ſaid Zereſh his wife, and all his friends unto him, Let a gallows be made of fifty cubits high, and to morrow ſpeak thou unto the king that Mordecai may be hanged thereon; then go thou in merrily with the king unto the banquet. And the thing pleaſed Haman, and he cauſed the gallows to be made.

CHAP. VI.

1 Ahaſuerus rewardeth Mordecai. 11 Haman doeth him honour.

ON that night could not the king ſleep, and he commanded to bring the book of records of the chronicles; and they were read before the king.

2 And it was found written, that Mordecai had told of Bigthana and Tereſh, two of the king's chamberlains, the keepers of the door, who ſought to lay hands on the king Ahaſuerus.

3 And the king ſaid, What honour and dignity hath been done to Mordecai for this? Then ſaid the king's ſervants that miniſtered unto him, There is nothing done for him.

4 And the king ſaid, Who is in the court? Now Haman was come into the outward court of the king's houſe to ſpeak unto the king to hang Mordecai on the gallows that he had prepared for him.

5 And the king's ſervants ſaid unto him, Behold, Haman ſtandeth in the court. And the king ſaid, Let him come in.

6 So Haman came in: and the king ſaid unto him, What ſhall be done unto the man whom the king delighteth to honour? Now Haman thought in his heart, To whom would the king delight to do honour more than to my ſelf?

7 And Haman anſwered the king, For the man whom the king delighteth to honour,

8 Let the royal apparel be brought which the king uſeth to wear, and the horſe that the king rideth upon, and the crown royal which is ſet upon his head:

9 And let this apparel and horſe be delivered to the hand of one of the king's moſt noble princes, that they may array the man withal whom the king delighteth to honour, and bring him on horſeback through the ſtreet of the city, and proclaim before him, Thus ſhall it be done to the man whom the king delighteth to honour.

---

13 All this availeth me nothing, ſo long as I ſee Mordecai the Jew ſitting at the king's gate.] What trifling circumſtances will ruin all the ſatisfaction of thoſe who, to appearance, are arrived at the pinnacle of human felicity! Immenſe riches, with the glory and honours of the Perſian court, were diſaſteful to Haman, for no other reaſon than the refuſal of homage from one private man. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 On that night could not the king ſleep.] Affairs now begin to take a very different turn; Divine Providence ſo ordering it, that the king ſhould take no reſt during that night; and inſtead of diverting himſelf with muſic, &c. he ordered the records of his kingdom to be brought and read before him; theſe were a ſort of journals, wherein were ſet down the tranſactions of every day.

2 It was found written that Mordecai had told of Bigthana and Tereſh.] It was a very extraordinary providence of God, that that very particular tranſaction ſhould be read wherein the ſervice of Mordecai was recorded. Patrick.

3 What honour--hath been done to Mordecai for this?] It has been looked upon as a very ſingular circumſtance, that the king ſhould forget to recompence a man who had been ſo ſignal an inſtrument in preſerving his life: however, there was doubtleſs a particular providence in having his reward delayed till this time, when he and all his nation were deſtined to deſtruction, when the remembrance of his ſervices might be a means to recommend them to the mercy of the king, and the honours conferred on him prove the greateſt mortification to his adverſary.

8 The crown royal which is ſet upon his head.] Some will have this crown to be what we call a turbant, made of fine white and purple linen, which it was death for any man to put on his head without the king's expreſs order. But others more probably think it denotes that ornament which the king's horſe wore on his head. And it muſt be owned, that this application agrees better with the ſignification and order of the Hebrew words, and with the cuſtom of the Perſians, who uſed to place a certain ornament upon the head of that horſe whereon the king was mounted. Le Clerc.

11 Then

10 Then the king ſaid to Haman, Make haſte, and take the apparel and the horſe, as thou haſt ſaid, and do even ſo to Mordecai the Jew that ſitteth at the king's gate: let nothing fail of all that thou haſt ſpoken.

11 ¶ Then took Haman the apparel and the horſe, and arrayed Mordecai, and brought him on horſe-back through the ſtreet of the city, and proclaimed before him, Thus ſhall it be done unto the man whom the king delighteth to honour.

12 And Mordecai came again to the king's gate. But Haman haſted to his houſe mourning, and having his head covered.

13 And Haman told Zereſh his wife and all his friends every thing that had befallen him. Then ſaid his wiſe men and Zereſh his wife unto him, If Mordecai, be of the ſeed of the Jews, before whom thou haſt begun to fall, thou ſhalt not prevail againſt him, but ſhalt ſurely fall before him.

14 And while they were yet talking with him, came the king's chamberlains, and haſted to bring Haman unto the banquet that Eſther had prepared.

CHAP. VII.

1 Eſther ſueth for her own life, and her people.
7 The king cauſeth Haman to be hanged on his own gallows.

SO the king and Haman came to banquet with Eſther the queen.

2 And the king ſaid unto Eſther, on the ſecond day, at the banquet of wine, What is thy petition, queen Eſther? and it ſhall be granted thee: and what is thy requeſt? and it ſhall be performed even the half of the kingdom.

3 Then Eſther the queen anſwered and ſaid, If I have found favour in thy ſight, O king, and if it pleaſe the king, let my life be given me at my petition, and my people at my requeſt:

4 For we are ſold, I and my people, to be deſtroyed, to be ſlain, and to periſh. But if we had been ſold for bond-men and bond-women, I had held my tongue, although the enemy could not countervail the king's damage.

5 Then king Ahaſuerus anſwered and ſaid unto Eſther the queen, Who is he? and where is he that durſt preſume in his heart to do ſo?

6 And Eſther ſaid, The adverſary and enemy is this wicked Haman. Then Haman was afraid before the king and the queen.

7 ¶ And the king ariſing from the banquet of wine in his wrath, went into the palace-garden; and Haman ſtood up to make requeſt for his life to Eſther the queen: for he ſaw that there was evil determined againſt him by the king.

8 Then the king returned out of the palace-garden into the place of the banquet of wine. And Haman was fallen upon the bed whereon Eſther was. Then ſaid the king, Will he force the queen alſo before me in the houſe? As the word went out of the king's mouth, they covered Haman's face.

11 Then took Haman the apparel and the horſe, &c.] Nothing certainly could cut a proud man more to the heart than to be employed in ſuch an office: but the king's command was poſitive, ſo that Haman was forced to obey, how much ſoever it might go againſt the grain.

13 If Mordecai be of the ſeed of the Jews, before whom thou haſt begun to fall, thou ſhalt not prevail againſt him, &c.] The interpoſition of Providence in favour of the Jewiſh nation, even during their captivity, had been ſo viſible, that the wiſe men about Haman might, from experience, form a conjecture, that if their God was become their friend (as this turn of affairs in favour of Mordecai ſeemed to indicate), no weapon forged againſt them would proſper, becauſe they had ſeen ſo many plots which would have cruſhed any other nation, turn to their advantage, as well as their enemies deſtruction, and conſequently that the deſperate deſign that was now formed againſt them would never be executed; but, on the contrary, the contrivers of it covered with ſhame and confuſion.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 4 Although the enemy could not countervail the king's damage.] Aben Ezra takes the Hebrew word which we tranſlate enemy, to mean diſtreſs or miſery; and thus interprets the paſſage: If they had ſold us for ſlaves, I had not troubled the king with my petition, becauſe that miſery of ours would not have been ſo much to the king's damage.

5 Who is he? and where is he that durſt preſume, &c.] The king could not be perſuaded, that any man could entertain ſo wicked a thought as to extirpate a whole people to ſatisfy private revenge: a ſufficient proof that he did not conſider what decree he had ſigned, in favour of Haman, againſt the Jews.

7 The king ariſing from the banquet of wine in his wrath, went into the palace-garden.] Partly as diſdaining the company of ſo audacious and ungrateful a perſon; partly to cool and allay his ſpirit, ſtruggling with ſuch variety of paſſions; and partly to conſider within himſelf the heinouſneſs of Haman's crime, the miſchief which he himſelf was like to have done by his own raſhneſs; and what puniſhment was fit to be inflicted on ſo vile a miſcreant. Poole.

8 Haman was fallen upon the bed whereon Eſther was.] As a ſupplicant at the feet of Eſther, he fell on the bed whereon ſhe was ſitting, and probably (as the manner was among the Greeks and Romans) embraced her knees.

9 And Harbonah, one of the chamberlains ſaid before the king, Behold alſo, the gallows fifty cubits high which Haman had made for Mordecai, who had ſpoken good for the king, ſtandeth in the houſe of Haman. Then the king ſaid, Hang him thereon.

10 So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai. Then was the king's wrath pacified.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Mordecai is advanced. 7 Ahaſuerus granteth to the Jews to defend themſelves. 15 Mordecai's honour, and the Jews joy.

ON that day did king Ahaſuerus give the houſe of Haman the Jews enemy unto Eſther the queen. And Mordecai came before the king; for Eſther had told what he was unto her.

2 And the king took off his ring which he had taken from Haman, and gave it unto Mordecai, and Eſther ſet Mordecai over the houſe of Haman.

3 And Eſther ſpake yet again before the king, and fell down at his feet, and beſought him with tears, to put away the miſchief of Haman the Agagite, and his device, that he had deviſed againſt the Jews.

4 Then the king held out the golden ſceptter toward Eſther. So Eſther aroſe, and ſtood before the king,

5 And ſaid, If it pleaſe the king, and if I have found favour in his ſight, and the thing ſeem right before the king, and I be pleaſing in his eyes; let it be written to reverſe the letters deviſed by Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite, which he wrote to deſtroy the Jews which are in all the king's provinces.

6 For how can I endure to ſee the evil that ſhall come unto my people? or how can I endure to ſee the deſtruction of my kindred?

7 ¶ Then king Ahaſuerus ſaid unto Eſther the queen, and to Mordecai the Jew, Behold, I have given Eſther the houſe of Haman, and him they have hanged upon the gallows, becauſe he laid his hand upon the Jews.

8 Write ye alſo for the Jews, as it liketh you, in the king's name, and ſeal it with the king's ring: for the writing which is written in the king's name, and ſealed with the king's ring, may no man reverſe.

9 Then were the king's ſcribes called at that time in the third month, that is, the month Sivan, on the three and twentieth day thereof; and it was written, according to all that Mordecai commanded, unto the Jews, and to the lieutenants, and the deputies and rulers of the provinces which are from India unto Ethiopia, an hundred twenty and ſeven provinces, unto every province according to the writing thereof, and unto every people after their language, and to the Jews according to their writing and according to their language.

10 And he wrote in the king Ahaſuerus' name, and ſealed it with the king's ring, and ſent letters by poſts on horſe-back, and riders on mules, camels, and young dromedaries:

They covered Haman's face.] That he might not any more ſee the king's face; or, rather, as a man condemned, this told him his ſentence.

10 So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai.] Thus God returned the wickedneſs of Haman on his own head, and the gallows he had prepared for his enemy was uſed for his own execution. It is very obſervable, that though we find, through the whole narrative, no extraordinary manifeſtation of God's power, no particular cauſe or agent that conducted the affair in a manner ſuperior to nature; yet the contrivance, or adapting thoſe ordinary agents, is, in itſelf, more wonderful than if the effect had been produced by means truly miraculous. That a king ſhould not ſleep is no unuſual thing; nor that he ſhould divert his waking thoughts by hearing the annals of his kingdom, or the journals of his own reign, read to him; but that ſleep ſhould fly from his eye-lids, at the very juncture of time when Haman was watching to deſtroy the Jews, and that in ſo large a book as the chronicles of his kingdom muſt neceſſarily be, they ſhould light on the place where Mordecai's unrewarded ſervices were recorded; that the king ſhould immediately reſolve to do him honour; and that Haman ſhould come in at the very inſtant of time, determine what honour ſhould be done him, and he himſelf appointed to confer it: theſe are events that could not flow from chance, but muſt be directed by the great Shepherd of Iſrael, who neither ſlumbers nor ſleeps, and was truly marvellous in the ſight of his people. And though miracles, in their nature, are more apt to ſtrike the ſenſes, yet ſuch ſecret contrivances of God's wiſdom and providence have a greater effect upon the underſtanding: the one produces aſtoniſhment, the other admiration. Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 10 Dromedaries.] Dr. Shaw ſays, that the dromedary is remarkable for its prodigious ſwiftneſs; the Arabs affirming that it will run over as much ground in one day, as one of their beſt horſes will perform in eight or ten; for which reaſon, thoſe meſſages which require haſte, are diſpatched upon dromedaries. Esther fainting before King Ahasuerus.

Esther XV. 7.

5 MA 56

11 Wherein the king granted the Jews which were in every city, to gather themſelves together, and to ſtand for their life, to deſtroy, to ſlay, and to cauſe to periſh all the power of the people and province that would aſſault them, both little ones and women, and to take the ſpoil of them for a prey;

12 Upon one day, in all the provinces of king Ahaſuerus, namely, upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month Adar.

13 The copy of the writing, for a commandment to be given in every province, was publiſhed unto all people, and that the Jews ſhould be ready againſt that day to avenge themſelves on their enemies.

14 So the poſts that rode upon mules and camels went out, being haſtened and preſſed on by the king's commandment. And the decree was given at Shuſhan the palace.

15 ¶ And Mordecai went out from the preſence of the king in royal apparel of blue and white, and with a great crown of gold, and with a garment of fine linen, and purple: and the city of Shuſhan rejoiced and was glad.

16 The Jews had light, and gladneſs, and joy, and honour.

17 And in every province and in every city, whitherſoever the king's commandment and his decree came, the Jews had joy and gladneſs, a feaſt and a good day. And many of the people of the land became Jews; for the fear of the Jews fell upon them.

CHAP. IX.

1 The Jews ſlay their enemies, with the ten ſons of Haman. 20 The two days of Purim are made feſtival.

NOW in the twelfth month, that is, the month Adar, on the thirteenth day of the ſame, when the king's commandment and his decree drew near to be put in execution, in the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them, (though it was turned to the contrary, that the Jews had rule over them that hated them;)

2 The Jews gathered themſelves together in their cities, throughout all the provinces of the king Ahaſuerus, to lay hand on ſuch as ſought their hurt: and no man could withſtand them; for the fear of them fell upon all people.

3 And all the rulers of the provinces, and the lieutenants, and the deputies, and officers of the king helped the Jews: becauſe the fear of Mordecai fell upon them.

4 For Mordecai was great in the king's houſe, and his fame went out throughout all the provinces; for this man Mordecai waxed greater and greater.

5 Thus the Jews ſmote all their enemies with the ſtroke of the ſword, and ſlaughter, and deſtruction, and did what they would unto thoſe that hated them.

6 And in Shuſhan the palace the Jews ſlew and deſtroyed five hundred men.

7 And Parſhandatha, and Dalphon, and Aſpatha,

8 And Poratha, and Adalia, and Aridatha,

9 And Parmaſhta, and Ariſai, and Aridai, and Vajezatha,

10 The ten ſons of Haman the ſon of Hammedatha, the enemy of the Jews, ſlew they; but on the ſpoil laid they not their hand.

11 On that day the number of thoſe that were ſlain in Shuſhan the palace was brought before the king.

12 And the king ſaid unto Eſther the queen, The Jews have ſlain and deſtroyed five hundred men in Shuſhan the palace, and the ten ſons of Haman; what have they done in the reſt of the king's provinces? now what is thy petition? and it ſhall be granted thee: or what is thy requeſt further? and it ſhall be done.

13 Then ſaid Eſther, If it pleaſe the king, let it be granted to the Jews which are in Shuſhan to do to-morrow alſo according unto this day's decree, and let Haman's ten ſons be hanged upon the gallows.

---

11 The king granted the Jews which were in every city, to gather themſelves together, and to ſtand for their life, &c.] This ſecond decree, procured by Mordecai, gave the Jews authority, if any attempt was made upon them, either by large numbers, or ſmall parties, not only to defend themſelves and repel them, but to make as great a ſlaughter of them as they were able, and even to take poſſeſſion of their goods, as Haman had procured them licence to ſeize thoſe of the Jews. Patrick.

14 And the king commanded it ſo to be done: and the decree was given at Shuſhan; and they hanged Haman's ten ſons.

15 For the Jews that were in Shuſhan gathered themſelves together on the fourteenth day alſo of the month Adar, and ſlew three hundred men at Shuſhan; but on the prey they laid not their hand.

16 But the other Jews that were in the king's provinces gathered themſelves together, and ſtood for their lives, and had reſt from their enemies, and ſlew of their foes ſeventy and five thouſand: but they laid not their hands on the prey.

17 On the thirteenth day of the month Adar, and on the fourteenth day of the ſame, reſted they, and made it a day of feaſting and gladneſs.

18 But the Jews that were at Shuſhan aſſembled together on the thirteenth day thereof, and on the fourteenth thereof; and on the fifteenth day of the ſame they reſted, and made it a day of feaſting and gladneſs.

19 Therefore the Jews of the villages, that dwelt in the unwalled towns, made the fourteenth day of the month Adar, a day of gladneſs and feaſting, and a good day, and of ſending portions one to another.

20 ¶ And Mordecai wrote theſe things, and ſent letters unto all the Jews that were in all the provinces of the king Ahaſuerus, both nigh and far,

21 To ſtabliſh this among them, that they ſhould keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar and the fifteenth day of the ſame yearly,

22 As the days wherein the Jews reſted from their enemies, and the month which was turned unto them from ſorrow to joy, and from mourning into a good day: that they ſhould make them days of feaſting and joy, and of ſending portions one to another, and gifts to the poor.

23 And the Jews undertook to do as they had begun, and as Mordecai had written unto them.

24 Becauſe Haman the ſon of Hammedatha the Agagite, the enemy of all the Jews, had deviſed againſt the Jews to deſtroy them, and had caſt Pur, that is, the lot, to conſume them and to deſtroy them;

25 But when Eſther came before the king, he commanded by letters that his wicked device which he deviſed againſt the Jews, ſhould return upon his own head, and that he and his ſons ſhould be hanged on the gallows;

26 Wherefore they called theſe days Purim, after the name of Pur. Therefore for all the words of this letter, and of that which they had ſeen concerning this matter, and which had come unto them,

27 The Jews ordained, and took upon them, and upon their ſeed, and upon all ſuch as joined themſelves unto them, ſo as it ſhould not fail, that they would keep theſe two days according to their writing, and according to their appointed time every year;

28 And that theſe days ſhould be remembered and kept throughout every generation, every family, every province, and every city; and that theſe days of Purim ſhould not fail from among the Jews, nor the memorial of them periſh from their ſeed.

29 Then Eſther the queen the daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai the Jew, wrote with

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 16 Seventy and five thouſand.] It is the general opinion of commentators, that the perſons ſlain by the Jews were Amalekites, diſperſed through the large empire of Perſia, as they were the known and inveterate enemies of the Jews; and following now the fortune of Haman, it is natural to think they would be very ready to execute the decree he had procured againſt them. Patrick.

21 That they ſhould keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and the fifteenth day of the ſame yearly.] This is called the feaſt of Purim, from the Perſian word pur, which ſignifies a lot, becauſe of Haman's caſting lots, in order to divine which would be the moſt fortunate day for extirpating the Jews out of all the Perſian dominions. And this feaſt is, to this very day, celebrated by the Jews, with ſome peculiar ceremonies; having met in the ſynagogue, in the evening, and uſed ſome forms of prayer, they read over the whole hiſtory of Haman from the beginning to the end, out of a Hebrew manuſcript, written on parchment: and as often as the name of Haman occurs, they clap their hands, ſtamp with their feet, and cry aloud, Let his memory periſh. The next morning early they return to the ſynagogue, where, after reading that paſſage in Exodus, which mentions the war of Amalek, they begin again to read the book of Eſther, with the ſame ceremonies as before, and conclude the ſervice of the day with curſes againſt Haman and his wife Zereſh, pronouncing bleſſings upon Mordecai and Eſther, and praiſing God for having preſerved his people.

all authority, to confirm this ſecond letter of Purim.

30 And he ſent the letters unto all the Jews, to the hundred twenty and ſeven provinces of the kingdom of Ahaſuerus, with words of peace and truth;

31 To confirm theſe days of Purim in their times appointed, according as Mordecai the Jew and Eſther the queen had enjoined them, and as they had decreed for themſelves and for their ſeed, the matters of their faſtings and their cry.

32 And the decree of Eſther confirmed theſe matters of Purim; and it was written in the book.

CHAP. X.

1 Ahaſuerus' greatneſs. 3 Mordecai's advancement.

AND the king Ahaſuerus laid a tribute upon the land, and upon the iſles of the ſea.

2 And all the acts of his power, and of his might, and the declaration of the greatneſs of Mordecai, whereunto the king advanced him, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Media and Perſia?

3 ¶ For Mordecai the Jew was next unto king Ahaſuerus and great among the Jews, and accepted of the multitude of his brethren, ſeeking the wealth of his people, and ſpeaking peace to all his ſeed.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Ahaſuerus laid a tribute upon the land, and the iſles of the ſea.] i. e. He laid a tax on every part of his dominions, both on the continent, and in the iſlands over which his power extended.

3 Seeking the wealth of his people, &c.] The greatneſs to which Mordecai was advanced in the court of Perſia, did not divert his attention from his brethren; but he made it his ſtudy to do them all the ſervice in his power, and embraced every opportunity of encreaſing their happineſs.

THE BOOK OF JOB.

THE ARGUMENT.

This Book contains the narrative of a ſeries of calamities, the moſt extraordinary perhaps that ever happened to any man, yet ſupported with a ſpirit of patience and reſignation truly glorious and heroical. It is a moſt admirable poem; part of it allegorical, where the grand enemy of mankind appears before the Lord, the reſt is to be taken in a literal ſenſe. The ſubject of this poem is the moſt noble that can poſſibly be conceived: for the Drama repreſents the univerſe; and therein are exhibited the fortunes of the whole race of mankind. The Machinery is the moſt grand imaginable; for therein God maketh the cloud his chariot, and walketh upon the wings of the wind. It is not agreed among the learned who was the author of this maſterly performance: It has been aſcribed to Job himſelf, to Solomon, Ezra, and Elihu; but their opinion ſeems beſt founded who ſuppoſe Moſes the writer of it; who, while he was an exile in Midian, either tranſlated it out of Arabic, or wrote it, by divine inſpiration, for the conſolation of his countrymen then groaning under Egyptian bondage; that by this eminent example, he might repreſent the Divine Providence in afflicting them, and at the ſame time give them an aſſurance that their heavy labours and hard uſage would ſhortly have a period.

CHAP. I.

1 The holineſs, riches, and religious care of Job for his children. 6 Satan appearing before God, obtaineth leave to tempt him.

THERE was a man in the land of Uz whoſe name was Job; and that man was perfect and upright, and one that feared God, and eſchewed evil.

2 And there were born unto him ſeven ſons and three daughters.

3 His ſubſtance alſo was ſeven thouſand ſheep, and three thouſand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred ſhe-aſſes, and a very great houſhold; ſo that this man was the greateſt of all the men of the eaſt.

4 And his ſons went and feaſted in their houſes, every one his day: and ſent and called for their three ſiſters, to eat and to drink with them.

5 And it was ſo, when the days of their feaſting were gone about, that Job ſent and ſanctified them, and roſe up early in the morning, and offered burnt-offerings according to the number of them all: for Job ſaid, It may be that my ſons have ſinned, and curſed God in their hearts. Thus did Job continually.

6 ¶ Now there was a day when the ſons of God came to preſent themſelves before the LORD, and Satan came alſo among them.

7 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Whence comeſt thou? Then Satan anſwered the LORD, and ſaid, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.

8 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Haſt thou conſidered my ſervant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evil?

9 Then Satan anſwered the LORD, and ſaid, Doth Job fear God for nought?

10 Haſt not thou made an hedge about him, and about his houſe, and about all that he hath on every ſide? thou haſt bleſſed the work of his hands, and his ſubſtance is increaſed in the land.

11 But put forth thine hand now, and touch all that he hath, and he will curſe thee to thy face.

Notes on the Firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 The land of Uz.] The land of Uz, according to the moſt general opinion, was ſituated in that part of Arabia Deſerta which is bounded on the north by Meſopotamia and the river Euphrates, on the weſt by Syria, Paleſtine, and Idumea, and on the ſouth by Arabia Felix. What increaſes the probability that this was really the country in which Job lived, is the mention of the Chaldeans and Sabeans plundering his eſtate, who had doubtleſs their reſidence in thoſe parts. Stackhouſe.

Whoſe name was Job.] It is evident, from ſeveral places of ſcripture, that Job was a real perſon, and not a fictitious character. In the Old Teſtament he is joined with Noah and Daniel, and equally diſtinguiſhed for his righteouſneſs; and in the New he is commended for his patience. Indeed, the narrative itſelf has all the lineaments of a real hiſtory; though at the ſame time, it is plain that there is an allegorical turn given to ſeveral particulars, which, as they relate to ſpiritual beings, would not otherwiſe ſo eaſily affect the imagination of the vulgar.

The moſt probable opinion with regard to his family, is, that he was deſcended in a direct line from Abraham by his wife Keturah, by whom that patriarch had ſeveral ſons: but being reſolved to reſerve the chief patrimony entire for Iſaac, he gave them portions, and ſent them into the Eaſt; ſo that moſt of them ſettled in Arabia: beſides, we find diſperſed every where in his ſpeeches, noble ſentiments of creation and providence, of the nature of angels, and the fall of man, of puniſhments for ſin, and juſtification by grace, of a redemption, reſurrection, and a final judgment: notions which he could never have received from the light of nature, but muſt have had them originally from his parents, as they ſucceſſively derived them from the father of the faithful, who had them immediately from God himſelf. But what ſeems abſolutely to confirm this opinion is, that Abraham had by his wife Keturah a ſon whoſe name was Shuah; and therefore when we read of Bildad the Shuhite, we may very well ſuppoſe that he was a deſcendant from that family, who, living in the neighbourhood, thought himſelf obliged by the ties of conſanguinity, to viſit his kinſman; in ſuch deplorable circumſtances of diſtreſs.

As to the time when Job lived, we have ſome criterions to direct our judgment. That he lived in the early ages of the world ſeems plain, from his mentioning with abhorrence that ancient kind of idolatry, the adoration of the ſun and moon; and, at the ſame time, paſſing over in ſilence the Egyptian bondage, which could hardly have eſcaped the notice of him or his friends, had it not been ſubſequent to their times. It is therefore probable that he lived before the Iſraelites were made ſlaves to the Egyptians; and what adds a conſiderable weight to this opinion, is the long duration of his life, which continuing an hundred and forty years after his reſtoration, could hardly be leſs in all than two hundred; a longer period than either Abraham or Iſaac reached. If we place his birth about the time of Jacob's deceaſe, we ſhall not, perhaps, be far from the truth; for then, the time of his trial will happen about ſixteen years after the death of Joſeph, when Job might juſtly deſerve the extraordinary character given him by God. Stackhouſe.

3 His ſubſtance was ſeven thouſand ſheep, &c.] Dr. Shaw obſerves that the principal riches of the Bedoween Arabs, like the antient eaſtern patriarchs, continue to be valued according to the number and quality of their cattle.

4 Feaſted in their houſes, every one his day.] There is no reaſon to ſuppoſe theſe feaſts happened oftener than once a year, probably on their birth-days. Poole.

5 Have curſed God in their hearts.] i. e. Have blaſphemed; or rather, as the LXX read, Have had ill thoughts of God in their hearts.

6 Sons of God.] i. e. The angels. See Clark and Wall.

12 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Behold, all that he hath is in thy power; only upon himſelf put not forth thine hand. So Satan went forth from the preſence of the LORD.

13 And there was a day when his ſons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldeſt brother's houſe:

14 And there came a meſſenger unto Job, and ſaid, The oxen were plowing, and the aſſes feeding beſide them:

15 And the Sabeans fell upon them, and took them away; yea, they have ſlain the ſervants with the edge of the ſword; and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

16 While he was yet ſpeaking, there came alſo another, and ſaid, The fire of God is fallen from heaven, and hath burned up the ſheep, and the ſervants, and conſumed them; and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

17 While he was yet ſpeaking there came alſo another, and ſaid, The Chaldeans made out three bands, and fell upon the camels, and have carried them away, yea, and ſlain the ſervants with the edge of the ſword; and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

18 While he was yet ſpeaking there came alſo another, and ſaid, Thy ſons and thy daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldeſt brother's houſe:

19 And behold, there came a great wind from the wilderneſs, and ſmote the four corners of the houſe, and it fell on the young men, and they are dead; and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee.

20 Then Job aroſe, and rent his mantle, and ſhaved his head, and fell down upon the ground, and worſhipped,

21 And ſaid, Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked ſhall I return thither. The LORD gave, and the LORD hath taken away; bleſſed be the name of the LORD.

22 In all this Job ſinned not, nor charged God fooliſhly.

CHAP. II.

1 Satan appearing again before God, obtaineth further leave to tempt Job. 7 He ſmiteth him with ſore boils. 9 Job reproveth his wife, moving him to curſe God.

AGAIN there was a day when the ſons of God came to preſent themſelves before the LORD, and Satan came alſo among them to preſent himſelf before the LORD.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, From whence comeſt thou? And Satan anſwered the LORD, and ſaid, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.

3 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Haſt thou conſidered my ſervant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and eſcheweth evil? and ſtill he holdeth faſt his integrity, although thou movedſt me againſt him, to deſtroy him without cauſe.

4 And Satan anſwered the LORD, and ſaid, Skin for ſkin, yea all that a man hath will he give for his life.

5 But put forth thine hand now, and touch his bone and his fleſh, and he will curſe thee to thy face.

6 And the LORD ſaid unto Satan, Behold, he is in thine hand; but ſave his life.

7 ¶ So went Satan forth from the preſence

12 All that he hath is in thy power, only upon himſelf put not forth thine hand.] To prove the falſity of Satan's accuſation, that intereſt was not the motive of Job's piety, but a ſincere affection to his Maker, God gave Satan a full power to afflict him with whatever misfortunes he pleaſed, except in his perſon only, which he was commanded not to touch. Patrick.

15 Sabeans.] The original word here is an appellative and not a proper name, and ſignifies a band of robbers; and ſo the LXX render it.

20 Job aroſe, and rent his mantle, &c.] He heard with the greateſt tranquility the repeated accounts of his unparallelled misfortunes; but when he was told of the death of all his children, his grief was too great to be concealed, and, laying aſide all other thoughts, he abandoned himſelf to ſorrow. Yet ſtill he retained his integrity, and, inſtead of uttering complaints againſt the conduct of Providence, reverently adored and worſhipped the Divine Majeſty.

21 Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked ſhall I return thither.] Namely, to the earth, to which he pointed.

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 3 Haſt thou conſidered my ſervant Job? &c.] Art thou now convinced that the character I gave thee of Job was true? For he ſtill continues reſolutely to tread the paths of virtue, notwithſtanding the calamities which he undeſervedly ſuffers. Patrick.

4 Skin for ſkin.] Who is there that will not give another's ſkin to ſave his own? nay part with his children, as well as his goods, to ſave his life! Patrick.

7 Satan---ſmote Job with ſore boils, &c.] The moſt received opinion of commentators with regard to Job's diſtemper is, that of the LORD, and ſmote Job with ſore boils from the ſole of his foot unto his crown.

8 And he took him a potſherd to ſcrape himſelf withal; and he ſat down among the aſhes.

9 ¶ Then ſaid his wife unto him, Doſt thou ſtill retain thine intregity? curſe God, and die.

10 But he ſaid unto her, Thou ſpeakeſt as one of the fooliſh women ſpeaketh: what? ſhall we receive good at the hand of God, and ſhall we not receive evil? In all this did not Job ſin with his lips.

11 Now when Job's three friends heard of all this evil that was come upon him, they came every one from his own place; Eliphaz, the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite: for they had made an appointment together to come to mourn with him, and to comfort him.

12 And when they lifted up their eyes afar off, and knew him not, they lifted up their voice, and wept; and they rent every one his mantle, and ſprinkled duſt upon their heads toward heaven.

13 So they ſat down with him upon the ground ſeven days and ſeven nights, and none ſpake a word unto him: for they ſaw: that his grief was very great.

CHAP. III.

1 Job curſeth the day and ſervices of his birth.
13 The eaſe of death.

AFTER this opened Job his mouth, and curſed his day.

2 And Job ſpake, and ſaid;

3 Let the day periſh wherein I was born, and the night in which it was ſaid, There is a man-child conceived.

4 Let that day be darkneſs; let not God regard it from above, neither let the light ſhine upon it.

5 Let darkneſs and the ſhadow of death ſtain it; let a cloud dwell upon it, let the blackneſs of the day terrify it.

6 As for that night, let darkneſs ſeize upon it; let it not be joined unto the days of the year, let it not come into the number of the months.

7 Lo, let that night be ſolitary, let no joyful voice come therein.

8 Let them curſe it that curſe the day, who are ready to raiſe up their mourning.

9 Let the ſtars of the twilight thereof be dark; let it look for light, but have none, neither let it ſee the dawning of the day:

10 Becauſe it ſhut not up the doors of my mother's womb, nor hid ſorrow from mine eyes.

11 Why died I not from the womb? why did I not give up the ghoſt when I came out of the belly?

12 Why did the knees prevent me? or why the breaſts that I ſhould ſuck?

13 ¶ For now ſhould I have lien ſtill, and it was not one ſimple malady, but a complication of ſeveral. For as the great enemy to mankind was at full liberty to try his patience to the uttermoſt, it is not to be doubted but he exerted all his power: and accordingly we find, by the ſucceeding parts of the hiſtory, that beſides the puſtulated blanes which afflicted his body, the devil not only inſtigated his wife to grieve and vex his mind, but alſo diſturbed his imagination, to terrify his conſcience. For when this holy man complains, Thou ſcareſt me with dreams, and terrifieſt me with viſions, vii. 14. the analogy of the hiſtory will not ſuffer us to ſuppoſe, that God himſelf inflicted theſe terrifying dreams, but that the devil, to whoſe temptations Providence had ſubmitted his faithful ſervant, raiſed gloomy thoughts, and framed horrid and ghaſtly objects in his imagination, hoping thereby to drive him to deſpair.

---

9 Curſe God, and die.] The words will bear quite a contrary interpretation, and may be rendered, bleſs God and die: ſome commentators connect the preceding words and read thus; Doſt thou ſtill retain thy integrity in bleſſing God and periſhing? Stackhouſe.

11 Job's three friends.] Eliphaz the Temanite was the grandſon of Eſau, and ſon of Teman, who dwelt in a city of the ſame name in Idumæa, near the confines of Arabia Deſerta. Bildad the Shuhite was deſcended from Shuah, the ſon of Abraham and Keturah. But who Zophar was, is uncertain.

12 Sprinkled duſt upon their heads.] Thus Laertes in Homer,

Deep from his ſoul he ſigh'd, and ſorrowing ſpread
A cloud of aſhes on his hoary head. Pope. Odyſſ. xxiv.

See the note on Gen. xxxvii. 34.

13 Seven days and ſeven nights.] This is not to be underſtood literally; they muſt have taken the refreſhments of food and ſleep. It is remarkable, that we find the prophet Ezekiel (chap. iii. 15.) ſitting with his brethren of the captivity by the river Chebar for ſeven days aſtoniſhed.

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 1 After this opened Job his mouth, &c.] Job had till now ſupported his afflictions with admirable conſtancy; but being overwhelmed in grief, and deſtitute of the leaſt comfort from his friends, he could contain himſelf no longer, but burſts out into the moſt paſſionate complaints of the miſeries of human life, wiſhing he had never been born, or had reſigned his breath as ſoon as he perceived the light. Patrick.

3 The ſhadow of death.] i. e. A deſtructive or deadly ſhadow.

8 To raiſe up their mourning.] Margin and Vulgate read, to raiſe up Leviathan; Septuagint, a great whale. The meaning is, (as we ſpeak) to catch a tartar; or to rouze a lion. Wall.

14 Which been quiet, I ſhould have ſlept: then had I been at reſt;

14 With kings and counſellors of the earth, which built deſolate places for themſelves;

15 Or with princes that had gold, who filled their houſes with ſilver:

16 Or as an hidden untimely birth I had not been; as infants which never ſaw light.

17 There the wicked ceaſe from troubling; and there the weary be at reſt.

18 There the priſoners reſt together; they hear not the voice of the oppreſſor.

19 The ſmall and great are there; and the ſervant is free from his maſter.

20 Wherefore is light given to him that is in miſery, and life unto the bitter in ſoul?

21 Which long for death, but it cometh not; and dig for it more than for hid treaſures?

22 Which rejoice exceedingly, and are glad when they can find the grave?

23 Why is light given to a man whoſe way is hid, and whom God hath hedged in?

24 For my ſighing cometh before I eat, and my roarings are poured out like the waters.

25 For the thing which I greatly feared is come upon me, and that which I was afraid of is come unto me.

26 I was not in ſafety, neither had I reſt, neither was I quiet; yet trouble came.

CHAP. IV.

1 Eliphaz reproveth Job for want of religion. 7 He teacheth God's judgements to be not for the righteous, but for the wicked. 12 His fearful viſion, to humble the excellencies of creatures before God.

THEN Eliphaz the Temanite anſwered and ſaid;

2 If we aſſay to commune with thee, wilt thou be grieved? but who can with-hold himſelf from ſpeaking?

3 Behold, thou haſt inſtructed many, and thou haſt ſtrengthened the weak hands.

4 Thy words have upholden him that was falling, and thou haſt ſtrengthened the feeble knees.

5 But now it is come upon thee, and thou fainteſt; it toucheth thee, and thou art troubled.

6 Is not this thy fear, thy confidence, thy hope, and the uprightneſs of thy ways?

7 ¶ Remember, I pray thee, who ever periſhed being innocent? or where were the righteous cut off?

8 Even as I have ſeen, they that plow iniquity, and ſow wickedneſs, reap the ſame.

9 By the blaſt of God they periſh, and by the breath of his noſtrils are they conſumed.

10 The roaring of the lion, and the voice of the fierce lion, and the teeth of the young lions are broken.

11 The old lion periſheth for lack of prey, and the ſtout lion's whelps are ſcattered abroad.

12 ¶ Now a thing was ſecretly brought to me, and mine ear received a little thereof.

13 In thoughts from the viſions of the night, when deep ſleep falleth on men, 14 Fear came upon me, and trembling, which made all my bones to ſhake.

15 Then a ſpirit paſſed before my face; the hair of my fleſh ſtood up:

16 It ſtood ſtill, but I could not diſcern the 14 Which built deſolate places, &c.] Who lie alone in the tombs, which they built themſelves.

26 I was not in ſafety, neither had I reſt, neither was I quiet.] I neither confided in my riches, nor gloried in a ſecurity of the goods of fortune. The Vulgate reads, Was I not quiet? was I not ſilent? did not I forbear complaining? yet wrath came on me.

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite anſwered and ſaid.] Eliphaz, incenſed at the complaint of Job, forgets that his agonizing pains had extorted this bitter complaint from him; and inſtead of condoling with him, and applying lenitives to aſſuage the anguiſh of his heart, rebukes him very roughly for not following the good advice he had himſelf ſo often given to others in their adverſity: adding, that he had ſufficient reaſon to ſuſpect the ſincerity of his piety, becauſe he never knew the innocent ſo deeply afflicted; but, on the contrary, God always humbled wicked oppreſſors. Patrick.

6 Is not this thy fear, thy confidence, thy hope, &c.] Is not this the time to exerciſe that piety and confidence in God, that hope and integrity, for which thou art ſo remarkable? Patrick.

9 By the breath of his noſtrils.] i. e. By his anger.

11 The old lion periſheth for lack of prey, &c.] The greateſt tyrants, after long enjoying dominion, are deprived at laſt of the riches they have acquired by oppreſſion, and baniſhed from their ſeats of power. Patrick.

12 Now a thing was ſecretly brought to me, &c.] If theſe obſervations want force to convince thee, hearken to what was ſecretly told me by God himſelf. Patrick.

13, 14, 15, 16 In thoughts from the viſions of the night, &c.] We have in theſe verſes one of the moſt awful and affecting deſcriptions that language is capable of giving. It is a night-piece, dreſſed in all the circumſtances of the deepeſt horror, and cannot be read without awakening emotions of awe and terror.

16 An image was before mine eyes, &c.] The LXX read, I looked, and form thereof: an image was before mine eyes, there was silence, and I heard a voice, saying:

17 Shall mortal man be more just than God? shall a man be more pure than his maker?

18 Behold, he put no trust in his servants; and his angels he charged with folly:

19 How much less in them that dwell in houses of clay, whose foundation is in the dust, which are crushed before the moth?

20 They are destroyed from morning to evening: they perish for ever without any regarding it.

21 Doth not their excellency which is in them go away? they die, even without wisdom.

CHAP. V.

1 The harm of inconsideration. 3 The end of the wicked is misery. 6 God is to be regarded in affliction. 17 The happy end of God's correction.

CALL now, if there be any that will answer thee; and to which of the saints wilt thou turn?

2 For wrath killeth the foolish man, and envy slayeth the silly one.

3 ¶ I have seen the foolish taking root: but suddenly I cursed his habitation.

4 His children are far from safety, and they are crushed in the gate, neither is there any to deliver them.

5 Whose harvest the hungry eateth up, and taketh it even out of the thorns, and the robber swalloweth up their substance.

6 ¶ Although affliction cometh not forth of the dust, neither doth trouble spring out of the ground:

7 Yet man is born unto trouble, as the sparks fly upward.

8 I would seek unto God, and unto God would I commit my cause:

9 Which doth great things and unsearchable; marvellous things without number:

10 Who giveth rain upon the earth, and sendeth water upon the fields:

11 To set up on high those that be low; that those which mourn may be exalted to safety.

12 He disappointeth the devices of the crafty, so that their hands cannot perform their enterprize.

13 He taketh the wise in their own craftiness: and the counsel of the froward is carried headlong.

14 They meet with darkness in the day-time, and grope in the noon-day as in the night.

15 But he saveth the poor from the sword, from their mouth, and from the hand of the mighty.

16 So the poor hath hope, and iniquity stoppeth her mouth.

17 ¶ Behold, happy is the man whom God correcteth: therefore despise not thou the chastening of the Almighty:

18 For he maketh sore, and bindeth up: he woundeth, and his hands make whole.

19 He shall deliver thee in six troubles: yea, in seven there shall no evil touch thee.

20 In famine he shall redeem thee from death: and in war, from the power of the sword.

21 Thou shalt be hid from the scourge of the tongue: neither shalt thou be afraid of destruction when it cometh.

22 At destruction and famine thou shalt laugh: neither shalt thou be afraid of the beasts of the earth.

23 For thou shalt be in league with the and there was no shape before my eyes; only I heard a still wind, and a voice. Wall.

17 Shall mortal man be more just than God?] Shall a miserable man be more righteous than God his judge?

18 His angels he charged with folly.] Not with the follies of vain man; but with such imperfections, as are comparatively folly in the eyes of him who alone is wisdom and perfection itself.

19 Which are crushed before the moth.] Before the face of a moth: they are so frail, that even a moth flying against them may dash them to pieces. Hervey's Med.

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1, 2 Call now, if there be any that will answer thee, &c.] If my arguments have not weight sufficient to convince thee, apply for information to others: nay, couldst thou have recourse to an angel, thou wouldst still receive the same information, namely, that the anger of God falls only on the head of the wicked; and those alone that forsake his precepts, perish by his indignation. Patrick.

8 I would seek unto God, and unto God would I commit my cause.] I would, with humble submission, implore the mercy of God, and submit my cause entirely to his righteous decision.

23 Thou shalt be in league with the stones of the field, &c.] The earth shall be very plenteous, so that the stony fields shall bring forth abundantly; and the wild beasts shall not hurt thee: when thou shalt recover thine innocence, thou shalt be as happy as Adam before his transgression; the savage beasts shall be conciliated to thee.

ſtones of the field: and the beaſts of the field ſhall be at peace with thee.

24 And thou ſhalt know that thy tabernacle ſhall be in peace; and thou ſhalt viſit thy habitation, and ſhalt not ſin.

25 Thou ſhalt know alſo that thy ſeed ſhall be great, and thine offspring as the graſs of the earth.

26 Thou ſhalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a ſhock of corn cometh in his ſeaſon.

27 Lo this, we have ſearched it, ſo it is: hear it, and know thou it for thy good.

CHAP. VI.

1 Job ſheweth that his complaints are not cauſleſs. 8 He wiſheth for death, wherein he is aſſured of comfort. 14 He reproveth his friends of unkindneſs.

BUT Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 Oh, that my grief were throughly weighed, and my calamity laid in the balances together!

3 For now it would be heavier than the ſand of the ſea: therefore my words are ſwallowed up.

4 For the arrows of the Almighty are within me, the poiſon whereof drinketh up my ſpirit: the terrors of God do ſet themſelves in array againſt me.

5 Doth the wild aſs bray when he hath graſs? or loweth the ox over his fodder?

6 Can that which is unſavory be eaten without ſalt? or is there any taſte in the white of an egg?

7 The things that my ſoul refuſed to touch are as my ſorrowful meat.

8 ¶ O that I might have my requeſt! and that God would grant me the thing that I long for!

9 Even that it would pleaſe God to deſtroy me; that he would let looſe his hand, and cut me off;

10 Then ſhould I yet have comfort, yea, I would harden my ſelf in ſorrow: let him not ſpare; for I have not concealed the words of the Holy One.

11 What is my ſtrength, that I ſhould hope? and what is mine end, that I ſhould prolong my life?

12 Is my ſtrength the ſtrength of ſtones? or is my fleſh of braſs?

13 Is not my help in me? and is wiſdom driven quite from me?

14 ¶ To him that is afflicted pity ſhould be ſhewed from his friend; but he forſaketh the fear of the Almighty.

15 My brethren have dealt deceitfully as a brook, and as the ſtream of brooks they paſs away;

16 Which are blackiſh by reaſon of the ice, and wherein the ſnow is hid:

17 What time they wax warm, they vaniſh: when it is hot, they are conſumed out of their place.

18 The paths of their way are turned aſide; they go to nothing, and periſh.

19 The troops of Tema looked, the companies of Sheba waited for them.

20 They were confounded becauſe they had hoped; they came thither, and were aſhamed.

21 For now ye are nothing; ye ſee my caſting down and are afraid.

24 Shalt know that thy tabernacle ſhall be in peace, &c.] This aſſurance of proſperity is one of the advantages which thoſe enjoy, who are tried and purified in the furnace of affliction. Worthington.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Job anſwered and ſaid.] Job, far from being convinced by the arguments of Eliphaz, renews his wiſhes for death, and upbraids his friends with their unkindneſs; who, inſtead of ſympathizing with him in his ſufferings, and pouring balm into his wounds, had augmented the weight of his diſtreſs by heavy reproaches and bitter reproofs. Patrick.

2 O that my grief were throughly weighed, &c.] O that ſome impartial hand would weigh my complaints and ſufferings againſt each other in the balance of equity, and faithfully determine which of them preponderate! Patrick.

3 It would be heavier than the ſand of the ſea, &c.] He would be convinced that my miſery is heavier than the mountains of ſand on the ſhores of the ocean, and my complaint lighter than the duſt of the balance: therefore I want words to expreſs my grief.

5 Doth the wild aſs bray when he hath graſs?] Do you think I complain for nothing?

15 Deceitfully as a brook.] Septuagint, as a brook that is dried up: or, as the torrents which make a great noiſe, and run with a violent ſtream, when the melted ice and ſnow fall into them. Patrick.

16, 17, 18 Septuagint reads, as ſnow or ice, when frozen, is firm; but as that, when the heat comes, melts, and it is not known where it was; ſo am I forſaken of all, I am undone without houſe or home.

22 Did I ſay, Bring unto me? or give a reward for me of your ſubſtance?

23 Or deliver me from the enemy's hand? or redeem me from the hand of the mighty?

24 Teach me, and I will hold my tongue: and cauſe me to underſtand wherein I have erred.

25 How forcible are right words! but what doth your arguing reprove?

26 Do ye imagine to reprove words, and the ſpeeches of one that is deſperate, which are as wind?

27 Yea, ye overwhelm the fatherleſs, and ye dig a pit for your friend.

28 Now therefore be content, look upon me; for it is evident unto you, if I lye.

29 Return, I pray you, let it not be iniquity; yea, return again, my righteouſneſs is in it.

30 Is there iniquity in my tongue? cannot my taſte diſcern perverſe things?

CHAP. VII.

1 Job excuſeth his deſire of death. 12 He complaineth of his own reſtleſsneſs, and God's watchfulneſs.

IS there not an appointed time to man upon earth? are not his days alſo like the days of an hireling?

2 As a ſervant earneſtly deſireth the ſhadow, and as an hireling looketh for the reward of his work:

3 So am I made to poſſeſs months of vanity, and wearifom nights are appointed to me.

4 When I lie down, I ſay, When ſhall I ariſe, and the night be gone? and I am full of toſſings to and fro unto the dawning of the day.

5 My fleſh is clothed with worms and clods of duſt; my ſkin is broken, and become loathſome.

6 My days are ſwifter than a weaver's ſhuttle, and are ſpent without hope.

7 O remember that my life is wind: mine eye ſhall no more ſee good.

8 The eye of him that hath ſeen me, ſhall ſee me no more: thine eyes are upon me, and I am not.

9 As the cloud is conſumed, and vaniſheth away: ſo he that goeth down to the grave ſhall come up no more.

10 He ſhall return no more to his houſe, neither ſhall his place know him any more.

11 Therefore I will not refrain my mouth; I will ſpeak in the anguiſh of my ſpirit; I will complain in the bitterneſs of my ſoul.

12 ¶ Am I a ſea, or a whale, that thou ſetteſt a watch over me?

13 When I ſay, My bed ſhall comfort me, my couch ſhall eaſe my complaint;

14 Then thou ſcareſt me with dreams, and terrifieſt me through viſions:

15 So that my ſoul chooſeth ſtrangling, and death rather than my life.

16 I loath it; I would not live alway: let me alone; for my days are vanity.

17 What is man, that thou ſhouldeſt magnify him? and that thou ſhouldeſt ſet thine heart upon him?

18 And that thou ſhouldeſt viſit him every morning, and try him every moment?

19 How long wilt thou not depart from me, nor let me alone till I ſwallow down my ſpittle?

20 I have ſinned; what ſhall I do unto thee, O thou preſerver of men? why haſt thou ſet me as a mark againſt thee, ſo that I am a burden to my ſelf?

21 And why doſt thou not pardon my tranſgreſſion, and take away my iniquity? for now ſhall I ſleep in the duſt, and thou ſhalt ſeek me in the morning, but I ſhall not be.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Is there not an appointed time to man upon earth? are not his days alſo like the days of an hireling?] Is not the whole life of man a perpetual conflict with troubles and misfortunes? And muſt not thoſe who enjoy the largeſt ſhare of happineſs, expect to meet with a ſufficient portion of labour, wearineſs, and pain? Patrick.

12 Am I a whale, &c.] Am I a monſter, that thou ſetteſt, &c.

15 My ſoul chooſeth ſtrangling.] The Hebrew properly ſignifies ſifling.

20 I have ſinned, what ſhall I do unto thee, O thou preſerver of men?] How ſhall I be able to give thee ſatisfaction for the many offences I have committed againſt thee, O thou watchful Father of the human race? It ſhould have been rendered, O thou obſerver of men.

21 Why doſt thou not pardon my tranſgreſſion?] Or ſo far mitigate the puniſhment of it, that I may quit this loathſome habitation of clay? For didſt not thou ſupport me under theſe afflictions, I ſhould, even before morning, take up my habitation in the grave. Patrick.

Notes

CHAP. VIII.

1 Bildad ſheweth God's juſtice in dealing with men according to their works. 8 He alledgeth antiquity to prove the certain deſtruction of the hypocrite. 20 He applieth God's juſt dealing to Job.

THEN anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid,

2 How long wilt thou ſpeak theſe things? and how long ſhall the words of thy mouth be like a ſtrong wind?

3 Doth God pervert judgement? or doth the Almighty pervert juſtice?

4 If thy children have ſinned againſt him, and he have caſt them away for their tranſgreſſion;

5 If thou wouldeſt ſeek unto God betimes, and make thy ſupplication to the Almighty;

6 If thou wert pure and upright; ſurely now he would awake for thee, and make the habitation of thy righteouſneſs proſperous.

7 Though thy beginning was ſmall, yet thy latter end ſhould greatly increaſe.

8 ¶ For enquire, I pray thee, of the former age, and prepare thy ſelf to the ſearch of their fathers:

9 For we are but of yeſterday, and know nothing, becauſe our days upon earth are a ſhadow.

10 Shall not they teach thee, and tell thee, and utter words out of their heart?

11 Can theruſh grow up without mire? can the flag grow without water?

12 Whilſt it is yet in his greenneſs, and not cut down, it withereth before any other herb.

13 So are the paths of all that forget God, and the hypocrite's hope ſhall periſh:

14 Whoſe hope ſhall be cut off, and whoſe truſt ſhall be a ſpider's web.

15 He ſhall lean upon his houſe, but it ſhall not ſtand: he ſhall hold it faſt, but it ſhall not endure.

16 He is green before the ſun, and his branch ſhooteth forth in his garden.

17 His roots are wrapped about the heap, and he ſeeth the place of ſtones.

18 If he deſtroy him from his place, then it ſhall deny him, ſaying, I have not ſeen thee.

19 Behold, this is the joy of his way, and out of the earth ſhall others grow.

20 ¶ Behold, God will not caſt away a perfect man, neither will he help the evil doers:

21 Till he fill thy mouth with laughing, and thy lips with rejoicing.

22 They that hate thee ſhall be clothed with ſhame; and the dwelling-place of the wicked ſhall come to nought.

CHAP. IX.

1 Job acknowledging God's juſtice, ſheweth there is no contending with him. 22 Man's innocency is not to be condemned by afflictions.

THEN Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 I know it is ſo of a truth: but how ſhould man be juſt with God?

3 If he will contend with him, he cannot anſwer him one of a thouſand.

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid.] Job's apologies made no impreſſion on his friends; for he had no ſooner finiſhed his anſwer than Bildad the Shuhite continued the diſpute, by endeavouring to ſupport the argument advanced by Eliphaz, namely, that Providence always rewards the juſt, and puniſhes the wicked, who, though they may flouriſh for a ſeaſon, are always rooted up at the laſt. Patrick.

2, 3 How long wilt thou ſpeak theſe things? &c.] Why doſt thou perſiſt in ſuch unjuſt aſſertions, and expoſtulate ſo vehemently with thy Maker? Canſt thou think the Supreme Judge of all the earth will ſwerve from the rules of equity? Patrick.

10 Shall not they teach thee, and tell thee, and utter words out of their heart?] Shall not the hiſtories of former ages inſtruct thee, and experience juſtify the truth of my words. Patrick.

15 He ſhall lean upon his houſe, but it ſhall not ſtand: he ſhall hold it faſt, but it ſhall not endure.] He may conſider his family as ſo very powerful that it will ſupport him; but it ſhall fall, together with himſelf: he may endeavour to ſtrengthen it by ſtrong alliances; but all his pains ſhall come to nought. Patrick.

17 His roots are wrapped about the heap, and ſeeth the place of ſtones, &c.] His roots have wreathed themſelves thick about the earth, and his head lifts itſelf above the higheſt edifices: but when God plucks him up by the roots, there ſhall remain no remembrance that ſuch a man ever lived there.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then Job anſwered and ſaid.] Job allows that the beginning of Bildad's ſpeech was dictated by truth; and after adoring the juſtice, wiſdom, and ſupreme power of Jehovah, declares he had no intention to arraign his juſtice; but to maintain, contrary to what they had advanced, that righteouſneſs will not always ſecure us againſt calamities, nor the actions of the wicked conſtantly provoke the vengeance of Omnipotence.

3 He cannot anſwer him one of a thouſand.] Here Job ſtrongly profeſſes his belief of a mediator and interceſſor, as the paſſage is interpreted by a very learned author: If he will contend with

4 He is wiſe in heart, and mighty in ſtrength: who hath hardened himſelf againſt him, and hath proſpered?

5 Which removeth the mountains, and they know not: which overturneth them in his anger.

6 Which ſhaketh the earth out of her place, and the pillars thereof tremble.

7 Which commandeth the ſun, and it riſeth not; and ſealeth up the ſtars.

8 Which alone ſpreadeth out the heavens, and treadeth upon the waves of the ſea.

9 Which maketh Arcturus, Orion, and Pleiades, and the chambers of the ſouth.

10 Which doth great things paſt finding out; yea, and wonders without number.

11 Lo, he goeth by me, and I ſee him not: he paſſeth on alſo, but I perceive him not.

12 Behold, he taketh away, who can hinder him? who will ſay unto him, What doeſt thou?

13 If God will not withdraw his anger, the proud helpers do ſtoop under him.

14 How much leſs ſhall I anſwer him, and chooſe out my words to reaſon with him?

15 Whom, though I were righteous, yet would I not anſwer, but I would make ſupplication to my judge.

16 If I had called, and he had anſwered me; yet would I not believe that he had hearkened unto my voice.

17 For he breaketh me with a tempeſt, and multiplieth my wounds without cauſe.

18 He will not ſuffer me to take my breath, but filleth me with bitterneſs.

19 If I ſpeak of ſtrength, lo, he is ſtrong: and if of judgement, who ſhall ſet me a time to plead?

20 If I juſtify my ſelf, mine own mouth ſhall condemn me: If I ſay I am perfect, it ſhall alſo prove me perverſe.

21 Though I were perfect, yet would I not know my ſoul; I would deſpiſe my life.

22 ¶ This is one thing, therefore I ſaid it, he deſtroyeth the perfect and the wicked.

23 If the ſcourge ſlay ſuddenly, he will laugh at the trial of the innocent.

24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked: he covereth the faces of the judges thereof: if not, where, and who is he?

25 Now my days are ſwifter than a poſt: they flee away, they ſee no good.

26 They are paſſed away as the ſwift ſhips; as the eagle that haſteth to the prey.

27 If I ſay, I will forget my complaint, I will leave off my heavineſs, and comfort my ſelf;

28 I am afraid of all my ſorrows, I know that thou wilt not hold me innocent.

29 If I be wicked, why then labour I in vain?

30 If I waſh my ſelf with ſnow-water, and make my hands never ſo clean;

31 Yet ſhalt thou plunge me in the ditch, and mine own clothes ſhall abhor me.

32 For he is not a man, as I am, that I ſhould anſwer him, and we ſhould come together in judgement.

33 Neither is there any days-man betwixt us, that might lay his hand upon us both.

34 Let him take his rod away from me; and let not his fear terrify me:

35 Then would I ſpeak, and not fear him: but it is not ſo with me.

---

him, ſhall not he; who is called by way of eminent diſtinction, one among a thouſand, anſwer him, and plead the cauſe in behalf of mankind? Worthington.

7 Sealeth up the ſtars.] Reſtrains them from ſending forth their light.

9 The chambers of the ſouth.] The fartheſt part of the ſouth.

20 If I juſtify myſelf, mine own mouth ſhall condemn me.] The very arguments I uſed to prove mine innocence, would condemn me; and increaſe the weight of my ſin. Patrick.

22 This is one thing, therefore I ſaid it, he deſtroyeth the perfect and the wicked.] I perſiſt in what I at firſt affirmed, that, in this world, the innocent ſuffer equally with the guilty. Patrick.

23 If the ſcourge ſlay ſuddenly, he will laugh at the trial of the innocent.] When any country is viſited by the peſtilence, the innocent are not defended from its ſtroke. Patrick.

24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked, &c.] And ſo far are the wicked from feeling the weight of his anger, that they are the princes and judges of the earth: for, tell me, where can you find a prince that governs his kingdom uprightly?

26 They are paſſed away as the ſwift ſhips.] Several learned men have obſerved, that it were better to retain the original word, and to tranſlate it thus, They have paſſed away as the ſhips of Ebeh: there were two rivers of that name in the country where Job dwelt. Eſſay for a New Tranſlation.

29 If I be wicked, why then labour I in vain?] In the ſight of my Maker I know I am wicked; why then ſhould I endeavour to vindicate mine innocence? Septuagint reads, If I be wicked, why have I not died for it?

31 Shalt thou plunge me in the ditch, and mine own clothes ſhall abhor me.] Thou wilt cover me with filthy ulcers, and render me loathſome to my neareſt relations. Patrick.

33 Neither is there any days-man betwixt us, &c.] Nor is there any judge to determine our cauſe, or that has power to command ſilence, when either of us exceeds his bounds. The LXX read, no mediator.

35 It is not ſo with me.] Septuagint, I know nothing by myſelf.

Notes

CHAP. X.

1 Job, taking liberty of complaint, expoſtulateth with God about his afflictions. 18 He complaineth of life, and craveth a little eaſe before death.

MY ſoul is weary of my life: I will leave my complaint upon my ſelf; I will ſpeak in the bitterneſs of my ſoul.

2 I will ſay unto God, Do not condemn me; ſhew me wherefore thou contendeſt with me.

3 Is it good unto thee that thou ſhouldeſt oppreſs? that thou ſhouldeſt deſpiſe the work of thine hands? and ſhine upon the counſel of the wicked?

4 Haſt thou eyes of fleſh? or ſeeſt thou as man ſeeth?

5 Are thy days as the days of man? are thy years as man's days?

6 That thou enquireſt after mine iniquity, and ſearcheſt after my ſin?

7 Thou knoweſt that I am not wicked; and there is none that can deliver out of thine hand.

8 Thine hands have made me and faſhioned me together round about; yet thou doſt deſtroy me.

9 Remember, I beſeech thee, that thou haſt made me as the clay, and wilt thou bring me into duſt again?

10 Haſt thou not poured me out as milk, and curdled me like cheeſe?

11 Thou haſt clothed me with ſkin and fleſh, and haſt fenced me with bones and ſinews.

12 Thou haſt granted me life and favour, and thy viſitation hath preſerved my ſpirit.

13 And theſe things haſt thou hid in thine heart: I know that this is with thee.

14 If I ſin, then thou markeſt me, and thou ſhalt not acquit me from mine iniquity.

15 If I be wicked, wo unto me; and if I be righteous, yet will I not lift up my head: I am full of confuſion; therefore ſee thou mine affliction:

16 For it increaſeth: thou hunteſt me as a fierce lion; and again thou ſheweſt thy ſelf marvellous upon me.

17 Thou reneweſt thy witneſſes againſt me, and increaſeſt thine indignation upon me; changes and war are againſt me.

18 ¶ Wherefore then haſt thou brought me forth out of the womb? O that I had given up the ghoſt, and no eye had ſeen me!

19 I ſhould have been as though I had not been, I ſhould have been carried from the womb to the grave.

20 Are not my days few? ceaſe then, and let me alone, that I may take comfort a little;

21 Before I go whence I ſhall not return, even to the land of darkneſs, and the ſhadow of death?

22 A land of darkneſs, as darkneſs it ſelf; and of the ſhadow of death, without any order, and where the light is as darkneſs.

CHAP. XI.

1 Zophar reproveth Job for juſtifying himſelf. 5 God's wiſdom is unſearchable. 13 The aſſured bleſſing of repentance.

THEN anſwered Zophar the Naamathite, and ſaid,

2 Should not the multitude of words be anſwered? and ſhould a man full of talk be juſtified?

3 Should thy lyes make men hold their

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 My ſoul is weary of my life, &c.] Job again renews his complaints, and expoſtulates earneſtly with his Maker; declaring that his ſevere torments were ſufficient to juſtify his firſt wiſhes that he had never been born, or died ſoon after. Patrick.

2 Shew me why thou contendeſt with me.] Acquaint me with the crimes for which I am to ſuffer. Patrick.

10 Cruddled me like cheeſe.] Compacted all my members.

15, 16 If I be righteous, yet will I not lift up my head, &c.] Theſe two verſes may be more faithfully rendered thus, If I be righteous, yet can I not lift up my head: I am full of ignominy; and thoſe that are ſpectators of my affliction even pride themſelves againſt me and inſult me. Thou hunteſt me as if I were a lion, and repeateſt thy marvellous aſſaults upon me.

22 A land of darkneſs, as darkneſs itſelf, &c.] The LXX read, Into a land of everlaſting darkneſs, where there is no light, nor beholding the life of mortals. Wall.

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then anſwered Zophar the Naamathite.] Job having ended his ſpeech, Zophar continues the diſpute. And inſtead of joining with Job in his prayer for a ſhort reſpite from his pains, accuſes him of irreverence towards his Maker, whoſe hidden counſels and irreſiſtible power he places in the ſtrongeſt light; but endeavours to maintain the opinion of his other two friends, that Job was certainly wicked, for otherwiſe he would not have been ſo heavily afflicted. Patrick.

peace? and when thou mockeſt, ſhall no man make thee aſhamed.

4 For thou haſt ſaid, My doctrine is pure, and I am clean in thine eyes.

5 ¶ But O that God would ſpeak, and open his lips againſt thee;

6 And that he would ſhew thee the ſecrets of wiſdom, that they are double to that which is! know therefore that God exacteth of thee leſs than thine iniquity deſerveth.

7 Canſt thou by ſearching find out God? canſt thou find out the Almighty unto perfection?

8 It is as high as heaven; what canſt thou do? deeper than hell; what canſt thou know?

9 The meaſure thereof is longer than the earth, and broader than the ſea.

10 If he cut off, and ſhut up, or gather together, then who can hinder him?

11 For he knoweth vain men: he ſeeth wickedneſs alſo; will he not then conſider it?

12 For vain man would be wiſe, though man be born like a wild aſs's colt.

13 ¶ If thou prepare thine heart, and ſtretch out thine hands towards him;

14 If iniquity be in thine hand, put it far away, and let not wickedneſs dwell in thy tabernacles.

15 For then ſhalt thou lift up thy face without ſpot; yea, thou ſhalt be ſtedfaſt, and ſhalt not fear:

16 Becauſe thou ſhalt forget thy miſery, and remember it as waters that paſs away:

17 And thine age ſhall be clearer than the noon-day: thou ſhalt ſhine forth, thou ſhalt be as the morning.

18 And thou ſhalt be ſecure, becauſe there is hope; yea, thou ſhalt dig about thee, and thou ſhalt take thy reſt in ſafety.

19 Alſo thou ſhalt lie down, and none ſhall make thee afraid; yea, many ſhall make ſuit unto thee.

20 But the eyes of the wicked ſhall fail, and they ſhall not eſcape, and their hope ſhall be as the giving-up of the ghoſt.

CHAP. XII.

1 Job maintaineth himſelf againſt his friends that reprove him. 7 He acknowledgeth the general doctrine of God's omnipotency.

AND Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 No doubt but ye are the people, and wiſdom ſhall die with you.

3 But I have underſtanding as well as you; I am not inferior to you: yea, who knoweth not ſuch things as theſe?

4 I am as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth upon God, and he anſwereth him: the juſt upright man is laughed to ſcorn.

5 He that is ready to ſlip with his feet, is as a lamp deſpiſed in the thought of him that is at eaſe.

6 The tabernacles of robbers proſper, and they that provoke God are ſecure; into whoſe hand God bringeth abundantly.

7 ¶ But aſk now the beaſts, and they ſhall teach thee; and the fowls of the air, and they ſhall tell thee:

5, 6 O that God would ſpeak, and open his lips againſt thee, &c.] O that God would make thee acquainted with the ſecret reaſons that induced him to afflict thee! thou wouldeſt then be convinced that thy puniſhment is far from being equal to thine iniquity. Patrick.

7 Canſt thou by ſearching find out God?] Are all thy deep enquiries ſufficient to account for the judgments of God, and perfectly to comprehend the reaſons of his providence? Patrick.

15 Thou ſhalt lift up thy face.] The ſcripture often expreſſes a fearleſs and chearful ſtate by this phraſe; and the contrary by the falling of the countenance, as in the caſe of Cain, Gen. iv. 5, 6.

17 Thine age ſhall be clearer than the noon-day; thou ſhalt ſhine forth, thou ſhalt be as the morning.] The remainder of thy life ſhall be more glorious than the ſun at noon; and even thy darkneſs ſhall be like the chearing rays of the morning. The LXX read, Thy prayer ſhall be as the morning.

18 Thou ſhalt dig about thee, and ſhalt take thy reſt in ſafety.] Thou ſhalt dig wells of water, and none ſhall diſturb thy flocks, or ſpread alarms in thy tabernacle. Patrick.

20 The eyes of the wicked ſhall fail.] But the wicked ſhall look for happineſs in vain.

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Job anſwered and ſaid.] Job in this chapter accuſes his three friends of having too great a conceit of their own wiſdom, though it had not yet taught them the common duty of humanity to the afflicted.

2 No doubt ye are the people, and wiſdom ſhall die with you.] Here Job ſpeaks ſarcaſtically; you fancy that you are the only perſons of ſenſe in the world; and that when you are dead, wiſdom will be no longer found among the ſons of men. Patrick.

5 He that is ready to ſlip with his feet, is as a lamp deſpiſed in the thought of him that is at eaſe.] He that is in adverſity is as a lamp extinguiſhed, which is deſpiſed and thrown away as uſeleſs.

8 Or ſpeak to the earth, and it ſhall teach thee: and the fiſhes of the ſea ſhall declare unto thee.

9 Who knoweth not in all theſe, that the hand of the LORD hath wrought this?

10 In whoſe hand is the ſoul of every living thing, and the breath of all mankind.

11 Doth not the ear try words? and the mouth taſte his meat?

12 With the ancient is wiſdom; and in length of days, underſtanding.

13 With him is wiſdom and ſtrength, he hath counſel and underſtanding.

14 Behold, he breaketh down, and it cannot be built again: he ſhutteth up a man, and there can be no opening.

15 Behold, he with-holdeth the waters, and they dry up: alſo he ſendeth them out, and they overturn the earth.

16 With him is ſtrength and wiſdom: the deceived and the deceiver are his.

17 He leadeth counſellors away ſpoiled, and maketh the judges fools.

18 He looſeth the bond of kings, and girdeth their loins with a girdle.

19 He leadeth princes away ſpoiled, and overthroweth the mighty.

20 He removeth away the ſpeech of the truſty, and taketh away the underſtanding of the aged.

21 He poureth contempt upon princes, and weakeneth the ſtrength of the mighty.

22 He diſcovereth deep things out of darkneſs, and bringeth out to light the ſhadow of death.

23 He increaſeth the nations, and deſtroyeth them: he enlargeth the nations, and ſtraiteneth them again.

24 He taketh away the heart of the chief of the people of the earth, and cauſeth them to wander in a wilderneſs where there is no way.

25 They grope in the dark without light, and he maketh them to ſtagger like a drunken man.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Job reproveth his friends of partiality. 14 He profeſſeth his confidence in God, 20 and intreateth to know his own ſins, and God's purpoſe in afflicting him.

LO, mine eye hath ſeen all this, mine ear hath heard and underſtood it.

2 What ye know, the ſame do I know alſo: I am not inferior unto you.

3 Surely I would ſpeak to the Almighty, and I deſire to reaſon with God.

4 But ye are forgers of lyes, ye are all phyſicians of no value.

5 O that you would altogether hold your peace; and it ſhould be your wiſdom.

6 Hear now my reaſoning, and hearken to the pleadings of my lips.

7 Will ye ſpeak wickedly for God? and talk deceitfully for him?

8 Will ye accept his perſon? will ye contend for God?

9 Is it good that he ſhould ſearch you out? or as one man mocketh another, do ye ſo mock him?

10 He will ſurely reprove you, if ye do ſecretly accept perſons.

11 Shall not his excellency make you afraid? and his dread fall upon you?

---

13 With him is wiſdom.] i. e. With God.

16 With him is ſtrength and wiſdom: the deceived and the deceiver are his.] His wiſdom is equal to his power: the hypocriſy of thoſe who deceive others, is as well known to him, as the weakneſs of thoſe who are deceived. Patrick.

18 He looſeth the bond of kings, and girdeth their loins with a girdle.] He ſtrippeth kings of their royal ornaments, and bindeth them in chains. Rather, as the LXX read, He fitteth kings on the throne.

22 He diſcovereth deep things out of darkneſs, and bringeth out to light the ſhadow of death.] The moſt ſecret deſigns are open to his view; and he expoſeth to open day plots formed in the obſcurity of night. Patrick.

24 He taketh away the heart of the chief of the people of the earth, &c.] He deprives commanders of courage and judgment, and leads them into confuſion.

Notes on the Thirteenth Chapter.

Ver. 4 Ye are all phyſicians of no value.] Like unſkilful phyſicians you exaſperate the diſeaſe you cannot cure.

7 Will you ſpeak wickedly for God? and talk deceitfully for him?] Is there any neceſſity for having recourſe to falſhoods for juſtifying the proceedings of the Almighty? He may ſurely be righteous without my being wicked. Patrick.

8 Will ye contend for God?] Do his proceedings deviate ſo far from juſtice, that you muſt favour his cauſe?

9 Is is good that he ſhould ſearch you out?] Would it turn to your advantage, ſhould the Almighty examine what you have ſaid? or can you deceive him with plauſible arguments, as you may the ſons of men? Patrick.

10 He will ſurely reprove you, if ye ſecretly accept perſons.] i. e. If you judge thus raſhly and unjuſtly, even in vindication of his ways. Peters.

12 Your remembrances are like unto aſhes, your bodies to bodies of clay.

13 Hold your peace, let me alone, that I may ſpeak, and let come on me what will.

14 ¶ Wherefore do I take my fleſh in my teeth, and put my life in mine hand?

15 Though he ſlay me, yet will I truſt in him: but I will maintain mine own ways before him.

16 He alſo ſhall be my ſalvation: for an hypocrite ſhall not come before him:

17 Hear diligently my ſpeech, and my declaration with your ears.

18 Behold now, I have ordered my cauſe; I know that I ſhall be juſtified.

19 Who is he that will plead with me? for now, if I hold my tongue, I ſhall give up the ghoſt.

20 ¶ Only do not two things unto me: then will I not hide my ſelf from thee.

21 Withdraw thine hand far from me: and let not thy dread make me afraid.

22 Then call thou, and I will anſwer: or let me ſpeak, and anſwer thou me.

23 How many are mine iniquities and ſins? make me to know my tranſgreſſion and my ſin.

24 Wherefore hideſt thou thy face, and holdeſt me for thine enemy?

25 Wilt thou break a leaf driven to and fro? and wilt thou purſue the dry ſtubble?

26 For thou writeſt bitter things againſt me, and makeſt me to poſſeſs the iniquities of my youth.

27 Thou putteſt my feet alſo in the ſtocks, and lookeſt narrowly unto all my paths; thou ſetteſt a print upon the heels of my feet.

28 And he, as a rotten thing, conſumeth, as the garment that is moth-eaten.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Job intreateth God for favour, by the ſhortneſs of life, and certainty of death. 7 Though life once loſt be irrecoverable, yet he waiteth for his change. 16 By ſin the creature is ſubject to corruption.

MAN that is born of a woman is of few days, and full of trouble.

2 He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth alſo as a ſhadow, and continueth not.

3 And doſt thou open thine eyes upon ſuch an one, and bringeſt me into judgement with thee?

4 Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean? not one.

5 Seeing his days are determined, the number of his months are with thee, thou haſt appointed his bounds that he cannot paſs:

6 Turn from him that he may reſt, till he ſhall accompliſh, as an hireling, his day.

7 ¶ For there is hope of a tree, if it be

---

12 Your remembrances are like unto aſhes, your bodies to bodies of clay] The Hebrew is, Your memorable ſayings are ſpeeches of aſhes, to the backs of clay your backs; i. e. your anſwers are ſpeeches of no value: perhaps the other may be interpreted, you are thrown to your backs, you are foiled in the argument. As wreſtling was an exerciſe famous among the antients, a metaphor taken from thence does not ſeem improbable; the Latin Vulgate favours this interpretation. Peters.

14 Wherefore do I take my fleſh in my teeth, and put my life in mine hand?] Why am I ſo grievouſly tormented: and why am I expoſed to ſo many dangers?

15 I will maintain my own ways.] i. e. My integrity.

16 An hypocrite.] A ſycophant, or falſe accuſer. Peters.

18 Behold now, I have ordered my cauſe, &c.] As if he had ſaid, I addreſs myſelf to my trial and plead not guilty.

19 Who is he that will plead with me? &c.] The Hebrew runs literally thus, Who is he that will litigate the matter with me? for now I will be ſilent, and expire: that is, Who is he that will bring a charge againſt me? for you are now to conſider me as dead, and ſtanding before the tribunal of God: the adding an if, as in our tranſlation, has ſpoiled the whole turn of the ſentence.

20, 21, 22, 23 In theſe verſes Job addreſſes himſelf to God, and beſeeches him, in the moſt ſubmiſſive manner, before he enters into judgment with him, to grant him two things; to withdraw his afflicting hand from him, and to veil the terrors of his majeſty, that it might not ſtrike him with too much dread: and then to queſtion him, and he would anſwer; or permit him to ſpeak, and vouchſafe to inform him what his guilt was, and what was the reaſon of theſe ſevere inflictions. Peters.

25 Wilt thou break a leaf driven to and fro? and wilt thou purſue the dry ſtubble?] What honour can reſult to thee from employing thy power againſt one who is no more able to ſtand before thee, than the tender leaf to reſiſt the tempeſt; or the dry ſtubble the flame of a devouring fire. Patrick.

27 Thou ſetteſt a print upon the heels of my feet.] Alluding, probably, to the puniſhment of ſlaves that ran away, which was to beat them ſeverely with a battoon on the ſoles of their feet: this occaſioned great pain, and often putrefaction of the parts, to which ver. 28th ſeems to allude; and he, rather and this ſeverity, as rottenneſs, as a putrefying ſore, conſumeth me. Taylor's Heb. Con.

Notes on the Fourteenth Chapter.

Ver. 4 Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean? not one.] Septuagint reads, Who is there that is clean from pollution? not one; though his life be but of a day.

7 There is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will ſprout again, cut down, that it will ſprout again, and that the tender branch thereof will not ceaſe.

8 Though the root thereof wax old in the earth, and the ſtock thereof die in the ground;

9 Yet through the ſcent of water it will bud, and bring forth boughs like a plant.

10 But man dieth and waſteth away: yea, man giveth up the ghoſt, and where is he?

11 As the waters fail from the ſea, and the flood decayeth and dryeth up:

12 So man lieth down, and riſeth not till the heavens be no more, they ſhall not awake, nor be raiſed out of their ſleep.

13 O that thou wouldeſt hide me in the grave, that thou wouldeſt keep me ſecret until thy wrath be paſt, that thou wouldeſt appoint me a ſet time, and remember me!

14 If a man die, ſhall he live again? all the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come.

15 Thou ſhalt call, and I will anſwer thee: thou wilt have a deſire to the work of thine hands.

16 ¶ For now thou numbereſt my ſteps, doſt thou not watch over my ſin?

17 My tranſgreſſion is ſealed up in a bag, and thou ſeweſt up mine iniquity.

18 And ſurely the mountain falling cometh to nought, and the rock is removed out of his place:

19 The waters wear the ſtones; thou waſheſt away the things which grow out of the duſt of the earth; and thou deſtroyeſt the hope of man.

20 Thou prevaileſt for ever againſt him, and he paſſeth: thou changeſt his countenance, and ſendeſt him away.

21 His ſons come to honour, and he knoweth, it not; and they are brought low, but he perceiveth it not of them.

22 But his fleſh upon him ſhall have pain, and his ſoul within him ſhall mourn.

CHAP. XV.

1 Eliphaz reproveth Job of impiety in juſtifying himſelf. 17 He reproveth by tradition the unquietneſs of wicked men.

THEN anſwered Eliphaz the Temanite, and ſaid,

2 Should a wiſe man utter vain knowledge, and fill his belly with the eaſt wind?

3 Should he reaſon with unprofitable talk? or with ſpeeches wherewith he can do no good?

4 Yea, thou caſteſt off fear, and reſtraineſt prayer before God.

5 For thy mouth uttereth thine iniquity, and thou chooſeſt the tongue of the crafty.

6 Thine own mouth condemneth thee, and not I: yea, thine own lips teſtify againſt thee.

7 Art thou the firſt man that was born? or waſt thou made before the hills?

8 Haſt thou heard the ſecret of God? and doſt thou reſtrain wiſdom to thy ſelf?

9 What knoweſt thou that we know not? what underſtandeſt thou which is not in us?

again, &c.] This fine ſentiment has been embelliſhed by ſeveral authors. Thus Moſchus on the death of Bion:

> Alas! the meaneſt flow'rs which gardens yield,
> The vileſt weeds that flouriſh in the field,
> Which dead in wintry ſepulchres appear,
> Revive in ſpring and bloom another year:
> But we, the great, the brave, the learn'd, the wiſe,
> Soon as the hand of death has clos'd our eyes,
> In tombs forgotten lie; no ſuns reſtore,
> We ſleep, for ever ſleep, to wake no more.

See a tranſlation of Anacreon, Sappho, Bion, Moſchus, &c. printed for Newbery.

11, 12 As the waters fail from the ſea, &c.] The meaning ſeems to be, that as we ſee every thing in flux, and ſubject to change, ſo the whole ſhall be one day changed. The ſea itſelf will at length be quite abſorbed; and the rivers which now flow perpetually, as if ſupplied by everlaſting ſprings, will nevertheleſs in time quite ceaſe and diſappear: this viſible frame of things ſhall be diſſolved, and the preſent heavens themſelves ſhall be no more: and then, and not till then, comes the reſurrection and the general judgment. Peters.

14, 15 If a man die, ſhall he live again? &c.] The LXX read, For if a man die, he ſhall live to finiſh the days of his life. I will wait till I am made anew: then thou ſhalt call, and I will anſwer thee. Here Job ſeems to have had thoughts of a reſurrection. Wall.

20 Thou changeſt his countenance, and ſendeſt him away.] Thou ſpoileſt his beauty, and ſendeſt his ſoul into the regions of eternity.

Notes on the Fifteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then anſwered Eliphaz the Temanite, and ſaid.] Eliphaz, ſtimulated with anger at the ſlighting manner in which Job had treated their ſpeeches, renews the diſpute with more eagerneſs and violence than before. But urges no more than what he at firſt aſſerted, namely, that the wicked only are puniſhed by God with ſuch calamities as had now fallen upon Job. Patrick.

4 Thou caſteſt off fear, &c.] By laying aſide religion thou diſcourageſt men from pouring out their prayers before God.

7 Art thou the firſt man that was born? &c.] Thou art but a man, why doſt thou talk as if thou wert God? or at leaſt wert made before the world? Patrick.

10 With us are both the gray-headed and very aged men, much elder than thy father.

11 Are the conſolations of God ſmall with thee? is there any ſecret thing with thee?

12 Why doth thine heart carry thee away? and what do thine eyes wink at,

13 That thou turneſt thy ſpirit againſt God, and letteſt ſuch words go out of thy mouth?

14 What is man, that he ſhould be clean? and he which is born of a woman, that he ſhould be righteous?

15 Behold, he putteth no truſt in his ſaints; yea, the heavens are not clean in his ſight.

16 How much more abominable and filthy is man, which drinketh iniquity like water?

17 ¶ I will ſhew thee, hear me, and that which I have ſeen, I will declare,

18 Which wiſe men have told from their fathers, and have not hid it:

19 Unto whom alone the earth was given, and no ſtranger paſſed among them.

20 The wicked man travelleth with pain all his days, and the number of years, is hidden to the oppreſſor.

21 A dreadful ſound is in his ears: in proſperity the deſtroyer ſhall come upon him.

22 He believeth not that he ſhall return out of darkneſs and he is waited for of the ſword.

23 He wandereth abroad for bread, ſaying, Where is it? he knoweth that the day of darkneſs is ready at his hand.

24 Trouble and anguiſh ſhall make him afraid; they ſhall prevail againſt him, as a king ready to the battle.

25 For he ſtretcheth out his hand againſt God, and ſtrengtheneth himſelf a gainſt the Almighty.

26 He runneth upon him, even on his neck, upon the thick boſſes of his bucklers:

27 Becauſe he covereth his face with his fatneſs, and maketh collops of fat on his flanks.

28 And he dwelleth in deſolate cities, and in houſes which no man inhabiteth, which are ready to become heaps.

29 He ſhall not be rich, neither ſhall his ſubſtance continue, neither ſhall he prolong the perfection thereof upon the earth.

30 He ſhall not depart out of darkneſs, the flame ſhall dry up his branches, and by the breath of his mouth ſhall he go away.

31 Let not him that is deceived truſt in vanity: for vanity ſhall be his recompenſe.

32 It ſhall be accompliſhed before his time, and his branch ſhall not be green.

33 He ſhall ſhake off his unripe grape as the vine, and ſhall caſt off his flower as the olive.

34 For the congregation of hypocrites ſhall be deſolate, and fire ſhall conſume the tabernacles of bribery.

35 They conceive miſchief, and bring forth vanity, and their belly prepareth deceit.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Job reproveth his friends of unmercifulneſs. 7 He ſheweth the pitifulneſs of his caſe. 17 He maintaineth his innocence.

THEN Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 I have heard many ſuch things: miſerable comforters are ye all.

10 With us are both the grey-headed, &c.] If age and long experience are neceſſary for acquiring wiſdom, there are ſome of us who are much elder than thy father. Patrick.

11 Conſolation of God.] Mr. Edwards thinks this a Hebraiſm, and that it means only great conſolations.

20 The wicked man, &c.] The tyrant is never free from inward torment; he is continually in dread of ſome greater oppreſſor than himſelf. Patrick.

22 He believeth not that he ſhall return, &c.] When he lieth down in the evening, he expects to periſh before morning; and fancies his couch is ſurrounded with drawn ſwords.

23 He wandereth abroad for bread, ſaying, where is it? &c.] He travelleth far and near for bread; and when he hath found it, imagines it will prove a poiſon. Patrick.

26 He runneth upon him, &c.] i. e. God will ſuddenly overcome him, though he be never ſo well armed. Patrick.

27 Becauſe he covereth his face with his fatneſs, &c.] Becauſe he devotes his whole time to pleaſure, and flouriſhes in pride, luxury, and ambition; diſregarding the duties of religion.

28 He dwelleth in deſolate cities, &c.] He poſſeſſeth cities he hath laid deſolate, and houſes, which, being from his tyranny deſtitute of inhabitants, are tumbling into ruins. Patrick.

32 It ſhall be accompliſhed before his time, &c.] Misfortunes ſhall overtake him before he is aware, and his children, as well as himſelf, ſhall wither away.

33 He ſhall ſhake off his unripe grape as the vine, &c.] They ſhall die before their time, as the unripe grape, or the bloſſom of the olive, fall in a tempeſt of hail, or are deſtroyed by the nipping froſts.

35 Their belly prepareth deceit.] Septuagint reads, He ſhall feel torture in his belly; diſappointments ſhall happen to him: in his belly he ſhall have pain. Wall.

Notes on the Sixteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then Job anſwered and ſaid.] Job reproves the vanity of his friends in repeating the ſame arguments, and perſiſting in their

3 Shall vain words have an end? or what emboldeneth thee that thou answerest?

4 I also could speak as ye do: if your soul were in my soul's stead, I could heap up words against you, and shake mine head at you.

5 But I would strengthen you with my mouth, and the moving of my lips should assuage your grief.

6 Though I speak, my grief is not assuaged: and though I forbear, what am I eased?

7 ¶ But now he hath made me weary: thou hast made desolate all my company.

8 And thou hast filled me with wrinkles, which is a witness against me: and my leanness rising up in me, beareth witness to my face.

9 He teareth me in his wrath, who hateth me: he gnasheth upon me with his teeth; mine enemy sharpeneth his eyes upon me.

10 They have gaped upon me with their mouth, they have smitten me upon the cheek reproachfully, they have gathered themselves together against me.

11 God hath delivered me to the ungodly, and turned me over into the hands of the wicked.

12 I was at ease, but he hath broken me asunder: he hath also taken me by my neck, and shaken me to pieces, and set me up for his mark.

13 His arches compass me round about, he cleaveth my reins asunder, and doth not spare; he poureth out my gall upon the ground.

14 He breaketh me with breach upon breach, he runneth upon me like a giant.

15 I have sewed sackcloth upon my skin, and defiled my horn in the dust.

16 My face is foul with weeping, and on my eye-lids is the shadow of death;

17 ¶ Not for any injustice in my hands: also my prayer is pure.

18 O earth, cover not thou my blood, and let my cry have no place.

19 Also now, behold, my witness is in heaven, and my record is on high.

20 My friends scorn me: but mine eye poureth out tears unto God.

21 O that one might plead for a man with God, as a man pleadeth for his neighbour!

22 When a few years are come, then I shall go the way whence I shall not return.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Job appealeth from men to God. 6 The unmerciful dealing of men with the afflicted may astonish but not discourage the righteous. 11 Job's hope is not in life, but in death.

MY breath is corrupt, my days are extinct, the graves are ready for me.

2 Are there not mockers with me? and doth not mine eye continue in their provocation?

3 Lay down now, put me in a surety with thee; who is he that will strike hands with me?

4 For thou hast hid their heart from understanding: therefore shalt thou not exalt them.

5 He that speaketh flattery to his friends, even the eyes of his children shall fail.

6 He hath made me also a by-word of the people, and a foretime I was as a tabret.

7 Mine eye also is dim by reason of sorrow, and all my members are as a shadow.

8 Upright men shall be astonished at this, and the innocent shall stir up himself against the hypocrite.

9 The righteous also shall hold on his way, their inhuman reproofs, though his sufferings called for their pity and commiseration. Patrick.

7 He hath made me weary: thou hast made desolate all my company.] God hath long since wearied me with heaping one trouble on another; nor ceased till neither goods, children, nor friends remained to sooth my anguish. Patrick.

8 Thou hast filled me with wrinkles, &c.] The furrows in my face, not being from age, show the greatness of my affliction; which is augmented by false accusations to blast mine honour, while my diseases prey upon my life. Patrick.

15 I have sewed sackcloth upon my skin, and defiled my horn in the dust.] The sackcloth in which I at first arrayed myself, now cleaveth fast, as if sewed, to my skin; and all my former authority and honour is changed into contempt. Patrick.

18 Let my cry have no place.] No place to lie unheard.

Notes on the Seventeenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 My breath is corrupt, my days are extinct, the graves are ready for me.] My vital spirits are spent, the lamp of life gives but a glimmering and dying flame, just sufficient to render visible the graves, which on every side are open to receive me. Patrick.

2 Are there not mockers with me? &c.] How can I support my spirits, when my friends, instead of comforting me, make use of the most bitter reproaches? so that sleep is become a stranger to mine eyes. Patrick.

3 Who is he that will strike hands with me?] Let some person of equity undertake for me, who will engage in my behalf to do me justice.

4 Thou shalt not exalt them.] Thou shalt not confer on them the honour of being my judge.

6 I was as a tabret.] It is common pastime to talk of my calamities.

and he that hath clean hands ſhall be ſtronger and ſtronger.

10 But as for you all, do ye return, and come now: for I cannot find one wiſe man among you.

11 My days are paſt, my purpoſes are broken off, even the thoughts of my heart.

12 They change the night into day: the light is ſhort, becauſe of darkneſs.

13 If I wait, the grave is mine houſe; I have made my bed in the darkneſs.

14 I have ſaid to corruption, Thou art my father: to the worm, Thou art my mother, and my ſiſter.

15 And where is now my hope? as for my hope, who ſhall ſee it?

16 They ſhall go down to the bars of the pit, when our reſt together is in the duſt.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 Bildad reproveth Job of preſumption and impatience. 5 The calamities of the wicked.

THEN anſwered Bildad the Shuhite, and ſaid,

2 How long will it be ere ye make an end of words? mark, and afterwards we will ſpeak.

3 Wherefore are we counted as beaſts, and reputed vile in your ſight?

4 He teareth himſelf in his anger: ſhall the earth be forſaken for thee? and ſhall the rock be removed out of his place?

5 Yea the light of the wicked ſhall be put out, and the ſpark of his fire ſhall not ſhine.

6 The light ſhall be dark in his tabernacle, and his candle ſhall be put out with him.

7 The ſteps of his ſtrength ſhall be ſtraitened, and his own counſel ſhall caſt him down.

8 For he is caſt into a net by his own feet, and he walketh upon a ſnare.

9 The gin ſhall take him by the heel, and the robber ſhall prevail againſt him.

10 The ſnare is laid for him in the ground, and a trap for him in the way.

11 Terrors ſhall make him afraid on every ſide, and ſhall drive him to his feet.

12 His ſtrength ſhall be hunger-bitten, and deſtruction ſhall be ready at his ſide.

13 It ſhall devour the ſtrength of his ſkin: even the firſt-born of death ſhall devour his ſtrength.

14 His confidence ſhall be rooted out of his tabernacle, and it ſhall bring him to the king of terrors.

15 It ſhall dwell in his tabernacle, becauſe it is none of his: brimſtone ſhall be ſcattered upon his habitation.

16 His roots ſhall be dried up beneath, and above ſhall his branch be cut off.

17 His remembrance ſhall periſh from the earth, and he ſhall have no name in the ſtreet.

18 He ſhall be driven from light into darkneſs, and chaſed out of the world.

19 He ſhall neither have ſon nor nephew among his people, nor any remaining in his dwellings.

20 They that come after him ſhall be aſtoniſhed at his day, as they that went before were affrighted.

---

14 I have ſaid to corruption, Thou art my father, &c.] I have made ſo ſtrict an alliance with death, that corruption and the worm are my neareſt relations. Patrick.

16 They ſhall go down to the bars of the pit, &c.] All the hopes you flatter me with ſhall ſink to the bottom of the grave, when you, my friends, as well as I, take up our lodging in the duſt.

Notes on the Eighteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then anſwered Bildad the Shuhite.] Bildad again takes up the diſpute, though he adds nothing to what had been offered before by himſelf and his friends: but expreſſes great indignation for the contempt he had expreſſed of their wiſdom. Patrick.

4 Shall the earth be forſaken for thee?] Septuagint reads, If you die will the earth be uninhabited? will the hills be thrown down from their foundations? Wall.

5 Yea, the light of the wicked ſhall be put out, &c.] The wicked man ſhall not continue for ever in his ſplendor; nor ſhall any part of his wealth, honour, and power remain to comfort him.

6 The light ſhall be dark in his tabernacle, and his candle ſhall be put out with him.] The glory of his family ſhall be turned into contempt, and all their joy into mourning.

12 His ſtrength ſhall be hunger-bitten.] He ſhall pine away till he has no ſtrength.

13 It ſhall devour the ſtrength of his ſkin; the firſt-born of death, &c.] Rottenneſs ſhall eat up his bones. Patrick.

15 It ſhall dwell in his tabernacle, becauſe it is none of his: brimſtone ſhall be ſcattered upon his habitation.] Some read, want ſhall dwell in the tabernacle not his own; thunder and lightning ſhall deſtroy his habitation.

18 He ſhall be driven from light into darkneſs, &c.] He ſhall be thrown from his ſplendid greatneſs into ſome obſcure grave.

20 They that come after him ſhall be aſtoniſhed at his day, as they that went before were affrighted.] Future generations ſhall read with aſtoniſhment the ſeverity of his puniſhment, as thoſe who ſaw it were ſeized with horror. Patrick.

21 Surely such are the dwellings of the wicked, and this is the place of him that knoweth not God.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Job complaining of his friends cruelty, sheweth there is misery enough in him to feed their cruelty. 21 He craveth pity. 25 He believeth the resurrection.

THEN Job answered and said,

2 How long will ye vex my soul, and break me in pieces with words?

3 These ten times have ye reproached me: ye are not ashamed that ye make your selves strange to me.

4 And be it indeed that I have erred, mine error remaineth with my self.

5 If indeed ye will magnify your selves against me, and plead against me my reproach:

6 Know now that God hath overthrown me, and hath compassed me with his net.

7 Behold, I cry out of wrong, but I am not heard: I cry aloud, but there is no judgement.

8 He hath fenced up my way that I cannot pass, and he hath set darkness in my paths.

9 He hath stripped me of my glory, and taken the crown from my head.

10 He hath destroyed me on every side, and I am gone: and mine hope hath he removed like a tree.

11 He hath also kindled his wrath against me, and he counteth me unto him as one of his enemies.

12 His troops come together, and raise up their way against me, and encamp round about my tabernacle.

13 He hath put my brethren far from me, and mine acquaintance are verily estranged from me.

14 My kinsfolk have failed, and my familiar friends have forgotten me.

15 They that dwell in my house, and mine maids, count me for a stranger: I am an alien in their sight.

16 I called my servant, and he gave me no answer; I intreated him with my mouth.

17 My breath is strange to my wife, though I intreated for the children's sake of my own body.

18 Yea, young children despised me; I arose, and they spake against me.

19 All my inwards friends abhorred me: and they whom I loved are turned against me.

20 My bone cleaveth to my skin, and to my flesh, and I am escaped with the skin of my teeth.

21 ¶ Have pity upon me, have pity upon me, O ye my friends: for the hand of God hath touched me.

22 Why do ye persecute me as God, and are not satisfied with my flesh?

23 Oh, that my words were now written, oh, that they were printed in a book!

24 That they were graven with an iron pen and lead, in the rock for ever!

25 ¶ For I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth.

26 And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God:

27 Whom I shall see for my self, and mine eyes shall behold, and not another; though my reins be consumed within me.

---

21 Surely such are the dwellings of the wicked, &c.] This, certainly, is a true description of the miserable state of the wicked: such is the abject condition of those who pay no honour to their Maker. Patrick.

Notes on the Nineteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then Job answered and said.] The purport of this chapter is to shew, that it would be sufficient for him also merely to repeat what he had before delivered, as they had done in ten discourses. And, to aggravate their cruelty, he adds several particulars, which represent his condition still more miserable than he had hitherto painted it; but at the same time declared, that he had now a glimmering hope, that God would at last take pity on his misery, and restore him to happiness.

10 My hope has he removed like a tree.] He has cut off my hope as a tree that is felled.

20 I am escaped with the skin of my teeth.] All the flesh I have left is only my lips to complain with.

23 Oh that my words were now written, &c.] There is a pleasure in observing the accomplishment of this passionate wish, and that in a higher sense than Job himself could have hoped for. Had his words been graven on a rock, they might have remained for some few ages; but in this divine poem they will live for ever. Peters.

25, 26, 27 I know that my Redeemer liveth, &c.] These words certainly relate to the resurrection of the body, and a future judgment; though some learned men have interpreted them of a temporal deliverance. That the Jews did believe that the bodies, at least of such remarkably pious men, should rise again, appears plainly from the translation of the last verse of the book of Job according to the LXX, which in their version runs thus; So Job died, being old and full of days; but it is written that he

28 But ye ſhould ſay, Why preſecute we him, ſeeing the root of the matter is found in me?

29 Be ye afraid of the ſword: for wrath bringeth the puniſhments of the ſword, that ye may know there is a judgement.

CHAP. XX.

Zophar ſheweth the ſtate and portion of the wicked.

THEN anſwered Zophar the Naamathite, and ſaid,

2 Therefore do my thoughts cauſe me to anſwer, and for this I make haſte.

3 I have heard the check of my reproach, and the ſpirit of my underſtanding cauſeth me to anſwer.

4 Knoweſt thou not this of old, ſince man was placed upon the earth,

5 That the triumphing of the wicked is ſhort, and the joy of the hypocrite but for a moment?

6 Though his excellency mount up to the heavens, and his head reach unto the clouds;

7 Yet he ſhall periſh for ever like his own dung: they which have ſeen him ſhall ſay, Where is he?

8 He ſhall fly away as a dream, and ſhall not be found: yea, he ſhall be chaſed away as a viſion of the night.

9 The eye alſo which ſaw him ſhall ſee him no more; neither ſhall his place any more behold him.

10 His children ſhall ſeek to pleaſe the poor, and his hands ſhall reſtore their goods.

11 His bones are full of the ſin of his youth, which ſhall lie down with him in the duſt.

12 Though wickedneſs be ſweet in his mouth, though he hide it under his tongue;

13 Though he ſpare it, and forſake it not; but keep it ſtill within his mouth:

14 Yet his meat in his bowels is turned, it is the gall of aſps within him.

15 He hath ſwallowed down riches, and he ſhall vomit them up again: God ſhall caſt them out of his belly.

16 He ſhall ſuck the poiſon of aſps: the viper's tongue ſhall ſlay him.

17 He ſhall not ſee the rivers, the floods, the brooks of honey and butter.

18 That which he laboured for ſhall he reſtore, and ſhall not ſwallow it down: according to his ſubſtance ſhall the reſtitution be, and he ſhall not rejoice therein.

19 Becauſe he hath oppreſſed, and hath forſaken the poor; becauſe he hath violently taken away an houſe which he builded not;

20 Surely he ſhall not feel quietneſs in his belly, he ſhall not ſave of that which he deſired.

21 There ſhall none of his meat be left; therefore ſhall no man look for his goods.

22 In the fulneſs of his ſufficiency he ſhall be in ſtraits: every hand of the wicked ſhall come upon him.

ſhall riſe again with thoſe whom the Lord raiſes up. To tranſcribe the names of Chriſtian commentators who follow this interpretation would fill a page: I ſhall therefore only lay before the reader a literal tranſlation and paraphraſe, which the learned and ingenious Mr. Peters has given of this paſſage in his Critical Diſſertation on the Book of Job. The tranſlation runs literally thus, without altering the order of the words; I know my Vindicator living, and at the laſt over the duſt he ſhall ariſe: and after my ſkin (they) have deſtroyed this, alſo from my fleſh I ſhall ſee God: Whom I ſhall ſee for myſelf; and mine eyes ſhall behold, and not another, or a ſtranger. I know the Vindicator, or Avenger of my innocence and reputation, whom you have thus inhumanly attacked, now liveth, and ſhall live for ever; and that in ſome grand future period he ſhall ariſe to judge the dead. And though after my ſkin, which you ſee ſo miſerably affected, this whole frame ſhall be diſſolved and turned to duſt; yet I believe that I ſhall live again hereafter, as truly and certainly as I do now, and ſhall appear perſonally before my judge; whom I ſhall ſee for myſelf, or in my own cauſe, prepared to do me juſtice; and conſcious of my innocence, ſhall look up to him with joy and hope, while others, my accuſers, unable to behold him, ſhall look down with ſhame and confuſion. Critical Diſſertation, p. 202 and 208.

Notes on the Twentieth Chapter.

Ver. 6, 7 Though his excellency mount up to the heavens, &c.] Though he ſhould be advanced to the higheſt pinnacle of human greatneſs, and riſe above the reſt of mankind as much as the lofty cedar of the mountains exceeds in height the humble herbage of the vale; yet he ſhall fall as low as his own dunghill, and like it be caſt out for ever with contempt: they who knew him in his flouriſhing condition ſhall be aſtoniſhed at his ruin, and aſk, with terror and amazement, what is become of him?

11 His bones are full of the ſin of his youth.] This expreſſion ſeems directly to aſſert, that there is a puniſhment that attends the wicked in a future ſtate: ſee a parallel expreſſion in Ezek. xxxii. 27, of mighty warriors buried with great military pomp, and their ſwords laid under their heads; but their iniquities ſhall be upon their bones, though they were the terror of the mighty in the land of the living. Peters.

14 The gall of aſps.] i. e. Of adders. Lamy.

17 Brooks of honey and butter.] The LXX more properly read, He ſhall not ſee the milking of his ewes, the food of honey and butter. Wall.

23 When he is about to fill his belly, God ſhall caſt the fury of his wrath upon him, and ſhall rain it upon him while he is eating.

24 He ſhall flee from the iron weapon, and the bow of ſteel ſhall ſtrike him through.

25 It is drawn, and cometh out of the body; yea, the glittering ſword cometh out of his gall: terrors are upon him.

26 All darkneſs ſhall be hid in his ſecret places; a fire not blown ſhall conſume him: it ſhall go ill with him that is left in his tabernacle.

27 The heaven ſhall reveal his iniquity; and the earth ſhall riſe up againſt him.

28 The increaſe of his houſe ſhall depart, and his goods ſhall flow away in the day of his wrath.

29 This is the portion of a wicked man from God, and the heritage appointed unto him by God.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Job ſheweth that even in the judgement of man he hath reaſon to be grieved. 7 Sometimes the wicked do ſo proſper as they deſpiſe God. 16 Sometimes their deſtruction is manifeſt. 23 The happy and the unhappy are alike in death.

BUT Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 Hear diligently my ſpeech, and let this be your conſolations.

3 Suffer me that I may ſpeak; and after that I have ſpoken, mock on.

4 As for me, is my complaint to man? and if it were ſo, why ſhould not my ſpirit be troubled?

5 Mark me, and be aſtoniſhed, and lay your hand upon your mouth.

6 Even when I remember, I am afraid, and trembling taketh hold on my fleſh.

7 ¶ Wherefore do the wicked live, become old, yea, are mighty in power?

8 Their ſeed is eſtabliſhed in their ſight with them, and their offſpring before their eyes.

9 Their houſes are ſafe from fear, neither is the rod of God upon them.

10 Their bull gendereth and faileth not; their cow calveth and caſteth not her calf.

11 They ſend forth their little ones like a flock, and their children dance.

12 They take the timbrel and harp, and rejoice at the ſound of the organ.

13 They ſpend their days in wealth, and in a moment go down to the grave.

14 Therefore they ſay unto God, Depart from us; for we deſire not the knowledge of thy ways.

15 What is the Almighty, that we ſhould ſerve him? and what profit ſhould we have if we pray unto him?

16 ¶ Lo, their good is not in their hand: the counſel of the wicked is far from me.

17 How oft is the candle of the wicked put out? and how oft cometh their deſtruction upon them? God diſtributeth ſorrows in his anger.

18 They are as ſtubble before the wind, and as chaff that the ſtorm carrieth away.

19 God layeth up his iniquity for his children: he rewardeth him, and he ſhall know it.

---

23 When he is about to fill his belly, God ſhall caſt the fury of his wrath upon him, &c.] God ſhall diſturb his enjoyments, and when he thinks himſelf moſt ſecure, it ſhall be poured from heaven like a torrent upon his head. Patrick.

27 The heaven ſhall reveal his iniquity: and the earth ſhall riſe up againſt him.] The thunders, lightnings, and tempeſts of heaven ſhall attack him to reveal his iniquity; and the wild beaſts of the earth ſhall make war againſt him. Patrick.

29 This is the portion of a wicked man from God, &c.] Thus will the Almighty deal with all the workers of iniquity.

Notes on the Twenty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 Job anſwered and ſaid.] Job, to bring the diſpute to a more ſpeedy iſſue, comes, after a ſhort preface, more cloſely to the point, not contenting himſelf merely with denying what they had ſaid, but proving from authentic hiſtories, that though God does ſometimes puniſh the wicked in an exemplary manner, yet this is not always the caſe, there being innumerable inſtances, where the vileſt of mortals have enjoyed every ſatisfaction this world was capable of affording, and left at their death large poſſeſſions to their children. In ſhort, that the proceedings of Providence, with regard to the puniſhment of the wicked in this world, are various, and conſequently, that no general rule can from thence be drawn. Patrick.

9 Their houſes are ſafe from fear.] i. e. Of the incurſions of robbers, we may ſuppoſe, or the depredations of the neighbouring clans, ſo uſual in thoſe antient times, and of which Job had felt the miſchievous effects.

13 In a moment go down to the grave.] They do not lie languiſhing on a bed of ſickneſs or pain, but paſs ſuddenly and with eaſe to the grave.

16 Lo, their good is not in their hand.] Having deſcribed the proſperity which wicked men ſometimes enjoy, he proceeds on the other hand to confeſs, that ſome of them were as remarkably diſtinguiſhed for their wretchedneſs: don't think, ſays he, that I am in opinion with the wicked, that their proſperity is in their own power: no, the counſel of the wicked is far from me. Peters.

17 How oft is the candle of the wicked put out, &c.] How oft is the joy of the wicked extinguiſhed.

20 His eyes ſhall ſee his deſtruction, and he ſhall drink of the wrath of the Almighty.

21 For what pleaſure hath he in his houſe after him, when the number of his months is cut off in the midſt?

22 Shall any teach God knowledge? ſeeing he judgeth thoſe that are high.

23 ¶ One dieth in his full ſtrength, being wholly at eaſe and quiet.

24 His breaſts are full of milk, and his bones are moiſtened with marrow.

25 And another dieth in the bitterneſs of his ſoul, and never eateth with pleaſure.

26 They ſhall lie down alike in the duſt, and the worms ſhall cover them.

27 Behold, I know your thoughts, and the devices which ye wrongfully imagine againſt me.

28 For ye ſay, Where is the houſe of the prince? and where are the dwelling places of the wicked?

29 Have ye not aſked them that go by the way? and do ye not know their tokens?

30 That the wicked is reſerved to the day of deſtruction; they ſhall be brought forth to the day of wrath.

31 Who ſhall declare his way to his face? and who ſhall repay him what he hath done.

32 Yet ſhall he be brought to the grave, and ſhall remain in the tomb.

33 The clods of the valley ſhall be ſweet unto him, and every man ſhall draw after him as there are innumerable before him.

34 How then comfort ye me in vain, ſeeing in your anſwers there remaineth falſhood?

CHAP. XXII.

1 Eliphaz ſheweth that man's goodneſs profiteth not God. 5 He accuſeth Job of divers ſins. 21 He exorteth him to repentance, with promiſes of mercy.

THEN Eliphaz the Temanite anſwered and ſaid,

2 Can a man be profitable unto God, as he that is wiſe may be profitable unto himſelf?

3 Is it any pleaſure to the Almighty, that thou art righteous? or is it gain to him that thou makeſt thy ways perfect?

4 Will he reprove thee for fear of thee? will he enter with thee into judgement?

5 Is not thy wickedneſs great? and thine iniquities infinite?

6 ¶ For thou haſt taken a pledge from thy brother for nought, and ſtripped the naked of their clothing.

7 Thou haſt not given water to the weary to drink, and thou haſt with-holden bread from the hungry.

8 But as for the mighty man, he had the earth; and the honourable man dwelt in it.

9 Thou haſt ſent widows away empty, and the arms of the fatherleſs have been broken.

10 Therefore ſnares are round about thee, and ſudden fear troubleth thee;

11 Or darkneſs, that thou canſt not ſee; and abundance of waters cover thee.

12 Is not God in the height of heaven? and behold the height of the ſtars, how high they are!

13 And thou ſayeſt, How doth God know? can he judge through the dark cloud?

14 Thick clouds are a covering to him, that he ſeeth not; and he walketh in the circuit of heaven.

15 Haſt thou marked the old way which wicked men have troden?

---

22 Shall any teach God knowledge? &c.] Will you preſume to cenſure or correct the method of God's providence, or preſcribe laws to the great Judge of the world? It is evident that good and evil are diſpenſed by him, for the moſt part, without any exact regard to the good or ill deſerts of men; and this during the whole period of human life, from the cradle to the grave. The inference is plainly this, that there is a future ſtate to be expected, where all theſe irregularities ſhall be adjuſted: The wicked is reſerved to the day of deſtruction, i. e. the day of judgment. Peters.

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite anſwered.] Eliphaz ſtill continues to diſpute, though he has no new argument to offer. He indeed draws up a catalogue of the moſt pernicious crimes, and boldly declares, that Job muſt have been guilty of them, becauſe he was puniſhed in ſo exemplary a manner; founding his argument upon the ſame baſis as before, namely, that only the wicked are puniſhed. Patrick.

13, 14 Thou ſayeſt, how doth God know? &c.] Perhaps thou fancieſt, that becauſe God is at ſo great a diſtance, he doth not regard the tranſactions here below, or that the clouds hide them from his ſight; but he walketh in the circuit of heaven; i. e. he is eſſentially preſent every where, beholding all the actions of men, and reſolving to reward every one accord to his works. Clark.

15 Haſt thou marked the old way which wicked men have trodden?] Haſt thou forgotten the paths followed by the atheiſtical inhabitants of the old world, who ran licentiouſly into every kind of wickedneſs? Patrick.

16 Which were cut down out of time, whoſe foundation was overflown with a flood:

17 Which ſaid unto God, Depart from us: and what can the Almighty do for them?

18 Yet he filled their houſes with good things: but the counſel of the wicked is far from me.

19 The righteous ſee it, and are glad: and the innocent laugh them to ſcorn.

20 Whereas our ſubſtance is not cut down, but the remnant of them the fire conſumeth.

21 ¶ Acquaint now thy ſelf with him, and be at peace: thereby good ſhall come unto thee.

22 Receive, I pray thee, the law from his mouth, and lay up his words in thine heart.

23 If thou return to the Almighty, thou ſhalt be built up, thou ſhalt put away iniquity far from thy tabernacles.

24 Then ſhalt thou lay up gold as duſt, and the gold of Ophir as the ſtones of the brooks.

25 Yea, the Almighty ſhall be thy defence, and thou ſhalt have plenty of ſilver.

26 For then ſhalt thou have thy delight in the Almighty, and ſhalt lift up thy face unto God.

27 Thou ſhalt make thy prayer unto him, and he ſhall hear thee, and thou ſhalt pay thy vows.

28 Thou ſhalt alſo decree a thing, and it ſhall be eſtabliſhed unto thee: and the light ſhall ſhine upon thy ways.

29 When men are caſt down, then thou ſhalt ſay, There is lifting up; and he ſhall ſave the humble perſon.

30 He ſhall deliver the iſland of the innocent: and it is delivered by the pureneſs of thine hands.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Job longeth to appear before God, 6 in confidence of his mercy. 8 God, who is inviſible, obſerveth our ways. 11 Job's innocency. 13 God's decree is immutable.

THEN Job anſwered and ſaid,

2 Even to day is my complaint bitter: my ſtroke is heavier than my groaning.

3 Oh, that I knew where I might find him! that I might come even to his ſeat!

4 I would order my cauſe before him, and fill my mouth with arguments.

5 I would know the words which he would anſwer me, and underſtand what he would ſay unto me.

6 Will he plead againſt me with his great power? No; but he will put ſtrength in me.

7 There the righteous might diſpute with him; ſo ſhould I be delivered for ever from my judge.

8 ¶ Behold, I go forward, but he is not there; and backward, but I cannot perceive him:

9 On the left hand, where he doth work, but I cannot behold him: he hideth himſelf on the right hand, that I cannot ſee him:

10 But he knoweth the way that I take: when he hath tried me, I ſhall come forth as gold.

11 ¶ My foot hath held his ſteps, his way have I kept, and not declined.

12 Neither have I gone back from the com-

16 Whoſe foundation was overflown with a flood.] Schultens renders this paſſage, their foundation is a flood poured out; which is one of the boldeſt images, and moſt poetical beauties, in any language. In order to have a tolerable conception of this image, and a taſte of its beauty, you muſt ſuppoſe a torrent of waters ruſhing in broken cataracts, and with impetuous rapidity, from a ſteep and craggy mountain. Then imagine to yourſelf an edifice built upon the ſurge of this rolling precipice, having no other baſis than one of thoſe headlong, whirling waves---Surely there was never ſuch a repreſentation of tranſitory proſperity, tending to ruin with inconceivable ſwiftneſs. Yet ſuch is every ſpecies of human felicity, that is not founded on the firm baſis of religion and virtue. Hervey's Med.

20 The remnant of them the fire conſumeth.] Or, ſhall conſume: this ſome refer to the judgment of God upon Sodom and Gomorrah; but it is moſt natural to underſtand it of the laſt general conflagration. Peters.

29, 30 When men are caſt down, then thou ſhalt ſay, there is lifting up, &c.] The LXX read, Becauſe thou humbleſt thyſelf: and thou ſhalt ſay, He hath ſet me on high; and he will ſave the humble perſon. He will deliver the innocent; and thou ſhalt be ſafe with the innocency of thy hands. None but our tranſlation has any mention of an iſland. Wall.

Notes on the Twenty-third Chapter.

Ver. 1 Job anſwered.] Job again appeals to God, by whom he deſires, more earneſtly than ever, to be tried, being ſatisfied that he ſhould be acquitted at his equitable tribunal.

10 When he hath tried me, I ſhall come forth as gold.] When he hath tried me by afflictions and approved me, I ſhall be cleared from all theſe imputations.

11 My foot hath held his ſteps, &c.] I have always followed very religiouſly his directions; nor has any temptation ever made me ſwerve from his commandments.

mandment of his lips, I have esteemed the words of his mouth more than my necessary food.

13 ¶ But he is in one mind, and who can turn him? and what his soul desireth, even that he doeth.

14 For he performeth the thing that is appointed for me: and many such things are with him.

15 Therefore am I troubled at his presence: when I consider, I am afraid of him.

16 For God maketh my heart soft, and the Almighty troubleth me:

17 Because I was not cut off before the darkness, neither hath he covered the darkness from my face.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Wickedness goeth often unpunished. 17 There is a secret judgement for the wicked.

WHY, seeing times are not hidden from the Almighty, do they that know him not see his days?

2 Some remove the land-marks; they violently take away flocks, and feed thereof.

3 They drive away the ass of the fatherless, they take the widow's ox for a pledge.

4 They turn the needy out of the way: the poor of the earth hide themselves together.

5 Behold, as wild asses in the desert, go they forth to their work, rising betimes for a prey: the wilderness yieldeth food for them and for their children.

6 They reap every one his corn in the field: and they gather the vintage of the wicked.

7 They cause the naked to lodge without clothing, that they have no covering in the cold.

8 They are wet with the showers of the mountains, and embrace the rock for want of a shelter.

9 They pluck the fatherless from the breast, and take a pledge of the poor.

10 They cause him to go naked without clothing, and they take away the sheaf from the hungry;

11 Which make oil within their walls, and tread their wine-presses, and suffer thirst.

12 Men groan from out of the city, and the soul of the wounded crieth out: yet God layeth not folly to them.

13 They are of those that rebel against the light; they know not the ways thereof, nor abide in the paths thereof.

14 The murderer rising with the light, killeth the poor and needy, and in the night is as a thief.

15 The eye also of the adulterer waiteth for the twilight, saying, No eye shall see me: and disguiseth his face.

16 In the dark they dig through houses, which they had marked for themselves in the day-time: they know not the light.

17 ¶ For the morning is to them even as the shadow of death: if one know them, they are in the terrors of the shadow of death.

18 He is swift as the waters; their portion is cursed in the earth: he beholdeth not the way of the vineyards.

19 Drought and heat consume the snow-waters: so doth the grave those which have sinned.

20 The tomb shall forget him, the worm shall feed sweetly on him; he shall be no more remembered: and wickedness shall be broken as a tree.

---

13 He is in one mind, and who can turn him?] All my care to walk in his statutes will not move him to relieve me: he steadily pursues his purpose; nor can any divert him from it, nor hinder it from being fulfilled. Patrick.

17 Because I was not cut off before the darkness, neither hath he covered the darkness from my face.] Still he supports me under all my miseries, and denies me the comfort of dying by that hand which strikes me so severely. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Why, seeing times are not hidden from the Almighty, do they that know him not see his days?] If, as you maintain, the Almighty's punishment of the wicked is so visible, why do not the truly virtuous see and acknowledge these open judgments? Patrick.

5 As wild asses in the desert go they forth.] Part of this chapter, particularly this and the following verses, seem to allude the wild Arabs whose profession is rapine, and yet they prosper by it.

13 That rebel against the light.] That look upon the light as their enemy.

18 He is swift as the waters.] The pirate who robs upon the sea in swift ships despises the labours of those who plant vineyards. Patrick.

19 Drought and heat consume the snow-waters: so doth the grave, &c.] The wicked go down as easily to the grave, as the snow-water, when melted by the sun, sinks into the thirsty soil. Patrick.

20 The womb shall forget him, &c.] He bears no such marks of the Divine displeasure, as to cause his mother to remember him with regret: he is carried to his grave like other men, and the worm feeds as sweetly upon him. There he rests in quiet,

and

21 He evil-entreateth the barren that beareth not, and doeth not good to the widow.

22 He draweth also the mighty with his power: he riseth up, and no man is sure of life.

23 Though it be given him to be in safety, whereon he resteth; yet his eyes are upon their ways.

24 They are exalted for a little while, but are gone and brought low; they are taken out of the way as all other, and cut off as the tops of the ears of corn.

25 And if it be not so now, who will make me a liar, and make my speech nothing worth?

CHAP. XXV.

Bildad sheweth that man cannot be justified before God.

THEN answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

2 Dominion and fear are with him, he maketh peace in his high places.

3 Is there any number of his armies? and upon whom doth not his light arise?

4 How then can man be justified with God? or how can he be clean that is born of a woman?

5 Behold, even to the moon, and it shineth not; yea, the stars are not pure in his sight:

6 How much less man, that is a worm; and the son of man, which is a worm.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Job reproving the uncharitable spirit of Bildad, 5 acknowledgeth the power of God to be infinite and unsearchable.

BUT Job answered and said,

2 How hast thou helped him that is without power; how savest thou the arm that hath no strength?

3 How hast thou counselled him that hath no wisdom? and how hast thou plentifully declared the thing as it is?

4 To whom thou hast uttered words? and whose spirit came from thee?

5 Dead things are formed from under the waters, and the inhabitants thereof.

6 Hell is naked before him, and destruction hath no covering.

7 He stretcheth out the north over the empty place, and hangeth the earth upon nothing.

8 He bindeth up the waters in his thick clouds; and the cloud is not rent under them.

9 He holdeth back the face of his throne, and spreadeth his cloud upon it.

10 He hath compassed the waters with bounds, until the day and night come to an end.

11 The pillars of heaven tremble, and are astonished at his reproof.

12 He divideth the sea with his power, and by his understanding he smiteth through the proud.

13 By his spirit he hath garnished the heavens; his hand hath formed the crooked serpent.

---

and both him and his wickedness are forgotten, as a tree broken to shivers. Patrick.

22 He raiseth up, and no man is sure of life.] When he rises to assassinate, no man, though ever so strong, is sure of escaping.

Notes on the Twenty-fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then answered Bildad.] Bildad, being unable to refute what Job had said, declines the dispute, and only advises him to speak with greater reverence of God.

3 Is there any number of his armies?] Hath not he myriads of angels ready to execute his pleasure?

5, 6 Behold, even to the moon, and it shineth not; yea, the stars are not pure in his sight.] So inconceivably holy is the Lord of hosts, that he sees defilement even in the brightness of the firmament. Those living sapphires, before his Majesty, lose their lustre: how much less man, who in his fallen state, is as a worm that delights in putrefaction! Harvey.

Notes on the Twenty-sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Job answered.] Job, perceiving Bildad wandered so far from the matter in dispute, derides his affectation of wisdom, and shews his discourse was equally mean and impertinent.

2, 3, 4] The LXX seem to give these three verses a more emphatical meaning than our translation. 2. On whose side dost thou stand to help him? is it not on his who has a great strength and a powerful arm? 3. Whom hast thou counselled but him who has all wisdom? whose follower wilt thou be? wilt thou not be his who has the greatest power? 4. For whom hast thou uttered words? for him whose breath it is that comes out of thee? Wall.

5 Dead things are formed from under the water, &c.] This is an unhappy translation of a very noble passage. The Vulgate reads, the giants groan from under the waters, &c. The word rendered dead things never has that meaning, but here signifies the ghosts of those giants, or men mighty in wickedness, who were overwhelmed by the flood: the meaning therefore seems to be this: shall the rephaim or manes of the giants be brought forth again from under the waters with which they were overwhelmed at the flood? or those wicked souls that have been since gathered to their assembly? Peters.

9 He holdeth back the face of his throne.] It should be, he upholdeth his throne, i. e. the sky.

11 The pillars of heaven tremble, and are astonished at his reproof.] The mountains tremble when his thunders assault them.

13 By his spirit he hath garnished the heavens; his hand hath formed

14 Lo, these are parts of his ways: but how little a portion is heard of him? but the thunder of his power who can understand?

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Job protesteth his sincerity. 8 The hypocrite is without hope. 11 The blessings which the wicked have are turned into curses.

MOreover Job continued his parable, and said,

2 As God liveth, who hath taken away my judgement; and the Almighty who hath vexed my soul:

3 All the while my breath is in me, and the spirit of God is in my nostrils;

4 My lips shall not speak wickedness, nor my tongue utter deceit.

5 God forbid that I should justify you: till I die, I will not remove my integrity from me.

6 My righteousness I hold fast, and will not let it go: my heart shall not reproach me so long as I live.

7 Let mine enemy be as the wicked, and he that riseth up against me as the unrighteous.

8 ¶ For what is the hope of the hypocrite, though he hath gained, when God taketh away his soul?

9 Will God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?

10 Will he delight himself in the Almighty? will he always call upon God?

11 ¶ I will teach you by the hand of God: that which is with the Almighty will I not conceal.

12 Behold, all ye yourselves have seen it; why then are ye thus altogether vain?

13 This is the portion of a wicked man with God, and the heritage of oppressors which they shall receive of the Almighty.

14 If his children be multiplied, it is for the sword: and his offspring shall not be satisfied with bread.

15 Those that remain of him shall be buried in death: and his widows shall not weep.

16 Though he heap up silver as the dust, and prepare raiment as the clay;

17 He may prepare it, but the just shall put it on, and the innocent shall divide the silver.

18 He buildeth his house as a moth, and as a booth that the keeper maketh.

19 The rich man shall lie down, but he shall not be gathered: he openeth his eyes, and he is not.

20 Terrors take hold on him as waters, a tempest stealeth him away in the night.

21 The east-wind carrieth him away, and he departeth: and as a storm hurleth him out of his place.

22 For God shall cast upon him, and not spare: he would fain flee out of his hand.

23 Men shall clap their hands at him, and shall hiss him out of his place.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 There is a knowledge of natural things. 12 But wisdom is an excellent gift of God.

---

formed the crooked serpent.] He hath adorned the heavens with innumerable stars, and by his wisdom he formed that large constellation called the Serpent.

14 Lo, these are parts of his ways.] Job, after thus describing several wonderful works of the Almighty, as they are scattered through universal nature, from the heights of heaven to the very depths of hell, closes the magnificent account with this noble acknowledgment, Lo, these are parts of his ways: or, as the original word more literally signifies, these are only the skirts, the very outermost borders of his works; no more than a small preface to the immense volume of the creation. Hervey's Med.

Notes on the Twenty-seventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Job continued his parable.] The word parable signifies a powerful, or commanding sentence or speech; and here means, that Job proceeded in a triumphant way of speech, like one who had the better of his argument. Peters.

6 My heart shall not reproach.] Job does not say that he shall be free from sin, but only those great crimes of which he had been accused.

8 What is the hope of the hypocrite---when God taketh away his soul?] It is madness for a man to counterfeit piety; for though he may accumulate riches by such deceit, yet how dreadful will be his portion in the other world?

10 Will he always call upon God?] Will he not despair of protection, and therefore cease to call upon his Maker? Patrick.

18 He buildeth his house like a moth, and as a booth that the keeper maketh.] He buildeth a costly structure, but is as easily deprived of it as a moth is shaken out of a garment: it is no more durable than a shady booth which the keeper of a garden buildeth. Patrick.

19 The rich man shall lie down, but he shall not be gathered: he openeth his eyes, and he is not.] i. e. The wicked rich man shall die, but shall not be gathered to the assembly of good and pious souls: he openeth his eyes in the other world, and finds himself quite lost and miserable. Peters.

20 Terrors take hold on him as waters, a tempest stealeth him away in the night.] Terrors innumerable, like an overflowing stream, break in upon him; the Divine vengeance, like a sudden tempest, hurries him away unexpectedly. Patrick.

Notes

SURELY, there is a vein for the silver, and a place for gold where they fine it.

2 Iron is taken out of the earth, and brass is molten out of the stone.

3 He setteth an end to darkness and searcheth out all perfection; the stones of darkness and the shadow of death.

4 The flood breaketh out from the inhabitant; even the waters forgotten of the foot: they are dried up, they are gone away from men.

5 As for the earth, out of it cometh bread: and under it is turned up as it were fire.

6 The stones of it are the place of sapphires; and it hath dust of gold.

7 There is a path which no fowl knoweth, and which the vulture's eye hath not seen:

8 The lion's whelps have not troden it, nor the fierce lion passed by it.

9 He putteth forth his hand upon the rock; he overturneth the mountains by the roots.

10 He cutteth out rivers among the rocks; and his eye seeth every precious thing.

11 He bindeth the floods from overflowing; and the thing that is hid bringeth he forth to light.

12 ¶ But where shall wisdom be found? and where is the place of understanding?

13 Man knoweth not the price thereof; neither is it found in the land of the living.

14 The depth saith, It is not in me: and the sea saith, It is not with me.

15 It cannot be gotten for gold, neither shall silver be weighed for the price thereof.

16 It cannot be valued with the gold of Ophir, with the precious onyx, or the sapphire.

17 The gold and the crystal cannot equal it: and the exchange of it shall not be for jewels of fine gold.

18 No mention shall be made of coral, or of pearls: for the price of wisdom is above rubies.

19 The topaz of Ethiopia shall not equal it, neither shall it be valued with pure gold.

20 Whence then cometh wisdom? and where is the place of understanding?

21 Seeing it is hid from the eyes of all living, and kept close from the fowls of the air.

22 Destruction and death say, We have heard the fame thereof with our ears.

23 God understandeth the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof.

24 For he looketh to the ends of the earth, and seeth under the whole heaven;

25 To make the weight for the winds; and he weigheth the waters by measure.

26 When he made a decree for the rain,

Notes on the Twenty-eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Surely there is a vein for silver, &c.] Perhaps you expect a reason why some wicked men are punished, while others escape; but this is a secret mankind, though they have found mines of silver and gold, must not hope to discover; the Almighty has reserved it to himself. Patrick.

3 He setteth an end to darkness, &c.] i. e. Man hath set an end to darkness, and an extremity to all, or to the universe: He searcheth out the stone of darkness, and of the shadow of death. He digs into another world, as it were, for gold and precious stones. Peters.

4 The flood, &c.] Mr. Peters translates the verse literally thus, The flood interrupts from the stranger: forgotten of the foot; they appear less than men; they are tossed. This seems an instance of the daring spirit, and ingenuity of mankind: how they cross the broad rivers and arms of the sea for commerce; where there is no path for the foot of man, i. e. their feet forget them, or are no longer serviceable; they lessen to the sight as they go farther from the shore, and are tossed upon the waves. A very lively and beautiful image!

5 As for the earth, out of it cometh bread, &c.] The surface of the earth produces corn, and vegetables for the subsistence of man; and its bowels sulphur, naphtha, and other combustibles.

6 The stones of it are the place of sapphires, &c.] He visits countries in whose stones are sapphires, and whose dust is as precious as gold; or as in the margin, gold ore.

7 A path which no fowl knoweth, and which the vulture's eye hath not seen.] There is scarce any thing so concealed but what the industry of man hath brought to light; wisdom only excepted. Peters.

9 He putteth forth his hand upon the rock, &c.] He digs through the hardest rocks, and searcheth for treasures in the bowels of the mountains. Patrick.

12 But where shall wisdom be found? &c.] But however successful he may be in these researches, he must not hope to comprehend the mysteries of Providence; nor discover the reason why the wicked, who insolently contemn their Maker, are not punished in this world. Patrick.

13 Man knoweth not the price, &c.] This wisdom is not to be purchased by riches; nor can it be found among men.

18 The price of wisdom is above rubies.] The Hebrew signifies pearls, which are fished up out of the sea: the passage might therefore be better translated thus, It is a greater treasure to get wisdom, than to fish up pearls out of the bottom of the sea. Lamy.

22 Destruction and death say, &c.] Destruction and death must mean the dead; the generation of men, says Job, who have lived before us, and are now gone to the regions of the dead, these have told us, we have heard the hearing thereof with our ears; i. e. we have had something relating to this question about wisdom handed down to us by tradition from our forefathers. This must be the meaning from the great regard which is paid by every speaker, in every speech, to what was taught them by their ancestors. Peters.

and a way for the lightning of the thunder:

27 Then did he see it, and declare it; he prepared it, yea, and searched it out.

28 And unto man he said, Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is, wisdom; and to depart from evil is understanding.

CHAP. XXIX.

Job bemoaneth himself of his former prosperity and honour.

MOreover, Job continued his parable, and said,

2 Oh, that I were as in months past, as in the days when God preserved me;

3 When his candle shined upon my head, and when by his light I walked through darkness;

4 As I was in the days of my youth, when the secret of God was upon my tabernacle;

5 When the Almighty was yet with me, when my children were about me;

6 When I washed my steps with butter, and the rock poured me out rivers of oil;

7 When I went out to the gate through the city, when I prepared my seat in the street.

8 The young men saw me, and hid themselves; and the aged arose, and stood up.

9 The princes refrained talking, and laid their hand on their mouth.

10 The nobles held their peace, and their tongue cleaved to the roof of their mouth.

11 When the ear heard me, then it blessed me; and when the eye saw me, it gave witness to me:

12 Because I delivered the poor that cried, and the fatherless, and him that had none to help him.

13 The blessing of him that was ready to perish came upon me: and I caused the widow's heart to sing for joy.

14 I put on righteousness, and it clothed me: my judgement was a robe and a diadem.

15 I was eyes to the blind, and feet was I to the lame.

16 I was a father to the poor: and the cause which I knew not I searched out.

17 And I brake the jaws of the wicked, and plucked the spoil out of his teeth.

18 Then I said, I shall die in my nest, and I shall multiply my days as the sand.

19 My root was spread out by the waters, and the dew lay all night upon my branch.

20 My glory was fresh in me, and my bow was renewed in my hand.

21 Unto me men gave ear, and waited, and kept silence at my counsel.

22 After my words they spake not again; and my speech dropped upon them.

23 And they waited for me as for the rain; and they opened their mouth wide, as for the latter rain.

24 If I laughed on them, they believed it

---

28 Unto man he said, Behold the fear of the Lord, &c.] If the opinion of learned men be well-grounded, that there was neither rain nor thunder before the fall of our first parents, then it follows that this Divine admonition to Adam, viz. the fear, &c. must be given after the fall; for God is said to give it, when he made a decree for the rain, &c. And if he accompanied this lesson of obedience with a display of his thunder in all its terrors, and this was the first time that Adam heard those awful sounds; what an impression must it make upon his heart? how could he chuse but remember it, and transmit it with care to posterity? and we have some reason to think, that this might be the case, as the law was delivered from mount Sinai, with the same awful solemnity. By wisdom here is to be understood, not Divine wisdom, but the wisdom proper for man, viz. the wisdom of religion: which when God revealed to Adam, no doubt but he at the same time explained it; for he saw it, and declared it, made it manifest, and prepared it, suited it to man, yea, and searched it out, thoroughly examined it, and behold, it was very good. Variorum.

Notes on the Twenty-ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Moreover, Job continued his parable, and said.] Job presumes his friends would have listened with greater attention to his discourses, had not the vileness of his present condition rendered his speech also contemptible; and therefore he desires them to remember with what reverence all his speeches were formerly received, by every class of people; wishing that God would restore him to his former prosperity, as he never abused his power, but always employed it to defend the poor and friendless from oppression, and force the wicked to restore what they had violently extorted from them.

4 When the secret of God was upon my tabernacle.] i. e. When that august assembly where God's counsels and decrees are passed, was held, as it were over my habitation; and it seemed to be his peculiar care to prosper me and my family. Peters.

6 I washed my steps in butter.] Rather, cream; a figurative expression, signifying his great plenty; see chap. xx. 17.

18 I shall die in my nest; I shall multiply my days as the sand.] Some think this alludes to the Phœnix, a bird which is supposed to live a thousand years, which number is signified by the sand, whose grains are innumerable.

19 My root was spread out by the waters, and the dew lay all night upon my branch.] I was like a tree whose roots extended along the margin of the waters, and whose boughs were perpetually moistened by the dews of heaven. Patrick.

22 My speech dropped upon them, &c.] Septuagint reads, They were overjoyed when I spoke; as the thirsty earth gapes for rain.

Notes

not; and the light of my countenance they caſt not down.

25 I choſe out their way, and ſat chief, and dwelt as a king in the army, as one that comforteth the mourners.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Job's honour is turned into extreme contempt; 15 his proſperity into calamity.

BUT now they that are younger than I have me in deriſion, whoſe fathers I would have diſdained to ſet with the dogs of my flock.

2 Yea, whereto might the ſtrength of their hands profit me, in whom old age was periſhed?

3 For want and famine they were ſolitary: fleeing into the wilderneſs in former time deſolate and waſte:

4 Who cut up mallows by the buſhes, and juniper-roots for their meat.

5 They were driven forth among men; they cried after them as after a thief;

6 To dwell in the clifts of the valleys, in caves of the earth, and in the rocks.

7 Among the buſhes they brayed; under the nettles they were gathered together.

8 They were children of fools, yea, children of baſe men: they were viler than the earth,

9 And now am I their ſong, yea, I am their by-word.

10 They abhor me, they flee far from me, and ſpare not to ſpit in my face.

11 Becauſe he hath looſed my cord, and afflicted me, they have alſo let looſe the bridle before me.

12 Upon my right hand riſe the youth, they puſh away my feet, and they raiſe up againſt me the ways of their deſtruction.

13 They marr my path, they ſet forward my calamity, they have no helper.

14 They came upon me as a wide breaking in of waters: in the deſolation they rolled themſelves upon me.

15 Terrors are turned upon me: they purſue my ſoul as the wind: and my welfare paſſeth away as a cloud.

16 And now my ſoul is poured out upon me; the days of affliction have taken hold upon me.

17 My bones are pierced in me in the night-ſeaſon: and my ſinews take no reſt.

18 By the great force of my diſeaſe is my garment changed: it bindeth me about as the collar of my coat.

19 He hath caſt me into the mire, and I am become like duſt and aſhes.

20 I cry unto thee, and thou doſt not hear me: I ſtand up, and thou regardeſt me not.

21 Thou art become cruel to me: with thy ſtrong hand thou oppoſeſt thy ſelf againſt me.

22 Thou lifteſt me up to the wind? thou cauſeſt me to ride upon it, and diſſolveſt my ſubſtance.

23 For I know that thou wilt bring me to death, and to the houſe appointed for all living.

24 Howbeit, he will not ſtretch out his hand to the grave, though they cry in his deſtruction.

25 Did not I weep for him that was in trouble? was not my ſoul grieved for the poor?

26 When I looked for good, then evil came unto me: and when I waited for light, there came darkneſs.

27 My bowels boiled, and reſted not: the days of affliction prevented me.

28 I went mourning without the ſun: I ſtood up, and I cried in the congregation.

29 I am a brother to dragons, and a companion to owls.

30 My ſkin is black upon me, and my bones are burned with heat.

31 My harp alſo is turned to mourning, and my organ into the voice of them that weep.

Notes on the Thirtieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 They that are younger than I, have me in deriſion, &c.] But now, alas! the youths who formerly beheld me with reverence, have the confidence to mock me; nay, even thoſe whoſe fathers I diſdained to employ in the vileſt ſervices, look upon me with diſdain. Patrick.

2 In whom old age was periſhed.] Who are more unactive and unfit for buſineſs than an old man ready to drop into the grave. Hebrew Concordance.

10 They ſpare not to ſpit in my face.] To ſpit before me, which was reckoned an indecency among the eaſtern nations, and therefore a mark of contempt. Raphelius.

22 Thou cauſeſt me to ride upon it.] To ride upon the wind here is to be toſſed about in it like ſtraw; meaning that he was violently ſhaken with his afflictions. Heb. Concord.

29 A brother to dragons, and a companion to owls.] I ſpend my time in lamentation, like one of thoſe mournful creatures which fill the barren waſtes with their doleful cries. Patrick.

Notes

CHAP. XXXI.

Job maketh a ſolemn proteſtation of his integrity in ſeveral duties.

I Made a covenant with mine eyes; why then ſhould I think upon a maid;

2 For what portion of God is there from above? and what inheritance of the Almighty from on high?

3 Is not deſtruction to the wicked? and a ſtrange puniſhment to the workers of iniquity?

4 Doth not he ſee my ways, and count all my ſteps?

5 If I have walked with vanity, or if my foot hath haſted to deceit;

6 Let me be weighed in an even balance, that God may know mine integrity.

7 If my ſtep hath turned out of the way, and mine heart walked after mine eyes, and if any blot hath cleaved to my hands;

8 Then let me ſow, and let another eat; yea, let my offſpring be rooted out.

9 If mine heart have been deceived by a woman, or if I have laid wait at my neighbour's door;

10 Then let my wife grind unto another; and let others bow down upon her.

11 For this is an henious crime; yea, it is an iniquity to be puniſhed by the judges.

12 For it is a fire that conſumeth to deſtruction, and would root out all mine increaſe.

13 If I did deſpiſe the cauſe of my manſervant or of my maid-ſervant, when they contended with me;

14 What then ſhall I do when God riſeth up? and when he viſiteth, what ſhall I anſwer him?

15 Did not he that made me in the womb, make him? and did not one faſhion us in the womb?

16 If I have with-held the poor from their deſire, or have cauſed the eyes of the widow to fail;

17 Or have eaten my morſel my ſelf alone, and the fatherleſs hath not eaten thereof;

18 (For from my youth hé was brought up with me as with a father, and I have guided her from my mother's womb;)

19 If I have ſeen any periſh for want of clothing, or any poor without covering;

20 If his loins have not bleſſed me, and if he were not warmed with the fleece of my ſheep;

21 If I have liſted up my hand againſt the fatherleſs, when I ſaw my help in the gate:

22 Then let mine arm fall from my ſhoulder-blade, and mine arm be broken from the bone.

23 For deſtruction from God was a terror to me, and by reaſon of his highneſs I could not endure.

24 If I have made gold my hope, or have ſaid to the fine gold, Thou art my confidence;

25 If I rejoiced becauſe my wealth was great, and becauſe mine hand had gotten much;

26 If I beheld the ſun when it ſhined, or the moon walking in brightneſs;

27 And my heart hath been ſecretly enticed, or my mouth hath kiſſed my hand:

Notes on the Thirty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1. I made a covenant with mine eyes; why then ſhould I think upon a maid?] I have been very careful to avoid even the occaſions of laſciviouſneſs; and therefore it cannot be thought I ever laid a ſcheme to corrupt a virgin.

2 For what portion of God is there from above?] For I well know that in heaven there is an Almighty Being, who created and governs all things, and what muſt I expect from him as the reward of ſuch impurity?

3 Is not deſtruction to the wicked?] It is plain Job muſt underſtand this deſtruction in another ſenſe than his antagoniſts did, viz. of their final retribution in a future ſtate: as he does likewiſe at the 14th verſe, What ſhall I do when God riſeth up? &c. i. e. when he ariſeth to judgment: he cannot mean this of a temporal viſitation; for he ſeems to think his condition ſo miſerable already, that it could not be more ſo, and therefore often wiſhes for death as the happieſt thing that could befal him. Peters.

17 Eaten my morſel by myſelf alone.] Dr. Shaw ſays it is now the cuſtom for the Arabs, when on a journey, after they have prepared their food to go to the higheſt ground in the neighbourhood, and call thrice aloud to all their brethren, the ſons of the faithful, to come and partake of it, though none are in view, nor perhaps within 100 miles of them: this cuſtom they think is an inſtance of their great benevolence and hoſpitality.

23 For deſtruction from God was a terror to me.] I was never ſo void of underſtanding as to think I could withſtand the Almighty's vengeance; the dread of it terrified me; knowing it was impoſſible for me to ſupport myſelf againſt his omnipotent arm. Patrick.

26, 27 If I beheld the ſun when it ſhined, &c.] If the majeſtic appearance of the ſun at his riſing, or the luſtre of the moon in her full brightneſs, inſpired me with an opinion that they were gods, or if I kiſſed mine hand in token of paying them reverence, the judges would puniſh ſo fearful a crime; for I ſhould have given the honour I owe my Maker to bodies formed by his own hand. Patrick.

28 This alſo were an iniquity to be puniſhed by the judge: for I ſhould have denied the God that is above.

29 If I rejoiced at the deſtruction of him that hated me, or lifted up my ſelf when evil found him:

30 Neither have I ſuffered my mouth to ſin, by wiſhing a curſe to his ſoul.

31 If the men of my tabernacle ſaid not, Oh, that we had of his fleſh! we cannot be ſatisfied.

32 The ſtranger did not lodge in the ſtreet: but I opened my doors to the traveller.

33 If I covered my tranſgreſſions, as Adam; by hiding mine iniquity in my boſom:

34 Did I fear a great multitude, or did the contempt of families terrify me; that I kept ſilence, and went not out of the door?

35 Oh, that one would hear me! behold, my deſire is that the Almighty would anſwer me, and that mine adverſary had written a book.

36 Surely I would take it upon my ſhoulder, and bind it as a crown to me.

37 I would declare unto him the number of my ſteps; as a prince would I go near unto him.

38 If my land cry againſt me, or that the furrows likewiſe thereof complain;

39 If I have eaten the fruits thereof without money, or have cauſed the owners thereof to loſe their life:

40 Let thiſtles grow inſtead of wheat, and cockle inſtead of barley. The words of Job are ended.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 Elihu is angry with Job and his three friends. 11 He reproveth them for not ſatisfying of Job. 16 His zeal to ſpeak.

SO theſe three men ceaſed to anſwer Job, becauſe he was righteous in his own eyes.

2 Then was kindled the wrath of Elihu the ſon of Barachel the Buzite, of the kindred of Ram: againſt Job was his wrath kindled, becauſe he juſtified himſelf rather than God.

3 Alſo againſt his three friends was his wrath kindled, becauſe they had found no anſwer, and yet had condemned Job.

4 Now Elihu had waited till Job had ſpoken becauſe they were elder than he.

5 When Elihu ſaw that there was no anſwer in the mouth of theſe three men, then his wrath was kindled.

6 And Elihu the ſon of Barachel the Buzite anſwered and ſaid, I am young, and ye are very old; wherefore I was afraid, and durſt not ſhew you mine opinion.

7 I ſaid, Days ſhould ſpeak, and multitude of years ſhould teach wiſdom.

8 But there is a ſpirit in man: and the inſpiration of the Almighty giveth them underſtanding.

9 Great men are not always wiſe; neither do the aged underſtand judgement.

10 Therefore I ſaid, Hearken to me; I alſo will ſhew mine opinion.

11 Behold, I waited for your words; I gave ear to your reaſons, whilſt ye ſearched out what to ſay.

12 Yea, I attended unto you: and behold, there was none of you that convinced Job, or that anſwered his words:

13 Leſt ye ſhould ſay, We have found out wiſdom: God thruſteth him down, not man.

14 Now he hath not directed his words againſt me: neither will I anſwer him with your ſpeeches.

31 Oh that we had of his fleſh.] Septuagint reads, Who will give us of his meat our belly full, whereas I was very kind to them. Wall.

32 The ſtranger did not lodge in the ſtreet.] Part of the antient hoſpitality conſiſted in lodging and entertaining ſtrangers.

34 Did I fear a great multitude?] Septuagint, For I did not fear a great multitude, ſo as not to confeſs it before them, if I ſuffered a poor man to go out of my door with an empty lap. Wall.

Notes on the Thirty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 2 Then was kindled the wrath of Elihu, &c.] He was the grandſon of Buz, the ſon of Nahor, who lived in the ſouthern parts of Meſopotamia. He had it ſeems liſtened attentively to the ſpeeches of Job and his three friends: but neither pleaſed him. His friends he thought too cenſorious, and Job too poſitive in the juſtification of himſelf. It muſt be granted, that though he was inferior to the reſt in years, yet he was much their ſuperior in knowledge; as appears from the judicious cenſures he paſſes, not only upon his three friends, but alſo upon Job himſelf: for though he does not pretend to charge him with any crime committed before his misfortunes, yet he ſhews he had not conducted the diſpute with that calmneſs and ſubmiſſion to God which became his piety. Patrick.

15 They were amazed; they answered no more; they left off speaking.

16 When I had waited; for they spake not, but stood still, and answered no more;

17 I said, I will answer also my part, I also will shew mine opinion.

18 For I am full of matter; the spirit within me constraineth me.

19 Behold, my belly is as wine which hath no vent, it is ready to burst like new bottles.

20 I will speak, that I may be refreshed: I will open my lips, and answer.

21 Let me not, I pray you, accept any man's person, neither let me give flattering titles unto man.

22 For I know not to give flattering titles: in so doing my maker would soon take me away.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 Elihu offereth himself instead of God with sincerity and meekness to reason with Job. 8 He excuseth God from giving man an account of his ways, by his greatness. 31 He inciteth Job to attention.

WHerefore, Job, I pray thee, hear my speeches, and hearken to all my words.

2 Behold, now I have opened my mouth, my tongue hath spoken in my mouth.

3 My words shall be of the uprightness of my heart; and my lips shall utter knowledge clearly.

4 The Spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life.

5 If thou canst answer me, set thy words in order before me, stand up.

6 Behold, I am according to thy wish in God's stead: I also am formed out of the clay.

7 Behold, my terror shall not make thee afraid, neither shall my hand be heavy upon thee.

8 Surely thou hast spoken in mine hearing, and I have heard the voice of thy words, saying,

9 I am clean without transgression, I am innocent; neither is there iniquity in me.

10 Behold, he findeth occasions against me, he counteth me for his enemy.

11 He putteth my feet in the stocks, he marketh all my paths.

12 Behold, in this thou art not just. I will answer thee, that God is greater than man.

13 Why dost thou strive against him? for he giveth not account of any of his matters.

14 For God speaketh once, yea, twice, yet man perceiveth it not.

15 In a dream, in a vision of the night, when deep sleep falleth upon men, in slumberings upon the bed;

16 Then he openeth the ears of men, and sealeth their instruction,

17 That he may withdraw man from his purpose, and hide pride from man.

18 He keepeth back his soul from the pit, and his life from perishing by the sword.

19 He is chastened also with pain upon his bed, and the multitude of his bones with strong pain:

20 So that his life abhorreth bread, and his soul dainty meat.

21 His flesh is consumed away that it cannot be seen; and his bones, that were not seen, stick out.

22 Yea, his soul draweth near unto the grave, and his life to the destroyers.

19 My belly is as wine which hath no vent, it is ready, &c.] The epithet new which the Hebrew puts to the bottles, seems more properly to belong to the wine; as it is in the Septuagint, according to our Saviour's parable of new wine put into old bottles: for their bottles were of leather. Wall.

Notes on the Thirty-third Chapter.

Ver. 3 My words shall be of the uprightness of my heart, &c.] My words shall speak the sincere dictates of my heart, and my instructions shall be delivered with perspicuity. Patrick.

4 The spirit of God hath made me, &c.] I am, like thee, an inhabitant of earth, and we were equally inspired with life by the breath of the Almighty. Patrick.

6 Behold, I am according to thy wish in God's stead.] Thou hast more than once requested, that some person should represent the Almighty, and reason with thee on thy sufferings: thy wish is granted; I will appear for him.

7 My terror shall not make thee afraid, &c.] I am not arrayed in the awful robes of heaven to terrify thee.

12 Behold, in this thou art not just, &c.] Thou hast pretended to be entirely free from transgressions; but remember that it is impossible for man to be perfect, nor is there any comparison between God and the creatures of his hand.

13 Why dost thou strive against him? &c.] Why dost thou presume to dispute with him, or desire a reason for his actions, since he never reveals the secrets of his providence? Patrick.

19 The multitude of his bones.] The number of the human bones are 245, besides the ossa sesamoidæa, which are sometimes found to the number of 48. Keill.

23 If there be a meſſenger with him, an interpreter, one among a thouſand, to ſhew unto man his uprightneſs:

24 Then he is gracious unto him, and ſaith, Deliver him from going down to the pit: I have found a ranſom.

25 His fleſh ſhall be freſher than a child's: he ſhall return to the days of his youth.

26 He ſhall pray unto God, and he will be favourable unto him; and he ſhall ſee his face with joy: for he will render unto man his righteouſneſs.

27 He looketh upon men, and if any ſay, I have ſinned, and perverted that which was right, and it profited me not;

28 He will deliver his ſoul from going into the pit, and his life ſhall ſee the light.

29 Lo, all theſe things worketh God oftentimes with man,

30 To bring back his ſoul from the pit, to be enlightened with the light of the living.

31 Mark well, O Job, hearken unto me: hold thy peace, and I will ſpeak.

32 If thou haſt any thing to ſay, anſwer me: ſpeak; for I deſire to juſtify thee.

33 If not, hearken unto me: hold thy peace, and I ſhall teach thee wiſdom.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 Elihu accuſeth Job for charging God with injuſtice. 10 God omnipotent cannot be unjuſt. 31 Man muſt humble himſelf unto God. 34 Elihu reproveth Job.

FUrthermore, Elihu anſwered and ſaid,

2 Hear my words, O ye wiſe men; and give ear unto me; ye that have knowledge.

3 For the ear trieth words, as the mouth taſteth meat.

4 Let us chooſe to us judgement: let us know among our ſelves what is good.

5 For Job hath ſaid, I am righteous: and God hath taken away my judgement.

6 Should I lye againſt my right? my wound is incurable without tranſgreſſion.

7 What man is like Job, who drinketh up ſcorning like water?

8 Which goeth in company with the workers of iniquity, and walketh with wicked men.

9 For he hath ſaid, It profiteth a man nothing that he ſhould delight himſelf with God.

10 Therefore hearken unto me, ye men of underſtanding. Far be it from God that he ſhould do wickedneſs, and from the Almighty, that he ſhould commit iniquity.

11 For the work of a man ſhall he render unto him, and cauſe every man to find according to his ways.

12 Yea, ſurely God will not do wickedly, neither will the Almighty pervert judgement.

13 Who hath given him a charge over the earth? or who hath diſpoſed the whole world?

14 If he ſet his heart upon man, if he gather unto himſelf his ſpirit and his breath;

15 All fleſh ſhall periſh together, and man ſhall turn again unto duſt.

16 If now thou haſt underſtanding, hear this: hearken to the voice of my words.

17 Shall even he that hateth right govern? and wilt thou condemn him that is moſt juſt?

18 Is it fit to ſay to a king, Thou art wicked? and to princes, Ye are ungodly?

19 How much leſs to him that accepteth not

23, 24, 25 If there be any meſſenger with him, &c.] If the Almighty pleaſe to ſend a righteous meſſenger who can explain the reaſon for the proceedings of Providence, and perſuade the afflicted perſon to repent, and turn from the evil of his ways, he ſhall implore the mercies of God for him, ſaying, Spare thy ſervant, O Lord, and reſcue him from going down to the grave; let thy juſtice be ſatisfied with the correction thou haſt laid upon him, and thy pity extended towards him, for I have found him a penitent. Then ſhall the ſick perſon begin to recover; his fleſh ſhall appear as freſh as in his childhood, and his ſtrength and vigour be reſtored. Patrick.

27 He looketh upon men, and if any ſay, I have ſinned, &c.] Margin reads, He ſhall look upon men, and ſay, I have ſinned, i. e. confeſs openly that he has offended God.

Notes on the Thirty-fourth Chapter.

Ver. 5 God hath taken away my judgment.] Will not do me right. Patrick.

7 Who drinketh up ſcorning like water?] Who, inſtead of adoring the Almighty, ſpeaks contemptuouſly concerning his judgments?

12 Surely God will not do wickedly, &c.] Surely I may, with the greateſt confidence, affirm, that the Supreme Judge of the univerſe will not condemn the innocent, nor pronounce an unrighteous ſentence. Patrick.

13 Who hath given him a charge over the earth?] For he never received from any the government of the univerſe; nor is there any ſuperior being, for fear of whom he might be tempted to act unjuſtly.

14 If he ſet his heart upon man, &c.] He both made and ſuſtains every creature; and therefore, ſhould he reſtrain his goodneſs to himſelf, and recal that ſpirit and life he breathed into their noſtrils, nothing could ſubſiſt one moment.

the perſon of princes, nor regardeth the rich more than the poor? for they all are the work of his hands.

20 In a moment ſhall they die, and the people ſhall be troubled at midnight, and paſs away: and the mighty ſhall be taken away without hand.

21 For his eyes are upon the ways of man, and he ſeeth all his goings.

22 There is no darkneſs, nor ſhadow of death, where the workers of iniquity may hide themſelves.

23 For he will not lay upon man more than right; that he ſhould enter into judgement with God.

24 He ſhall break in pieces mighty men without number, and ſet others in their ſtead.

25 Therefore he knoweth their works, and he overturneth them in the night, ſo that they are deſtroyed.

26 He ſtriketh them as wicked men in the open ſight of others:

27 Becauſe they turned back from him, and would not conſider any of his ways:

28 So that they cauſe the cry of the poor to come unto him, and he heareth the cry of the afflicted.

29 When he giveth quietneſs, who then can make trouble? and when he hideth his face, who then can behold him? whether it be done againſt a nation, or againſt a man only:

30 That the hypocrite reign not, leſt the people be enſared.

31 Surely it is meet to be ſaid unto God, I have born chaſtiſement, I will not offend any more.

32 That which I ſee not, teach thou me: if I have done iniquity, I will do no more.

33 Should it be according to thy mind? he will recompenſe it, whether thou refuſe, or whether thou chooſe; and not I: therefore ſpeak what thou knoweſt.

34 Let men of underſtanding tell me, and let a wiſe man hearken unto me.

35 Job hath ſpoken without knowledge, and his words were without wiſdom.

36 My deſire is that Job may be tried unto the end, becauſe of his anſwers for wicked men.

37 For he addeth rebellion unto his ſin, he clappeth his hands amongſt us, and multiplieth his words againſt God.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 Compariſon is not to be made with God, becauſe our good or evil cannot extend unto him. 9 Many cry in their afflictions, but are not heard for want of faith.

ELIHU ſpake moreover, and ſaid,

2 Thinkeſt thou this to be right, that thou ſaidſt, My righteouſneſs is more than God's?

3 For thou ſaidſt, What advantage will it be unto thee? and, What profit ſhall I have if I be cleanſed from my ſin?

4 I will anſwer thee, and thy companions with thee.

5 Look unto the heavens, and ſee; and behold the clouds which are higher than thou.

6 If thou ſinneſt, what doeſt thou againſt him? or if thy tranſgreſſions be multiplied, what doeſt thou unto him?

7 If thou be righteous, what giveſt thou him? or what receiveth he of thine hand?

8 Thy wickedneſs may hurt a man as thou art; and thy righteouſneſs may profit the ſon of man.

---

21 His eyes are upon the ways of man, and he ſeeth all his goings.] He is acquainted with the minuteſt actions of men's lives, and, conſequently, cannot through ignorance overlook their crimes, or for want of information act unjuſtly. Patrick.

22 There is no darkneſs, nor ſhadow of death, where the workers of iniquity may hide themſelves.] The thickeſt darkneſs is no obſtacle to his penetrating eye; every ſin, however ſecretly committed, is open before him.

31 Surely it is meet to ſay unto God.] It is beſt for the afflicted perſon not to complain, but to ſuſpect that he has ſinned, and to ſay to God, I confeſs this ſuffering is juſt; I will not offend by pleading my innocence.

Notes on the Thirty-fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Elihu ſpake moreover, and ſaid.] Job ſtill kept ſilence, notwithſtanding Elihu had put the harſheſt conſtruction on his words, becauſe he was ſenſible he intended to do him ſervice, and had, in the concluſion of his diſcourſe, given him very ſalutary counſel, admitted his integrity, and only charged him with ſome unhappy expreſſions, which had fallen from him, when he was in great anguiſh of ſpirit. Patrick.

2 My righteouſneſs is more than God's.] The LXX read, Thou ſaidſt, I am righteous before God.

8 Thy wickedneſs may hurt a man as thou art, &c.] It is not an indifferent thing whether thou be righteous or wicked; for a good

9 ¶ By reaſon of the multitude of oppreſſions they make the oppreſſed to cry; they cry out by reaſon of the arm of the mighty.

10 But none ſaith, Where is God my maker, who giveth ſongs in the night?

11 Who teacheth us more than the beaſts of the earth, and maketh us wiſer than the fowls of heaven.

12 There they cry, but none giveth anſwer, becauſe of the pride of evil men.

13 Surely God will not hear vanity, neither will the Almighty regard it.

14 Although thou ſayeſt thou ſhalt not ſee him, yet judgement is before him; therefore truſt thou in him.

15 But now beeauſe it is not ſo, he hath viſited in his anger, yet he knoweth it not in great extremity:

16 Therefore doth Job open his mouth in vain; he multiplieth words without knowledge.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 Elihu ſheweth how God is juſt in his ways, 16 and how Job's ſins hinder God's bleſſings. 24 God's works are to be magnified.

ELIHU alſo proceeded, and ſaid,

2 Suffer me a little, and I will ſhew thee, that I have yet to ſpeak on God's behalf.

3 I will fetch my knowledge from afar, and will aſcribe righteouſneſs to my maker.

4 For truly my words ſhall not be falſe: he that is perfect in knowledge is with thee.

5 Behold, God is mighty, and deſpiſeth not any: he is mighty in ſtrength and wiſdom.

6 He preſerveth not the life of the wicked: but giveth right to the poor.

7 He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous: but with kings are they on the throne; yea, he doth eſtabliſh them for ever, and they are exalted.

8 And if they be bound in fetters, and be holden in cords of affliction;

9 Then he ſheweth them their work; and their tranſgreſſions, that they have exceeded.

10 He openeth alſo their ear to diſcipline, and commandeth that they return from iniquity.

11 If they obey, and ſerve him, they ſhall ſpend their days in proſperity, and their years in pleaſures.

12 But if they obey not, they ſhall periſh by the ſword, and they ſhall die without knowledge.

13 But the hypocrites in heart heap up wrath: they cry not when he bindeth them.

14 They die in youth, and their life is among the unclean.

15 He delivereth the poor in his affliction, and openeth their ears in oppreſſion.

16 Even ſo would he have removed thee out of the ſtrait into a broad place where there is no ſtraitneſs, and that which ſhould be ſet on thy table ſhould be full of fatneſs.

17 But thou haſt fulfilled the judgement of the wicked: judgement and juſtice take hold on thee.

---

good or bad example may benefit or prejudice thyſelf and the reſt of mankind.

10 Songs in the night.] Joy and comfort in the midſt of affliction.

14 Although thou ſayeſt thou ſhalt not ſee him, yet judgment is before him, &c.] Though, as thou complaineſt, thou doſt not ſee him appear to deliver thee, yet do not conclude from thence that he is unrighteous; but humble thyſelf before him, and patiently wait for his mercy. Patrick.

Notes on the Thirty-ſixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Elihu alſo proceeded.] Having reprehended ſome of Job's unwarrantable expreſſions, he ſhews from the nature of God and the methods of his providence, that if Job had, inſtead of diſputing, ſubmitted himſelf to God's corrections, he would have been delivered: and his not diſcerning the reaſon of his being afflicted, ought not to have prevented his ſubmiſſion, becauſe we are not able to comprehend any of the works of God, which we every day ſee, and acknowledge to be excellently contrived. Patrick.

5 God is mighty, and deſpiſeth not any, &c.] Though God is Almighty, yet he deſpiſeth not the meaneſt of his creatures.

7 He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous, &c.] Whatever affliction the righteous may ſuffer, they are always under the care of his providence, and he often raiſeth him to the higheſt offices in the power of monarchs to beſtow.

16 Even ſo would he have removed thee out of the ſtrait, &c.] Hadſt thou ſubmitted to the correction of the Almighty, he would have delivered thee from all the miſeries that have befallen thee, and bleſſed thee with proſperity.

17 Thou haſt fulfilled the judgment of the wicked, &c.] Thou haſt maintained the cauſe of the wicked. Dr. Wall obſerves, that all the latter part of this chapter, and moſt of the next, is either mutilated in the copies, or elſe the ſenſe is unſearchable: where the Hebrew has five or ſix words that might make part of a ſentence, the Septuagint has perhaps two or three like words but no more. To fill up a period, one tranſlator puts in one ſet of words, another, another ſet; and makes a different ſentence.

18 Becauſe there is wrath, beware leſt he take thee away with his ſtroke: then a great ranſom cannot deliver thee.

19 Will he eſteem thy riches? no, not gold, nor all the forces of ſtrength.

20 Deſire not the night, when people are cut off in their place.

21 Take heed, regard not iniquity; for this haſt thou choſen rather than affliction.

22 Behold, God exalteth by his power: who teacheth like him?

23 Who hath enjoined him his way? or who can ſay, Thou haſt wrought iniquity?

24 ¶ Remember that thou magnify his work, which men behold.

25 Every man may ſee it; man may behold it afar off.

26 Behold, God is great, and we know him not, neither can the number of his years be ſearched out.

27 For he maketh ſmall the drops of water: they pour down rain according to the vapour thereof:

28 Which the clouds do drop, and diſtil upon man abundantly.

29 Alſo can any underſtand the ſpreadings of the clouds, or the noiſe of his tabernacle?

30 Behold, he ſpreadeth his light upon it, and covereth the bottom of the ſea.

31 For by them judgeth he the people; he giveth meat in abundance.

32 With clouds he covereth the light; and commandeth it not to ſhine, by the cloud that cometh betwixt.

33 The noiſe thereof ſheweth concerning it, the cattle alſo concerning the vapour.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1 God is to be feared for his great works. 15 His wiſdom is unſearchable in them.

AT this alſo my heart trembleth, and is moved out of his place.

2 Hear attentively the noiſe of his voice, and the ſound that goeth out of his mouth.

3 He directeth it under the whole heaven, and his lightning unto the ends of the earth.

4 After it a voice roareth: he thundereth with a voice of his excellency, and he will not ſtay them when his voice is heard.

5 God thundereth marvellouſly with his voice: great things doeth he, which we cannot comprehend.

6 For he ſaith to the ſnow, Be thou on the earth; likewiſe to the ſmall rain, and to the great rain of his ſtrength.

7 He ſealeth up the hand of every man; that all men may know his work.

8 Then the beaſts go into dens, and remain in their places.

9 Out of the ſouth cometh the whirlwind; and cold out of the north.

10 By the breath of God froſt is given; and the breadth of the waters is ſtraitened.

11 Alſo by watering he wearieth the thick cloud; he ſcattereth his bright cloud.

12 And it is turned round about by his counſels: that they may do whatſoever he commandeth them upon the face of the world in the earth.

13 He cauſeth it to come, whether for correction, or for his land, or for mercy.

14 Hearken unto this, O Job: ſtand ſtill, and conſider the wondrous works of God.

15 Doſt thou know when God diſpoſed them, and cauſed the light of his cloud to ſhine?

16 Doſt thou know the balancings of the clouds, the wondrous works of him which is perfect in knowledge?

17 How thy garments are warm, when he quieteth the earth by the ſouth-wind?

18 Haſt thou with him ſpread out the ſky, which is ſtrong, and as a molten looking-glaſs?

19 Teach us what we ſhall ſay unto him: for

Notes on the Thirty-ſeventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 At this alſo my heart trembleth, &c.] I have mentioned only a few of the amazing effects of his power; but every one of them ſtrikes me with terror, ſo that my heart trembles, and ſeems ready to quit its place in my breaſt. Patrick.

7 He ſealeth up the hand.] His ſtorms put a ſtop to the labour of thoſe who are in the field.

18 The ſky, which is ſtrong, and as a molten looking-glaſs?] The colour of the ſky when clear, exactly reſembles that poliſhed metal of which the looking-glaſſes of the antients were made.

20 If a man ſpeaks, ſurely he ſhall be ſwallowed up.] Whoever attempts to deſcribe him, will loſe himſelf in contemplating his perfections, and be dazzled with the brightneſs of his glory. Patrick.

we cannot order our ſpeech by reaſon of darkneſs.

20 Shall it be told him that I ſpeak? if a man ſpeak, ſurely he ſhall be ſwallowed up.

21 And now men ſee not the bright light which is in the clouds: but the wind paſſeth, and cleanſeth them.

22 Fair weather cometh out of the north: with God is terrible majeſty.

23 Touching the Almighty, we cannot find him out: he is excellent in power, and in judgement, and in plenty of juſtice: he will not afflict.

24 Men do therefore fear him: he reſpecteth not any that are wiſe of heart.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 God challengeth Job to anſwer. 4 God, by his mighty works, convinceth Job of ignorance, 31 and of imbecillity.

THEN the LORD anſwered Job out of the whirlwind and ſaid,

2 Who is this that darkeneth counſel by ords without knowledge?

3 Gird up now thy loins like a man: for I ill demand of thee, and anſwer thou me.

4 ¶ Where waſt thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou haſt underſtanding.

5 Who hath laid the meaſures thereof, if thou knoweſt? or who hath ſtretched the line upon it?

6 Whereupon are the foundations thereof faſtened? or who laid the corner-ſtone thereof?

7 When the morning-ſtars ſang together, and all the ſons of God ſhouted for joy.

8 Or who ſhut up the ſea with doors, when it brake forth as if it had iſſued out of the womb?

9 When I made the cloud the garment thereof, and thick darkneſs a ſwaddling-band for it,

10 And brake up for it my decreed place and ſet bars and doors,

11 And ſaid, Hitherto ſhalt thou come but no further: and here ſhall thy proud waves be ſtayed.

12 Haſt thou commanded the morning ſince thy days? and cauſed the day-ſpring to know his place,

13 That it might take hold of the ends of the earth, that the wicked might be ſhaken out of it?

14 It is turned as clay to the ſeal; and they ſtand as a garment.

---

22 Fair weather cometh out of the north, &c.] The margin reads, gold cometh, &c. The LXX thus: Out of the north come clouds of a golden colour; and there is in them a terrible brightneſs and glory of the Almighty. This is true of Arabia, and a probable argument that Job was of that country.

23 Touching the Almighty we cannot find him out, &c.] After all our reſearches, we muſt acknowledge, that our underſtanding is too limited to comprehend the Almighty: his power is ſo great, his judgment ſo exact, his juſtice ſo abundant, that it is the higheſt preſumption in us, to aſk a reaſon for the proceedings of his providence. Patrick.

Notes on the Thirty-eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Then the Lord anſwered Job out of the whirlwind, and ſaid.] A general ſilence enſued, when the Almighty himſelf appeared as judge, to decide this great controverſy, and out of a whirlwind directed his ſpeech to Job. The ſubject of it is God's omnipotence, as diſplayed in the works of the creation---Many are the pens which have adorned this noble argument, philoſophers, poets, and divines; but the Holy Scriptures far ſurpaſs all human compoſitions in thoſe ſublime deſcriptions which they give us of the majeſty of God, and the wiſdom and magnificence of his works. Peters.

2 Who is this that darkneth counſel, &c.] Who is this that diſparages my counſels with his ignorant diſcourſes about them? Patrick.

5 Who hath ſtretched the line upon it?] What hand confined its bulk, and determined its exact proportions?

6 Whereupon are the foundations thereof faſtened? or who laid the corner-ſtone thereof?] Who ſelf balanced this earthly globe on its own center? or, by what power are its ſeveral parts connected ſo firmly together?

7 When the morning ſtars ſang together, and all the ſons of God ſhouted for joy.] i. e. When the angels rejoiced and praiſed God, at the time of the creation of the viſible world. Clark.

8 Who ſhut up the ſea with doors, when it brake forth as if it had iſſued out of the womb?] Who hollowed the ſides of the globe, and provided a capacious baſon for the floods, when they firſt iſſued from the abyſs, as an infant from the womb? Patrick.

9, 10 I made the cloud the garment thereof, and thick darkneſs a ſwaddling-band for it, &c.] I clothed it with clouds as with a garment; I wrapt its boiſterous waves in the veil of darkneſs, as a nurſe her tender infant in a ſwaddling-band; and laid it in the bed I had formed for it in the bowels of the earth, and confined it with banks which it can never paſs over. Patrick.

11 Hitherto ſhalt thou come, but no further: and here ſhall thy proud waves be ſtayed.] Thus far may thy floating tide extend, but no further; and here ſhall thy proud waves be ſtayed, though agitated with all the rage of an indignant tempeſt.

12 Haſt thou cauſed the day-ſpring to know his place?] Haſt thou fixed the place where the ſun ſhall every day ariſe?

13 That it might take hold of the ends of the earth, that the wicked might be ſhaken out of it.] That he might extend his beams to the ends of the earth, that the wicked, who conceal their actions under the veil of night, may be detected, and dragged to the puniſhment they have deſerved. Patrick.

14 It is turned as clay to the ſeal, and they ſtand as a garment.] Septuagint reads, Haſt thou, by baking clay, formed of it a living creature; and giving the faculty of ſpeech, placed it upon the earth? Wall.

15 And from the wicked their light is withholden, and the high arm ſhall be broken.

16 Haſt thou entered into the ſprings of the ſea? or haſt thou walked in the ſearch of the depth?

17 Have the gates of death been opened unto thee? or haſt thou ſeen the doors of the ſhadow of death?

18 Haſt thou perceived the breadth of the earth? declare, if thou knoweſt it all.

19 Where is the way where light dwelleth? and as for darkneſs where is the place thereof.

20 That thou ſhouldeſt take it to the bound thereof, and that thou ſhouldeſt know the paths to the houſe thereof?

21 Knoweſt thou it, becauſe thou waſt then born? or becauſe the number of thy days is great?

22 Haſt thou entered into the treaſures of the ſnow? or haſt thou ſeen the treaſures of the hail,

23 Which I have reſerved againſt the time of trouble, againſt the day of battle and war?

24 By what way is the light parted, which ſcattereth the eaſt-wind upon the earth?

25 Who hath divided a water-courſe for the overflowing of waters? or a way for the lightning of thunder,

26 To cauſe it to rain on the earth, where no man is; on the wilderneſs, wherein there is no man?

27 To ſatisfy the deſolate and waſte ground, and to cauſe the bud of the tender herb to ſpring forth?

28 Hath the rain a father? or who hath begotten the drops of the dew?

29 Out of whoſe womb came the ice? and the hoary froſt of heaven, who hath gendered it?

30 The waters are hid as with a ſtone, and the face of the deep is frozen.

31 Canſt thou bind the ſweet influences of Pleiades, or looſe the bands of Orion?

32 Canſt thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his ſeaſon? or canſt thou guide Arcturus with his ſons?

33 Knoweſt thou the ordinances of heaven? canſt thou ſet the dominion thereof in the earth?

34 Canſt thou liſt up thy voice to the clouds, that abundance of waters may cover thee?

---

15 From the wicked their light is with-holden, &c.] Septuagint reads, Haſt thou taken away light from the wicked, and broken the arm of the proud?

16 Haſt thou entered into the ſprings of the ſea?] Haſt thou ever explored the ſecret receſſes of the deep, where the great fountain of the ſea burſts from the abyſs?

18 Haſt thou perceived the breadth of the earth? &c.] Art thou even capable of meaſuring the ſurface of the earth? If thy wiſdom be ſufficient for ſuch undertakings, let it now appear. Patrick.

21 Knoweſt thou it, becauſe thou waſt then born? &c.] Is thy wiſdom ripened by a long ſucceſſion of ages, that thou art acquainted with theſe ſecret tranſactions?

22, 23 Haſt thou entered into the treaſures of the ſnow? &c.] Haſt thou viſited the wintry ſkies, and ſeen my magazines of ſnow and hail; my fund of vengeance for the time of anguiſh and the day of battle?

24 By what way is the light parted, which ſcattereth the eaſt-wind upon the earth?] Septuagint reads, Whence cometh the frozen dew? or whence is the ſouth wind ſpread over the earth?

25 Who hath divided a water-courſe for the overflowing of waters?] The Hebrew in this paſſage is ſo pregnant with ſenſe, that no tranſlation can do it juſtice. Perhaps the following paraphraſe may convey the principal ideas comprehended in the original. Who hath branched out, and, with admirable judgment, diſpoſed, a variety of aqueducts for that immenſe collection of waters which float in the ſky? who diſtributes thoſe pendulous floods through all the earth; not in dreadful cataracts, or promiſcuous gluts of rain, but in kindly drops, and refreſhing ſhowers, with as much regularity and œconomy as if they were conveyed by pipes from a conduit?---To whom ſhall we aſcribe that niceneſs of contrivance, which now emits, now reſtrains them; ſometimes conveys their humid train to one place, ſometimes to another, diſpenſes them to this ſoil in larger, to that in ſmaller communications; and, in a word, ſo manages the mighty fluid, that every ſpot is ſupplied in exact proportion to its wants; none deſtroyed by an undiſtinguiſhing deluge? Hervey.

26 To cauſe it to rain on the earth, where no man is? &c.] On the deſert places, where there are no inhabitants.

28 Hath the rain a father? or who hath begotten the drops of the dew?] If the rains are begotten, who is their father? or from whom do the pearly drops of dew deſcend?

29 Out of whoſe womb came the ice? and the hoary froſt of heaven, who hath gendred it?] What hand is capable of binding the river, and turning the ſtream into a cryſtal rock? or of whitening the morning with the plumy robe of froſt?

30 The waters are hid as with a ſtone.] The waters are congealed into a tranſparent pavement, and the ſurface of the deep is taken captive by the froſt.

31 Canſt thou bind the ſweet influences of the Pleiades, or looſe the bands of Orion?] Canſt thou reſtrain the benevolence of the ſkies, and cauſe the ſeven ſtars to ſhine in vain? or when Orion darts his beams in the winter ſeaſon, canſt thou unbind the frozen earth, or moderate the drought of the ſtar called the heart of Scorpio?

32 Canſt thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his ſeaſon, or canſt thou guide Arcturus? &c.] Is it owing to thy power that the other conſtellations appear in the ſouthern or northern parts of the heavens in their reſpective ſeaſons? Patrick.

34 Canſt thou liſt up thy voice to the clouds, that abundance of water may cover thee?] Will the clouds at thy command pour out their ſtores, and ſurround thee with water? Patrick.

35 Canſt thou ſend lightnings, that they may go, and ſay unto thee, Here we are?

36 Who hath put wiſdom in the inward parts? or who hath given underſtanding to the heart?

37 Who can number the clouds in wiſdom? or who can ſtay the bottles of heaven, 38 When the duſt groweth into hardneſs, and the clods cleave faſt together?

39 Wilt thou hunt the prey for the lion? or fill the appetite of the young lions, 40 When they couch in their dens, and abide in the covert to lie in wait?

41 Who provideth for the raven his food? when his young ones cry unto God, they wander for lack of meat.

CHAP. XXXIX.

1 Of the wild goats and hinds, 5 of the wild aſs, 9 the unicorn, 13 the peacock, ſtork, and oſtrich, 19 the horſe, 26 the hawk, 27 the eagle.

KNoweſt thou the time when the wild goats of the rock bring forth? or canſt thou mark when the hinds do calve?

2 Canſt thou number the months that they fulfil? or knoweſt thou the time when they bring forth?

3 They bow themſelves, they bring forth their young ones, they caſt out their ſorrows.

4 Their young ones are in good liking, they grow up with corn; they go forth, and return not unto them.

5 Who hath ſent out the wild aſs free; or who hath looſed the bands of the wild aſs?

6 Whoſe houſe I have made the wilderneſs, and the barren land his dwellings.

7 He ſcorneth the multitude of the city, neither regardeth he the crying of the driver.

8 The range of the mountains is his paſture, and he ſearcheth after every green thing.

9 Will the unicorn be willing to ſerve thee, or abide by thy crib?

10 Canſt thou bind the unicorn with his band in the furrow? or will he harrow the valleys after thee?

11 Wilt thou truſt him, becauſe his ſtrength is great? or wilt thou leave thy labour to him?

12 Wilt thou believe him that he will bring home thy ſeed, and gather it into thy barn?

13 Gaveſt thou the goodly wings unto the peacocks? or wings and feathers unto the oſtrich?

14 Which leaveth her eggs in the earth, and warmeth them in the duſt,

15 And forgetteth that the foot may cruſh them, or that the wild beaſt may break them.

16 She is hardened againſt her young ones, as though they were not her's: her labour is in vain without fear;

17 Becauſe God hath deprived her of wiſdom, neither hath he imparted to her underſtanding.

35 Canſt thou ſend lightnings, that they may go and ſay unto thee, here we are?] How ſtrong the image! how ſimple the expreſſion! we read of winged lightnings in the heathen poets; but where do they live, and act, and ſpeak, and wait for orders with impatience, as here? Peters.

36 Who hath given underſtanding to the heart?] Who lighted the lamp of reaſon in the human breaſt?

37 Who can number the clouds in wiſdom? or who can ſtay the bottles of heaven?] Canſt thou, with all thy wiſdom, count the number of the clouds? or hinder the rain from falling upon the earth?

38 When the duſt groweth into hardneſs, &c.] When the earth is thoroughly ſatisfied with rain, and the ſoil fit for the labours of the huſbandman.

39 Wilt thou hunt for the lion?] Or doſt thou pretend to have great power upon earth, though none in heaven? wilt thou provide food for a lion and his whelps?

Notes on the Thirty-ninth Chapter.

Ver. 5 Who hath ſent out the wild aſs free? &c.] Didſt thou diſcharge the wild aſs from ſervitude, break his bands, and declare him at liberty to live at large?

9 Unicorn.] This is certainly the rhinoceros. See Numb. xxiii. 22.

13 Wings and feathers unto the oſtrich?] This verſe may be better rendered from the original. The wing of the oſtrich is (quivering, or) expanded; the very feathers and plumage of the ſtork. The ingenious Dr. Shaw obſerves, that when the oſtrich is full grown, the neck, particularly of the male, which before was almoſt naked, is now very beautifully covered with red feathers. The plumage likewiſe upon the back, the ſhoulders, and ſome parts of the wings, from being hitherto of a dark, greyiſh colour, becomes now as black as jet; whilſt the reſt of the feathers exhibit an exquiſite whiteneſs; they retain the very feathers and plumage of the ſtork. When they are diſturbed, they fly with a ſwiftneſs that no creature can equal. Nothing certainly can be a more beautiful ſight. The wings by their repeated, though unwearied vibrations, equally ſerving them for ſails and oars: and hence we ſee with what propriety the ſacred writers aſcribe to them an expanded quivering wing, p. 450, 4to.

14, 15, 16, 17 Which leaveth her eggs in the earth, and warmeth them in the duſt, &c.] The oſtrich lays from thirty to fifty eggs; the firſt of which ſhe depoſits in the centre, and the reſt as conveniently as poſſible round it. In this manner ſhe is ſaid

18 What time ſhe lifteth up her ſelf on high, ſhe ſcorneth the horſe and his rider.

19 Haſt thou given the horſe ſtrength? haſt thou clothed his neck with thunder?

20 Canſt thou make him afraid as a graſshopper? the glory of his noſtrils is terrible.

21 He paweth in the valley, and rejoiceth in his ſtrength: he goeth on to meet the armed men.

22 He mocketh at fear, and is not affrighted; neither turneth he back from the ſword.

23 The quiver rattleth againſt him, the glittering ſpear and the ſhield.

24 He ſwalloweth the ground with fierceneſs and rage; neither believeth he that it is the ſound of the trumpet.

25 He ſaith among the trumpets, Ha, ha; and he ſmelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains, and the ſhouting.

26 Doth the hawk fly by thy wiſdom, and ſtretch her wings toward the ſouth?

27 Doth the eagle mount up at thy command, and make her neſt on high?

28 She dwelleth and abideth on the rock, upon the crag of the rock, and the ſtrong place.

29 From thence ſhe ſeeketh the prey, and her eyes behold afar off.

30 Her young ones alſo ſuck up blood: and where the ſlain are, there is ſhe.

CHAP. XL.

3 Job humbleth himſelf to God. 6 God ſtirreth him up to ſhew his righteouſneſs, power, and wiſdom. 15 Of the behemoth.

MOreover the LORD anſwered Job, and ſaid,

2 Shall he that contendeth with the Almighty, inſtruct him? he that reproveth God, let him anſwer it.

3 ¶ Then Job anſwered the LORD, and ſaid,

4 Behold, I am vile; what ſhall I anſwer thee? I will lay mine hand upon my mouth.

5 Once have I ſpoken; but I will not anſwer: yea, twice; but I will proceed no further.

6 ¶ Then anſwered the LORD unto Job out of the whirlwind, and ſaid, to lay, depoſit, or truſt, her eggs in the earth, and to warm them (by incubation) in the duſt; and forgetteth that the foot of the traveller may cruſh them, or that the wild beaſt may break them. It is alſo obſerved, that the oſtrich has a very ſmall ſhare of that natural affection which ſo ſtrongly exerts itſelf in other creatures. For upon the leaſt diſtant noiſe, or trivial occaſion, ſhe forſakes her eggs or young ones; to which perhaps ſhe never returns; or, if ſhe does, it may be too late either to reſtore genial warmth to the one, or preſerve the lives of the other. Accordingly the Arabs ſometimes meet with whole neſts of theſe eggs undiſturbed; and often with a few of the young ones, about the ſize of a pullet, half ſtarved, ſtraggling and moaning about like diſtreſſed orphans in ſearch of their mother. And hence the oſtrich may be juſtly ſaid to be hardened againſt her young ones, as though they were not hers; her labour, in hatching and attending them ſo far, being in vain, without fear, or the leaſt concern of what becomes of them afterwards. This want of affection is alſo mentioned by the prophet Jeremiah: The daughter of my people is cruel, like the oſtriches in the wilderneſs, Lam. iv. 3. Nor is this the only reproach that may be due to the oſtrich: ſhe is alſo inconſiderate and fooliſh in the choice of her food, which is frequently detrimental, and ſometimes highly pernicious; ſwallowing every thing indiſcriminately, with the greateſt greedineſs, whether pieces of rags, leather, wood, ſtone, lead, or iron. It may therefore be juſtly ſaid, that God hath deprived her of wiſdom, neither hath he imparted to her underſtanding. Shaw.

18 What time ſhe lifteth up her ſelf on high, ſhe ſcorneth the horſe and his rider.] Or, as the words may be tranſlated, when ſhe riſeth herſelf to fly from her purſuers, ſhe ſcorneth the horſe and his rider. The Arabians are well acquainted with the truth of this aſſertion; for they find it impoſſible to overtake them, even when mounted on their ſwifteſt horſes. They have only an opportunity of admiring at a diſtance the extraordinary agility and ſtatelineſs of their motions. Shaw.

19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25 Haſt thou given the horſe ſtrength? &c.] This deſcription of the horſe is the moſt celebrated of any in the poem, and contains all the noble images that thought can form of this generous beaſt, expreſſed in ſuch a force of ſtile, as would have given the greater writers of antiquity new laws for the ſublime, had they been acquainted with theſe writings. It is remarkable that the claſſical poets chiefly endeavour to paint the outward figure, lineaments, and motions of the horſe; but the ſacred poet makes all the particulars to flow from the inward beauties he deſcribes, and thereby animates his deſcription with great ſpirit and vivacity. Several of the expreſſions are ſingularly elegant: Haſt thou clothed his neck with thunder? by which bold figure he not only expreſſes that remarkable beauty in a horſe, the ſhaking of his mane, and the flakes of the hair, which naturally ſuggeſt the idea of lightning, but alſo the violent agitation and force of his neck, which in the oriental language, had been flatly expreſſed by a metaphor leſs than this. Mr. Pope's deſcription of the horſe comes the neareſt to part of this of any that I have ſeen:

Th' impatient courſer pants in every vein,
And pawing, ſeems to beat the diſtant plain:
Hills, vales, and floods appear already croſs'd,
And e'er he ſtarts, a thouſand ſteps are loſt. Windſor For.

26 Doth the hawk fly by thy wiſdom, and ſtretch her wings towards the ſouth?] Who taught the hawk, as the winter approaches, to ſeek a milder climate in the ſouth, and in a perpetual ſummer defy the northern ſtorms?

Notes on the Fortieth Chapter.

Ver. 4 Behold, I am vile, what ſhall I anſwer thee? &c.] Job, whoſe great confuſion and terror had hitherto kept him ſilent, now anſwers with great humility, that he was a wretched creature, and unworthy to ſpeak to the Majeſty of heaven.

15 Behold

7 Gird up thy loins now like a man: I will demand of thee, and declare thou unto me.

8 Wilt thou alſo diſannul my judgement? wilt thou condemn me, that thou mayeſt be righteouſs?

9 Haſt thou an arm like God? or canſt thou thunder with a voice like him?

10 Deck thy ſelf now with majeſty and excellency, and array thy ſelf with glory and beauty.

11 Caſt abroad the rage of thy wrath: and behold every one that is proud, and abaſe him.

12 Look on every one that is proud, and bring him low: and tread down the wicked in their place.

13 Hide them in the duſt together, and bind their faces in ſecret.

14 Then will I alſo confeſs unto thee, that thine own right hand can ſave thee.

15 Behold now behemoth, which I made with thee: he eateth graſs as an ox.

16 Lo now, his ſtrength is in his loins, and his force is in the navel of his belly.

17 He moveth his tail like a cedar: the ſinews of his ſtones are wrapped together.

18 His bones are as ſtrong pieces of braſs; his bones are like bars of iron.

19 He is the chief of the ways of God: he that made him, can make his ſword to approach unto him.

20 Surely the mountains bring him forth food: where all the beaſts of the field play.

21 He lieth under the ſhady trees, in the covert of the reed, and fens.

22 The ſhady trees cover him with their ſhadow; the willows of the brook compaſs him about.

23 Behold, he drinketh up a river, and haſteth not: he truſteth that he can draw up Jordan into his mouth.

24 He taketh it with his eyes: his noſe pierceth through ſnares.

CHAP. XLI.

Of God's great power in the leviathan.

CANST thou draw out leviathan with an hook? or his tongue with a cord which thou letteſt down?

2 Canſt thou put an hook into his noſe? or bore his jaw through with a thorn?

3 Will he make many ſupplications unto thee? will he ſpeak ſoft words unto thee?

4 Will he make a covenant with thee? wilt thou take him for a ſervant for ever?

5 Wilt thou play with him as with a bird? or wilt thou bind him for thy maidens?

6 Shall the companions make a banquet of him? ſhall they part him among the merchants?

7 Canſt thou fill his ſkin with barbed irons? or his head with fiſh-ſpears?

8 Lay thine hand upon him, remember the battle, do no more.

9 Behold, the hope of him is in vain: ſhall not one be caſt down even at the ſight of him?

10 None is ſo fierce that dare ſtir him up: who then is able to ſtand before me?

11 Who hath prevented me, that I ſhould repay him? whatſoever is under the whole heaven is mine.

12 I will not conceal his parts, nor his power, nor his comely proportion.

13 Who can diſcover the face of his garment? or who can come to him with his double bridle?

14 Who can open the doors of his face? his teeth are terrible round about.

15 His ſcales are his pride, ſhut up together as with a cloſe ſeal.

---

15 Behold now behemoth, &c.] This word has an Egyptian termination, and ſignifies a creature well known in that country, called by the Greeks hippopotamus, the river-horſe; for he ſhelters himſelf among the reeds of the Nile; and the behemoth is ſaid to lie in the coverts of the reeds and fens, and to be compaſſed about with the willows of the brook. The river-horſe feeds upon the herbage of the Nile, and the behemoth is ſaid to eat graſs as an ox. No creature is known to have ſtronger ribs than the river-horſe; and the bones of the behemoth are as ſtrong pieces of braſs, like bars of iron. From whence it ſufficiently appears, that the behemoth and the river-horſe are one and the ſame creature: though Mr. Pilkington ſays this creature is the rhinoceros.

Notes on the Forty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 Canſt thou draw out leviathan with an hook?] By the leviathan is meant the crocodile, a monſtrous creature found in the river Nile; for to him and no other, every part of the deſcription is conformable.

10 None is ſo fierce that dare ſtir him up, &c.] This alludes to a cuſtom of this creature, namely, that when he is ſatiated with fiſh, he comes on ſhore, and ſleeps among the reeds.

16 One is ſo near to another that no air can come between them.

17 They are joined one to another, they ſtick together, that they cannot be ſundered.

18 By his neeſings a light doth ſhine, and his eyes are like the eye-lids of the morning.

19 Out of his mouth go burning lamps, and ſparks of fire leap out.

20 Out of his noſtrils goeth ſmoke, as out of a ſeething-pot or caldron.

21 His breath kindleth coals, and a flame goeth out of his mouth.

22 In his neck remaineth ſtrength, and ſorrow is turned into joy before him.

23 The flakes of his fleſh are joined together: they are firm in themſelves; they cannot be moved.

24 His heart is as firm as a ſtone; yea, as hard as a piece of the nether-mil-ſtone.

25 When he raiſeth up himſelf, the mighty are afraid: by reaſon of breakings they purify themſelves.

26 The ſword of him that layeth at him cannot hold; the ſpear, the dart, nor the habergeon.

27 He eſteemeth iron as ſtraw, and braſs as rotten wood.

28 The arrow cannot make him flee: ſling-ſtones are turned with him into ſtubble.

29 Darts are counted as ſtubble: he laugheth at the ſhaking of a ſpear.

30 Sharp ſtones are under him: he ſpreadeth ſharp-pointed things upon the mire.

31 He maketh the deep to boil like a pot: he maketh the ſea like a pot of ointment.

32 He maketh the path to ſhine after him; one would think the deep to be hoary.

33 Upon earth there is not his like, who is made without fear.

34 He beholdeth all high things: he is a king over all the children of pride.

CHAP. XLII.

1 Job ſubmitteth himſelf unto God. 7 God preferring Job's cauſe, maketh his friends ſubmit themſelves, and accepteth him. 10 He magnifieth and bleſſeth Job. 16 Job's age and death.

THEN Job anſwered the LORD, and ſaid,

2 I know that thou canſt do every thing, and that no thought can be with-holden from thee.

3 Who is he that hideth counſel without knowledge? therefore have I uttered that I underſtood not; things too wonderful for me, which I knew not.

4 Hear, I beſeech thee, and I will ſpeak: I will demand of thee, and declare thou unto me.

5 I have heard of thee by the hearing of the ear: but now mine eye ſeeth thee.

6 Wherefore I abhor my ſelf, and repent in duſt and aſhes.

7 ¶ And it was ſo, that after the LORD had ſpoken theſe words unto Job, the LORD ſaid to Eliphaz the Temanite, My wrath is kindled againſt thee, and againſt thy two friends: for ye have not ſpoken of me the thing that is right, as my ſervant Job hath.

8 Therefore take unto you now ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams, and go to my ſervant Job, and offer up for your ſelves a burnt-offering; and my ſervant Job ſhall pray for you: for him will I accept: leſt I deal with you after your folly, in that ye have not ſpoken of me the thing which is right, like my ſervant Job.

9 So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the 18 His eyes are like the eye-lids of the morning.] Theſe words convey as great an image of the thing it would repreſent, as is poſſible to be done by words; and probably the Egyptians from hence borrowed their hieroglyphic of the morning, which is a crocodile's eye.

19 Out of his mouth go burning lamps, &c.] This expreſſion is more literally true, than at firſt view may be imagined. The naturaliſts tell us, that the crocodile lying a long time under water, and being there forced to hold his breath, when he emerges, his breath, by being long repreſt, is hot, and burſts out ſo violently, that it reſembles fire and ſmoke. This ſhould teach us not to entertain a falſe opinion of the Eaſtern boldneſs, from paſſages ill underſtood.

Notes on the Forty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 1 Job anſwered the Lord and ſaid.] The foregoing ſpeeches had ſo lively repreſented the power and wiſdom of God in his works, that Job, abundantly convinced of his error, confeſſed, with the profoundeſt humility, the faults he had committed, begging pardon of his great Creator, and reſolving never more to complain, nor propoſe any queſtions relating to his providence. Patrick.

5 I have heard of thee by the hearing of the ear.] He had heard of him by tradition, delivered down from his fore-fathers; but now he had a clear and ſenſible perception of his Being and Divine perfections.

Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went, and did according as the LORD commanded them: the LORD also accepted Job.

10 ¶ And the LORD turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends: also the LORD gave Job twice as much as he had before.

11 Then came there unto him all his brethren, and all his sisters, and all they that had been of his acquaintance before, and did eat bread with him in his house: and they bemoaned him, and comforted him over all the evil that the LORD had brought upon him: every man also gave him a piece of money, and every one an ear-ring of gold.

12 So the LORD blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning: for he had fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she-asses.

13 He had also seven sons and three daughters.

14 And he called the name of the first, Jemima; and the name of the second, Kezia; and the name of the third, Keren-happuch.

15 And in all the land were no women found so fair as the daughters of Job: and their father gave them inheritance among their brethren.

16 ¶ After this lived Job an hundred and forty years, and saw his sons, and his sons sons, even four generations.

17 So Job died being old and full of days.

11 Every man a piece of money.] The word here rendered a piece of money, signifies also lambs, or young sheep, as the Chaldee paraphrast turns the word; and this seems most probable, as that particular piece of money was but of very small value, three half-pence English; but if all Job's acquaintance, which was very numerous, brought him a young sheep each, it would set him up with a good flock at once. Peters.

14 Jemima.] i. e. The day; because of the day of felicity he enjoyed, after a sad night of affliction. Patrick.

Kezia.] The name of a certain spice in Arabia, of an excellent smell. Patrick.

Keren-happuch.] i. e. Plenty restored; because God had now restored him to his prosperity. Patrick.

16 Job lived an hundred and forty years.] Septuagint reads thus, an hundred and seventy years. He lived in all two hundred and forty years, and saw his sons, &c.

17 So Job died, being old and full of days.] The LXX add; And it is written that he shall rise again among those whom the Lord shall raise. A plain proof that the Jews believed a resurrection, as before observed.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Book of Psalms is a collection of spiritual songs and hymns, compiled by several men, in several ages: most of them by David, some by Solomon, and one at least by Moses. Many are inscribed with the name of Asaph: some were composed during the captivity; and some after the restauration. It is most probable, that after the temple and sacred records were burnt by the king of Babylon's army, some pious persons collected as many of the Psalms as they could find among their friends, who had taken copies of them for their own private use: for the people were well acquainted with the songs of Sion, and doubtless preserved them for their comfort in their captivity; and when they returned to Jerusalem brought them with them, where Ezra ranged them in one collection, in the manner we now have them. The word Psalm is Greek, and properly perly ſignifies the ſound of a ſtringed inſtrument of muſick: for the Hebrews ſung the Pſalms with different inſtruments. An ingenious author obſerves, that the Pſalms of David are ſupported by the nobleſt, the ſublimeſt, the moſt heavenly ſtrains of divine poetry, by which the world was ever delighted, informed, or amended.

* The reader will take notice, that this is a ſtrict tranſlation from the preſent Hebrew, and is the latter verſion; whereas the tranſlation in the Liturgy is taken from the Septuagint.

PSAL. I.

1 The happineſs of the godly. 4 The unhappineſs of the ungodly.

BLESSED is the man that walketh not in the counſel of the ungodly, nor ſtandeth in the way of ſinners, nor ſitteth in the ſeat of the ſcornful.

2 But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

3 And he ſhall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his ſeaſon: his leaf alſo ſhall not wither, and whatſoever he doeth ſhall proſper.

4 The ungodly are not ſo: but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away.

5 Therefore the ungodly ſhall not ſtand in the judgement, nor ſinners in the congregation of the righteous.

6 For the LORD knoweth the way of the righteous: but the way of the ungodly ſhall periſh.

PSAL. II.

1 The kingdom of Chriſt. 10 Kings are exhorted to ſubmit to it.

WHY do the heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing?

2 The kings of the earth ſet themſelves, and the rulers take counſel together, againſt the LORD, and againſt his anointed, ſaying,

3 Let us break their bands aſunder, and caſt away their cords from us.

4 He that ſitteth in the heavens ſhall laugh: the LORD ſhall have them in deriſion.

5 Then ſhall he ſpeak unto them in his wrath, and vex them in his ſore diſpleaſure.

6 Yet have I ſet my king upon my holy hill of Zion.

Notes on the Firſt Pſalm.

Ver. 1 Bleſſed is the man, &c.] This pſalm may be conſidered as a preface to the enſuing book, containing a ſhort diſcourſe on the end of man, which is bleſſedneſs; and the only way to obtain it, the obſervance of the laws of the Almighty. The pſalmiſt here diſtinguiſhes offenders into three ſeveral ranks; viz. the man that walketh in the counſel of the ungodly, the man that ſtandeth in the way of ſinners, and the man that ſitteth in the ſeat of the ſcornful: by the ſcornful are meant thoſe who not only neglect, but alſo ſcoff at religion, and make a mock at that, which of all things in the world is of the greateſt importance. Walking or ſtanding in the way of ſinners repreſents only particular wicked actions; but ſitting ſignifies a fixt, reſolute eſtabliſhment in a habit of wickedneſs. Clark.

3 He ſhall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, &c.] Behold an emblem of the happineſs of this man in thoſe trees which are planted near the waters of a perpetual fountain, which are always green and flouriſhing, and never fail to reward, with plenty of fruits, the planter's toil: the pious man, in like manner, ſhall be always proſperous: and when death ſhall put a period to his exiſtence here below, he ſhall receive his full recompence of reward. Patrick.

4 Like the chaff.] The ungodly are like the vile chaff which is driven away by the wind: the method of winnowing their corn antiently, and as it is now practiſed in the Eaſt, was by throwing it up againſt the wind with a ſhovel. Shaw.

5 The ungodly ſhall not ſtand in the judgment, &c.] They ſhall loſe their cauſe, or they ſhall not be able to defend themſelves when the great judge of all the earth ſhall reward every man according to his works. Patrick.

6 The Lord knoweth the way, &c.] The Lord regardeth, or approveth the way of the righteous.

Notes on the Second Pſalm.

In this pſalm we have, under the hiſtory of David, whom God exalted from a low eſtate to the throne of Iſrael, a moſt illuſtrious prophecy of the kingdom of Chriſt; for him God raiſed even from the grave, made him the king of glory, and extended his kingdom to the utmoſt parts of the earth, notwithſtanding the rage and malice of the chief-prieſts, Herod, and other princes of the world. Patrick.

Ver. 1 Why do the heathen rage? &c.] What phrenzy poſſeſſeth the Philiſtines, and other neighbouring nations, that they are joined with ſo much fury to oppoſe the power of God, and render abortive the work that he will ſurely bring to paſs.

2 The kings of the earth ſet themſelves, &c.] The kings and governors of the world are confederated to oppoſe the deſigns of God who has anointed me king over his people, in the ſame manner as Herod, Pontius Pilate, and the rulers of Iſrael, will conſpire againſt the Meſſiah, and endeavour to dethrone him to whom God hath given all the kingdoms of the earth. Patrick.

3 Let us break their bands in ſunder, &c.] Let us, ſay they, refuſe to acknowledge the authority of this new monarch, who pretends to reign by the power of the Moſt High.

4 He that ſitteth in the heavens ſhall laugh, &c.] God contemns their vain attempts, and will expoſe them to the deriſion of all thoſe who ſhall behold their folly.

5 Then ſhall he ſpeak unto them in his wrath, &c.] If they madly perſiſt in their oppoſition, he will overwhelm them with the moſt terrible deſtruction.

6 Yet have I ſet my king.] Notwithſtanding all your oppoſition,

7 I will declare the decree: the LORD hath ſaid unto me, Thou art my ſon; this day have I begotten thee.

8 Aſk of me, and I ſhall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermoſt parts of the earth for thy poſſeſſion.

9 Thou ſhalt break them with a rod of iron; thou ſhalt daſh them in pieces like a potter's veſſel.

10 Be wiſe now therefore, O ye kings: be inſtructed, ye judges of the earth.

11 Serve the LORD with fear, and rejoice with trembling.

12 Kiſs the ſon, leſt he be angry, and ye periſh from the way, when his wrath is kindled but a little. Bleſſed are all they that put their truſt in him.

PSAL. III.

The ſecurity of God's protection.

A pſalm of David, when he fled from Abſalom his ſon.

LORD, how are they increaſed that trouble me? many are they that riſe up againſt me.

2 Many there be which ſay of my ſoul, There is no help for him in God. Selah.

3 But thou, O LORD, art a ſhield for me; my glory, and the lifter-up of mine head.

4 I cried unto the LORD with my voice, and he heard me out of his holy hill. Selah.

5 I laid me down and ſlept; I awaked: for the LORD ſuſtained me.

6 I will not be afraid of ten thouſands of people that have ſet themſelves againſt me round about.

7 Ariſe, O LORD: ſave me, O my God: for thou haſt ſmitten all mine enemies upon the cheek-bone; thou haſt broken the teeth of the ungodly.

8 Salvation belongeth unto the LORD: thy bleſſing is upon thy people. Selah.

PSAL. IV.

1 David prayeth for audience. 2 He reproveth and exhorteth his enemies. 6 Man's happineſs is in God's favour.

To the chief muſician on Neginoth, a pſalm of David.

HEAR me when I call, O God of my righteouſneſs: thou haſt enlarged me when I was in diſtreſs; have mercy upon me, and hear my prayer.

2 O ye ſons of men, how long will ye turn my glory into ſhame? how long will ye love vanity, and ſeek after leaſing? Selah.

ſtion, I have given the kingdom to David; and, in future times, I will appoint one of his poſterity to ſit on the throne of glory, on the right hand of the Majeſty on high. Patrick.

7 I will declare the decree, &c.] Such I know is the decree of heaven; and I will publiſh it to the whole world: for, from a low condition, the Lord hath raiſed me to the higheſt dignity. This day I begin to reign by his order, and therefore it may be called the birth-day of my kingdom.

This day have I begotten thee.] As David was a type of Chriſt, therefore God is ſuppoſed to ſpeak this of our Saviour.

8 I ſhall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, &c.] You will ſhortly ſee the whole land, to the river Euphrates, ſubdued unto me; as all the nations of the earth ſhall hereafter be ſubdued under the power of Chriſt. Patrick.

10 Be wiſe now therefore, O ye kings, &c.] Submit therefore to the decrees of heaven; for it will be madneſs to oppoſe the Lord's anointed.

12 Kiſs the ſon, leſt he be angry, &c.] This ſhould have been rendered, obey, or be ſubject to, &c. Several antient verſions read, receive inſtruction, leſt God be angry, &c.

Notes on the Third Pſalm.

Ver. 1 Lord, how are they increaſed that trouble me? &c.] Lord, how amazing the change that has happened to me! I, who was by thee placed on the throne of Iſrael, and lately triumphed over ſo many countries, now ſee mine own ſubjects in arms againſt me, and, with mine own ſon, conſpiring to deprive me both of my crown and life. Patrick.

2 Many there be which ſay of my ſoul, &c.] The generality of the people conſider me as loſt, and ſay thou haſt utterly forſaken me. The word ſelah is often uſed in theſe divine poems; but it is not eaſy to aſſign the true and proper import of it. The Chaldee paraphraſt renders it for ever; and ſo ſeveral of the Rabbins expound it, though they aſſign no ſufficient reaſon for it. The LXX have the word diapſalma, which Suidas interprets, a change of the ſong. Dr. Wall's conjecture in regard to it ſeems well founded, viz. that it is a note ſignifying that the laſt words to which it is added, ſhould be again repeated by the chorus: becauſe it is always affixed at the end of ſome remarkable and pathetic clauſe, proper to be ſung over again.

Notes on the Fourth Pſalm.

Wherever the Hebrew has, To the chief muſician, in the title of a pſalm, the LXX have εις τελος to the end, by which one would think their ſenſe to be, that thoſe pſalms which have this note in their title were to be ſung to the end at once, as being of one continued ſenſe; whereas many of the others conſiſt of parts relating to different matters, or were too long to be ſung to the end at once. Εις τελος is the ſame word which the LXX have Deut. xxxi. 30. Moſes ſpake in the ears of the congregation the words of this ſong εις τελος, to the end, or till they were ended. Wall on Neginoth, i. e. on ſtringed inſtruments.

Ver. 1. Hear me when I call, O God of my righteouſneſs, &c.] Heb. O God, my juſtice, i. e. who juſtifieth me. Lamy.

2 O ye ſons of men.] Mr. Edwards tranſlates it, ſons of man, as agreeable to the original, and ſays there is a great difference between 3 But know that the LORD hath ſet apart him that is godly for himſelf: the LORD will hear when I call unto him.

4 Stand in awe, and ſin not: commune with your own heart upon your bed, and be ſtill. Selah.

5 Offer the ſacrifices of righteouſneſs: and put your truſt in the LORD.

6 There be many that ſay, Who will ſhew us any good? LORD, lift thou up the light of thy countenance upon us.

7 Thou haſt put gladneſs in my heart, more than in the time that their corn and their wine increaſed.

8 I will both lay me down in peace, and ſleep: for thou, LORD, only makeſt me dwell in ſafety.

PSAL. V.

1 David prayeth, and profeſſeth his ſtudy in prayer. 4 God favoureth not the wicked. 7 David profeſſing his faith, prayeth unto God to guide him, 10 to deſtroy his enemies, 11 and to preſerve the godly.

To the chief muſician upon Nehiloth, a pſalm of David.

GIVE ear to my words, O LORD, conſider my meditation.

2 Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my king, and my God: for unto thee will I pray.

3 My voice ſhalt thou hear in the morning, O LORD; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and will look up.

4 For thou art not a God that hath pleaſure in wickedneſs: neither ſhall evil dwell with thee.

5 The fooliſh ſhall not ſtand in thy ſight: thou hateſt all workers of iniquity.

6 Thou ſhalt deſtroy them that ſpeak leaſing: the LORD will abhor the bloody and deceitful man.

7 But as for me, I will come into thy houſe in the multitude of thy mercy: and in thy fear will I worſhip toward thy holy temple.

8 Lead me, O LORD, in thy righteouſneſs, becauſe of mine enemies; make thy way ſtraight before my face.

9 For there is no faithfulneſs in their mouth; their inward part is very wickedneſs: their throat is an open ſepulchre; they flatter with their tongue.

10 Deſtroy thou them, O God; let them fall by their own counſels: caſt them out in the multitude of their tranſgreſſions: for they have rebelled againſt thee.

11 But let all thoſe that put their truſt in thee rejoice: let them ever ſhout for joy; becauſe thou defendeſt them: let them alſo that love thy name be joyful in thee.

12 For thou, LORD, wilt bleſs the righteous; with favour wilt thou compaſs him as with a ſhield.

PSAL. VI.

1 David's complaint in his ſickneſs. 8 By faith he triumpheth over his enemies.

To the chief muſician on Neginoth upon Sheminith, a pſalm of David.

O LORD, rebuke me not in thine anger, neither chaſten me in thy hot diſpleaſure.

2 Have mercy upon me, O LORD; for I between the one and the other: ſons of men are all that are of the race of Adam, but ſons of man are perſons of dignity and rule in the world. Stile of Holy Scrip.

4 Stand in awe and ſin not.] Septuagint. Be ye angry and ſin not; ſo St. Paul recites it, Epheſ. iv. 26.

6 There be many that ſay, &c.] Many are apt to deſpair, but do thou, O Lord, look down favourably upon us, and bleſs us; and then I ſhall be ſatisfied thoſe happy events are not far off. Patrick.

Notes on the Fifth Pſalm.

This pſalm of David was to be ſung, after his troubles were over, in parts to the Nehiloth or organ. But whether it was written on occaſion of the perſecution of Saul, or the rebellion of Abſalom, cannot be determined. Patrick.

Ver. 1 Give ear to my words, O Lord, &c.] Thou beholdeſt the troubles that compaſs me round about; let them induce thee to grant my requeſt, and regard the ſilent ſighs and groans I utter when I call upon thee for relief. Patrick.

6 Thou ſhalt deſtroy them that ſpeak leaſing, &c.] i. e. Thoſe that employ their tongues in falſhoods and lies, to defame me and my government.

9 Their inward part, &c.] It ſhould have been rendered their minds, or conſciences.

10 Deſtroy them, O God.] The LXX read, Judge them, O God.

11 That love thy name.] The name of a perſon is a Hebraiſm, whereby the perſon is frequently expreſſed. Pilkington.

12 For thou, Lord, wilt bleſs the righteous, &c.] Thou wilt crown him with thy favour, and defend him on every ſide, as with an impenetrable ſhield, againſt all the darts of his enemies.

Notes on the Sixth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed after David had recovered from ſome grievous diſeaſe; when he delivered it to the chief muſician, and ordered it to be ſung to the harp of eight ſtrings.

3 O Lord,

am weak: O LORD, heal me; for my bones are vexed.

3 My ſoul is alſo ſore vexed: but thou, O LORD, how long?

4 Return, O LORD, deliver my ſoul: oh, ſave me for thy mercy's ſake.

5 For in death there is no remembrance of thee: in the grave who ſhall give thee thanks?

6 I am weary with my groaning; all the night make I my bed to ſwim: I water my couch with my tears.

7 Mine eye is conſumed becauſe of grief; it waxeth old becauſe of all mine enemies.

8 Depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity: for the LORD hath heard the voice of my weeping.

9 The LORD hath heard my ſupplication; the LORD will receive my prayer.

10 Let all mine enemies be aſhamed and ſore vexed: let them return and be aſhamed ſuddenly.

PSAL. VII.

1 David prayeth againſt the malice of his enemies, profeſſing his innocency. 10 By faith he ſeeth his defence, and the deſtruction of his enemies.

Shiggaion of David, which he ſang unto the LORD concerning the words of Cuſh the Benjamite.

O LORD my God, in thee do I put my truſt: ſave me from all them that perſecute me, and deliver me.

2 Leſt he tear my ſoul like a lion, rending it in pieces, while there is none to deliver.

3 O LORD my God, if I have done this; if there be iniquity in my hands:

4 If I have rewarded evil unto him that was at peace with me: (yea, I have delivered him that without cauſe is mine enemy:)

5 Let the enemy perſecute my ſoul, and take it: yea, let him tread down my life upon the earth, and lay mine honour in the duſt. Selah.

6 Ariſe, O LORD, in thine anger, lift up thy ſelf, becauſe of the rage of mine enemies: and awake for me to the judgement that thou haſt commanded.

7 So ſhall the congregation of the people compaſs thee about: for their ſakes therefore return thou on high.

8 The LORD ſhall judge the people: judge me, O LORD, according to my righteouſneſs, and according to mine integrity that is in me.

9 Oh, let the wickedneſs of the wicked come to an end; but eſtabliſh the juſt: for the righteous God trieth the hearts and reins.

10 My defence is of God, which ſaveth the upright in heart.

11 God judgeth the righteous, and God is angry with the wicked every day.

12 If he turn not, he will whet his ſword; he hath bent his bow, and made it ready.

13 He hath alſo prepared for him the inſtruments of death; he ordaineth his arrows againſt the perſecutors.

14 Behold, he travelleth with iniquity, and hath conceived miſchief, and brought forth falſhood.

15 He made a pit and digged it, and is fallen into the ditch which he made.

16 His miſchief ſhall return upon his own head, and his violent dealing ſhall come down upon his own pate.

17 I will praiſe the LORD according to his righteouſneſs; and will ſing praiſe to the name of the LORD moſt high.

Ver. 3. O Lord, how long?] The other verſion reads, How long wilt thou puniſh me?

5 For in death there is no remembrance of thee, &c.] The dead are utterly unable to commemorate thy wonderful works, and propagate the memory of them to poſterity.

10 Let all mine enemies be aſhamed.] The other verſion reads, all mine enemies ſhall be confounded, &c. which ſeems not ſo conſiſtent with the ſentiments of David, as implying too great confidence. Pilkington.

Notes on the Seventh Pſalm.

This excellent pſalm was written by David, to commemorate the loving kindneſs of the Lord on occaſion of ſome calumnies and falſe accuſations, which Cuſh, one of the ſame tribe with Saul, had charged him with. Some are of opinion, that by Cuſh was meant Saul himſelf the ſon of Kiſh. Patrick.

Ver. 2 Leſt he tear my ſoul like a lion, &c.] For if thou doſt not protect me, I am no more able to oppoſe Saul, than a lamb to defend itſelf againſt a lion.

9 God trieth the hearts and reins.] God trieth the thoughts or conſciences of men.

11 God judgeth the righteous.] Liturgy verſion, God is a righteous judge.

PSAL. VIII.

God's glory is magnified by his works, and by his love to man.

To the chief muſician upon Gittith, a pſalm of David.

O LORD our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth! who haſt ſet thy glory above the heavens.

2 Out of the mouth of babes and ſucklings haſt thou ordained ſtrength becauſe of thine enemies, that thou mighteſt ſtill the enemy and the avenger.

3 When I conſider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers; the moon and the ſtars, which thou haſt ordained;

4 What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the ſon of man, that thou viſiteſt him?

5 For thou haſt made him a little lower than the angels, and haſt crowned him with glory and honour.

6 Thou madeſt him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou haſt put all things under his feet:

7 All ſheep and oxen, yea, and the beaſts of the field;

8 The fowl of the air, and the fiſh of the ſea, and whatſoever paſſeth through the paths of the ſeas.

9 O LORD our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth!

PSAL. IX.

1 David praiſeth God for executing of judgement. 11 He inciteth others to praiſe him. 13 He prayeth that he may have cauſe to praiſe him.

To the chief muſician upon Muth-labben, a pſalm of David.

I Will praiſe thee, O LORD, with my whole heart; I will ſhew forth all thy marvellous works.

2 I will be glad and rejoice in thee: I will ſing praiſe to thy name, O thou moſt High.

3 When mine enemies are turned back, they ſhall fall and periſh at thy preſence.

4 For thou haſt maintained my right and my cauſe; thou ſatteſt in the throne judging right.

5 Thou haſt rebuked the heathen, thou haſt deſtroyed the wicked, thou haſt put out their name for ever and ever.

6 O thou enemy, deſtructions are come to a perpetual end: and thou haſt deſtroyed cities; their memorial is periſhed with them.

7 But the LORD ſhall endure for ever: he hath prepared his throne for judgement.

8 And he ſhall judge the world in righteouſneſs, he ſhall miniſter judgement to the people in uprightneſs.

9 The LORD alſo will be a refuge for the oppreſſed, a refuge in times of trouble.

10 And they that know thy name will put their truſt in thee: for thou, LORD, haſt not forſaken them that ſeek thee.

Notes on the Eighth Pſalm.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, after he had obtained ſome memorable victory, probably after he had ſlain Goliath of Gath; for the account of that event is very agreeable to the ſubject of the pſalm, and a lively emblem of Chriſt's conqueſt over our great enemy the devil.

Ver. 2 Haſt thou ordained ſtrength.] Septuagint reads, haſt thou perfected praiſe? ſo it is quoted Matt. xxi. 16.

3, 4 When I conſider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, &c.] When I contemplate the vaſtneſs of the heavens, and thoſe ſtupendous orbs which thou haſt placed there in the moſt beautiful order, I am aſtoniſhed to think that thou ſhouldeſt condeſcend to ſhow ſuch remarkable favour to man; and in particular to me, who am the meaneſt of my father's houſe. Nay, even that thou ſhouldeſt advance our natures by means of the ſon of man, the great Meſſiah, whom the world will vilify and deſpiſe, exceeds all wonder, and ought to be the ſubject of our perpetual admiration. Patrick.

4 What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the ſon of man, &c.] The loweſt and the higheſt of men.

5 Thou haſt made him a little lower than the angels, &c.] Thou haſt raiſed man to ſuch a pitch of dignity, and honoured him ſo highly, that he is but little inferior to the heavenly hoſts: and, by the mediation of thine own ſon, who ſhall take our nature upon him, thou wilt crown him with glory and honour. Patrick.

6 Put all things in ſubjection under his feet.] The ſame phraſe is uſed in the Latin language. See Virg. Georg. II. 492. and Æneid VII. 100.

Notes on the Ninth Pſalm.

This pſalm was written by David on ſome great diſtreſs; wherein he commemorates the many deliverances God has wrought for him: but it is not eaſy to determine the particular occaſion on which it was made.

Ver. 1 I will praiſe thee, O Lord, with my whole heart, &c.] I will acknowledge thy unſpeakable goodneſs, O God, with the moſt ſincere devotion and affection: I will commemorate all the works thou haſt done for me.

3 Shall periſh at thy preſence.] It ſhould have been rendered, ſhall periſh by thine anger.

10 They that know thy name.] i. e. Thoſe who have a juſt notion of thy veracity and goodneſs. Clark.

11 Sing praiſes to the LORD, which dwelleth in Zion: declare among the people his doings.

12 When he maketh inquiſition for blood, he remembereth them: he forgetteth not the cry of the humble.

13 Have mercy upon me, O LORD; conſider my trouble which I ſuffer of them that hate me, thou that lifteſt me up from the gates of death;

14 That I may ſhew forth all thy praiſe in the gates of the daughter of Zion: I will rejoice in thy ſalvation.

15 The heathen are ſunk down in the pit that they made: in the net which they hid is their own foot taken.

16 The LORD is known by the judgement which he executeth: the wicked is ſnared in the work of his own hands. Higgaion; Selah.

17 The wicked ſhall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God.

18 For the needy ſhall not alway be forgotten: the expectation of the poor ſhall not periſh for ever.

19 Ariſe, O LORD; let not man prevail: let the heathen be judged in thy ſight.

20 Put them in fear, O LORD: that the nations may know themſelves to be but men. Selah.

PSAL. X.

1 David complaineth to God of the outrage of the wicked. 12 He prayeth for remedy. 16 He profeſſeth his confidence.

WHY ſtandeſt thou afar off, O LORD? why hideſt thou thy ſelf in times of trouble?

2 The wicked in his pride doth perſecute the poor: let them be taken in the devices that they have imagined.

3 For the wicked boaſteth of his heart's deſire, and bleſſeth the covetous, whom the LORD abhorreth.

4 The wicked, through the pride of his countenance, will not ſeek after God: God is not in all his thoughts.

5 His ways are always grievous; thy judgements are far above out of his ſight: as for all his enemies, he puffeth at them.

6 He hath ſaid in his heart, I ſhall not be moved: for I ſhall never be in adverſity.

7 His mouth is full of curſing and deceit and fraud: under his tongue is miſchief and vanity.

8 He ſitteth in the lurking-places of the villages: in the ſecret places doth he murder the innocent: his eyes are privily ſet againſt the poor.

9 He lieth in wait ſecretly as a lion in his den: he lieth in wait to catch the poor: he doth catch the poor when he draweth him into his net.

10 He croucheth and humbleth himſelf, that the poor may fall by his ſtrong ones.

11 He hath ſaid in his heart, God hath forgotten: he hideth his face; he will never ſee it.

12 Ariſe, O LORD; O God, lift up thine hand: forget not the humble.

13 Wherefore doth the wicked contemn God? he hath ſaid in his heart, Thou wilt not require it.

14 Thou haſt ſeen it; for thou beholdeſt miſchief and ſpite to requite it with thy hand:

---

12 The cry of the humble.] In the other verſion, more properly, the complaint of the poor.

14 The daughter of Zion.] It was a common turn of the Hebrew and Phœnician languages to ſay, that a city or country was the daughter of the rocks, rivers, or mountains that ſurrounded her, or that were incloſed within her walls. Thus Jeruſalem is often called the daughter of Sion, i. e. daughter of drought, or the daughter of the barren hills contained within its compaſs. Hiſtory of the Heavens.

18 The needy ſhall not always be forgotten, &c.] The Lord will, in his own due time, convince the wicked that he doth not neglect the righteous, when they are poor and helpleſs; though, for the preſent, he defers their relief. Let them therefore patiently wait upon him under their afflictions, and he will not fail to deliver them. Patrick.

Notes on the Tenth Pſalm.

It is not known by whom, or on what occaſion, this pſalm was compoſed: it is, however, a lively deſcription of the inſolence of wicked atheiſtical men, when they have acquired power and authority, by which they abuſe thoſe that are under them, making no conſcience of uſing the baſeſt arts to compaſs their ends. Patrick.

Ver. 1 Why ſtandeſt thou afar off, O Lord? &c.] Why, O Lord, withdraweſt thou thyſelf ſo far from us, and doſt not come to our relief in theſe grievous troubles?

3 And bleſſeth the covetous.] The margin reads, the covetous bleſſeth himſelf: the other verſion, and ſpeaketh good of the covetous, &c.

4 God is not in all his thoughts.] i. e. By an uſual Hebraiſm, God is not at all in his thoughts.

12 Ariſe, O Lord; O God, lift up thine hand: forget not the humble.] Confute, O Lord, the blaſphemies of theſe wicked men; and ſtretch forth thy hand to confound theſe violent oppreſſors, and to relieve all thine afflicted ſervants. Patrick.

Notes

the poor committeth himſelf unto thee; thou art the helper of the fatherleſs.

15 Break thou the arm of the wicked and the evil man: ſeek out his wickedneſs till thou find none.

16 The LORD is King for ever and ever: the heathen are periſhed out of his land.

17 LORD, thou haſt heard the deſire of the humble; thou wilt prepare their heart, thou wilt cauſe their ear to hear;

18 To judge the fatherleſs and the oppreſſed, that the man of the earth may no more oppreſs.

PSAL. XI.

1 David encourageth himſelf in God againſt his enemies. 4 The providence and juſtice of God.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

IN the LORD put I my truſt: how ſay ye to my ſoul, Flee as a bird to your mountain?

2 For lo, the wicked bend their bow, they make ready their arrow upon the ſtring; that they may privily ſhoot at the upright in heart.

3 If the foundations be deſtroyed, what can the righteous do?

4 The LORD is in his holy temple, the LORD's throne is in heaven: his eyes behold, his eye-lids try the children of men.

5 The LORD trieth the righteous: but the wicked and him that loveth violence his ſoul hateth.

6 Upon the wicked he ſhall rain ſnares, fire and brimſtone, and an horrible tempeſt: this ſhall be the portion of their cup.

7 For the righteous LORD loveth righteouſneſs; his countenance doth behold the upright.

PSAL. XII.

1 David, deſtitute of human comfort, craveth help of God. 3 He comforteth himſelf with God's judgements on the wicked, and confidence in God's tried promiſes.

To the chief muſician upon Sheminith, a pſalm of David.

HELP, LORD; for the godly man ceaſeth; for the faithful fail from among the children of men.

2 They ſpake vanity every one with his neighbour: with flattering lips, and with a double heart do they ſpeak.

3 The LORD ſhall cut off all flattering lips, and the tongue that ſpeaketh proud things:

4 Who have ſaid, With our tongue will we prevail; our lips are our own: who is lord over us?

5 For the oppreſſion of the poor, for the ſighing of the needy, now will I ariſe, ſaith the LORD: I will ſet him in ſafety from him that puffeth at him.

6 The words of the LORD are pure words: as ſilver tried in a furnace of earth, purified ſeven times.

7 Thou ſhalt keep them, O LORD, thou ſhalt preſerve them from this generation for ever.

8 The wicked walk on every ſide, when the vileſt men are exalted.

PSAL. XIII.

1 David complaineth of delay in help. 3 He prayeth for preventing grace. 5 He boaſteth of divine mercy.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

Notes on the Eleventh Pſalm.

The title tells us, that this is a pſalm of David; and in all probability was compoſed when Saul perſecuted him, and ſome adviſed him to ſeek his ſafety by flight, into the mountainous country of Judea: and afterwards, when he was ſettled on the throne, it was ſung in the tabernacle, in commemoration of what then paſſed between him and his friends, and the entire confidence he placed on the Almighty. Patrick.

Ver. 1 In the Lord put I my truſt, &c.] It is neither in fortreſſes nor friends that I place my ſafety; the Lord alone is my defence, why then ſhould you bid me flee away like a timorous bird from the ſnare of the fowler, to your mountain of ſecurity?

3 If the foundations be deſtroyed.] If men have no regard to laws and public decrees, which are the foundations of ſociety, what can an honeſt man do?

6 Upon the wicked he ſhall rain ſnares, &c.] He ſhall deſtroy the wicked with ſudden and terrible judgments. Snares in ſcripture often ſignify extraordinary puniſhments: here probably the ſimile is continued from ver. 1. Flee as a bird, &c.

Notes on the Twelfth Pſalm.

This pſalm was to be ſung, like the ſixth, upon the harp of eight ſtrings. It is a ſad complaint of the corrupt manners of that age, particularly of the court of Saul, where it was hardly poſſible to find a truly ſincere and honeſt man. Some are of opinion, that it is principally directed againſt Doeg and the falſe Ziphites, who promiſed him their friendſhip with no other intention than to deliver him into the hand of Saul. Patrick.

Ver. 8 The wicked walk on every ſide, &c.] The wicked, when they ſee thoſe perſons whom they looked upon with contempt, exalted to the higheſt poſts of honour and dignity, will not know which way to turn themſelves for anger and vexation. Patrick.

Notes

HOW long wilt thou forget me, O LORD, for ever? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me?

2 How long ſhall I take counſel in my ſoul, having ſorrow in my heart daily? how long ſhall mine enemy be exalted over me?

3 Conſider and hear me, O LORD my God: lighten mine eyes, leſt I ſleep the ſleep of death:

4 Leſt mine enemy ſay, I have prevailed againſt him: and thoſe that trouble me rejoice when I am moved.

5 But I have truſted in thy mercy; my heart ſhall rejoice in thy ſalvation.

6 I will ſing unto the LORD, becauſe he hath dealt bountifully with me.

PSAL. XIV.

1 David deſcribeth the corruption of a natural man; 4 convinceth the wicked by the light of their conſcience; 7 glorieth in the ſalvation of God.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

THE fool hath ſaid in his heart, There is no God: they are corrupt; they have done abominable works; there is none that doeth good.

2 The LORD looked down from heaven upon the children of men, to ſee if there were any that did underſtand, and ſeek God.

3 They are all gone aſide; they are all together become filthy: there is none that doeth good, no not one.

4 Have all the workers of iniquity no knowledge? who eat up my people as they eat bread, and call not upon the LORD.

5 There were they in great fear: for God is in the generation of the righteous.

6 Ye have ſhamed the counſel of the poor; becauſe the LORD is his refuge.

7 Oh, that the ſalvation of Iſrael were come out of Zion! when the LORD bringeth back the captivity of his people, Jacob ſhall rejoice, and Iſrael ſhall be glad.

PSAL. XV.

David deſcribeth a citizen of Zion.

A pſalm of David.

LORD, who ſhall abide in thy tabernacle? who ſhall dwell in thy holy hill?

2 He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteouſneſs, and ſpeaketh the truth in his heart.

Notes on the Thirteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm relates to ſome remarkable diſtreſs, probably the rebellion of Abſalom.

Ver. 2 How long ſhall I take counſel in my ſoul? &c.] I am always conſulting where I can preſerve my life, but can find no place of ſecurity! the great power of the enemy threatens, like a ſudden tempeſt, to overwhelm me! when will his cruel attempts be fruſtrated? Patrick.

3 Conſider and hear me, O Lord my God, &c.] O Lord, I beſeech thee to commiſerate my affliction, and, as thou haſt hitherto done, to anſwer my prayer. Inſpire me with wiſdom, that I may eſcape the ſnares laid for me, and chear me under theſe heavy afflictions, leſt mine enemy take advantage of my mournful depreſſion of ſpirit, and deſtroy me. Patrick.

6 I will ſing unto the Lord, &c.] I will acknowledge the Lord with the moſt chearful hymns of praiſe and thankſgiving, becauſe he hath dealt ſo kindly with me, not according to my merits, but according to my hope and truſt in his inconceivable mercy.

Notes on the Fourteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm, in all probability, refers to the univerſal apoſtacy of the people during the rebellion of Abſalom, from the allegiance they owed David as their king, and from the duty they owed their Creator.

Ver. 1 The fool hath ſaid in his heart, there is no God, &c.] The wicked, though not ſo imprudent as to deny openly the being of a God, yet they certainly flatter themſelves in ſecret with the thought, that either there is no God, or that he is indifferent with regard to the tranſactions of mankind, and will never call them to an account for their abominations.

3 There is none that doth good, no not one.] This is not to be underſtood in a ſtrict literal ſenſe, but only that the number of the righteous was inconſiderable in compariſon of the wicked. The word almoſt ſhould be inſerted; there is almoſt none that doth good, &c. The Vatican copy, the Vulgar Latin, and our Litany tranſlation add here ſix or ſeven ſentences, which St. Paul, after he has cited this verſe, quotes Rom. iii. 13, &c. from whence it is evident, that the Vatican verſion was made from a Hebrew copy, in which this paſſage was in the ſame ſtate as we find it quoted by St. Paul. This gives the greateſt ſanction poſſible to the authority of this verſion: and hence we have as clear a proof as can be given, of a manifeſt and remarkable omiſſion in the preſent Hebrew text, which appears to have been perfect, at leaſt in this particular, at the time when the verſion was made. Pilkington.

6 Ye have ſhamed the counſel of the poor, &c.] Ye derided that ſmall party of men, who were determined to preſerve their integrity and loyalty, and to wait patiently upon God, and truſt in him alone for ſafety. Patrick.

7 O that the ſalvation of Iſrael were come out of Zion!] O that it would pleaſe God to reſtore us again to the happy enjoyment of Jeruſalem from whence we are baniſhed! then would our lamentations be turned into pſalms of thankſgiving. Patrick.

Notes on the Fifteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed when he brought the ark to mount Sion.

Ver. 1 Lord, who ſhall abide in thy tabernacle? &c.] Lord, what happineſs haſt thou conferred on thy people, by deigning to dwell among them, even in this mountain, on which thou haſt pitched thy tabernacle?

2 He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteouſneſs, &c.]

3 He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbour, nor taketh up a reproach againſt his neighbour.

4 In whoſe eyes a vile perſon is contemned: but he honoureth them that fear the LORD: he that ſweareth to his own hurt, and changeth not.

5 He that putteth not out his money to uſury, nor taketh reward againſt the innocent. He that doth theſe things ſhall never be moved.

PSAL. XVI.

1 David in diſtruſt of merits, and hatred of idolatry, fleeth to God for preſervation. 5 He ſheweth the hope of his calling, of the reſurrection, and life everlaſting.

Michtam of David.

PReſerve me, O God: for in thee do I put my truſt.

2 O my ſoul, thou haſt ſaid unto the LORD, Thou art my Lord: my goodneſs extendeth not to thee;

3 But to the ſaints that are in the earth, and to the excellent, in whom is all my delight.

4 Their ſorrows ſhall be multiplied that haſten after another god: their drink-offerings of blood will I not offer, nor take up their names into my lips.

5 The LORD is the portion of mine inheritance, and of my cup: thou maintaineſt my lot.

6 The lines are fallen unto me in pleaſant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage.

7 I will bleſs the LORD, who hath given me counſel: my reins alſo inſtruct me in the night ſeaſons.

8 I have ſet the LORD always before me: becauſe he is at my right hand, I ſhall not be moved.

9 Therefore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoiceth: my fleſh alſo ſhall reſt in hope.

10 For thou wilt not leave my ſoul in hell: neither wilt thou ſuffer thine Holy One to ſee corruption.

11 Thou wilt ſhew me the path of life: in thy preſence is fulneſs of joy, at thy right hand there are pleaſures for evermore.

PSAL. XVII.

1 David in confidence of his integrity, craveth defence of God againſt his enemies. 10 He ſheweth their pride, craft, and eagerneſs. 13 He prayeth againſt them in confidence of his hope.

A prayer of David.

HEAR the right, O LORD, attend unto my cry, give ear unto my prayer that goeth not out of feigned lips.

Methinks I hear thee anſwer by an audible voice from thy holy oracle, ſaying, Not all that are deſcendants from Abraham, nor all that offer me ſacrifices, and obſerve the appointed ceremonious rites of religion, but him only who exerciſeth juſtice and mercy to his neighbour, as well as piety to his Maker. Patrick.

4 He that ſweareth to his own hurt, and changeth not.] He who hath ſo true a reſpect to religion, that whatever he promiſes with an oath, he never fails to perform, however injurious it may prove to his private fortune.

5 He that putteth not out his money to uſury, &c.] He who never makes an exorbitant profit by lending his money to his indigent brethren, and maintains his integrity ſo ſtrictly when in power, that no bribe can corrupt him to condemn the innocent, or abſolve the guilty.

Notes on the Sixteenth Pſalm.

This excellent pſalm of David is worthy of being inſcribed on a pillar of adamant, that it may endure to all poſterity; for, beſides admirable expreſſions of his faith in God, it contains a prophecy of our bleſſed Redeemer's reſurrection from the dead. Patrick.

Ver. 2 My goodneſs extendeth not to thee.] No merits of mine can claim thy favour.

4 Their ſorrows ſhall be multiplied, that haſten after another god] They here multiply idols, and are zealous in the ſervice of another god. Patrick.

Nor take up their names within my lips] The Jews were afraid to mention the names of the heathen deities, and therefore gave them borrowed names. Lamy.

5 The Lord is the portion of mine inheritance.] The Almighty is the God whom I adore: and while I put my confidence in him, he will ſupport me. Cup here ſignifies inheritance.

6 The lines are fallen unto me in pleaſant places, &c.] The kingdom he hath ſettled upon me is remarkable pleaſant; they meaſured their lands by lines.

7 My reins inſtruct me, &c.] i. e. My thoughts.

9 My glory rejoiceth.] i. e. My ſoul, ſome read, my tongue. See Pſal. xxx. 12.

10 Thou wilt not leave my ſoul in hell, &c.] It is very remarkable, that the printed Hebrew copies have the plural number here inſtead of the ſingular, and therefore read, Thou wilt not ſuffer thy ſaints to ſee corruption; whereby the ſtrong reaſoning of St. Peter and St. Paul is intirely invalidated. See Kennicott's excellent Diſſert. on this text, paſſim.

Notes on the Seventeenth Pſalm.

This prayer of David ſeems to have been written at the beginning of his perſecutions by Saul, when the courtiers, inſtigated by malice and envy, accuſed him of crimes which never entered his thoughts. Patrick.

Ver. 1 Hear the right, O Lord, &c.] Such falſe accuſations, O Lord, oppreſs me greatly; but my only appeal is to thee, who art the righteous Judge of all the earth; beſeeching thee to deal with me according to the juſtice of my cauſe. Patrick.

2 Let my ſentence come forth from thy preſence; let there eyes behold the things that are equal.

3 Thou haſt proved mine heart, thou haſt viſited me in the night; thou haſt tried me, and ſhall find nothing; I am purpoſed that my mouth ſhall not tranſgreſs.

4 Concerning the works of men, by the word of my lips, I have kept me from the paths of the deſtroyer.

5 Hold up my goings in thy paths, that my footſteps ſlip not.

6 I have called upon thee; for thou wilt hear me, O God; incline thine ear unto me, and hear my ſpeech.

7 Shew thy marvellous loving-kindneſs, O thou that ſaveſt by thy right hand them which put their truſt in thee from thoſe that riſe up againſt them.

8 Keep me as the apple of the eye: hide me under the ſhadow of thy wings,

9 From the wicked that oppreſs me, from my daily enemies, who compaſs me about.

10 They are incloſed in their own fat: with their mouth they ſpeak proudly.

11 They have now compaſſed us in our ſteps: they have ſet their eyes bowing down to the earth;

12 Like as a lion that is greedy of his prey, and as it were a young lion lurking in ſecret places.

13 Ariſe, O LORD, diſappoint him, caſt him down: deliver my ſoul from the wicked, which is thy ſword:

14 From men, which are thy hand, O LORD, from men of the world, which have their portion in this life, and whoſe belly thou filleſt with thy hid treaſure: they are full of children, and leave the reſt of their ſubſtance to their babes.

15 As for me, I will behold thy face in righteouſneſs: I ſhall be ſatisfied, when I awake, with thy likeneſs.

PSAL. XVIII.

David praiſeth God for his manifold and marvellous bleſſings.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David, the ſervant of the LORD, who ſpake unto the LORD the words of this ſong in the day that the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul: and he ſaid,

I Will love thee, O LORD my ſtrength.

2 The LORD is my rock, and my fortreſs, and my deliverer; my God, my ſtrength, in whom I will truſt; my buckler, and the horn of my ſalvation, and my high tower.

3 I will call upon the LORD, who is worthy to be praiſed: ſo ſhall I be ſaved from mine enemies.

4 The ſorrows of death compaſſed me, and the floods of ungodly men made me afraid.

5 The ſorrows of hell compaſſed me about: the ſnares of death prevented me.

6 In my diſtreſs I called upon the LORD, and cried unto my God: he heard my voice out of his temple, and my cry came before him, even into his ears.

7 Then the earth ſhook and trembled; the foundations alſo of the hills moved and were ſhaken, becauſe he was wroth.

8 Then went up a ſmoke out of his noſtrils, and fire out of his mouth devoured: coals were kindled by it.

9 He bowed the heavens alſo, and came down: and darkneſs was under his feet.

10 And he rode upon a cherub, and did fly: yea, he did fly upon the wings of the wind.

11 He made darkneſs his ſecret place; his pavilion round about him were dark waters and thick clouds of the ſkies.

---

6 Thou wilt hear me.] It would be more proper thus, Thou canſt hear me. Pilkington.

10 They are incloſed in their own fat.] Their proſperity makes them haughty and proud, and by indulging the appetites of the fleſh, they diſregard the duties of religion.

13, 14 From the wicked, which is thy ſword.] Dr. Hammond tranſlates it thus, Deliver my ſoul from the wicked by thy ſword; and by thy hand from the men of this age, which have, &c.

Notes on the Eighteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm is nearly the ſame as the 22d chapter of 2 Sam. and therefore the reader will find it explained in that place.

Ver. 1 I will love thee, O Lord, my ſtrength.] I will love thee, O Lord, to whom I owe my ſafety with the moſt paſſionate and ardent affection as long as life continues.

12 At the brightneſs that was before him his thick clouds paſſed; hail-ſtones and coals of fire.

13 The LORD alſo thundered in the heavens, and the Higheſt gave his voice; hail-ſtones and coals of fire.

14 Yea, he ſent out his arrows, and ſcattered them; and he ſhot out lightnings, and diſcomfited them.

15 Then the chanels of water were ſeen, and the foundations of the world were diſcovered at thy rebuke, O LORD, at the blaſt of the breath of thy noſtrils.

16 He ſent from above, he took me, he drew me out of many waters.

17 He delivered me from my ſtrong enemy, and from them which hated me: for they were too ſtrong for me.

18 They prevented me in the day of my calamity: but the LORD was my ſtay.

19 He brought me forth alſo into a large place: he delivered me, becauſe he delighted in me.

20 The LORD rewarded me according to my righteouſneſs; according to the cleanneſs of my hands hath he recompenſed me.

21 For I have kept the ways of the LORD, and have not wickedly departed from my God.

22 For all his judgments were before me, and I did not put away his ſtatutes from me.

23 I was alſo upright before him, and I kept my ſelf from mine iniquity.

24 Therefore hath the LORD recompenſed me according to my righteouſneſs, according to the cleanneſs of my hands in his eye-ſight.

25 With the merciful thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf merciful; and with an upright man thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf upright:

26 With the pure thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf pure; and with the froward thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf froward.

27 For thou wilt ſave the afflicted people; but wilt bring down high looks.

28 For thou wilt light my candle: the LORD my God will enlighten my darkneſs.

29 For by thee I have run through a troop, and by my God have I leaped over a wall.

30 As for God, his way is perfect: the word of the LORD is tried: he is a buckler to all thoſe that truſt in him.

31 For who is God ſave the LORD? or who is a rock ſave our God?

32 It is God that girdeth me with ſtrength, and maketh my way perfect.

33 He maketh my feet like hinds feet, and ſetteth me upon my high places.

34 He teacheth my hands to war, ſo that a bow of ſteel is broken by mine arms.

35 Thou haſt alſo given me the ſhield of thy ſalvation: and thy right hand hath holden me up, and thy gentleneſs hath made me great.

36 Thou haſt enlarged my ſteps under me; that my feet did not ſlip.

37 I have purſued mine enemies, and overtaken them: neither did I turn again till they were conſumed.

38 I have wounded them that they were not able to riſe: they are fallen under my feet.

39 For thou haſt girded me with ſtrength unto battle: thou haſt ſubdued under me thoſe that roſe up againſt me.

40 Thou haſt alſo given me the necks of mine enemies; that I might deſtroy them that hate me.

41 They cried, but there was none to ſave them: even unto the LORD, but he anſwered them not.

42 Then did I beat them as ſmall as the duſt before the wind: I did caſt them out as the dirt in the ſtreets.

43 Thou haſt delivered me from the ſtrivings of the people; and thou haſt made me the head of the heathen: a people whom I have not known ſhall ſerve me.

44 As ſoon as they hear of me, they ſhall obey me: the ſtrangers ſhall ſubmit themſelves unto me.

45 The ſtrangers ſhall fade away, and be afraid out of their cloſe places.

46 The LORD liveth, and bleſſed be my rock: and let the God of my ſalvation be exalted.

47 It is God that avengeth me, and ſubdueth the people under me.

48 He delivereth me from mine enemies:

15 At the blaſt of the breath of thy noſtrils.] i. e. At the anger of the Lord.

yea, thou liſteſt me up above thoſe that riſe up againſt me: thou haſt delivered me from the violent man.

49 Therefore will I give thanks unto thee, O LORD, among the heathen, and ſing praiſes unto thy name.

50 Great deliverance giveth he to his king; and ſheweth mercy to his anointed, to David, and to his ſeed for evermore.

PSAL. XIX.

1 The creatures ſhew God's glory; 7 the word, his grace. 12 David prayeth for grace.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

THE heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament ſheweth his handy work.

2 Day unto day uttereth ſpeech, and night unto night ſheweth knowledge.

3 There is no ſpeech nor language, where their voice is not heard.

4 Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. In them hath he ſet a tabernacle for the ſun;

5 Which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a ſtrong man to run a race.

6 His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it: and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

7 The law of the LORD is perfect, converting the ſoul: the teſtimony of the LORD is ſure, making wiſe the ſimple.

8 The ſtatutes of the LORD are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the LORD is pure, enlightening the eyes.

9 The fear of the LORD is clean, enduring for ever: the judgements of the LORD are true and righteous altogether.

10 More to be deſired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: ſweeter alſo than honey, and the honey-comb.

11 Moreover, by them is thy ſervant warned: and in keeping of them there is great reward.

12 Who can underſtand his errors? cleanſe thou me from ſecret faults.

13 Keep back thy ſervant alſo from preſumptuous ſins, let them not have dominion over me; then ſhall I be upright, and I ſhall be innocent from the great tranſgreſſion.

14 Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy ſight, O LORD, my ſtrength, and my redeemer.

PSAL. XX.

1 The church bleſſeth the king in his exploits. 7 Her confidence in God's ſuccour.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

THE LORD hear thee in the day of trouble; the name of the God of Jacob defend thee.

Notes on the Nineteenth Pſalm.

Ver. 1 The heavens declare the glory of God, &c.] There is no part of this ſurpriſing fabrick of the world which doth not direct us to an Almighty Being, by whom it was created: but the heavens, decorated with ſuch an innumerable number of glorious orbs, in a particular manner proclaim aloud to all the ſons of men the immenſe greatneſs, power, wiſdom, and goodneſs of God. Patrick.

2 Day unto day uttereth ſpeech, &c.] By their revolutions the day and the night are formed; from whoſe conſtant ſucceſſion, and commodious variations flow perpetual inſtructions, and the profoundeſt knowledge. Patrick.

3 There is no ſpeech, nor language, &c.] They cannot indeed uſe articulate ſounds like man; nor do we hear them utter any words; but though deſtitute of theſe, they are ſufficiently underſtood by all nations, even the barbarous, to whom the rays of human knowledge have never extended.

4 Their line is gone out through all the earth, &c.] The other verſion reads, their ſound.

In them hath he ſet a tabernacle for the ſun.] The eſpouſals of the Jews were made under a tent or canopy, erected for the purpoſe, which cuſtom is here alluded to.

5 Which is as a bridegroom, &c.] This ſeems to refer to a cuſtom which prevailed then among the Jews, and ſtill prevails among ſome eaſtern nations, of the bridegroom's going out at midnight accompanied with flambeaus; darkneſs flying before the ſun and bridegroom.

13 Preſumptuous ſins.] Septuagint reads, ſtrange gods.

14 Let the words of my mouth, &c.] Let the ſacrifices offered with a ſincere heart, be acceptable in thy ſight, O Lord.

Notes on the Twentieth Pſalm.

The learned and judicious Dr. Pearce obſerves, that this pſalm ſeems not only to have been drawn for general uſe, on ſome day appointed for public worſhip, but to have been ſung in parts alternately by David and his ſubjects; the five firſt verſes appear plainly to have been deſigned for the voice of the people, The Lord hear thee, &c. and then David, encouraged by the unanimous prayers of his ſubjects, replied, Now know I that the Lord ſaveth, &c. The people then ſeem to have gone on, as in the text, and ſo cloſed their devotions with the remainder of the pſalm.

Ver. 1 The Lord hear thee, in the day of trouble, &c.] The Lord, who never fails thoſe that ſeek him, hear thy prayer in the day of affliction; the mighty God who hath made a covenant with Jacob and his poſterity protect thee. Patrick.

2 Send thee help from the ſanctuary, and ſtrengthen thee out of Zion.

3 Remember all thy offerings, and accept thy burnt-ſacrifice. Selah.

4 Grant thee according to thine own heart, and fulfil all thy counſel.

5 We will rejoice in thy ſalvation, and in the name of our God we will ſet up our banners: the LORD fulfil all thy petitions.

6 Now know I that the LORD ſaveth his anointed: he will hear him from his holy heaven, with the ſaving ſtrength of his right hand.

7 Some truſt in chariots, and ſome in horſes: but we will remember the name of the LORD our God.

8 They are brought down and fallen, we are riſen and ſtand upright.

9 Save, LORD: let the king hear us when we call.

PSAL. XXI.

1 A thankſgiving for victory. 7 Confidence of further ſucceſs.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

THE king ſhall joy in thy ſtrength, O LORD; and in thy ſalvation how greatly ſhall he rejoice!

2 Thou haſt given him his heart's deſire, and haſt not with-holden the requeſt of his lips. Selah.

3 For thou preventeſt him with the bleſſings of goodneſs: thou ſetteſt a crown of pure gold on his head.

4 He aſked life of thee, and thou gaveſt it him, even length of days for ever and ever.

5 His glory is great in thy ſalvation: honour and majeſty haſt thou laid upon him.

6 For thou haſt made him moſt bleſſed for ever: thou haſt made him exceeding glad with thy countenance.

7 For the king truſteth in the LORD, and through the mercy of the moſt High he ſhall not be moved.

8 Thine hand ſhall find out all thine enemies: thy right hand ſhall find out thoſe that hate thee.

9 Thou ſhalt make them as a fiery oven in the time of thine anger: the LORD ſhall ſwallow them up in his wrath, and the fire ſhall devour them.

10 Their fruit ſhalt thou deſtroy from the earth, and their ſeed from among the children of men.

11 For they intended evil againſt thee: they imagined a miſchievous device, which they are not able to perform.

12 Therefore ſhalt thou make them turn their back, when thou ſhalt make ready thine arrows upon thy ſtrings againſt the face of them.

13 Be thou exalted, LORD, in thine own ſtrength; ſo will we ſing and praiſe thy power.

PSAL. XXII.

1 David complaineth in great diſcouragement. 9 He prayeth in great diſtreſs. 23 He praiſeth God.

To the chief muſician upon Aijeleth Shahar, a pſalm of David.

MY God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? why art thou ſo far from helping me, and from the words of my roaring?

---

9 Save, Lord, let the king hear us when we call.] Save us, O Lord, for we truſt in thee; preſerve our king, and in the day when we cry unto thee for help, make our armies victorious. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-firſt Pſalm.

Ver. 1 The king ſhall joy in thy ſtrength, O Lord, &c.] Thou haſt heard the prayer of thy people, O Lord, and therefore we will ever give thee thanks for the victory thou haſt given our king. How far beyond expreſſion is his joy and thankfulneſs for this wonderful deliverance!

4 He aſked life of thee, and thou gaveſt it him, &c.] He deſired only to eſcape with life, when encompaſſed with the greateſt dangers; but thou alſo waſt pleaſed to promiſe to prolong his days, and to continue his crown to his poſterity for many generations.

8 Thine hand ſhall find out, &c.] The Jews were certainly raiſed up by God to be a ſcourge upon every vice and villany of the nations round about them; and therefore this verſe and the following ſhow the propriety of looking upon them in that light.

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Pſalm.

In this pathetic pſalm, the royal prophet, under the type of his own perſon, deſcribes, at large, the ſufferings of our great Redeemer; and, in the concluſion, paints, in the moſt beautiful colours, his exultation, and the propagation of his kingdom to the ends of the earth. Nay, ſome of the particulars are delivered in ſuch expreſſions, that they were more literally fulfilled in our Saviour, than they ever were in David himſelf, to whom they can only be applied in a metaphorical ſenſe. Patrick.

Ver. 1 My God, my God, &c.] It is probable our Saviour repeated the whole of this pſalm, in which are the moſt lively ſtrokes of all the remarkable particulars of his paſſion.

2 O my God, I cry in the day-time, but thou heareſt not; and in the night-ſeaſon, and am not ſilent.

3 But thou art holy, O thou that inhabiteſt the praiſes of Iſrael.

4 Our fathers truſted in thee: they truſted, and thou didſt deliver them.

5 They cried unto thee, and were delivered: they truſted in thee, and were not confounded.

6 But I am a worm, and no man: a reproach of men, and deſpiſed of the people.

7 All they that ſee me, laugh me to ſcorn: they ſhoot out the lip, they ſhake the head, ſaying,

8 He truſted on the LORD, that he would deliver him: let him deliver him, ſeeing he delighted in him.

9 But thou art he that took me out of the womb: thou didſt make me hope, when I was upon my mother's breaſts.

10 I was caſt upon thee from the womb: thou art my God from my mother's belly.

11 Be not far from me; for trouble is near; for there is none to help.

12 Many bulls have compaſſed me: ſtrong bulls of Baſhan have beſet me round.

13 They gaped upon me with their mouths, as a ravening and a roaring lion.

14 I am poured out like water, and all my bones are out of joint: my heart is like wax; it is melted in the midſt of my bowels.

15 My ſtrength is dried up like a potſherd; and my tongue cleaveth to my jaws: and thou haſt brought me into the duſt of death.

16 For dogs have compaſſed me: the aſſembly of the wicked have incloſed me: they pierced my hands and my feet.

17 I may tell all my bones: they look and ſtare upon me.

18 They part my garments among them, and caſt lots upon my veſture.

19 But be not thou far from me, O LORD: O my ſtrength, haſte thee to help me.

20 Deliver my ſoul from the ſword, my darling from the power of the dog.

21 Save me from the lion's mouth: for thou haſt heard me from the horns of the unicorns.

22 I will declare thy name unto my brethren: in the midſt of the congregation will I praiſe thee.

23 Ye that fear the LORD, praiſe him: all ye the ſeed of Jacob, glorify him; and fear him, all ye the ſeed of Iſrael.

24 For he hath not deſpiſed nor abhorred the affliction of the afflicted: neither hath he hid his face from him: but when he cried unto him, he heard.

25 My praiſe ſhall be of thee in the great congregation: I will pay my vows before them that fear him.

26 The meek ſhall eat, and be ſatisfied: they ſhall praiſe the LORD that ſeek him: your heart ſhall live for ever.

27 All the ends of the world ſhall remember and turn unto the LORD: and all the kindreds of the nations ſhall worſhip before thee.

28 For the kingdom is the LORD's: and he is the governor among the nations.

29 All they that be fat upon the earth ſhall eat and worſhip: all they that go down to the duſt ſhall bow before him; and none can keep alive his own ſoul.

30 A ſeed ſhall ſerve him; it ſhall be accounted to the LORD for a generation.

---

2 O my God, I cry in the day-time, but thou heareſt not, &c.] O my God, I cry inceſſantly to thee day and night, but can obtain no reſt from my perſecutors.

3 But thou art holy, &c.] Yet thou art he that hateth all thoſe that unjuſtly perſecute thy ſervants; and keepeſt thy word faithfully with them that depend upon thee.

6 But I am a worm, and no man, &c.] The literal tranſlation of theſe words is this, as for me, I am a ſcarlet inſect or worm, and not a man: The figurative ſenſe will be this, I bear the ſcandal and reproach of the deepeſt guilt, and yet am wholly free from it. Univerſal Hiſt. vol. iii. 54.

7, 8 All they that ſee me laugh me to ſcorn, &c.] This was exactly fulfilled by our bleſſed Saviour, Matt. xxvii. 39, 43.

16 Dogs have compaſſed me, the aſſembly of the wicked have incloſed me: they pierced my hands and my feet.] That malicious company, which have combined together to perſecute me, are as greedy and cruel as hungry dogs, who have hunted down a hind, and are gathered about her to tear her to pieces: they uſe me in the moſt cruel manner; they have piereed my hands and my feet.---This was literally fulfilled in the Son of God, but in the hiſtory of David there is nothing that reſembles it. Patrick.

18 They part my garments among them, and caſt lots upon my veſture.] This was alſo more literally fulfilled in Chriſt than in David, in whoſe hiſtory we find nothing like it.

22 I will declare thy name unto my brethren, &c.] Save me, O Lord, and it ſhall redound to thy praiſe; for I will tell all my brethren how gracious thou art, and publicly proclaim thy great power and juſtice in the midſt of thy faithful people. Patrick.

Notes

31 They ſhall come, and ſhall declare his righteouſneſs unto a people that ſhall be born, that he hath done this.

PSAL. XXIII.

David's confidence in God's grace.

A pſalm of David.

THE LORD is my ſhepherd: I ſhall not want.
2 He maketh me to lie down in green paſtures: he leadeth me beſide the ſtill waters.
3 He reſtoreth my ſoul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteouſneſs for his name's ſake.
4 Yea, though I walk through the valley of the ſhadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy ſtaff they comfort me.
5 Thou prepareſt a table before me in the preſence of mine enemies: thou anointeſt my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
6 Surely goodneſs and mercy ſhall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the houſe of the LORD for ever.

PSAL. XXIV.

1 God's lordſhip in the world. 3 The citizens of his ſpiritual kingdom. 7 An exhortation to receive him.

A Pſalm of David.

THE earth is the LORD's, and the fulneſs thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein.
2 For he hath founded it upon the ſeas, and eſtabliſhed it upon the floods.
3 Who ſhall aſcend into the hill of the LORD? and who ſhall ſtand in his holy place?
4 He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lift up his ſoul unto vanity, nor ſworn deceitfully.
5 He ſhall receive the bleſſing from the LORD, and righteouſneſs from the God of his ſalvation.
6 This is the generation of them that ſeek him, that ſeek thy face, O Jacob. Selah.
7 Lift up your heads, O ye gates; and be ye lift up, ye everlaſting doors; and the King of glory ſhall come in.
8 Who is this King of glory? The LORD ſtrong and mighty, the LORD mighty in battle.
9 Lift up your heads, O ye gates; even lift them up, ye everlaſting doors; and the King of glory ſhall come in.
10 Who is this King of glory? The LORD of hoſts, he is the King of glory. Selah.

PSAL. XXV.

1 David's confidence in prayer. 7 He prayeth for remiſſion of ſins, 16 and for help in affliction.

A pſalm of David.

UNTO thee, O LORD, do I lift up my ſoul.
2 O my God, I truſt in thee, let me

Notes on the Twenty-third Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David, after God had delivered him from that deep diſtreſs of which he complained in the foregoing, and ſettled him in a proſperous condition, wherein he was confident God would continue him. Patrick.

Ver. 1 The Lord is my ſhepherd, I ſhall not want.] No ſhepherd exerciſes a more tender and conſtant care over his flocks, than the Lord hath done over me.

4 Though I walk through the valley of the ſhadow of death.] How dreadful the foreſts of Hareth were, the place where David abode ſome time of his exile, will appear from this verſe.

6 Surely goodneſs and mercy ſhall follow me, &c.] I am fully perſuaded, that the ſame bounteous goodneſs and tender mercy, which have done ſuch great things for me, will ſtill moſt graciouſly attend me to the end of my days, and ſettle me in a quiet enjoyment of his tabernacle, where I will never ceaſe to praiſe his amazing love towards me, and give him thanks for all the benefits he hath beſtowed on his unworthy ſervant. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-fourth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written by David, when he brought up the ark from the houſe of Obed-Edom, and ſettled in mount Zion; and upon that account he prefers this place to all the reſt of the world. Dr. Delany ſuppoſes this pſalm to have been ſung by the king and people alternately.

Ver. 7 Lift up your heads, O ye gates, &c.] Let all who follow the ark of the Lord, at this ſolemn entry of the Divine Majeſty into the holy place, join with me in ſaying, Be ye open, O ye gates of the ſanctuary, and the king of glory will enter in; and, by the ſpecial tokens of his preſence, dwell among us, Patrick.

8 Who is this king of glory? &c.] If any ſhould aſk, who is the king of glory, the tranſcendent Majeſty we proclaim? let them know it is the Lord, who hath made and governs the world; that moſt mighty and invincible Lord, whoſe awful preſence hath made me to gain ſo many ſignal victories in the day of battle.

Notes on the Twenty-fifth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written by David after the commiſſion of ſome heinous ſin, and in the midſt of ſome great diſtreſs; poſſibly after the matter of Uriah, and when Abſalom rebelled againſt him.

Ver. 1 Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my ſoul.] O Lord, my conſtant and only refuge in all the troubles that ſurround me, I look up unto thee in this great diſtreſs, humbly waiting on thee, and hoping in thee, that thou wilt deliver me. Patrick.

not be aſhamed, let not mine enemies triumph over me.

3 Yea, let none that wait on thee be aſhamed: let them be aſhamed which tranſgreſs without cauſe.

4 Shew me thy ways, O LORD; teach me thy paths.

5 Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my ſalvation; on thee do I wait all the day.

6 Remember, O LORD, thy tender mercies, and thy loving kindneſſes: for they have been ever of old.

7 Remember not the ſins of my youth, nor my tranſgreſſions: according to thy mercy remember thou me for thy goodneſs ſake, O LORD.

8 Good and upright is the LORD: therefore will he teach ſinners in the way.

9 The meek will he guide in judgement: and the meek will he teach his way.

10 All the paths of the LORD are mercy and truth unto ſuch as keep his covenant and his teſtimonies.

11 For thy name's ſake, O LORD, pardon mine iniquity; for it is great.

12 What man is he that feareth the LORD? him ſhall he teach in the way that he ſhall chooſe.

13 His houſe ſhall dwell at eaſe: and his ſeed ſhall inherit the earth.

14 The ſecret of the LORD is with them that fear him: and he will ſhew them his covenant.

15 Mine eyes are ever towards the LORD: for he ſhall pluck my feet out of the net.

16 Turn thee unto me, and have mercy upon me: for I am deſolate and afflicted.

17 The troubles of my heart are enlarged: O bring thou me out of my diſtreſſes.

18 Look upon mine affliction and my pain, and forgive all my ſins.

19 Conſider mine enemies; for they are many, and they hate me with cruel hatred.

20 O keep my ſoul and deliver me: let me not be aſhamed; for I put my truſt in thee.

21 Let integrity and uprightneſs preſerve me; for I wait on thee.

22 Redeem Iſrael, O God, out of all his troubles.

PSAL. XXVI.

David reſorteth unto God, in confidence of his integrity.

A pſalm of David.

JUDGE me O LORD; for I have walked in mine integrity: I have truſted alſo in the LORD; therefore I ſhall not ſlide.

2 Examine me, O LORD, and prove me; try my reins and my heart.

3 For thy loving-kindneſs is before mine eyes: and I have walked in thy truth.

4 I have not ſat with vain perſons, neither will I go-in with diſſemblers.

5 I have hated the congregation of evil doers; and will not ſit with the wicked.

6 I will waſh mine hands in innocency: ſo will I compaſs thine altar, O LORD.

7 That I may publiſh with the voice of thankſgiving, and tell of all thy wondrous works.

8 LORD, I have loved the habitation of thy

7 Remember not the ſins of my youth, &c.] I am a ſinner: and even in my youth went aſtray from thee; and committed more grievous offences, as I advanced in years. But thy mercies ſhield us from thy juſtice; thou pardoneſt the offences of man, when the ſinner implores thy forgiveneſs. Conſider not therefore, O my God, the greatneſs of my ſins; but, for the ſake of thy tender mercy, forgive my tranſgreſſions. Patrick.

16 Turn thee unto me, and have mercy upon me: for I am deſolate and afflicted.] Behold, O Lord, how entirely I truſt in thee: pity me in my diſtreſs, being in a manner forſaken by all, and reduced from the grandeur of a king, to the moſt miſerable condition.

Notes on the Twenty-ſixth Pſalm.

Ver. 1 Judge me, O Lord, for I have walked in mine integrity, &c.] David, in this pſalm, aſſerts his integrity, and appeals to God as judge of his moſt ſecret intentions; but it ſeems to relate to the time of his perſecution by Saul, when he was conſidered as a public enemy.

2 Examine me, O Lord, and prove me, &c.] Thou feeſt the very thoughts of my heart, prove me, therefore, whether I have even intended any evil to mine enemy; and if thou wilt expoſe me to a ſtill more ſevere trial, I hope it will only diſcover more of my integrity. Patrick.

4 I have not ſat with vain perſons, &c.] I never loved or frequented the company of falſe and treacherous perſons; nor will I ever join myſelf with thoſe, who under the ſpecious veil of friendſhip and religion, conceal the moſt wicked deſigns.

8 Lord, I have loved the habitation of thy houſe, &c.] Thou knoweſt, O Lord, with what ſincere affection I have attended the ſervice of thy houſe, and how I rejoiced when I viſited thy tabernacle.

houſe, and the place where thine honour dwelleth.

9 Gather not my ſoul with ſinners, nor my life with bloody men:

10 In whoſe hands is miſchief, and their right hand is full of bribes.

11 But as for me, I will walk in mine integrity: redeem me, and be merciful unto me.

12 My foot ſtandeth in an even place: in the congregations will I bleſs the LORD.

PSAL. XXVII.

1 David ſuſtaineth his faith by the power of God, 4 by his love to the ſervice of God, 9 and by prayer.

A pſalm of David.

THE LORD is my light and my ſalvation; whom ſhall I fear? the LORD is the ſtrength of my life; of whom ſhall I be afraid?

2 When the wicked, even mine enemies and my foes, came upon me to eat up my fleſh, they ſtumbled and fell.

3 Though an hoſt ſhould encamp againſt me, my heart ſhall not fear: though war ſhould riſe againſt me, in this will I be confident.

4 One thing have I deſired of the LORD, that will I ſeek after; that I may dwell in the houſe of the LORD all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the LORD, and to enquire in his temple.

5 For in the time of trouble he ſhall hide me in his pavilion: in the ſecret of his tabernacle ſhall he hide me; he ſhall ſet me up upon a rock.

6 And now ſhall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me: therefore will I offer in his tabernacle ſacrifices of joy; I will ſing, yea, I will ſing praiſes unto the LORD.

7 Hear, O LORD, when I cry with my voice: have mercy alſo upon me, and anſwer me.

8 When thou ſaidſt, Seek ye my face; my heart ſaid unto thee, Thy face, LORD, will I ſeek.

9 Hide not thy face far from me; put not thy ſervant away in anger: thou haſt been my help; leave me not, neither forſake me, O God of my ſalvation.

10 When my father and my mother forſake me, then the LORD will take me up.

11 Teach me thy way, O LORD, and lead me in a plain path, becauſe of mine enemies.

12 Deliver me not over unto the will of mine enemies: for falſe witneſſes are riſen up againſt me, and ſuch as breathe out cruelty.

13 I had fainted, unleſs I had believed to ſee the goodneſs of the LORD in the land of the living.

14 Wait on the LORD: be of good courage, and he ſhall ſtrengthen thine heart: wait, I ſay, on the LORD.

PSAL. XXVIII.

1 David prayeth againſt his enemies. 6 He bleſſeth God. 9 He prayeth for the people.

A pſalm of David.

UNTO thee will I cry, O LORD my rock; be not ſilent to me: leſt if thou be

---

Notes on the Twenty-ſeventh Pſalm.

This pſalm was written by David, when he was, or had lately been, in ſome great diſtreſs.

Ver. 1 The Lord is my light, and my ſalvation, whom then ſhall I fear? &c.] The Lord ſtill fills me with the joy of his countenance, what then ſhall make me afraid? He compaſſeth me about with his hand in the day of battle, whom then ſhall I fear?

5 In the day of trouble he ſhall hide me, &c.] In his tabernacle ſhall I be more ſecure in the day of trouble, than if encompaſſed with the ſtrongeſt bulwarks, or concealed in the moſt ſecret caverns of the mountains: nor is the moſt impregnable rock a place of equal ſecurity.

6 Now ſhall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me, &c.] Now I have felt the happy fruits of loving his dwelling-place, for the Lord hath given me a glorious victory, and made me triumph over all mine enemies on every ſide. I will therefore viſit his tabernacle, and offer ſacrifices of thankſgiving with the higheſt expreſſions of joy: I will compoſe ſongs of praiſe, and magnify the power and loving-kindneſs of the Lord. Patrick.

7 Hear, O Lord, when I cry with my voice, &c.] Deign, O Lord, to ſhew the kindneſs thou haſt for me, by granting my requeſt.

9 Hide not thy face far from me, &c.] I ſtill hope thou wilt continue to look favourable upon me, and not withdraw thy preſence from thy ſervant, when I implore thy protection. Do not reject my prayers becauſe I am a ſinner; but liſten to them becauſe I am thy ſervant.

10 When my father and mother forſake me, then the Lord will take me up.] The tender affection of my parents is far from being equal to thine; and ther fo e, though they ſhould abandon me, I would place my confidence in the Lord, who will never ſuffer me to periſh. Pa'rick.

Notes on the Twenty-eighth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to be a meditation wrote on ſome ſolemn occaſion, perhaps the ſame that gave riſe to the foregoing.

Ver. 1 Unto thee will I cry, O Lord, my rock, &c.] O Lord, to

ſilent to me, I become like them that go down into the pit.

2 Hear the voice of my ſupplications when I cry unto thee, when I lift up my hands toward thy holy oracle.

3 Draw me not away with the wicked, and with the workers of iniquity: which ſpeak peace to their neighbours, but miſchief is in their hearts.

4 Give them according to their deeds, and according to the wickedneſs of their endeavours: give them after the work of their hands? render to them their deſert.

5 Becauſe they regard not the works of the LORD, nor the operation of his hands, he ſhall deſtroy them, and not build them up.

6 Bleſſed be the LORD, becauſe he hath heard the voice of my ſupplications.

7 The LORD is my ſtrength, and my ſhield; my heart truſted in him, and I am helped: therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth, and with my ſong will I praiſe him.

8 The LORD is their ſtrength, and he is the ſaving ſtrength of his anointed.

9 Save thy people, and bleſs thine inheritance: feed them alſo, and lift them up for ever.

PSAL. XXIX.

1 David exhorteth princes to give glory to God, 3 by reaſon of his power, 11 and protection of his people.

A pſalm of David.

GIVE unto the LORD, O ye mighty, give unto the LORD glory and ſtrength.

2 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name; worſhip the LORD in the beauty of holineſs.

3 The voice of the LORD is upon the waters: the God of glory thundereth; the LORD is upon many waters.

4 The voice of the LORD is powerful; the voice of the LORD is full of majeſty.

5 The voice of the LORD breaketh the cedars; yea, the LORD breaketh the cedars of Lebanon.

6 He maketh them alſo to ſkip like a calf; Lebanon and Sirion, like a young unicorn.

7 The voice of the LORD divideth the flames of fire.

8 The voice of the LORD ſhaketh the wilderneſs; the LORD ſhaketh the wilderneſs of Kadeſh.

9 The voice of the LORD maketh the hinds to calve, and diſcovereth the foreſts: and in his temple doth every one ſpeak of his glory.

10 The LORD ſitteth upon the flood; yea, the LORD ſitteth King for ever.

11 The LORD will give ſtrength unto his people; the LORD will bleſs his people with peace.

PSAL. XXX.

1 David praiſeth God for his deliverance. 4 He exhorteth others to praiſe him by example of God's dealing with him.

A pſalm and ſong at the dedication of the houſe of David.

to whom alone I fly for ſafety, and under the ſhadow of whoſe wings nothing can hurt me; I now humbly implore thy protection.

2 Hear the voice of my ſupp'ications, &c.] Grant, therefore, my deſire, when with ardent affection I ſeek thy favour, and, renouncing all dependence on human ſtrength, implore that help thou haſt ſo often ſent from thy holy place.

3 Draw me not away with the wicked, &c.] Suffer me not to be involved in the ſame puniſhment with thoſe wretches, who make no conſcience of committing the greateſt villanies; and pretend the moſt ſincere friendſhip to their neighbours, at the very time they are contriving their ruin.

9 Save thy people, and bleſs thine inheritance, &c.] Take care of thy people Iſrael, O Lord, as a watchful ſhepherd doth of his flock; and make them victorious over their enemies, both now and in all future generations.

Notes on the Twenty-ninth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David immediately after ſome terrible ſtorm of thunder, lightning, and rain; whereby God had ſo diſcomfited his enemies, and put their forces into ſuch diſorder, that he eaſily obtained a compleat victory. And this remarkable aſſiſtance of Providence animated him to exhort all people to ſubmit to that glorious Majeſty, from whom the thunder came, and who can ſo eaſily ſtrike a ſudden terror into the heart of his boldeſt and moſt reſolute oppoſers. Patrick.

Ver. 2 Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name, &c.] Honour him ſuitable to the excellence of his Majeſty: and to prove you hold him in great veneration, caſt yourſelves down before him in his ſanctuary; where he has fixed his glorious reſidence among us.

3 The voice of the Lord is upon the waters, &c.] It was his voice you heard in the clouds, from whence his glorious Majeſty thunders; he makes not only the earth, but the great ocean tremble, at that awful token of his preſence. Patrick.

6 He maketh them alſo to ſkip, &c.] After he hath torn them aſunder he ſcatters them in the air; and cauſes even the mountains to leap like the young cattle that feed on their ſides.

Notes

I Will extol thee, O LORD: for thou haſt lifted me up, and haſt not made my foes to rejoice over me.

2 O LORD my God, I cried unto thee, and thou haſt healed me.

3 O LORD, thou haſt brought up my ſoul from the grave: thou haſt kept me alive, that I ſhould not go down to the pit.

4 Sing unto the LORD, O ye ſaints of his, and give thanks at the remembrance of his holineſs.

5 For his anger endureth but a moment; in his favour is life: weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.

6 And in my proſperity I ſaid, I ſhall never be moved.

7 LORD, by the favour thou haſt made my mountain to ſtand ſtrong: thou didſt hide thy face, and I was troubled.

8 I cried to thee, O LORD; and unto the LORD I made my ſupplication.

9 What profit is there in my blood, when I go down to the pit? ſhall the duſt praiſe thee, ſhall it declare thy truth.

10 Hear, O LORD, and have mercy upon me: LORD, be thou my helper.

11 Thou haſt turned for me my mourning into dancing: thou haſt put off my ſackcloth, and girded me with gladneſs;

12 To the end that my glory may ſing praiſe to thee, and not be ſilent. O LORD my God, I will give thanks unto thee for ever.

PSAL. XXXI.

1 David ſhewing his confidence in God, craveth his help. 7 He rejoiceth in his mercy. 9 He prayeth in his calamity. 19 He praiſeth God for his goodneſs.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

IN thee O LORD, do I put my truſt; let me never be aſhamed: deliver me in thy righteouſneſs.

2 Bow down thine ear to me; deliver me ſpeedily: be thou my ſtrong rock, for an houſe of defence to ſave me.

3 For thou art my rock and my fortreſs: therefore for thy name's ſake lead me, and guide me.

4 Pull me out of the net that they have laid privily for me: for thou art my ſtrength.

5 Into thine hand I commit my ſpirit: thou haſt redeemed me, O LORD God of truth.

6 I have hated them that regard lying vanities: but I truſt in the LORD.

7 I will be glad and rejoice in thy mercy: for thou haſt conſidered my trouble; thou haſt known my ſoul in adverſities;

8 And haſt not ſhut me up into the hand of the enemy: thou haſt ſet my feet in a large room.

9 Have mercy upon me, O LORD, for I am in trouble: mine eye is conſumed with grief, yea, my ſoul and my belly.

10 For my life is ſpent with grief, and my Notes on the Thirtieth Pſalm.

The title of this pſalm is evidently different from the preceding, being called a pſalm and ſong. In the Hebrew it is alſo ſomething different, and may be conſtrued thus: A pſalm; a ſong of dedication of the houſe built by David. This pious king would not eat in his houſe till he had addreſſed himſelf to the Almighty, acknowledging, in the moſt ſolemn manner, the Divine goodneſs, in placing him again on his throne, after he had been forced from it by the wicked rebellion of his ſon.

Ver. 1 I will extol thee, O Lord, &c.] I will never ceaſe to magnify the name of the Lord; for he has drawn me out of thoſe depths of miſery into which I was fallen, and prevented my foes from rejoicing in my downfal.

11 Thou haſt turned for me, &c.] Thou waſt moſt graciouſly pleaſed to anſwer my prayers; and therefore joy and gladneſs are again returned after an interval of ſorrow and ſadneſs.

Notes on the Thirty-firſt Pſalm.

David compoſed this pſalm, and delivered it to the chief muſician in the tabernacle. It ſeems to refer to the diſtreſs he was reduced to in the wilderneſs of Maon, where he muſt have fallen into the hands of Saul, if an inviſible arm had not relieved him.

Ver. 1 In thee, O Lord, do I put my truſt, &c.] In all my perſecutions I put my truſt in the power and goodneſs of God; and therefore ſhould they fail me, I ſhall be reproached by my enemies: prevent that misfortune, O Lord, and magnify thy own mercy, by delivering me out of the troubles that encompaſs me.

3 Thou art my rock, &c.] I have hitherto found thee a ſure caſtle of defence, and therefore beſeech thee, to deliver me from the dangers that now ſurround me; and ſo direct my ſteps for the future, that I fall not into the hands of my implacable enemies.

5 Into thine hand I commit my ſpirit, &c.] I commit myſelf to thy cuſtody, O Lord; for thou haſt often reſcued me from dangers when no human powers could have preſerved me; and I am confident thou wilt ſtill ſhew thyſelf my powerful deliverer; for thou never faileſt them that put their truſt in thee.

Our bleſſed Saviour uſed theſe words when he was expiring on the croſs, to redeem a ſinful and rebellious world; and certainly in a more proper ſenſe than they were uſed by the pſalmiſt.

years with ſighing: my ſtrength faileth becauſe of mine iniquity, and my bones are conſumed.

11 I was a reproach among all mine enemies, but eſpecially among my neighbours, and a fear to mine acquaintance: they that did ſee me without fled from me.

12 I am forgotten as a dead man out of mind: I am like a broken veſſel.

13 For I have heard the ſlander of many: fear was on every ſide: while they took counſel together againſt me, they deviſed to take away my life.

14 But I truſted in thee, O LORD: I ſaid, Thou art my God.

15 My times are in thy hand: deliver me from the hand of mine enemies, and from them that perſecute me.

16 Make thy face to ſhine upon thy ſervant: ſave me for thy mercy's ſake.

17 Let me not be aſhamed, O LORD; for I have called upon thee: let the wicked be aſhamed, and let them be ſilent in the grave.

18 Let the lying lips be put to ſilence; which ſpeak grievous things proudly and contemptuouſly againſt the righteous.

19 O how great is thy goodneſs which thou haſt laid up for them that fear thee; which thou haſt wrought for them that truſt in thee, before the ſons of men!

20 Thou ſhalt hide them in the ſecret of thy preſence from the pride of man: thou ſhalt keep them ſecretly in a pavilion from the ſtrife of tongues.

21 Bleſſed be the LORD: for he hath ſhewed me his marvellous kindneſs in a ſtrong city.

22 For I ſaid in my haſte, I am cut off from before thine eyes; nevertheleſs, thou heardeſt the voice of my ſupplications when I cried unto thee.

23 O love the LORD, all ye his ſaints: for the LORD preſerveth the faithful, and plentifully rewardeth the proud doer.

24 Be of good courage, and he ſhall ſtrengthen your heart, all ye that hope in the LORD.

PSAL. XXXII.

1 Bleſſedneſs conſiſteth in remiſſion of ſins. 3 Confeſſion of ſins giveth eaſe to the conſcience. 8 God's promiſes bring joy.

A pſalm of David, Maſchil.

BLeſſed is he whoſe tranſgreſſion is forgiven, whoſe ſin is covered.

2 Bleſſed is the man unto whom the LORD imputeth not iniquity, and in whoſe ſpirit there is no guile.

3 When I kept ſilence, my bones waxed old through my roaring all the day long.

4 For day and night thy hand was heavy upon me: my moiſture is turned unto the drought of ſummer. Selah.

5 I acknowledge my ſin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid: I ſaid, I will confeſs my tranſgreſſions unto the LORD; and thou forgaveſt the iniquity of my ſin. Selah.

6 For this ſhall every one that is godly pray unto thee in a time when thou mayeſt be found: ſurely in the floods of great waters, they ſhall not come nigh unto him.

7 Thou art my hiding-place; thou ſhalt preſerve me from trouble: thou ſhalt compaſs me about with ſongs of deliverance. Selah.

8 I will inſtruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou ſhalt go: I will guide thee with mine eye.

16 Make thy face to ſhine upon thy ſervant, &c.] Leſt mine enemies imagine thou haſt utterly forſaken me, diſperſe thoſe clouds of affliction which have long ſurrounded me: and though I am unworthy thy protection, yet I beg thou wouldſt deliver me from all danger, that thy mercy may be magnified by the ſons of Jacob.

19 O how great is thy goodneſs, which thou haſt laid up for them that fear thee, &c.] Though they are miſerably uſed by the tongue of ſlander, O how comfortable it is to reflect in this abyſs of danger on thy kind intentions towards thoſe that fear to offend thee! How great are the bleſſings thou haſt treaſured up and prepared for thoſe who truſt on thee alone for ſuccour and defence!

Notes on the Thirty-ſecond Pſalm.

David compoſed this pſalm when the calamities attending the rebellion of his ſon, had taught him how fearful a thing it was to offend God, and how much he was beholden to him for mercifully remitting the vengeance his ſins deſerved. Some writers are of opinion, it was intended to be uſed on the great day of expiation, when the nation made a general confeſſion of their ſins, and called Maſchil, becauſe it contains the moſt admirable rules for obtaining true bleſſedneſs, or becauſe it was ſet to the tune of a hymn at that time commonly uſed, beginning with the word Maſchil.

Ver. 1 Bleſſed is he whoſe tranſgreſſion is forgiven, &c.] The man to whom God is graciouſly pleaſed to remit all his ſins, whether committed againſt the Divine goodneſs or againſt his fellow-creatures, has the higheſt reaſon to rejoice in the mercy of God, and to put all the effects of human malice to defiance.

9 Be ye not as the horſe, or as the mule, which have no underſtanding: whoſe mouth muſt be held-in with bit and bridle, leſt they come near unto thee.

10 Many ſorrows ſhall be to the wicked: but he that truſteth in the LORD, mercy ſhall compaſs him about.

11 Be glad in the LORD, and rejoice, ye righteous: and ſhout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart.

PSAL. XXXIII.

1 God is to be praiſed for his goodneſs, 6 for his power, 12 and for his providence. 20 Confidence is to be placed in God.

REjoice in the LORD, O ye righteous: for praiſe is comely for the upright.

2 Praiſe the LORD with harp: ſing unto him with the pſaltery, and inſtrument of ten ſtrings.

3 Sing unto him a new ſong, play ſkilfully with a loud noiſe.

4 For the word of the LORD is right; and all his works are done in truth.

5 He loveth righteouſneſs and judgement: the earth is full of the goodneſs of the LORD.

6 By the word of the LORD were the heavens made: and all the hoſt of them, by the breath of his mouth.

7 He gathereth the waters of the ſea together as an heap: he layeth up the depth in ſtore-houſes.

8 Let all the earth fear the LORD: let all the inhabitants of the world ſtand in awe of him.

9 For he ſpake, and it was done; he commanded, and he ſtood faſt.

10 The LORD bringeth the counſel of the heathen to nought: he maketh the devices of the people of none effect.

11 The counſel of the LORD ſtandeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all generations.

12 Bleſſed is the nation whoſe God is the LORD; and the people whom he hath choſen for his own inheritance.

13 The LORD looketh from heaven; he beholdeth all the ſons of men.

14 From the place of his habitation he looketh upon all the inhabitants of the earth.

15 He faſhioneth their hearts alike; he conſidereth all their works.

16 There is no king ſaved by the multitude of an hoſt: a mighty man is not delivered by much ſtrength.

17 An horſe is a vain thing for ſafety: neither ſhall he deliver any by his great ſtrength.

18 Behold, the eye of the LORD is upon them that fear him, upon them that hope in his mercy;

19 To deliver their ſoul from death, and to keep them alive in famine.

20 Our ſoul waiteth for the LORD: he is our help and our ſhield.

21 For our heart ſhall rejoice in him, becauſe we have truſted in his holy name.

22 Let thy mercy, O LORD, be upon us according as we hope in thee.

---

11 Be glad in the Lord, &c.] With whatever troubles you are ſurrounded, rejoice in the Lord: truſt in him, ye that love his favour, for he will certainly deliver you; ſhout for joy, as if you were already victorious over your enemies.

Notes on the Thirty-third Pſalm.

It is not known on what occaſion this pſalm was compoſed; though there can be no doubt of its being a pious meditation of the royal pſalmiſt, on occaſion of ſome great benefit he had received from the Almighty: wherein he deſires all good men to join with him in praiſing God, from the conſideration of the wonderful works of creation and providence.

Ver. 1 Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous, &c.] Praiſe the Almighty with grateful hearts; triumph in his holy name, all ye that are juſt and good; for nothing is more becoming thoſe who obſerve the law of God than to magnify him who is the author of their being, and who graciouſly beſtows upon them all the bleſſings of life.

6 By the word of the Lord were the heavens made, &c.] Surely none can doubt the power of the Almighty, who ſurveys the heavenly bodies, marſhalled under the canopy of heaven, like an army in the moſt beautiful order, and conſiders that all theſe glittering orbs were called into being by the breath of his mouth. This beautiful verſe is a proof how thoroughly the royal poet entered into the majeſty of the Moſaic narration: and the repetition of the ſentiment, ver. 9, intimates, how peculiarly he was charmed with that noble manner of deſcribing the Divine operations. Hervey.

10 The devices of the people of none effect.] The Septuagint, Vulgate, and Arabic add, And fruſtrateth the counſels of princes: but the Hebrew and Chaldee have not this ſentence.

12 Bleſſed is the nation whoſe God is the Lord, &c.] Happy is that nation which worſhips the Jehovah, the creator of heaven and earth: thrice happy are they who live under the care of ſo good, ſo powerful, and wiſe a Being, and are ſo highly in his favour, that he hath choſen them to be a peculiar people to himſelf. Patrick.

17 Neither ſhall he deliver any, &c.] There is ſo much confidence implied in the words ſhall and will, that it ſeems more ſuitable to the ſentiments of the pſalmiſt, to tranſlate it, Neither can he deliver any, &c. Pilkington.

PSAL. XXXIV.

1 David praiſeth God, and exhorteth others thereto by his experience. 8 They are bleſſed that truſt in God. 11 He exhorteth to the fear of God.

A pſalm of David, when he changed his behaviour before Abimelech; who drove him away, and he departed.

I Will bleſs the LORD at all times: his praiſe ſhall continually be in my mouth.

2 My ſoul ſhall make her boaſt in the LORD: the humble ſhall hear thereof, and be glad.

3 O magnify the LORD with me, and let us exalt his name together.

4 I ſought the LORD, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears.

5 They looked unto him, and were lightened; and their faces were not aſhamed.

6 This poor man cried, and the LORD heard him, and ſaved him out of all his troubles.

7 The angel of the LORD encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them.

8 O taſte and ſee that the LORD is good, bleſſed is the man that truſteth in him.

9 O fear the LORD, ye his ſaints: for there is no want to them that fear him.

10 The young lions do lack, and ſuffer hunger: but they that ſeek the LORD ſhall not want any good thing.

11 Come, ye children, hearken unto me: I will teach you the fear of the LORD.

12 What man is he that deſireth life, and loveth many days, that he may ſee good?

13 Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from ſpeaking guile.

14 Depart from evil, and do good; ſeek peace, and purſue it.

15 The eyes of the LORD are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry.

16 The face of the LORD is againſt them that do evil, to cut off the remembrance of them from the earth.

17 The righteous cry, and the LORD heareth, and delivereth them out of all their troubles.

18 The LORD is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart; and ſaveth ſuch as be of a contrite ſpirit.

19 Many are the afflictions of the righteous: but the LORD delivereth him out of them all.

20 He keepeth all his bones; not one of them is broken.

21 Evil ſhall ſlay the wicked; and they that hate the righteous ſhall be deſolate.

22 The LORD redeemeth the ſoul of his ſervants: and none of them that truſt in him ſhall be deſolate.

PSAL. XXXV.

1 David prayeth for his own ſafety, and his enemies confuſion. 11 He complaineth of their wrongful dealing. 22 Thereby he inciteth God againſt them.

A pſalm of David.

PLead my cauſe, O LORD, with them that ſtrive with me: fight againſt them that fight againſt me.

2 Take hold of ſhield and buckler, and ſtand up for mine help.

Notes on the Thirty-fourth Pſalm.

This pſalm was written by David after his eſcape from Achiſh, king of Gath; the title ſays, Achiſh drove him away, but the Septuagint and Vulgate, diſmiſſed him; where all their kings were called by the common name of Abimelech: it was probably compoſed for the uſe of thoſe perſons who reſorted to him in the cave of Adullam, (1 Sam. xxii. 2.) and contains the nobleſt encouragements to piety and virtue, from an aſſurance, that all ſuch as are ſo devoted, are the immediate care of God; as all thoſe of a contrary character, are his abhorrence. This pſalm is very curiouſly compoſed, according to the number and order of the letters of the Hebrew alphabet in the beginning of every verſe; a ſufficient proof that it was written after his eſcape to ſome place of ſafety.

Ver. 6 This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him. &c.] Let all that are in trouble fix their eyes on me, and excite one another to a chearful dependence upon God, ſaying, Behold that man, who was in a poor and mean condition, deſtitute of all human aſſiſtance; but commending himſelf to his God by earneſt prayer, the Lord delivered him out of all his diſtreſſes: though Dr. Delany thinks this and the next verſe alludes to Jacob, who, when he was at Mehanaim, God placed him under the protection of two hoſts of angels. Life of David, b. 4. ch. 12.

8 O taſte and ſee that the Lord is good, &c.] Here David exhorts others to make trial of the ſame mercies as he had truſted; to learn the goodneſs of God from their own experience.

10 The young lions do lack, &c.] He aſſures them that ſtrength and magnanimity are no ſecurities from want and diſtreſs; whereas truſt in God is a never-failing ſource of every thing that is good. He then ſums up all in a moſt pathetic and beautiful exhortation to piety, to virtue, and to confidence in God, in full aſſurance, that, as he was the guardian of virtue in diſtreſs, ſo was he the unerring obſerver, and the ſteady avenger of wickedneſs. Delany.

16 The face of the Lord.] i. e. The avenger of the Lord.

Notes

3 Draw out alſo the ſpear, and ſtop the way againſt them that perſecute me: ſay unto my ſoul, I am thy ſalvation.

4 Let them be confounded and put to ſhame that ſeek after my ſoul: let them be turned back and brought to confuſion that deviſe my hurt.

5 Let them be as chaff before the wind: and let the angel of the LORD chaſe them.

6 Let their way be dark and ſlippery: and let the angel of the LORD perſecute them.

7 For without cauſe have they hid for me their net in a pit, which without cauſe they have digged for my ſoul.

8 Let deſtruction come upon him at unawares; and let his net that he hath hid catch himſelf: into that very deſtruction let him fall.

9 And my ſoul ſhall be joyful in the LORD: it ſhall rejoice in his ſalvation.

10 All my bones ſhall ſay, LORD, who is like unto thee, which delivereſt the poor from him that is too ſtrong for him, yea, the poor and the needy from him that ſpoileth him?

11 Falſe witneſſes did riſe up: they laid to my charge things that I knew not.

12 They rewarded me evil for good, to the ſpoiling of my ſoul.

13 But as for me, when they were ſick, my clothing was ſackcloth: I humbled my ſoul with faſting; and my prayer returned into mine own boſom.

14 I behaved my ſelf as though he had been my friend, or brother: I bowed down heavily, as one that mourneth for his mother.

15 But in mine adverſity they rejoiced, and gathered themſelves together againſt me, yea the abjects gathered themſelves together againſt me, and I knew it not; they did tear me, and ceaſed not:

16 With hypocritical mockers in feaſts: they gnaſhed upon me with their teeth.

17 LORD, how long wilt thou look on? reſcue my ſoul from their deſtructions, my darling from the lions.

18 I will give thee thanks in the great congregation: I will praiſe thee among much people.

19 Let not them that are mine enemies wrongfully rejoice over me: neither let them wink with the eye that hate me without a cauſe.

20 For they ſpake not peace; but they deviſe deceitful matters againſt them that are quiet in the land.

21 Yea, they opened their mouth wide againſt me, and ſaid, Aha, aha, our eye hath ſeen it.

22 This thou haſt ſeen, O LORD: keep not ſilence; O LORD, be not far from me.

23 Stir up thy ſelf, and awake to my judgement, even unto my cauſe, my God and my Lord.

24 Judge me, O LORD my God, according to thy righteouſneſs; and let them not rejoice over me.

25 Let them not ſay in their hearts, Ah, ſo would we have it: let them not ſay, We have ſwallowed him up.

26 Let them be aſhamed and brought to confuſion together that rejoice at mine hurt: let them be clothed with ſhame and diſhonour that magnify themſelves againſt me.

27 Let them ſhout for joy, and be glad, that favour my righteous cauſe: yea, let them ſay continually, Let the LORD be magnified, which hath pleaſure in the proſperity of his ſervant.

28 And my tongue ſhall ſpeak of thy righteouſneſs and of thy praiſe all the day long.

Notes on the Thirty-fifth Pſalm.

This pſalm appears to have been written by David when he was fiercely perſecuted by Saul; whoſe forces, which were unjuſtly raiſed againſt him, he beſeeches the Lord to diſperſe; and eſpecially to ſtop the mouth of his falſe accuſers, of whom he very pathetically complains. It contains the ſtrongeſt imprecations on the enemies of its author, which ſome have thought unbecoming the mouth of a good man: but theſe imprecations muſt be conſidered as an appeal to God, in a particular caſe, for juſtice againſt thoſe whom no court on earth could puniſh. He, therefore, begged the Divine Majeſty to execute the judgment he had pronounced in his law againſt obſtinate and incorrigible offenders, who would otherwiſe eſcape the hand of juſtice, whereby others alſo would be hardened in their wickedneſs. Beſides, the words may be interpreted not as a prayer but a prediction, and rendered, They ſhall be, inſtead of, Let them be. Patrick.

7 They hid for me their net, &c.] They hunt and purſue me, as if I was a wild beaſt.

10 All my bones ſhall ſay.] From my inmoſt heart, with all my power of ſoul and body I will praiſe thee: an hyperbole, expreſſing his ardor.

11 Falſe witneſſes did riſe up, &c.] They have accuſed me of crimes I am wholly ignorant of, and ſupported their accuſations by perſons long ſtrangers to the checks of conſcience, and the paths of virtue.

Notes

PSAL. XXXVI.

1 The grievous eſtate of the wicked. 5 The excellency of God's mercy. 10 David prayeth for favour to God's children.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David the ſervant of the LORD.

THE tranſgreſſion of the wicked ſaith within my heart, that there is no fear of God before his eyes.

2 For he flattereth himſelf in his own eyes until his iniquity be found to be hateful.

3 The words of his mouth are iniquity and deceit; he hath left off to be wiſe, and to do good.

4 He deviſeth miſchief upon his bed: he ſetteth himſelf in a way that is not good; he abhorreth not evil.

5 Thy mercy, O LORD, is in the heavens; and thy faithfulneſs reacheth unto the clouds.

6 Thy righteouſneſs is like the great mountains; thy judgements are a great deep: O LORD, thou preſerveſt man and beaſt.

7 How excellent is thy loving-kindneſs, O God! therefore the children of men put their truſt under the ſhadow of thy wings.

8 They ſhall be abundantly ſatisfied with the fatneſs of thy houſe; and thou ſhalt make them drink of the river of thy pleaſures.

9 For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light ſhall we ſee light.

10 O continue thy loving-kindneſs unto them that know thee; and thy righteouſneſs to the upright in heart.

11 Let not the foot of pride come againſt me, and let not the hand of the wicked remove me.

12 There are the workers of iniquity fallen: they are caſt down, and ſhall not be able to riſe.

PSAL. XXXVII.

David perſuadeth to patience and confidence in God, by the different eſtate of the godly and the wicked.

A pſalm of David.

FRET not thy ſelf becauſe of evil doers, neither be thou envious againſt the workers of iniquity.

2 For they ſhall ſoon be cut down like the graſs, and wither as the green herb.

3 Truſt in the LORD, and do good; ſo ſhalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou ſhalt be fed.

4 Delight thy ſelf alſo in the LORD and he ſhall give thee the deſires of thine heart.

5 Commit thy way unto the LORD; truſt alſo in him; and he ſhall bring it to paſs.

6 And he ſhall bring forth thy righteouſneſs as the light, and thy judgement as the noon-day.

7 Reſt in the LORD, and wait patiently for him: fret not thy ſelf becauſe of him who proſpereth in his way, becauſe of the man who bringeth wicked devices to paſs.

8 Ceaſe from anger, and forſake wrath: fret not thy ſelf in any wiſe to do evil.

9 For evil doers ſhall be cut off: but thoſe

Notes on the Thirty-ſixth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David during his perſecution by Saul. Probably it was written about the beginning of his troubles, when Saul hated him, and endeavoured to hide his malignancy in his own breaſt, counterfeiting a friendſhip for him, and deſiring his alliance; but could not wholly ſuppreſs and conceal his intentions to deſtroy him. This treachery David here deſcribes, and places in oppoſition to it the fidelity and goodneſs of God, who rules the whole world, and takes care of beaſts as well as men. Patrick.

Ver. 1 The tranſgreſſion of the wicked ſaith within my heart, that there is no fear of God before his eyes.] The wicked man may uſe many arts to conceal his wicked intentions; but his actions ſufficiently convince me, that he hath no regard to God, nor will be reſtrained by the fear of him from doing me the greateſt miſchief. Patrick.

6 Thy righteouſneſs is like the great mountains.] Thy juſtice in the adminiſtration of all affairs, is as viſible as the higheſt mountains.

7 Under the ſhadow of thy wings.] i. e. Under thy almighty protection.

9 For with thee is the fountain of life, &c.] For thou art the ſource from whence all our happineſs flows, and which thou art able to continue for ever.

Notes on the Thirty-ſeventh Pſalm.

That this pſalm was particularly written for the conſolation of ſome righteous man, oppreſſed by calumny, againſt whom ſome wicked wretch had laid ſchemes to deſtroy him, is clear from the whole tenour of it, particularly the 4th and 6th verſes. And who and what is there, in the whole hiſtory of David, to whom, and to which, it can refer, but to Mephiboſheth, calumniated and villainouſly wronged by Ziba? Delany.

Ver. 1 Fret not thyſelf becauſe of evil doers, &c.] Let it not vex thee to ſee the evil doers great in proſperity; nor be thereby provoked either to accuſe God's providence, or think virtue of no value; much leſs to imitate them in their wickedneſs, or wiſh for their ſituation. Patrick.

6 Judgment.] Means the ſame here as juſtice or integrity;—the other tranſlation reads, juſt-dealing.

that wait upon the LORD, they ſhall inherit the earth.

10 For yet a little while, and the wicked ſhall not be: yea, thou ſhalt diligently conſider his place, and it ſhall not be.

11 But the meek ſhall inherit the earth; and ſhall delight themſelves in the abundance of peace.

12 The wicked plotteth againſt the juſt, and gnaſheth upon him with his teeth.

13 The LORD ſhall laugh at him: for he ſeeth that his day is coming.

14 The wicked have drawn out the ſword, and have bent their bow, to caſt down the poor and needy, and to ſlay ſuch as be of upright converſation.

15 Their ſword ſhall enter into their own heart, and their bows ſhall be broken.

16 A little that a righteous man hath is better than the riches of many wicked.

17 For the arms of the wicked ſhall be broken: but the LORD upholdeth the righteous.

18 The LORD knoweth the days of the upright: and their inheritance ſhall be for ever.

19 They ſhall not be aſhamed in the evil time: and in the days of famine they ſhall be ſatisfied.

20 But the wicked ſhall periſh, and the enemies of the LORD ſhall be as the fat of lambs: they ſhall conſume; into ſmoke ſhall they conſume away.

21 The wicked borroweth, and payeth not again: but the righteous ſheweth mercy, and giveth.

22 For ſuch as be bleſſed of him ſhall inherit the earth; and they that be curſed of him ſhall be cut off.

23 The ſteps of a good man are ordered by the LORD: and he delighteth in his way.

24 Though he fall he ſhall not be utterly caſt down: for the LORD upholdeth him with his hand.

25 I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not ſeen the righteous forſaken, nor his ſeed begging bread.

26 He is ever merciful, and lendeth; and his ſeed is bleſſed.

27 Depart from evil, and do good; and dwell for evermore.

28 For the LORD loveth judgement, and forſaketh not his ſaints; they are preſerved for ever: but the ſeed of the wicked ſhall be cut off.

29 The righteous ſhall inherit the land, and dwell therein for ever.

30 The mouth of the righteous ſpeaketh wiſdom, and his tongue talketh of judgement.

31 The law of his God is in his heart; none of his ſteps ſhall ſlide.

32 The wicked watcheth the righteous, and ſeeketh to ſlay him.

33 The LORD will not leave him in his hand, nor condemn him when he is judged.

34 Wait on the LORD, and keep his way, and he ſhall exalt thee to inherit the land: when the wicked are cut off, thou ſhalt ſee it.

35 I have ſeen the wicked in great power, and ſpreading himſelf like a green bay-tree,

36 Yet he paſſed away, and lo, he was not: yea, I ſought him, but he could not be found.

37 Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace.

38 But the tranſgreſſors ſhall be deſtroyed together: the end of the wicked ſhall be cut off.

39 But the ſalvation of the righteous is of the LORD: he is their ſtrength in the time of trouble.

40 And the LORD ſhall help them, and deliver them: he ſhall deliver them from the wicked, and ſave them, becauſe they truſt in him.

17 The arms of the wicked ſhall be broken.] So that they ſhall not be able to bend their bows.

18 The Lord knoweth the days, &c.] There is no day paſſes, wherein his providence does not protect the righteous.

Their inheritance ſhall endure for ever.] The deſcendants of Mephiboſheth were remarkably numerous.

19 They ſhall not be aſhamed in the evil time, &c.] When God puniſhes the world by war or peſtilence, they ſhall not be aſhamed of the hope they have placed in him: when others are pinched with famine, they ſhall be ſure to have enough.

21 The wicked borroweth.] Being reduced to great ſtraits he ſhall borrow money, but he ſhall not be able to repay it.

35 Spreading himſelf like a green bay-tree.] Septuagint and Vulgate read, exalted very high, and grown tall as the cedars of Lebanon.

36 He paſſed away, and lo, he was not.] Septuagint, Vulgate, and Liturgy; I went by, and lo, he was gone.

PSAL. XXXVIII.

David moveth God to take compaſſion of his pitiful caſe.

A pſalm of David to bring to remembrance.

O LORD, rebuke me not in thy wrath: neither chaſten me in thy hot diſpleaſure.

2 For thine arrows ſtick faſt in me, and thy hand preſſeth me ſore.

3 There is no ſoundneſs in my fleſh, becauſe of thine anger; neither is there any reſt in my bones, becauſe of my ſin.

4 For mine iniquities are gone over mine head; as an heavy burden they are too heavy for me.

5 My wounds ſtink, and are corrupt, becauſe of my fooliſhneſs.

6 I am troubled, I am bowed down greatly: I go mourning all the day long.

7 For my loins are filled with a loathſome diſeaſe: and there is no ſoundneſs in my fleſh.

8 I am feeble and ſore broken; I have roared by reaſon of the diſquietneſs of my heart.

9 LORD, all my deſire is before thee; and my groaning is not hid from thee.

10 My heart panteth, my ſtrength faileth me: as for the light of mine eyes, it alſo is gone from me.

11 My lovers and my friends ſtand aloof from my ſore; and my kinſmen ſtand afar off.

12 They alſo that ſeek after my life, lay ſnares for me: and they that ſeek my hurt, ſpeak miſchievous things, and imagine deceits all the day long.

13 But I, as a deaf man, heard not; and I was as a dumb man that openeth not his mouth.

14 Thus I was as a man that heareth not, and in whoſe mouth are no reproofs.

15 For in thee, O LORD, do I hope: thou wilt hear, O LORD my God.

16 For I ſaid, Hear me, leſt otherwiſe they ſhould rejoice over me: when my foot ſlippeth, they magnify themſelves againſt me.

17 For I am ready to halt, and my ſorrow is continually before me.

18 For I will declare mine iniquity; I will be ſorry for my ſin.

19 But mine enemies are lively, and they are ſtrong: and they that hate me wrongfully are multiplied.

20 They alſo that render evil for good are mine adverſaries: becauſe I follow the thing that good is.

21 Forſake me not, O LORD: O my God, be not far from me.

22 Make haſte to help me, O LORD my ſalvation.

PSAL. XXXIX.

1 David's care of his thoughts. 4 His conſideration of the brevity and vanity of life. 7 Reverence of God's judgments, 10 and prayer, bridle impatience in him.

To the chief muſician, even to Jeduthun, a pſalm of David.

I Said, I will take heed to my ways, that I ſin not with my tongue: I will keep my mouth with a bridle, while the wicked is before me.

Notes on the Thirty-eighth Pſalm.

It ſeems probable that this pſalm, the 39th, 40th and 41ſt, were compoſed by David when he was under the preſſure of ſome heavy trouble, or perſecuted by ſome dangerous conſpiracy, and at the ſame time afflicted with a grievous diſtemper. Dr. Delany is of opinion that this diſtemper was the ſmall-pox; and he grounds his reaſon for it on the 3d, 5th, 7th, 8th, 10th and 11th verſes of this chapter; but however that be, we may enter into the beauties of theſe pſalms, if we ſuppoſe him under great afflictions both of body and mind.

2 Thine arrows ſtick faſt in me.] The pains I feel are exceeding ſharp, and touch me to the quick.

14 As a man that heareth not, in whoſe mouth are no reproofs.] As one that had nothing to ſay in anſwer for himſelf. Wall.

17 I am ready to halt.] Liturgy reads, I am ſet in the plague.

19 Mine enemies are lively.] Liturgy. Mine enemies live and are mighty.

21 Forſake me not, O Lord: O my God, be not far from me.] I humbly betake myſelf to thee, O Lord, beſeeching thee, that thou wilt not deſert me, as my friends have done. Patrick

Notes on the Thirty-ninth Pſalm.

There is good reaſon to believe, that David compoſed this Pſalm on the death of his beloved ſon Abſalom, after Joab had ſo bitterly reproached him for the public expreſſions of his grief, which made him begin the pſalm with a reſolution to watch his words and paſſions more narrowly hereafter, and to ſtifle that grief which his natural affection excited before the hard-hearted Joab, ver. 1, 2, and that he would eaſe his mind by prayer, ver. 3. His praying for a due preparation for his own death, refers to Abſalom's untimely end, ver. 4. His blaming his own care to leave a large empire and great riches to his ſucceſſor, evidently reſpects the loſs of his deſigned heir, ver. 6. The reproach of the fooliſh, ver. 8. was the malicious uſe which Joab,

and

2 I was dumb with ſilence, I held my peace, even from good; and my ſorrow was ſtirred.

3 My heart was hot within me, while I was muſing the fire burned: then ſpake I with my tongue;

4 LORD, make me to know mine end, and the meaſure of my days, what it is; that I may know how frail I am.

5 Behold, thou haſt made my days as an hand-breadth: and mine age is as nothing before thee: verily every man at his beſt ſtate is altogether vanity. Selah.

6 Surely every man walketh in a vain ſhew: ſurely they are diſquieted in vain: he heapeth up riches, and knoweth not who ſhall gather them.

7 And now, LORD, what wait I for? my hope is in thee.

8 Deliver me from all my tranſgreſſions: make me not the reproach of the fooliſh.

9 I was dumb, I opened not my mouth; becauſe thou didſt it.

10 Remove thy ſtroke away from me: I am conſumed by the blow of thine hand.

11 When thou with rebukes doth correct man for iniquity, thou makeſt his beauty to conſume away like a moth: ſurely every man is vanity. Selah.

12 Hear my prayer, O LORD, and give ear unto my cry; hold not thy peace at my tears: for I am a ſtranger with thee, and a ſojourner, as all my fathers were.

13 O ſpare me, that I may recover ſtrength, before I go hence, and be no more.

PSAL. XL.

1 The benefit of confidence in God. 6 Obedience is the beſt ſacrifice. 11 The ſenſe of David's evils inflameth his prayer.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

I Waited patiently for the LORD; and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry.

2 He brought me up alſo out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and ſet my feet upon a rock, and eſtabliſhed my goings.

3 And he hath put a new ſong in my mouth, even praiſe unto our God: many ſhall ſee it, and fear, and ſhall truſt in the LORD.

4 Bleſſed is that man that maketh the LORD his truſt; and reſpecteth not the proud, nor ſuch as turn aſide to lies.

5 Many, O LORD my God, are thy wonderful works which thou haſt done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and ſpeak of them, they are more than can be numbered.

6 Sacrifice and offering thou didſt not deſire; mine ears haſt thou opened: burnt-offering and ſin-offering haſt thou not required.

7 Then ſaid I, Lo, I come: in the volume of the book it is written of me:

---

and ſuch as had no regard to God's wiſe diſpenſations, made of this affliction. The fading of beauty when death comes, ver. 11. plainly refers to Abſalom's beauty, wherein he excelled all Iſrael. And laſtly, the recovering of his ſtrength, ver. 13. is not to be underſtood of his being reſtored from ſickneſs, but the recovering the ſtrength of his family, now much weakened by the loſs of Amnon and Abſalom, the two chief of his ſons, which are in ſcripture called, The ſtrength of their parents.

Ver. 4. Lord, make me to know mine end, &c.] Lord, make me ſenſible, I beſeech thee, how ſhort this frail exiſtence of human life is, and when it will have an end: that, duly conſidering this, I may be the leſs concerned with regard to the miſeries I endure, which terminate with it. Patrick.

5 Behold, thou haſt made my days as an hand-breadth, &c.] Thou haſt circumſcribed my days within a very narrow compaſs, and when compared with thy eternal duration, they are nothing. Beſides, there is no man ſo ſtrong, but he may die in an inſtant, in the moſt flouriſhing condition: for, however firmly he may think himſelf ſettled, it is certain, he is mere vanity. Patrick.

11 Thou makeſt his beauty to conſume away like a moth.] Dr. Delany will have it, that no other diſtemper is ſo ſtrongly characterized here as the ſmall-pox, particularly in regard to that loſs of beauty which is cauſed by reducing the ſkin into the condition of a garment fretted by moths.

Notes on the Fortieth Pſalm.

In this pſalm David thankfully acknowledges God's goodneſs to him, in delivering him from ſome great danger; and then declares his reſolution to ſerve the Lord faithfully and chearfully, in ſuch expreſſions as may be more properly applied to Chriſt's readineſs to do the will of his father, than to David. Patrick.

Ver. 2 He brought me up out of a horrible pit.] He delivered me in my greateſt diſtreſs, and brought me into a place of ſafety.

6 Mine ears haſt thou opened.] In the Hebrew it is, Mine ears haſt thou bored: It muſt be remembered, that in order to prepare an equality among the Iſraelites, God required, that if any of them had ſold their liberty, they ſhould be reſtored to it at the jubilee. But it was lawful to continue thoſe in ſlavery who were willing to continue ſo; and in that caſe their ears were bored in teſtimony of it. Probably David alludes to this, when he makes the Son of God ſay to his Father, that he had bored his ears; i. e. that he had accepted him to be his voluntary ſlave: and St. Paul (Heb. x. 5.) agreeably to this interpretation, renders it, But a body haſt thou prepared me, i. e. to be a victim, to be offered up in ſacrifice to thee. Lamy.

7 Then ſaid I, lo, I come, &c.] Behold, I come to make an offering

8 I delight to do thy will, O my God: yea, thy law is within my heart.

9 I have preached righteouſneſs in the great congregation: lo, I have not refrained my lips; O LORD, thou knoweſt.

10 I have not hid thy righteouſneſs within my heart; I have declared thy faithfulneſs and thy ſalvation: I have not concealed thy loving-kindneſs and thy truth from the great congregation.

11 With-hold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O LORD: let thy loving-kindneſs and thy truth continually preſerve me.

12 For innumerable evils have compaſſed me about: mine iniquities have taken hold upon me, ſo that I am not able to look up: they are more than the hairs of mine head; therefore my heart faileth me.

13 Be pleaſed, O LORD, to deliver me: O LORD, make haſte to help me.

14 Let them be aſhamed and confounded together that ſeek after my ſoul to deſtroy it; let them be driven backward and put to ſhame that wiſh me evil.

15 Let them be deſolate for a reward of their ſhame, that ſay unto me, Aha, aha.

16 Let all thoſe that ſeek thee rejoice and be glad in thee: let ſuch as love thy ſalvation ſay continually, The LORD be magnified.

17 But I am poor and needy; yet the LORD thinketh upon me: thou art my help and my deliverer; make no tarrying, O my God.

PSAL. XLI.

1 God's care of the poor. 4 David complaineth of his enemies treachery.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

BLeſſed is he that conſidereth the poor: the LORD will deliver him in time of trouble.

2 The LORD will preſerve him, and keep him alive; and he ſhall be bleſſed upon the earth: and thou wilt not deliver him into the will of his enemies.

3 The LORD will ſtrengthen him upon the bed of languiſhing: thou wilt make all his bed in his ſickneſs.

4 I ſaid, LORD, be merciful unto me: heal my ſoul; for I have ſinned againſt thee.

5 Mine enemies ſpeak evil of me, When ſhall he die, and his name periſh?

6 And if he come to ſee me, he ſpeaketh vanity: his heart gathereth iniquity to it ſelf; when he goeth abroad, he telleth it.

7 All that hate me, whiſper together againſt me: againſt me do they deviſe my hurt.

8 An evil diſeaſe, ſay they, cleaveth faſt unto him: and now that he lieth, he ſhall riſe up no more.

9 Yea, mine own familiar friend, in whom I truſted, which did eat of my bread, hath lifted up his heel againſt me.

10 But thou, O LORD, be merciful unto me, and raiſe me up, that I may requite them.

11 By this I know that thou favoureſt me, becauſe mine enemy doth not triumph over me.

12 And as for me, thou upholdeſt me in mine integrity, and ſetteſt me before thy face for ever.

13 Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael, from everlaſting, and to everlaſting. Amen and Amen.

PSAL. XLII.

1 David's zeal to ſerve God in the temple. 5 He encourageth his ſoul to truſt in God.

offering of myſelf unto thee, as the great Meſſiah will hereafter do, even of his very blood, for ſo the book of the law requires, wherein this great ſacrifice of Chriſt is more plainly deſcribed. Patrick.

17 I am poor and needy, &c.] Though I am ſtripped of all, and entirely deſtitute of human help, yet the Lord takes care of me, and conſults my happineſs. Patrick.

Notes on the Forty-firſt Pſalm.

The royal prophet, in this pſalm, highly commends, and bleſſes that temper of mind which inclines men to pity and compaſſion with regard to thoſe who are poor and afflicted with ſickneſs; aſſuring ſuch perſons, that they ſhall not fail of receiving a full reward from the Almighty; and then complains bitterly of their inhumanity, who inſulted over him in his calamity, and with reproachful words and vile calumnies exaſperated the grief of his mind. He therefore expreſſes his hope, that God, who loves the merciful, would take compaſſion upon him, and put him in a condition to chaſtiſe their inſolence. Patrick.

Ver. 6 If he come to ſee me, he ſpeaketh vanity.] Dr. Delany thinks the vanity and lying ſpirit of Abſalom are characterized in this verſe; and in the 9th the treachery of Ahithophel.

8 An evil diſeaſe cleaveth faſt unto him.] Liturgy reads, Let the ſentence of guiltineſs proceed againſt him. Dr. Hammond obſerves, that the Hebrew word here uſed, though it does ſometimes ſignify a plague or diſeaſe, cannot well have that ſignification in this place; but means a ſlander, or falſe accuſation.

To the chief muſician, Maſchil, for the ſons of Korah.

AS the hart panteth after the water-brooks, ſo panteth my ſoul after thee, O God.

2 My ſoul thirſteth for God, for the living God: when ſhall I come and appear before God?

3 My tears have been my meat day and night, while they continually ſay unto me, Where is thy God?

4 When I remember theſe things, I pour out my ſoul in me: for I had gone with the multitude, I went with them to the houſe of God, with the voice of joy and praiſe, with a multitude that kept holy-day.

5 Why art thou caſt down, O my ſoul? and why art thou diſquieted in me? hope thou in God: for I ſhall yet praiſe him for the help of his countenance.

6 O my God, my ſoul is caſt down within me: therefore will I remember thee from the land of Jordan, and of the Hermonites from the hill Mizar.

7 Deep calleth unto deep at the noiſe of thy water-ſpouts: all thy waves and thy billows are gone over me.

8 Yet the LORD will command his loving-kindneſs in the day-time, and in the night his ſong ſhall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life.

9 I will ſay unto God my rock, Why haſt thou forgotten me? why go I mourning becauſe of the oppreſſion of the enemy?

10 As with a ſword in my bones, mine enemies reproach me: while they ſay daily unto me, Where is thy God?

11 Why art thou caſt down, O my ſoul? and why art thou diſquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I ſhall yet praiſe him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

PSAL. XLIII.

1 David praying to be reſtored to the temple, promiſeth to ſerve God joyfully. 5 He encourageth his ſoul to truſt in God.

JUDGE me O God, and plead my cauſe againſt an ungodly nation; O deliver me from the deceitful and unjuſt man.

2 For thou art the God of my ſtrength: why doſt thou caſt me off? why go I mourning becauſe of the oppreſſion of the enemy?

3 O ſend out thy light and thy truth: let

13 Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael, &c.] Let the God of Iſrael be for ever bleſſed and adored. Let him be bleſſed throughout all generations, as long as the ſun and moon endureth, and even to all eternity. Let him be bleſſed; and let all the people concur with me in theſe pious wiſhes, and with one conſent accompany me with their joyful acclamations, ſaying, the Lord be praiſed, the Lord be praiſed. Patrick.

Notes on the Forty-ſecond Pſalm.

The pſalms being divided into five books, here begins the ſecond book. All in the preceding, except four, have the name of David prefixed to them as their author; and thence the collector thought proper to place them all togeher. The firſt part of this ſecond book conſiſts of pſalms, directed to the ſons of Korah, to be ſet or ſung by them under the chief muſician of the tabernacle. And no doubt, but David himſelf was the author of ſome of the pſalms which have this title, it being certain, that he directed moſt of thoſe contained in the latter part of this book, and which all allow to have been of his compoſition, in the ſame manner. This pſalm ſeems to have been written either during his perſecution by Saul, or when he was again driven from the houſe of God by Abſalom: which ſad condition he bewails, with a mixture of grief for his baniſhment, and hopes for his being again reſtored to thoſe enjoyments which he eſteemed much better than life. Patrick.

Ver. 1 As the hart panteth.] The hart does not more eagerly long for the brooks of water, to quench his thirſt, than my ſoul does for the happy enjoyment of God in the public aſſemblies; from whence I am now driven.

2 My ſoul thirſteth for God, &c.] O how vehemently doth my ſoul long for thee! when ſhall I ſee that happy day, wherein I ſhall be again reſtored to the liberty of preſenting myſelf before thee in thy tabernacle? Patrick.

3 My tears have been my meat day and night, &c.] There I uſed, with the greateſt delight, to feaſt with thee; but now my appetite fails me for my daily food; inſtead of which, my only ſatisfaction is tears, to which I have wholly abandoned myſelf. Patrick.

6 From the land of Jordan, and of the Hermonites, from the hill Mizar.] Septuagint and Vulgate, From the land of Jordan, and the Hermons, from the little hill. It ſeems David was now at theſe places, beyond Jordan, and nigh Hermon (or the Hermons, a chain of hills) and himſelf abiding on a riſing ground thereabouts. Wall.

7 Deep calleth unto deep at the noiſe of thy water-ſpouts, &c.] I am fallen into an unfathomable abyſs of miſeries; they guſh in upon me, by thy appointment, with the violence of ſpouts of water from a burthened cloud. I am toſſed like one on a tempeſtuous ſea, where the waves rage and ſwell to ſuch a height, that every billow threatens to overwhelm me, and bury me in the deep. A poetical deſcription of calamities coming thick upon him, as upon Job; which he compares to waves, billows, ſpouts, or abyſſes, or pipes of water falling on him. Wall.

Notes on the Forty-third Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David on the ſame occaſion as the foregoing; when he was driven by Abſalom from his own palace, and even from the houſe of God; whither he deſires to be reſtored, and expreſſes his hope of it, in the ſame words, as in the 42d pſalm. Patrick.

Ver. 3 O ſend out thy light and thy truth, &c.] Mighty armies beſet them lead me; let them bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles.

4 Then will I go unto the altar of God, unto God my exceeding joy: yea, upon the harp will I praiſe thee, O God, my God.

5 Why art thou caſt down, O my ſoul? and why art thou diſquieted within me? hope in God; for I ſhall yet praiſe him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

PSAL. XLIV.

1 The church, in memory of former favours, 9 complaineth of her preſent evils, 17 profeſſing her integrity, 24 ſhe fervently prayeth for ſuccour.

To the chief muſician for the ſons of Korah, Maſchil.

WE have heard with our ears, O God, our fathers have told us what work thou didſt in their days, in the times of old.

2 How thou didſt drive out the heathen with thy hand, and plantedſt them; how thou didſt afflict the people, and caſt them out.

3 For they got not the land in poſſeſſion by their own ſword, neither did their own arm ſave them: but thy right hand, and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance, becauſe thou hadſt a favour unto them.

4 Thou art my king, O God: command deliverances for Jacob.

5 Through thee will we puſh down our enemies: through thy name will we tread them under that riſe up againſt us.

6 For I will not truſt in my bow, neither ſhall my ſword ſave me.

7 But thou haſt ſaved us from our enemies, and haſt put them to ſhame that hated us.

8 In God we boaſt all the day long, and praiſe thy name for ever. Selah.

9 But thou haſt caſt off, and put us to ſhame; and goeſt not forth with our armies.

10 Thou makeſt us to turn back from the enemy: and they which hate us ſpoil for themſelves.

11 Thou haſt given us like ſheep appointed for meat; and haſt ſcattered us among the heathen.

12 Thou ſelleſt thy people for nought, and doſt not increaſe thy wealth by their price.

13 Thou makeſt us a reproach to our neighbours, a ſcorn and a deriſion to them that are round about us.

14 Thou makeſt us a by-word among the heathen, a ſhaking of the head among the people.

15 My confuſion is continually before me, and the ſhame of my face hath covered me:

16 For the voice of him that reproacheth and blaſphemeth; by reaſon of the enemy and avenger.

17 All this is come upon us; yet have we not forgotten thee, neither have we dealt falſely in thy covenant.

18 Our heart is not turned back, neither have our ſteps declined from thy ways:

19 Though thou haſt ſore broken us in the place of dragons, and covered us with the ſhadow of death.

20 If we have forgotten the name of our God, or ſtretched out our hands to a ſtrange god:

21 Shall not God ſearch this out? for he knoweth the ſecrets of the heart.

---

beſet me round about, and I have nothing to protect me but thy favour and faithfulneſs: O ſend out therefore the happy effects of them, and let thy Almighty power mercifully conduct me, and bring me again to thy holy mountain, where thou haſt fixed thy dwelling-place. Patrick.

Notes on the Forty-fourth Pſalm.

This pſalm does not ſeem to have been compoſed by David, for, in his days, the people of Iſrael were not oppreſſed by foreign enemies, as the pſalmiſt here complains, in the name of the whole church. Some of them, he tells us, were made ſlaves, others ſlain, and all of them become a reproach to their enemies. It ſeems however to have been written before the Babyloniſh captivity, but long after the days of David, when their country was invaded by the king of Aſſyria, who took all the fenced cities of Judah, and came before Jeruſalem with a great army, 2 Kings, xviii. 13, 17. In this diſtreſsful ſituation, they would naturally call to remembrance the many wonderful works the Lord had done for their anceſtors, hoping he would ſtill be their protector and rock of defence. Patrick.

11 Like ſheep appointed for meat.] Some of us they kill in the purſuit; others they ſend into captivity.

12 Thou ſelleſt thy people for nought.] Where we are ſold as vile ſlaves, who are nothing worth.

19 In the place of dragons.] Dragon is a word that conveys no particular idea; becauſe there is no creature properly ſo called: the original word here uſed means thoſe noxious and diſagreeable animals, that generally hide themſelves in the dark and inacceſſible coverts. Pilkington.

20 If we have forgotten the name, &c.] Forgetting the name of God means falling into idolatry. Clark.

Notes

22 Yea, for thy ſake are we killed all the day long; we are counted as ſheep for the ſlaughter.

23 Awake, why ſleepeſt thou, O LORD? ariſe, caſt us not off for ever.

24 Wherefore hideſt thou thy face? and forgetteſt our affliction and our oppreſſion?

25 For our ſoul is bowed down to the duſt: our belly cleaveth unto the earth.

26 Ariſe for our help, and redeem us for thy mercy's ſake.

PSAL. XLV.

1 The majeſty and grace of Chriſt's kingdom. 10 The duty of the church, and the benefits thereof.

To the chief muſician upon Shoſhannim, for the ſons of Korah, Maſchil, a ſong of loves.

MY heart is enditing a good matter: I ſpeak of the things which I have made touching the king: my tongue is the pen of a ready writer.

2 Thou art fairer than the children of men: grace is poured into thy lips: therefore God hath bleſſed thee for ever.

3 Gird thy ſword upon thy thigh, O moſt mighty, with thy glory and thy majeſty.

4 And in thy majeſty ride proſperouſly, becauſe of truth and meekneſs and righteouſneſs; and thy right hand ſhall teach thee terrible things.

5 Thine arrows are ſharp in the heart of the king's enemies; whereby the people fall under thee.

6 Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: the ſcepter of thy kingdom is a right ſcepter.

7 Thou loveſt righteouſneſs, and hateſt wickedneſs: therefore God, thy God hath anointed thee with the oil of gladneſs above thy fellows.

8 All thy garments ſmell of myrrh, and aloes, and caſſia; out of the ivory palaces, whereby they have made thee glad.

9 Kings daughters were among thy honourable women: upon thy right hand did ſtand the queen in gold of Ophir.

10 Hearken, O daughter, and conſider, and Notes on the Forty-fifth Pſalm.

The preceding pſalm is not more ſad and mournful than this is joyful and comfortable; promiſing the moſt glorious things to the ſons of Jacob. The author is not mentioned; but it was, like the former, delivered to the chief muſician, and ordered to be ſung upon inſtruments of ſix ſtrings, to the well-known tune of Maſchil; and being, as the title tells us, a ſong of loves, plainly alluding to the name Jedidiah, given to Solomon by Nathan the prophet, 2 Sam. xii. 25, moſt interpreters conclude, that it was compoſed upon the occaſion of Solomon's marriage with Pharaoh's daughter. Some indeed will not allow that the author had any reſpect to Solomon, but to Chriſt only. This is certain, that many of the expreſſions in it are ſo magnificent, that they can only be applied in a very mean ſenſe to Solomon and his bride, and ſome of them ſcarce at all. But, on the other hand, many of the paſſages ſo plainly allude to that prince, that they can only be allegorically applied to our bleſſed Saviour. The principal parts of it however relate to Chriſt, it being ſufficiently evident, that the prophet, while he was writing ſome part of this pſalm, was carried quite beyond king Solomon, to the great King, the Lord our righteouſneſs. So that we may ſay here, as our Saviour doth in another caſe, Behold, a greater than Solomon is here. This is even acknowledged by the beſt of the Jewiſh interpreters themſelves. Patrick.

Ver. 1 My heart is enditing a good matter.] My heart is filled with a pſalm of thankſgiving which I have meditated, and am ready to utter in praiſe of king Solomon, who is only a type of that great king whom we expect. Patrick.

2 Thou art fairer than the children of men, &c.] Thou art more lovely than the reſt of mankind: the moſt perſuaſive eloquence flows from thy lips, becauſe the Lord delighteth in thee, and hath promiſed thee length of days, riches, and honour; though they but faintly repreſent thoſe eternal bleſſings which he hath beſtowed on that great King, who, when he appears, it ſhall be ſaid, That he is in favour of God and man, and ſpeaks as never man ſpake, ſo that all ſhall wonder at the gracious words that proceed out of his mouth. Patrick.

3 Gird thy ſword upon thy thigh, O moſt mighty, &c.] Array thyſelf in thy royal ornaments, and the enſigns of thy power, O thou moſt mighty prince, and appear in ſuch ſplendor and majeſty, as may ſerve for an emblem of that ſovereign authority in which the omnipotent Lord of the univerſe ſhall ſhew himſelf among men. Sword here ſignifies either Glory, or the word of God. Epheſ. vi. 17.

4 In thy majeſty ride proſperouſly, &c.] May thy kingdom be ſo proſperous on every ſide, by planting virtue and piety among thy ſubjects, that it may prove a lively type of the happy government of the great Meſſiah, whoſe kingdom, when he goes forth conquering and to conquer, ſhall prevail over all; not by enſlaving the perſons of men, or ſpoiling them of their goods, but by ſettling the true faith among them, rendering them humble and meek, juſt and charitable: and to haſten this glorious work, thy mighty power, O Lord, ſhall inſtruct thee to perform wonderful things. Patrick.

5 Thine arrows are ſharp, &c.] Thy words, like ſharp arrows, pierce into the hearts of all thoſe that oppoſe thy royal authority.

6 Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever, &c.] How weak and tottering are the thrones of all other princes in compariſon with thine, which ſhall never be ſubverted! of thy kingdom there ſhall be no end. This relates to the Meſſiah. Patrick.

8 Aloes.] What is here meant by Aloes is not the herb of that name, which is bitter and of a bad ſmell; but the wood of Aloes, which when dried is of a very agreeable odour. Caſſiodorus ſays, in his time it was burnt before the altars inſtead of frankincenſe.

Ivory palaces.] Probably it ſhould be ivory cheſts, wherein cloaths were kept.

incline thine ear: forget alſo thine own people, and thy father's houſe;

11 So ſhall the king greatly deſire thy beauty: for he is thy Lord; and worſhip thou him.

12 And the daughter of Tyre ſhall be there with a gift; even the rich among the people ſhall intreat thy favour.

13 The king's daughter is all glorious within: her clothing is of wrought gold.

14 She ſhall be brought unto the king in raiment of needle-work: the virgins her companions that follow her ſhall be brought unto thee.

15 With gladneſs and rejoicing ſhall they be brought: they ſhall enter into the king's palace.

16 Inſtead of thy fathers ſhall be thy children, whom thou mayeſt make princes in all the earth.

17 I will make thy name to be remembered in all generations: therefore ſhall the people praiſe thee for ever and ever.

PSAL. XLVI.

1 The confidence which the church hath in God.
8 An exhortation to behold his works.

To the chief muſician for the ſons of Korah, a ſong upon Alamoth.

GOD is our refuge and ſtrength, a very preſent help in trouble.

2 Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midſt of the ſea;

3 Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains ſhake with the ſwelling thereof. Selah.

4 There is a river the ſtreams whereof ſhall make glad the city of God; the holy place of the tabernacles of the moſt High.

5 God is in the midſt of her; ſhe ſhall not be moved: God ſhall help her, and that right early.

6 The heathen rage, the kingdoms were moved: he uttered his voice, the earth melted.

7 The LORD of hoſts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

8 Come, behold the works of the LORD, what deſolations he hath made in the earth.

9 He maketh wars to ceaſe unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the ſpear in ſunder, he burneth the chariots in the fire.

10 Be ſtill, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.

11 The LORD of hoſts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.

PSAL. XLVII.

The nations are exhorted cheerfully to entertain the kingdom of Chriſt.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm for the ſons of Korah.

O Clap your hands, all ye people; ſhout unto God with the voice of triumph:

13 The king's daughter is all glorious within.] Pharaoh's daughter is poſſeſſed of all excellent qualities of mind.

15 With gladneſs and rejoicing ſhall they be brought, &c.] They ſhall expreſs the inward gladneſs of their minds by external tokens of joy, as they enter the royal palace: a lively figure of the church, which men ſhall enter with far greater joy, ſaying Hallelujah, let us rejoice and be glad, for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth. Patrick.

Notes on the Forty-ſixth Pſalm.

This pſalm is generally ſuppoſed to have been written by David, immediately after one of thoſe great victories mentioned, 2 Sam. viii. 10. For it evidently appears to be a pious triumph in God, on ſome remarkable deliverance from very powerful enemies; and none are recorded in the ſacred books to which it can more naturally be referred than thoſe abovementioned. It was intended to perpetuate the remembrance of ſuch remarkable victories, and thence inſpire the people with a firm confidence in God, whenever they ſhould for the future be ſurrounded with dangers, and induce them to return thanks to that omnipotent arm that had ſaved them in the day of their diſtreſs. Patrick.

Ver. 4 There is a river, &c.] i. e. Cedron, which watered the city of Jeruſalem.

9 Burneth the chariots in the fire.] In obedience to the commands of God, David burnt the chariots taken from the enemy in battle.

11 The Lord of hoſts is with us, &c.] The Lord who commands the armies of heaven is our defender. He preſerved Jacob our father in all his diſtreſſes, condeſcended to make a gracious covenant with him to be the God of his poſterity; and in him, as in an impregnable fortreſs, we are ſafe from every danger. Pat.

Notes on the Forty-ſeventh Pſalm.

It is generally thought that this was a triumphant ſong performed before the ark as they brought it back to its place after ſome great victory, it being common for them to carry it before them to battle. However that be, the ark being a figure of Chriſt, as the mountain on which it had its dwelling-place was of heaven, the tranſlation, or carrying of it back thither may be conſidered as a figure of Chriſt's aſcenſion, after he had dwelt in this vale of miſery, and conquered death, into the heavenly manſions of eternal felicity, where he now ſitteth at the right hand of God for evermore. Patrick.

2 For the LORD moſt High is terrible: he is a great king over all the earth.

3 He ſhall ſubdue the people under us, and the nations under our feet.

4 He ſhall chooſe our inheritance for us, the excellency of Jacob whom he loved. Selah.

5 God is gone up with a ſhout, the LORD with the ſound of a trumpet.

6 Sing praiſes to God, ſing praiſes: ſing praiſes unto our King, ſing praiſes.

7 For God is the King of all the earth: ſing yé praiſes with underſtanding.

8 God reigneth over the heathen: God ſitteth upon the throne of his holineſs.

9 The princes of the people are gathered together, even the people of the God of Abraham: for the ſhields of the earth belong unto God: he is greatly exalted.

PSAL. XLVIII.

The ornaments and privileges of the church.

A ſong and pſalm for the ſons of Korah.

GREAT is the LORD, and greatly to be praiſed, in the city of our God, in the mountain of his holineſs.

2 Beautiful for ſituation, the joy of the whole earth, is mount Zion, on the ſides of the north, the city of the great king.

3 God is known in her palaces for a refuge.

4 For lo, the kings were aſſembled, they paſſed by together.

5 They ſaw it, and ſo they marvelled; they were troubled, and haſted away.

6 Fear took hold upon them there, and pain, as of a woman in travail.

7 Thou breakeſt the ſhips of Tarſhiſh with an eaſt-wind.

8 As we have heard, ſo have we ſeen in the city of the LORD of hoſts, in the city of our God: God will eſtabliſh it for ever. Selah.

9 We have thought of thy loving-kindneſs, O God, in the midſt of thy temple.

10 According to thy name, O God, ſo is thy praiſe unto the ends of the earth: thy right hand is full of righteouſneſs.

11 Let mount Zion rejoice, let the daughters of Judah be glad, becauſe of thy judgements.

12 Walk about Zion, and go round about her: tell the towers thereof.

13 Mark ye well her bulwarks, conſider her palaces: that ye may tell it to the generation following.

14 For this God is our God for ever and ever: he will be our guide even unto death.

PSAL. XLIX.

1 An earneſt perſuaſion to build the faith of the reſurrection, not on worldly power, but on God.

16 Worldly proſperity is not to be admired.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm for the ſons of Korah.

HEAR this, all ye people; give ear, all ye inhabitants of the world:

2 Both low and high, rich and poor together.

3 My mouth ſhall ſpeak of wiſdom; and the meditation of my heart ſhall be of underſtanding.

Ver. 5 God is gone up with a ſhout.] i. e. With ſhouts of joy and praiſe.

8 God reigneth over the heathen, &c.] He hath made the heathens who dwelt in Sion to feel the effects of his power, and ſubmit themſelves to him: and there he hath ſeated himſelf on the ark of his preſence, as on his holy throne. Patrick.

Notes on the Forty-eighth Pſalm.

The fourth verſe of this pſalm mentions a combination of kings, who had joined their forces to deſtroy Jeruſalem; and therefore it is applicable to that hiſtory in 2 Chron. xx. 1, 2---10. when Moab, Ammon, and they of mount Seir came againſt Jehoſhaphat, with an intention to fall upon Jeruſalem. And verſe 28, it is ſaid, that after Jehoſhaphat had obtained a great victory over theſe numerous armies, he returned with the people to Jeruſalem with pſalteries and harps, and trumpets unto the houſe of the Lord: At which time, it is probable, this pſalm was ſung, before the victorious hoſt.

Ver. 1 Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praiſed in the city of our God, &c.] Great is the majeſty and power of the Lord, who is therefore to be celebrated with the higheſt praiſes, eſpecially in his own city, by the inhabitants of Jeruſalem. Patrick.

2 Beautiful is mount Sion, on the ſides of the north.] The Liturgy ſeems to expreſs it trueſt; on the north ſide lieth the city of the great king; i. e. Jeruſalem.

11 Let mount Sion rejoice, let the daughters of Judah, &c.] This and the following verſes ſeem to refer to the great improvements which were made to old Jeruſalem: viz. when the temple was erected on mount Moriah; when Millo was added, and the houſe of the foreſt of Lebanon, and the palace of Pharaoh's daughter, and Solomon's own palace, which was thirteen years in building. Delany.

Notes on the Forty-ninth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written to check the vanity, and unreaſonable thirſt of mankind after riches, by ſetting the king of terrors before their eyes; well knowing that a ſerious meditation on death would bring down the haughty looks of the proud and ſcornful, and preſerve thoſe they oppreſſed from being dejected at their proſperous impiety. Patrick.

5 Where-

4 I will incline mine ear to a parable: I will open my dark-ſaying upon the harp.

5 Wherefore ſhould I fear in the days of evil, when the iniquity of my heels ſhall compaſs me about?

6 They that truſt in their wealth, and boaſt themſelves in the multitude of their riches;

7 None of them can by any means redeem his brother, nor give to God a ranſom for him:

8 (For the redemption of their ſoul is precious, and it ceaſeth for ever;)

9 That he ſhould ſtill live for ever; and not ſee corruption.

10 For he ſeeth that wiſe men die, likewiſe the fool and the brutiſh perſon periſh, and leave their wealth to others.

11 Their inward thought is that their houſes ſhall continue for ever, and their dwelling-places to all generations: they call their lands after their own names.

12 Nevertheleſs, man being in honour abideth not: he is like the beaſts that periſh.

13 This their way is their folly: yet their poſterity approve their ſayings. Selah.

14 Like ſheep they are laid in the grave; death ſhall feed on them; and the upright ſhall have dominion over them in the morning; and their beauty ſhall conſume in the grave from their dwelling.

15 But God will redeem my ſoul from the power of the grave: for he ſhall receive me. Selah.

16 Be not thou afraid when one is made rich, when the glory of his houſe is increaſed;

17 For when he dieth, he ſhall carry nothing away: his glory ſhall not deſcend after him.

18 Though while he lived, he bleſſed his ſoul: and men will praiſe thee, when thou doeſt well to thy ſelf.

19 He ſhall go to the generation of his fathers, they ſhall never ſee light.

20 Man that is in honour, and underſtandeth not, is like the beaſts that periſh.

PSAL. L.

1 The majeſty of God in the church. 5 His order to gather ſaints. 7 The pleaſure of God is not in ceremonies, 14 but in ſincerity of obedience.

A pſalm of Aſaph.

THE mighty God, even the LORD, hath ſpoken, and called the earth from the riſing of the ſun unto the going down thereof.

2 Out of Zion the perfection of beauty God hath ſhined.

3 Our God ſhall come, and ſhall not keep ſilence: a fire ſhall devour before him, and it ſhall be very tempeſtuous round about him.

4 He ſhall call to the heavens from above,

5 Wherefore ſhould I fear in the days of evil, &c.] Why ſhould I be troubled with fear and anxiety of mind in days of calamity, when the iniquity of my paſt life hath ſurrounded me on all ſides? The late Mr. Man read, When the iniquity of mine enemies ſhall compaſs me.

6, 7 They that truſt in their wealth, &c.] Though they place ſuch confidence in their wealth, that they think none is able to reſiſt them: yet alas! their weakneſs is ſufficiently apparent; not one amongſt them, be his power ever ſo great, can ſave his deareſt friend from the grave, when the Almighty demands his ſoul: nor is the wealth of the richeſt of them ſufficient to purchaſe a reprieve, when God pronounces the ſentence of death upon them. Patrick.

8 The redemption of their ſoul is precious, and it ceaſeth for ever.] i. e. As to any thing we can do.

12 Nevertheleſs, man being in honour abideth not.] Whatever eſteem one of theſe worldlings may get here, it continues not, but all dies with him. Patrick.

13 This their way is their folly, &c.] Notwithſtanding they allow this to have been a folly, yet their children follow their example, and act over the ſame follies.

14 Like ſheep they are laid in the grave, &c.] They go in droves to their graves, whither death drives them at the cloſe of their days, as a ſhepherd does his flock in the evening to the fold: and then the juſt, whom they before inſulted, ſhall triumph over them at the morning of the reſurrection.

20 Man that is in honour, and underſtandeth not, &c.] A man of great dignity in this world, that never conſiders how ſhort-lived and uncertain his honour is, behaves himſelf like a brute while he lives, and is cut off like a brute whom nobody regards when he dies. Patrick.

Notes on the Fiftieth Pſalm.

The title of this pſalm informs us that it was written by Aſaph, who, like David, compoſed ſeveral pieces for the uſe of the temple. It is probable that he lived in the reign of ſome pious prince, perhaps Jehoſhaphat, or Hezekiah, when the people and judges were filled with hypocriſy; the former placing all religion in ſacrifices, and external ceremonies, the latter never obſerving the precepts they expounded to the people. Both theſe vices the pious author endeavours to deſtroy, by repreſenting God as the ſupreme Judge of the world, coming in an amazing manner to call them all to a ſtrict account, and take a ſevere vengeance upon them, unleſs they turned from the evil of their doings. Patrick.

Ver. 1 The mighty God, even the Lord hath ſpoken, &c.] The Almighty father of the univerſe, the ſupreme judge of heaven and earth, hath commanded all the people of the land, from the eaſt to the weſt, to appear before him. Patrick.

2 Out of Zion the perfection of beauty God hath ſhined.] He will go forth in amazing ſplendor from his magnificent palace, where he dwells in Zion.

4 He ſhall call to the heavens from above, and to the earth.] He ſhall call heaven and earth to be witneſſes of his proceedings.

5 Gather and to the earth, that he may judge his people.

5 Gather my ſaints together unto me; thoſe that have made a covenant with me by ſacrifice.

6 And the heavens ſhall declare his righteouſneſs: for God is judge himſelf. Selah.

7 Hear, O my people, and I will ſpeak; O Iſrael, and I will teſtify againſt thee: I am God, even thy God.

8 I will not reprove thee for thy ſacrifices or thy burnt-offerings, to have been continually before me.

9 I will take no bullock out of thy houſe, nor he-goats out of thy folds.

10 For every beaſt of the foreſt is mine, and the cattle upon a thouſand hills.

11 I know all the fowls of the mountains: and the wild beaſts of the field are mine.

12 If I were hungry, I would not tell thee: for the world is mine, and the fulneſs thereof.

13 Will I eat the fleſh of bulls, or drink the blood of goats?

14 Offer unto God thankſgiving; and pay thy vows unto the moſt High:

15 And call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou ſhalt glorify me.

16 But unto the wicked God ſaith, What haſt thou to do to declare my ſtatutes, or that thou ſhouldeſt take my covenant in thy mouth?

17 Seeing thou hateſt inſtruction, and caſteſt my words behind thee.

18 When thou ſaweſt a thief, then thou conſentedſt with him, and haſt been partaker with adulterers.

19 Thou giveſt thy mouth to evil, and thy tongue frameth deceit.

20 Thou ſitteſt, and ſpeakeſt againſt thy brother; thou ſlandereſt thine own mother's ſon.

21 Theſe things haſt thou done, and I kept ſilence; thou thoughteſt that I was altogether ſuch a one as thy ſelf: but I will reprove thee, and ſet them in order before thine eyes.

22 Now conſider this, ye that forget God, leſt I tear you in pieces, and there be none to deliver.

23 Whoſo offereth praiſe, glorifieth me: and to him that ordereth his converſation aright will I ſhew the ſalvation of God.

PSAL. LI.

1 David prayeth for remiſſion of ſins, whereof he maketh a deep confeſſion. 6 He prayeth for ſanctification. 16 God delighteth not in ſacrifice, but in ſincerity. 18 David prayeth for the church.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David, when Nathan the prophet came unto him after he had gone in to Bath-ſheba.

HAVE mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving-kindneſs: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my tranſgreſſions.

2 Waſh me throughly from mine iniquity, and cleanſe me from my ſin.

3 For I acknowledge my tranſgreſſions: and my ſin is ever before me.

4 Againſt thee, thee only have I ſinned, and done this evil in thy ſight: that thou mighteſt be juſtified when thou ſpeakeſt, and be clear when thou judgeſt.

5 Behold, I was ſhapen in iniquity; and in ſin did my mother conceive me.

6 Behold, thou deſireſt truth in the inward

---

5 Gather my ſaints together unto me, &c.] He will command his angels, ſaying, Bring thoſe men before me, whom I have favoured above all other people, and ſeparated to myſelf, to be an holy nation, and who have engaged themſelves to me by the moſt ſolemn covenant, confirmed by the blood of ſacrifices. Patrick.

8 I will not reprove thee for thy ſacrifices, to have been continually before me.] Liturgy, Becauſe they were not alway before me.

13 Will I eat the fleſh of bulls, or drink the blood of goats?] Alluding probably to that conceit of the Pagans, mentioned Deut. xxxii. 38, that their gods did eat the fleſh of their ſacrifices, and drank the wine of their drink-offerings. Edwards' Rem. Texts.

23 Whoſo offereth praiſe, glorifieth me, &c.] I have told you what ſacrifices I am pleaſed with; not with thoſe of beaſts, but with the ſacrifice of praiſe and thankſgiving for my benefits, which is more pleaſing to me than all the lifeleſs ſacrifices of bulls and goats. But he that thus devoutly worſhips me muſt alſo take care to render his life conformable to all my precepts; and this man ſhall be partaker of the bleſſings I have ſo often promiſed. Patrick.

Notes on the Fifty-firſt Pſalm.

Ver. 1 Have mercy upon me, O God, &c.] O thou great Judge of all the earth, whom I have ſo highly offended, and therefore may be juſtly condemned to ſuffer the effect of thy ſevereſt anger; I caſt myſelf down before thee, and humbly ſupplicate for mercy: unto which I am encouraged by thy known clemency, and thy infinite compaſſions, which will, I hope, move thee to pity a grievous ſinner, and pardon the heinous tranſgreſſions I have committed.

6 In the inward parts.] i. e. In the mind or conſcience.

7 Purge

parts: and in the hidden part thou ſhalt make me to know wiſdom.

7 Purge me with hyſſop, and I ſhall be clean: waſh me, and I ſhall be whiter than ſnow.

8 Make me to hear joy and gladneſs: that the bones which thou haſt broken may rejoice.

9 Hide thy face from my ſins, and blot out all mine iniquities.

10 Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right ſpirit within me.

11 Caſt me not away from thy preſence; and take not thy Holy Spirit from me.

12 Reſtore unto me the joy of thy ſalvation; and uphold me with thy free ſpirit.

13 Then will I teach tranſgreſſors thy ways; and ſinners ſhall be converted unto thee.

14 Deliver me from blood-guiltineſs, O God, thou God of my ſalvation: and my tongue ſhall ſing aloud of thy righteouſneſs.

15 O LORD, open thou my lips; and my mouth ſhall ſhew forth thy praiſe.

16 For thou deſireſt not ſacrifice; elſe would I give it: thou delighteſt not in burnt-offering.

17 The ſacrifices of God are a broken ſpirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not deſpiſe.

18 Do good in thy good pleaſure unto Zion: build thou the walls of Jeruſalem.

19 Then ſhalt thou be pleaſed with the ſacrifices of righteouſneſs, with burnt-offering, and whole burnt-offering: then ſhall they offer bullocks upon thine altar.

PSAL. LII.

1 David condemning the ſpiteſulneſs of Doeg, propheſieth his deſtruction. 6 The righteous ſhall rejoice at it.

To the chief muſician, Maſchil, a pſalm of David, when Doeg the Edomite came and told Saul, and ſaid unto him, David is come to the houſe of Ahimelech.

WHY boaſteſt thou thy ſelf in miſchief, O mighty man? the goodneſs of God endureth continually.

2 Thy tongue deviſeth miſchiefs; like a ſharp razor, working deceitfully.

3 Thou loveſt evil more than good; and lying rather than to ſpeak righteouſneſs, Selah.

4 Thou loveſt all devouring words, O thou deceitful tongue.

5 God ſhall likewiſe deſtroy thee for ever, he ſhall take thee away, and pluck thee out of thy dwelling-place, and root thee out of the land of the living. Selah.

6 The righteous alſo ſhall ſee, and fear, and ſhall laugh at him:

7 Lo, this is the man that made not God his ſtrength; but truſted in the abundance of his riches, and ſtrengthened himſelf in his wickedneſs.

8 But I am like a green olive-tree in the houſe of God: I truſt in the mercy of God for ever and ever.

9 I will praiſe thee for ever, becauſe thou haſt done it: and I will wait on thy name; for it is good before thy ſaints.

---

7 Purge me with hyſſop, and I ſhall be clean, &c.] The ſprinklers with which they ſprinkled the unclean were made of hyſſop, which occaſioned this expreſſion. I have indeed been guilty of the moſt ſhocking crimes: crimes inflamed by every aggravating circumſtance with regard to myſelf, my neighbour, and my God. Yet, horrid as my offence is, it is nothing to the ſuper-abundant merit of that great Redeemer, who was promiſed from the foundations of the world, in whom all my fathers truſted; who is the hope of all the ends of the earth. Though my conſcience be more loathſome with adulterous impurity than a dung-hill, though the moſt barbarous murder has rendered it even black as the gloom of hell; yet waſhed in the great fountain opened for ſin, and for uncleanneſs, I ſhall be not only fairer than the full blown lilly, but whiter than the new-fallen ſnow. Hervey.

9 Hide thy face from my ſins.] Thine anger.

11 Caſt me not away from thy preſence, &c.] Deliver me not over to a reprobate mind. The ſoul of ſhame, ſorrow, remorſe, ſincere repentance, and bitter anguiſh under the agonies of guilt, breathes ſtrong and fervent through every line of this hallowed compoſition. Delany.

16 Thou deſireſt not ſacrifice, &c.] Not frequently means, not only, or ſcarcely, not chiefly, rather than; therefore this verſe might run thus, Thou deſireſt not ſacrifice chiefly; thou delighteſt not in burnt-offerings only. Pilkington.

Notes on the Fifty-ſecond Pſalm.

Ver. 1 Why boaſteſt thou thyſelf in miſchief, O mighty man? &c.] Surely it is far from being a noble exploit to have ſlain the innocent and unarmed prieſts; yet this only is the ſubject of thy boaſting. But know, vain man, that the goodneſs of God will defend me from thy wickedneſs. Patrick.

5 God ſhall likewiſe deſtroy thee for ever, &c.] God, whoſe prieſts thou haſt ſlain, ſhall avenge their cauſe, and retaliate the ſame miſchief upon thine own head; he will deſtroy not only thee, but all thy family, from the face of the earth. Patrick.

6 Shall laugh at him.] The word ſaying ſeems wanting at the end of this verſe.

8 I am like a green olive-tree.] My branches ſhall always flouriſh and look green, but the wicked ſhall drop away like a withered leaf.

PSAL. LIII.

1 David deſcribeth the corruption of a natural man. 4 He convinceth the wicked by the light of their own conſcience. 6 He glorieth in the ſalvation of God.

To the chief muſician upon Mahalath, Maſchil, a pſalm of David.

THE fool hath ſaid in his heart, There is no God. Corrupt are they, and have done abominable iniquity: there is none that doeth good.

2 God looked down from the heaven upon the children of men, to ſee if there were any that did underſtand, that did ſeek God.

3 Every one of them is gone back: they are altogether become filthy; there is none that doeth good, no not one.

4 Have the workers of iniquity no knowledge? who eat up my people as they eat bread: they have not called upon God.

5 There were they in great fear where no fear was: for God hath ſcattered the bones of him that encampeth againſt thee: thou haſt put them to ſhame, becauſe God hath deſpiſed them.

6 Oh, that the ſalvation of Iſrael were come out of Zion! when God bringeth back the captivity of his people, Jacob ſhall rejoice, and Iſrael ſhall be glad.

PSAL. LIV.

1 David complaining of the Ziphims, prayeth for ſalvation. 4 Upon his confidence in God's help, he promiſeth ſacrifice.

To the chief muſician on Neginoth, Maſchil, a pſalm of David when the Ziphims came and ſaid to Saul, Doth not David hide himſelf with us?

SAVE me, O God, by thy name, and judge me by thy ſtrength.

2 Hear my prayer, O God; give ear to the words of my mouth.

3 For ſtrangers are riſen up againſt me, and oppreſſors ſeek after my ſoul: they have not ſet God before them. Selah.

4 Behold, God is mine helper: the LORD is with them that uphold my ſoul.

5 He ſhall reward evil unto mine enemies: cut them off in thy truth.

6 I will freely ſacrifice unto thee: I will praiſe thy name, O LORD; for it is good.

7 For he hath delivered me out of all trouble: and mine eye hath ſeen his deſire upon mine enemies.

PSAL. LV.

1 David in his prayer complaineth of his fearful caſe. 9 He prayeth againſt his enemies, of whoſe wickedneſs and treachery he complaineth. 16 He comforteth himſelf in God's preſervation of him, and confuſion of his enemies.

To the chief muſician on Neginoth, Maſchil, a pſalm of David.

GIVE ear to my prayer, O God; and hide not thy ſelf from my ſupplication.

Notes on the Fifty-third Pſalm.

This pſalm differs ſo very little from the fourteenth, except only in the fifth verſe, that interpreters have found ſome difficulty to give a reaſon for the repetition of the ſame thing, almoſt in the ſame words. The ſixth verſe is wholly omitted, which renders it probable, that there was ſome new occaſion for uſing this pſalm again; though an occaſion exceedingly like the former. The reader is referred to the xivth pſalm.

Notes on the Fifty-fourth Pſalm.

The title of this pſalm tells us, that it was written by David, when the treacherous Ziphites endeavoured to ingratiate themſelves with Saul, by diſcovering David's retreats in their neighbourhood, and offering to conduct the king's forces to every place, and aſſiſt themſelves in taking him. By which means David was reduced to ſuch ſtreights, that had not Saul been diverted from his purpoſe by a ſudden invaſion of the Philiſtines he could not have eſcaped. In this diſtreſs he had recourſe by prayer to God, who alone has power to relieve the diſtreſſed; the three firſt verſes of the pſalm are a petition of deliverance from his enemies then in full purſuit of him: the fourth verſe begins upon ſeeing his enemies ſtop ſhort, in full aſſurance that God had heard his prayer: the ſubſtance of the laſt verſe is, that God had delivered him out of his diſtreſs, and that he could now calmly ſurvey thoſe enemies whom before he did not dare to look in the face. Delany.

Notes on the Fifty-fifth Pſalm.

This pſalm was written by David on a ſimilar occaſion with the former; perhaps when Abſalom's rebellion was firſt known, and the royal prophet was forced to flee ſuddenly from Jeruſalem: for we read that as he was going barefooted, and weeping up mount Olivet, news was brought him that Ahithophel was alſo among the conſpirators, 2 Sam xv. 31. upon which he poured out his ſoul to God in prayer, in the words of this pſalm, beſeeching him to diſappoint the councils of the conſpirators; and concluding an exhortation to his followers, not to be diſcouraged, but to caſt all their care upon God, who would not fail to reward their pious confidence in him, by protecting and delivering them, and deſtroying their enemies. Patrick.

Attend unto me and hear me: I mourn in my complaint and make a Noise Pf. LV. 2

2 Attend unto me, and hear me: I mourn in my complaint, and make a noiſe;

3 Becauſe of the voice of the enemy, becauſe of the oppreſſion of the wicked: for they caſt iniquity upon me, and in wrath they hate me.

4 My heart is ſore pained within me: and the terrors of death are fallen upon me.

5 Fearfulneſs and trembling are come upon me, and horror hath overwhelmed me.

6 And I ſaid, Oh, that I had wings like a dove: for then would I fly away, and be at reſt.

7 Lo, then would I wander far off, and remain in the wilderneſs. Selah.

8 I would haſten my eſcape from the windy ſtorm and tempeſt.

9 Deſtroy, O LORD, and divide their tongues: for I have ſeen violence and ſtrife in the city.

10 Day and night they go about it upon the walls thereof: miſchief alſo and ſorrow are in the midſt of it.

11 Wickedneſs is in the midſt thereof: deceit and guile depart not from her ſtreets.

12 For it was not an enemy that reproached me; then I could have born it: neither was it he that hated me that did magnify himſelf againſt me; then I would have hid my ſelf from him:

13 But it was thou, a man, mine equal, my guide, and mine acquaintance.

14 We took ſweet counſel together, and walked unto the houſe of God in company.

15 Let death ſeize upon them, and let them go down quick into hell: for wickedneſs is in their dwellings, and among them.

16 As for me, I will call upon God: and the LORD ſhall ſave me.

17 Evening and morning and at noon will I pray, and cry aloud: and he ſhall hear my voice.

18 He hath delivered my ſoul in peace from the battle that was againſt me: for there were many with me.

19 God ſhall hear and afflict them, even he that abideth of old; Selah: becauſe they have no changes, therefore they fear not God.

20 He hath put forth his hands againſt ſuch as be at peace with him: he hath broken his covenant.

21 The words of his mouth were ſmoother than butter, but war was in his heart: his words were ſofter than oil, yet were they drawn ſwords.

22 Caſt thy burden upon the LORD, and he ſhall ſuſtain thee: he ſhall never ſuffer the righteous to be moved.

23 But thou, O God, ſhalt bring them down into the pit of deſtruction: bloody and deceitful men ſhall not live out half their days: but I will truſt in thee.

1 David praying to God in confidence of his word, complaineth of his enemies. 9 He profeſſeth his confidence in God's word, and promiſeth to praiſe him.

To the chief muſician upon Jonath-elem-rechokim, Mitchtam of David, when the Philiſtines took him in Gath.

BE merciful unto me, O God: for man would ſwallow me up: he fighting daily oppreſſeth me.

2 Mine enemies would daily ſwallow me up: for they be many that fight againſt me, O thou moſt High.

3 What time I am afraid, I will truſt in thee.

4 In God I will praiſe his word, in God I

Ver. 6, 7 O that I had wings like a dove! &c.] O that I had wings, which, like thoſe of the dove, would carry me to ſome place of ſafety and repoſe: then would I retire to ſome diſtant country, though I wandered in ſtrange nations; I would hide myſelf in ſome deſert place, remote from all ſociety; and eſcape this fierce perſecution.

22 Caſt thy burthen upon the Lord.] Septuagint and Vulgate, caſt thy care upon the Lord. So 1 Peter, v. 7.

Notes on the Fifty-ſixth Pſalm.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, when, for fear of Saul, he fled into remote and ſolitary places; particularly when he was obliged to take ſhelter among the Philiſtines in Gath, 1 Sam. xxi. But, in the midſt of theſe ſufferings, he never mentioned them to Achiſh, nor begged his aſſiſtance againſt his perſecuting enemy; but contented himſelf with bewailing in ſecret the ſadneſs of his condition, and complaining only to God of the cruel proceedings of his inveterate foe. And poſſibly this, and his frequenting the ſolitary foreſts, was the reaſon why he compares himſelf to a dove in the remote woods, which, according to the learned Bochart, is the meaning of the words Jonath-elim Rechokim, in the title.

have put my truſt; I will not fear what fleſh can do unto me.

5 Every day they wreſt my words: all their thoughts are againſt me for evil.

6 They gather themſelves together, they hide themſelves, they mark my ſteps, when they wait for my ſoul.

7 Shall they eſcape by iniquity? in thine anger caſt down the people, O God.

8 Thou telleſt my wandrings: put thou my tears into thy bottle: are they not in thy book?

9 When I cry unto thee, then ſhall mine enemies turn back: this I know; for God is for me.

10 In God will I praiſe his word: in the LORD, will I praiſe his word.

11 In God have I put my truſt: I will not be afraid what man can do unto me.

12 Thy vows are upon me, O God: I will render praiſes unto thee.

13 For thou haſt delivered my ſoul from death: wilt not thou deliver my feet from falling, that I may walk before God in the light of the living.

PSAL. LVII.

1 David in prayer fleeing unto God, complaineth of his dangerous caſe. 7 He encourageth himſelf to praiſe God.

To the chief muſician, Al-taſchith, Michtam of David, when he fled from Saul in the cave.

BE merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me: for my ſoul truſteth in thee: yea, in the ſhadow of thy wings will I make my refuge until theſe calamities be overpaſt.

2 I will cry unto God moſt high; unto God that performeth all things for me.

3 He ſhall ſend from heaven, and ſave me from the reproach of him that would ſwallow me up. Selah. God ſhall ſend forth his mercy and his truth.

4 My ſoul is among lions: and I lie even among them that are ſet on fire, even the ſons of men, whoſe teeth are ſpears and arrows, and their tongue a ſharp ſword.

5 Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens; let thy glory be above all the earth.

6 They have prepared a net for my ſteps: my ſoul is bowed down: they have digged a pit before me, into the midſt whereof they are fallen themſelves. Selah.

7 My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed: I will ſing and give praiſe.

8 Awake up, my glory; awake, pſaltery and harp: I my ſelf will awake early.

9 I will praiſe thee, O LORD, among the people: I will ſing unto thee among the nations.

10 For thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds.

11 Be thou exalted, O God, above the heavens: let thy glory be above all the earth.

PSAL. LVIII.

1 David reproving wicked judges, 3 deſcribeth the nature of the wicked, 6 and devoteth them to God's judgements, 10 whereat the righteous ſhall rejoice.

To the chief muſician, Al-taſchith, Michtam of David.

DO ye indeed ſpeak righteouſneſs, O congregation? do ye judge uprightly, O ye ſons of men?

Ver. 8 Thou telleſt my wandrings.] Thou knoweſt how I am forced to fly, like a vagabond.

Put my tears into thy bottle.] Keep them in thy ſight, or before thee. Mann.

12 Thy vows are upon me, O God, &c.] I will never be unmindful of the vows I made to thee, O my God.

Notes on the Fifty-ſeventh Pſalm.

This pſalm was, like the former, written during the perſecution of Saul, and at the time when both Saul and David were in the ſame cave, and the latter had a fair opportunity of deſtroying his enemy, ſee 1 Sam. xxiv. and when ſome of his men offered to diſpatch him, Dapid replied, as in the title of the pſalm, Al-taſchith, deſtroy him not.

3 He ſhall ſend---and God ſhall ſend.] Rather, he can ſend---and God can ſend. Pilkington.

8 Awake up my glory, &c.] i. e. Both with my voice, and with inſtruments of muſick will I praiſe thee. Clark.

Notes on the Fifty-eighth Pſalm.

This and the next pſalm ſeem to have been written before the preceding; but have all the title of Al-taſchith, from that remarkable particular mentioned in the notes of the foregoing pſalm, and when delivered to the chief muſician in the tabernacle, was ordered to be ſung in the ſame manner; and thence alſo it has the title of Michtam, becauſe it contains a memorable reproof to thoſe wicked counſellors, who, contrary to the dictates of their conſcience, had condemned David merely to pleaſe the king, and give him a pretence to deſtroy him. He therefore prophecies that a ſudden and dreadful vengeance ſhould overtake them, and, like a rapid whirlwind, ſweep all before it. Patrick.

Ver. 1, 2 Do ye indeed ſpeak righteouſneſs, O congregation? &c.]

If

2 Yea, in heart ye work wickedneſs; ye weigh the violence of your hands in the earth.

3 The wicked are eſtranged from the womb: they go aſtray, as ſoon as they be born, ſpeaking lies.

4 Their poiſon is like the poiſon of a ſerpent: they are like the deaf adder that ſtoppeth her ear;

5 Which will not hearken to the voice of charmers, charming never ſo wiſely.

6 Break their teeth, O God, in their mouth: break out the great teeth of the young lions, O LORD.

7 Let them melt away as waters which run continually: when he bendeth his bow to ſhoot his arrows, let them be as cut in pieces.

8 As a ſnail which melteth, let every one of them paſs away; like the untimely birth of a woman that they may not ſee the ſun.

9 Before your pots can feel the thorns, he ſhall take them away as with a whirlwind, both living, and in his wrath.

10 The righteous ſhall rejoice when he ſeeth the vengeance: he ſhall waſh his feet in the blood of the wicked.

11 So that a man ſhall ſay, Verily there is a reward for the righteous: verily he is a God that judgeth in the earth.

PSAL. LIX.

1 David prayeth to be delivered from his enemies. 6 He complaineth of their cruelty. 8 He truſteth in God. 11 He prayeth againſt them. 16 He praiſeth God.

To the chief muſician, Al-taſchith, Michtam of David; when Saul ſent, and they watched the houſe to kill him.

DEliver me from mine enemies, O my God: defend me from them that riſe up againſt me.

2 Deliver me from the workers of iniquity, and ſave me from bloody men.

3 For lo, they lie in wait for my ſoul: the mighty are gathered againſt me: not for my tranſgreſſion, nor for my ſin, O LORD.

4 They run and prepare themſelves without my fault: awake to help me, and behold.

5 Thou therefore, O LORD God of hoſts, the God of Iſrael, awake to viſit all the heathen; be not merciful to any wicked tranſgreſſors. Selah.

6 They return at evening: they make a noiſe like a dog, and go round about the city.

7 Behold, they belch out with their mouth: ſwords are in their lips: For who, ſay they, doth hear?

8 But thou, O LORD, ſhall laugh at them: thou ſhalt have all the heathen in deriſion.

9 Becauſe of his ſtrength will I wait upon thee: for God is my defence.

10 The God of my mercy ſhall prevent me: God ſhall let me ſee my deſire upon mine enemies.

11 Slay them not, leſt my people forget: ſcatter them by thy power; and bring them down, O LORD our ſhield.

12 For the ſin of their mouth and the words of their lips, let them even be taken in their pride: and for curſing and lying which they ſpeak.

13 Conſume them in wrath, conſume them, that they may not be: and let them know that God ruleth in Jacob, unto the ends of the earth. Selah.

14 And at evening let them return; and

If juſtice be no longer found among the princes and rulers met together in council, where can we expect it?

5 Will not hearken to the voice of the charmer.] The magicians were wont to charm ſerpents with muſick, and draw them out of their holes.

8 As a ſnail that melteth.] Septuagint and Vulgate, as wax that melteth.

9 Before your pots can feel the thorns, he ſhall take them away as with a whirlwind, &c.] Quickly, before your pots can feel the heat of blazing thorns ſhall he ſweep away the wicked; ſo that from the heighth of his proſperity, he ſhall be plunged into deſtruction.

Notes on the Fifty-ninth Pſalm.

The title informs us of the occaſion of this pſalm, and what I have ſaid in the notes of the two foregoing is ſufficient to explain the Hebrew words Al-taſchith and Michtam.

Ver. 6 They return at evening, &c.] After I have eſcaped the fury of Saul in the day-time, he renews his attempts in the evening, and ſends armed men to apprehend me; ſome of which lie round my houſe like a dog to ſeize me, while others go round the city, and wait ſecretly for me in every corner. Patrick.

9 Becauſe of his ſtrength will I wait upon thee.] Liturgy, my ſtrength will I aſcribe to thee.

let them make a noiſe like a dog, and go round about the city.

15 Let them wander up and down for meat, and grudge if they be not ſatisfied.

16 But I will ſing of thy power; yea, I will ſing aloud of thy mercy in the morning: for thou haſt been my defence and refuge in the day of my trouble.

17 Unto thee, O my ſtrength, will I ſing: for God is my defence, and the God of my mercy.

PSALM LX.

1 David complaining to God of former judgement, 4 now upon better hope, prayeth for deliverance. 6 Comforting himſelf in God's promiſes, he craveth that help whereon he truſteth.

To the chief muſician upon Shuſhane-duth, Mitchtam of David, to teach; when he ſtrove with Aram-naharaim and with Aram-zobah; when Joab returned, and ſmote of Edom in the valley of Salt twelve thouſand.

O God, thou haſt caſt us off, thou haſt ſcattered us, thou haſt been diſpleaſed: O turn thy ſelf to us again.

2 Thou haſt made the earth to tremble; thou haſt broken it: heal the breaches thereof; for it ſhaketh.

3 Thou haſt ſhewed thy people hard things: thou haſt made us to drink the wine of aſtoniſhment.

4 Thou haſt given a banner to them that fear thee, that it may be diſplayed becauſe of the truth. Selah.

5 That thy beloved may be delivered; ſave with thy right hand, and hear me.

6 God hath ſpoken in his holineſs; I will rejoice: I will divide Schechem, and mete-out the valley of Succoth.

7 Gilead is mine, and Manaſſeh is mine; Ephraim alſo is the ſtrength of mine head; Judah is my law-giver.

8 Moab is my waſh-pot; over Edom will I caſt out my ſhoe: Philiſtia, triumph thou becauſe of me.

9 Who will bring me into the ſtrong city? who will lead me into Edom?

10 Wilt not thou, O God, which hadſt caſt us off? and thou, O God, which didſt not go out with our armies?

11 Give us help from trouble: for vain is the help of man.

12 Through God we ſhall do valiantly: for he it is that ſhall tread down our enemies.

PSALM LXI.

1 David fleeth to God upon his former experience.
4 He voweth perpetual ſervice unto him, becauſe of his promiſes.

To the chief muſician upon Neginah, a pſalm of David.

HEAR my cry, O God; attend unto my prayer.

2 From the end of the earth will I cry unto thee, when my heart is overwhelmed: lead me to the rock that is higher than I.

---

17 Unto thee, O my ſtrength, will I ſing, &c.] I will praiſe thee, O thou worſhip of Iſrael, with the ſame ſincerity as I prayed to thee when perſecuted by Saul. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixtieth Pſalm.

This pſalm was written by David after he was advanced to the throne of Iſrael. The diviſions between the kingdoms of Iſrael and Judah had for ſome years given encouragement to the Philiſtines, and other neighbouring nations, to afflict the Hebrews, as they had alſo done in the days of Saul, while he was purſuing David: at laſt they became too powerful for him, entirely defeating his army, and ſlaying both him and his ſons on mount Gilboa. But when the kingdoms were again united under David, he ſubdued the Philiſtines, 2 Sam. viii. ſmote the Moabites, and in a memorable battle overthrew the Syrians, ſome of whom dwelt between the rivers Tigris and Euphrates, and were called Naharaim, and the reſt inhabited that part of Syria called Zobah. And returning from this victory, after Abiſhai had ſlain eighteen thouſand Edomites, Joab again fell upon them, and ſlew in the valley of Salt twelve thouſand more, 1 Kings, xi. 15, 16.

Ver. 6 I will mete-out.] This phraſe means dominion: this verſe ſhould be thus tranſlated: God graciouſly promiſed that I ſhould rule over Sichem, and be maſter of the valley of Succoth, i. e. Samaria.

7 Ephraim alſo, &c.] This ſhould be thus tranſlated: Ephraim furniſhes me with valiant men; Judah with men of prudence and wiſdom.

8 Moab is my waſh-pot, &c.] This ſignifies the loweſt degree of ſlavery---The verſe ſhould be thus tranſlated: I will reduce the Moabites to the vileſt ſervitude, I will triumph over the Edomites, and make them my ſlaves, and the Philiſtines ſhall add to my triumph. Eſſay for a New Tranſlation.

Notes on the Sixty-firſt Pſalm.

This pſalm was probably written on occaſion of the rebellion of Abſalom, when the royal prophet was obliged to paſs the river Jordan, and retired to Mahanaim, the very extremity of Judah. Patrick.

Notes

3 For thou haſt been a ſhelter for me, and a ſtrong tower from the enemy.

4 I will abide in thy tabernacle for ever: I will truſt in the covert of thy wings. Selah.

5 For thou, O God, haſt heard my vows: thou haſt given me the heritage of thoſe that fear thy name.

6 Thou wilt prolong the king's life: and his years as many generations.

7 He ſhall abide before God for ever: O prepare mercy and truth which may preſerve him.

8 So will I ſing praiſe unto thy name for ever, that I may daily perform my vows.

PSAL. LXII.

1 David profeſſing his confidence in God, diſcourageth his enemies. 5 In the ſame confidence he encourageth the godly. 9 No truſt to be put in worldly things. 11 Power and mercy belong to God.

To the chief muſician, to Jeduthun, a pſalm of David.

TRULY my ſoul waiteth upon God: from him cometh my ſalvation.

2 He only is my rock and my ſalvation: he is my defence; I ſhall not be greatly moved.

3 How long will ye imagine miſchief againſt a man? ye ſhall be ſlain all of you? as a bowing wall ſhall ye be, and as a tottering fence.

4 They only conſult to caſt him down from his excellency: they delight in lies: they bleſs with their mouth, but they curſe inwardly. Selah.

5 My ſoul, wait thou only upon God: for my expectation is from him.

6 He only is my rock and my ſalvation: he is my defence; I ſhall not be moved.

7 In God is my ſalvation, and my glory: the rock of my ſtrength, and my refuge is in God.

8 Truſt in him at all times; ye people, pour out your heart before him: God is a refuge for us. Selah.

9 Surely men of low degree are vanity, and men of high degree are a lye: to be laid in the balance, they are altogether lighter than vanity.

10 Truſt not in oppreſſion, and become not vain in robbery: if riches increaſe, ſet not your heart upon them.

11 God hath ſpoken once, twice have I heard this; that power belongeth unto God.

12 Alſo unto thee, O LORD, belongeth mercy: for thou rendereſt to every man according to his work.

PSAL. LXIII.

1 David's thirſt for God. 4 His manner of bleſſing God. 9 His confidence of his enemies deſtruction, and his own ſafety.

A pſalm of David, when he was in the wilderneſs of Judah.

O God, thou art my God; early will I ſeek thee: my ſoul thirſteth for thee, my fleſh longeth for thee in a dry and thirſty land, where no water is;

2 To ſee thy power and thy glory, ſo as I have ſeen thee in the ſanctuary.

3 Becauſe thy loving-kindneſs is better than life: my lips ſhall praiſe thee.

4 Thus will I bleſs thee, while I live: I will lift up my hands in thy name.

5 My ſoul ſhall be ſatisfied as with marrow and fatneſs; and my mouth ſhall praiſe thee with joyful lips:

6 When I remember thee upon my bed, and meditate on thee in the night watches.

7 Becauſe thou haſt been my help, therefore in the ſhadow of thy wings will I rejoice.

8 My ſoul followeth hard after thee: thy right hand upholdeth me.

9 But thoſe that ſeek my ſoul to deſtroy it, ſhall go into the lower parts of the earth.

Notes on the Sixty-ſecond Pſalm.

This pſalm contains the ſtrongeſt expreſſions of the royal prophet's faith and confidence in God, the moſt earneſt exhortations for others to truſt in him, aſſuring them, that God would never fail thoſe that rely wholly on him. Patrick.

Ver. 4 Excellency.] i. e. Dignity.

They curſe inwardly.] i. e. In their hearts. Pilkington.

11 God hath ſpoken once, &c.] It ſhould be, God ſpake once and twice, i. e. again: I have alſo heard the ſame.

12 Thou rendereſt to every man according to his work.] i. e. Every good man. Thus good is omitted in 1 Cor. iv. 5.

Notes on the Sixty-third Pſalm.

Ver. 1 My fleſh longeth for thee in a dry land.] As a dry land, Mann.

10 They ſhall fall by the ſword: they ſhall be a portion for foxes.

11 But the king ſhall rejoice in God: every one that ſweareth by him ſhall glory, but the mouth of them that ſpeak lies ſhall be ſtopped.

PSAL. LXIV.

1 David prayeth for deliverance, complaining of his enemies. 7 He promiſeth himſelf to ſee ſuch an evident deſtruction of them that the righteous ſhall rejoice at it.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

HEAR my voice, O God in my prayer: preſerve my life from fear of the enemy.

2 Hide me from the ſecret counſel of the wicked; from the inſurrection of the workers of iniquity:

3 Who whet their tongues like a ſword, and bend their bows to ſhoot their arrows, even bitter words:

4 That they may ſhoot in ſecret at the perfect: ſuddenly do they ſhoot at him, and fear not.

5 They encourage themſelves in an evil matter: they commune of laying ſnares privily; they ſay, Who ſhall ſee them?

6 They ſearch out iniquities; they accompliſh a diligent ſearch; both the inward thought of every one of them, and the heart is deep.

7 But God ſhall ſhoot at them with an arrow; ſuddenly ſhall they be wounded.

8 So they ſhall make their own tongue to fall upon themſelves: all that ſee them ſhall flee away.

9 And all men ſhall fear, and ſhall declare the work of God: for they ſhall wiſely conſider of his doing.

10 The righteous ſhall be glad in the LORD, and ſhall truſt in him: and all the upright in heart ſhall glory.

PSAL. LXV.

1 David praiſeth God for his grace. 4 The bleſſedneſs of God's choſen. 5 His general providence.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm and ſong of David.

PRAISE waiteth for thee, O God, in Sion: and unto thee ſhall the vow be performed.

2 O thou that heareſt prayer, unto thee ſhall all fleſh come.

3 Iniquities prevail againſt me: as for our tranſgreſſions, thou ſhalt purge them away.

4 Bleſſed is the man whom thou chooſeſt and cauſeſt to approach unto thee, that he may dwell in thy courts: we ſhall be ſatisfied with the goodneſs of thy houſe, even of thy holy temple.

5 By terribe things in righteouſneſs wilt thou anſwer us, O God of our ſalvation; who art the confidence of all the ends of the earth, and of them that are afar off upon the ſea;

6 Which by his ſtrength ſetteth faſt the mountains; being girded with power:

7 Which ſtilleth the noiſe of the ſeas, the noiſe of their ways, and the tumult of the people.

8 They alſo that dwell in the uttermoſt parts are afraid at thy tokens: thou makeſt the outgoings of the morning and evening to rejoice.

---

10 They ſhall fall by the ſword: they ſhall be a portion for foxes.] They ſhall periſh by the ſword, and their carcaſſes have no other ſepulchre than the bowels of foxes, and other ravenous creatures, who, like them, live by treachery and deceit. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixty-fourth Pſalm.

The enemy of whom David here complains was probably Saul, whoſe hatred to him was rendered more malignant, by the calumnies and falſe ſtories which were told of him by ſome ſycophants of his court. In memory of which he compoſed this pſalm, and delivered it to the chief muſician, to be ſung in the tabernacle. Patrick.

Ver. 1 Hear my voice, O God in my prayer, &c.] O thou ſupreme Governor of all the earth, who beholdeſt the ſnares laid for me by this dreadful enemy, and the dangers that compaſs me on every ſide; be thou my friend, my protector, I humbly beſeech thee; preſerve the life of thy perſecuted ſervant, who by earneſt prayer, commits himſelf to thee, and begs to remain under the ſhadow of thy wings. Patrick.

6 They ſearch out iniquities, and accompliſh a diligent ſearch, &c.] They employ all their diligence in theſe wicked devices; and leave nothing unattempted to produce the moſt exquiſite and abſolute piece of villainy that can be invented by perſons of the deepeſt policy. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixty-fifth Pſalm.

The latter part of this excellent hymn of praiſe renders it probable, that David compoſed it, after ſome great drought, which threatened the land with famine.

8 They alſo that dwell in the uttermoſt parts are afraid at thy tokens, &c.] The moſt barbarous people who live in the remoteſt corners of the earth, behold with amazement the heavenly bodies which thou haſt appointed for ſigns and tokens. By the riſing of the ſun in the morning, the moon and ſtars in the evening, thou filleſt them with joy and admiration. Patrick.

9 Thou viſiteſt the earth, and watereſt it: thou greatly enricheſt it with the river of God, which is full of water: thou prepareſt them corn, when thou haſt ſo provided for it.

10 Thou watereſt the ridges thereof abundantly: thou ſettleſt the furrows thereof: thou makeſt it ſoft with ſhowers, thou bleſſeſt the ſpringing thereof.

11 Thou crowneſt the year with thy goodneſs; and thy paths drop fatneſs.

12 They drop upon the paſtures of the wilderneſs: and the little hills rejoice on every ſide.

13 The paſtures are clothed with flocks: the valleys alſo are covered over with corn; they ſhout for joy, they alſo ſing.

PSAL. LXVI.

1 David exhorteth to praiſe God, 5 to obſerve his great works, 8 to bleſs him for his gracious benefits. 12 He voweth for himſelf religious ſervice to God. 16 He declareth God's ſpecial goodneſs to himſelf.

To the chief muſician, a ſong or pſalm.

MAKE a joyful noiſe unto God, all ye lands:

2 Sing forth the honour of his name: make his praiſe glorious.

3 Say unto God, How terrible art thou in thy works? through the greatneſs of thy power ſhall thine enemies ſubmit themſelves unto thee.

4 All the earth ſhall worſhip thee, and ſhall ſing unto thee; they ſhall ſing to thy name. Selah.

5 Come and ſee the works of God: he is terrible in his doing toward the children of men.

6 He turned the ſea into dry land: they went through the flood on foot: there did we rejoice in him.

7 He ruleth by his power for ever; his eyes behold the nations: let not the rebellious exalt themſelves. Selah.

8 O bleſs our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praiſe to be heard:

9 Which holdeth our ſoul in life, and ſuffereth not our feet to be moved.

10 For thou, O God, haſt proved us: thou haſt tried us, as ſilver is tried.

11 Thou broughteſt us into the net; thou laideſt affliction upon our loins.

12 Thou haſt cauſed men to ride over our heads; we went through fire and through water; but thou broughteſt us out into a wealthy place.

13 I will go into thy houſe with burnt-offerings; I will pay thee my vows,

14 Which my lips have uttered, and my mouth has ſpoken when I was in trouble.

15 I will offer unto thee burnt-ſacrifices of fatlings, with the incenſe of rams; I will offer bullocks with goats. Selah.

16 Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what he hath done for my ſoul.

17 I cried unto him with my mouth, and he was extolled with my tongue.

18 If I regard iniquity in my heart, the LORD will not hear me:

19 But verily God hath heard me; he hath attended to the voice of my prayer.

20 Bleſſed be God, which hath not turned away my prayer, nor his mercy from me.

PSAL. LXVII.

1 A prayer for the enlargement of God's kingdom, 3 to the joy of the people, 6 and to the increaſe of God's bleſſings.

9, 10, 11, 12, 13] By theſe verſes the reader will eaſily obſerve, that when the divine poet had ſeen the ſhowers falling from heaven, and Jordan overflowing his banks, all the conſequent bleſſings were inſtantly preſent to his mind, and he paints them accordingly. Delany.

Notes on the Sixty-ſixth Pſalm.

It is evident, that this pſalm was written after a remarkable deliverance from ſome great calamity, under which the nation had groaned, but by whom, or on what particular occaſion, is not abſolutely known. The moſt probable opinion however is, that it was compoſed by David after he had aſcended the throne of Iſrael; before which the Hebrews had been in a very unſettled condition, not only during the government of the judges, but alſo in the reign of Saul, when the Philiſtines were ſo powerful, that the Iſraelites durſt not face them, but hid themſelves in caves and thickets, and in high places, and in pits, 1 Sam. xiii. 6, and at laſt ſlew Saul and his ſons on mount Gilboa, and dwelt in many of the cities of the Iſraelites, who abandoned them after that fatal battle. For freeing the land then from theſe enemies, David here gives praiſes to God, inviting all the country to join with him in bleſſing his Divine Majeſty, not only for this but for the deliverances he had formerly vouchſafed to that nation. Patrick.

To the chief muſician on Neginoth, a pſalm or ſong.

GOD be merciful unto us, and bleſs us; and cauſe his face to ſhine upon us. Selah.

2 That thy way may be known upon earth, thy ſaving health among all nations.

3 Let the people praiſe thee, O God: let all the people praiſe thee.

4 O Let the nations be glad and ſing for joy: for thou ſhalt judge the people righteouſly, and govern the nations upon earth. Selah.

5 Let the people praiſe thee, O God: let all the people praiſe thee.

6 Then ſhall the earth yield her increaſe; and God even our own God ſhall bleſs us.

7 God ſhall bleſs us; and all the ends of the earth ſhall fear him.

PSAL. LXVIII.

1 A prayer at the removing of the ark. 4 An exhortation to praiſe God for his mercies, 7 for his care of the church, 19 and for his great works.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm or ſong of David.

LET God ariſe, let his enemies be ſcattered: let them alſo that hate him flee before him.

2 As ſmoke is driven away, ſo drive them away: as wax melteth before the fire, ſo let the wicked periſh at the preſence of God.

3 But let the righteous be glad: let them rejoice before God; yea, let them exceedingly rejoice.

4 Sing unto God, ſing praiſes to his name: extol him that rideth upon the heavens by his name JAH, and rejoice before him.

5 A father of the fatherleſs, and a judge of the widows, is God in his holy habitation.

6 God ſetteth the ſolitary in families: he bringeth out thoſe which are bound with chains; but the rebellious dwell in a dry land.

7 O God, when thou wenteſt forth before thy people, when thou didſt march through the wilderneſs; Selah:

8 The earth ſhook, the heavens alſo dropped at the preſence of God: even Sinai it ſelf was moved at the preſence of God the God of of Iſrael.

9 Thou, O God, didſt ſend a plentiful rain, whereby thou didſt confirm thine inheritance when it was weary.

10 Thy congregation hath dwelt therein: thou, O God, haſt prepared of thy goodneſs for the poor.

11 The LORD gave the word: great was the company of thoſe that publiſhed it.

12 Kings of armies did flee apace: and ſhe that tarried at home divided the ſpoil.

13 Though ye have lien among the pots, yet ſhall ye be as the wings of a dove covered with ſilver, and her feathers with yellow gold.

Notes on the Sixty-ſeventh Pſalm.

This pſalm was written by David, who being ſettled in his throne, and having brought the ark to Jeruſalem, bleſſed the people, in the name of the Lord of hoſts, pronouncing this pſalm, wherein he evidently imitates the form of bleſſing which the prieſts were commanded to uſe on ſolemn occaſions; beſeeching God to continue his favour to them, and make them ſuch an example of his loving-kindneſs, that it might invite all nations, that ſhould hear the fame thereof, to ſubmit themſelves to his government, and truſt in his protection. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixty-eighth Pſalm.

David having brought the ark to Jeruſalem, with great joy and triumph, after it had been long neglected in the reign of Saul, hoped God would be more propitious to him, according to the prayer he had made in the foregoing pſalm; having now brought the ark near his own palace and prepared a noble place for its reception, which it had been long without: for ſince the time it had been taken by the Philiſtines, it had been ſeparated from the tabernacle of the congregation made for it by Moſes, which was the habitation of the moſt high. Patrick.

4 By his name Jah.] JAH is his name. Mann.

7, 8 O God, when thou wenteſt forth before thy people; when thou didſt march through the wilderneſs: the earth ſhook, the heavens dropped.] What a ſublime, what a noble idea this paſſage gives us of the Deity! there is a deſcription of Neptune in Homer, which Longinus has commended greatly, it has been the admiration of all antiquity: but how much it is inferior to this grand image of the pſalmiſt is left to the reader:

Fierce as he paſt, the lofty mountains nod,
The foreſts ſhake; earth trembled as he trod,
And felt the footſteps of th' immortal God. Pope.

The ingenious Mr. Kennicott obſerves, that by comparing the ſimilar or parallel paſſage in Judges v. 4, 5. there is an image wanting here, which finiſhes the deſcription in Judges with great propriety. Is it wrong to ſuppoſe the 8th verſe ſtood thus?

The earth trembled, and the heavens dropped;
the clouds alſo dropped water:
The mountains melted at the preſence of Jehovah;
even that Sinai, before Jehovah, the God of Iſrael!
Diſſert. p. 502.

13 Though ye have lien among the pots, &c.] i. e. Though ye were formerly obſcure and oppreſſed ſlaves, tied down to the drudgery of brick-making and pottery in Egypt, you ſhall now be as glorious as you were then contemptible. Lamy.

14 When the Almighty ſcattered kings in it, it was white as ſnow in Salmon.

15 The hill of God is as the hill of Baſhan; an high hill, as the hill of Baſhan.

16 Why leap ye, ye high hills? this is the hill which God deſireth to dwell in; yea, the LORD will dwell in it for ever.

17 The chariots of God are twenty thouſand, even thouſands of angels: the LORD is among them as in Sinai, in the holy place.

18 Thou haſt aſcended on high, thou haſt led captivity captive: thou haſt received gifts for men; yea, for the rebellious alſo, that the LORD God might dwell among them.

19 Bleſſed be the LORD, who daily loadeth us with benefits, even the God of our ſalvation. Selah.

20 He that is our God, is the God of ſalvation; and unto GOD the LORD belong the iſſues from death.

21 But God ſhall wound the head of his enemies; and the hairy ſcalp of ſuch a one as goeth on ſtill in his treſpaſſes.

22 The LORD ſaid, I will bring again from Baſhan, I will bring my people again from the depths of the ſea:

23 That thy foot may be dipped in the blood of thine enemies, and the tongue of thy dogs in the ſame.

24 They have ſeen thy goings, O God; even the goings of my God, my King in the ſanctuary.

25 The ſingers went before, the players on inſtruments followed after; amongſt them were the damſels playing with timbrels.

26 Bleſs ye God in the congregations; even the LORD, from the fountain of Iſrael.

27 There is little Benjamin with their ruler, the princes of Judah and their council, the princes of Zebulun, and the princes of Naphtali.

28 Thy God hath commanded thy ſtrength: ſtrengthen, O God, that which thou haſt wrought for us.

29 Becauſe of thy temple at Jeruſalem, ſhall kings bring preſents unto thee.

30 Rebuke the company of ſpear-men, the multitude of bulls, with the calves of the people, till every one ſubmit himſelf with pieces of ſilver: ſcatter thou the people that delight in war.

31 Princes ſhall come out of Egypt; Ethiopia ſhall ſoon ſtretch out her hands unto God.

32 Sing unto God, ye kingdoms of the earth; O ſing praiſes unto the LORD, Selah:

33 To him that rideth upon the heavens of heavens which were of old; lo, he doth ſend out his voice, and that a mighty voice.

34 Aſcribe ye ſtrength unto God: his excellency is over Iſrael, and his ſtrength is in the clouds.

35 O God, thou art terrible out of thy holy places: the God of Iſrael is he that giveth ſtrength and power unto his people. Bleſſed be God.

PSAL. LXIX.

1 David complaineth of his affliction. 13 He prayeth for deliverance. 22 He devoteth his enemies to deſtruction. 30 He praiſeth God with thankſgiving.

To the chief muſician upon Shoſhannim, a pſalm of David.

---

14 White as ſnow in Salmon.] When by ſubduing the kings, the Almighty appeared moſt illuſtrious at Salmon. Patrick.

16 Why leap ye, ye high hills?] Be not proud of your height, ye towering mountains; for neither the loftineſs of Salmon nor of Baſhan ſhall invite him there to make his habitation: Sion is the hill where the Lord hath reſolved to fix his tabernacle, and never remove it, till the great Meſſiah deigns to viſit the ſons of men. Patrick.

17 The chariots of God are twenty thouſand, &c.] In Sion there are ten thouſand times more, innumerable hoſts of angels attending upon the Divine Majeſty, who is with them there as he was upon mount Sinai. Patrick.

18 Thou haſt aſcended on high, thou haſt led captivity captive, &c.] Thou haſt declared this, O God, who art gone up to that holy mountain, and haſt highly exalted thy ſelf by illuſtrious victories, which, by the inviſible miniſtry of the heavenly hoſt, thou haſt given us over our enemies; as the Meſſiah, who ſhall be thy ſanctuary, will do far more magnificently, when after conquering death and the power of ſatan, he ſhall aſcend in a reſplendent chariot, attended by myriads of the heavenly hoſt, to the moſt exalted ſeats of happineſs, even to thine own right-hand on the throne of thy glory. Patrick.

Haſt received gifts for men.] St. Paul, Epheſ. iv. 8, referring to this text, expreſſes it, gave gifts to men.

25 The ſingers went before.] This is the order of the proceſſion of the ark, David at their head, and as they went along they ſung this ſong, ver. 26, Bleſs ye God, &c. then followed the ſeveral tribes with their princes and elders: little Benjamin, i. e. little in point of number, the princes their counſel, i. e. their great ſupport.

Notes on the Sixty-ninth Pſalm.

Dr. Delany imagines David wrote this pſalm during the courſe

SAVE me, O God: for the waters are come in unto my ſoul.

2 I ſink in deep mire, where there is no ſtanding: I am come into deep waters, where the floods overflow me.

3 I am weary of my crying: my throat is dried: mine eyes fail, while I wait for my God.

4 They that hate me without a cauſe are more than the hairs of mine head: they that would deſtroy me, being mine enemies wrongfully, are mighty: then I reſtored that which I took not away.

5 O God, thou knoweſt my fooliſhneſs; and my ſins are not hid from thee.

6 Let not them that wait on thee, O Lord GOD of hoſts, be aſhamed for my ſake: let not thoſe that ſeek thee be confounded for my ſake, O God of Iſrael.

7 Becauſe for thy ſake I have born reproach; ſhame hath covered my face.

8 I am become a ſtranger unto my brethren, and an alien unto my mother's children.

9 For the zeal of thine houſe hath eaten me up: and the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me.

10 When I wept, and chaſtened my ſoul with faſting, that was to my reproach.

11 I made ſackcloth alſo my garment; and I became a proverb to them.

12 They that ſit in the gate ſpeak againſt me; and I was the ſong of the drunkards.

13 But as for me, my prayer is unto thee, O LORD, in an acceptable time: O God, in the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy ſalvation.

14 Deliver me out of the mire, and let me not ſink: let me be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters.

15 Let not the water-flood overflow me, neither let the deep ſwallow me up, and let not the pit ſhut her mouth upon me.

16 Hear me, O LORD; for thy loving-kindneſs is good: turn unto me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies.

17 And hide not thy face from thy ſervant; for I am in trouble; hear me ſpeedily.

18 Draw nigh unto my ſoul, and redeem it: deliver me becauſe of mine enemies.

19 Thou haſt known my reproach, and my ſhame, and my diſhonour: mine adverſaries are all before thee.

20 Reproach hath broken my heart; and I am full of heavineſs: and I looked for ſome to take pity, but there was none; and for comforters, but I found none.

21 They gave me alſo gall for my meat; and in my thirſt they gave me vinegar to drink.

22 Let their table become a ſnare before them: and that which ſhould have been for their welfare, let it become a trap.

23 Let their eyes be darkened that they ſee not; and make their loins continually to ſhake.

24 Pour out thine indignation upon them, and let thy wrathful anger take hold of them.

25 Let their habitation be deſolate; and let none dwell in their tents.

26 For they perſecute him whom thou haſt courſe of his repentance for his ſin with Bathſheba: there are two circumſtances of diſtreſs that attended his fall, which are, beyond queſtion, the greateſt and ſevereſt that human nature can ſuffer. The firſt is the diſtreſs he endured, on account of the reproach brought upon true religion by his guilt; the ſecond, the reproach and endleſs inſults, brought upon himſelf, even by his repentance and humiliation before God and the world. The word Shoſhannim in the title, ſignifies that the chief muſician was to take care that this pſalm was ſung, as the forty-fifth, on inſtruments of ſix ſtrings. Theodoret very juſtly obſerves that the ſufferings of Chriſt, and the utter overthrow of the Jewiſh nation, the authors of them are here foretold: for, as they were ſo audaciouſly wicked to inflict theſe puniſhments on their Saviour, which they themſelves experienced from their moſt ſpiteful enemies, God, the righteous Judge, condemned them to ſuffer that themſelves which they prayed might fall on the heads of thoſe enemies.

Ver. 12 They that ſit in the gate, &c.] The grave ſenators and judges of the land revile me.

14 Deliver me out of the mire, &c.] Deliver me out of this diſtreſs.

21 They gave me gall for my meat, and vinegar to drink.] Inſtead of comfort they exaſperated my grief; and becauſe I was reduced to ſuch miſerable circumſtances, uſed the moſt bitter reproaches: like the cruel wretch that would give the hungry traveller gall to eat, or, when he was thirſty, offer him, as they really will do the Meſſiah, vinegar to drink. Patrick.

22 Let their table become a ſnare.] They that eat at their tables ſhall betray them, and their proſperity ſhall prove their ruin. Patrick.

23 Make their loins ſhake continually.] Septuagint and Vulgate, Ever bow thou down their backs.

25 Let their habitation be deſolate, and let none dwell in their tents.] Let their moſt magnificent ſtructures and all their houſes be laid waſte, nay, even their meaneſt cottages deſtitute of inhabitants, Matt. xxiii. 38, and Acts i. 20.

26 For they perſecute him whom thou haſt ſmitten, &c.] For they had no pity on him whom thou hadſt overwhelmed with miſery.

They

ſmitten; and they talk to the grief of thoſe whom thou haſt wounded.

27 Add iniquity to their iniquity: and let them not come into thy righteouſneſs.

28 Let them be blotted out of the book of the living, and not be written with the righteous.

29 But I am poor, and ſorrowful: let thy ſalvation, O God, ſet me up on high.

30 I will praiſe the name of God with a ſong, and will magnify him with thankſgiving.

31 This alſo ſhall pleaſe the LORD better than an ox or bullock that hath horns and hoofs.

32 The humble ſhall ſee this, and be glad and your heart ſhall live that ſeek God.

33 For the LORD heareth the poor, and deſpiſeth not his priſoners.

34 Let the heaven and earth praiſe him, the ſeas, and every thing that moveth therein.

35 For God will ſave Zion, and will build the cities of Judah: that they may dwell there, and have it in poſſeſſion.

36 The ſeed alſo of his ſervants ſhall inherit it: and they that love his name ſhall dwell therein.

PSAL. LXX.

David ſolliciteth God to the ſpeedy deſtruction of the wicked, and preſervation of the godly.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David, to bring to remembrance.

MAKE haſte, O God, to deliver me; make haſte to help me, O LORD.

2 Let them be aſhamed and confounded that ſeek after my ſoul: let them be turned backward, and put to confuſion, that deſire my hurt.

3 Let them be turned back for a reward of their ſhame, that ſay, Aha, aha.

4 Let all thoſe that ſeek thee rejoice, and be glad in thee: and let ſuch as love thy ſalvation ſay continually, Let God be magnified.

5 But I am poor and needy: make haſte unto me, O God: thou art my help and my deliverer; O LORD, make no tarrying.

PSAL. LXXI.

1 David in confidence of faith, and experience of God's favour, prayeth both for himſelf, and againſt the enemies of his ſoul. 14 He promiſeth conſtancy. 17 He prayeth for perſeverance. 19 He praiſeth God, and promiſeth to do it cheerfully.

IN thee, O LORD, do I put my truſt: let me never be put to confuſion.

2 Deliver me in thy righteouſneſs, and cauſe me to eſcape: incline thine ear unto me, and ſave me.

3 Be thou my ſtrong habitation, whereunto I may continually reſort: thou haſt given commandment to ſave me; for thou art my rock and my fortreſs.

4 Deliver me, O my God, out of the hand of the wicked, out of the hand of the unrighteous and cruel man.

5 For thou art my hope, O LORD God: thou art my truſt from my youth.

6 By thee have I been holden up from the womb: thou art he that took me out of my mother's bowels: my praiſe ſhall be continually of thee.

7 I am as a wonder unto many; but thou art my ſtrong refuge.

8 Let my mouth be filled with thy praiſe and with thy honour all the day.

9 Caſt me not off in the time of old age; forſake me not when my ſtrength faileth.

10 For mine enemies ſpeak againſt me; and they that lay wait for my ſoul take counſel together,

They talk to the grief.] Septuagint, Vulgate, and Hammond, They add to the grief.

Notes on the Seventieth Pſalm.

There is not any remarkable difference between this pſalm and the latter part of the fortieth; and therefore it is natural to think that David, during the conſpiracy of Abſalom, reviewed what he had written, and with ſome ſmall alterations compoſed this as a diſtinct prayer, to be uſed conſtantly during the continuance of that ſharp affliction. Patrick.

Ver. 5 I am poor and needy.] The epithet poor in this place means a perſon under any oppreſſive or afflictive circumſtances.

Notes on the Seventy-firſt Pſalm.

This pſalm is generally thought to have been written by David, on occaſion of the unnatural rebellion of his ſon, which happened in his declining years, when he was grey-headed, as he complains, ver. 9, and 18. Patrick.

Ver. 3 Be thou my ſtrong habitation, whereunto I may continually reſort, &c.] I have been obliged to abandon my habitation, and have no place of ſafety whither I may retreat: let thine Almighty protection therefore be my continual guard. Thou haſt hitherto preſerved me from every danger; and under the ſhadow of thy wings have I reſted, as in an impregnable fortreſs. Patrick.

11 Saying, God hath forſaken him: perſecute and take him; for there is none to deliver him.

12 O God, be not far from me: O my God, make haſte for my help.

13 Let them be confounded and conſumed that are adverſaries to my ſoul: let them be covered with reproach and diſhonour that ſeek my hurt.

14 But I will hope continually, and will yet praiſe thee more and more.

15 My mouth ſhall ſhew forth thy righteouſneſs and thy ſalvation all the day; for I know not the numbers thereof.

16 I will go in the ſtrength of the Lord GOD: I will make mention of thy righteouſneſs, even of thine only.

17 O God, thou haſt taught me from my youth: and hitherto have I declared thy wondrous works.

18 Now alſo when I am old and gray-headed, O God forſake me not; until I have ſhewed thy ſtrength unto this generation, and thy power to every one that is to come.

19 Thy righteouſneſs alſo, O God, is very high, who haſt done great things: O God, who is like unto thee!

20 Thou which haſt ſhewed me great and ſore troubles, ſhalt quicken me again, and ſhalt bring me up again from the depths of the earth.

21 Thou ſhalt increaſe my greatneſs, and comfort me on every ſide.

22 I will alſo praiſe thee with the pſaltery, even thy truth, O my God: unto thee will I ſing with the harp, O thou Holy One of Iſrael.

23 My lips ſhall greatly rejoice when I ſing unto thee; and my ſoul which thou haſt redeemed.

24 My tongue alſo ſhall talk of thy righteouſneſs all the day long: for they are confounded, for they are brought unto ſhame, that ſeek my hurt.

PSAL. LXXII.

1 David praying for Solomon, ſheweth the goodneſs and glory of his kingdom in type, and of Chriſt's in truth. 18 He bleſſeth God.

A pſalm for Solomon.

GIVE the king thy judgements, O God, and thy righteouſneſs unto the king's ſon.

2 He ſhall judge thy people with righteouſneſs, and thy poor with judgement.

3 The mountains ſhall bring peace to the people, and the little hills, by righteouſneſs.

4 He ſhall judge the poor of the people, he ſhall ſave the children of the needy, and ſhall break in pieces the oppreſſor.

5 They ſhall fear thee as long as the ſun and the moon endure, throughout all generations.

6 He ſhall come down like rain upon the mown graſs; as ſhowers that water the earth.

7 In his days ſhall the righteous flouriſh; and abundance of peace ſo long as the moon endureth.

---

20 Thou ſhalt quicken me again.] Theſe words are certainly to be underſtood of a reſurrection. Peters.

Notes on the Seventy-ſecond Pſalm.

It is ſufficiently evident from the concluſion of this pſalm, that David was the author of it; and that it was written towards the cloſe of his life, when, by his command, Nathan the prophet, and Zadok the prieſt, took Solomon and ſet him upon his throne, that David might have the ſatisfaction of ſeeing all the great men do homage to his ſon, and acknowledge him for their ſucceeding ſovereign, before he died. At this ſight, the ſpirit of this holy man, being tranſported with extraordinary joy, dictated this pſalm, and ſent it to Solomon; wherein he firſt recommends him to the divine benediction, and then inſtructs him how to render his people happy, by enumerating the qualities of a good king, and the proſperous ſtate of the kingdom under his government. And delivers ſome parts of it in ſo exalted a ſtrain, that the words were never fully accompliſhed till the appearance of the Meſſiah, of the happineſs of whoſe reign, and the juſtice of whoſe government, together with the power, extent, and external continuance of his kingdom, his father David here prophecies. Patrick.

Ver. 1 Give the king thy judgments, O God, &c.] Beſtow, I beſeech thee, upon Solomon, who is anointed to ſit upon my throne, ſuch a right judgment in all things, and ſuch integrity of heart, that he may govern this people according to the laws thou waſt pleaſed to give them from heaven. Patrick.

3 The mountains ſhall bring peace, &c.] Thoſe places which uſed to be haunted with robbers and wild beaſts, ſhall bring peace: this bleſſing ſhall be conferred on places where it is wholly a ſtranger before, and therefore ſhall be more welcome.

5 They ſhall fear thee, &c.] This could not be ſaid of Solomon, but with reſpect to his poſterity, eſpecially of Chriſt.

6 He ſhall come down like rain upon the mown graſs, &c.] He will rule them in ſo gentle a manner, as ſhall make his authority no leſs acceptable and beneficial, than rain is to the after-graſs; or gentle ſhowers which fall during the heats of ſummer, to refreſh the thirſty ground. Septuagint, Vulgate, and Liturgy read, upon a fleece of wool.

7 In his days ſhall the righteous flouriſh, &c.] In his days godly and virtuous men ſhall flouriſh like a plant after refreſhing ſhowers; whence ſuch laſting peace and tranquillity ſhall be eſtabliſhed as can only be exceeded by the bleſſed time of the prince of peace, whoſe kingdom ſhall have no end. Patrick.

16 There

8 He ſhall have dominion alſo from ſea to ſea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth.

9 They that dwell in the wilderneſs ſhall bow before him; and his enemies ſhall lick the duſt.

10 The kings of Tarſhiſh and of the iſles ſhall bring preſents: and the kings of Sheba and Seba ſhall offer gifts.

11 Yea, all kings ſhall fall down before him: all nations ſhall ſerve him.

12 For he ſhall deliver the needy when he crieth; the poor alſo, and him that hath no helper.

13 He ſhall ſpare the poor and needy, and ſhall ſave the ſouls of the needy.

14 He ſhall redeem their ſoul from deceit and violence: and precious ſhall their blood be in his ſight.

15 And he ſhall live, and to him ſhall be given of the gold of Sheba: prayer alſo ſhall be made for him continually; and daily ſhall he be praiſed.

16 There ſhall be an handful of corn in the earth upon the top of the mountains; the fruit thereof ſhall ſhake like Lebanon: and they of the city ſhall flouriſh like graſs of the earth.

17 His name ſhall endure for ever: his name ſhall be continued as long as the ſun: and men ſhall be bleſſed in him: all nations ſhall call him bleſſed.

18 Bleſſed be the LORD God, the God of Iſrael, who only doth wondrous things.

19 And bleſſed be his glorious name for ever: and let the whole earth be filled with his glory. Amen, and amen.

20 The prayers of David the ſon of Jeſſe are ended.

16 There ſhall be an handful of corn in the earth, &c.] God ſhall bleſs the land with ſuch remarkable plenty, that an handful of corn ſown in the earth, nay even on the ſummit of the barren mountains, ſhall ſpring up ſo thick, and produce ears ſo plump and full, that, when ſhaken with the wind, they ſhall make a noiſe like the cedars of Lebanon; nor ſhall the city be leſs fruitful than the country; but become remarkably populous, and ſtored with all good things, as the earth is with graſs or flowers in the ſpring. Patrick.

20 The prayers of David are ended.] Septuagint, the pſalms of David are ended.

PSALM LXXIII.

1 The prophet prevailing in a temptation, 2 ſheweth the occaſion of it, the proſperity of the wicked, 13 the wound given thereby, diffidence; 15 the victory over it, knowledge of God's purpoſe, in deſtroying of the wicked, and ſuſtaining the righteous.

A pſalm of Aſaph.

TRULY God is good to Iſrael, even to ſuch as are of a clean heart.

2 But as for me, my feet were almoſt gone; my ſteps had well-nigh ſlipped.

3 For I was envious at the fooliſh, when I ſaw the proſperity of the wicked.

4 For there are no bands in their death: but their ſtrength is firm.

5 They are not in trouble as other men; neither are they plagued like other men.

6 Therefore pride compaſſeth them about as a chain; violence covereth them as a garment.

7 Their eyes ſtand out with fatneſs: they have more than heart could wiſh.

8 They are corrupt, and ſpeak wickedly concerning oppreſſion: they ſpeak loftily.

9 They ſet their mouth againſt the heavens, and their tongue walketh through the earth.

10 Therefore his people return hither: and waters of a full cup are wrung out to them:

11 And they ſay, How doth God know? and is there knowledge in the moſt High?

12 Behold, theſe are the ungodly, who proſper in the world, they increaſe in riches.

13 Verily, I have cleanſed my heart in vain, and waſhed my hands in innocency.

14 For all the day long have I been plagued, and chaſtened every morning.

15 If I ſay, I will ſpeak thus; behold, I

Notes on the Seventy-third Pſalm.

This is the firſt pſalm of the third book, according to the Hebrew diviſion; which book contains ſeventeen pſalms, moſt of them very diſconſolate, and full of bitter complaints. They were chiefly compoſed by Aſaph, who lived in the days of Hezekiah, and called Aſaph the ſeer, 2 Chron. xxix. 30. He ſeems to be the author of this, and probably compoſed it to comfort himſelf and all good men, when they ſaw the wicked proſper, while the righteous were ſorely afflicted. Patrick.

Ver. 7 Their eyes ſtand out with fatneſs.] They pamper themſelves to exceſs.

ſhould offend againſt the generation of thy children.

16 When I thought to know this, it was too painful for me.

17 Until I went into the ſanctuary of God: then underſtood I their end.

18 Surely thou didſt ſet them in ſlippery places: thou caſtedſt them down into deſtruction.

19 How are they brought into deſolation, as in a moment! they are utterly conſumed with terrors.

20 As a dream when one awaketh; ſo, O Lord, when thou awakeſt, thou ſhalt deſpiſe their image.

21 Thus my heart was grieved, and I was pricked in my reins.

22 So fooliſh was I, and ignorant: I was as a beaſt before thee.

23 Nevertheleſs, I am continually with thee: thou haſt holden me by my right hand.

24 Thou ſhalt guide me with thy counſel, and afterward receive me to glory.

25 Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none upon earth that I deſire beſides thee.

26 My fleſh and my heart faileth: but God is the ſtrength of my heart, and my portion for ever.

27 For lo, they that are far from thee ſhall periſh: thou haſt deſtroyed all them that go a whoring from thee.

28 But it is good for me to draw near to God; I have put my truſt in the Lord GOD, that I may declare all thy works.

PSALM LXXIV.

1 The prophet complaineth of the deſolation of the ſanctuary. 10 He moveth God to help, in conſideration of his power, 18 of his reproachful enemies, of his children, and of his covenant.

Maſchil of Aſaph.

O God, why haſt thou caſt us off for ever? why doth thine anger ſmoke againſt the ſheep of thy paſture?

2 Remember thy congregation, which thou haſt purchaſed of old; the rod of thine inheritance which thou haſt redeemed; this mount Zion, wherein thou haſt dwelt.

3 Lift up thy feet unto the perpetual deſolations; even all that the enemy hath done wickedly in the ſanctuary.

4 Thine enemies roar in the midſt of thy congregations; they ſet up their enſigns for ſigns.

5 A man was famous according as he had lifted up axes upon the thick trees:

6 But now they break down the carved work thereof at once with axes and hammers.

7 They have caſt fire into thy ſanctuary, they have defiled by caſting down the dwelling-place of thy name to the ground.

8 They ſaid in their hearts, Let us deſtroy them together: they have burned up all the ſynagogues of God in the land.

9 We ſee not our ſigns: there is no more any prophet, neither is there among us any that knoweth how long.

10 O God, how long ſhall the adverſary reproach? ſhall the enemy blaſpheme thy name for ever?

11 Why withdraweſt thou thy hand, even thy right hand? pluck it out of thy boſom.

12 For God is my king of old, working ſalvation in the midſt of the earth.

19, 20 How are they brought into deſolation, as in a moment, &c.] What an aſtoniſhing change is this! when on a ſudden, divine vengeance ſeizes on them; and when they leaſt expected it, a final period is put to all their greatneſs: ſo that their whole life is nothing more than a dream of happineſs, and they pride themſelves in a mere imaginary glory.

21 I was pricked in my reins.] In my mind or conſcience.

Notes on the Seventy-fourth Pſalm.

The deſolation of Jeruſalem, the temple, and the reſt of the land of Canaan by the king of Babylon, was the ſad occaſion of this pſalm, which was compoſed during the Babyloniſh captivity, and probably by ſome pious man of the poſterity of Aſaph the ſeer, who was ſuffered to remain in the land of Iſrael with the Chaldeans. Patrick.

Ver. 5 A man was famous, &c.] They got fame according to the miſchief they did; which they committed with no more remorſe than if they had been lopping off the boughs of a tree. Patrick.

7 They have caſt fire into thy ſanctuary.] Septuagint reads, They have burnt with fire thy ſanctuary to the ground.

9 We ſee not our ſigns.] No tokens of thy Divine preſence.

11 Why withdraweſt thou thy hand? &c.] Their upper garments antiently having no ſleeves, the arms were wrapped up and covered under them, and therefore when the right hand was exerted in the action, it muſt be diſengaged from the garment and made bare. Why withdraweſt thou thy hand? i. e. why turneſt thou thine hand under thy garment? Taylor's Heb. Con.

13 Thou didſt divide the ſea by thy ſtrength: thou breakeſt the heads of the dragons in the waters.

14 Thou breakeſt the heads of leviathan in pieces, and gaveſt him to be meat to the people inhabiting the wilderneſs.

15 Thou didſt cleave the fountain and the flood: thou driedſt up mighty rivers.

16 The day is thine, the night alſo is thine: thou haſt prepared the light and the ſun.

17 Thou haſt ſet all the borders of the earth: thou haſt made ſummer and winter.

18 Remember this, that the enemy hath reproached, O LORD, and that the fooliſh people have blaſphemed thy name.

19 O deliver not the ſoul of thy turtle-dove unto the multitude of the wicked: forget not the congregation of thy poor for ever.

20 Have reſpect unto the covenant: for the dark places of the earth are full of the habitations of cruelty.

21 O let not the oppreſſed return aſhamed: let the poor and needy praiſe thy name.

22 Ariſe, O God, plead thine own cauſe: remember how the fooliſh man reproacheth thee daily.

23 Forget not the voice of thine enemies: the tumult of thoſe that riſe up againſt thee increaſeth continually.

PSAL. LXXV.

1 The prophet praiſeth God, 2 and promiſeth to judge uprightly. 4 He rebuketh the proud by conſideration of God's providence. 9 He praiſeth God.

To the chief muſician, Al-taſchith, a pſalm or ſong of Aſaph.

UNTO thee, O God, do we give thanks, unto thee do we give thanks: for that thy name is near, thy wondrous works declare.

2 When I ſhall receive the congregation, I will judge uprightly.

3 The earth and all the inhabitants thereof are diſſolved: I bear up the pillars of it. Selah.

4 I ſaid unto the fools, Deal not fooliſhly: and to the wicked, Lift not up the horn.

5 Lift not up your horn on high: ſpeak not with a ſtiff neck.

6 For promotion cometh neither from the eaſt, nor from the weſt, nor from the ſouth.

7 But God is the judge: he putteth down one, and ſetteth up another.

8 For in the hand of the LORD there is a cup, and the wine is red: it is full of mixture, and he poureth out of the ſame: but the dregs thereof all the wicked of the earth ſhall wring them out, and drink them.

9 But I will declare for ever; I will ſing praiſes to the God of Jacob.

13, 14 The heads of the dragons---and leviathan.] By leviathan is meant Pharaoh, and by the dragons the Egyptians, who were broken, or drowned in the Red-ſea, and their bodies, being waſhed on ſhore, became food for the wild beaſts and birds of the wilderneſs.

19 O deliver not the ſoul of thy turtle-dove, &c.] Deliver, we beſeech thee, thy church, which, like a turtle-dove, can only mourn in ſecret, and make ſilent complaints unto thee, from thoſe violent men who ſeek utterly to deſtroy her. Inſtead of turtle-dove, ſeveral verſions read, one confeſſing thee.

21 O let not the oppreſſed return aſhamed, let the poor and needy praiſe thy name.] O let not thy poor afflicted ſervant, who now implores thy aid againſt thy barbarous oppreſſors, be denied his humble requeſt; but let him, and all the reſt of thy miſerable people, be reſtored to praiſe thy goodneſs in their ancient poſſeſſions, from which they have been ſo long baniſhed. Patrick.

Notes on the Seventy-fifth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by Aſaph the ſeer, after the great deliverance, which, by the ſtrange deſtruction of Senacherib's army, God gave the good king Hezekiah:---The word Al-taſchith, thou ſhalt not deſtroy, may very naturally be applied to Senacherib, who, as the prophet told them, ſhould not accompliſh his intentions of deſtroying Jeruſalem, as he had done the capitals of other nations. Symmachus calls this pſalm a triumphal ſong concerning immortality; becauſe it contains, as Theodoret explains it, a prediction of the righteous judgment of God in the deſtruction of the wicked, and rewarding the lovers of virtue: which ſhould teach us, not to ſuffer any pious thoughts to periſh, but to preſerve them whole and entire, that we may inherit immortality. If we ſuppoſe this pſalm to have been ſung, as ſeveral of them were, alternately, we ſhall ſee it in a much clearer light---The Iſraelites may be ſuppoſed to ſing the two firſt verſes: the 3d verſe are the words of the Almighty; then the Iſraelites, ver. 4. Have not we often ſaid?

Ver. 1 Thy name is near.] i. e. Thou art near: the name of a perſon is a Hebraiſm, whereby the perſon is frequently expreſſed. Pilkington.

4 Lift up not your horn.] Be not proud and inſolent.

6 For promotion cometh, &c.] Which way ſoever you turn yourſelves, in vain do you think to eſcape the juſt judgments of God. Patrick.

8 In the hand of the Lord there is a cup, &c.] There is a fine allegory in Homer ſimilar to this paſſage:

> Two urns by Jove's high throne have ever ſtood,
> The ſource of evil one, and one of good;
> From thence the cup of mortal man he fills,
> Bleſſings to theſe, to thoſe diſtributes ills;
> To moſt he mingles both: the wretch decreed
> To taſte the bad, unmix'd, is curſt indeed.

> Pope's Iliad, b. 24.

10 All the horns of the wicked alſo will I cut off; but the horns of the righteous ſhall be exalted.

PSAL. LXXVI.

1 A declaration of God's majeſty in the church. 11 An exhortation to ſerve him reverently.

To the chief muſician on Neginoth, a pſalm or ſong of Aſaph.

IN Judah is God known: his name is great in Iſrael.

2 In Salem alſo is his tabernacle, and his dwelling place in Zion.

3 There brake he the arrows of the bow, the ſhield, and the ſword, and the battle. Selah.

4 Thou art more glorious and excellent than the mountains of prey.

5 The ſtout-hearted are ſpoiled, they have ſlept their ſleep: and none of the men of might have found their hands.

6 At thy rebuke, O God of Jacob, both the chariot and horſe are caſt into a dead ſleep.

7 Thou, even thou art to be feared, and who may ſtand in thy ſight when once thou art angry?

8 Thou didſt cauſe judgement to be heard from heaven; the earth feared, and was ſtill.

9 When God aroſe to judgement to ſave all the meek of the earth. Selah.

10 Surely the wrath of man ſhall praiſe thee: the remainder of wrath ſhalt thou reſtrain.

11 Vow, and pay unto the LORD your God: let all that be round about him bring preſents unto him that ought to be feared.

12 He ſhall cut off the ſpirit of princes: he is terrible to the kings of the earth.

PSAL. LXXVII.

1 The pſalmiſt ſheweth what fierce combat he had with diffidence. 10 The victory which he had by conſideration of God's great and gracious works.

To the chief muſician, to Jeduthun, a pſalm of Aſaph.

I Cried unto God with my voice, even unto God with my voice; and he gave ear unto me.

2 In the day of my trouble I ſought the LORD: my ſore ran in the night, and ceaſed not: my ſoul refuſed to be comforted.

3 I remembered God, and was troubled: I complained, and my ſpirit was overwhelmed. Selah.

4 Thou holdeſt mine eyes waking: I am ſo troubled that I cannot ſpeak.

5 I have conſidered the days of old, the years of ancient times.

6 I call to remembrance my ſong in the night: I commune with my own heart, and my ſpirit made diligent ſearch.

7 Will the Lord caſt off for ever? and will he be favourable no more?

8 Is his mercy clean gone for ever? doth his promiſe fail for evermore?

9 Hath God forgotten to be gracious? hath he in anger ſhut up his tender mercies? Selah.

10 And I ſaid, This is my infirmity: but I will remember the years of the right hand of the moſt High.

11 I will remember the works of the LORD: ſurely I will remember thy wonders of old.

12 I will meditate alſo of all thy work, and talk of thy doings.

Notes on the Seventy-ſixth Pſalm.

The pſalmiſt here commemorates ſome ſignal victory over a very powerful enemy, which ſeems to be no other than that over Senacherib's army, which Aſaph, not content with celebrating in the former hymn, added this alſo for his own uſe, and all other pious perſons, who he hoped would join with him in it, eſpecially when it was ſung in the temple, as he directed the chief muſician, after the ſame manner as the fourth pſalm. Patrick.

Ver. 2 In Salem.] i. e. In Jeruſalem.

4 Thou art more glorious, &c.] Thou, O Sion, art more glorious, &c.

5 They have ſlept their ſleep, and none of the men of might have found their hands.] They lay down to ſleep, but never awaked; and none of their mighty men have found, or obtained any advantage by their hands.

Notes on the Seventy-ſeventh Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed during the Babyloniſh captivity: the poet very pathetically laments the long continuance of their bondage, which ſeemed to indicate that God had utterly forſaken them: but he at laſt comforts himſelf with the remembrance of what God had formerly done for them, when he delivered them out of Egyptian ſlavery. Patrick.

Ver. 10 This is my infirmity.] Mr. Johnſon on this pſalm ſays, infirmity ſignifies affliction; and that it is to be underſtood thus, 2 Cor. xi. 30, and xii. 5, and probably in the laſt collect of the Litany.

13 Thy

13 Thy way, O God, is in the ſanctuary: who is ſo great a God as our God!

14 Thou art the God that doeſt wonders: thou haſt declared thy ſtrength among the people.

15 Thou haſt with thine arm redeemed thy people, the ſons of Jacob and Joſeph. Selah.

16 The waters ſaw thee, O God, the waters ſaw thee: they were afraid; the depths alſo were troubled.

17 The clouds poured out water; the ſkies ſent out a ſound: thine arrows alſo went abroad.

18 The voice of thy thunder was in the heaven: the lightnings lightened the world, the earth trembled and ſhook.

19 Thy way is in the ſea, and thy path in the great waters, and thy footſteps are not known.

20 Thou leddeſt thy people like a flock by the hand of Moſes and Aaron.

PSAL. LXXVIII.

1 An exhortation both to learn and to preach the law of God. 9 The ſtory of God's wrath againſt the incredulous and diſobedient. 67 The Iſraelites being rejected, God choſe Judah, Zion, and David.

Maſchil of Aſaph.

GIVE ear, O my people, to my law: incline your ears to the words of my mouth.

2 I will open my mouth in a parable: I will utter dark-ſayings of old:

3 Which we have heard and known, and our fathers have told us.

4 We will not hide them from their children, ſhewing to the generation to come the praiſes of the LORD, and his ſtrength, and his wonderful works that he hath done.

5 For he eſtabliſhed a teſtimony in Jacob, and appointed a law in Iſrael, which he commanded our fathers that they ſhould make them known to their children:

6 That the generation to come might know them, even the children which ſhould be born; who ſhould ariſe and declare them to their children.

7 That they might ſet their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments:

8 And might not be as their fathers, a ſtubborn and rebellious generation; a generation that ſet not their heart aright, and whoſe ſpirit was not ſtedfaſt with God.

9 The children of Ephraim, being armed and carrying bows, turned back in the day of battle.

10 They kept not the covenant of God, and refuſed to walk in his law;

11 And forgat his works, and his wonders that he had ſhewed them.

12 Marvellous things did he in the ſight of their fathers, and in the land of Egypt, in the field of Zoan.

---

13 Thy way, O God, is in the ſanctuary, &c.] The proceedings of thy providence, O God, are not only perfect, holy, and juſt, but far beyond the reach of man to fathom.

15 Thou haſt with thine arm redeemed thy people.] Thou, O Lord, haſt claimed thy right to the equity of the redemption of thy people, whom thou hadſt ſold into the hands of their enemies: thou gaveſt Egypt for their ranſom, Ethiopia and Seba for them---The Hebrew word here uſed has a particular reference to the privilege which the neareſt relation among the Jews had to redeem his kinſman, or whatever his kinſman had ſold or pawned to another perſon.

16 The waters ſaw thee, O God, &c.] The waters of the Red-Sea felt thy power to the very depths of the ocean, which retreated, as if terrified by thy preſence, and left a dry path in the ſea for thy people to paſs over. Patrick.

17 The clouds poured out water, the ſkies ſent out a ſound, &c.] But returned again upon the Egyptians, accompanied with a terrible ſtorm of rain, thunder, and hail-ſtones, which brake the very wheels of their chariots, Exod. xiv. 24, 25. Patrick.

18 The voice of thy thunder was in the heaven, &c.] The tremendous noiſe of this thunder filled the air, the lightning flaſhed in their faces, which, with a dreadful earthquake, made the very inhabitants of Canaan tremble. Patrick.

19 Thy way is in the ſea, and thy paths, &c.] Thy way cannot be traced by human knowledge, who madeſt a broad path through the boiſterous waves; where none ever trod before, and which the waters have overflown and obliterated. Patrick.

Notes on the Seventy-eighth Pſalm.

The pſalmiſt has here given, for the uſe of his countrymen, an epitome of the hiſtory of the Iſraelites from their coming out of Egypt to the time that David aſcended the throne. And hence it is probable, that it was compoſed by that Aſaph ſo often mentioned, as one of the principal ſingers in the tabernacle at that time. The intention of it was to place before the eyes of the people the many benefits their fathers had received, with their ſhameful ingratitude, and the puniſhments inflicted on them for ſo hateful a crime; and from thence to inſpire their ſucceſſors with more gratitude and fidelity to their great benefactor, leſt they ſhould incur his higher diſpleaſure, by taking no warning from ſuch melancholy examples. Patrick.

Ver. 9 Turned back in the day of battle.] See Deut. ch. i. 26.

12 The field of Zoan.] Was probably another appellation for the land of Egypt, by taking (as uſual in poetical compoſitions) a part for the whole. Shaw.

13 He divided the ſea, and cauſed them to paſs through, and he made the waters to ſtand as an heap.

14 In the day-time alſo he led them with a cloud, and all the night with a light of fire.

15 He cleave the rocks in the wilderneſs, and gave them drink as out of the great depths.

16 He brought ſtreams alſo out of the rock, and cauſed waters to run down like rivers.

17 And they ſinned yet more againſt him, by provoking the moſt High in the wilderneſs.

18 And they tempted God in their heart, by aſking meat for their luſt.

19 Yea, they ſpake againſt God; they ſaid, Can God furniſh a table in the wilderneſs?

20 Behold, he ſmote the rock, that the waters guſhed out, and the ſtreams overflowed; can he give bread alſo? can he provide fleſh for his people?

21 Therefore the LORD heard this, and was wroth: ſo a fire was kindled againſt Jacob, and anger alſo came up againſt Iſrael;

22 Becauſe they believed not in God, and truſted not in his ſalvation.

23 Though he had commanded the clouds from above, and opened the doors of heaven.

24 And had rained down manna upon them to eat, and had given them of the corn of heaven.

25 Man did eat angels food: he ſent them meat to the full.

26 He cauſed an eaſt-wind to blow in the heaven: and by his power he brought in the ſouth-wind.

27 He rained fleſh alſo upon them as duſt, and feathered fowls like as the ſand of the ſea.

28 And he let it fall in the midſt of their camp, round about their habitations.

29 So they did eat, and were well filled: for he gave them their own deſire;

30 They were not eſtranged from their luſt: but while their meat was yet in their mouths,

31 The wrath of God came upon them, and ſlew the fatteſt of them, and ſmote down the choſen men of Iſrael.

32 For all this they ſinned ſtill, and believed not for his wondrous works.

33 Therefore their days did he conſume in vanity, and their years in trouble.

34 When he ſlew them, then they ſought him: and they returned and enquired early after God.

35 And they remembered that God was their rock, and the high God their redeemer.

36 Nevertheleſs, they did flatter him with their mouth, and they lyed unto him with their tongues.

37 For their heart was not right with him, neither were they ſtedfaſt in his covenant.

38 But he, being full of compaſſion, forgave their iniquity, and deſtroyed them not: yea, many a time turned he his anger away, and did not ſtir up all his wrath.

39 For he remembered that they were but fleſh; a wind that paſſeth away, and cometh not again.

40 How oft did they provoke him in the wilderneſs, and grieve him in the deſert!

41 Yea, they turned back and tempted God, and limited the Holy One of Iſrael.

42 They remembered not his hand, nor the day when he delivered them from the enemy.

43 How he had wrought his ſigns in Egypt, and his wonders in the field of Zoan:

44 And had turned their rivers into blood; and their floods, that they could not drink.

45 He ſent divers ſorts of flies among them, which devoured them, and frogs, which deſtroyed them.

46 He gave alſo their increaſe unto the caterpiller, and their labour unto the locuſt.

47 He deſtroyed their vines with hail, and their ſycomore-trees with froſt.

---

20 Behold, he ſmote the rock, &c.] It is evident from the context, that it ſhould be tranſlated, Though he ſmote the rock, &c. Eſſay for a New Tranſlation.

25 Angels food.] Food prepared by the miniſtry of angels: or it may be an Hebraiſm, and mean only very excellent food. Edwards.

27 He rained fleſh upon them.] Some commentators have thought that fleſh alludes to locuſts, and feathered fowls to quails. See note on Numb. xi. 31.

39 He remembered that they were but fleſh, &c.] He conſidered how very frail they were; and that they could continue only a ſhort time here, but would of themſelves moulder into duſt, and vaniſh like a blaſt of wind, which makes a noiſe for a ſhort time, and is then diſperſed and heard no more. Patrick.

47 Sycomore-trees.] The Liturgy tranſlation reads, mulberry-trees, but ſycomore-trees ſeems more agreeable to the original: it was a wood of great repute in Egypt for making mummy-cheſts, and ſacred boxes. Shaw.

48 He gave up their cattle alſo to the hail, and their flocks to hot thunder-bolts.

49 He caſt upon them the fierceneſs of his anger, wrath and indignation and trouble, by ſending evil angels among them.

50 He made a way to his anger; he ſpared not their ſoul from death, but gave their life over to the peſtilence.

51 And ſmote all the firſt-born in Egypt; the chief of their ſtrength in the tabernacles of Ham:

52 But made his own people to go forth like ſheep, and guided them in the wilderneſs like a flock.

53 And he led them on ſafely, ſo that they feared not: but the ſea overwhelmed their enemies.

54 And he brought them to the border of his ſanctuary, even to this mountain which his right hand had purchaſed.

55 He caſt out the heathen alſo before them, and divided them an inheritance by line, and made the tribes of Iſrael to dwell in their tents.

56 Yet they tempted and provoked the moſt high God, and kept not his teſtimonies:

57 But turned back, and dealt unfaithfully like their fathers: they were turned aſide like a deceitful bow.

58 For they provoked him to anger with their high places, and moved him to jealouſy with their graven images.

59 When God heard this he was wroth, and greatly abhorred Iſrael:

60 So that he forſook the tabernacle of Shiloh, the tent which he placed among men;

61 And delivered his ſtrength into captivity, and his glory into the enemy's hand.

62 He gave his people over alſo unto the ſword; and was wroth with his inheritance.

63 The fire conſumed their young men; and their maidens were not given to marriage.

64 Their prieſts fell by the ſword; and their widows made no lamentation.

65 Then the Lord awaked as one out of ſleep, and like a mighty man that ſhouteth by reaſon of wine.

66 And he ſmote his enemies in the hinder parts: he put them to a perpetual reproach.

67 Moreover, he refuſed the tabernacle of Joſeph; and choſe not the tribe of Ephraim:

68 But choſe the tribe of Judah, the mount Zion which he loved.

69 And he built his ſanctuary like high palaces, like the earth which he hath eſtabliſhed for ever.

70 He choſe David alſo his ſervant, and took him from the ſheep-folds:

71 From following the ews great with young, he brought him to feed Jacob his people, and Iſrael his inheritance.

72 So he fed them according to the integrity of his heart; and guided them by the ſkilfulneſs of his hands.

PSAL. LXXIX.

1 The pſalmiſt complaineth of the deſolation of Jeruſalem. 8 He prayeth for deliverance, 13 and promiſeth thankfulneſs.

A pſalm of Aſaph.

O God, the heathen are come into thine inheritance: thy holy temple have they defiled: they have laid Jeruſalem on heaps.

2 The dead bodies of thy ſervants have they given to be meat unto the fowls of the heaven, the fleſh of thy ſaints unto the beaſts of the earth.

3 Their blood have they ſhed like water round about Jeruſalem: and there was none to bury them.

4 We are become a reproach to our neighbours, a ſcorn and deriſion to them that are round about us.

5 How long, LORD? wilt thou be angry for ever? ſhall thy jealouſy burn like fire?

6 Pour out thy wrath upon the heathen that have not known thee, and upon the kingdoms that have not called upon thy name.

7 For they have devoured Jacob, and laid waſte his dwelling-place.

61 Delivered his ſtrength.] i. e. The ark of the covenant.
66 He ſmote his enemies.] See 1 Sam. v. 6, 9, 12.

Notes on the Seventy-ninth Pſalm.

Probably this pſalm was written on the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by the author of the lxxivth pſalm. Patrick.

Ver. 7 For they have devoured Jacob, and laid waſte his dwelling-place.] They were indeed the inſtruments of thy vengeance; but executed their commiſſion with ſuch cruelty, that, not content with the conqueſt of Iſrael, they have endeavoured our total extirpation.

8 O remember not againſt us former iniquities: let thy tender mercies ſpeedily prevent us: for we are brought very low.

9 Help us, O God of our ſalvation, for the glory of thy name: and deliver us, and purge away our ſins for thy name's ſake.

10 Wherefore ſhould the heathen ſay, Where is their God? let him be known among the heathen in our ſight by the revenging of the blood of thy ſervants which is ſhed.

11 Let the ſighing of the priſoner come before thee: according to the greatneſs of thy power preſerve thou thoſe that are appointed to die.

12 And render unto our neighbours ſevenfold into their boſom, their reproach wherewith they have reproached thee, O LORD.

13 So we thy people and ſheep of thy paſture will give thee thanks for ever: we will ſhew forth thy praiſe to all generations.

PSAL. LXXX.

1 The pſalmiſt in his prayer complaineth of the miſeries of the church. 8 God's former favours are turned into judgements. 14 He prayeth for deliverance.

To the chief muſician upon Shoſhannim-eduth, a pſalm of Aſaph.

GIVE ear, O Shepherd of Iſrael, thou that leadeſt Joſeph like a flock; thou that dwelleſt between the cherubims, ſhine forth.

2 Before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manaſſeh ſtir up thy ſtrength, and come and ſave us.

3 Turn us again, O God, and cauſe thy face to ſhine; and we ſhall be ſaved.

4 O LORD God of hoſts, how long wilt thou be angry againſt the prayer of thy people?

5 Thou feedeſt them with the bread of tears; and giveſt them tears to drink in great meaſure.

6 Thou makeſt us a ſtrife unto our neighbours: and our enemies laugh among themſelves.

7 Turn us again, O God of hoſts, and cauſe thy face to ſhine; and we ſhall be ſaved.

8 Thou haſt brought a vine out of Egypt: thou haſt caſt out the heathen, and planted it.

9 Thou preparedſt room before it, and didſt cauſe it to take deep root, and it filled the land.

10 The hills were covered with the ſhadow of it, and the boughs thereof were like the goodly cedars.

11 She ſent out her boughs unto the ſea, and her branches unto the river;

12 Why haſt thou then broken down her hedges, ſo that all they which paſs by the way do pluck her?

13 The boar out of the wood doth waſte it, and the wild beaſt of the field doth devour it.

14 Return, we beſeech thee, O God of hoſts: look down from heaven, and behold and viſit this vine:

15 And the vineyard which thy right hand hath planted and the branch that thou madeſt ſtrong for thy ſelf.

16 It is burned with fire: it is cut down: they periſh at the rebuke of thy countenance.

17 Let thy hand be upon the man of thy right hand, upon the ſon of man whom thou madeſt ſtrong for thy ſelf.

18 So will not we go back from thee: quicken us, and we will call upon thy name.

---

10 Let him be known among the heathen, &c.] Septuagint, Vulgate, Liturgy, and Hammond read, Let the vengeance of thy ſervant's blood that is ſhed, be openly ſhewed among the heathen in our ſight.

11 Preſerve thou thoſe that are appointed to die.] Septuagint and Vulgate, Preſerve the children of thoſe that have been murdered.

Notes on the Eightieth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written by Aſaph the ſeer, when Sennacherib the king of Aſſyria came up with a great hoſt againſt Jeruſalem, in the days of king Hezekiah. It was delivered to the chief muſician in the temple, to be ſung as the ſixtieth pſalm, upon the inſtruments of ſix ſtrings, which were generally uſed in ſolemn thanſgivings. Patrick.

Ver. 1 Thou that leadeſt Joſeph like a flock.] This alludes to the peculiar art and cuſtom of the Hebrew ſhepherds, who were ſo converſant among their flocks, that they knew every individual ſheep, called them all by their names, and led them whitherſoever they pleaſed.

8 Thou haſt brought a vine out of Egypt.] Thou once tranſplanteddſt us, like a choice vine, out of Egypt into this country.

10 Like the goodly cedars.] Heb. like the cedars of God.

11 She ſent out her boughs unto the ſea, and her branches unto the river.] i. e. From the Mediterranean to the river Euphrates.

13 The wild boar, &c.] The king of Aſſyria, like a wild boar, lays thy vineyard waſte.

17 Upon the man of thy right hand.] Be thou the helper of our ſovereign, who is beloved by thee, whom thou haſt endued with courage and reſolution to defend us. Patrick.

19 Turn us again, O LORD God of hoſts, cauſe thy face to ſhine; and we ſhall be ſaved.

PSAL. LXXXI.

1 An exhortation to a ſolemn praiſing of God. 4 God challengeth that duty by reaſon of his benefits. 8 God exhorting to obedience, complaineth of their diſobedience, which proveth their own hurt.

To the chief muſician upon Gittith, a pſalm of Aſaph.

SING aloud unto God our ſtrength: make a joyful noiſe unto the God of Jacob.

2 Take a pſalm, and bring hither the timbrel, the pleaſant harp with the pſaltery.

3 Blow up the trumpet in the new-moon, in the time appointed, on our ſolemn feaſt-day.

4 For this was a ſtatute for Iſrael, and a law of the God of Jacob.

5 This he ordained in Joſeph for a teſtimony, when he went out through the land of Egypt: where I heard a language that I underſtood not.

6 I removed his ſhoulder from the burden: his hands were delivered from the pots.

7 Thou calledſt in trouble, and I delivered thee: I anſwered thee in the ſecret place of thunder: I proved thee at the waters of Meribah. Selah.

8 Hear, O my people, and I will teſtify unto thee: O Iſrael, if thou wilt hearken unto me.

9 There ſhall no ſtrange god be in thee: neither ſhalt thou worſhip any ſtrange god.

10 I am the LORD thy God which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it.

11 But my people would not hearken to my voice; and Iſrael would none of me:

12 So I gave them up unto their own hearts luſt: and they walked in their own counſels.

13 O that my people had hearkened unto me, and Iſrael had walked in my ways!

14 I ſhould ſoon have ſubdued their enemies, and turned my hand againſt their adverſaries.

15 The haters of the LORD ſhould have ſubmitted themſelves unto him: but their time ſhould have endured for ever.

16 He ſhould have fed them alſo with the fineſt of the wheat: and with honey out of the rock ſhould I have ſatisfied thee.

PSAL. LXXXII.

1 The pſalmiſt having exhorted the judges, 5 and reproved their negligence, 8 prayeth God to judge.

A pſalm of Aſaph.

GOD ſtandeth in the congregation of the mighty; he judgeth among the gods.

---

19 Turn us again, O Lord God of hoſts, &c.] Hear us, thou omnipotent Ruler of the heavenly hoſts; hear us, we beſeech thee, and reſtore us to our former happineſs: and, as an earneſt of it, reſtore us to thy favour, and let a ſpeedy period be put to theſe calamities. Patrick.

Notes on the Eighty-firſt Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed for the ſolemn feaſt held on the firſt day of the ſeventh month, which was called a day of blowing the trumpets. God ſeems to have intended by their blowing with trumpets longer on this day than on any other, to awaken their conſciences, that they might, by a ſtrict enquiry into their lives, and a ſincere repentance, prepare themſelves for the great day of atonement, which was the tenth of this month. See notes on Lev. xxiii. 24, 25. and Numb. xxix. 1. The author, in all probability, was the Aſaph ſo often mentioned in the reign of David, and who ordered it to be ſung as the eighth pſalm upon Gittith, at the feaſt of trumpets, which was inſtituted to commemorate the divine bleſſings then received from above. Patrick.

Ver. 3 Blow up the trumpet in the new moon.] The feaſt of the new moon was always proclaimed to the people by the ſound of trumpets. Lamy.

5 When he went out---where I heard, &c.] Septuagint and Vulgate, When he came out of the land of Egypt, he heard a language which he underſtood not.

10 Open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it.] If you be faithful and obedient to me, enlarge your deſires as much as you pleaſe, and I will ſatisfy them.

16 He ſhould have fed them alſo with the fineſt of the wheat, &c.] He ſhould have made their country exceeding fruitful; I myſelf, ſaith the Lord, would have bleſſed thee with ſuch plenty, that even in the ſolitary waſtes, thou ſhouldeſt have found the ſweeteſt refreſhments; and without any care of thine, the bees ſhould have depoſited honey for thee in rocks of the wilderneſs. Patrick.

Notes on the Eighty-ſecond Pſalm.

This pſalm was compoſed by Aſaph the ſeer, in the days of Hezekiah, to admoniſh thoſe who preſided in the courts of juſtice, that, as God ſurveyed all their actions, it was highly incumbent on them to judge righteouſly; for the Lord would ſurely puniſh with the utmoſt ſeverity the crimes they were guilty of in the execution of their office. Patrick.

Ver. 1 God ſtandeth in the congregation of the mighty, &c.] Conſider, O ye judges, that you are only the miniſters of God, who hath honoured you with his name, but is far more powerful: and as he is preſent in your court to obſerve what you do,

2 How long will ye judge unjuſtly, and accept the perſons of the wicked? Selah.

3 Defend the poor and fatherleſs: do juſtice to the afflicted and needy.

4 Deliver the poor and needy: rid them out of the hand of the wicked.

5 They know not, neither will they underſtand; they walk on in darkneſs: all the foundations of the earth are out of courſe.

6 I have ſaid, Ye are gods; and all of you are children of the moſt High.

7 But ye ſhall die like men, and fall like one of the princes.

8 Ariſe, O God, judge the earth: for thou ſhalt inherit all nations.

PSAL. LXXXIII.

1 A complaint to God of the enemies conſpiracies. 9 A prayer againſt them that oppreſs the church.

A ſong or pſalm of Aſaph.

KEEP not thou ſilence, O God: hold not thy peace, and be not ſtill, O God.

2 For lo, thine enemies make a tumult: and they that hate thee have lifted up the head.

3 They have taken crafty counſel againſt thy people, and conſulted againſt thy hidden ones.

4 They have ſaid, Come, and let us cut them off from being a nation; that the name of Iſrael may be no more in remembrance.

5 For they have conſulted together with one conſent: they are confederate againſt thee:

6 The tabernacles of Edom, and the Iſhmaelites; of Moab and the Hagarenes;

7 Gebal, and Ammon, and Amalek; the Philiſtines, with the inhabitants of Tyre;

8 Aſſur alſo is joined with them: they have holpen the children of Lot. Selah.

9 Do unto them as unto the Midianites; as to Siſera, as to Jabin, at the brook of Kiſon:

10 Which periſhed at En-dor: they became as dung for the earth.

15 So perſecute them with thy tempeſt, and make them afraid with thy ſtorm.

16 Fill their faces with ſhame; that they may ſeek thy name, O LORD.

Notes on the Eighty-third Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written when there was an univerſal confederacy againſt Iſrael, entered into by all the ſurrounding nations, in the days of David, and not in thoſe of Jehoſhaphat, as ſeveral commentators have imagined: that there was ſuch a league is evident from the 118th pſalm, where David expreſly declares, that all nations compaſſed him about; and it appears from the ſame pſalm, that this compaſſing was before he had deſtroyed them; and therefore in the beginning of his reign. Delany.

Ver. 1 Keep not thou ſilence, O God.] O thou ſupreme Judge of all the earth, whoſe power is ſo great that the united forces of all men on earth, or angels in heaven, are not to be compared with it, who, with the leaſt breath of thy mouth, canſt diſſipate the moſt powerful army; do not refuſe to liſten to our prayers in this ſore diſtreſs: O ſhut not thy merciful ears to our cries, nor quietly ſee us periſh, thou mighty God of Jacob. Patrick.

13 O my God, make them like a wheel, &c.] Unſtable as a wheel, which is eaſily precipitated from the lofty mountains---Some commentators read, like thiſtle-down, which correſponds better with ſtubble, in the next ſentence.

Notes on the Eighty-fourth Pſalm.

This pſalm was moſt probably written when David was at reſt from all his enemies round about, and had ſettled the ark in its place; on which the ſacred hiſtorian informs us, David had ſet his heart on building a temple to God, in ſome meaſure

11 Teach me thy way, O LORD; I will walk in thy truth: unite my heart to fear thy name.

12 I will praiſe thee, O LORD my God, with all my heart: and I will glorify thy name for evermore.

13 For great is thy mercy toward me: and thou haſt delivered my ſoul from the loweſt hell.

Notes on the Eighty-ſeventh Pſalm.

This pſalm was written in praiſe of Jeruſalem, ſituated on the holy mountains of Zion, where David prepared a tabernacle for the ark, and of mount Moriah, on which the temple of Solomon was built. The beginning of it is very abrupt, and properly expreſſes the rapture of the pſalmiſt's mind when he compoſed it. Patrick.

PSAL. LXXXVIII.

A prayer containing a grievous complaint.

A ſong or pſalm for the ſons of Korah, to the chief muſician upon Mahalath Leannoth, Maſchil of Heman the Ezrahite.

O LORD God of my ſalvation, I have cried day and night before thee:

2 Let my prayer come before thee: incline thine ear unto my cry;

3 For my ſoul is full of troubles: and my life draweth nigh unto the grave.

4 I am counted with them that go down into the pit: I am as a man that hath no ſtrength.

5 Free among the dead, like the ſlain that lie in the grave, whom thou remembereſt no more: and they are cut off from thy hand.

6 Thou haſt laid me in the loweſt pit, in darkneſs, in the deeps.

7 Thy wrath lieth hard upon me, and thou haſt afflicted me with all thy waves. Selah.

8 Thou haſt put away mine acquaintance far from me; thou haſt made me an abomination unto them: I am ſhut up, and I cannot come forth.

9 Mine eye mourneth by reaſon of affliction: LORD, I have called daily upon thee, I have ſtretched out my hands unto thee.

10 Wilt thou ſhew wonders to the dead? ſhall the dead ariſe and praiſe thee? Selah.

11 Shall thy loving-kindneſs be declared in the grave? or thy faithfulneſs in deſtruction?

12 Shall thy wonders be known in the dark? and thy righteouſneſs in the land of forgetfulneſs?

13 But unto thee have I cried, O LORD; and in the morning ſhall my prayer prevent thee.

14 LORD, why caſteſt thou off my ſoul? why hideſt thou thy face from me?

15 I am afflicted and ready to die from my youth up: while I ſuffer thy terrors, I am diſtracted.

16 Thy fierce wrath goeth over me: thy terrors have cut me off.

17 They came round about me daily like water; they compaſſed me about together.

18 Lover and friend haſt thou put far from me, and mine acquaintance into darkneſs.

Maſchil of Ethan the Ezrahite

I WILL ſing of the mercies of the LORD for ever: with my mouth will I make known thy faithfulneſs to all generations.

2 For I have ſaid, Mercy ſhall be built up for ever: thy faithfulneſs ſhalt thou eſtabliſh in the very heavens.

3 I have made a covenant with my choſen, I have ſworn unto David my ſervant,

4 Thy ſeed will I eſtabliſh for ever, and build up thy throne to all generations. Selah.

Notes on the Eighty-eighth Pſalm.

This pſalm is ſaid in the title to have been compoſed by Heman the Ezrahite; but who that Heman was, is uncertain. It was delivered to the ſons of Korah, to be ſung alternately, (which is the meaning of the word Leannoth) upon the Mahalath, or the flute, to the known tune of Maſchil. Some paſſages of it may naturally be applied to our Saviour's death and burial in the grave, which the prophet Iſaiah compares to a priſon; and for this reaſon, it is uſed on Good-Friday. Patrick.

Ver. 5 Free among the dead, like the ſlain that lie in the grave, &c.] I am no longer one of this world, being ſecluded from the ſociety of men; and hardly different from thoſe, who being ſlain in battle, and caſt together into one common grave, where all are forgotten; or thoſe, whoſe families are ſo entirely extirpated, that there are none left to preſerve their memory. Patrick.

12 Shall thy wonders be known in the dark? &c.] Shall thy power be conſpicuous, when the veil of darkneſs excludes every object from the ſight? wilt thou convince mankind of thy goodneſs and care for thy ſervants, in the place where their memory is forgotten? Patrick.

Notes on the Eighty-ninth Pſalm.

Who Ethan was is uncertain, probably of the ſame family with Heman. This and the foregoing pſalm ſeem to have been written on the ſame occaſion; but Heman bewailed his private affliction, whereas Ethan, after thankfully acknowledging the many benefits God had beſtowed on the Iſraelites, laments, in the moſt pathetic manner, the calamities of his people, the royal family and government being ſubverted by the captivity of Jehoiachim or Zedekiah, whoſe miſerable fate he ſeems to bewail with great earneſtneſs in the concluſion of the pſalm; the Babylonians boaſting, that, notwithſtanding the promiſes they pretended to have received from heaven, there was now a final period put to both the family and kingdom of David. And in truth, the ſceptre was never reſtored to that family, till Chriſt, the ſon of David came; and to him ſeveral paſſages in this pſalm are applied even by the Jews themſelves.

Ver. 4 Thy ſeed will I eſtabliſh for ever.] Theſe words are too great

O LORD; thy faithfulneſs alſo in the congregation of the ſaints.

6 For who in the heaven can be compared unto the LORD! who among the ſons of the mighty can be likened unto the LORD!

7 God is greatly to be feared in the aſſembly of the ſaints, and to be had in reverence of all them that are about him.

8 O LORD God of hoſts, who is a ſtrong LORD like unto thee! or to thy faithfulneſs round about thee!

9 Thou ruleſt raging of the ſea, when the waves thereof ariſe, thou ſtilleſt them.

10 Thou haſt broken Rahab in pieces, as one that is ſlain: thou haſt ſcattered thine enemies with thy ſtrong arm.

11 The heavens are thine, the earth alſo is thine: as for the world, and the fulneſs thereof, thou haſt founded them.

12 The north and the ſouth thou haſt created them: Tabor and Hermon ſhall rejoice in thy name.

13 Thou haſt a mighty arm: ſtrong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand.

14 Juſtice and judgement are the habitation of thy throne: mercy and truth ſhall go before thy face.

15 Bleſſed is the people that know the joyful ſound: they ſhall walk, O LORD, in the light of thy countenance.

16 In thy name ſhall they rejoice all the day: and in thy righteouſneſs ſhall they be exalted.

17 For thou art the glory of their ſtrength: and in thy favour our horn ſhall be exalted.

18 For the LORD is our defence; and the holy One of Iſrael is our king.

19 Then thou ſpakeſt in viſion to thy Holy One, and ſaidſt, I have laid help upon one that is mighty; I have exalted one choſen out of the people.

20 I have found David my ſervant: with my holy oil have I anointed him:

21 With whom my hand ſhal be eſtabliſhed: mine arm alſo ſhall ſtrengthen him.

22 The enemy ſhall not exact upon him; nor the ſon of wickedneſs afflict him.

23 And I will beat down his foes before his face, and plague them that hate him;

24 But my faithfulneſs and my mercy ſhall be with him: and in my name ſhall his horn be exalted.

25 I will ſet his hand alſo in the ſea, and his right hand in the rivers.

26 He ſhall cry unto me, Thou art my father, my God, and the rock of my ſalvation.

27 Alſo I will make him my firſt-born, higher than the kings of the earth.

28 My mercy will I keep for him for evermore, and my covenant ſhall ſtand faſt with him.

29 His ſeed alſo will I make to endure for ever, and his throne as the days of heaven.

30 If his children forſake my law, and walk not in my judgements;

31 If they break my ſtatutes, and keep not my commandments;

32 Then will I viſit their tranſgreſſion with the rod, and their iniquity with ſtripes,

33 Nevertheleſs, my loving-kindneſs will I not utterly take from him, nor ſuffer my faithfulneſs to fail.

38 But thou haſt caſt off and abhorred, thou haſt been wroth with thine anointed.

39 Thou haſt made void the covenant of thy ſervant: thou haſt profaned his crown, by caſting it to the ground.

40 Thou haſt broken down all his hedges; thou haſt brought his ſtrong holds to ruin.

41 All that paſs by the way ſpoil him: he is a reproach to his neighbours.

42 Thou haſt ſet up the right hand of his adverſaries; thou haſt made all his enemies to rejoice.

43 Thou haſt alſo turned the edge of his ſword, and haſt not made him to ſtand in the battle.

44 Thou haſt made his glory to ceaſe, and caſt his throne down to the ground.

45 The days of his youth haſt thou ſhortened: thou haſt covered him with ſhame. Selah.

46 How long, LORD, wilt thou hide thy ſelf for ever? ſhall thy wrath burn like fire?

47 Remember how ſhort my time is: wherefore haſt thou made all men in vain?

48 What man is he that liveth, and ſhall not ſee death? ſhall he deliver his ſoul from the hand of the grave? Selah.

49 LORD, where are thy former lovingkindneſſes which thou ſwareſt unto David in thy truth?

50 Remember, LORD, the reproach of thy ſervants; how I do bear in my boſom the reproach of all the mighty people;

51 Wherewith thine enemies have reproached, O LORD: wherewith they have reproached the footſteps of thine anointed.

Notes on the Ninetieth Pſalm.

Here the fourth book of Pſalms, according to the Hebrew diviſion, begins. This pſalm was compoſed by Moſes, when the people had ſo highly offended God in the wilderneſs, that he ſhortened their lives to ſeventy or eighty years, and ſuffered them not to arrive at the age of their anceſtors, except Moſes, Caleb, and Joſhua, whoſe lives he prolonged to an hundred and twenty years. Patrick.

16 With long life will I ſatisfy him, and ſhew him my ſalvation.

PSAL. XCII.

1 The prophet exhorteth to praiſe God, 4 for his

---

11 Who knoweth the power of thine anger? &c.] Who, alas! notwithſtanding all thy judgments, ſeriouſly lays to heart the dreadful effects of thy diſpleaſures?

According to thy fear, ſo is thy wrath.] In proportion to the fear and reverence which is due to thee as the great Lord and Sovereign of the world, ſo may the tranſgreſſors of thy law expect their puniſhments: i. e. in a future ſtate. Peters.

12 So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wiſdom.] Do thou, O Lord, touch us with a ſenſe of thy judgments, that we forming a juſt computation of the ſhortneſs of our days, may wiſely apply ourſelves to making the beſt uſe of our time, in repenting of thoſe ſins which have ſo highly offended thy Divine Majeſty. Patrick.

Notes on the Ninety-firſt Pſalm.

Moſes was probably the author of this pſalm as well as the laſt: the laſt was calculated for the uſe of thoſe who were to die in the wilderneſs, whereas this is evidently deſigned for thoſe who were to ſurvive this threatened devaſtation. Both pſalms ſeem to have been compoſed ſoon after the irrevocable decree was paſt, (Numb. xiv.) which condemned one part of them, all that were numbered from twenty years old and upwards, to a lingering death in the wilderneſs; and their little ones to a forty years wandering for their fathers ſins, but with a gracious promiſe, however, that they ſhould at length obtain an entrance into the land of Canaan. The occaſion of this pſalm is ſtill pointed out more plainly at the 13th verſe, Thou ſhalt tread upon the lion and adder, &c. There is ſomething ſo particular in this, that it will ſuit no other part of their hiſtory. Peters.

Ver. 1 He that dwelleth in the ſecret place, &c.] The four firſt verſes are an inſtruction and encouragement to the younger ſort.

4 His truth.] i. e. His gracious promiſe, (Numb. xiv. 31.) But your little ones will I bring in, &c.

5, 6, 7, and 8] They were encouraged to reſt ſecure in the Divine promiſe for protection, amidſt the daily ſpectacles of mortality, to which they were ſoon to be accuſtomed. Peters.

13 The lion.] The term here uſed for lion means wild beaſts of different ſpecies; as likewiſe dragons may ſignify ſerpents of various kinds.

great works, 6 for his judgements on the wicked, 10 and for his goodneſs to the godly.

A pſalm or ſong for the ſabbath-day.

IT is a good thing to give thanks unto the LORD, and to ſing praiſes unto thy name, O moſt High:

2 To ſhew forth thy loving-kindneſs in the morning, and thy faithfulneſs every night;

3 Upon an inſtrument of ten ſtrings, and upon the pſaltery; upon the harp with a ſolemn ſound.

4 For thou, LORD, haſt made me glad through thy work: I will triumph in the works of thy hands.

5 O LORD, how great are thy works! and thy thoughts are very deep.

6 A brutiſh man knoweth not; neither doth a fool underſtand this.

7 When the wicked ſpring as the graſs, and when all the workers of iniquity do flouriſh; it is that they ſhall be deſtroyed for ever:

8 But thou, LORD, art moſt high for evermore.

9 For lo, thine enemies, O LORD, for lo, thine enemies ſhall periſh; all the workers of iniquity ſhall be ſcattered:

10 But my horn ſhalt thou exalt like the horn of an unicorn: I ſhall be anointed with freſh oil.

11 Mine eye alſo ſhall ſee my deſire on mine enemies, and mine ears ſhall hear my deſire of the wicked that riſe up againſt me.

12 The righteous ſhall flouriſh like the palm-tree: he ſhall grow like a cedar in Lebanon.

13 Thoſe that be planted in the houſe of the LORD, ſhall flouriſh in the courts of our God.

14 They ſhall ſtill bring forth fruit in old age; they ſhall be fat and flouriſhing:

15 To ſhew that the LORD is upright: he is my rock, and there is no unrighteouſneſs in him.

PSAL. XCIII.

The majeſty, power, and holineſs of Chriſt's kingdom.

THE LORD reigneth, he is clothed with majeſty; the LORD is clothed with ſtrength, wherewith he hath girded himſelf: the world alſo is ſtabliſhed that it cannot be moved.

2 Thy throne is eſtabliſhed of old: thou art from everlaſting.

3 The floods have lifted up, O LORD, the floods have lifted up their voice; the floods lift up their waves.

4 The LORD on high is mighter than the noiſe of many waters, yea, than the mighty waves of the ſea.

5 Thy teſtimonies are very ſure: holineſs becometh thine houſe, O LORD, for ever.

PSAL. XCIV.

1 The prophet calling for juſtice, complaineth of tyranny and impiety. 8 He teacheth God's providence. 12 He ſheweth the bleſſedneſs of affliction: 16 God is the defender of the afflicted.

Notes on the Ninety-ſecond Pſalm.

This pſalm was probably compoſed by Moſes, to raiſe the hearts of the Iſraelites to the proper buſineſs of the ſabbath-day, which was to praiſe God, when they meditated on his wonderful works both of creation and providence; as they themſelves had ſeen ſeveral inſtances of rewarding the good, and puniſhing the wicked, ſince they came out of Egypt, and were to ſee more when they entered the promiſed land, where they were to keep their ſabbath, or reſt after their long travels in the deſert. Patrick.

Ver. 2 To ſhew forth thy loving-kindneſs in the morning, &c.] The moſt raviſhing employment in the morning, and pleaſanteſt employment at night, is to commemorate and declare to all the goodneſs of the Lord, and his kindneſs to the children of men. Patrick.

10 My horn ſhall be exalted.] My power and authority ſhall be raiſed to a great height.

12 The righteous ſhall flouriſh like the palm-tree, &c.] The righteous ſhall never be forſaken by his God; but ſhall flouriſh in eternal beauty and proſperity like a fruitful palm-tree, and ſpread abroad his branches like a cedar of Lebanon.

Notes on the Ninety-third Pſalm.

This pſalm was, in all probability, compoſed by David, when ſome of his powerful enemies began to gather ſtrength, and threatened to diſturb the peace and tranquillity of his reign. But, in a more ſublime ſenſe, it ought to be applied to the ſtability of the Meſſiah's kingdom, as ſeveral of the Jews themſelves acknowledge. Patrick.

Ver. 1 The Lord reigneth, he is cloathed with majeſty, &c.] Let the nations boaſt of the ſplendor and power of their kings, and put their truſt in chariots and in horſemen; we glory and put our confidence in the Lord who reigneth over us: whoſe royal ornaments are not gold and precious ſtones, but majeſty itſelf; who is armed with omnipotence, and ready to aſſiſt us. Patrick.

5 Thy teſtimonies are very ſure.] Thy fidelity in performing thy promiſes is unqueſtionable.

Notes on the Ninety-fourth Pſalm.

Dr. Delany ſuppoſes that David wrote this pſalm on occaſion of a battle that was fought between the Iſraelites under the command

O LORD God, to whom vengeance belongeth, O God, to whom vengeance belongeth, ſhew thy ſelf.

2 Lift up thy ſelf, thou Judge of the earth: render a reward to the proud.

3 LORD, how long ſhall the wicked, how long ſhall the wicked triumph?

4 How long ſhall they utter and ſpeak hard things? and all the workers of iniquity boaſt themſelves?

5 They break in pieces thy people, O LORD, and afflict thine heritage.

6 They ſlay the widow and the ſtranger, and murder the fatherleſs.

7 Yet they ſay, The LORD ſhall not ſee, neither ſhall the God of Jacob regard it.

8 Underſtand, ye brutiſh among the people: and ye fools, when will ye be wiſe?

9 He that planted the ear, ſhall he not hear? he that formed the eye, ſhall he not ſee?

10 He that chaſtiſeth the heathen, ſhall not he correct? he that teacheth man knowledge, ſhall not he know?

11 The LORD knoweth the thoughts of man, that they are vanity.

12 Bleſſed is the man whom thou chaſteneſt, O LORD, and teacheſt him out of thy law;

13 That thou mayeſt give him reſt from the days of adverſity, until the pit be digged for the wicked.

14 For the LORD will not caſt off his people, neither will he forſake his inheritance.

15 But judgement ſhall return unto righteouſneſs: and all the upright in heart ſhall follow it.

16 Who will riſe up for me againſt the evildoers? or who will ſtand up for me againſt the workers of iniquity?

17 Unleſs the LORD had been my help, my ſoul had almoſt dwelt in ſilence.

18 When I ſaid, My foot ſlippeth; thy mercy, O LORD, held me up.

19 In the multitude of my thoughts within me, thy comforts delight my ſoul.

20 Shall the throne of iniquity have fellowſhip with thee, which frameth miſchief by a law?

21 They gather themſelves together againſt the ſoul of the righteous, and condemn the innocent blood.

22 But the LORD is my defence; and my God is the rock of my refuge.

23 And he ſhall bring upon them their own iniquity, and ſhall cut them off in their own wickedneſs; yea, the LORD our God ſhall cut them off.

PSAL. XCV.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God, 3 for his greatneſs, 6 and for his goodneſs; 8 and not to tempt him.

O Come, let us ſing unto the LORD: let us make a joyful noiſe to the rock of our ſalvation.

2 Let us come before his preſence with thankſgiving, and make a joyful noiſe unto him with pſalms.

3 Declare his glory among the heathen, his wonders among all people.

Ver. 1 O Lord God, to whom vengeance belongeth, &c.] i. e. Let thy interpoſition in this cauſe be made evident to the world, by the righteouſneſs of the deciſion.

5 They break in pieces thy people, O Lord, and afflict thine heritage.] i. e. The Ammonites and Syrians waſte his country and murder his ſubjects.

17 Unleſs the Lord had been my help, my ſoul had almoſt dwelt in ſilence.] Septuagint and Vulgate, in Hades, or the grave. Dr. Delany imagines that David, reflecting upon the danger his army had eſcaped, added theſe ſeven more verſes after the battle; which begins with acknowledging the danger, and aſcribing the deliverance to God.

Notes on the Ninety-fifth Pſalm.

This pſalm is generally ſuppoſed to be David's, and ſo the Septuagint ſtiles it, and intended as a ſolemn invitation to the people, when aſſembled on the ſabbath, or ſome ſolemn occaſion, to praiſe the Lord their God, and attentively liſten to the inſtructions given them out of his law. For the ſame purpoſe, our church ſtill uſes it in the beginning of the morning ſervice: for it plainly relates to the days of the Meſſiah, as the Jews themſelves confeſs, and the apoſtle to the Hebrews proves, chap. iii. 7, and iv. 3, where he demonſtrates to the Iſraelites, that the reſt here ſpoken of, could not be merely that of the land of Canaan, which their forefathers were not ſuffered to enjoy, becauſe of their diſobedience to God in the wilderneſs; but another far exceeding it, and into which a Meſſiah, a far greater captain than Joſhua, was to carry them. And therefore it was abſolutely

5 The ſea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry-land.

6 O come, let us worſhip and bow down: let us kneel before the LORD our maker.

7 For he is our God; and we are the people of his paſture, and the ſheep of his hand. To-day if ye will hear his voice,

8 Harden not your heart, as in the provocation, and as in the day of temptation in the wilderneſs:

9 When your fathers tempted me, proved me, and ſaw my work.

10 Forty years long was I grieved with this generation, and ſaid, It is a people that do err in their heart, and they have not known my ways:

11 Unto whom I ſware in my wrath, that they ſhould not enter into my reſt.

PSAL. XCVI.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God, 4 for his greatneſs, 8 for his kingdom, 11 and for his general judgement.

O Sing unto the LORD, a new ſong; ſing unto the LORD, all the earth.

2 Sing unto the LORD, bleſs his name; ſhew forth his ſalvation from day to day.

3 Declare his glory among the heathen, his wonders among all people.

4 For the LORD is great, and greatly to be praiſed: he is to be feared above all gods.

5 For all the gods of the nations are idols: but the LORD made the heavens.

6 Honour and majeſty are before him; ſtrength and beauty are in his ſanctuary.

7 Give unto the LORD, O ye kindreds of the people, give unto the LORD glory and ſtrength.

8 Give unto the LORD the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come into his courts.

9 O worſhip the LORD in the beauty of holineſs: fear before him, all the earth.

10 Say among the heathen that the LORD reigneth: the world alſo ſhall be eſtabliſhed that it ſhall not be moved: he ſhall judge the people righteouſly.

11 Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad, let the ſea roar, and the fulneſs thereof.

12 Let the field be joyful and all that is therein: then ſhall all the trees of the wood rejoice,

13 Before the LORD: for he cometh, for he cometh to judge the earth: he ſhall judge the world with righteouſneſs, and the people with his truth.

PSAL. XCVII.

abſolutely neceſſary for them to take care that they did not harden their hearts againſt him, when he came to invite them to a participation of the higheſt felicity: but entertain, with a chearful and joyful obedience, his moſt holy goſpel. Patrick.

Ver. 7 The people of his paſture, &c.] Some critics tranſpoſe the words, and read, we are the ſheep of his paſture, and the people of his hand.

9 Your fathers tempted me.] i. e. Provoked me to anger.

Notes on the Ninety-ſixth Pſalm.

This pſalm has no title in the Hebrew; but it is plain, from 1 Chron. xvi. that it was wrote by David, and delivered, together with the cvth, to Aſaph, when he brought up the ark from the houſe of Obed-Edom, to the place he had prepared for it on mount Sion. There are indeed ſome ſmall variations from that given in the place referred to; but that only proves that it was altered by ſome pious perſon, when the Iſraelites returned from their captivity in Babylon. But the prophecy itſelf was never fulfilled, till the deſire of all nations, the great Meſſiah himſelf, came to dwell among men, and offered eternal ſalvation to the human race. Patrick.

Ver. 9 O worſhip the Lord, in the beauty of holineſs, &c.] Septuagint and Vulgate, In his holy court, i. e. in his ſanctuary, where he has fixed his glorious reſidence among us.

10 Say among the heathen, that the Lord reigneth, &c.] Publiſh in every corner of the earth, that the great Meſſiah is the ſovereign of the world, who alone can make you happy. For he ſhall ſettle thoſe in peace who ſubmit to his government, and they ſhall not be diſturbed as formerly with wars and tumults: he ſhall adminiſter equal juſtice unto all; nor ſuffer the good to be unrewarded, nor the evil to eſcape unpuniſhed. Patrick.

11 Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth be glad, &c.] Let the whole univerſe be filled with gladneſs at this joyful news, which even the angels themſelves will gladly receive, and therefore mankind, diſperſed on every part of the earth, the ſea, and the iſlands thereof, ſhould exceedingly rejoice, and make every part echo with the ſound of their joyful praiſes. Patrick.

12 Let the field be joyful, &c.] Let the huſbandmen, the ſhepherds, and all that dwell in the fields leap for joy: and let the inhabitants of the foreſts rejoice, for the happy day is approaching, when all the idols that are worſhipped ſhall be thrown down, together with their groves.

Notes on the Ninety-ſeventh Pſalm.

This pſalm was probably compoſed by David, after he had brought up the ark to Sion, to inſpire the Iſraelites with confidence, and terrify their enemies, with the expectations of thoſe great things that would certainly enſue, upon the ſpecial preſence of God among them. However it belongs, in its ſublimer meaning, to Chriſt's triumph over the grave, and all the powers

THE LORD reigneth; let the earth rejoice: let the multitude of iſles be glad thereof.

2 Clouds and darkneſs are round about him: righteouſneſs and judgement are the habitation of his throne.

3 A fire goeth before him, and burneth up his enemies round about.

4 His lightnings enlightened the world: the earth ſaw, and trembled.

5 The hills melted like wax at the preſence of the LORD, at the preſence of the LORD of the whole earth.

6 The heavens declare his righteouſneſs, and all the people ſee his glory.

7 Confounded be all they that ſerve graven images, that boaſt themſelves of idols: worſhip him, all ye gods.

8 Zion heard, and was glad, and the daughters of Judah rejoiced, becauſe of thy judgements, O LORD.

9 For thou, LORD, art high above all the earth: thou art exalted far above all gods.

10 Ye that love the LORD, hate evil: he preſerveth the ſouls of his ſaints: he delivereth them out of the hand of the wicked.

11 Light is ſown for the righteous, and gladneſs for the upright in heart.

12 Rejoice in the LORD, ye righteous; and give thanks at the remembrance of his holineſs.

PSAL. XCVIII.

1 The pſalmiſt exhorteth the Jews, 4 the Gentiles, 7 and all creatures to praiſe God.

A pſalm.

O Sing unto the LORD a new ſong: for he hath done marvellous things: his right hand, and his holy arm hath gotten him the victory.

2 The LORD hath made known his ſalvation: his righteouſneſs hath he openly ſhewed in the ſight of the heathen.

3 He hath remembered his mercy and his truth toward the houſe of Iſrael: all the ends of the earth have ſeen the ſalvation of our God.

4 Make a joyful noiſe unto the LORD, all the earth: make a loud noiſe, and rejoice, and ſing praiſe.

5 Sing unto the LORD with the harp; with the harp, and the voice of a pſalm.

6 With trumpets and ſound of cornet make a joyful noiſe before the LORD, the King.

7 Let the ſea roar, and the fulneſs thereof: the world, and they that dwell therein.

8 Let the floods clap their hands: let the hills be joyful together,

9 Before the LORD: for he cometh to judge the earth: with righteouſneſs ſhall he judge the world, and the people with equity.

PSAL. XCIX.

The prophet ſetting forth the kingdom of God in Zion, 5 exhorteth all, by the example of their forefathers, to worſhip God at his holy hill.

THE LORD reigneth; let the people tremble: he ſitteth between the cherubims; let the earth be moved.

Ver. 1 Let the multitude of iſles be glad.] The moſt diſtant countries, and the iſlands that are in the midſt of the ocean, ſhould particularly be glad thereof.

2 Clouds and darkneſs are round about him, &c.] Though clouds and darkneſs, impenetrable to any human ſight, ſometimes encompaſs the ſupreme conductor of things; yet righteouſneſs and judgment are the habitations of his ſeat, the invariable ſtandard of all his adminiſtrations. Hervey.

5 The hills melted like wax.] Some commentators here by hills, underſtand kings; as Micah, ch. vi. 1. Then the ſenſe will be, the hearts of the ſtouteſt kings and captains failed them, &c.

7 Worſhip him, all ye gods.] Septuagint and Vulgate, Worſhip him, all ye angels.

11 Light is ſown for the righteous, &c.] Be not diſcouraged, though the world ſhould frown upon you, but reſt aſſured, that God deſigns you, in due time, more happy days; which, if you continue faithful, and ſerve him with upright hearts, ſhall as certainly come, as the corn at laſt ſprings up, after it hath lain all winter in the earth. Septuagint, Vulgate, and Liturgy read, There is ſprung up a light, &c. i. e. the light of the goſpel.

Notes on the Ninety-eighth Pſalm.

This pſalm is generally ſuppoſed to have been written by David, on occaſion of ſome remarkable deliverance which God had newly granted to Iſrael, as an earneſt of future bleſſings; eſpecially of the coming of that great bleſſing, the Prince of peace, to give complete ſalvation to his people. Patrick.

Ver. 7 Let the ſea roar, and the fulneſs thereof.] Let his praiſes be heard like thunder through all the habitable world.

9 The people with equity.] The people, i. e. all nations.

Notes on the Ninety-ninth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems alſo to have been compoſed by David, and perhaps upon the ſame occaſion as the laſt, exciting the people to have a becoming dread and awe of the power of the Almighty, when they enter his ſanctuary. Patrick.

Ver.

2 The LORD is great in Zion, and he is high above all people.

3 Let them praiſe thy great and terrible name: for it is holy.

4 The king's ſtrength alſo loveth judgement: thou doſt eſtabliſh equity, thou executeſt judgement and righteouſneſs in Jacob.

5 Exalt ye the LORD our God, and worſhip at his footſtool: for he is holy.

6 Moſes and Aaron among his prieſts, and Samuel among them that call upon his name: they called upon the LORD, and he anſwered them.

7 He ſpake unto them in the cloudy pillar: they kept his teſtimonies, and the ordinance that he gave them.

8 Thou anſweredſt them, O LORD our God: thou waſt a God that forgaveſt them, though thou tookeſt vengeance of their inventions.

9 Exalt the LORD our God, and worſhip at his holy hill: for the LORD our God is holy.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God cheerfully, 3 for his greatneſs, 4 and for his power.

A pſalm of praiſe.

MAKE a joyful noiſe unto the LORD, all ye lands.

2 Serve the LORD with gladneſs: come before his preſence with ſinging.

3 Know ye that the LORD he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we our ſelves; we are his people, and the ſheep of his paſture.

4 Enter into his gates with thankſgiving, and into his courts with praiſe: be thankful unto him, and bleſs his name.

David's vow and profeſſion of godlineſs.

A pſalm of David.

I Will ſing of mercy and judgement: unto thee, O LORD, will I ſing.

2 I will behave myſelf wiſely in a perfect way. O when wilt thou come unto me! I will walk within my houſe with a perfect heart.

3 I will ſet no wicked thing before mine eyes: I hate the work of them that turn aſide; it ſhall not cleave to me.

4 A froward heart ſhall depart from me: I will not know a wicked perſon.

5 Whoſo privily ſlandereth his neighbour, him will I cut off: him that hath an high look, and a proud heart, will not I ſuffer.

6 Mine eyes ſhall be upon the faithful of the land, that they may dwell with me: he that walketh in a perfect way, he ſhall ſerve me.

7 He that worketh deceit ſhall not dwell within my houſe: he that telleth lies ſhall not tarry in my ſight.

8 I will early deſtroy all the wicked of the land; that I may cut off all wicked doers from the city of the LORD.

Ver. 2 The Lord is great in Zion, and he is high above all people, &c.] The Lord, whoſe palace is in Zion, is tranſcendantly great: no power on earth is able to oppoſe him, his ſtrength infinitely ſurpaſſing that of all people. Patrick.

4 The King's ſtrength loveth judgment.] Septuagint and Vulgate, The King's honour.

5 Worſhip at his footſtool.] The ark that was in the temple, was the throne on which God ſat, and therefore David calls it his footſtool. Lamy.

8 Thou waſt a God that forgaveſt them, though thou tookeſt vengeance of their inventions.] What? forgiveneſs and vengeance upon the ſame perſons? light and darkneſs in the ſame region at the ſame time? who can unriddle theſe obſcurities, or reconcile the ſeeming contradiction? why, the reſolution is not very difficult, if we conſider that eternal mercy may very well conſiſt with temporal ſeverities, and the pardon of the ſin with the correction of the ſinner. South's Serm.

Notes on the Hundredth Pſalm.

This is the only pſalm in the whole collection, ſtiled a pſalm of praiſe, probably, becauſe it was peculiarly appointed to be ſung, when their ſacrifices of thankſgiving were offered to the moſt High: and is generally thought to have been written by David, who invites all the world to join with the Iſraelites in the ſervice of the Lord, whoſe kindneſs to them was beyond expreſſion. And accordingly, we now uſe it in acknowledgment of God's wonderful love to us in Chriſt; who, by the ſacrifice he made of himſelf, redeemed us from the power of ſin and death, and made us heirs of life eternal. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Firſt Pſalm.

When David received Mephiboſheth into favour, he was aware what the partizans of the houſe of Saul would ſay on the occaſion, viz. that all theſe fair pretences and promiſes in favour of Saul's family, were but a ſpecious artifice to get the true heirs of the crown into his hands, and then he would ſoon find means to rid himſelf of them: David therefore writes this pſalm, as a declaration, to vindicate his own integrity, terrify treachery, and diſcountenance calumny. Delany.

PSAL. CII.

1 The prophet in his prayer maketh a grievous complaint. 12 He taketh comfort in the eternity and mercy of God. 18 The mercies of God are to be recorded. 23 He ſuſtaineth his weakneſs by the unchangeableneſs of God.

A prayer of the afflicted, when he is overwhelmed, and poureth out his complaint before the LORD.

HEAR my prayer, O LORD, and let my cry come unto thee.

2 Hide not thy face from me in the day when I am in trouble; incline thine ear unto me: in the day when I call, anſwer ſpeedily.

3 For my days are conſumed like ſmoke, and my bones are burned as an hearth.

4 My heart is ſmitten, and withered like graſs; ſo that I forget to eat my bread.

5 By reaſon of the voice of my groaning, my bones cleave to my ſkin.

6 I am like a pelican of the wilderneſs: I am like an owl of the deſert.

7 I watch, and am as a ſparrow alone upon the houſe-top.

8 Mine enemies reproach me all the day; and they that are mad againſt me are ſworn againſt me.

9 For I have eaten aſhes like bread, and mingled my drink with weeping.

10 Becauſe of thine indignation and thy wrath: for thou haſt lifted me up, and caſt me down.

11 My days are like a ſhadow that declineth; and I am withered like graſs.

12 But thou, O LORD, ſhalt endure for ever, and thy remembrance unto all generations.

13 Thou ſhalt ariſe, and have mercy upon Zion: for the time to favour her, yea, the ſet-time, is come.

14 For thy ſervants take pleaſure in her ſtones, and favour the duſt thereof.

15 So the heathen ſhall fear the name of the LORD, and all the kings of the earth thy glory.

16 When the LORD ſhall build up Zion, he ſhall appear in his glory.

17 He will regard the prayer of the deſtitute, and not deſpiſe their prayer.

18 This ſhall be written for the generation to come: and the people which ſhall be created ſhall praiſe the LORD.

19 For he hath looked down from the height of his ſanctuary; from heaven did the LORD behold the earth.

20 To hear the groaning of the priſoner, to looſe thoſe that are appointed to death;

21 To declare the name of the LORD in Zion, and his praiſe in Jeruſalem;

22 When the people are gathered together, and the kingdoms to ſerve the LORD.

23 He weakened my ſtrength in the way; he ſhortned my days.

24 I ſaid, O my God, take me not away in Notes on the Hundred and Second Pſalm.

This prayer was compoſed by ſome pious perſon, about the end of the Babyloniſh captivity, who was overwhelmed with grief, to ſee the temple lie waſte, and the city of Jeruſalem itſelf reduced to a heap of ruins: and is well adapted to the condition of any perſon under grievous calamities, and who implores the Divine favour for help and deliverance. It is the fifth among the ſeven called Penitential Pſalms. Patrick.

Ver. 3 For my days are conſumed like ſmoke, &c.] For my days are ſpent as diſmally, as if I were wholly immerſed in a cloud of ſmoke; and the anguiſh I ſuffer is ſo ſharp, that it penetrates to my very bones, and renders them as parched and dry as the fire does the hearth. Patrick.

4 My heart is ſmitten, and withered like graſs, &c.] My vital ſpirits are exhauſted, and flag like the graſs, when it is ſtruck with a peſtilent blaſt; for together with my appetite I have loſt even the thoughts of my neceſſary food. Patrick.

6 Like a pelican of the wilderneſs.] Dr. Shaw obſerves that the pelican has large webbed feet, and a capacious pouch, which, from the manner of catching its food, which can only be in the water, ſhows it entirely to be a water-fowl, that muſt of neceſſity ſtarve in the wilderneſs: and therefore this cannot be the bird here intended; but Calmet ſays there are two kinds of pelicans, one of which lives in the water and feeds upon fiſh; the other in the wilderneſs and feeds upon ſerpents and other reptiles. See Johnſon's Dictionary.

Like an owl of the deſart.] Poole and ſeveral commentators think the bird here intended is not the owl, but the onocratilus, or bittern, ſo called from making a noiſe like an aſs; for he puts his head into the water, and breathing into it, makes a noiſe reſembling the braying of an aſs:

> ——————So that ſcarce
> The bittern knows his time, with bill ingulpht,
> To ſhake the ſounding marſh. Thomſon.

7 I watch, and am as a ſparrow, &c.] Certainly a ſparrow is not the bird here meant; for he is not a ſolitary but gregarious bird; does not uſe to watch, but ſleep at night. The generality of interpreters ſuppoſe the bird here intended to be ſome ſort of owl.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God for his mercy, 15 and for the conſtancy thereof.

A pſalm of David.

BLESS the LORD, O my ſoul: and all that is within me bleſs his holy name.

2 Bleſs the LORD, O my ſoul, and forget not all his benefits.

3 Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diſeaſes.

4 Who redeemeth thy life from deſtruction; who crowneth thee with loving-kindneſs and tender mercies:

5 Who ſatisfieth thy mouth with good things; ſo that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's.

6 The LORD executeth righteouſneſs and judgement for all that are oppreſſed.

7 He made known his ways unto Moſes, his acts unto the children of Iſrael.

8 The LORD is merciful and gracious, ſlow to anger, and plenteous in mercy.

9 He will not always chide; neither will he keep his anger for ever.

10 He hath not dealt with us after our ſins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.

11 For as the heaven is high above the earth, ſo great is his mercy toward them that fear him.

12 As far as the eaſt is from the weſt, ſo far hath he removed our tranſgreſſions from us.

13 Like as a father pitieth his children, ſo the LORD pitieth them that fear him.

14 For he knoweth our frame: he remembereth that we are duſt.

15 As for man, his days are as graſs: as a flower of the field, ſo he flouriſheth.

16 For the wind paſſeth over it, and it is gone: and the place thereof ſhall know it no more.

17 But the mercy of the LORD is from everlaſting to everlaſting upon them that fear him, and his righteouſneſs unto children's children;

18 To ſuch as keep his covenant, and to thoſe that remember his commandments to do them.

19 The LORD hath prepared his throne in the heavens; and his kingdom ruleth over all.

20 Bleſs the LORD, ye his angels, that excel in ſtrength, that do his commandments, hearkening unto the voice of his word.

21 Bleſs ye the LORD, all ye his hoſts; ye miniſters of his, that do his pleaſure.

22 Bleſs the LORD, all his works in all places of his dominion: bleſs the LORD, O my ſoul.

Notes on the Hundred and Third Pſalm.

This pſalm was compoſed by David, on his recovery from a dangerous fit of ſickneſs; and is an excellent example for all who have eſcaped the ſame danger, and are deſirous of returning thanks to God, the reſtorer of their health, and the giver of every good thing they enjoy. Patrick.

Ver. 5. Thy youth is renewed like the eagle's.] Eagles moult their feathers often, which might give riſe to the vulgar opinion, that they grew young again, after they had been old. It is ſaid their feathers fall by pairs, one in each wing; and that thoſe which fall at once, are the two feathers exactly correſponding to each other, in each wing, and that this pair is renewed by a new growth, before the next pair falls.

Notes on the Hundred and Fourth Pſalm.

Dr. Delany is of opinion that David compoſed this excellent pſalm in the foreſt of Hareth, where he was daily ſurrounded with thoſe paſtoral ſcenes which he ſo finely deſcribes. After ſome general obſervations upon the works and wiſdom of God in the creation, he deſcends to the following particulars; the BLESS the LORD, O my ſoul. O LORD my God, thou art very great; thou art clothed with honour and majeſty.

2 Who covereſt thy ſelf with light as with a garment: who ſtretcheſt out the heavens like a curtain.

3 Who layeth the beams of his chambers in the waters; who maketh the clouds his chariot; who walketh upon the wings of the wind:

4 Who maketh his angels ſpirits; his miniſters, a flaming fire:

5 Who laid the foundations of the earth, that it ſhould not be removed for ever.

6 Thou covereſt it with the deep as with a garment: the waters ſtood above the mountains.

7 At thy rebuke they fled; at the voice of thy thunder they haſted away.

8 They go up by the mountains; they go down by the valleys unto the place which thou haſt founded for them.

9 Thou haſt ſet a bound that they may not paſs over; that they turn not again to cover the earth.

10 He ſendeth the ſprings into the valleys, which run among the hills.

11 They give drink to every beaſt of the field: the wild aſſes quench their thirſt.

12 By them ſhall the fowls of the heaven have their habitation, which ſing among the branches.

13 He watereth the hills from his chambers: the earth is ſatisfied with the fruit of thy works.

14 He cauſeth the graſs to grow for the cattle, and herb for the ſervice of man; that he may bring forth food out of the earth;

15 And wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oil to make his face to ſhine, and bread which ſtrengtheneth man's heart.

16 The trees of the LORD are full of ſap; the cedars of Lebanon, which he hath planted;

17 Where the birds make their neſts: as for the ſtork, the fir-trees are her houſe.

18 The high hills are a refuge for the wild goats, and the rocks for the conies.

19 He appointeth the moon for ſeaſons: the ſun knoweth his going down.

20 Thou makeſt darkneſs, and it is night: wherein all the beaſts of the foreſt do creep forth.

21 The young lions roar after their prey, and ſeek their meat from God.

22 The ſun ariſeth, they gather themſelves together, and lay them down in their dens.

23 Man goeth forth to his work, and to his labour until the evening.

24 O LORD, how manifold are thy works! in wiſdom haſt thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches.

riſe of ſprings, the courſe of rivers, the retreats of fowls and wild beaſts of the foreſts and mountains; the viciſſitudes of days and nights, and their various uſes to the animal world; the dependence of the whole creation upon the Almighty for being and ſubſiſtence! he withdraws their breath, and they die; he breathes, and they revive; he opens his hand, and ſatisfies them all at once. Theſe are ideas familiar to him, and his manner of introducing them plainly ſhows them the effect of his moſt retired meditations in his ſolitary wanderings.

Ver. 2 Who covereſt thyſelf with light as with a garment, &c.] Thy royal robe is formed of the reſplendent rays of light; and the ſpacious heavens are the grand pavilion which thy ſovereign power hath extended like a canopy for thy majeſty, in this grand palace of the world. Patrick.

3 Who layeth the beams of the chambers in the waters, &c.] This expreſſion ſignifies no more than that the rain falls down on the earth from heaven. In the expreſſion, thou walkeſt upon the wings of the wind, there is an elegance, an emphaſis unequalled in any writer.---Not, he flieth, he runneth, but he walketh; and that on the very wings of the wind: on the moſt impetuous of elements, rouſed into its utmoſt rage, and ſweeping along with inconceivable rapidity. A tumult in nature not to be deſcribed is the ſedate work of the Deity. How flat are all the lines of profane authors, when compared with this inimitable ſtroke of divine poetry!---He walketh upon the wings of the wind. Hervey.

On this laſt phraſe I ſhall beg leave to obſerve, that the wind being generally uſed to expreſs the velocity of any thing, and here the wings of the wind to carry with them an idea of the utmoſt fierceneſs of that velocity; it is impoſſible to imagine the ſerene and deliberate walking of the Deity upon a creature of the moſt inconceivable ſwiftneſs, without being filled with the deepeſt wonder and aſtoniſhment.

4 Who maketh his angels ſpirits: his miniſters, a flaming fire.] Who maketh the winds his meſſengers, and flaming fire his miniſters. Berkley.

5 Who laid the foundations of the earth, that it ſhould not be removed for ever.] Who haſt rendered the maſſive globe of the earth, though penſile in the fluid æther, ſo firm and conſtant, that neither the ſtorms and tempeſts which beat upon it from without, nor any commotions from within, can ever cauſe it to deviate from the orbit thou haſt preſcribed for it in the regions of univerſal ſpace. Patrick.

6, 7 Thou coveredſt it with the deep, as with a garment, &c.] The earth at firſt was covered with waters as with a garment; the higheſt mountains did not reach to its ſurface. But at thy command they ſtarted back, at the voice of thy thunder they haſtened away.

24 O Lord, how manifold are thy works! &c.] O Lord, how many, and how aſtoniſhing are thy works! and with what inconceivable wiſdom haſt thou performed them all! even this earth

25 So is this great and wide ſea, wherein are things creeping innumerable, both ſmall and great beaſts.

26 There go the ſhips: there is that leviathan, whom thou haſt made to play therein.

27 Theſe wait all upon thee: that thou mayeſt give them their meat in due ſeaſon.

28 That thou giveſt them, they gather: thou openeſt thine hand, they are filled with good.

29 Thou hideſt thy face, they are troubled: thou takeſt away their breath, they die, and return to their duſt.

30 Thou ſendeſt forth thy Spirit, they are created: and thou reneweſt the face of the earth.

31 The glory of the LORD ſhall endure for ever: the LORD ſhall rejoice in his works.

32 He looketh on the earth, and it trembleth: he toucheth the hills, and they ſmoke.

33 I will ſing unto the LORD as long as I live: I will ſing praiſe unto my God while I have my being.

34 My meditation of him ſhall be ſweet: I will be glad in the LORD.

35 Let the ſinners be conſumed out of the earth, and let the wicked be no more. Bleſs thou the LORD, O my ſoul. Praiſe ye the LORD.

Notes on the Hundred and Fifth Pſalm.

Though this pſalm hath no title, yet it is evident from 1 Chron. xvi. 8, &c. that David was the author of the firſt part of it at leaſt; and that he delivered it to Aſaph and his brethren, to be conſtantly uſed in the ſervice of God in the tabernacle, when, after obtaining ſeveral memorable victories over the Philiſtines, he had ſettled the ark in mount Sion. And very probably he afterwards enlarged this pſalm that it might be a more complete commemoration of all the mercies of God towards the Hebrews, from the days of Abraham to the time of their taking poſſeſſion of the promiſed land.

Ver. 16 The ſtaff of bread.] The ſupport of human life.

22 To bind his princes.] Septuagint, Vulgate, and Liturgy read, That he might inform his princes, &c.

22 To bind his princes at his pleaſure; and teach his ſenators wiſdom.

23 Iſrael alſo came into Egypt; and Jacob ſojourned in the land of Ham.

24 And he increaſed his people greatly; and made them ſtronger than their enemies.

25 He turned their heart to hate his people, to deal ſubtilly with his ſervants.

26 He ſent Moſes his ſervant; and Aaron, whom he had choſen.

27 They ſhewed his ſigns among them, and wonders in the land of Ham.

28 He ſent darkneſs, and made it dark; and they rebelled not againſt his word.

29 He turned their waters into blood, and ſlew their fiſh.

30 Their land brought forth frogs in abundance, in the chambers of their kings.

31 He ſpake, and there came divers ſorts of flies: and lice in all their coaſts.

32 He gave them hail for rain, and flaming fire in their land.

33 He ſmote their vines alſo, and their fig-trees; and brake the trees of their coaſts.

34 He ſpake, and the locuſts came, and caterpillars, and that without number,

35 And did eat up all the herbs in their land, and devoured the fruit of their ground.

36 He ſmote alſo all the firſt-born in their land, the chief of all their ſtrength.

37 He brought them forth alſo with ſilver and gold: there was not one feeble perſon among their tribes.

38 Egypt was glad when they departed: for the fear of them fell upon them.

39 He ſpread a cloud for a covering; and fire, to give light in the night.

40 The people aſked, and he brought quails; and ſatisfied them with the bread of heaven.

41 He opened the rock, and the waters guſhed out; they ran in the dry places like a river.

42 For he remembered his holy promiſe, and Abraham his ſervant.

43 And he brought forth his people with joy, and his choſen with gladneſs:

44 And gave them the lands of the heathen: and they inherited the labour of the people;

45 That they might obſerve his ſtatutes, and keep his laws. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSALM CVI.

1 The pſalmiſt exhorteth to praiſe God. 4 He prayeth for pardon of ſin. 7 The ſtory of the people's rebellion, and God's mercy. 47 He concludeth with prayer and praiſe.

PRAISE ye the LORD. O give thanks unto the LORD; for he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Who can utter the mighty acts of the LORD? who can ſhew forth all his praiſe?

3 Bleſſed are they that keep judgement, and he that doeth righteouſneſs at all times.

4 Remember me, O LORD, with the favour that thou beareſt unto thy people: O viſit me with thy ſalvation:

5 That I may ſee the good of thy choſen, that I may rejoice in the gladneſs of thy nation, that I may glory with thine inheritance.

6 We have ſinned with our fathers: we have committed iniquity, we have done wickedly.

7 Our fathers underſtood not thy wonders in Egypt, they remembered not the multitude

---

28 They rebelled not againſt his word,] The Liturgy tranſlation is directly contradictory; they were not obedient unto his word: to reconcile this difference many learned men have ſuppoſed that a ſlight, but very antient corruption, has crept into the Septuagint, by the careleſſneſs of a tranſcriber, who, inſtead of ΑΝΗΘΗΣΑΝ wrote, ΑΝΗΘΗΣΑΝ, which error has been copied by thoſe verſions which have followed it: according to the original text, the Liturgy ſhould have been tranſlated thus, Neither were they diſobedient unto his word.

39 He ſpread a cloud for a covering, and fire to give light in the night,] Jehovah did not forſake our fathers, when he had brought them out of Egypt; but, leſt they ſhould loſe their way in the barren waſtes, or be ſcorched with exceſſive heats, he defended them from the ſcorching beams of the ſun in the day by a cloud, and led them, during the night, by a pillar of fire. The intenſeneſs of the cold and heat in theſe countries, by night or by day, very emphatically accounts for the proviſion of Providence in ſpreading out for the Iſraelites a cloud for a covering from the daily heat, and a fire to diſpel the nightly cold. Shaw.

Notes on the Hundred and Sixth Pſalm.

This pſalm is intitled Hallelujah, praiſe the Lord; but neither the author nor the occaſion of it are mentioned. It ſeems, however, to have been written by David, and to be one of the pſalms he delivered to Aſaph when he had prepared a tabernacle for the ark. Patrick.

Ver. 7 Our fathers underſtood not.] Septuagint reads, Our fathers regarded not.

of thy mercies; but provoked him at the ſea, even at the Red ſea.

8 Nevertheleſs, he ſaved them for his name's ſake, that he might make his mighty power to be known.

9 He rebuked the Red ſea alſo, and it was dried up: ſo he led them through the depths, as through the wilderneſs.

10 And he ſaved them from the hand of him that hated them, and redeemed them from the hand of the enemy.

11 And the waters covered their enemies: there was not one of them left.

12 Then believed they his words; they ſang his praiſe.

13 They ſoon forgat his works; they waited not for his counſel.

14 But luſted exceedingly in the wilderneſs, and tempted God in the deſert.

15 And he gave them their requeſt; but ſent leanneſs into their ſoul.

16 They envied Moſes alſo in the camp, and Aaron the ſaint of the LORD.

17 The earth opened and ſwallowed up Dathan, and covered the company of Abiram,

18 And a fire was kindled in their company; the flame burned up the wicked.

19 They made a calf in Horeb, and worſhipped the molten image.

20 Thus they changed their glory into the ſimilitude of an ox that eateth graſs.

21 They forgat God their ſaviour, which had done great things in Egypt;

22 Wondrous works in the land of Ham, and terrible things by the Red ſea.

23 Therefore he ſaid that he would deſtroy them, had not Moſes his choſen ſtood before him in the breach, to turn away his wrath, leſt he ſhould deſtroy them.

24 Yea, they deſpiſed the pleaſant land, they believed not his word:

25 But murmured in their tents, and hearkened not unto the voice of the LORD.

26 Therefore he liſted up his hand againſt them, to overthrow them in the wilderneſs:

27 To overthrow their ſeed alſo among the nations, and to ſcatter them in the lands.

28 They joined themſelves alſo unto Baal-peor, and ate the ſacrifices of the dead.

29 Thus they provoked him to anger with their inventions: and the plague brake in upon them.

30 Then ſtood up Phinehas, and executed judgement: and ſo the plague was ſtayed.

31 And that was counted unto him for righteouſneſs unto all generations for evermore.

32 They angered him alſo at the waters of ſtriſe, ſo that it went ill with Moſes for their ſakes:

33 Becauſe they provoked his ſpirit, ſo that he ſpake unadviſedly with his lips.

34 They did not deſtroy the nations concerning whom the LORD commanded them:

35 But were mingled among the heathen, and learned their works.

36 And they ſerved their idols: which were a ſnare unto them.

37 Yea, they ſacrificed their ſons and their daughters unto devils,

38 And ſhed innocent blood, even the blood of their ſons and of their daughters, whom they ſacrificed unto the idols of Canaan: and the land was polluted with blood.

39 Thus were they defiled with their own works, and went a whoring with their own inventions.

40 Therefore was the wrath of the LORD kindled againſt his people, inſomuch that he abhorred his own inheritance.

41 And he gave them into the hand of the heathen; and they that hated them ruled over them.

42 Their enemies alſo oppreſſed them, and they were brought into ſubjection under their hand.

43 Many times did he deliver them; but they provoked him with their counſel; and were brought low for their iniquity.

44 Nevertheleſs, he regarded their affliction when he heard their cry.

45 And he remembered for them his covenant, and repented according to the multitude of his mercies.

46 He made them alſo to be pitied of all thoſe that carried them captives.

47 Save us, O LORD our God, and gather us from among the heathen, to give thanks unto thy holy name, and to triumph in thy praiſe.

48 Bleſſed be the LORD God of Iſrael from everlaſting to everlaſting: and let all the people ſay, Amen. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSALM CVII.

1 The pſalmiſt exhorteth the redeemed in praiſing God, to obſerve his manifold providence, 4 over travellers, 10 over captives, 17 over ſick men, 23 over ſea-men, 33 and in divers varieties of life.

O Give thanks unto the LORD; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 Let the redeemed of the LORD ſay ſo, whom he hath redeemed from the hand of the enemy;

3 And gathered them out of the lands, from the eaſt and from the weſt, from the north and from the ſouth.

4 They wandered in the wilderneſs in a ſolitary way, they found no city to dwell in.

5 Hungry and thirſty, their ſoul fainted in them.

6 Then they cried unto the LORD in their trouble, and he delivered them out of their diſtreſſes.

7 And he led them forth by the right way, that they might go to a city of habitation.

8 Oh, that men would praiſe the LORD for his goodneſs, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

9 For he ſatisfieth the longing ſoul, and filleth the hungry ſoul with goodneſs.

10 Such as ſit in darkneſs, and in the ſhadow of death, being bound in affliction and iron;

11 Becauſe they rebelled againſt the words of God, and contemned the counſel of the moſt High:

12 Therefore he brought down their heart with labour; they fell down, and there was none to help.

47 Save us, O Lord our God, and gather us from among the heathen, &c.] We ſtill, O Lord, humbly hope, that thou wilt continue the ſame mercies thou ſhewedſt to our forefathers; and beſeech thee, moſt mighty Lord, who haſt ſo often done wonderful things for this nation, to deliver us, how unworthy ſoever we may be, from our preſent enemies; and to reſtore ſuch of us as are fallen into their hand unto their own country, that they may join with us in giving thanks to thy incomparable goodneſs, and praiſing thy aſtoniſhing works with the greateſt joy, and in the moſt triumphant manner. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Seventh Pſalm.

The fifth and laſt book of pſalms, according to the Hebrew diviſion, begins here, with an exhortation to thoſe whom God had delivered from the ſervitude of the heathen, to acknowledge his ſingular benefits, and praiſe him with the voice of thankſgiving; and from thence to take occaſion to magnify his merciful providence over all the ſons of men, and the aſſiſtance he vouchſafeth to ſend them, when they call upon him in diſtreſs. The author of this pſalm is unknown; but from the connection of it with the two foregoing, it ſeems to have been David: who having, in pſalm cv. remembered them of the promiſes made to the patriarchs, and of the bleſſings beſtowed on their poſterity; and in the cvi. of their horrid ingratitude for ſuch remarkable benefits, and the puniſhments he had inflicted upon them for their enormous crimes; declares in this pſalm, the inexpreſſible kindneſs of the Lord, in freeing them from ſlavery, and his watchful providence over all mankind. Patrick.

Ver. 2, 3 Let the redeemed of the Lord ſay ſo, &c.] Let them eſpecially animate one another to give thanks unto the God of Jacob, whom he hath graciouſly redeemed from a deplorable captivity, whither they were carried by their conquering enemies; and who, by his Almighty power, have been re-eſtabliſhed in their own land, though diſperſed in places under the different quarters of heaven.

4, 5, 6, 7 They wandered in the wilderneſs in a ſolitary way, &c.] Nor have they leſs reaſon to magnify and adore God, who travelling through wilderneſſes and waſtes, miſſed their way, and could find no tract to lead them to a city inhabited; but in the moſt anxious perplexity wandered in theſe ſolitary deſarts till their proviſions were ſpent, and they ready to periſh with hunger and thirſt; yet even then, recommending themſelves to the Lord for his protection, and earneſtly imploring his help, he mercifully delivered them out of all their troubles. Patrick.

8 Oh, that men would praiſe the Lord for his goodneſs, &c.] Oh that ſuch men would never forget to make their thankful acknowledgments to the Lord for his ſingular kindneſs, but proclaim his wonderful works in every corner of the earth. Patrick.

10, 11, 12 Such as ſit in darkneſs, and in the ſhadow of death, &c.] His providence provides for thoſe who are confined in dungeons, and loaded with fetters, as a juſt puniſhment for the crimes they had committed againſt the expreſs commands of the moſt

13 Then they cried unto the LORD in their trouble, and he ſaved them out of their diſtreſſes.

14 He brought them out of darkneſs, and the ſhadow of death, and brake their bands in ſunder.

15 Oh, that men would praiſe the LORD for goodneſs, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

16 For he hath broken the gates of braſs, and cut the bars of iron in ſunder.

17 Fools, becauſe of their tranſgreſſion and becauſe of their iniquities, are afflicted.

18 Their ſoul abhorreth all manner of meat; and they draw near unto the gates of death.

19 Then they cry unto the LORD in their trouble, and he ſaveth them out of their diſtreſſes.

20 He ſent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their deſtructions.

21 Oh, that men would praiſe the LORD for his goodneſs, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

22 And let them ſacrifice the ſacrifices of thankſgiving, and declare his works with rejoicing.

23 They that go down to the ſea in ſhips, that do buſineſs in great waters;

24 Theſe ſee the works of the LORD, and his wonders in the deep.

25 For he commandeth, and raiſeth the ſtormy wind, which lifteth up the waves thereof.

26 They mount up to the heaven, they go down again to the depths: their ſoul is melted becauſe of trouble.

27 They reel to and fro, and ſtagger like a drunken man, and are at their wit's end.

28 Then they cry unto the LORD in their trouble, and he bringeth them out of their diſtreſſes.

29 He maketh the ſtorm a calm, ſo that the waves thereof are ſtill.

30 Then are they glad becauſe they be quiet; ſo he bringeth them unto their deſired haven.

31 Oh, that men would praiſe the LORD for his goodneſs, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!

32 Let them exalt him alſo in the congregation of the people, and praiſe him in the aſſembly of the elders.

33 He turneth rivers into a wilderneſs, and the water-ſprings into dry ground, 34 A fruitful land into barrenneſs, for the wickedneſs of them that dwell therein.

35 He turneth the wilderneſs into a ſtanding water, and dry ground into water-ſprings.

36 And there he maketh the hungry to dwell, that they may prepare a city for habitation;

37 And ſow the fields, and plant vine-yards, which may yield fruits of increaſe.

38 He bleſſeth them alſo, ſo that they are multiplied greatly, and ſuffereth not their cattle to decreaſe.

39 Again they are miniſhed and brought low through oppreſſion, affliction and ſorrow.

40 He poureth contempt upon princes, and cauſeth them to wander in the wilderneſs, where there is no way.

41 Yet ſetteth he the poor on high from affliction, and maketh him families like a flock.

42 The righteous ſhall ſee it, and rejoice: and all iniquity ſhall ſtop her mouth.

43 Whoſo is wiſe, and will obſerve theſe things, even they ſhall underſtand the loving-kindneſs of the LORD.

A ſong or pſalm of David.

moſt High, and the plain dictates of their own conſciences; the voice of heaven giving them the moſt wholeſome counſel, though they contemned and deſpiſed it; and thereby provoked him to render their condition truly miſerable, to humble their pride by a tedious and painful impriſonment, where they had no viſible means of relief. Patrick.

14 He brought them out of darkneſs.] He releaſed them from their melancholy habitation, freeing them from their confinement, and looſing the chains wherewith they were bound. Patrick.

17 Fools, becauſe of their tranſgreſſion, &c.] Others likewiſe giving themſelves up to all kinds of debauchery, in an irregular way of living, fall into grievous diſeaſes.

27 are at their wit's end.] This moſt noble deſcription of the dangers of a ſea-faring life, is finely ſummed up with this expreſſion, and are at their wit's end: the Hebrew is, all their wiſdom is ſwallowed up.

Notes on the Hundred and Eighth Pſalm.

The former part of this pſalm is nearly the ſame with the five laſt verſes of the fifty-ſeventh, and the latter part is but very little

O God, my heart is fixed, I wiill ſing and give praiſe, even with my glory.

2 Awake, pſaltery and harp: I my ſelf will awake early.

3 I will praiſe thee, O LORD, among the people: and I will ſing praiſes unto thee among the nations.

4 For thy mercy is great above the heavens: and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds.

5 Be thou exalted, O God above the heavens: and thy glory above all the earth.

6 That thy beloved may be delivered: ſave with thy right hand and anſwer me.

7 God hath ſpoken in his holineſs; I will rejoice: I will divide Shechem, and mete out the valley of Succoth.

8 Gilead is mine, Manaſſeh is mine; Ephraim alſo is the ſtrength of mine head: Judah is my law-giver;

9 Moab is my waſh-pot; over Edom will I caſt out my ſhoe: over Philiſtia will I triumph.

10 Who will bring me into the ſtrong city? who will lead me into Edom?

11 Wilt not thou, O God, who haſt caſt us off? and wilt not thou, O God, go forth with our hoſts?

12 Give us help from trouble: for vain is the help of man.

13 Through God we ſhall do valiantly: for he it is that ſhall tread down our enemies.

1 David complaining of his ſlanderous enemies, under the perſon of Judas, devoteth them. 16 He ſheweth their ſin. 21 Complaining of his own miſery, he prayeth for help. 30 He promiſeth thankfulneſs.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

HOLD not thy peace, O God of my praiſe;

2 For the mouth of the wicked, and the mouth of the deceitful are opened againſt me: they have ſpoken againſt me with a lying tongue.

3 They compaſſed me about alſo with words of hatred; and fought againſt me without a cauſe.

4 For my love, they are my adverſaries: but I give my ſelf unto prayer.

5 And they have rewarded me evil for good, and hatred for my love.

6 Set thou a wicked man over him: and let Satan ſtand at his right hand.

7 When he ſhall be judged, let him be condemned: and let his prayer become ſin.

8 Let his days be few; and let another take his office.

9 Let his children be fatherleſs, and his wife a widow.

10 Let his children be continually vagabonds, and beg: let them ſeek their bread alſo out of their deſolate places.

11 Let the extortioner catch all that he hath; and let the ſtranger ſpoil his labour.

12 Let there be none to extend mercy unto him: neither let there be any to favour his fatherleſs children.

13 Let his poſterity be cut off; and in the generation following let their name be blotted out.

14 Let the iniquity of his fathers be remembered with the LORD, and let not the ſin of his mother be blotted out.

little different from the eight laſt verſes of the ſixtieth pſalm: written by David when he had made ſome progreſs in the wars mentioned in the ſixtieth pſalm; and therefore he begins this with giving thanks to God for his mercy, as there he laments the diſorder in which he found the affairs of the kingdom, when he firſt aſcended the throne. Patrick.

Ver. 4 For thy mercy is great above the heavens: and thy truth reacheth unto the clouds.] For my thankfulneſs ſhould ſurely be as boundleſs as thy mercy, which is greater than the heavens; is more extenſive and unbounded in its gracious exerciſe, than theſe illimitable tracts of air, the ſea and firmament; pardoning crimes of the moſt enormous ſize, and moſt horrid aggravations: and is only equalled by thy faithfulneſs and truth. Hervey.

9 Moab is my waſh-pot.] See note on pſalm lx. ver. 8.

Over Edom will I caſt out my ſhoe.] Caſting the ſhoe upon a piece of ground, I apprehend to be the antient form of taking poſſeſſion among the Jews, alluding perhaps to that promiſe of God to Iſrael, Deut. xi. 24. Every place whereon the ſoles of your feet ſhall tread, ſhall be yours.

Notes on the Hundred and Ninth Pſalm.

What diſtreſs have thouſands of ſerious and thinking men felt, in reading this pſalm; in which it is generally ſuppoſed that David uttered ſuch curſes upon his enemies; and yet when the pſalm is conſidered, it clearly contains the curſes of David's enemies upon David. For the curſes are not againſt many, but one perſon only: and beſides, both in the beginning and end of the pſalm, David complains of the dreadful things ſpoken againſt him by others, ver. 2, 3, and 28. Sykes.

Ver. 1 Hold not thy peace, O God of my praiſe.] Be not ſilent, O thou mighty God of Jacob, but vindicate my honour; I appeal to thy majeſty, beſeeching thee to declare my innocence.

that he may cut off the memory of them from the earth.

16 Becauſe that he remembered not to ſhew mercy, but perſecuted the poor and needy man, that he might even ſlay the broken in heart.

17 As he loved curſing, ſo let it come unto him: as he delighted not in bleſſing, ſo let it be far from him.

18 As he clothed himſelf with curſing like as with his garment, ſo let it come into his bowels like water, and like oil into his bones.

19 Let it be unto him as the garment which covereth him, and for a girdle wherewith he is girded continually.

20 Let this be the reward of mine adverſaries from the LORD, and of them that ſpeak evil againſt my ſoul.

21 But do thou for me, O God the Lord, for thy name's ſake: becauſe thy mercy is good, deliver thou me.

22 For I am poor and needy, and my heart is wounded within me.

23 I am gone like the ſhadow when it declineth: I am toſſed up and down as the locuſt.

24 My knees are weak through faſting; and my fleſh faileth of fatneſs.

25 I became alſo a reproach unto them: when they looked upon me they ſhaked their heads.

26 Help me, O LORD my God: O ſave me according to thy mercy:

27 That they may know that this is thy hand, that thou LORD, haſt done it.

28 Let them curſe, but bleſs thou: when they ariſe, let them be aſhamed; but let thy ſervant rejoice.

29 Let mine adverſaries be clothed with ſhame, and let them cover themſelves with their own confuſion as with a mantle.

30 I will greatly praiſe the LORD with my mouth; yea, I will praiſe him among the multitude.

31 For he ſhall ſtand at the right hand of the poor, to ſave him from thoſe that condemn his ſoul.

PSALM CX.

1 The kingdom, 4 the prieſthood, 5 the conqueſt, 7 and the paſſion of Chriſt.

A pſalm of David.

THE LORD ſaid unto my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footſtool.

2 The LORD ſhall ſend the rod of thy ſtrength out of Zion: rule thou in the midſt of thine enemies.

3 Thy people ſhall be willing in the day of thy power, in the beauties of holineſs from the 18 Like oil into his bones.] There is nothing more pernicious to a naked bone, than to put oil, or any other moiſture upon it, which will cauſe a miſerable corruption therein: on which account it is, that the moſt ſkilful ſurgeons, in treating about the diſeaſes of the bones, do moſt carefully warn their readers againſt the ſame. Nieuwentyt.

20 Let this be the reward of mine adverſaries.] Perhaps it may be objected, that in this verſe David ſeems to make theſe curſes his own: but as there is no word here expreſſive of a wiſh in the Hebrew, perhaps the words ſhould be rendered, This is the behaviour of mine adverſaries, with reſpect to Jehovah; or, before Jehovah. Kennicott.

23 Toſſed up and down as the locuſt.] The ſwarms of locuſts are ſo numerous in Barbary, that they fly in the air like a ſucceſſion of clouds. When the wind blows briſkly, ſo that the ſwarms are croſſed by others, and thrown one upon another, we have a lively idea of that compariſon in the pſalmiſt of being toſſed up and down, &c. Shaw.

Notes on the Hundred and Tenth Pſalm.

It is abundantly evident, that the royal prophet here ſpeaks of ſome perſon much greater than himſelf, whom he calls his Lord, and this can be no other than the great Meſſiah, the Redeemer of the human race; for no other king can, in any ſenſe, be ſaid to ſit at God's right hand: nor was there any prieſt of the order of Melchizedek that could be a type of him. Patrick.

Ver. 1 The Lord ſaid unto my Lord, ſit thou at my right hand, &c.] This is the decree of God himſelf, that the Meſſiah whom we expect, and whom I honour as my Lord and maſter, ſhall, after his ſufferings, be advanced to the higheſt dignity in the heavens; and reign with him as the ſovereign of all the earth, till he hath perfectly ſubdued the moſt powerful oppoſers of his kingdom, and overcome even death itſelf, by whom all mankind are conquered. Patrick.

2 The Lord ſhall ſend the rod of thy ſtrength out of Zion, &c.] The eternal God, who hath thus decreed to honour thee, O moſt mighty Prince, will firſt make Sion feel the power of thy ſceptre, and thence extend thy empire over all the earth; where thou ſhalt prevail over infidelity, idolatry, ſuperſtition, and impiety, which will all oppoſe thy authority. Patrick.

3 Thy people ſhall be willing in the day of thy power, &c.] This verſe is extremely difficult, and has produced explanations ſtill more difficult than the text itſelf.—I ſhall here give the natural and plain tranſlation of them which we owe to Bochius; Thy troops ſhall be willing, when thou raiſeſt thy army in thy glorious ſanctuary; thou haſt ſhone like the morning, from thy very birth; thy youth has been covered with dew; i. e. thoſe that fight under thy banner, being ready armed, ſhall march forth to ſubdue the world unto thy obedience.—The light of thy goſpel has ſhone brighter than the morning, after the dull night of ignorance; innumerable multitudes have come over to thee at thy firſt appearance, innumerable as the pearly drops of morning dew.

womb of the morning: thou haſt the dew of thy youth.

4 The LORD hath ſworn, and will not repent, Thou art a prieſt for ever after the order of Melchizedek.

5 The LORD at thy right hand ſhall ſtrike through kings in the day of his wrath.

6 He ſhall judge among the heathen, he ſhall fill the places with the dead bodies: he ſhall wound the heads over many countries.

7 He ſhall drink of the brook in the way: therefore ſhall he lift up the head.

PSAL. CXI.

1 The pſalmiſt by his example exciteth others to praiſe God for his glorious, 5 and gracious works.

PRAISE ye the LORD. I will praiſe the LORD with my whole heart, in the aſſembly of the upright, and in the congregation.

2 The works of the LORD are great, ſought out of all them that have pleaſure therein.

3 His work is honourable and glorious, and his righteouſneſs endureth for ever.

4 He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered; the LORD is gracious and full of compaſſion.

5 He hath given meat unto them that fear him: he will ever be mindful of his covenant.

6 He hath ſhewed his people the power of his works, that he may give them the heritage of the heathen.

7 The works of his hands are verity and judgement: all his commandments are ſure.

8 They ſtand faſt for ever and ever, and are done in truth and uprightneſs.

9 He ſent redemption unto his people: he hath commanded his covenant for ever: holy and reverend is his name.

10 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wiſdom: a good underſtanding have all they that do his commandments: his praiſe endureth for ever.

PSAL. CXII.

1 Godlineſs hath the promiſes of this life, 4 and of the life to come. 10 The proſperity of the godly ſhall be an eye-ſore to the wicked.

PRaiſe ye the LORD. Bleſſed is the man that feareth the LORD, that delighteth greatly in his commandments.

2 His ſeed ſhall be mighty upon earth: the generation of the upright ſhall be bleſſed.

3 Wealth and riches ſhall be in his houſe: and his righteouſneſs endureth for ever.

4 Unto the upright there ariſeth light in the

---

4 Thou art a prieſt for ever, after the order of Melchizedek.] The Lord hath unchangeably reſolved, that thou ſhalt be a prieſt, as well as a king; with full power to bleſs all thy ſubjects, not only in that age, but even to all eternity: for thou ſhalt be a prieſt, not like thoſe deſcended from Aaron, who die, and are ſucceeded by others; but, like that great king and prieſt Melchizedek, ſhalt have neither predeceſſor or ſucceſſor in thine office; but continue a royal prieſt for evermore. Patrick.

7 He ſhall drink of the brook in the way, &c.] Among the various interpretations that are given of this difficult paſſage, it would be very fortunate to hit upon the only true one; the following ſeems very ingenious and pious, and is tranſcribed from a note in Mr. Hervey's Meditations. May not the paſſage allude to the influences of the Holy Ghoſt? which were communicated, in unmeaſurable degrees to our great high-prieſt; and were in fact the cauſe of his ſurmounting all difficulties. Theſe are frequently repreſented by waters: Whoſo believeth on me, out of his belly ſhall flow rivers of living waters. The enjoyment of them is deſcribed by drinking: He that drinketh of the water that I ſhall give him, ſhall never thirſt. Then the ſenſe may run in this perſpicuous manner: "If it ſhould be aſked, How ſhall the Redeemer be able to execute the various and important offices foretold in the preceding parts of the pſalm? The prophet replies, He ſhall drink of the brook in the way." He ſhall not be left barely to his human nature, which muſt unavoidably ſink under the tremendous work of recovering a loſt world; but, through the whole courſe of his incarnate ſtate, through the whole adminiſtration of his mediatorial kingdom, ſhall be ſupported with omnipotent ſuccours. He ſhall drink at the brook of Almighty power, and travel on in the greatneſs of an uncreated ſtrength; therefore ſhall he lift up his head. By this means he ſhall be equal to the prodigious taſk, and ſuperior to all oppoſition. By this means, he ſhall be thoroughly ſucceſsful in whatever he undertakes, and greatly triumphant over all his enemies.

Notes on the Hundred and Eleventh Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed as a compendious remembrance of thoſe mercies David had received from the moſt High, which he had before enumerated more at large in the cvth and cvith pſalms. Patrick.

Ver. 10 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wiſdom, &c.] The principal point of wiſdom is to fear the Lord, and carefully obſerve his ſtatutes: for by practiſing them, a much better underſtanding is obtained than from all the refined maxims of policy. Let the Lord therefore be for ever praiſed, who hath given us theſe good and wholeſome laws, and thereby ſhewn us the way to eternal honour and praiſe. See note on Job xxviii. 28.

Notes on the Hundred and Twelfth Pſalm.

This pſalm was probably wrote by the ſame author with the foregoing, and ſeems to be a commentary on the laſt verſe of it; ſhewing how wiſely they conſult their own happineſs, who obſerve the commands of the Lord, eſpecially thoſe relating to charity, and the love of our neighbour.

Ver.

darkneſs: he is gracious, and full of compaſſion, and righteous.

5 A good man ſheweth favour, and lendeth: he will guide his affairs with diſcretion.

6 Surely he ſhall not be moved for ever: the righteous ſhall be in everlaſting remembrance.

7 He ſhall not be afraid of evil tidings: his heart is fixed, truſting in the LORD.

8 His heart is eſtabliſhed, he ſhall not be afraid, until he ſee his deſire upon his enemies.

9 He hath diſperſed, he hath given to the poor; his righteouſneſs endureth for ever, his horn ſhall be exalted with honour.

10 The wicked ſhall ſee it, and be grieved; he ſhall gnaſh with his teeth, and melt away: the deſire of the wicked ſhall periſh.

PSAL. CXIII.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God for his excellency, 6 and for his mercy.

PRAISE ye the LORD. Praiſe, O ye ſervants of the LORD, praiſe the name of the LORD.

2 Bleſſed be the name of the LORD from this time forth and for evermore.

3 From the riſing of the ſun unto the going down of the ſame the LORD's name is to be praiſed.

4 The LORD is high above all nations, and his glory above the heavens.

5 Who is like unto the LORD our God, who dwelleth on high!

6 Who humbleth himſelf to behold the things that are in heaven, and in the earth!

7 He raiſeth up the poor out of the duſt, and lifteth the needy out of the dunghill;

8 That he may ſet him with princes, even with the princes of his people.

9 He maketh the barren woman to keep houſe, and to be a joyful mother of children. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXIV.

An exhortation, by the example of the dumb creatures, to fear God in his church.

WHEN Iſrael went out of Egypt, the houſe of Jacob from a people of ſtrange language;

2 Judah was his ſanctuary, and Iſrael his dominion.

3 The ſea ſaw it, and fled; Jordan was driven back.

4 The mountains ſkipped like rams, and the little hills like lambs.

5 What ailed thee, O thou ſea, that thou fleddeſt? thou Jordan, that thou waſt driven back?

6 Ye mountains, that ye ſkipped like rams; and ye little hills, like lambs?

7 Tremble, thou earth, at the preſence of the Lord, at the preſence of the God of Jacob:

8 Which turned the rock into a ſtanding water, the flint into a fountain of waters.

PSAL. CXV.

1 Becauſe God is truly glorious, 4 and idols are vanity, 9 the pſalmiſt exhorteth to confidence in God. 12 God is to be praiſed for his bleſſings.

Ver. 9 His righteouſneſs, &c.] Righteouſneſs here ſignifies alms.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm with the five following, were by the Hebrews, called Hallel, or hymns: which they recited at their tables in the new moons and other feaſts, eſpecially in the paſchal night, after they had eaten the lamb; concluding it with Hallelujah, to excite all the people of God, eſpecially thoſe that conſtantly attended in his tabernacle, to praiſe the benevolent providence of the moſt High, which extends to this lower world, and ſupplies the wants of all its inhabitants. Patrick.

Ver. 6 Who humbleth himſelf, &c.] Who condeſcends to extend his kind providence not only to the innumerable worlds which he has eſtabliſhed in the heavens, but alſo to regard this earth with his tutelary care.

Notes on the Hundred and Fourteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm contains a brief narration of ſome miraculous works, whereby the Lord declared his power when he brought the poſterity of Jacob out of Egyptian bondage. There is great beauty in concealing the preſence of God in the beginning of this pſalm, and afterwards by introducing the Deity, diſcovering the reaſon why the mountains leaped, &c.

Ver. 2 Judah was his ſanctuary, &c.] God appeared among them, by a luminous cloud, the token of his preſence; which having then no peculiar place for its ſanctuary, ſtood over the whole camp of Iſrael, whom he conſidered as his peculiar kingdom. Patrick.

4 The mountains ſkipped like rams.] They trembled greatly. See pſalm xxix. 6, and lxviii. 9.

Notes on the Hundred and Fifteenth Pſalm.

Dr. Delany, upon a ſuppoſition that by the blind and the lame, 2 Sam. v. 6, are meant the idols which the Jebuſites worſhipped, ſuppoſes this pſalm to be a triumphal ſong for David's victory over the Jebuſites: it being plainly a hymn of humiliation and thankſgiving to God, for a victory gained over a heathen people, who put their confidence in idols, and deſpiſed the God of David.

Ver.

NOT unto us, O LORD, not unto us, but unto thy name give glory, for thy mercy, and for thy truth's ſake.

2 Wherefore ſhould the heathen ſay, Where is now their God?

3 But our God is in the heavens: he hath done whatſoever he pleaſed.

4 Their idols are ſilver and gold, the work of men's hands.

5 They have mouths, but they ſpeak not; eyes have they, but they ſee not:

6 They have ears, but they hear not; noſes have they, but they ſmell not:

7 They have hands, but they handle not; feet have they, but they walk not; neither ſpeak they through their throat.

8 They that make them are like unto them; ſo is every one that truſteth in them.

9 O Iſrael, truſt thou in the LORD: he is their help and their ſhield.

10 O houſe of Aaron, truſt in the LORD: he is their help and their ſhield.

11 Ye that fear the LORD, truſt in the LORD: he is their help and their ſhield.

12 The LORD hath been mindful of us: he will bleſs us: he will bleſs the houſe of Iſrael, he will bleſs the houſe of Aaron.

13 He will bleſs them that fear the LORD, both ſmall and great.

14 The LORD ſhall increaſe you more and more, your and your children.

15 Ye are bleſſed of the LORD, which made heaven and earth.

16 The heaven, even the heavens, are the LORD's: but the earth hath he given to the children of men.

17 The dead praiſe not the LORD, neither any that go down into ſilence.

18 But we will bleſs the LORD from this time forth, and for evermore. Praiſe the LORD.

PSAL. CXVI.

1 The pſalmiſt profeſſes his love and duty to God for his deliverance. 12 He ſtudieth to be thankful.

I Love the LORD, becauſe he hath heard my voice and my ſupplications.

2 Becauſe he hath inclined his ear to me, therefore will I call upon him as long as I live.

3 The ſorrows of death compaſſed me, and the pains of hell gat hold upon me: I found trouble and ſorrow.

4 Then called I upon the name of the LORD; O LORD, I beſeech thee, deliver my ſoul.

5 Gracious is the LORD and righteous; yea, our God is merciful.

6 The LORD preſerveth the ſimple: I was brought low, and he helped me.

7 Return unto thy reſt, O my ſoul; for the LORD hath dealt bountifully with thee.

8 For thou haſt delivered my ſoul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling.

9 I will walk before the LORD in the land of the living.

10 I believed, therefore have I ſpoken: I was greatly afflicted.

11 I ſaid in my haſte, All men are lyars.

12 What ſhall I render unto the LORD for all his benefits towards me?

13 I will take the cup of ſalvation, and call upon the name of the LORD.

14 I will pay my vows unto the LORD now in the preſence of all his people.

15 Precious in the ſight of the LORD is the death of his ſaints.

16 O LORD, truly I am thy ſervant; and the ſon of thy handmaid: thou haſt looſed my bonds.

Ver. 17 The dead praiſe not thee, &c.] By the dead are moſt properly characteriſed the Gentile nations; who having no part in God's covenant of redemption, but being eſtranged from him by their idolatries and wickedneſſes, were to be left for ever in the ſtate of death, ſo as never more to riſe to happineſs at leaſt; while God's people hoped for a joyful reſurrection, and a future ſtate of bleſſedneſs. Peters.

Notes on the Hundred and Sixteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm was certainly wrote by David when he fled from his rebellious ſon, and when Ahithophel and others of his friends joined the rebels, and he had nothing to depend upon but the goodneſs of the Almighty, who was pleaſed to plead his cauſe, and deliver him; for which reaſon he reſolved to be truly thankful, and to call upon all his friends to rejoice with him. Patrick.

Ver. 3 The ſorrows of death.] In the Old Tranſlation it is ſnares; the pſalmiſt alludes here to the antient manner of hunting: they uſed to ſurround a conſiderable tract of ground with a circle of nets, and afterwards contracted the circle by degrees, till they had forced all the beaſts of that quarter into a narrow compaſs; and then the ſlaughter began: the ſame cuſtom obtained in Italy.

11 I ſaid in my haſte, all men are liars.] In my flight from Abſalom I ſaid, the arm of fleſh can afford me no relief; men are either deceitful and will not, or impotent, and therefore cannot deliver me from this diſtreſs.

Notes

17 I will offer to thee the ſacrifice of thankſgiving, and will call upon the name of the LORD.
18 I will pay my vows unto the LORD now in the preſence of all his people,
19 In the courts of the LORD's houſe, in the midſt of thee, O Jeruſalem. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXVII.

An exhortation to praiſe God for his mercy and truth.

O Praiſe the LORD, all ye nations: praiſe him, all ye people.
2 For his merciful kindneſs is great toward us: and the truth of the LORD endureth for ever. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXVIII.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God for his mercy. 5 The pſalmiſt ſheweth how good it is to truſt in God. 19 The coming of Chriſt's kingdom typified.

O Give thanks unto the LORD; for he is good: becauſe his mercy endureth for ever.
2 Let Iſrael now ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.
3 Let the houſe of Aaron now ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.
4 Let them now that fear the LORD ſay, that his mercy endureth for ever.
5 I called upon the LORD in diſtreſs: the LORD anſwered me, and ſet me in a large place.
6 The LORD is on my ſide: I will not fear. What can man do unto me.
7 The LORD taketh my part with them that help me: therefore ſhall I ſee my deſire upon them that hate me.
8 It is better to truſt in the LORD than to put confidence in man.
9 It is better to truſt in the LORD than to put confidence in princes.
10 All nations compaſſed me about: but in the name of the LORD will I deſtroy them.
11 They compaſſed me about; yea, they compaſſed me about: but in the name of the LORD I will deſtroy them.
12 They compaſſed me about like bees; they are quenched as the fire of thorns: for in the name of the LORD I will deſtroy them.
13 Thou haſt thruſt ſore at me that I might fall: but the LORD helped me.
14 The LORD is my ſtrength and ſong, and is become my ſalvation.
15 The voice of rejoicing and ſalvation is in the tabernacles of the righteous: the right hand of the LORD doeth valiantly.
16 The right hand of the LORD is exalted: the right hand of the LORD doeth valiantly.
17 I ſhall not die, but live, and declare the works of the LORD.
18 The LORD hath chaſtened me ſore: but he hath not given me over unto death.
19 Open to me the gates of righteouſneſs: I will go into them, and I will praiſe the LORD:
20 This is the gate of the LORD, into which the righteous ſhall enter.

Notes on the Hundred and Seventeenth Pſalm.

This pſalm, like the cxth, ſeems to be altogether prophetical of the joy that all the world ſhould conceive at the coming of the Meſſiah, to give ſalvation to the Jews firſt, and afterwards to all the nations of the earth, according to his faithful promiſe. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Eighteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm was compoſed by David after God had ſettled him on the throne of Iſrael as well as Judah, and ſubdued all his enemies round about him. Several paſſages of it relate to the Meſſiah, and were never fulfilled till our great Redeemer was made king of the world. It ſeems to have been pronounced or ſung alternately by the king and the people; all the firſt part by David; at the 19th ver. he calls upon the porters to open the gates, that he might praiſe God in his ſanctuary, which he does at the 20th and 21ſt verſes---the 22d, 23d, and 24th are ſung by the people, who magnify the Divine goodneſs in making him who was baniſhed from his country, their king: the 25th ſeems to be ſung by David. At the 26th and 27th, the prieſts come forth, and bleſs both the king and the people in the name of the Lord, and exhort them to be thankful---Then David, at the 28th and 29th declares that he will never be unmindful of God's benefits, deſiring the people alſo to remember them. Patrick.

Ver. 12 They compaſſed me about like bees.] Homer has the ſame image:

———The following hoſt,
Pour'd forth in millions, darken all the coaſt:
As from ſome rocky cleft the ſhepherd ſees,
Cluſtering in heaps on heaps, the driving bees;
Rolling and black'ning, ſwarms ſucceeding ſwarms,
With deeper murmurs, and more hoarſe alarms:
Duſky they ſpread, a cloſe embody'd croud;
And o'er the vale deſcends the living cloud:
So from the tents, &c. Pope, Iliad II.

They are quenched as the fire of thorns.] This and the foregoing ſentence are by a notorious blunder connected in the Liturgy tranſlation, as if they were one, whereas they are two very diſtinct and beautiful images.

21 I will praiſe thee: for thou haſt heard me, and art become my ſalvation.

22 The ſtone which the builders refuſed is become the head-ſtone of the corner.

23 This is the LORD's doing; it is marvellous in our eyes.

24 This is the day which the LORD hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it.

25 Save now, I beſeech thee, O LORD: O LORD I beſeech thee, ſend now proſperity.

26 Bleſſed be he that cometh in the name of the LORD: we have bleſſed you out of the houſe of the LORD.

27 God is the LORD, which hath ſhewed us light: bind the ſacrifices with cords even unto the horns of the altar.

28 Thou art my God, and I will praiſe thee: thou art my God, I will exalt thee.

29 O Give thanks unto the LORD; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

PSAL. CXIX.

This pſalm containeth ſundry prayers, praiſes, and profeſſions of obedience.

ALEPH.

BLeſſed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the LORD.

2 Bleſſed are they that keep his teſtimonies, and that ſeek him with the whole heart.

3 They alſo do no iniquity: they walk in his ways.

4 Thou haſt commanded us to keep thy precepts diligently.

5 O that my ways were directed to keep thy ſtatutes!

6 Then ſhall I not be aſhamed, when I have reſpect unto all thy commandments.

7 I will praiſe thee with uprightneſs of heart, when I ſhall have learned thy righteous judgements.

8 I will keep thy ſtatutes: O forſake me not utterly.

BETH.

9 Wherewith ſhall a young man cleanſe his way? by taking heed thereto according to thy word.

10 With my whole heart have I ſought thee: O let me not wander from thy commandments.

11 Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not ſin againſt thee.

12 Bleſſed art thou, O LORD: teach me thy ſtatutes.

13 With my lips have I declared all the judgements of thy mouth.

14 I have rejoiced in the way of thy teſtimonies as much as in all riches.

15 I will meditate in thy precepts, and have reſpect unto thy ways.

16 I will delight my ſelf in thy ſtatutes: I will not forget thy word.

GIMEL.

17 Deal bountifully with thy ſervant, that I may live, and keep thy word.

18 Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.

19 I am a ſtranger in the earth: hide not thy commandments from me.

20 My ſoul breaketh for the longing that it hath unto thy judgements at all times.

---

22 The ſtone which the builders refuſed, is become the head ſtone of the corner.] He whom the great men and rulers of the people rejected, is now become our king and our ſaviour, and in him alone we muſt hope for ſafety. Patrick.

27 Bind the ſacrifice with cords, even to the horns of the altar.] Septuagint and Vulgate, Keep the feaſt with thick boughs (brought as far as) to the horns of the altar. There was no ſuch cuſtom as tying the ſacrifice that was to be killed to the horns of the altar. Hammond and Boſs.

Notes on the Hundred and Nineteenth Pſalm.

This pſalm, of which David was confeſſedly the author, is written with great art; for it is not only divided into as many parts as there are letters in the Hebrew alphabet, but alſo each of theſe parts into eight verſes; each of which, in the original, begins with the ſame letter that forms the title of the part. For inſtance, all the eight verſes in the firſt part termed Aleph, begin with an Aleph or A; and thoſe in the ſecond with a Beth or B, &c. And hence this pſalm is, in the Maſſora, ſtiled the great Alphabet. But notwithſtanding the pains the royal author muſt have taken in the compoſition of this pſalm, it appears, from ſeveral paſſages in it, that it was written during the perſecution of Saul. It muſt, however, be obſerved, that David had many intervals of reſt in that period; and theſe, it is natural to think, he employed in meditating on the goodneſs and mercy of the Almighty, the excellency of his laws, and the happineſs of thoſe who make them the conduct of their lives: and in theſe meditations, the pſalm under conſideration ſeems to have been compoſed. Patrick.

Ver. 3 They alſo do no iniquity, &c.] Liturgy reads, For they who do no wickedneſs walk in his ways.

18 Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.] Illuminate mine underſtanding, O thou great preſerver of men, that I may clearly diſcern the admirable wiſdom which appears in thy law. Patrick.

21 Thou haſt rebuked the proud that are curſed, which do err from thy commandments.

22 Remove from me reproach and contempt: for I have kept thy teſtimonies.

23 Princes alſo did ſit and ſpeak againſt me: but thy ſervant did meditate in thy ſtatutes.

24 Thy teſtimonies alſo are my delight, and my counſellers.

D A L E T H.

25 My ſoul cleaveth unto the duſt: quicken thou me according to thy word.

26 I have declared my ways, and thou heardeſt me: teach me thy ſtatutes.

27 Make me to underſtand the way of thy precepts: ſo ſhall I talk of thy wondrous works.

28 My ſoul melteth for heavineſs: ſtrengthen thou me according unto thy word.

29 Remove from me the way of lying: and grant me thy law graciouſly.

30 I have choſen the way of truth: thy judgements have I laid before me.

31 I have ſtuck unto thy teſtimonies: O LORD, put me not to ſhame.

32 I will run the way of thy commandments, when thou ſhalt enlarge my heart.

H E.

33 Teach me, O LORD, the way of thy ſtatutes, and I ſhall keep it unto the end.

34 Give me underſtanding, and I ſhall keep thy law; yea, I ſhall obſerve it with my whole heart.

35 Make me to go in the path of thy commandments: for therein do I delight.

36 Incline my heart unto thy teſtimonies, and not to covetouſneſs.

37 Turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity; and quicken thou me in thy way.

38 Stabliſh thy word unto thy ſervant, who is devoted to thy fear.

39 Turn away my reproach which I fear: for thy judgements are good.

40 Behold, I have longed after thy precepts: quicken me in thy righteouſneſs.

V A U.

41 Let thy mercies come alſo unto me, O LORD, even thy ſalvation, according to thy word.

42 So ſhall I have wherewith to anſwer him that reproacheth me: for I truſt in thy word.

43 And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth: for I have hoped in thy judgements.

44 So ſhall I keep thy law continually, for ever and ever.

45 And I will walk at liberty: for I ſeek thy precepts.

46 I will ſpeak of thy teſtimonies alſo before kings, and will not be aſhamed.

47 And I will delight my ſelf in thy commandments, which I have loved.

48 My hands alſo will I lift up unto thy commandments, which I have loved; and I will meditate in thy ſtatutes.

Z A I N.

49 Remember the word unto thy ſervant, upon which thou haſt cauſed me to hope.

50 This is my comfort in my affliction: for thy word hath quickened me.

51 The proud have had me greatly in deriſion: yet have I not declined from thy law.

52 I remembered thy judgements of old, O LORD; and have comforted my ſelf.

53 Horror hath taken hold upon me, becauſe of the wicked that forſake thy law.

54 Thy ſtatutes have been my ſongs in the houſe of my pilgrimage.

55 I have remembered thy name, O LORD, in the night, and have kept thy law.

56 This I had, becauſe I kept thy precepts.

C H E T H.

57 Thou art my portion, O LORD: I have ſaid that I would keep thy words.

58 I intreated thy favour with my whole heart? be merciful unto me according to thy word.

29 Remove from me the way of lying.] Far be all fraud and falſhood from me, whereby mine enemies contrive to undo me.

32 I will run the way of thy commandments, when thou ſhalt enlarge my heart.] When thou haſt delivered me from my perſecutors, I will render thee better ſervice; and more chearfully perform all thy commandments. Patrick.

52 I have remembered thy judgements of old.] I have called to mind in all foregoing ages, that thou haſt ſuffered good men to fall into great calamities, to make them more illuſtrious through ſufferings, and therefore have comforted myſelf.

55 I have remembered thy name, O Lord, in the night.] When others were buried in ſleep and ſilence, I have been meditating on thy goodneſs, thy power, and thy truth, reſolving with myſelf ſtill to keep thy laws. Patrick.

56 This I had, &c.] i. e. This ſweet compoſure of mind and chearfulneſs of ſpirits.

59 I thought on my ways, and turned my feet unto thy teſtimonies.

60 I made haſte and delayed not to keep thy commandments.

61 The bands of the wicked have robbed me: but I have not forgotten thy law.

62 At midnight I will riſe to give thanks unto thee, becauſe of thy righteous judgements.

63 I am a companion of all them that fear thee, and of them that keep thy precepts.

64 The earth, O LORD, is full of thy mercy: teach me thy ſtatutes.

TETH.

65 Thou haſt dealt well with thy ſervant, O LORD, according unto thy word.

66 Teach me good judgement and knowledge: for I have believed thy commandments.

67 Before I was afflicted, I went aſtray: but now have I kept thy word.

68 Thou art good, and doeſt good; teach me thy ſtatutes.

69 The proud have forged a lye againſt me: but I will keep thy precepts with my whole heart.

70 Their heart is as fat as greaſe; but I delight in thy law.

71 It is good for me that I have been afflicted: that I might learn thy ſtatutes.

72 The law of thy mouth is better unto me than thouſands of gold and ſilver.

JOD.

73 Thy hands have made me and faſhioned me: give me underſtanding, that I may learn thy commandments.

74 They that fear thee, will be glad when they ſee me; becauſe I have hoped in thy word.

75 I know, O LORD, that thy judgements are right, and that thou in faithfulneſs haſt afflicted me.

76 Let, I pray thee, thy merciful kindneſs be for my comfort, according to thy word unto thy ſervant.

77 Let thy tender mercies come unto me, that I may live: for thy law is my delight.

78 Let the proud be aſhamed; for they dealt perverſly with me without a cauſe: but I will meditate in thy precepts.

79 Let thoſe that fear thee turn unto me, and thoſe that have known thy teſtimonies.

80 Let my heart be ſound in thy ſtatutes; that I be not aſhamed.

CAPH.

81 My ſoul fainteth for thy ſalvation; but I hope in thy word.

82 Mine eyes fail for thy word, ſaying, When wilt thou comfort me?

83 For I am become like a bottle in the ſmoke; yet do I not forget thy ſtatutes.

84 How many are the days of thy ſervant? when wilt thou execute judgement on them that perſecute me?

85 The proud have digged pits for me, which are not after thy law.

86 All thy commandments are faithful: they perſecute me wrongfully; help thou me.

87 They had almoſt conſumed me upon earth: but I forſook not thy precepts.

88 Quicken me after thy loving-kindneſs; ſo ſhall I keep the teſtimony of thy mouth.

LAMED.

89 For ever, O LORD, thy word is ſettled in heaven.

90 Thy faithfulneſs is unto all generations: thou haſt eſtabliſhed the earth, and it abideth.

61 The bands of the wicked have robbed me.] Septuagint and Vulgate, The cords of the wicked have entangled me.

67 Before I was afflicted, I went aſtray: but now have I kept thy word.] I muſt confeſs, that before I was acquainted with afflictions, I committed many errors; but ſince I have felt thy loving corrections, I have been more obſervant of thy word. Patrick.

70 Their heart is as fat as greaſe.] This paſſage is rightly tranſlated in the Greek, Latin, and Syriac; Their heart is curdled like milk, i. e. grown ſour and diſagreeable: it is very improperly rendered in the Liturgy, as fat as brawn; becauſe ſwine's fleſh not being eaten among the Jews, they could have no knowledge of brawn. Pilkington.

81 My ſoul fainteth for thy ſalvation, but I hope in thy word.] I have waited ſo many years for deliverance from all mine enemies, that I am ſometimes ready to faint away with vehement deſire, to ſee thy long expected promiſes fulfilled. Patrick.

83 I am become like a bottle in the ſmoke.] My ſkin is ſhrivelled up like a bottle that has long hung in the ſmoke: their bottles were made of leather.

84 How many are the days of thy ſervant, &c.] How long time is appointed for theſe preſſures to lie upon me? Hammond.

88 Quicken me after thy loving-kindneſs, &c.] Deal kindly with me, O Lord, and raiſe me from this forlorn ſtate, wherein I lie like a man that is dead, and I will endeavour the more carefully to obſerve thy teſtimonies. Patrick.

91 They continue this day according to thine ordinances: for all are thy ſervants.

92 Unleſs thy law had been my delights, I ſhould then have periſhed in mine affliction.

93 I will never forget thy precepts: for with them thou haſt quickened me.

94 I am thine, ſave me: for I have ſought thy precepts.

95 The wicked have waited for me to deſtroy me: but I will conſider thy teſtimonies.

96 I have ſeen an end of all perfection: but thy commandment is exceeding broad.

M E M.

97 O how love I thy law! it is my meditation all the day.

98 Thou through thy commandments haſt made me wiſer than mine enemies: for they are ever with me.

99 I have more underſtanding than all my teachers: for thy teſtimonies are my meditation.

100 I underſtand more than the ancients, becauſe I keep thy precepts.

101 I have reſtrained my feet from every evil way, that I might keep thy word.

102 I have not departed from thy judgements: for thou haſt taught me.

103 How ſweet are thy words unto my taſte! yea ſweeter than honey to my mouth.

104 Through thy precepts I get underſtanding: therefore I hate every falſe way.

N U N.

105 Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.

106 I have ſworn, and I will perform it, that I will keep thy righteous judgements.

107 I am afflicted very much: quicken me, O LORD, according unto thy word.

108 Accept, I beſeech thee, the free-will-offerings of my mouth, O LORD, and teach me thy judgments.

109 My ſoul is continually in my hand: yet do I not forget thy law.

110 The wicked have laid a ſnare for me: yet I erred not from thy precepts.

111 Thy teſtimonies have I taken as an heritage for ever: for they are the rejoicing of my heart.

112 I have inclined mine heart to perform thy ſtatutes alway, even unto the end.

S A M E C H.

113 I hate vain thoughts: but thy law do I love.

114 Thou art my hiding-place and my ſhield: I hope in thy word.

115 Depart from me, ye evil-doers: for I will keep the commandments of my God.

116 Uphold me according unto thy word, that I may live: and let me not be aſhamed of my hope.

117 Hold thou me up, and I ſhall be ſafe: and I will have reſpect unto thy ſtatutes continually.

118 Thou haſt trodden down all them that err from thy ſtatutes: for their deceit is falſhood.

119 Thou putteſt away all the wicked of the earth like droſs: therefore I love thy teſtimonies.

120 My fleſh trembleth for fear of thee, and I am afraid of thy judgements.

163 I hate and abhor lying.] Septuagint and Vulgate, I hate and abhor iniquity.

164 Seven times a day do I praiſe thee: becauſe of thy righteous judgments.] It is the ſubject of my perpetual thanks and praiſe, that I have the happineſs of being acquainted with the juſtice and goodneſs of thoſe laws by which thou governeſt the ſons of Jacob. Patrick.

175, 176 Let my ſoul live, and it ſhall praiſe thee, &c.] O ſpare my life, and I will devote it to thy praiſe: ſend me relief, by executing the judgments thou haſt decreed againſt mine enemies, who have chaſed me from place to place, during this tedious baniſhment, that, like a wandering ſheep which hath loſt its way, I know not whither to betake myſelf for ſafety: but be thou pleaſed, O thou watchful guardian of Iſrael, like a careful ſhepherd, to protect me, and place me in the right way of eſcaping all the dangers to which I am expoſed, and of once more recovering my liberty, reſt, and peace: for however hard my condition hath been, I have not been careleſs in the obſervance of thy commandments. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Twentieth Pſalm.

It is impoſſible to know with any certainty, why this, and the fourteen following pſalms, were called Songs of degrees, or ſteps. But the moſt probable conjecture is, that they were ſo denominated from the excellence of the compoſition, or the high eſteem the Hebrews entertained for them on ſome particular occaſion. However that be, this pſalm ſeems to have been written by David, when the calumnies of Doeg, and other wicked perſons, forced him to fly into the deſerts for ſafety, and even to go into the country of the Kedarens, or Arabians, whoſe company was very diſagreeable to him. We do not indeed find any accounts of his being in the tents of Kedar, in the hiſtory of this perſecution; but it is very natural to think he ſought for ſafety in more places than are there particularly mentioned; and might have viſited the tents of Kedar, as well as the land of the Moabites, and the wilderneſs of Paran, near which theſe tents were pitched. Patrick.

Ver. 3, 4 Thou falſe tongue? Sharp arrows, &c.] O thou falſe accuſer, the Lord ſhall take a fierce vengeance upon thee, till he hath utterly conſumed thee.

5 Wo is me, that I ſojourn in Meſech.] The word Meſech does not imply a place, but a ſpace of time, and ſhould be rendered, Wo is me, that I ſojourn ſo long in the tents of Kedar.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-firſt Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written by David, when he was obliged to fly from Jeruſalem to avoid the army of his rebellious ſon. It will appear much more intelligible, if, like ſeveral others, we ſuppoſe it to have been ſung alternately by the king and prieſts: David takes the firſt part.

Ver.

I Will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help.

2 My help cometh from the LORD, which made heaven and earth.

3 He will not ſuffer thy foot to be moved: he that keepeth thee will not ſlumber.

4 Behold, he that keepeth Iſrael will neither ſlumber nor ſleep.

5 The LORD is thy keeper; the LORD is thy ſhade upon thy right hand.

6 The ſun ſhall not ſmite thee by day, nor the moon by night.

7 The LORD ſhall preſerve thee from all evil: he ſhall preſerve thy ſoul.

8 The LORD ſhall preſerve thy going-out and thy coming-in from this time forth and even for evermore.

PSAL. CXXII.

1 David profeſſeth his joy for the church, 6 and prayeth for the peace thereof.

A ſong of degrees.

I Was glad when they ſaid unto me, Let us go into the houſe of the LORD.

2 Our feet ſhall ſtand within thy gates, O Jeruſalem.

3 Jeruſalem is builded as a city that is compact together:

4 Whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the LORD, unto the teſtimony of Iſrael, to give thanks unto the name of the LORD.

5 For there are ſet thrones of judgement, the thrones of the houſe of David.

6 Pray for the peace of Jeruſalem: they ſhall proſper that love thee.

7 Peace be within thy walls, and proſperity within thy palaces.

8 For my brethren and companions ſakes I will now ſay, Peace be within thee.

9 Becauſe of the houſe of the LORD our God, I will ſeek thy good.

PSAL. CXXIII.

1 The godly profeſs their confidence in God, 3 and pray to be delivered from contempt.

A ſong of degrees.

UNTO thee lift I up mine eyes, O thou that dwelleſt in the heavens.

2 Behold, as the eyes of ſervants look unto the hand of their maſters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her miſtreſs; ſo our eyes wait upon the LORD our God, until that he have mercy upon us.

3 Have mercy upon us, O LORD, have mercy upon us: for we are exceedingly filled with contempt.

4 Our ſoul is exceedingly filled with the ſcorning of thoſe that are at eaſe, and with the contempt of the proud.

PSAL. CXXIV.

The church bleſſeth God for a miraculous deliverance.

A ſong of degrees of David.

Ver. 1. I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help.] Though I am obliged to fly from mine own palace, and even from the dwelling-place of the moſt High; yet mine eyes ſhall be ever directed towards the hills of Sion, from whence I expect a powerful aſſiſtance againſt thoſe numerous enemies that are combined to deſtroy me. Patrick.

5 The Lord is my keeper: the Lord is thy ſhade upon thy right hand.] Omnipotence himſelf is thy guardian: the ſame Almighty Being who covered thy forefathers with a glorious cloud, is always preſent with thee to defend and aſſiſt thee againſt all the aſſaults of thine enemies. Patrick.

6 Nor the moon by night.] The verb in the Liturgy is burn.

——— the parching air
Burns frore, and cold performs th' effect of fire.

——Boreæ penetrabile frigus adurat. Newton.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-ſecond Pſalm.

David having ſettled the ark on mount Sion, and being in the country ſome time before one of their ſolemn feſtivals, heard the people inviting one another to join in their company, to viſit the dwelling-place of the God of Jacob, and pay him the tribute of praiſe and thankſgiving. This pleaſing incident inſpired the royal prophet to compoſe this pſalm for their uſe on theſe ſolemn occaſions. Patrick.

Ver. 1 I was glad when they ſaid unto me, let us, &c.] I was exceedingly delighted with the chearful devotion of thoſe who came to me before the approaching feaſt, and ſaid, Let us go and pay our thankful acknowledgments to the Lord, in the place where he dwells viſibly among us. Patrick.

3 Jeruſalem is builded as a city that is compact, &c.] Jeruſalem was the centre of union to all the tribes.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-third Pſalm.

This pſalm was doubtleſs written in a time of great diſtreſs, when ſome great and inſolent enemy threatened to levy the walls of Jeruſalem with the duſt; but the particular occaſion is not known. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-fourth Pſalm.

This pſalm was written by David, after ſome remarkable victory over a numerous hoſt of his enemies; perhaps the Philiſtines, when they ſpread themſelves in the valley of Rephaim, 2 Sam. v. 19. or the Ammonites and their aſſociates, 2 Sam. x. 6, 15, 16. Patrick.

Notes

IF it had not been the LORD who was on our ſide, now may Iſrael ſay;

2 If it had not been the LORD who was on our ſide, when men aroſe up againſt us:

3 Then they had ſwallowed us up quick, when their wrath was kindled againſt us:

4 Then the waters had overwhelmed us, the ſtream had gone over our ſoul:

5 Then the proud waters had gone over our ſoul.

6 Bleſſed be the LORD, who hath not given us as a prey to their teeth.

7 Our ſoul is eſcaped as a bird out of the ſnare of the fowlers: the ſnare is broken, and we are eſcaped.

8 Our help is in the name of the LORD, who made heaven and earth.

PSAL. CXXV.

1 The ſafety of ſuch as truſt in God. 4 A prayer for the godly, and againſt the wicked.

A ſong of degrees.

THEY that truſt in the LORD ſhall be as mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth for ever.

2 As the mountains are round about Jeruſalem, ſo the LORD is round about his people from henceforth even for ever.

3 For the rod of the wicked ſhall not reſt upon the lot of the righteous; leſt the righteous put forth their hands unto iniquity.

4 Do good, O LORD, unto thoſe that be good, and to them that are upright in their hearts.

5 As for ſuch as turn aſide unto their crooked ways, the LORD ſhall lead them forth with the workers of iniquity: but peace ſhall be upon Iſrael.

PSAL. CXXVI.

1 The church celebrating her incredible return ou of captivity, 4 prayeth for, and propheſieth the good ſucceſs thereof.

A ſong of degrees.

WHEN the LORD turned again the captivity of Zion, we were like them that dream.

2 Then was our mouth filled with laughter, and our tongue with ſinging: then ſaid they among the heathen, The LORD hath done great things for them.

3 The LORD hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad.

4 Turn again our captivity, O LORD, as the ſtreams in the ſouth.

5 They that ſow in tears ſhall reap in joy.

6 He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious ſeed, ſhall doubtleſs come again with rejoicing, bringing his ſheaves with him.

PSAL. CXXVII.

1 The virtue of God's bleſſing. 3 Children are his gift.

A ſong of degrees for Solomon.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-fifth Pſalm.

This pſalm probably contains ſome of thoſe comfortable words which were ſpoken to the people by Hezekiah, when Sennacherib's army threatened to deſtroy Jeruſalem, to encourage them under their great affliction; and to aſſure them, that God would not ſuffer Sennacherib, that rod of his anger, to chaſtiſe them long.

Ver. 3 The rod of the wicked.] i. e. Sennacherib.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-ſixth Pſalm.

This pſalm is allowed to have been written by Ezra on the return of the Jews from the Babyloniſh captivity.

Ver. 1 When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion, we were like them that dream.] When the unexpected proclamation of Cyrus was publiſhed, for giving us liberty to return to our own land, we could hardly believe our ſenſes; the happineſs was ſo great, that we were fearful it was no more than a tranſient dream. Patrick.

4 Turn our captivity, &c.] The turning our captivity, O Lord, is as grateful to us as ſtreams or pools of water in the South. Taylor's Heb. Concord.

5 They that ſow in tears ſhall reap in joy.] They that now plant themſelves here again, and lay the foundation of the temple with a mixture of ſadneſs and tears, (Ezra iii. 12.) ſhall ſoon have occaſion to rejoice.

6 He that goeth forth and weepeth, &c.] Like the poor huſbandman, who when corn is ſcarce and dear, throws the little ſeed he has with a heavy heart into the ground, but ſoon returns from his field with ſongs of joy.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-ſeventh Pſalm.

The Hebrew particle, which, in the title, is tranſlated for, is, by moſt interpreters, thought to ſignify of, and conſequently, that this pſalm was compoſed by Solomon: and this is the more probable, as it is a commentary on a pious maxim of his, often repeated in the book of Proverbs, namely, that it is in vain to attempt any thing if the Lord doth not proſper the deſign; teaching us in all our ways to acknowledge him, and not preſume that it is in our power to direct the iſſue as we pleaſe: for though a man's heart deviſeth his way, yet it is the Lord that directeth his ſteps, Prov. xvi. 9. Patrick.

EXCEPT the LORD build the houſe, they labour in vain that build it: except the LORD keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain.

2 It is vain for you to riſe up early, to ſit up late, to eat the bread of ſorrows: for ſo he giveth his beloved ſleep.

3 Lo, children are an heritage of the LORD: and the fruit of the womb is his reward.

4 As arrows are in the hand of a mighty man; ſo are children of the youth.

5 Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them: they ſhall not be aſhamed, but they ſhall ſpeak with the enemies in the gate.

PSAL. CXXVIII.

The ſundry bleſſings which follow them that fear God.

A ſong of degrees.

BLeſſed is every one that feareth the LORD; that walketh in his ways.

2 For thou ſhalt eat the labour of thine hands: happy ſhalt thou be, and it ſhall be well with thee.

3 Thy wife ſhall be as a fruitful vine by the ſides of thine houſe: thy children like olive-plants round about thy table.

4 Behold, that thus ſhall the man be bleſſed that feareth the LORD.

5 The LORD ſhall bleſs thee out of Zion: and thou ſhalt ſee the good of Jeruſalem all the days of thy life.

6 Yea, thou ſhalt ſee thy children's children, and peace upon Iſrael.

PSAL. CXXIX.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God for ſaving Iſrael in their great afflictions. 5 The haters of the church are curſed.

A ſong of degrees.

MANY a time have they afflicted me from my youth, may Iſrael now ſay;

2 Many a time have they afflicted me from my youth: yet they have not prevailed againſt me.

3 The plowers plowed upon my back: they made long their furrows.

4 The LORD is righteous: he hath cut aſunder the cords of the wicked.

5 Let them all be confounded and turned back that hate Zion.

6 Let them be as the graſs upon the houſe tops, which withereth afore it groweth up:

7 Wherewith the mower filleth not his hand, nor he that bindeth ſheaves, his boſom.

8 Neither do they which go by ſay, The bleſſing of the LORD be upon you: we bleſs you in the name of the LORD.

PSAL. CXXX.

1 The pſalmiſt profeſſeth his hope in prayer, 5 and his patience in hope. 7 He exhorteth Iſrael to hope in God.

A ſong of degrees.

OUT of the depths have I cried unto thee, O LORD.

2 LORD, hear my voice: let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my ſupplications.

Ver. 1 Except the Lord build the houſe, &c.] Homer has ſaid the ſame thing, Iliad XII.

Without the gods, how ſhort a period ſtands
The proudeſt monument of mortal hands! Pope.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-eighth Pſalm.

This pſalm was written to excite men to be truly religious, as the only way to obtain the bleſſings enumerated in this hymn. For it is the Lord only that can confer theſe gifts on the ſons of men; and conſequently, our own induſtry is not ſufficient without his kind aſſiſtance. Patrick.

Ver. 3 Thy children like olive-plants, &c.] Thetis in Homer ſays of her ſon Achilles, Iliad XVIII.

Like ſome fair olive, by my careful hand
He grew, he flouriſh'd, and adorn'd the land. Pope.

5 The Lord ſhall bleſs thee out of Zion, &c.] Addreſs thyſelf unto the God of Jacob in his holy place, and he ſhall beſtow upon thee whatever bleſſings thou requeſtedſt of him; yea, thou ſhalt even ſee Jeruſalem, the ſeat of juſtice and religion, in a flouriſhing condition all the days of thy life.

Notes on the Hundred and Twenty-ninth Pſalm.

This pſalm was compoſed when ſome new calamity threatened them: either by Sennacherib, or, as others think, by thoſe nations who had combined to deſtroy the Jews, as ſoon as they returned from the Babyloniſh captivity; when they were taught by Ezra, or ſome other holy man, to recount what God had done for them ever ſince they were a people, and to denounce the Divine vengeance againſt thoſe who now fought their deſtruction. Patrick.

Ver. 3 The plowers plowed upon my back.] They frequently ſcourged us very ſeverely.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirtieth Pſalm.

This pſalm was, in all probability, compoſed by David, during the time of his penitence for the atrocious crime committed with Bathſheba: and is the ſixth of the Penitential Pſalms.

Notes

3 If thou, LORD, ſhouldeſt mark iniquities: O LORD, who ſhal ſtand;

4 But there is forgiveneſs with thee; that thou mayeſt be feared.

5 I wait for the LORD, my ſoul doth wait, and in his word do I hope.

6 My ſoul waiteth for the LORD more than they that watch for the morning: I ſay, more than they that watch for the morning.

7 Let Iſrael hope in the LORD: for with the LORD there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption.

8 And he ſhall redeem Iſrael from all his iniquities.

PSAL. CXXXI.

1 David profeſſing his humility, 3 exhorteth Iſrael to hope in God.

A ſong of degrees of David

LORD, my heart is not haughty, nor mine eyes lofty: neither do I exerciſe my ſelf in great matters, or in things too high for me.

2 Surely I have behaved and quieted my ſelf as a child that is weaned of his mother: my ſoul is even as a weaned child.

3 Let Iſrael hope in the LORD from henceforth and for ever.

PSAL. CXXXII.

1 David in his prayer commendeth unto God the religious care he had for the ark. 8 His prayer at the removing of the ark, 11 with a repetition of God's promiſes.

A ſong of degrees.

LORD, remember David, and all his afflictions.

2 How he ſware unto the LORD, and vowed unto the mighty God of Jacob;

3 Surely, I will not come into the tabernacle of my houſe, nor go up into my bed;

4 I will not give ſleep to mine eyes, or ſlumber to mine eye-lids,

5 Until I find out a place for the LORD, an habitation for the mighty God of Jacob.

6 Lo, we heard of it at Ephratah: we found it in the fields of the wood.

7 We will go into his tabernacles: we will worſhip at his footſtool.

8 Ariſe, O LORD, into thy reſt; thou and the ark of thy ſtrength.

9 Let thy prieſts be clothed with righteouſneſs; and let thy ſaints ſhout for joy.

10 For thy ſervant David's ſake turn not away the face of thine Anointed.

11 The LORD hath ſworn in truth unto David: he will not turn from it; Of the fruit of thy body will I ſet upon thy throne.

12 If thy children will keep my covenant and my teſtimony that I ſhall teach them, their children ſhall alſo ſit upon thy throne for evermore.

13 For the LORD hath choſen Zion; he hath deſired it for his habitation.

14 This is my reſt for ever: here will I dwell; for I have deſired it.

15 I will abundantly bleſs her proviſion: I will ſatisfy her poor with bread.

16 I will alſo clothe her prieſts with ſalvation: and her ſaints ſhall ſhout aloud for joy.

17 There will I make the horn of David to bud: I have ordained a lamp for mine Anointed.

18 His enemies will I clothe with ſhame: but upon himſelf ſhall his crown flouriſh.

PSAL. CXXXIII.

The benefit of the communion of ſaints.

A ſong of degrees of David.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-firſt Pſalm.

Ver. 1 Lord, my heart is not haughty, nor mine eyes lofty, &c.] O Lord, I am accuſed of traitorous deſigns againſt my ſovereign, and of aſpiring to the throne on which thou haſt placed him: but thou who ſeareheſt the hearts, knoweſt that I entertain no ſuch ambitious thoughts: nor hath my behaviour betrayed any ſuch intentions; for I never intermeddled with the affairs of ſtate. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-ſecond Pſalm.

This whole pſalm ſeems to have been made and uſed at the ſolemnity of bringing up the ark, expreſſing the holy joy and triumph of it. We at Ephrata, i. e. Bethlehem, and other places about Jeruſalem, heard of it, that it was at Jair or Kirjath-jearim; and we found it there and fetched it up. The 8th verſe ſeems likewiſe to confirm this conjecture--Ariſe, O God, into thy reſt: thou, and the ark of thy ſtrength. Wall.

Ver. 3 Nor go up into my bed.] See note on 2 Kings, i. 4.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-third Pſalm.

The conteſt between the tribes (after Abſalom's and Sheba's rebellion was ended) being not yet laid, David, I apprehend, wrote

BEhold how good and how pleaſant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!

2 It is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron's beard; that went down to the ſkirts of his garments:

3 As the dew of Hermon, and as the dew that deſcended upon the mountains of Zion: for there the LORD commanded the bleſſing, even life for evermore.

PSAL. CXXXIV.

An exhortation to bleſs God.

A ſong of degrees.

BEhold, bleſs ye the LORD, all ye ſervants of the LORD, which by night ſtand in the houſe of the LORD.

2 Lift up your hands in the ſanctuary; and bleſs the LORD.

3 The LORD that made heaven and earth bleſs thee out of Zion.

PSAL. CXXXV.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God for his mercy, 5 for his power, 8 and for his judgments. 15 The vanity of idols. 19 An exhortation to bleſs God.

PRaiſe ye the LORD. Praiſe ye the name of the LORD; praiſe him, O ye ſervants of the LORD.

2 Ye that ſtand in the houſe of the LORD, in the courts of the houſe of our God,

3 Praiſe ye the LORD; for the LORD is good: ſing praiſes unto his name; for it is pleaſant.

4 For the LORD hath choſen Jacob unto himſelf, and Iſrael for his peculiar treaſure.

5 For I know that the LORD is great, and that our LORD is above all gods.

6 Whatſoever the LORD pleaſed, that did he in heaven and in earth, in the ſeas, and all deep places.

7 He cauſeth the vapours to aſcend from the ends of the earth, he maketh lightnings for the rain; he bringeth the wind out of his treaſuries.

8 Who ſmote the firſt-born of Egypt, both of man and beaſt.

9 Who ſent tokens and wonders into the midſt of thee, O Egypt: upon Pharaoh, and upon all his ſervants.

10 Who ſmote great nations, and ſlew mighty kings;

11 Sihon king of the Amorites, and Og king of Baſhan, and all the kingdoms of Canaan:

12 And gave their land for an heritage, an heritage unto Iſrael his people.

13 Thy name, O LORD, endureth for ever; and thy memorial, O LORD, throughout all generations.

14 For the LORD will judge his people, and he will repent himſelf concerning his ſervants.

15 The idols of the heathen are ſilver and gold, the work of men's hands.

16 They have mouths, but they ſpeak not; eyes have they, but they ſee not.

17 They have ears, but they hear not; neither is there any breath in their mouths.

18 They that make them are like unto them: ſo is every one that truſteth in them.

19 Bleſs the LORD, O houſe of Iſrael: bleſs the LORD, O houſe of Aaron.

20 Bleſs the LORD, O houſe of Levi: ye that fear the LORD, bleſs the LORD.

21 Bleſſed be the LORD out of Zion, which dwelleth at Jeruſalem. Praiſe ye the LORD.

wrote this pſalm to compoſe it. It contains an exhortation to unity, beginning in the prince, and diffuſed through the people, illuſtrated by two images, the moſt apt and beautiful that ever were imagined. See Delany's Life of David.

Ver. 3 As the dew of Hermon, and as the dew that deſcended upon the mountains of Zion, &c.] Unity among brethren, beginning from the king, is like the dew of heaven, which falling firſt upon the higher ſummit of Hermon, (refreſhing and enriching wherever it falls) naturally deſcends to Sion, a little lower; and thence even to the humble valleys. Delany.

There the Lord commanded.] It ſhould be tranſlated, There God promiſed the bleſſing. E. N. T.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-fourth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been ſung at the ſhutting of the gates of the temple, as an exhortation to thoſe who were to watch in the night, to be diligent in their office of ſinging pſalms, and making devout prayers for the people. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-fifth Pſalm.

This ſeems to have been the morning hymn, which the præcentor called upon the Levites to ſing at the opening of the gates of the temple, as the foregoing was ſung at the ſhutting them up in the evening. Patrick.

Notes

PSAL. CXXXVI.

An exhortation to give thanks to God for particular mercies.

O Give thanks unto the LORD; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.

2 O give thanks unto the God of gods: for his mercy endureth for ever.

3 O give thanks to the LORD of lords: for his mercy endureth for ever.

4 To him who alone doeth great wonders: for his mercy endureth for ever.

5 To him that by wiſdom made the heavens: for his mercy endureth for ever.

6 To him that ſtretcheth out the earth above the waters: for his mercy endureth for ever.

7 To him that made great lights: for his mercy endureth for ever:

8 The ſun, to rule by day: for his mercy endureth for ever:

9 The moon and ſtars, to rule by night: for his mercy endureth for ever.

10 To him that ſmote Egypt in their firſtborn: for his mercy endureth for ever:

11 And brought out Iſrael from among them: for his mercy endureth for ever:

12 With a ſtrong hand and with a ſtretched-out arm: for his mercy endureth for ever.

13 To him which divided the Red ſea into parts: for his mercy endureth for ever:

14 And made Iſrael to paſs through the midſt of it: for his mercy endureth for ever:

15 But overthrew Pharaoh and his hoſt in the Red ſea: for his mercy endureth for ever.

16 To him which led his people through the wilderneſs: for his mercy endureth for ever.

17 To him which ſmote great kings: for his mercy endureth for ever:

18 And ſlew famous kings: for his mercy endureth for ever:

19 Sihon king of the Amorites: for his mercy endureth for ever:

20 And Og the king of Baſhan: for his mercy endureth for ever:

21 And gave their land for an heritage: for his mercy endureth for ever:

22 Even an heritage unto Iſrael his ſervant: for his mercy endureth for ever.

23 Who remembered us in our low eſtate: for his mercy endureth for ever:

24 And hath redeemed us from our enemies: for his mercy endureth for ever.

25 Who giveth food to all fleſh: for his mercy endureth for ever.

26 O give thanks unto the God of heaven: for his mercy endureth for ever.

1 The conſtancy of the Jews in captivity. 7 The prophet curſeth Edom and Babel.

BY the rivers of Babylon, there we ſat down, yea, we wept, when we remembered Zion.

2 We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midſt thereof.

3 For there they that carried us away captive required of us a ſong; and they that waſted us required of us mirth, ſaying, Sing us one of the ſongs of Zion.

4 How ſhall we ſing the LORD's ſong in a ſtrange land?

5 If I forget thee, O Jeruſalem, let my right hand forget her cunning.

6 If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth; if I prefer not Jeruſalem above my chief joy.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-ſixth Pſalm.

This pſalm, like the former, is a commemoration of the goodneſs of the Lord, eſpecially of the wonderful works he had done for Iſrael. The form of acknowledgment, for his mercy endureth for ever, ſo often repeated in this pſalm, was preſcribed by David to be uſed continually in the divine ſervice, 1 Chron. xvi. 41, and accordingly followed by Solomon, when he dedicated the temple, 2 Chron. vii. 3, 6, and by Jehoſhaphat, when, by the encouragement of a prophet, he went out againſt a prodigious army, at the head of a ſmall number of forces, 2 Chron. xx. 21. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-ſeventh Pſalm.

This mournful ſong was doubtleſs compoſed by ſome pious Levite in Babylon, when he reflected on their ſorrowful parting with their own beloved country, and the ſcorn wherewith their inſulting enemies treated them in that ſtrange land. Patrick.

Ver. 1 By the rivers of Babylon, there we ſat down, &c.] When we were carried from the land of promiſe to that of Babylon, and had the banks of the Euphrates aſſigned for our habitation, we there ſat down in a ſorrowful poſture; and when we reflected on the happy days we enjoyed in the holy hill of Sion, our eyes ſtreamed with tears. Patrick.

5 Forget her cunning.] i. e. Loſe its ſkill of playing upon the harp.

7 Remember, O LORD, the children of Edom in the day of Jeruſalem; who ſaid, Raſe it, raſe it, even to the foundation thereof.

8 O daughter of Babylon, who art to be deſtroyed: happy ſhall he be that rewardeth thee as thou haſt ſerved us.

9 Happy ſhall he be that taketh and daſheth thy little ones againſt the ſtones.

PSAL. CXXXVIII.

1 David praiſeth God for the truth of his word.
4 He propheſieth that the kings of the earth ſhall praiſe God.

A pſalm of David.

I Will praiſe thee with my whole heart: before the gods will I ſing praiſe unto thee.

2 I will worſhip towards thy holy temple, and praiſe thy name, for thy loving-kindneſs and for thy truth; for thou haſt magnified thy word above all thy name.

3 In the day when I cried thou anſweredſt me, and ſtrengthenedſt me with ſtrength in my ſoul.

4 All the kings of the earth ſhall praiſe thee, O LORD, when they hear the words of thy mouth.

5 Yea, they ſhall ſing in the ways of the LORD: for great is the glory of the LORD.

6 Though the LORD be high, yet hath he reſpect unto the lowly: but the proud he knoweth afar off.

7 Though I walk in the midſt of trouble, thou wilt revive me: thou ſhalt ſtretch forth thine hand againſt the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand ſhall ſave me.

8 The LORD will perfect that which concerneth me: thy mercy, O LORD, endureth for ever: forſake not the works of thine own hands.

PSAL. CXXXIX.

David praiſeth God for his all-ſeeing providence.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

O LORD thou haſt ſearched me, and known me.

2 Thou knoweſt my down-ſitting and mine up-riſing, thou underſtandeſt my thought afar off.

3 Thou compaſſeſt my path and my lying down, and art acquainted with all my ways.

4 For there is not a word in my tongue, but lo, O LORD, thou knoweſt it altogether.

5 Thou haſt beſet me behind and before, and laid thine hand upon me.

6 Such knowledge is too wonderful for me: it is high, I cannot attain unto it.

7 Whither ſhall I go from thy Spirit? or whither ſhall I flee from thy preſence?

8 If I aſcend up into heaven, thou art there: if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there.

9 If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermoſt parts of the ſea;

10 Even there ſhall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand ſhall hold me.

11 If I ſay, Surely the darkneſs ſhall cover me: even the night ſhall be light about me.

12 Yea, the darkneſs hideth not from thee; but the night ſhineth as the day: the darkneſs and the light are both alike to thee.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-eighth Pſalm.

In this pſalm, David acknowledges the goodneſs of the Lord to him, in advancing him from a low and afflicted condition to the throne of Iſrael.

Ver. 1 I will praiſe thee with my whole heart, &c.] I will pay thee, O Lord, my thankful acknowledgments, with the devouteſt affections of my heart: thy holy angels ſhall be witneſſes of my gratitude, which I will expreſs in pſalms and hymns, in the aſſembly of the judges, that they may remember to whom they owe their power and authority. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Thirty-ninth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written by David, when he was accuſed of having evil deſigns againſt Saul; and therefore he preſented his appeal to God himſelf, who well knew the falſity of ſuch calumnies. Patrick.

Ver. 2 Thou knoweſt my down-ſitting, and mine up-riſing, &c.] Thou knoweſt the ſubjects of all my meditations, nay, my inclinations are ſo perfectly known to thee, that, before I have conceived any deſign, it is viſible to thee. Patrick.

3 Thou compaſſeſt my path, and my lying down, &c.] Septuagint and Vulgate, Thou ſearcheſt my path.

4 For there is not a word in my tongue, &c.] Thou well knoweſt, O Lord, what I am going to ſpeak before my words proceed out of my mouth. Patrick.

7, 8, 9, 10 Whither ſhall I go from thy ſpirit? or whither ſhall I flee from thy preſence? &c.] The ſentiment in this noble paſſage is remarkably ſtriking, and the deſcription truly ſublime. To what part of the univerſe ſhall I go to avoid thy ſpirit? or whither ſhall I flee to hide me from thy piercing ſight? If I climb up into the heights of heaven, thou art there enthroned in light. If I go down to the depths of the grave, thou art there in thy pavilion of darkneſs. If I retire to the remoteſt climates of the Eaſt, where the morning firſt takes wing; if ſwifter than the darting ray, I paſs to the oppoſite regions of the Weſt, and remain in the uttermoſt parts of the ſea, ſhall I, in that diſtant ſituation, be beyond thy reach, or, by this ſudden tranſition, eſcape thy notice? So far from it, that, could I with one glance of thought tranſport myſelf beyond the bounds of creation, I ſhould ſtill be incircled with the immenſity of thy eſſence; or, rather ſtill be incloſed in the hollow of thy hand. Hervey.

13 For thou haſt poſſeſſed my reins: thou haſt covered me in my mother's womb.

14 I will praiſe thee; for I am fearfully and wonderfully made: marvellous are thy works; and that my ſoul knoweth right well.

15 My ſubſtance was not hid from thee, when I was made in ſecret, and curiouſly wrought in the loweſt parts of the earth.

16 Thine eyes did ſee my ſubſtance, yet being unperfect; and in thy book all my members were written: which in continuance were faſhioned, when as yet there was none of them.

17 How precious alſo are thy thoughts unto me, O God! how great is the ſum of them!

18 If I ſhould count them, they are more in number than the ſand: when I wake, I am ſtill with thee.

19 Surely thou wilt ſlay the wicked, O God: depart from me therefore, ye bloody men.

20 For they ſpeak againſt thee wickedly, and thine enemies take thy name in vain.

21 Do not I hate them, O LORD, that hate thee? and am not I grieved with thoſe that riſe up againſt thee?

22 I hate them with perfect hatred: I count them mine enemies.

23 Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts:

24 And ſee if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlaſting.

PSAL. CXL.

David prayeth to be delivered from Saul and Doeg.

To the chief muſician, a pſalm of David.

1 DEliver me, O LORD, from the evil man: preſerve me from the violent man;

2 Which imagine miſchiefs in their heart; continually are they gathered together for war.

3 They have ſharpened their tongues like a ſerpent: adders poiſon is under their lips. Selah.

4 Keep me, O LORD, from the hands of the wicked: preſerve me from the violent man; who have purpoſed to overthrow my goings.

5 The proud have hid a ſnare for me, and cords; they have ſpread a net by the way-ſide: they have ſet gins for me. Selah.

6 I ſaid unto the LORD, Thou art my God: hear the voice of my ſupplications, O LORD.

7 O GOD the Lord, the ſtrength of my ſalvation, thou haſt covered my head in the day of battle.

8 Grant not, O LORD, the deſires of the wicked: further not his wicked device; leſt they exalt themſelves. Selah.

9 As for the head of thoſe that compaſs me about, let the miſchief of their own lips cover them.

10 Let burning coals fall upon them: let them be caſt into the fire; into deep pits, that they riſe not up again.

11 Let not an evil ſpeaker be eſtabliſhed in the earth: evil ſhall hunt the violent man to overthrow him.

12 I know that the LORD will maintain the cauſe of the afflicted, and the right of the poor.

13 Surely the righteous ſhall give thanks unto thy name: the upright ſhall dwell in thy preſence.

PSAL. CXLI.

1 David prayeth that his ſuit may be acceptable,
3 his conſcience ſincere, 7 and his life ſafe from ſnares.

A pſalm of David.

---

14 I am fearfully and wonderfully made.] The thoughts of my formation ſtrike me with an aſtoniſhment like that which ariſeth from fear.

Notes on the Hundred and Fortieth Pſalm.

This pſalm was doubtleſs written by David during the perſecution of Saul, who was inſtigated to purſue him by the calumnies of the wicked Doeg, and the information of the Ziphites, whoſe baſe deſigns and peſtilent malice he here deſcribes; beſeeching the Almighty to protect him from the miſchief they intended him, and pour it upon their own heads. As a monument of his gratitude to that omnipotent Being who kindly liſtened to his requeſt, and ſheltered him from every danger, he delivered this pſalm, after he was ſettled on the throne of Iſrael, to the chief muſician, to be publicly ſung in the tabernacle at certain times. Patrick.

Ver. 3 Adders poiſon is under their lips.] The creature here intended is the aſp: the poiſon of this ſerpent is incurable; as likewiſe, according to the pſalmiſt, is the poiſon of a calumniating tongue. Lamy.

9 As for the head of thoſe that compaſs me about, let the miſchief of their own lips cover them.] Let the poiſonous and pernicious calumnies of thoſe that now beſet me round about, retort upon themſelves: and thoſe very devices formed from lies overwhelm the authors of them. Patrick.

10 Let burning coals fall upon them.] Let their ſlanders, which are like burning coals not eaſily quenched, be the inſtruments of their own deſtruction. Patrick.

Notes

LORD, I cry unto thee: make haſte unto me; give ear unto my voice, when I cry unto thee.

2 Let my prayer be ſet forth before thee as incenſe, and the lifting-up of my hands as the evening ſacrifice.

3 Set a watch, O LORD, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips.

4 Incline not my heart to any evil thing, to practiſe wicked works with men that work iniquity: and let me not eat of their dainties.

5 Let the righteous ſmite me; it ſhall be a kindneſs: and let him reprove me; it ſhall be an excellent oil, which ſhall not break my head: for yet my prayer alſo ſhall be in their calamities.

6 When their judges are overthrown in ſtony places, they ſhall hear my words; for they are ſweet.

7 Our bones are ſcattered at the grave's mouth, as when one cutteth and cleaveth wood upon the earth.

8 But mine eyes are unto thee, O GOD the LORD: in thee is my truſt, leave not my ſoul deſtitute.

9 Keep me from the ſnare which they have laid for me, and the gins of the workers of iniquity.

10 Let the wicked fall into their own nets, whilſt that I withal eſcape.

PSAL. CLXII.

David ſheweth that in his trouble all his comfort was in prayer unto God.

Maſchil of David; a prayer when he was in the cave.

I Cried unto the LORD with my voice; with my voice unto the LORD did I make my ſupplication.

2 I poured out my complaint before him; I ſhewed before him my trouble.

3 When my ſpirit was overwhelmed within me, then thou kneweſt my path. In the way wherein I walked have they privily laid a ſnare for me.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty-firſt Pſalm.

The learned and ingenious Mr. Peters has favoured the world with a new explanation of this pſalm, which, with his literal tranſlation from the Hebrew, I ſhall beg leave to lay before the reader.

It ſeems probable that David compoſed this pſalm juſt before his flight to Achiſh king of Gath; when he had a ſecond time ſpared Saul's life, but could truſt him no longer. As his reſolution was to fly ſpeedily; and it was in the evening of that day, when he was now upon the wing, as it were, with his own dutiful behaviour towards Saul, and the other's implacable cruelty towards him ſtill freſh upon his thoughts; and moreover, reflecting on the dangers and temptations to which his religion would expoſe him in a heathen country: he therefore pours out his ſoul to God in the following prayer or ſoliloquy: and that it was compoſed in the evening appears from his deſiring, ver. 2. that it might be acepted as an evening oblation.

1 Jehovah, I call upon thee, haſte thee unto me, give ear to my voice when I cry unto thee. 2 Let my prayer be ſet forth (as) incenſe, before thee; the lifting up of my hands (as) an evening oblation. 3 Set, O Lord, a watch to my mouth, a guard over the door of my lips. 4 Incline not mine heart to an evil thing, to attempt enterprizes in wickedneſs with men that work iniquity, (or idolatry) neither let me eat of their dainties. 5 Let the juſt man be ſtill upbraiding me with my goodneſs, and let the ointment of my head be urged againſt me; it ſhall not break my head: for hitherto——yea, my prayer againſt their wickedneſs. 6 Their judges have been diſmiſſed in the rocky places, and have heard my words that they were ſweet. 7 Like as when one cutteth and cleaveth, (ſo) have our bones been ſcattered on the earth at the command of Saul. Mr. Peters here ſuppoſes that inſtead of le-pi Sheôl (at the mouth of Sheol) we ſhould read le-pi Saul, at the mouth, i. e. at the command of Saul. The Hebrew letters for Sheôl and Saul are the ſame; and therefore it may be ſo read without the leaſt alteration of the text——The 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th may be thus briefly paraphraſed——3 I am going to ſeek a retreat among a race of idolaters, ſet a guard, O Lord, on my lips, that I may neither by my imprudent behaviour endanger my own ſafety, nor violate my religion by any weak compliances. 4 Preſerve me from that greateſt of all evils, the renouncing thee to follow vain and ſtrange gods, neither let me be allured by their luxurious feſtivals. 5 Though my friends, thoſe advocates for ſtrict juſtice, upbraid me with my exceſſive piety and goodneſs, and the anointment of my head, thy deſignation of me to the throne, be urged againſt me why I might juſtly take the life of Saul, yet I truſt in thy mercy, it ſhall not break my head, or bring me to deſtruction: for hitherto thou haſt preſerved me, &c. 6 Nevertheleſs their princes, thoſe ſevere judges, have been diſmiſſed by me in ſafety, when I had them abſolutely in my power in the rocky deſarts: only I have expoſtulated with them in the mildeſt and gentleſt manner. 7 But how unlike, how barbarous has their treatment been of me! my beſt friends ſlaughtered in great numbers at the command of Saul, and hewed in pieces in his preſence, as one would cut or chop a piece of wood. See Peters on Job, p. 340, &c.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty-ſecond Pſalm.

This prayer was made by David, when he hid himſelf from Saul in the cave of Engedi; and was afterwards ſung to the tune of Maſchil, becauſe it admirably inſtructs poſterity in the moſt forlorn, nay deſperate condition, to recommend themſelves to God, and firmly truſt on him for deliverance. All the motions of David's mind, in this his danger, his fears, his apprehenſions, his prayers to God for deliverance, are here very naturally ſet forth. He turned about, and looking upon his companions, obſerved they did not regard him: their minds, as was natural, were entirely taken up with their own danger, ſo that they did not think of their captain. He had no refuge, as he thought no man would ſtand by him: in this extremity he had no reſource but in God; So he cried unto the Lord, and ſaid, &c.

Notes

4 I looked on my right hand, and beheld, but there was no man that would know me: refuge failed me; no man cared for my ſoul.

5 I cried unto thee, O LORD: I ſaid, Thou art my refuge, and my portion in the land of the living.

6 Attend unto my cry: for I am brought very low: deliver me from my perſecutors; for they are ſtronger than I.

7 Bring my ſoul out of priſon, that I may praiſe thy name: the righteous ſhall compaſs me about; for thou ſhalt deal bountifully with me.

PSAL. CXLIII.

1 David prayeth for favour in judgment. 3 He complaineth of his griefs. 7 He prayeth for grace, 9 for deliverance, 10 for ſanctification, 12 for the deſtruction of his enemies.

A pſalm of David.

HEAR my prayer, O LORD, give ear to my ſupplications: in thy faithfulneſs anſwer me, and in thy righteouſneſs.

2 And enter not into judgement with thy ſervant: for in thy ſight ſhall no man living be juſtified.

3 For the enemy hath perſecuted my ſoul: he hath ſmitten my life down to the ground: he hath made me to dwell in darkneſs, as thoſe that have been long dead.

4 Therefore is my ſpirit overwhelmed within me: my heart within me is deſolate.

5 I remember the days of old; I meditate on all thy works; I muſe on the work of thy hands.

6 I ſtretch forth my hands unto thee: my ſoul thirſteth after thee as a thirſty land. Selah.

7 Hear me ſpeedily, O LORD: my ſpirit faileth: hide not thy face from me, leſt I be like unto them that go down into the pit.

8 Cauſe me to hear thy loving-kindneſs in the morning; for in thee do I truſt: cauſe me to know the way wherein I ſhould walk; for I lift up my ſoul unto thee.

9 Deliver me, O LORD, from mine enemies: I flee unto thee to hide me.

10 Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God: thy ſpirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightneſs.

11 Quicken me, O LORD, for thy name's ſake: for thy righteouſneſs' ſake bring my ſoul out of trouble.

12 And of thy mercy cut off mine enemies, and deſtroy all them that afflict my ſoul: for I am thy ſervant.

PSAL. CXLIV.

1 David bleſſeth God for his mercy. 5 He prayeth that God would powerfully deliver him from his enemies. 9 He promiſeth to praiſe God.

A pſalm of David.

BLeſſed be the LORD my ſtrength, which teacheth my hands to war, and my fingers to fight.

2 My goodneſs, and my fortreſs; my high tower, and my deliverer; my ſhield, and he in whom I truſt; who ſubdueth my people under me.

3 LORD, what is man, that thou takeſt knowledge of him! or the ſon of man, that thou makeſt account of him!

4 Man is like to vanity: his days are as a ſhadow that paſſeth way.

5 Bow thy heavens, O LORD, and come down: touch the mountains, and they ſhall ſmoke.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty third Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been compoſed by David during the rebellion of Abſalom, when he had reaſon to fear the Almighty would deal with him according to his ſins; which he here deprecates with ſo deep a ſenſe of his own unworthineſs, that it is numbered among the penitential pſalms, and of which it is the laſt. Patrick.

Ver. 10 Thy ſpirit is good: lead me into the land of uprightneſs.] Septuagint, Vulgate, and Liturgy, Let thy good ſpirit lead me in a ſtraight (or even) land.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty-fourth Pſalm.

This pſalm was doubtleſs written by David, after he had obtained ſome ſignal victory; perhaps, after thoſe two victories over the Philiſtines, mentioned 2 Sam. v. if not before them: for he ſtill mentions more oppoſers who were unſubdued, ver. 7 and 11. Patrick.

Ver. 9 Upon a pſaltery and an inſtrument of ten ſtrings.] Septuagint and Vulgate, Upon a pſaltery of ten ſtrings.

12 That our daughters may be as corner-ſtones, poliſhed, &c.] That our daughters may be tall and beautiful, like thoſe poliſhed pillars which are the ornaments of a royal palace. Patrick.

13 That our garners.] That our granaries may be full, &c.

In our ſtreets.] Septuagint reads, In our paſtures.

14 In our ſtreets.] In their paſtures, or yards.

6 Caſt forth lightning, and ſcatter them: ſhoot out thine arrows, and deſtroy them.

7 Send thine hand from above; rid me and deliver me out of great waters, from the hand of ſtrange children;

8 Whoſe mouth ſpeaketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falſhood.

9 I will ſing a new ſong unto thee, O God: upon a pſaltery, and an inſtrument of ten ſtrings will I ſing praiſes unto thee.

10 It is he that giveth ſalvation unto kings: who delivereth David his ſervant from the hurtful ſword.

11 Rid me, and deliver me from the hand of ſtrange children, whoſe mouth ſpeaketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falſhood:

12 That our ſons may be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as corner-ſtones, poliſhed after the ſimilitude of a palace:

13 That our garners may be full, affording all manner of ſtore; that our ſheep may bring forth thouſands and ten thouſands in our ſtreets.

14 That our oxen may be ſtrong to labour; that there be no breaking-in, nor going-out; that there be no complaining in our ſtreets.

15 Happy is that people that is in ſuch a caſe: yea, happy is that people, whoſe God is the LORD.

PSAL. CXLV.

1 David praiſeth God for his fame, 8 goodneſs, 11 kingdom, 14 providence, 17 and for his ſaving mercy.

David's pſalm of praiſe.

I Will extol thee, my God, O King; and I will bleſs thy name for ever and ever.

2 Every day will I bleſs thee; and I will praiſe thy name for ever and ever.

3 Great is the LORD, and greatly to be praiſed; and his greatneſs is unſearchable.

4 One generation ſhall praiſe thy works to another, and ſhall declare thy mighty acts.

5 I will ſpeak of the glorious honour of thy majeſty, and of thy wondrous works.

6 And men ſhall ſpeak of the might of thy terrible acts: and I will declare thy greatneſs.

7 They ſhall abundantly utter the memory of thy great goodneſs, and ſhall ſing of thy righteouſneſs.

8 The LORD is gracious, and full of compaſſion; ſlow to anger, and of great mercy.

9 The LORD is good to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works.

10 All thy works ſhall praiſe thee, O LORD; and thy ſaints ſhall bleſs thee.

11 They ſhall ſpeak of the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy power!

12 To make known to the ſons of men his mighty acts, and the glorious majeſty of his kingdom.

13 Thy kingdom is an everlaſting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations.

14 The LORD upholdeth all that fall, and raiſeth up all thoſe that be bowed down.

15 The eyes of all wait upon thee: and thou giveſt them their meat in due ſeaſon.

16 Thou openeſt thine hand, and ſatisfieſt the deſire of every living thing.

17 The LORD is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works.

18 The LORD is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth.

19 He will fulfil the deſire of them that fear him: he alſo will hear their cry, and will ſave them.

20 The LORD preſerveth all them that love him: but the wicked will he deſtroy.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty-fifth Pſalm.

This pſalm is compoſed with great art, each verſe, in the original, beginning a new letter of the alphabet; but the nun is wanting, poſſibly becauſe the copy from whence the collector took it was imperfect in that place, and he would not preſume to ſupply the defect himſelf. But however that be, this compoſition was always eſteemed ſo excellent, that the title of the whole book of Pſalms was taken from it, which is wholly ſpent in praiſing God, with ſuch admirable devotion, that the antient Hebrews uſed to ſay, He could not fail of being an inhabitant of the heavenly Canaan, who repeated this pſalm three times a day. Patrick.

Ver. 13 Throughout all generations.] Between the 13th and 14th verſes, a verſe is wanting, which is ſupplied by the Septuagint, Vulgate, Syriac, Arabic, and Æthiopic tranſlations, which ſhows that theſe verſions were made from copies of the Hebrew that were not herein defective: the tranſlation of the verſe wanting is this; "The Lord is faithful in all his words, and righteous in all his works." Pilkington.

21 My mouth ſhall ſpeak the praiſe of the LORD: and let all fleſh bleſs his holy name for ever and ever.

PSAL. CXLVI.

1 The pſalmiſt voweth perpetual praiſes to God. 3 He exhorteth, not to truſt in man. 5 God for his power, juſtice, mercy, and kingdom, is only worthy to be truſted in.

PRAISE ye the LORD. Praiſe the LORD, O my ſoul.

2 While I live, will I praiſe the LORD: I will ſing praiſes unto my God while I have any being.

3 Put not your truſt in princes, nor in the ſon of man, in whom there is no help.

4 His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth: in that very day his thoughts periſh.

5 Happy is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, whoſe hope is in the LORD his God:

6 Which made heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that therein is: which keepeth truth for ever:

7 Which executeth judgement for the oppreſſed, which giveth food to the hungry. The LORD looſeth the priſoners:

8 The LORD openeth the eyes of the blind: the LORD raiſeth them that are bowed down: the LORD loveth the righteous:

9 The LORD preſerveth the ſtrangers; he relieveth the fatherleſs and widow: but the way of the wicked he turneth up-ſide down.

10 The LORD ſhall reign for ever, even thy God, O Zion, unto all generations. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXLVII.

1 The prophet exhorteth to praiſe God, for his care of the church, 4 his power, 6 and his mercy; 7 for his providence; 12 for his bleſſings upon the kingdom; 15 for his power over the meteors; 19 and for his ordinances in the church.

PRAISE ye the LORD: for it is good to ſing praiſes unto our God, for it is pleaſant, and praiſe is comely.

2 The LORD doth build up Jeruſalem: he gathereth together the outcaſts of Iſrael.

3 He healeth the broken in heart, and bindeth up their wounds.

4 He telleth the number of the ſtars; he calleth them all by their names.

5 Great is our LORD, and of great power: his underſtanding is infinite.

6 The LORD lifteth up the meek: he caſteth the wicked down to the ground.

7 Sing unto the LORD with thankſgiving: ſing praiſe upon the harp unto our God;

8 Who covereth the heaven with clouds, who prepareth rain for the earth, who maketh graſs to grow upon the mountains.

9 He giveth to the beaſt his food, and to the young ravens which cry.

10 He delighteth not in the ſtrength of the horſe: he taketh not pleaſure in the legs of a man.

11 The LORD taketh pleaſure in them that fear him, in thoſe that hope in his mercy.

12 Praiſe the LORD, O Jeruſalem; praiſe thy God, O Zion.

13 For he hath ſtrengthened the bars of thy gates; he hath bleſſed thy children within thee.

---

21 My mouth ſhall ſpeak the praiſe of the Lord, &c.] I will never ceaſe to ſing hymns of praiſe to the Almighty Creator of the univerſe; and let all the ſons of men join with me in this pleaſing employment, to adore his incomparable goodneſs, power, and watchful providence, for ever and ever. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty-ſixth Pſalm.

This pſalm, and the four following, begin and end with the word Hallelujah, praiſe the Lord: all of them containing exhortations to the people to exert themſelves in that heavenly employment, which this pſalm recommends to them, from the conſideration of ſeveral of the Divine excellencies, which render him the proper object of our confidence in all conditions. It is probably the production of ſome pious perſon after his return from the Babyloniſh captivity, when it was ſoon apparent, that it was in vain to rely on the favour of princes; ſome of which oppoſed the building of the temple, with the ſame zeal as Cyrus had promoted it. Patrick.

Ver. 4 In that very day all his thoughts periſh.] Septuagint, All his devices and contrivances.

8 The Lord openeth the eyes of the blind, &c.] When the Great Meſſiah appears among the ſons of men, the blind ſhall receive their ſight, and thoſe who are bowed down by the infirmities of nature, ſhall be relieved from their ſad condition: the Lord particularly delights in thoſe who aſſiſt their neighbours in diſtreſs.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty-ſeventh Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written by Nehemiah, when he had finiſhed the walls, and ſet up the gates of Jeruſalem.

Ver. 10 He delighteth not in the ſtrength of an horſe, &c.] i. e. Warlike forces, either cavalry or infantry, horſe or foot, are not eſteemed in the ſight of God, or capable of enſuring victory to thoſe who depend upon them.

14 He maketh peace in thy borders, and filleth thee with the fineſt of the wheat.

15 He ſendeth forth his commandment upon earth: his word runneth very ſwiftly.

16 He giveth ſnow like wool: he ſcattereth the hoar-froſt like aſhes.

17 He caſteth forth his ice like morſels: who can ſtand before his cold?

18 He ſendeth out his word, and melteth them: he cauſeth his wind to blow, and the waters flow.

19 He ſheweth his word unto Jacob, his ſtatutes and his judgements unto Iſrael.

20 He hath not dealt ſo with any nation: and as for his judgements, they have not known them. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXLVIII.

1 The pſalmiſt exhorteth the celeſtial, 7 the terreſtrial, 11 and the rational creatures to praiſe God.

PRAISE ye the LORD. Praiſe ye the LORD from the heavens: praiſe him in the heights.

2 Praiſe ye him, all his angels: praiſe ye him, all his hoſts.

3 Praiſe ye him, ſun and moon: praiſe him, all ye ſtars of light.

4 Praiſe him, ye heavens of heavens, and ye waters that be above the heavens.

5 Let them praiſe the name of the LORD: for he commanded, and they were created.

6 He hath alſo eſtabliſhed them for ever and ever: he hath made a decree which ſhall not paſs.

7 Praiſe the LORD from the earth, ye dragons, and all deeps:

8 Fire, and hail; ſnow, and vapour; ſtormy wind fulfilling his word:

9 Mountains, and all hills; fruitful trees, and all cedars:

10 Beaſts, and all cattle; creeping things, and flying fowl:

11 Kings of the earth, and all people; princes, and all judges of the earth.

12 Both young men, and maidens; old men, and children:

13 Let them praiſe the name of the LORD; for his name alone is excellent; his glory is above the earth and heaven.

14 He alſo exalteth the horn of his people, the praiſe of all his ſaints; even of the children of Iſrael, a people near unto him. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CXLIX.

1 The prophet exhorteth to praiſe God for his love to the church, 5 and for that power which he hath given to the church.

PRAISE ye the LORD. Sing unto the LORD a new ſong, and his praiſe in the congregation of ſaints.

2 Let Iſrael rejoice in him that made him: let the children of Zion be joyful in their King.

3 Let them praiſe his name in the dance: let them ſing praiſes unto him with the timbrel and harp.

4 For the LORD taketh pleaſure in his people: he will beautify the meek with ſalvation.

---

16. He ſcattereth the hoar froſt like aſhes.] When wood is burning in the open air, ſome of the aſhes being light, are uſually carried up along with the flame and ſmoke, and after floating awhile in the air, fall down again in a ſoft and gentle manner; the particles of hoar froſt deſcend in much the ſame ſtill, ſilent, and almoſt imperceptible manner.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty-eighth Pſalm.

It ſeems probable that this pſalm was written by David, when God had given him reſt from all his enemies round about: which filled his heart with ſuch love for his Maker, that, in a tranſport of admiration, he wrote this rapturous ſong. In which, being conſcious of the narrow limits of his own praiſes, he calls upon all creatures in heaven and earth to join in one ſymphony of thankſgiving to the great Lord of heaven and earth. Patrick.

Ver. 1 Praiſe ye him, ſun and moon: praiſe him all ye ſtars of light.] Praiſe him ye ſun and moon, his moſt conſpicuous miniſters, and unwearied in his ſervice: praiſe him, ye glittering ſtars of light; and declare to all future generations, as ye have already done for ſo many ages paſt, how glorious your great Maſter is. Patrick.

4 Ye waters that be above the heavens.] The vapours, being greatly rarefied, riſe far above that air or ſky which is nigh the earth.

7 Praiſe the Lord from the earth, ye dragons, and all deeps.] Let all the creatures inhabiting this lower world accompany the celeſtial hoſts in their praiſes of the Lord: whoſe power the vaſt whales in their ſeveral kinds, and all that move in the profound depth of the ſea abundantly declare. Patrick.

Notes on the Hundred and Forty-ninth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems to have been written by David, after he had gained ſome ſignal victory, and ſubdued thoſe kingdoms, which, till his time, ſupported themſelves againſt all the efforts made by the Iſraelites, notwithſtanding their countries were part of the land promiſed by God to Abraham. Gen. xv. 18.

Ver. 3 Let them praiſe his name in the dance.] This act of devotion, how ludicrous ſoever it may appear to us, has always been looked upon with reverence by the Eaſtern nations. Thus Pſal. cl. 4, Praiſe him with the timbrel and dance. Agreeably to which

5 Let the ſaints be joyful in glory: let them ſing aloud upon their beds.

6 Let the high praiſes of God be in their mouth, and a two-edged ſword in their hand;

7 To execute vengeance upon the heathen, and puniſhments upon the people;

8 To bind their kings with chains, and their nobles with fetters of iron;

9 To execute upon them the judgement written: this honour have all his ſaints. Praiſe ye the LORD.

PSAL. CL.

1 An exhortation to praiſe God. 3 with all kind of inſtruments.

PRAISE ye the LORD. Praiſe God in his ſanctuary: praiſe him in the firmament of his power.

2 Praiſe him for his mighty acts: praiſe him according to his excellent greatneſs.

3 Praiſe him with the ſound of the trumpet: praiſe him with the pſaltery and harp.

4 Praiſe him with the timbrel and dance: praiſe him with ſtringed inſtruments and organs.

5 Praiſe him upon the loud cymbals: praiſe him upon the high-ſounding cymbals.

6 Let every thing that hath breath praiſe the LORD. Praiſe ye the LORD.

which injunctions, the women went out after Miriam with timbrels and dances, Exod. xv. 20, and David danced before the Lord, 2 Sam. vi. 14. Shaw.

Notes on the Hundred and Fiftieth Pſalm.

This pſalm ſeems, like the former, to have been compoſed by David, after ſome remarkable victory. But it might as well be uſed on another joyous occaſion; for it ſeems intended to expreſs the height and fulneſs of their joy, and thankfulneſs to God for the many benefits he had conferred on the ſons of men. Patrick.

Ver. 2 Praiſe him for his mighty acts, &c.] Praiſe him all ye miniſters of his upon earth, for the miraculous things he hath done for our deliverance and exaltation: let your praiſes bear ſome proportion to the excellence of his majeſty, and the multitude of thoſe great and magnificent acts of mercy towards us.

3 Praiſe him with the ſound of the trumpet, &c.] Let the prieſts of the Lord praiſe him with the ſound of the trumpet; and let the Levites praiſe him with pſalteries and harps.

5 Praiſe him upon the loud cymbals, &c.] Let cymbals of all kinds accompany the pſalms and hymns in his praiſe: both thoſe in daily uſe, and thoſe employed only in times of the higheſt joy and triumph.

6 Let every thing that hath breath praiſe the Lord.] Let every creature, eſpecially the human race, join with this ſacred choir, to praiſe the Almighty God of Jacob, from whom we receive all the good things we enjoy. To him, let all the world, with one conſent, give perpetual praiſe. Patrick.

THE PROVERBS.

THE ARGUMENT.

This collection is only a part of the Proverbs of Solomon; for we are told, that he ſpake three thouſand proverbs, and his ſongs were a thouſand and five, 1 Kings iv. 32. Nor was he the author of the whole book, though it is placed under his name. In the twenty-fifth chapter, it is obſerved, that the following proverbs belong to him, but that they were collected by perſons appointed by Hezekiah for that purpoſe. The thirtieth chapter is intitled, the words of Agur the ſon of Jakeh. The laſt chapter is inſcribed the words of king Lemuel. From theſe different titles, it is concluded, that the firſt twenty-four chapters are the genuine work of Solomon; that the five next are a collection of ſeveral of his proverbs, made by order of king Hezekiah; and that the two laſt chapters were added, and belong to different, though unknown, authors. This book of Proverbs is a collection of wiſe and uſeful ſayings and obſervations, not put together in the way of a continued diſcourſe, but ſingly, without order or method: It is a collection of divine precepts, proper for every age, and every condition of life.

CHAP. I.

1 The uſe of the Proverbs. 7 An exhortation to fear God, and believe his word; 10 to avoid the enticings of ſinners. 20 Wiſdom complaineth of her contempt: 24 She threateneth her contemners.

THE Proverbs of Solomon the ſon of David, king of Iſrael;

2 To know wiſdom and inſtruction, to perceive the words of underſtanding;

3 To receive the inſtruction of wiſdom, juſtice, and judgement, and equity;

4 To give ſubtilty to the ſimple, to the young man knowledge and diſcretion.

5 A wiſe man will hear, and will increaſe learning; and a man of underſtanding ſhall attain unto wiſe counſels:

6 To underſtand a proverb, and the interpretation; the words of the wiſe, and their dark ſayings.

7 ¶ The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge: but fools deſpiſe wiſdom and inſtruction.

8 My ſon, hear the inſtruction of thy father, and forſake not the law of thy mother:

9 For they ſhall be an ornament of grace unto thy head, and chains about thy neck.

10 ¶ My ſon, if ſinners entice thee, conſent thou not.

11 If they ſay, Come with us, let us lay wait for blood, let us lurk privily for the innocent without cauſe:

12 Let us ſwallow them up alive as the grave; and whole, as thoſe that go down into the pit:

13 We ſhall find all precious ſubſtance, we ſhall fill our houſes with ſpoil:

14 Caſt in thy lot among us; let us all have one purſe:

15 My ſon, walk not thou in the way with them; refrain thy foot from their path.

16 For their feet run to evil, and make haſte to ſhed blood.

17 Surely in vain the net is ſpread in the ſight of any bird.

18 And they lay wait for their own blood; they lurk privily for their own lives.

19 So are the ways of every one that is greedy of gain; which taketh away the life of the owners thereof.

20 ¶ Wiſdom crieth without; ſhe uttereth her voice in the ſtreets:

21 She crieth in the chief place of concourſe, in the openings of the gates: in the city ſhe uttereth her words, ſaying,

22 How long, ye ſimple ones, will ye love ſimplicity? and the ſcorners delight in their ſcorning, and fools hate knowledge?

23 Turn ye at my reproof; behold, I will pour out my ſpirit unto you, I will make known my words unto you.

24 ¶ Becauſe I have called, and ye refuſed; I have ſtretched out my hand, and no man regarded;

25 But ye have ſet at nought all my counſel, and would none of my reproof:

26 I alſo will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your fear cometh;

27 When your fear cometh as deſolation, and your deſtruction cometh as a whirlwind; when diſtreſs and anguiſh cometh upon you:

28 Then ſhall they call upon me, but I will not anſwer; they ſhall ſeek me early, but they ſhall not find me:

Notes on the Firſt Chapter.

Ver. 7, 8 The fear of the Lord, &c.] The firſt principle of wiſdom muſt be carefully obſerved, which is this; That a due ſenſe of God is a moſt neceſſary qualification to profit by theſe inſtructions: the ſecond is, To bear a great reverence to parents, both natural and ſpiritual. Patrick.

10 My ſon, if ſinners entice thee, conſent thou not.] The inſtructions delivered in this and the following verſes merit the utmoſt attention. They teach us to reſiſt the firſt approaches of temptation, the only ſure method of being conquerors: for if we liſten to the firſt attack, though only with an intention of yielding to a particular, which, at firſt ſight, appears to be of very little conſequence, we are in the greateſt danger of being undone. One ſin paves the way to another; and when once we have begun, it will be impoſſible to know where we ſhall make a final ſtop: we ſhould therefore always remember the words of the wiſe man; and whenever ſinners entice us to forſake the paths of virtue, abſolutely refuſe even to hear their flattering ſpeeches.

20, &c. Wiſdom crieth without, ſhe uttereth her voice in the ſtreets, &c.] By wiſdom is here meant the eternal wiſdom, whoſe excellent counſels we cannot but be as well acquainted withal, as we are with what is proclaimed in the open ſtreets: for we hear them in the plain dictates of our own conſciences, in the laws of God, in the mouths of his prophets and miniſters, in the admonitions and examples of good men, and in the courſe of his providence and wiſe government.

29 For that they hated knowledge, and did not chooſe the fear of the LORD.

30 They would none of my counſel: they deſpiſed all my reproof.

31 Therefore ſhall they eat of the fruit of their own way, and be filled with their own devices.

32 For the turning away of the ſimple ſhall ſlay them, and the proſperity of fools ſhall deſtroy them.

33 But whoſo hearkeneth unto me, ſhall dwell ſafely, and ſhall be quiet from fear of evil.

CHAP. II.

1 Wiſdom promiſeth godlineſs to her children, 10 and ſafety from evil company, 20 and direction in good ways.

MY ſon, if thou wilt receive my words, and hide my commandments with thee;

2 So that thou incline thine ear unto wiſdom, and apply thine heart to underſtanding;

3 Yea, if thou crieſt after knowledge, and lifteſt up thy voice for underſtanding;

4 If thou ſeekeſt her as ſilver, and ſearcheſt for her as for hid treaſures;

5 Then ſhalt thou underſtand the fear of the LORD, and find the knowledge of God.

6 For the LORD giveth wiſdom; out of his mouth cometh knowledge and underſtanding.

7 He layeth up ſound wiſdom for the righteous: he is a buckler to them that walk uprightly.

8 He keepeth the paths of judgement, and preſerveth the way of his ſaints.

9 Then ſhalt thou underſtand righteouſneſs, and judgement, and equity; yea, every good path.

10 ¶ When wiſdom entereth into thine heart, and knowledge is pleaſant unto thy ſoul;

11 Diſcretion ſhall preſerve thee, underſtanding ſhall keep thee:

12 To deliver thee from the way of the evil man, from the man that ſpeaketh froward things;

13 Who leave the paths of uprightneſs, to walk in the ways of darkneſs;

14 Who rejoice to do evil, and delight in the frowardneſs of the wicked;

15 Whoſe ways are crooked, and they froward in their paths.

16 To deliver thee from the ſtrange woman, even from the ſtranger which flattereth with her words;

17 Which forſaketh the guide of her youth, and forgetteth the covenant of her God.

18 For her houſe inclineth unto death, and her paths unto the dead.

19 None that go unto her return again, neither take they hold of the paths of life.

20 ¶ That thou mayeſt walk in the way of good men, and keep the paths of the righteous.

21 For the upright ſhall dwell in the land, and the perfect ſhall remain in it.

22 But the wicked ſhall be cut off from the earth, and the tranſgreſſors ſhall be rooted out of it.

CHAP. III.

1 An exhortation to obedience, 5 to faith, 7 to mortification, 9 to devotion, 11 to patience. 13 The happy gain of wiſdom. 19 The power, 21 and benefits of wiſdom. 27 An exhortation to charitableneſs, 30 peaceableneſs, 31 and contentedneſs. 33 The curſed ſtate of the wicked.

MY ſon, forget not my law; but let thine heart keep my commandments:

---

32 The turning away of the ſimple ſhall ſlay them.] Septuagint, Becauſe they have abuſed ſimple or innocent men, they ſhall be ſlain.

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 4 If thou ſeekeſt her as ſilver, and ſearcheſt, &c.] A proverbial ſaying, borrowed from thoſe who dig in wines: the former part of it expreſſing eager deſire and great diligence; the latter, invincible reſolution and conſtant perſeverance, notwithſtanding thoſe difficulties which occur to diſcourage our labour.

6 For the Lord giveth wiſdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and underſtanding.] It is in vain to ſearch for wiſdom, unleſs we previouſly ſeek the Lord and his righteouſneſs in whoſe gift alone it is; but there is no doubt of his beſtowing it upon thoſe who eſteem it above the poſſeſſions of all earthly things; eſpecially the more neceſſary part of it, which he hath already imparted to us by his prophets and inſpired penmen. Patrick.

16 To deliver thee from the ſtrange woman, &c.] It was uſual for women, when they became proſtitutes, to quit their own home and friends, and to go into a foreign country in queſt of a livelihood, where they would be no ſhame to their relations. Hence it is, that at the time of the Judges and king Solomon, a proſtitute in Iſrael was generally diſtinguiſhed by the name of the ſtrange woman. Thus Jephtha is called (Judges xi 1.) the ſon of an harlot, and in the following verſe, the ſon of a ſtrange woman, as terms equivalent the one to the other. Biſhop of Clogher's Orig. of Hieroglyph.

Notes

2 For length of days, and long life, and peace ſhall they add to thee.

3 Let not mercy and truth forſake thee: bind them about thy neck; write them upon the table of thine heart:

4 So ſhalt thou find favour, and good underſtanding in the ſight of God and man.

5 ¶ Truſt in the LORD with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own underſtanding.

6 In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he ſhall direct thy paths.

7 ¶ Be not wiſe in thine own eyes: fear the LORD, and depart from evil.

8 It ſhall be health to thy navel, and marrow to thy bones.

9 ¶ Honour the LORD with thy ſubſtance, and with the firſt-fruits of all thine increaſe:

10 So ſhall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy preſſes ſhall burſt out with new wine.

11 ¶ My ſon, deſpiſe not the chaſtening of the LORD; neither be weary of his correction:

12 For whom the LORD loveth he correcteth, even as a father the ſon in whom he delighteth.

13 ¶ Happy is the man that findeth wiſdom, and the man that getteth underſtanding.

14 For the merchandize of it is better than the merchandize of ſilver, and the gain thereof than fine gold.

15 She is more precious than rubies: and all the things thou canſt deſire are not to be compared unto her.

16 Length of days is in her right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour.

17 Her ways are ways of pleaſantneſs, and all her paths are peace.

18 She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her: and happy is every one that retaineth her.

19 ¶ The LORD by wiſdom hath founded the earth; by underſtanding hath he eſtabliſhed the heavens.

20 By his knowledge the depths are broken up, and the clouds drop down the dew.

21 ¶ My ſon, let not them depart from thine eyes: keep ſound wiſdom and diſcretion:

22 So ſhall they be life unto thy ſoul, and grace to thy neck.

23 Then ſhalt thou walk in thy way ſafely, and thy foot ſhall not ſtumble.

24 When thou lieſt down thou ſhalt not be afraid: yea, thou ſhalt lie down, and thy ſleep ſhall be ſweet.

25 Be not afraid of ſudden fear, neither of the deſolation of the wicked, when it cometh.

26 For the LORD ſhall be thy confidence, and ſhall keep thy foot from being taken.

27 ¶ With-hold not good from them to whom it is due, when it is in the power of thine hand to do it.

28 Say not unto thy neighbour, Go, and come again, and to morrow I will give; when thou haſt it by thee.

29 Deviſe not evil againſt thy neighbour, ſeeing he dwelleth ſecurely by thee.

30 ¶ Strive not with a man without cauſe, if he have done thee no harm.

31 ¶ Envy thou not the oppreſſor, and chooſe none of his ways.

32 For the froward is abomination to the LORD: but his ſecret is with the righteous.

33 ¶ The curſe of the LORD is in the houſe of the wicked: but he bleſſeth the habitation of the juſt.

34 Surely he ſcorneth the ſcorners: but he giveth grace unto the lowly.

35 The wiſe ſhall inherit glory; but ſhame ſhall be the promotion of fools.

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 8 Health to thy navel, and marrow to thy bones.] This ſeems a metaphorical repreſentation of that firm and vigorous health of body, and chearfulneſs of mind, which virtue imparts.

13 Wiſdom.] i. e. Such an underſtanding of God, and belief of his providence, as to acquieſce in all troubles that befal him, and ſtill to adhere to his Maker in faithful obedience.

18 She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her, &c.] Wiſdom leads us to a paradiſe, and ſupplies the place of that tree of life for which our firſt parents were baniſhed: that is, ſhe gives not only a preſent, but an immortal ſatisfaction to all thoſe that ſtrongly apprehend and retain her precepts.

27 With-hold not good, &c.] Septuagint, With-hold not benefaction to the poor, when the power is in thine hand to do it.

32 His ſecret is with the righteous.] The righteous know the ſecret of his providence in raiſing wicked oppreſſors ſo high, that they may have the more dreadful fall.

34 Surely he ſcorneth the ſcorners, &c.] Septuagint, The Lord reſiſteth the proud, but giveth grace to the lowly. And thus St. Peter cites the words, 1 Pet. v. 5.

Notes

CHAP. IV.

1 Solomon, to perſuade obedience, 3 ſheweth what inſtruction he had of his parents, 5 to ſtudy wiſdom, 14 and to ſhun the path of the wicked. 20 He exhorteth to faith, 23 and ſanctification.

HEAR, ye children, the inſtruction of a father, and attend to know underſtanding.

2 For I give you good doctrine, forſake ye not my law.

3 ¶ For I was my father's ſon, tender and only beloved in the ſight of my mother.

4 He taught me alſo, and ſaid unto me, Let thine heart retain my words: keep my commandments, and live.

5 ¶ Get wiſdom, get underſtanding: forget it not; neither decline from the words of my mouth.

6 Forſake her not, and ſhe ſhall preſerve thee: love her, and ſhe ſhall keep thee.

7 Wiſdom is the principal thing: therefore get wiſdom: and with all thy getting get underſtanding.

8 Exalt her, and ſhe ſhall promote thee: ſhe ſhall bring thee to honour, when thou doſt embrace her.

9 She ſhall give to thine head an ornament of grace: a crown of glory ſhall ſhe deliver to thee.

10 Hear, O my ſon, and receive my ſayings; and the years of thy life ſhall be many.

11 I have taught thee in the way of wiſdom; I have led thee in right paths.

12 When thou goeſt, thy ſteps ſhall not be ſtraitened; and when thou runneſt, thou ſhalt not ſtumble.

13 Take faſt hold of inſtruction: let her not go: keep her; for ſhe is thy life.

14 ¶ Enter not into the path of the wicked, and go not in the way of evil men:

15 Avoid it, paſs not by it: turn from it, and paſs away.

16 For they ſleep not except they have done miſchief; and their ſleep is taken away unleſs they cauſe ſome to fall.

17 For they eat the bread of wickedneſs, and drink the wine of violence.

18 But the path of the juſt is as the ſhining light, that ſhineth more and more unto the perfect day.

19 The way of the wicked is as darkneſs: they know not at what they ſtumble.

20 ¶ My ſon, attend to my words, incline thine ear unto my ſayings.

21 Let them not depart from thine eyes: keep them in the midſt of thine heart.

22 For they are life unto thoſe that find them, and health to all their fleſh.

23 ¶ Keep thy heart with all diligence: for out of it are the iſſues of life.

24 Put away from thee a froward mouth, and perverſe lips put far from thee.

25 Let thine eyes look right on, and let thine eye-lids look ſtraight before thee.

26 Ponder the path of thy feet; and let all thy ways be eſtabliſhed.

27 Turn not to the right hand nor to the left: remove thy foot from evil.

CHAP. V.

1 Solomon exhorteth to the ſtudy of wiſdom. 3 He ſheweth the miſchief of whoredom and riot. 15 He exhorteth to contentedneſs, liberality, and chaſtity. 22 The wicked are overtaken with their own ſins.

MY ſon attend unto my wiſdom, and bow thine ear to my underſtanding:

2 That thou mayeſt regard diſcretion, and that thy lips may keep knowledge.

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Hear, ye children, the inſtruction of a father, &c.] Liſten all ye that are deſirous to learn, unto the inſtructions which, out of a parental affection, I bring from God to you: hearken unto them, though they correct your preſent manners; and let your mind be ſo attentive, that you may know what it is to have a right underſtanding in all things. Patrick.

15 Avoid it, paſs not by it, turn from it, and paſs away.] With what vehement importunity does the royal moraliſt deter his pupils from the path of the wicked! How ſtrongly is the counſel urged, by being ſo frequently repeated; in ſuch a remarkable diverſity of conciſe and abrupt, conſequently of forcible and preſſing admonitions!

23 Keep thy heart with all diligence: for out of it are the iſſues of life.] Let this above all things be thy peculiar care, to ſet ſo ſtrict a guard upon the inward thoughts and affections of thy ſoul, that thy conſent be never attained by any thing which thou oughteſt to refuſe: for thy walking either in the paths of virtue or vice depends wholly on thy care and watchfulneſs in this particular. Patrick.

3 ¶ For the lips of a ſtrange woman drop as an honey-comb, and her mouth is ſmoother than oil:

4 But her end is bitter as wormwood, ſharp as a two-edged ſword.

5 Her feet go down to death; her ſteps take hold on hell.

6 Leſt thou ſhouldeſt ponder the path of life, her ways are moveable, that thou canſt not know them.

7 Hear me now therefore, O ye children, and depart not from the words of my mouth.

8 Remove thy way far from her, and come not nigh the door of her houſe:

9 Leſt thou give thine honour unto others, and thy years unto the cruel:

10 Leſt ſtrangers be filled with thy wealth; and thy labours be in the houſe of a ſtranger,

11 And thou mourn at the laſt, when thy fleſh and thy body are conſumed,

12 And ſay, How have I hated inſtruction, and my heart deſpiſed reproof?

13 And have not obeyed the voice of my teachers, nor inclined mine ear to them that inſtructed me?

14 I was almoſt in all evil, in the midſt of the congregation and aſſembly.

15 ¶ Drink waters out of thine own ciſtern, and running waters out of thine own well.

16 Let thy fountains be diſperſed abroad, and rivers of waters in the ſtreets.

17 Let them be only thine own, and not ſtrangers with thee.

18 Let thy fountain be bleſſed: and rejoice with the wife of thy youth.

19 Let her be as the loving hind, and pleaſant roe: let her breaſts ſatisfy thee at all times, and be thou raviſhed always with her love.

20 And why wilt thou, my ſon, be raviſhed with a ſtrange woman, and embrace the boſom of a ſtranger?

21 For the ways of a man are before the eyes of the LORD, and he pondereth all his goings.

22 ¶ His own iniquities ſhall take the wicked himſelf, and he ſhall be holden with the cords of his ſins.

23 He ſhall die without inſtruction: and in the greatneſs of his folly he ſhall go aſtray.

CHAP. VI.

1 Againſt ſuretiſhip, 6 idleneſs, 12 and miſchievouſneſs. 20 The bleſſings of obedience. 25 The miſchiefs of whoredom.

MY ſon, if thou be ſurety for thy friend, if thou haſt ſtriken thy hand with a ſtranger,

2 Thou art ſnared with the words of thy mouth, thou art taken with the words of thy mouth.

3 Do this now, my ſon, and deliver thyſelf, when thou art come into the hand of thy friend; go, humble thyſelf, and make ſure thy friend.

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 3 For the lips of a ſtrange woman drop as an honey-comb, &c.] As youth is remarkably prone to harlots, the wiſe man here adds another caution he had before given againſt this vice: and, with repeated intreaties, begs the attention of the gay and thoughtleſs to ſo weighty an argument, which he here proſecutes more at large, and preſſes with remarkable eloquence, and very powerful reaſons. Patrick.

4 Sharp as a two-edged ſword.] Like a ſword that cuts on both ſides, ſhe wounds both ſoul and body.

16 Let thy fountains be diſperſed, &c.] The context ſeems to require the negative particle; for from ver. 15th to the 20th, Solomon in figurative expreſſions adviſes his ſon to confine himſelf to his own wife. The Greek verſion (Vatican edition) reads right, Let not thy waters be diſperſed from thine own fountains, let thy waters run in thine own ſtreets, (or channels). Origen, Clement of Alexandria, and Aquila's verſion, have alſo the negative particle. Kennicott.

18 Let thy fountain be bleſſed.] Septuagint, Let thy fountain be peculiar to thyſelf.

19 Let her be as the loving hind, and pleaſant roe.] The hind and roe are taken notice of by authors that write of animals, (particularly Oppian) to be loving creatures, which antiently the greateſt perſons kept in their palaces, and diverted themſelves with them. The ſame appears from ſome beautiful lines in Virgil, beginning Cervus erat forma, &c. Æneid VII. 483.

21 For the ways of a man are before the eyes of the Lord, and he pondereth all his goings.] If the many calamities I have mentioned will not deter thee from thy evil courſes, remember that the eye of God beholds all thy actions, weighs them in the balance of juſtice, and will exactly puniſh or reward thee according to thy works. Patrick.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 If thou haſt ſtriken thine hand to a ſtranger.] Septuagint, Thou haſt ſtriken thine hand to an enemy: meaning, thou haſt made thy friend thine enemy. Wall.

3 Go humble thyſelf, and make ſure thy friend.] Septuagint, Go, neglect not; ſtir up thy friend for whom thou art ſurety; i. e. ſtir him up to pay his debt---none of the verſions have humble thyſelf. Wall.

4 Give not ſleep to thine eyes, nor ſlumber to thine eye-lids:

5 Deliver thy ſelf as a roe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

6 ¶ Go to the ant, thou ſluggard; conſider her ways, and be wiſe:

7 Which having no guide, overſeer, or ruler,

8 Provideth her meat in the ſummer, and gathereth her food in the harveſt.

9 How long wilt thou ſleep, O ſluggard? when wilt thou ariſe out of thy ſleep?

10 Yet a little ſleep, a little ſlumber, a little folding of the hands to ſleep:

11 So ſhall thy poverty come as one that travaileth, and thy want as an armed man.

12 ¶ A naughty perſon, a wicked man walketh with a froward mouth.

13 He winketh with his eyes, he ſpeaketh with his feet, he teacheth with his fingers.

14 Frowardneſs is in his heart; he deviſeth miſchief continually; he ſoweth diſcord.

15 Therefore ſhall his calamity come ſuddenly; ſuddenly ſhall he be broken without remedy.

16 ¶ Theſe ſix things doth the LORD hate: yea, ſeven are an abomination unto him:

17 A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that ſhed innocent blood,

18 An heart that deviſeth wicked imaginations, feet that be ſwift in running to miſchief,

19 A falſe witneſs that ſpeaketh lyes, and him that ſoweth diſcord among brethren.

20 ¶ My ſon, keep thy father's commandment, and forſake not the law of thy mother:

21 Bind them continually upon thine heart, and tie them about thy neck.

22 When thou goeſt, it ſhall lead thee; when thou ſleepeſt, it ſhall keep thee; and when thou awakeſt, it ſhall talk with thee.

23 For the commandment is a lamp; and the law is light; and reproofs of inſtruction are the way of life:

24 To keep thee from the evil woman, from the evil flattery of the tongue of a ſtrange woman.

25 ¶ Luſt not after her beauty in thine heart; neither let her take thee with her eye-lids.

26 For by means of a whoriſh woman a man is brought to a piece of bread: and the adultereſs will hunt for the precious life.

27 Can a man take fire in his boſom, and his clothes not be burned.

28 Can one go upon hot coals, and his feet not be burned?

29 So he that goeth-in to his neighbour's wife: whoſoever toucheth her ſhall not be innocent.

30 Men do not deſpiſe a thief, if he ſteal to ſatisfy his ſoul when he is hungry;

31 But if he be found, he ſhall reſtore ſevenfold, he ſhall give all the ſubſtance of his houſe.

32 But whoſo committeth adultery with a woman lacketh underſtanding: he that doeth it deſtroyeth his own ſoul.

33 A wound and diſhonour ſhall he get; and his reproach ſhall not be wiped away.

34 For jealouſy is the rage of a man: therefore he will not ſpare in the day of vengeance.

35 He will not regard any ranſom; neither will he reſt content, though thou giveſt many gifts.

CHAP. VII.

1 Solomon perſuadeth to a ſincere and kind familiarity with wiſdom. 6 In an example of his own experience he ſheweth, 10 the cunning of an whore, 22 and the deſperate ſimplicity of a young wanton. 24 He dehorteth from ſuch wickedneſs.

6, 7, 8 Go to the ant, thou ſluggard, conſider her ways, and be wiſe.] Obſerve the provident care of the ant, who, during the ſummer, and the plenty of harveſt, lays up a ſufficient ſtock of proviſions to ſupport her in winter. Obſerve how carefully ſhe depoſits her grain in cells ſhe hath digged for it in the earth, that it neither be injured by the chilling winds, nor ſtolen by other creatures who range the fields in ſearch of food: and ſurely ſo ſtriking an inſtance of labour, induſtry, and conſummate policy, exhibited by one of the inſect race, muſt make thee aſhamed of thy indolence, and animate thee to imitate her provident care.

11 Thy want as an armed man.] Whom thou canſt not reſiſt.

25 Neither let her take thee with her eye-lids.] Which have often been compared to nets: Philoſtratus, in his Epiſtles, frequently ſpeaks of the nets of the eyes.

31 But if he be found, he ſhall reſtore ſeven-fold, &c.] The Hebrew word which we here render ſeven-fold, does not properly ſignify any determinate number; but only ſuch as is perfect and complete in its kind. And it may be remembered, that, according to the law of Moſes, a thief was not to reſtore ſeven-fold, but much leſs. See Exod. xii. 1, 4. Patrick.

MY ſon, keep my words, and lay up my commandments with thee.

2 Keep my commandments, and live; and my law as the apple of thine eye.

3 Bind them upon thy fingers, write them upon the table of thine heart.

4 Say unto wiſdom, Thou art my ſiſter; and call underſtanding thy kinſwoman:

5 That they may keep thee from the ſtrange woman, from the ſtranger which flattereth with her words.

6 ¶ For at the window of my houſe I looked through my caſement,

7 And beheld among the ſimple ones, I diſcerned among the youths a young man void of underſtanding,

8 Paſſing through the ſtreet near her corner; and he went the way to her houſe,

9 In the twilight, in the evening, in the black and dark night:

10 And behold, there met him a woman with the attire of an harlot, and ſubtil of heart.

11 (She is loud and ſtubborn; her feet abide not in her houſe:

12 Now is ſhe without, now in the ſtreets, and lieth in wait at every corner.)

13 So ſhe caught him, and kiſſed him, and with an impudent face ſaid unto him,

14 I have peace-offerings with me; this day have I payed my vows.

15 Therefore came I forth to meet thee, diligently to ſeek thy face, and I have found thee.

16 I have decked my bed with coverings of tapeſtry, with carved works, with fine linen of Egypt.

17 I have perfumed my bed with myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.

18 Come, let us take our fill of love until the morning; let us ſolace our ſelves with loves.

19 For the good-man is not at home, he is gone a long journey:

20 He hath taken a bag of money with him, and will come home at the day appointed.

21 With her much fair ſpeech ſhe cauſed him to yield, with the flattering of her lips ſhe forced him.

22 ¶ He goeth after her ſtraightway, as an ox goeth to the ſlaughter, or as a fool to the correction of the ſtocks:

26 Till a dart ſtrike through his liver; as a bird haſteth to the ſnare, and knoweth not that it is for his life.

24 ¶ Hearken unto me now therefore, O ye children, and attend to the words of my mouth.

25 Let not thine heart decline to her ways, go not aſtray in her paths.

26 For ſhe hath caſt down many wounded: yea, many ſtrong men have been ſlain by her.

27 Her houſe is the way to hell, going down to the chambers of death.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The fame, 6 and evidence of wiſdom. 10 The excellency, 12 the nature, 15 the power, 18 the riches, 22 and the eternity of it.

DOTH not wiſdom cry? and underſtanding put forth her voice?

2 She ſtandeth in the top of high places, by the way in the places of the paths.

3 She crieth at the gates, at the entry of the city, at the coming-in at the doors.

4 Unto you, O men, I call; and my voice is to the ſons of man.

5 O ye ſimple, underſtand wiſdom: and ye fools, be ye of an underſtanding heart.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 4 Say unto wiſdom, thou art my ſiſter, &c.] Embrace the precepts I have given thee with the moſt ardent affection; and place ſo high a value upon wiſdom, as to invite her continually to thee, till ſhe be as familiar with thee as an only ſiſter, and thou delight in her precepts as in the company of the moſt loved relation. Patrick.

17 Aloes.] See note on Pſalm xlv. 8.

26 She hath caſt down many wounded, &c.] Mr. Kennicott thinks this verſe ſhould be rendered, For ſhe hath caſt down many warriors, and the moſt valiant men have been ſlain by her. Dr. Hammond thus paraphraſes it: The moſt valiant heroes, the moſt puiſſant ſoldiers, that never have yielded, but ſtood undaunted againſt all other aſſaults, have generally been vanquiſhed, and frequently deſtroyed by the allurements of women.

27 Her houſe is the way to hell.] i. e. To the grave untimely.

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Doth not wiſdom cry? and underſtanding put forth her voice?] Is not there the greateſt reaſon to chide you for ſtupidity, in hearkening to thoſe ſecret allurements to the deeds of darkneſs, when their conſequences are ſo apparent? and you have ſo many open and loud admonitions to be wiſer? and ſuch ſerious and earneſt endeavours have been uſed to reclaim you from your folly? Patrick.

6 ¶ Hear: for I will ſpeak of excellent things; and the opening of my lips ſhall be right things.
7 For my mouth ſhall ſpeak truth; and wickedneſs is an abomination to my lips.
8 All the words of my mouth are in righteouſneſs; there is nothing froward or perverſe in them.
9 They are all plain to him that underſtandeth, and right to them that find knowledge.
10 ¶ Receive my inſtruction, and not ſilver; and knowledge rather than choice gold.
11 For wiſdom is better than rubies; and all the things that may be deſired are not to be compared to it.
12 ¶ I wiſdom dwell with prudence, and find out knowledge of witty inventions.
13 The fear of the LORD is to hate evil: pride and arrogancy, and the evil way, and the froward mouth do I hate.
14 Counſel is mine, and ſound wiſdom: I am underſtanding; I have ſtrength.
15 ¶ By me kings reign, and princes decree juſtice.
16 By me princes rule, and nobles, even all the judges of the earth.
17 I love them that love me; and thoſe that ſeek me early ſhall find me.
18 ¶ Riches and honour are with me; yea, durable riches and righteouſneſs.
19 My fruit is better than gold, yea, than fine gold; and my revenue than choice ſilver.
20 I lead in the way of righteouſneſs, in the midſt of the paths of judgement:
21 That I may cauſe thoſe that love me to inherit ſubſtance; and I will fill their treaſures.
22 ¶ The LORD poſſeſſed me in the beginning of his way, before his works of old.
23 I was ſet up from everlaſting, from the beginning, or ever the earth was.
24 When there were no depths, I was brought forth: when there were no fountains abounding with water.
25 Before the mountains were ſettled; before the hills was I brought forth:
26 While as yet he had not made the earth, nor the fields, nor the higheſt part of the duſt of the world:
27 When he prepared the heavens, I was there: when he ſet a compaſs upon the face of the depth:
28 When he eſtabliſhed the clouds above: when he ſtrengthened the fountains of the deep:
29 When he gave to the ſea his decree, that the waters ſhould not paſs his commandment: when he appointed the foundations of the earth.
30 Then I was by him, as one brought up with him: and I was daily his delight, rejoicing always before him;
31 Rejoicing in the habitable part of his earth; and my delights were with the ſons of men.
32 Now therefore hearken unto me, O ye children: for bleſſed are they that keep my ways.
33 Hear inſtruction, and be wiſe, and refuſe it not.
34 Bleſſed is the man that heareth me, watching daily at my gates, waiting at the poſts of my doors.
35 For whoſo findeth me, findeth life, and ſhall obtain favour of the LORD.

10 Receive my inſtruction, and not ſilver.] Not frequently means rather than; therefore this verſe ſhould be tranſlated, Receive my inſtructions rather than ſilver. Pilkington.

23 I was ſet up from everlaſting, from the beginning, or ever the earth was.] My dominion is from everlaſting, nor hath it any ſuperior: all antiquity comes infinitely ſhort of mine, who was before the earth itſelf, the common mother of all mankind. Patrick.

24 When there were no depths, I was brought forth, &c.] When as yet there were no depths, I was conceived in the mind of God, long before the ſprings and fountains.

25, 26 Before the mountains were ſettled, &c.] Before the mountains, from whoſe bowels the fountains have their ſource; before the hills diverſified the ſurface of the earth, I had a being. Nay, even before he had formed this earthly globe, much leſs adorned it with lofty mountains and ſpacious plains. Patrick.

27 When he prepared the heavens, I was there, &c.] I was preſent when he diſpoſed the heavens into this wonderful order, wherein they now appear; as well as when he moved upon the confuſed abyſs which they incloſed, and faſhioned the earth into a regular ſhape. Patrick.

29 When he gave to the ſea his decree, &c.] When he preſcribed limits to the boiſterous ocean, and confined its ſwelling waves; that they ſhould not overflow and deſtroy the earth.

30, 31 Then I was by him, as one brought up with him, &c.] Then was I conſtantly with him; was daily his delight, rejoicing in the lovely work of creation; was delighted with the beautiful variety of animals which adorned this earthly globe; eſpecially with the children of men, who were made in the image of the Almighty, and capable of converſing with me.——The perſon who here ſpeaks in the character of wiſdom is generally ſuppoſed to be the ſon of God, who was in the boſom of his father before this world had exiſtence, and rejoiced with him at the formation of the univerſe. Patrick.

36 But he that ſinneth againſt me wrongeth his own ſoul: all they that hate me love death.

CHAP. IX.

1 The diſcipline, 4 and doctrine of wiſdom. 13 The cuſtom, 16 an error of folly.

WIſdom hath builded her houſe, ſhe hath hewn out her ſeven pillars.

2 She hath killed her beaſts; ſhe hath mingled her wine; ſhe hath alſo furniſhed her table.

3 She hath ſent forth her maidens: ſhe crieth upon the higheſt places of the city:

4 ¶ Whoſo is ſimple, let him turn in hither: as for him that wanteth underſtanding, ſhe ſaith to him,

5 Come, eat of my bread, and drink of the wine which I have mingled.

6 Forſake the fooliſh, and live; and go in the way of underſtanding.

7 He that reproveth a ſcorner, getteth to himſelf ſhame: and he that rebuketh a wicked man, getteth himſelf a blot.

8 Reprove not a ſcorner, leſt he hate thee: rebuke a wiſe man, and he will love thee.

9 Give inſtruction to a wiſe man, and he will be yet wiſer: teach a juſt man, and he will increaſe in learning.

10 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wiſdom: and the knowledge of the Holy is underſtanding.

11 For by me thy days ſhall be multiplied, and the years of thy life ſhall be increaſed.

12 If thou be wiſe, thou ſhalt be wiſe for thy ſelf: but if thou ſcorneſt, thou alone ſhalt bear it.

13 ¶ A fooliſh woman is clamorous; ſhe is ſimple, and knoweth nothing.

14 For ſhe ſitteth at the door of her houſe, on a ſeat in the high places of the city.

15 To call paſſengers who go right on their ways:

16 ¶ Whoſo is ſimple, let him turn in hither: and as for him that wanteth underſtanding, ſhe ſaith to him,

17 Stolen waters are ſweet, and bread eaten in ſecret is pleaſant.

18 But he knoweth not that the dead are there; and that her gueſts are in the depths of hell.

CHAP. X.

From this chapter to the five and twentieth, are ſundry obſervations of moral virtues and their contrary vices.

THE proverbs of Solomon. A wiſe ſon maketh a glad father; but a fooliſh ſon is the heavineſs of his mother.

2 Treaſures of wickedneſs profit nothing: but righteouſneſs delivereth from death.

3 The LORD will not ſuffer the ſoul of the righteous to famiſh: but he caſteth away the ſubſtance of the wicked.

4 He becometh poor that dealeth with a ſlack hand: but the hand of the diligent maketh rich.

5 He that gathereth in ſummer is a wiſe ſon: but he that ſleepeth in harveſt is a ſon that cauſeth ſhame.

6 Bleſſings are upon the head of the juſt: but violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.

7 The memory of the juſt is bleſſed: but the name of the wicked ſhall rot.

8 The wiſe in heart will receive commandments: but a prating fool ſhall fall.

9 He that walketh uprightly walketh ſurely: but he that perverteth his ways ſhall be known.

10 He that winketh with the eye cauſeth ſorrow: but a prating fool ſhall fall.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 6 Forſake the fooliſh, and live; and go in the way of underſtanding.] Be perſuaded to make trial of theſe precepts; forſake the company of the wicked men, and abandon all ſenſeleſs actions: then will you have a taſte of true happineſs, which will invite you to liſten to the deliberate dictates of ſober reaſon, and the grave counſels of prudent perſons. Patrick.

12 If thou be wiſe, thou ſhalt be wiſe for thyſelf: &c.] I earneſtly invite thee to imbibe my doctrines; not for mine own ſake, but for thine: for thou alone wilt reap the fruit of being truly virtuous; or ſuffer the puniſhment which God will ſurely inflict on all profane ſcoffers at religion and goodneſs.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 6 Bleſſings are upon the head of the juſt: but violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.] The bleſſings of heaven ſhall viſibly deſcend in great plenty on the head of the juſt and merciful man: but their own iniquity ſhall violently overwhelm thoſe, to their utter confuſion, who wickedly defraud and oppreſs their neighbours. Patrick.

10 He that winketh with the eye, cauſeth ſorrow: but a prating fool ſhall fall.] The laſt hemiſtick of this verſe is by the careleſneſs of the tranſcriber repeated from ver. 8. In the Greek, Syriac, 11 The mouth of a righteous man is a well of life: but violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.

12 Hatred ſtirreth up ſtrifes: but love covereth all ſins.

13 In the lips of him that hath underſtanding wiſdom is found: but a rod is for the back of him that is void of underſtanding.

14 Wiſe men lay up knowledge: but the mouth of the fooliſh is near deſtruction.

15 The rich man's wealth is his ſtrong city: the deſtruction of the poor is their poverty.

16 The labour of the righteous tendeth to life; the fruit of the wicked to ſin.

17 He is in the way of life that keepeth inſtruction: but he that refuſeth reproof, erreth.

18 He that hideth hatred with lying lips, and he that uttereth a ſlander, is a fool.

19 In the multitude of words there wanteth not ſin: but he that refraineth his lips is wiſe.

20 The tongue of the juſt is as choice ſilver, the heart of the wicked is little worth.

21 The lips of the righteous feed many: but fools die for want of wiſdom.

22 The bleſſing of the LORD, it maketh rich, and he addeth no ſorrow with it.

23 It is as ſport to a fool to do miſchief: but a man of underſtanding hath wiſdom.

24 The fear of the wicked, it ſhall come upon him: but the deſire of the righteous ſhall be granted.

25 As the whirlwind paſſeth, ſo is the wicked no more: but the righteous is an everlaſting foundation.

26 As vinegar to the teeth, and as ſmoke to the eyes, ſo is the ſluggard to them that ſend him.

27 The fear of the LORD prolongeth days: but the years of the wicked ſhall be ſhortened.

28 The hope of the righteous ſhall be gladneſs: but the expectation of the wicked ſhall periſh.

29 The way of the LORD is ſtrength to the upright: but deſtruction ſhall be to the workers of iniquity.

30 The righteous ſhall never be removed: but the wicked ſhall not inhabit the earth.

31 The mouth of the juſt bringeth forth wiſdom: but the froward tongue ſhall be cut out.

32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable: but the mouth of the wicked ſpeaketh frowardneſs.

CHAP. XI.

A Falſe balance is an abomination to the LORD: but a juſt weight is his delight.

2 When pride cometh, then cometh ſhame: but with the lowly is wiſdom.

3 The integrity of the upright ſhall guide them: but the perverſeneſs of tranſgreſſors ſhall deſtroy them.

4 Riches profit not in the day of wrath: but righteouſneſs delivereth from death.

5 The righteouſneſs of the perfect ſhall direct his way: but the wicked ſhall fall by his own wickedneſs.

6 The righteouſneſs of the upright ſhall deliver them: but tranſgreſſors ſhall be taken in their own naughtineſs.

7 When a wicked man dieth, his expectation ſhall periſh: and the hope of unjuſt men periſheth.

8 The righteous is delivered out of trouble, and the wicked cometh in his ſtead.

9 An hypocrite with his mouth deſtroyeth

Syriac, and Arabic verſions, we find the firſt hemiſtick beautifully illuſtrated by an antitheſis in the ſecond, thus, He that winketh with the eye, cauſeth ſorrow; but he that reproveth, worketh ſafety. Maxims worthy of Solomon! "When a man connives at his friend's failings, the offender is encouraged to ſin on, and heap up matter for very ſorrowful reflections afterwards: but the man who with an honeſt freedom prudently reproves him, moſt effectually contrives his honour and ſafety." Kennicott.

18 He that hideth hatred with lying lips.] It ſhould be rendered, hath lying lips, to make the verſe conſiſt of two parts, and not of one only, as in the preſent tranſlation: for each verſe of the Proverbs conſiſts of two diſtinct propoſitions, both relating to the ſame thing; and theſe are generally oppoſed to each other.

19 In the multitude of words there wanteth not ſin: but he that refraineth his lips is wiſe.] Nor are calumny and flattery the only vices of the tongue; many words are rarely innocent: he therefore that is ſparing of ſpeech, and conſiders well what he is going to utter, is truly prudent. Patrick.

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1. A falſe balance is an abomination to the Lord, &c.] The Lord deteſteth thoſe who endeavour to defraud their neighbour of his juſt weight; whilſt thoſe, who are honeſt in their dealings, are his favourites. Patrick.

7 When a wicked man dieth, &c.] Septuagint reads, When a good man dies, his hope does not periſh: but the expectation of the wicked periſheth. Wall.

his neighbour: but through knowledge ſhall the juſt be delivered.

10 When it goeth well with the righteous, the city rejoiceth: and when the wicked periſh, there is ſhouting.

11 By the bleſſing of the upright the city is exalted: but it is overthrown by the mouth of the wicked.

12 He that is void of wiſdom deſpiſeth his neighbour: but a man of underſtanding holdeth his peace.

13 A tale-bearer revealeth ſecrets: but he that is of a faithful ſpirit concealeth the matter.

14 Where no counſel is, the people fall: but in the multitude of counſellers there is ſafety.

15 He that is ſurety for a ſtranger ſhall ſmart for it: and he that hateth ſuretiſhip is ſure.

16 A gracious woman retaineth honour: and ſtrong men retain riches.

17 The merciful man doeth good to his own ſoul: but he that is cruel troubleth his own fleſh.

18 The wicked worketh a deceitful work: but to him that ſoweth righteouſneſs ſhall be a ſure reward.

19 As righteouſneſs tendeth to life: ſo he that purſueth evil purſueth it to his own death.

20 They that are of a froward heart are abomination to the LORD: but ſuch as are upright in their way are his delight.

21 Though hand join in hand, the wicked ſhall not be unpuniſhed: but the ſeed of the righteous ſhall be delivered.

22 As a jewel of gold in a ſwine's ſnout, ſo is a fair woman which is without diſcretion.

23 The deſire of the righteous is only good: but the expectation of the wicked is wrath.

24 There is that ſcattereth, and yet increaſeth; and there is that with-holdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.

25 The liberal ſoul ſhall be made fat; and he that watereth ſhall be watered alſo himſelf.

26 He that with-holdeth corn, the people ſhall curſe him: but bleſſing ſhall be upon the head of him that ſelleth it.

27 He that diligently ſeeketh good, procureth favour: but he that ſeeketh miſchief, it ſhall come unto him.

28 He that truſteth in his riches ſhall fall: but the righteous ſhall flouriſh as a branch.

29 He that troubleth his own houſe ſhall inherit the wind: and the fool ſhall be ſervant to the wiſe of heart.

30 The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life: and he that winneth ſouls is wiſe.

31 Behold, the righteous ſhall be recompenſed in the earth: much more the wicked and the ſinner.

CHAP. XII.

WHoſo loveth inſtruction, loveth knowledge: but he that hateth reproof is brutiſh.

2 A good man obtaineth favour of the LORD: but a man of wicked devices will he condemn.

3 A man ſhall not be eſtabliſhed by wickedneſs: but the root of the righteous ſhall not be moved.

4 A virtuous woman is a crown to her huſband: but ſhe that maketh aſhamed is as rottenneſs in his bones.

5 The thoughts of the righteous are right: but the counſels of the wicked are deceit.

6 The words of the wicked are to lie in wait for blood: but the mouth of the upright ſhall deliver them.

7 The wicked are overthrown, and are not: but the houſe of the righteous ſhall ſtand.

8 A man ſhall be commended according to his wiſdom: but he that is of a perverſe heart ſhall be deſpiſed.

9 He that is deſpiſed and hath a ſervant, is

---

30 The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life; and he that winneth ſouls is wiſe.] The benefit ſociety receives from a juſt and charitable man, may be compared to the fruit of the tree of life, which keeps the ſons of men from miſery: but he is the far greater benefactor who communicates wiſdom ſo ſeaſonably, that he draws ſouls to the love of virtue.

31 Behold, the righteous ſhall be recompenſed in the earth.] i. e. Shall be puniſhed for their offences. Clark.

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Whoſo loveth inſtruction, loveth knowledge, &c.] It is a certain indication of a wiſe and good man, to liſten with attention and patience to thoſe who tell him of his faults; but he who declines inſtruction, and turneth away from reproof, indicates that his paſſions are ſo brutiſh, that there is little hopes of his being ever reclaimed. Patrick.

4 She that maketh aſhamed, is as rottenneſs in his bones.] Septuagint, better than he that honoureth himself, and lacketh bread.

10 A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast: but the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel.

11 He that tilleth his land shall be satisfied with bread: but he that followeth vain persons is void of understanding.

12 The wicked desireth the net of evil men: but the root of the righteous yieldeth fruit.

13 The wicked is snared by the transgression of his lips: but the just shall come out of trouble.

14 A man shall be satisfied with good by the fruit of his mouth, and the recompense of a man's hands shall be rendered unto him.

15 The way of a fool is right in his own eyes: but he that hearkeneth unto counsel is wise.

16 A fool's wrath is presently known: but a prudent man covereth shame.

17 He that speaketh truth sheweth forth righteousness; but a false witness deceit.

18 There is that speaketh like the piercings of a sword: but the tongue of the wise is health.

19 The lip of truth shall be established for ever: but a lying tongue is but for a moment.

20 Deceit is in the heart of them that imagine evil: but to the counsellers of peace is joy.

21 There shall no evil happen to the just: but the wicked shall be filled with mischief.

22 Lying lips are abomination to the LORD: but they that deal truly are his delight.

23 A prudent man concealeth knowledge: but the heart of fools proclaimeth foolishness.

24 The hand of the diligent shall bear rule: but the slothful shall be under tribute.

25 Heaviness in the heart of man maketh it stoop: but a good word maketh it glad.

26 The righteous is more excellent than his neighbour: but the way of the wicked seduceth them.

27 The slothful man roasteth not that which he took in hunting: but the substance of a diligent man is precious.

28 In the way of righteousness is life; and in the path-way thereof there is no death.

CHAP. XIII.

A Wise son heareth his father's instruction: but a scorner heareth not rebuke.

2 A man shall eat good by the fruit of his mouth: but the soul of the transgressors shall eat violence.

3 He that keepeth his mouth keepeth his life: but he that openeth wide his lips shall have destruction.

4 The soul of the sluggard desireth, and hath nothing: but the soul of the diligent shall be made fat.

5 A righteous man hateth lying: but a wicked man is loathsome, and cometh to shame.

6 Righteousness keepeth him that is upright in the way: but wickedness overthroweth the sinner.

7 There is that maketh himself rich, yet hath nothing: there is that maketh himself poor, yet hath great riches.

8 The ransom of a man's life are his riches: but the poor heareth not rebuke.

9 The light of the righteous rejoiceth: but the lamp of the wicked shall be put out.

10 Only by pride cometh contention: but with the well-advised is wisdom.

11 Wealth gotten by vanity shall be diminished: but he that gathereth by labour shall increase.

12 Hope deferred maketh the heart sick: but when the desire cometh, it is a tree of life.

13 Whoso despiseth the word shall be detuagint, A mischievous woman undoes her husband, like a worm in the wood.

13 The wicked is snared by the transgression of his lips: but the just shall come out of trouble.] The wicked ensnares himself by that deceitful talk wherewith he designed to have ensnared others; but the righteous escapes the danger: nay, by his prudent discourse, avoids very great difficulties, wherein he otherwise might have been entangled. Patrick.

28 In the way of righteousness is life, and in the path-way thereof there is no death.] True goodness leads unto endless prosperity and happiness: here the antithesis seems wanting: Septuagint reads,---is life, but the way of revengeful men tends to death.

Notes on the Thirteenth Chapter.

Ver. 2 A man shall eat good, &c.] He that speaks well of others, or gives them faithful counsel, shall reap the benefit thereof himself, but calumniators shall suffer punishment. Patrick.

4 The soul of the sluggard desireth, &c.] Neither riches nor learning can be gained by the slothful man; but the industrious shall enjoy more than was either expected or even desired. Pat.

8 The poor heareth not rebuke.] No-body is apt to bring any charge against the poor.

ſtroyed: but he that feareth the commandment ſhall be rewarded.

14 The law of the wiſe is a fountain of life, to depart from the ſnares of death.

15 Good underſtanding giveth favour: but the way of tranſgreſſors is hard.

16 Every prudent man dealeth with knowledge: but a fool layeth open his folly.

17 A wicked meſſenger falleth into miſchief: but a faithful ambaſſador is health.

18 Poverty and ſhame ſhall be to him that refuſeth inſtruction: but he that regardeth reproof ſhall be honoured.

19 The deſire accompliſhed is ſweet to the ſoul: but it is abomination to fools to depart from evil.

20 He that walketh with wiſe men ſhall be wiſe: but a companion of fools ſhall be deſtroyed.

21 Evil purſueth ſinners: but to the righteous good ſhall be repaid.

22 A good man leaveth an inheritance to his children's children: and the wealth of the ſinner is laid up for the juſt.

23 Much food is in the tillage of the poor: but there is that is deſtroyed, for want of judgement.

24 He that ſpareth his rod hateth his ſon: but he that loveth him chaſteneth him betimes.

25 The righteous eateth to the ſatisfying of his ſoul: but the belly of the wicked ſhall want.

CHAP. XIV.

EVERY wiſe woman buildeth her houſe: but the fooliſh plucketh it down with her hands.

2 He that walketh in his uprightneſs feareth the LORD: but he that is perverſe in his ways deſpiſeth him.

3 In the mouth of the fooliſh is a rod of pride: but the lips of the wiſe ſhall preſerve them.

4 Where no oxen are, the crib is clean: but much increaſe is by the ſtrength of the ox.

5 A faithful witneſs will not lye: but a falſe witneſs will utter lyes.

6 A ſcorner ſeeketh wiſdom, and findeth it not: but knowledge is eaſy unto him that underſtandeth.

7 Go from the preſence of a fooliſh man, when thou perceiveſt not in him the lips of knowledge.

8 The wiſdom of the prudent is to underſtand his way: but the folly of fools is deceit.

9 Fools make a mock at ſin: but among the righteous there is favour.

10 The heart knoweth his own bitterneſs; and a ſtranger doth not intermeddle with his joy.

11 The houſe of the wicked ſhall be overthrown: but the tabernacle of the upright ſhall flouriſh.

12 There is a way which ſeemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.

13 Even in laughter the heart is ſorrowful; and the end of that mirth is heavineſs.

14 The backſlider in heart ſhall be filled with his own ways: and a good man ſhall be ſatisfied from himſelf.

15 The ſimple believeth every word: but the prudent man looketh well to his going.

16 A wiſe man feareth, and departeth from evil: but the fool rageth and is confident.

17 He that is ſoon angry dealeth fooliſhly: and a man of wicked devices is hated.

18 The ſimple inherit folly: but the prudent are crowned with knowledge.

---

20 He that walketh with wiſe men, ſhall be wiſe, &c.] He that keeps company with wiſe and good men is likely to be himſelf wiſe and good, and happy: but he who aſſociates with the wicked, will unavoidably be infected with their wickedneſs. Patrick.

21 Evil purſueth ſinners, &c.] The wickedneſs of ſinners purſues them to unavoidable deſtruction: but the good which righteous men perform will infallibly return into their own boſom, and reward them with many bleſſings.

23 Much food is in the tillage of the poor.] A poor man commonly manages and makes the moſt of a few acres.

Notes on the Fourteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Every wiſe woman buildeth her houſe: but the fooliſh plucketh it down with her hands.] A wiſe and virtuous wife, by her prudent adminiſtration, is capable of raiſing the riches of her family, and increaſing its reputation; but ſhe that is fooliſh, and prone to vice, by her ill management and luxury, will waſte all that hath been gotten by her predeceſſors. Patrick.

3 In the mouth of the fooliſh is a rod of pride: but the lips of the wiſe ſhall preſerve them.] A fool is ſo inſolent, that he boldly wounds the reputation of others, though it recoil at laſt upon him with a terrible blow; but wiſe men are careful not to offend, much leſs abuſe the meaneſt perſon; and hence they are always ſecure. Patrick.

9 Fools make a mock at ſin; but among the righteous there is favour.] Sin maketh fools to deride one another, but between the righteous there is favour, or mutual good-will. Taylor.

20 The

19 The evil bow before the good; and the wicked at the gates of the righteous.

20 The poor is hated even of his own neighbour: but the rich hath many friends.

21 He that deſpiſeth his neighbour ſinneth: but he that hath mercy on the poor, happy is he.

22 Do they not err that deviſe evil? but mercy and truth ſhall be to them that deviſe good.

23 In all labour there is profit: but the talk of the lips tendeth only to penury.

24 The crown of the wiſe is their riches: but the fooliſhneſs of fools is folly.

25 A true witneſs delivereth ſouls: but a deceitful witneſs ſpeaketh lyes.

26 In the fear of the LORD is ſtrong confidence: and his children ſhall have a place of refuge.

27 The fear of the LORD is a fountain of life, to depart from the ſnares of death.

28 In the multitude of people is the king's honour: but in the want of people is the deſtruction of the prince.

29 He that is ſlow to wrath is of great underſtanding: but he that is haſty of ſpirit exalteth folly.

30 A ſound heart is the life of the fleſh: but envy, the rottenneſs of the bones.

31 He that oppreſſeth the poor reproacheth his maker: but he that honoureth him hath mercy on the poor.

32 The wicked is driven away in his wickedneſs: but the righteous hath hope in his death.

33 Wiſdom reſteth in the heart of him that hath underſtanding: but that which is in the midſt of fools is made known.

34 Righteouſneſs exalteth a nation: but ſin is a reproach to any people.

35 The king's favour is towards a wiſe ſervant: but his wrath is againſt him that cauſeth ſhame.

CHAP. XV.

A Soft anſwer turneth away wrath: but grievous words ſtir up anger.

2 The tongue of the wiſe uſeth knowledge aright: but the mouth of fools poureth out fooliſhneſs.

3 The eyes of the LORD are in every place, beholding the evil and the good.

4 A wholſome tongue is a tree of life: but perverſeneſs therein is a breach in the ſpirit.

5 A fool deſpiſeth his father's inſtruction: but he that regardeth reproof is prudent.

6 In the houſe of the righteous is much treaſure: but in the revenues of the wicked is trouble.

7 The lips of the wiſe diſperſe knowledge: but the heart of the fooliſh doth not ſo.

8 The ſacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD: but the prayer of the upright is his delight.

9 The way of the wicked is an abomination unto the LORD: but he loveth him that followeth after righteouſneſs.

10 Correction is grievous unto him that forſaketh the way: and he that hateth reproof ſhall die.

11 Hell and deſtruction are before the LORD: how much more then the hearts of the children of men?

12 A ſcorner loveth not one that reproveth him: neither will he go unto the wiſe.

20 The rich hath many friends.] Many who will pretend to be his friends, and offer to aſſiſt him with every thing in their power.

23 In all labour there is profit: but the talk of the lips tendeth only to penury.] Solomon diſtinguiſhes between the labour of the tongue, and the labour of the hands; conſidering want as the reward of the one, and wealth as that of the other. For it is commonly found, that thoſe who talk big, boaſt highly, and promiſe mighty things, are beggars, and receive no benefit from their idle diſcourſe: nor are they in general remarkable for diligence in their calling, but feed themſelves with words; and to uſe the words of a ſacred writer, fill their bellies with the eaſt-wind. Bacon, Advancement of Learning.

33 That which is in the midſt of fools is made known.] The negative particle ſeems wanting here: the Syriac and Arabic verſions have it; and the Greek reads, That which is in the heart of fools is not thoroughly known.

34 Righteouſneſs exalteth a nation.] Though it may ſometimes happen otherwiſe in ſingle and private caſes, yet this is the natural and univerſal effect of things in their general and proper tendency. Clark.

Notes on the Fifteenth Chapter.

Ver. 8 The ſacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord.] It is impious to think the Almighty will be pleaſed with mere gifts and ſacrifices; which, when preſented by wicked men, who never intend to put away the evil of their doings, are an abomination to the Divine Majeſty.

11 Hell and deſtruction are before the Lord: how much more then the hearts of the children of men?] The Lord is perfectly acquainted with the moſt ſecret tranſactions; neither the grave, nor the depths of hell can conceal any thing from him; how can then the thoughts of the human heart eſcape his notice, or the ſinner hope to form his wicked ſchemes in ſecret? Patrick.

15 All

tenance: but by ſorrow of the heart the ſpirit is broken.

14 The heart of him that hath underſtanding ſeeketh knowledge: but the mouth of fools feedeth on fooliſhneſs.

15 All the days of the afflicted are evil: but he that is of a merry heart hath a continual feaſt.

16 Better is little with the fear of the LORD, than great treaſure, and trouble therewith.

17 Better is a dinner of herbs where love is, than a ſtalled ox, and hatred therewith.

18 A wrathful man ſtirreth up ſtrife: but he that is ſlow to anger appeaſeth ſtrife.

19 The way of the ſlothful man is as an hedge of thorns: but the way of the righteous is made plain.

20 A wiſe ſon maketh a glad father: but a fooliſh man deſpiſeth his mother.

21 Folly is joy to him that is deſtitute of wiſdom: but a man of underſtanding walketh uprightly.

22 Without counſel purpoſes are diſappointed: but in the multitude of counſellers they are eſtabliſhed.

23 A man hath joy by the anſwer of his mouth: and a word ſpoken in due ſeaſon, how good is it!

24 The way of life is above to the wiſe, that he may depart from hell beneath.

25 The LORD will deſtroy the houſe of the proud: but he will eſtabliſh the border of the widow.

26 The thoughts of the wicked are an abomination to the LORD: but the words of the pure are pleaſant words.

27 He that is greedy of gain troubleth his own houſe; but he that hateth gifts ſhall live.

28 The heart of the righteous ſtudieth to anſwer: but the mouth of the wicked poureth out evil things.

29 The LORD is far from the wicked: but he heareth the prayer of the righteous.

30 The light of the eyes rejoiceth the heart: and a good report maketh the bones fat.

31 The ear that heareth the reproof of life abideth among the wiſe.

32 He that refuſeth inſtruction deſpiſeth his own ſoul: but he that heareth reproof getteth underſtanding.

33 The fear of the LORD is the inſtruction of wiſdom; and before honour is humility.

CHAP. XVI.

THE preparations of the heart in man, and the anſwer of the tongue is from the LORD.

2 All the ways of a man are clean in his own eyes; but the LORD weigheth the ſpirits.

3 Commit thy works unto the LORD, and thy thoughts ſhall be eſtabliſhed.

4 The LORD hath made all things for himſelf: yea, even the wicked for the day of evil.

5 Every one that is proud in heart is an abomination to the LORD: though hand join in hand, he ſhall not be unpuniſhed.

6 By mercy and truth iniquity is purged: and by the fear of the LORD men depart from evil.

7 When a man's ways pleaſe the LORD, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him.

8 Better is a little with righteouſneſs, than great revenues without right.

9 A man's heart deviſeth his way; but the LORD directeth his ſteps.

10 A divine ſentence is in the lips of the king: his mouth tranſgreſſeth not in judgement.

15 All the days of the afflicted are evil, &c.] Septuagint reads, The eyes of the wicked do every day expect evil; but good men are always at quiet.

19 The way of the ſlothful man, &c.] Septuagint, The way of the ſlothful man is hedged up with buſhes: but the way of the diligent, plain.

20 But a fooliſh man, &c.] The Greek and Syriac, Chaldee Paraphraſe, and a Hebrew MS at Cambridge read, But a fooliſh ſon. Kennicott.

27 He that is greedy of gain, &c.] Septuagint reads, He that takes bribes, deſtroys himſelf: but he that hates bribery, ſhall be ſafe.

Notes on the Sixteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The preparation of the heart in man, and the anſwer of the tongue is from the Lord.] In the Hebrew it is, Man hath the diſpoſing of the heart; he may, with the leave of the Almighty, and his common aſſiſtance, intend, propound, and reſolve within himſelf what he will ſay or do; but whether he ſhall be able to utter the things he hath premeditated, or attend the end of his deliberation, is more than he can promiſe himſelf, that depending on the pleaſure of the Lord. Patrick.

4 The Lord hath made all things for himſelf: yea, even the wicked for the day of evil.] The true reading is, The Lord has made all things, one anſwerable to another; yea, even the wicked to the day of evil. Clark.

11 All

11 A juſt weight and balance are the LORD's: all the weights of the bag are his work.

12 It is an abomination to kings to commit wickedneſs: for the throne is eſtabliſhed by righteouſneſs.

13 Righteous lips are the delight of kings; and they love him that ſpeaketh right.

14 The wrath of a king is as meſſengers of death; but a wiſe man will pacify it.

15 In the light of the king's countenance is life; and his favour is as a cloud of the latter rain.

16 How much better is it to get wiſdom, than gold? and to get underſtanding, rather to be choſen than ſilver?

17 The high-way of the upright is to depart from evil: he that keepeth his way preſerveth his ſoul.

18 Pride goeth before deſtruction, and an haughty ſpirit before a fall.

19 Better it is to be of an humble ſpirit with the lowly, than to divide the ſpoil with the proud.

20 He that handleth a matter wiſely ſhall find good: and whoſo truſteth in the LORD, happy is he.

21 The wiſe in heart ſhall be called prudent: and the ſweetneſs of the lips increaſeth learning.

22 Underſtanding is a well-ſpring of life unto him that hath it: but the inſtruction of fools is folly.

23 The heart of the wiſe teacheth his mouth, and addeth learning to his lips.

24 Pleaſant words are as an honey-comb, ſweet to the ſoul, and health to the bones.

25 There is a way that ſeemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.

26 He that laboureth laboureth for himſelf; for his mouth craveth it of him.

27 An ungodly man diggeth up evil: and in his lips there is as a burning fire.

28 A froward man ſoweth ſtrife, and a whiſperer ſeparateth chief friends.

29 A violent man enticeth his neighbour, and leadeth him into the way that is not good.

30 He ſhutteth his eyes to deviſe froward things: moving his lips he bringeth evil to paſs.

31 The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteouſneſs.

32 He that is ſlow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his ſpirit, than he that taketh a city.

33 The lot is caſt into the lap; but the whole diſpoſing thereof is of the LORD.

CHAP. XVII.

BEtter is a dry morſel, and quietneſs therewith, than a houſe full of ſacrifices with ſtrife.

2 A wiſe ſervant ſhall have rule over a ſon that cauſeth ſhame, and ſhall have part of the inheritance among the brethren.

3 The fining-pot is for ſilver, and the furnace for gold: but the LORD trieth the hearts.

4 A wicked doer giveth heed to falſe lips; and a lyar giveth ear to a naughty tongue.

5 Whoſo mocketh the poor reproacheth his maker: and he that is glad at calamities ſhall not be unpuniſhed.

6 Children's children are the crown of old men; and the glory of children are their fathers.

7 Excellent ſpeech becometh not a fool: much leſs do lying lips a prince.

8 A gift is as a precious ſtone in the eyes of him that hath it: whitherſoever it turneth, it proſpereth.

9 He that covereth a tranſgreſſion ſeeketh love; but he that repeateth a matter ſeparateth very friends.

---

11 All the weights of the bag, &c.] It is ſtones in the original: for the Hebrew weights were not made of metal, leſt the ruſt ſhould eat them. Lamy.

33 The lot is caſt into the lap: but the whole diſpoſing thereof is of the Lord.] Acknowledge the Divine Providence in all things, even in thoſe which ſeem moſt caſual: for though men caſt the lots into the lap, or veſſel, it is the Lord who directs in what order they ſhall be drawn, and thence determines the doubtful matter according to his own pleaſure. Patrick.

Notes on the Seventeenth Chapter.

Ver. 2 A wiſe ſervant ſhall have rule over a ſon that cauſeth ſhame, &c.] Probity and prudence ſo greatly ſurpaſs riches and a noble birth, that a wiſe and faithful ſervant often arrives at the honour of being appointed the governor of a ſon, whoſe folly and wickedneſs render him a diſcredit to his family. Patrick.

4 A liar giveth ear to a naughty tongue.] Septuagint reads, A good man gives no heed to lying lips.

9 He that covereth a tranſgreſſion, ſeeketh love.] He that buries in oblivion a fault which hath been committed againſt him, takes the beſt courſe to preſerve friendſhip, and to render himſelf univerſally beloved.

10 A reproof entereth more into a wiſe man than an hundred ſtripes into a fool.

11 An evil man ſeeketh only rebellion: therefore a cruel meſſenger ſhall be ſent againſt him.

12 Let a bear robbed of her whelps meet a man, rather than a fool in his folly.

13 Whoſo rewardeth evil for good, evil ſhall not depart from his houſe.

14 The beginning of ſtrife is as when one letteth out water: therefore leave off contention before it be meddled with.

15 He that juſtifieth the wicked, and he that condemneth the juſt, even they both are abomination to the LORD.

16 Wherefore is there a price in the hand of a fool to get wiſdom, ſeeing he hath no heart to it?

17 A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adverſity.

18 A man void of underſtanding ſtriketh hands, and becometh ſurety in the preſence of his friend.

19 He loveth tranſgreſſion that loveth ſtrife: and he that exalteth his gate ſeeketh deſtruction.

20 He that hath a froward heart findeth no good: and he that hath a perverſe tongue falleth into miſchief.

21 He that begetteth a fool doeth it to his ſorrow: and the father of a fool hath no joy.

22 A merry heart doeth good like a medicine; but a broken ſpirit drieth the bones.

23 A wicked man taketh a gift out of the boſom to pervert the ways of judgement.

24 Wiſdom is before him that hath underſtanding: but the eyes of a fool are in the ends of the earth.

25 A fooliſh ſon is a grief to his father, and bitterneſs to her that bare him.

26 Alſo to puniſh the juſt is not good, nor to ſtrike princes for equity.

27 He that hath knowledge ſpareth his words: and a man of underſtanding is of an excellent ſpirit.

28 Even a fool, when he holdeth his peace, is counted wiſe: and he that ſhutteth his lips is eſteemed a man of underſtanding.

CHAP. XVIII.

THROUGH deſire a man having ſeparated himſelf ſeeketh and intermeddleth with all wiſdom.

2 A fool hath no delight in underſtanding, but that his heart may diſcover it ſelf.

3 When the wicked cometh, then cometh alſo contempt, and with ignominy reproach.

4 The words of a man's mouth are as deep waters, and the well-ſpring of wiſdom as a flowing brook.

5 It is not good to accept the perſon of the wicked, to overthrow the righteous in judgement.

6 A fool's lips enter into contention, and his mouth calleth for ſtrokes.

7 A fool's mouth is his deſtruction, and his lips are the ſnare of his ſoul.

8 The words of a tale-bearer are as wounds, and they go down into the innermoſt parts of the belly.

9 He alſo that is ſlothful in his work is brother to him that is a great waſter.

10 The name of the LORD is a ſtrong tower: the righteous runneth into it and is ſafe.

14 The beginning of ſtrife is as when one letteth out water.] i. e. It is the opening of a breach which no man can be ſure to ſtop, before it proceeds to the moſt fatal and calamitous events. Clark.

17 A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adverſity.] Time is the true touch-ſtone of a friend: for if his profeſſions are ſincere, no change of condition will alter his ſentiments; but, in adverſity as well as proſperity, he will continue ſtedfaſt; nay, in the greateſt diſtreſſes, appear more like a brother than a friend. Patrick.

26 Nor to ſtrike princes for equity.] Nor to conſpire againſt good (or equitable) princes. Thus the Septuagint.

Notes on the Eighteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1, 2 Through deſire a man having ſeparated himſelf, ſeeketh and intermeddleth with all wiſdom, &c.] Theſe two verſes are ſo difficult to be underſtood, that the different interpretations given of them by various writers are very numerous. According to the Chaldee interpretation, the ſenſe of the verſes will run thus:

1ſt, "An inconſtant man deſires many things, and ſeeks ſatisfaction: but whatſoever he ſeeks, he never acquires, being defeated and diſappointed in all his deſigns.

2d, "And this is a certain character of a fool, that he never fixes to any thing; but chuſes rather to wander up and down, and rove from one enquiry to another, than give his mind to true wiſdom and prudence, which affords him no pleaſure." Patrick.

3 When the wicked cometh, &c.] Septuagint and Vulgate read, When an ungodly man comes to the height of wickedneſs, he uſeth contempt.

4 The words of a man's mouth are as deep waters.] The mind of a man of underſtanding is like a fountain, out of which wiſe thoughts ſpring perpetually. Patrick.

11 The rich man's wealth is his ſtrong city, and as an high wall in his own conceit.

12 Before deſtruction the heart of man is haughty, and before honour is humility.

13 He that anſwereth a matter before he heareth it, it is folly and ſhame unto him.

14 The ſpirit of a man will ſuſtain his infirmity; but a wounded ſpirit who can bear?

15 The heart of the prudent getteth knowledge; and the ear of the wiſe ſeeketh knowledge.

16 A man's gift maketh room for him, and bringeth him before great men.

17 He that is firſt in his own cauſe ſeemeth juſt; but his neighbour cometh and ſearcheth him.

18 The lot cauſeth contentions to ceaſe, and parteth between the mighty.

19 A brother offended is harder to be won than a ſtrong city: and their contentions are like the bars of a caſtle.

20 A man's belly ſhall be ſatisfied with the fruit of his mouth; and with the increaſe of his lips ſhall he be filled.

21 Death and life are in the power of the tongue; and they that love it ſhall eat the fruit thereof.

22 Whoſo findeth a wife findeth a good thing, and obtaineth favour of the LORD.

23 The poor uſeth intreaties; but the rich anſwereth roughly.

24 A man that hath friends muſt ſhew himſelf friendly: and there is a friend that ſticketh cloſer than a brother.

CHAP. XIX.

BEtter is the poor that walketh in his integrity, than he that is perverſe in his lips, and is a fool.

2 Alſo, that the ſoul be without knowledge it is not good; and he that haſteth with his feet ſinneth.

3 The fooliſhneſs of man perverteth his way: and his heart fretteth againſt the LORD.

4 Wealth maketh many friends; but the poor is ſeparated from his neighbour.

5 A falſe witneſs ſhall not be unpuniſhed, and he that ſpeaketh lyes ſhall not eſcape.

6 Many will intreat the favour of the prince: and every man is a friend to him that giveth gifts.

7 All the brethren of the poor do hate him: how much more do his friends go far from him? he purſueth them with words, yet they are wanting to him.

8 He that getteth wiſdom loveth his own ſoul: he that keepeth underſtanding ſhall find good.

9 A falſe witneſs ſhall not be unpuniſhed; and he that ſpeaketh lyes ſhall periſh.

10 Delight is not ſeemly for a fool; much leſs for a ſervant to have rule over princes.

11 The diſcretion of a man deferreth his anger; and it is his glory to paſs over a tranſgreſſion.

12 The king's wrath is as the roaring of a lion; but his favour is as dew upon the graſs.

13 A fooliſh ſon is the calamity of his father: and the contentions of a wife are a continual dropping.

14 Houſe and riches are the inheritance of fathers: and a prudent wife is from the LORD.

15 Slothfulneſs caſteth into a deep ſleep; and an idle ſoul ſhall ſuffer hunger.

16 He that keepeth the commandment keepeth his own ſoul; but he that deſpiſeth his ways ſhall die.

17 He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the LORD; and that which he hath given will he pay him again.

---

19 A brother offended is harder to be won than a ſtrong city, &c.] No contentions are ſo obſtinate as thoſe between brethren, who grow ſo inveterate when they have tranſgreſſed againſt each other, that it is eaſier to take a ſtrong city, or break the bars of a caſtle than compoſe their differences. Septuagint and Vulgate read, A brother aſſiſted by his brother is as a ſtrong city; and has ſtrength as a fortified place.

22 Whoſo findeth a wife, findeth a good thing.] Septuagint, Syriac, Arabic, and Vulgate verſions, and two MS Chaldee Paraphraſes read, He that findeth a good wife, &c. Kennicott.

Notes on the Nineteenth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Than he that is perverſe in his lips, and is a fool.] The Syriac verſion and ſome MSS read with much more propriety, Than he who is perverſe in his ways, though he be rich.

13 The contentions of a wife are a continual dropping.] It is as miſerable to live with a ſcolding wife, as to dwell in a rotten houſe, through the roof of which the rain drops perpetually.

17 He that hath pity upon the poor, lendeth unto the Lord, &c.] The 18 Chaſten thy ſon while there is hope, and let not thy ſoul ſpare for his crying.

19 A man of great wrath ſhall ſuffer puniſhment: for if thou deliver him, yet thou muſt do it again.

20 Hear counſel, and receive inſtruction, that thou mayeſt be wiſe in thy latter end.

21 There are many devices in a man's heart; nevertheleſs, the counſel of the LORD, that ſhall ſtand.

22 The deſire of man is his kindneſs: and a poor man is better than a lyar.

23 The fear of the LORD tendeth to life: and he that hath it ſhall abide ſatisfied; he ſhall not be viſited with evil.

24 A ſlothful man hideth his hand in his boſom, and will not ſo much as bring it to his mouth again.

25 Smite a ſcorner, and the ſimple will beware: and reprove one that hath underſtanding, and he will underſtand knowledge.

26 He that waſteth his father, and chaſeth away his mother, is a ſon that cauſeth ſhame, and bringeth reproach.

27 Ceaſe, my ſon, to hear the inſtruction that cauſeth to err from the words of knowledge.

28 An ungodly witneſs ſcorneth judgement: and the mouth of the wicked devoureth iniquity.

29 Judgements are prepared for ſcorners, and ſtripes for the back of fools.

CHAP. XX.

WINE is a mocker, ſtrong drink is raging: and whoſoever is deceived thereby is not wiſe.

2 The fear of a king is as the roaring of a lion: whoſo provoketh him to anger ſinneth againſt his own ſoul.

3 It is an honour for a man to ceaſe from ſtrife: but every fool will be meddling.

4 The ſluggard will not plow by reaſon of the cold; therefore ſhall he beg in harveſt, and have nothing.

5 Counſel in the heart of man is like deep water; but a man of underſtanding will draw it out.

6 Moſt men will proclaim every one his own goodneſs: but a faithful man who can find?

7 The juſt man walketh in his integrity: his children are bleſſed after him.

8 A king that ſitteth in the throne of judgement ſcattereth away all evil with his eyes.

9 Who can ſay, I have made my heart clean, I am pure from my ſin?

10 Divers weights, and divers meaſures, both of them are alike abomination to the LORD.

11 Even a child is known by his doings, whether his work be pure, and whether it be right.

12 The hearing ear, and the ſeeing eye, the LORD hath made even both of them.

13 Love not ſleep, leſt thou come to poverty: open thine eyes, and thou ſhalt be ſatisfied with bread.

14 It is naught, it is naught, ſaith the buyer: but when he is gone his way, then he boaſteth.

15 There is gold, and a multitude of rubies: but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.

16 Take his garment that is ſurety for a ſtranger; and take a pledge of him for a ſtrange woman.

17 Bread of deceit is ſweet to a man; but afterwards his mouth ſhall be filled with gravel.

The Lord conſiders what is given to the poor as lent unto him, and he will not fail to make a full compenſation, with large intereſt and increaſe of bleſſings.

18 Let not thy ſoul ſpare for his crying.] Several learned critics ſay it ſhould be rendered, Suffer not thyſelf to be ſo tranſported with anger, as to kill him: or by thy cruel uſage make him weary of his life.

23 The fear of the Lord tendeth to life, and he that hath it ſhall abide ſatisfied, &c.] Nothing makes a man lead ſo happy a life as religious care to pleaſe the Lord in all things.

Notes on the Twentieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Wine is a mocker, ſtrong drink is raging, &c.] This precept is levelled againſt drunkenneſs, not only as being an enemy to wiſdom in common affairs, but alſo in thoſe of eternal conſequence; for, a man intoxicated with liquor, can have no reverence for the Almighty or his precepts. The word which we render raging, implies that diſcompoſed ſtate of the mind which vents itſelf in ſome ridiculous or unjuſt motion, and is too commonly attended with very melancholy conſequences. Patrick.

2 The fear of the king.] Septuagint, The threatening of a king.

15 There is gold, and a multitude of rubies: but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.] Some think themſelves happy, becauſe they have treaſures of gold, or precious ſtones; but, among all the riches of this world, none is worthy to be compared to true wiſdom, eſpecially if joined with eloquence. Patrick.

18 Every purpoſe is eſtabliſhed by counſel: and with good advice make war.

19 He that goeth about as a tale-bearer revealeth ſecrets: therefore meddle not with him that flattereth with his lips.

20 Whoſo curſeth his father or his mother, his lamp ſhall be put out in obſcure darkneſs.

21 An inheritance may be gotten haſtily at the beginning; but the end thereof ſhall not be bleſſed.

22 Say not thou, I will recompenſe evil; but wait on the LORD, and he ſhall ſave thee.

23 Divers weights are an abomination unto the LORD; and a falſe balance is not good.

24 Man's goings are of the LORD: how can a man then underſtand his own way?

25 It is a ſnare to the man who devoureth that which is holy, and after voweth to make enquiry.

26 A wiſe king ſcattereth the wicked, and bringeth the wheel over them.

27 The ſpirit of man is the candle of the LORD, ſearching all the inward parts of the belly.

28 Mercy and truth preſerve the king: and his throne is upholden by mercy.

29 The glory of young men is their ſtrength: and the beauty of old men is the gray head.

30 The blueneſs of a wound cleanſeth away evil: ſo do ſtripes the inward part of the belly.

CHAP. XXI.

THE king's heart is in the hand of the LORD, as the rivers of water: he turneth it whitherſoever he will.

2 Every way of a man is right in his own eyes: but the LORD pondereth the hearts.

3 To do juſtice and judgment is more acceptable to the LORD than ſacrifice.

4 An high look, and a proud heart, and the ploughing of the wicked, is ſin.

5 The thoughts of the diligent tend only to plenteouſneſs; but of every one that is haſty, only to want.

6 The getting of treaſures by a lying tongue is a vanity toſſed to and fro of them that ſeek death.

7 The robbery of the wicked ſhall deſtroy them; becauſe they refuſe to do judgement.

8 The way of man is froward and ſtrange: but as for the pure, his work is right.

9 It is better to dwell in a corner of the houſe-top than with a brawling woman in a wide houſe.

10 The ſoul of the wicked deſireth evil: his neighbour findeth no favour in his eyes.

11 When the ſcorner is puniſhed, the ſimple is made wiſe: and when the wiſe is inſtructed, he receiveth knowledge.

12 The righteous man wiſely conſidereth the houſe of the wicked: but God overthroweth the wicked for their wickedneſs.

13 Whoſo ſtoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, he alſo ſhall cry himſelf, but ſhall not be heard.

14 A gift in ſecret pacifieth anger: and a reward in the boſom, ſtrong wrath.

15 It is joy to the juſt to do judgement: but deſtruction ſhall be to the workers of iniquity.

16 The man that wandereth out of the way of underſtanding ſhall remain in the congregation of the dead.

17 He that loveth pleaſure ſhall be a poor man: he that loveth wine and oil ſhall not be rich.

18 The wicked ſhall be a ranſom for the righteous, and the tranſgreſſor for the upright.

19 It is better to dwell in the wilderneſs than with a contentious and an angry woman.

20 There is a treaſure to be deſired, and oil in the dwelling of the wiſe: but a fooliſh man ſpendeth it up.

---

25 It is a ſnare to the man, &c.] It is a ſnare to a man to dedicate haſtily any of his goods: for it often happens, that after his vow he repents.

27 The ſpirit of a man is the candle of the Lord, ſearching all the inward parts of the belly.] That active ſpirit which the Almighty hath breathed into man, is like a torch lighted at the divine underſtanding, to guide him in all his actions; nay, even to penetrate into the moſt ſecret deſigns of other men. Patrick.

29 The beauty of old men is the gray head.] Their aged gravity and experience.

30 The blueneſs of a wound.] The wheals of a wound, or wounding wheals. Taylor.

So do ſtripes, &c.] Meaning, compunction of conſcience brings repentance for ſin. Wall.

Notes on the Twenty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 4. The plowing of the wicked is ſin.] Septuagint, Vulgate, and Margin read, The light (the lamp, or liſting up of the eyes) of the wicked is ſin.

21 He that followeth after righteouſneſs and mercy findeth life, righteouſneſs, and honour.

22 A wiſe man ſcaleth the city of the mighty, and caſteth down the ſtrength of the confidence thereof.

23 Whoſo keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his ſoul from troubles.

24 Proud and haughty ſcorner is his name who dealeth in proud wrath.

25 The deſire of the ſlothful killeth him; for his hands refuſe to labour:

26 He coveteth greedily all the day long: but the righteous giveth, and ſpareth not.

27 The ſacrifice of the wicked is abomination: how much more, when he bringeth it with a wicked mind?

28 A falſe witneſs ſhall periſh: but the man that heareth ſpeaketh conſtantly.

29 A wicked man hardeneth his face: but as for the upright, he directeth his way.

30 There is no wiſdom nor underſtanding nor counſel againſt the LORD.

31 The horſe is prepared againſt the day of battle: but ſafety is of the LORD.

CHAP. XXII.

A Good name is rather to be choſen than great riches, and loving favour rather than ſilver and gold.

2 The rich and poor meet together: the LORD is the maker of them all.

3 A prudent man foreſeeth the evil, and hideth himſelf: but the ſimple paſs on, and are puniſhed.

4 By humility and the fear of the LORD are riches and honour and life.

5 Thorns and ſnares are in the way of the froward: he that doth keep his ſoul ſhall be far from them.

6 Train up a child in the way he ſhould go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.

7 The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower is ſervant to the lender.

8 He that ſoweth iniquity ſhall reap vanity: and the rod of his anger ſhall fail.

9 He that hath a bountiful eye ſhall be bleſſed: for he giveth of his bread to the poor.

10 Caſt out the ſcorner, and contention ſhall go out; yea, ſtrife and reproach ſhall ceaſe.

11 He that loveth pureneſs of heart, for the grace of his lips the king ſhall be his friend

12 The eyes of the LORD preſerve knowledge, and he overthroweth the words of the tranſgreſſor.

13 The ſlothful man ſaith, There is a lion without, I ſhall be ſlain in the ſtreets.

14 The mouth of ſtrange women is a deep pit: he that is abhorred of the LORD ſhall fall therein.

15 Fooliſhneſs is bound in the heart of a child; but the rod of correction ſhall drive it far from him.

16 He that oppreſſeth the poor to increaſe his riches, and he that giveth to the rich, ſhall ſurely come to want.

17 Bow down thine ear, and hear the words of the wiſe, and apply thine heart unto my knowledge:

18 For it is a pleaſant thing if thou keep them within thee; they ſhall withal be fitted in thy lips.

19 That thy truſt may be in the LORD, I have made known to thee this day, even to thee.

20 Have not I written to thee excellent things in counſels and knowledge,

21 That I might make thee know the certainty of the words of truth; that thou mighteſt

22 A wiſe man ſcaleth the city of the mighty, &c.] The virtue of the mind is of greater force, and far more prevalent than the ſtrength of the body; a whole city of mighty men are not able to reſiſt the attacks of a wiſe and pious commander; for they are either taken by his ſtratagems, or conquered by his goodneſs, on which they depend more than on their fortifications. Patrick.

31 The horſe is prepared againſt the day of battle, &c.] Though a numerous army of horſes and chariots and valiant ſoldiers are ſet in array of battle, they can give no ſecurity of victory without the Divine favour and help. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-ſecond Chapter.

Ver. 6 Train up a child in the way he ſhould go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.] Be early in giving proper inſtructions to a child, and ſeaſon his mind with the precepts of virtue before he hath received any other impreſſions: for then, in all probability, he will never forſake the path of goodneſs, but continue to walk in it all the days of his life.

8 The rod of his anger ſhall fail.] At the end of this verſe the Septuagint has this ſentence, God bleſſeth (or loveth) a chearful giver; which St. Paul cites, 2 Cor. ix. 7.

13 The ſlothful man ſaith, There is a lion in the way.] He never wants pretences to excuſe himſelf from labour.

anſwer the words of truth to them that ſend unto thee?

22 Rob not the poor, becauſe he is poor: neither oppreſs the afflicted in the gate:

23 For the LORD will plead their cauſe, and ſpoil the ſoul of thoſe that ſpoiled them.

24 Make no friendſhip with an angry man; and with a furious man thou ſhalt not go:

25 Leſt thou learn his ways, and get a ſnare to thy ſoul.

26 Be not thou one of them that ſtrike hands, or of them that are ſureties for debts.

27 If thou haſt nothing to pay, why ſhould he take away thy bed from under thee?

28 Remove not the ancient land-mark, which thy fathers have ſet.

29 Seeſt thou a man diligent in his buſineſs? he ſhall ſtand before kings; he ſhall not ſtand before mean men.

CHAP. XXIII.

WHEN thou ſitteſt to eat with a ruler, conſider diligently what is before thee:

2 And put a knife to thy throat, if thou be a man given to appetite.

3 Be not deſirous of his dainties: for they are deceitful meat.

4 Labour not to be rich: ceaſe from thine own wiſdom.

5 Wilt thou ſet thine eyes upon that which is not? for riches certainly make themſelves wings; they fly away as an eagle towards heaven.

6 Eat thou not the bread of him that hath an evil eye, neither deſire thou his dainty meats:

7 For as he thinketh in his heart, ſo is he: Eat and drink, ſaith he to thee; but his heart is not with thee.

8 The morſel which thou haſt eaten ſhalt thou vomit up, and loſe thy ſweet words.

9 Speak not in the ears of a fool: for he will deſpiſe the wiſdom of thy words.

10 Remove not the old land-mark; and enter not into the fields of the fatherleſs:

11 For their redeemer is mighty: he ſhall plead their cauſe with thee.

12 Apply thine heart unto inſtruction, and thine ears to the words of knowledge.

13 With-hold not correction from the child: for, if thou beateſt him with the rod, he ſhall not die:

14 Thou ſhalt beat him with the rod, and ſhalt deliver his ſoul from hell.

15 My ſon, if thine heart be wiſe, my heart ſhall rejoice, even mine.

16 Yea, my reins ſhall rejoice, when thy lips ſpeak right things.

17 Let not thine heart envy ſinners: but be thou in the fear of the LORD all the day long:

18 For ſurely there is an end; and thine expectation ſhall not be cut off.

19 Hear thou, my ſon, and be wiſe, and guide thine heart in the way.

20 Be not amongſt wine-bibbers; amongſt riotous eaters of fleſh:

21 For the drunkard and the glutton ſhall come to poverty: and drowſineſs ſhall clothe a man with rags.

22 Hearken unto thy father that begat thee, and deſpiſe not thy mother when ſhe is old.

23 Buy the truth, and ſell it not; alſo wiſdom, and inſtruction, and underſtanding.

24 The father of the righteous ſhall greatly rejoice: and he that begetteth a wiſe child ſhall have joy of him.

25 Thy father and thy mother ſhall be glad, and ſhe that bare thee ſhall rejoice.

26 My ſon, give me thine heart, and let thine eyes obſerve my ways.

---

28 Remove not the antient land-mark, which thy fathers have ſet.] Be content with thine own eſtate, and do not endeavour to enlarge it, by invading the poſſeſſions of other men. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-third Chapter.

Ver. 2 Put a knife to thy throat, if thou be a man given to appetite.] Some interpret this paſſage thus, If thou doſt not curb thy appetite, it will expoſe thee to as certain danger, as if a knife were at thy throat.

4 Labour not to be rich: ceaſe from thine own wiſdom.] Do not weary thyſelf with laborious toil to amaſs a large eſtate; nor depend on thy own prudent management for the ſucceſs of thy honeſt endeavours, but on the bleſſing of God. Patrick.

5 Wilt thou ſet thine eyes upon that which is not?] He expreſſes it in ſuch a manner, as if a rich man ſat brooding over an eſtate till it was fledged, and had gotten itſelf wings to fly away. Tillotſon.

18 Surely there is an end.] The magin reads, A reward, but the Hebrew word ſignifies a future ſtate. Peters.

26 My ſon, give me thine heart.] Let me prevail with thee to apply thy mind affectionately to this following inſtruction. Patrick.

27 For an whore is a deep ditch: and a ſtrange woman is a narrow pit.

28 She alſo lieth in wait as for a prey, and increaſeth the tranſgreſſors among men.

29 Who hath wo? who hath ſorrow? who hath contentions? who hath babling? who hath wounds without cauſe? who hath redneſs of eyes?

30 They that tarry long at the wine, they that go to ſeek mixed wine.

31 Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup, when it moveth it ſelf aright.

32 At the laſt it biteth like a ſerpent, and ſtingeth like an adder.

33 Thine eyes ſhall behold ſtrange women, and thine heart ſhall utter perverſe things.

34 Yea, thou ſhalt be as he that lieth down in the midſt of the ſea, or as he that lieth upon the top of a maſt.

35 They have ſtricken me, ſhalt thou ſay, and I was not ſick: they have beaten me, and I felt it not: when ſhall I awake? I will ſeek it yet again.

CHAP. XXIV.

BE not thou envious againſt evil men, neither deſire to be with them:

2 For their heart ſtudieth deſtruction, and their lips talk of miſchief.

3 Through wiſdom is an houſe builded; and by underſtanding it is eſtabliſhed:

4 And by knowledge ſhall the chambers be filled with all precious and pleaſant riches.

5 A wiſe man is ſtrong: yea, a man of knowledge increaſeth ſtrength.

6 For by wiſe counſel thou ſhalt make thy war: and in multitude of counſellers there is ſafety.

7 Wiſdom is too high for a fool: he openeth not his mouth in the gate.

8 He that deviſeth to do evil ſhall be called a miſchievous perſon.

9 The thought of fooliſhneſs is ſin: and the ſcorner is an abomination to men.

10 If thou faint in the day of adverſity, thy ſtrength is ſmall.

11 If thou forbear to deliver them that are drawn unto death, and thoſe that are ready to be ſlain;

12 If thou ſayeſt, Behold, we knew it not: doth not he that pondereth the heart conſider it? and he that keepeth thy ſoul, doth not he know it? and ſhall not he render to every man according to his works?

13 My ſon, eat thou honey, becauſe it is good; and the honey-comb, which is ſweet to thy taſte:

14 So ſhall the knowledge of wiſdom be unto thy ſoul: when thou haſt found it, then there ſhall be a reward, and thy expectation ſhall not be cut off.

15 Lay not wait, O wicked man, againſt the dwelling of the righteous; ſpoil not his reſting-place:

16 For a juſt man falleth ſeven times, and riſeth up again: but the wicked ſhall fall into miſchief.

17 Rejoice not when thine enemy falleth, and let not thine heart be glad when he ſtumbleth:

18 Leſt the LORD ſee it, and it diſpleaſe him, and he turn away his wrath from him.

19 Fret not thy ſelf, becauſe of evil men, neither be thou envious at the wicked:

20 For there ſhall be no reward to the evil man; the candle of the wicked ſhall be put out.

Notes on the Twenty-fourth Chapter.

Ver. 5 A wiſe man is ſtrong, &c.] Septuagint, A wiſe man is better than a ſtrong man; and a man of knowledge than a ſtrong labourer.

11, 12 If thou forbear to deliver them that are drawn unto death, &c.] Exert thine whole power to deliver innocent perſons, who by falſe accuſations are dragged to execution, or in preſent danger of loſing their lives: and do not flatter thyſelf, that thou canſt, with a ſafe conſcience, withdraw thyſelf from ſuccouring them in their diſtreſs. The common excuſe, of being ignorant of their innocence, and how to ſave them, is of no account with God. Canſt thou hope to deceive his all-ſearching eye? Remember that he is acquainted with the ſecrets of the heart, and obſerves the moſt minute motion of the ſoul: that thou thyſelf ſhalt be deſerted by him, even as thou haſt deſerted others.

16 A juſt man falleth ſeven times, &c.] i. e. Not into ſin, but into trouble, or affliction.

21 My ſon, fear thou the Lord, and the king, &c.] Be very careful king: and meddle not with them that are given to change:

22 For their calamity ſhall riſe ſuddenly; and who knoweth the ruin of them both?

23 Theſe things alſo belong to the wiſe. It is not good to have reſpect of perſons in judgement.

24 He that ſaith unto the wicked, Thou art righteous; him ſhall the people curſe, nations ſhall abhor him:

25 But to them that rebuke him ſhall be delight, and a good bleſſing ſhall come upon them.

26 Every man ſhall kiſs his lips that giveth a right anſwer.

27 Prepare thy work without, and make it fit for thy ſelf in the field; and afterwards build thine houſe.

28 Be not a witneſs againſt thy neighbour without cauſe; and deceive not with thy lips.

29 Say not, I will do ſo to him as he hath done to me: I will render to the man according to his work.

30 I went by the field of the ſlothful, and by the vineyard of the man void of underſtanding;

31 And lo, it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the ſtone-wall thereof was broken down.

32 Then I ſaw, and conſidered it well: I looked upon it, and received inſtruction.

33 Yet a little ſleep, a little ſlumber, a little folding of the hands to ſleep:

34 So ſhall thy poverty come as one that travelleth, and thy want as an armed man.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Obſervations about kings, 8 and about avoiding of quarrels, and ſundry cauſes thereof.

THESE are alſo proverbs of Solomon, which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah copied out.

2 It is the glory of God to conceal a thing: but the honour of kings is to ſearch out a matter.

3 The heaven for height, and the earth for depth, and the heart of kings is unſearchable.

4 Take away the droſs from the ſilver, and there ſhall come forth a veſſel for the finer:

5 Take away the wicked from before the king, and his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed in righteouſneſs.

6 Put not forth thyſelf in the preſence of the king, and ſtand not in the place of great men:

7 For better it is that it be ſaid unto thee, Come up hither; than that thou ſhouldeſt be put lower in the preſence of the prince whom thine eyes have ſeen.

8 ¶ Go not forth haſtily to ſtrive, leſt thou know not what to do in the end thereof, when thy neighbour hath put thee to ſhame.

9 Debate thy cauſe with thy neighbour himſelf: and diſcover not a ſecret to another;

10 Leſt he that heareth it put thee to ſhame, and thine infamy turn not away.

11 A word fitly ſpoken is like apples of gold in pictures of ſilver.

12 As an ear-ring of gold, and an ornament of fine gold, ſo is a wiſe reprover upon an obedient ear.

13 As the cold of ſnow in the time of harveſt, ſo is a faithful meſſenger to them that ſend him: for he refreſheth the ſoul of his maſters.

14 Whoſo boaſteth himſelf of a falſe gift, is like clouds and wind without rain.

28 Deceive not with thy lips.] Slander him not.

Notes on the Twenty-fifth Chapter.

Ver. 2 It is the glory of God to conceal a thing, &c.] God declares his ſuperintendency of authority and wiſdom, by concealing the reaſons of his decrees, and of his judgments: but earthly princes, whoſe knowledge is imperfect, acquire the greateſt honour by making the minuteſt ſcrutiny into every particular, before they deliver their judgment, that their proceedings may appear to be founded on the cleareſt reaſon. Patrick.

11 A word fitly ſpoken, is like apples of gold in pictures of ſilver.] It ſhould be rendered, A word fitly ſpoken, or, a diſcourſe well-timed, is like oranges in a flowered ſilver baſket. Eſſay for a New Tranſlation.

17 Withdraw thy foot from thy neighbour's house; leſt he be weary of thee, and ſo hate thee.

18 A man that beareth falſe witneſs againſt his neighbour is a maul and a ſword and a ſharp arrow.

19 Confidence in an unfaithful man in time of trouble is like a broken tooth and a foot out of joint.

20 As he that taketh away a garment in cold weather, and as vinegar upon nitre; ſo is he that ſingeth ſongs to an heavy heart.

21 If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirſty, give him water to drink:

22 For thou ſhalt heap coals of fire upon his head, and the LORD ſhall reward thee.

23 The north-wind driveth away rain: ſo doth an angry countenance a backbiting tongue.

24 It is better to dwell in a corner of the houſe-top, than with a brawling woman and in a wide houſe.

25 As cold waters to a thirſty ſoul, ſo is good news from a far country.

26 A righteous man falling down before the wicked is as a troubled fountain and a corrupt ſpring.

27 It is not good to eat much honey: ſo for men to ſearch their own glory is not glory.

28 He that hath no rule over his own ſpirit is like a city that is broken down and without walls.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Obſervations about fools, 13 ſluggards, 17 and contentious buſy-bodies.

AS ſnow in ſummer, and as rain in harveſt, ſo honour is not ſeemly for a fool.

2 As the bird by wandering, as the ſwallow by flying, ſo the curſe cauſeleſs ſhall not come.

3 A whip for the horſe, a bridle for the aſs, and a rod for the fool's back.

4 Anſwer not a fool according to his folly, leſt thou alſo be like unto him.

5 Anſwer a fool according to his folly, leſt he be wiſe in his own conceit.

6 He that ſendeth a meſſage by the hand of a fool, cutteth off the feet, and drinketh damage.

7 The legs of the lame are not equal: ſo is a parable in the mouth of fools.

8 As he that bindeth a ſtone in a ſling, ſo is he that giveth honour to a fool.

9 As a thorn goeth up into the hand of a drunkard, ſo is a parable in the mouth of fools.

10 The great God that formed all things, both rewardeth the fool, and rewardeth tranſgreſſors.

11 As a dog returneth to his vomit, ſo a fool returneth to his folly.

12 Seeſt thou a man wiſe in his own conceit? there is more hope of a fool than of him.

13 ¶ The ſlothful man ſaith, There is a lion in the way; a lion is in the ſtreets.

14 As the door turneth upon his hinges, ſo doth the ſlothful upon his bed.

15 The ſlothful hideth his hand in his boſom; it grieveth him to bring it again to his mouth.

16 The ſluggard is wiſer in his own conceit than ſeven men that can render a reaſon.

17 ¶ He that paſſeth by, and meddleth with ſtrife belonging not to him, is like one that taketh a dog by the ears.

18 As a mad man who caſteth firebrands, arrows, and death;

19 So is the man that deceiveth his neighbour, and ſaith, Am not I in ſport?

20 Where no wood is, there the fire goeth

---

20 Vinegar upon nitre.] The nitre here ſpoken of is very different from that which we now call ſo. It was a fixed alkali, plainly of the nature of thoſe ſalts made from vegetables, yet capable of a regular chryſtallization, which thoſe ſalts are not. Hill.

22 Thou ſhalt heap coals of fire upon his head.] May not here be an alluſion to a practice ſtill retained among the Arabians, of curing pains in the head and other parts of the body by actual fire on the part?

23 The north-wind driveth away rain: ſo doth an angry countenance a backbiting tongue, &c.] Bringeth forth rain: in Judea the north-wind blowing from the Mediterranean generally brings rain. The frowns of an angry man will naturally provoke people to give a looſe to their tongues, when they are out of his ſight and hearing.

Notes on the Twenty-ſixth Chapter.

Ver. 5 Anſwer a fool according to his folly.] The Syriac verſion preſerves here the true reading, Anſwer a fool according to thine own wiſdom. Kennicott.

6 Cutteth off the feet.] Shall be ſure to ſuffer damage.

19 So is he that deceiveth his neighbour.] So is he that revileth, defameth, or leads his neighbour into any miſchief. Clark.

23 Burn-

out: so where there is no tale-bearer, the strife ceaseth.

21 As coals are to burning coals, and wood to fire; so is a contentious man to kindle strife.

22 The words of a tale-bearer are as wounds, and they go down into the innermost parts of the belly.

23 Burning lips and a wicked heart are like a potsherd covered with silver dross.

24 He that hateth dissembleth with his lips, and layeth up deceit within him:

25 When he speaketh fair, believe him not: for there are seven abominations in his heart.

26 Whose hatred is covered by deceit, his wickedness shall be shewed before the whole congregation.

27 Whoso diggeth a pit, shall fall therein: and he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him.

28 A lying tongue hateth those that are afflicted by it: and a flattering mouth worketh ruin.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 Observations of self-love, 5 of true love, 11 of care to avoid offences, 23 and of the household care.

BOAST not thyself of to-morrow: for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.

2 Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth; a stranger, and not thine own lips.

3 A stone is heavy, and the sand weighty: but a fool's wrath is heavier than them both.

4 Wrath is cruel, and anger is outrageous: but who is able to stand before envy?

5 ¶ Open rebuke is better than secret love.

6 Faithful are the wounds of a friend: but the kisses of an enemy are deceitful.

7 The full soul loatheth an honey comb: but, to the hungry soul every bitter thing is sweet.

8 As a bird that wandereth from her nest, so is a man that wandereth from his place.

9 Ointment and perfume rejoice the heart: so doth the sweetness of a man's friend by hearty counsel.

10 Thine own friend and thy father's friend forsake not; neither go into thy brother's house in the day of thy calamity: for better is a neighbour that is near, than a brother far off.

11 ¶ My son, be wise, and make my heart glad, that I may answer him that reproacheth me.

12 A prudent man foreseeth the evil and hideth himself; but the simple pass on, and are punished.

13 Take his garment that is surety for a stranger, and take a pledge of him for a strange woman.

14 He that blesseth his friend with a loud voice, rising early in the morning, it shall be counted a curse to him.

15 A continual dropping in a very rainy day, and a contentious woman are alike:

16 Whosoever hideth her, hideth the wind, and the ointment of his right hand which bewrayeth it self.

17 Iron sharpeneth iron; so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend.

18 Whoso keepeth the fig-tree shall eat the fruit thereof: so he that waiteth on his master shall be honoured.

19 As in water face answereth to face, so the heart of man to man.

20 Hell and destruction are never full, so the eyes of man are never satisfied.

21 As the fining-pot for silver, and the furnace for gold; so is a man to his praise.

23 Burning lips, and a wicked heart, are like a potsherd covered with silver dross.] He who studies to hide his malicious intentions under the veil of flattering speeches, is like a potsherd, which may glitter at a distance, though covered only with the scum of silver. Septuagint reads, Smooth lips disguising a wicked heart.

Notes on the Twenty-seventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Boast not thyself of to-morrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.] Be not so confident of thy present riches or power, as to boast what thou wilt do or enjoy hereafter: for thou canst not be secure of this every day, which may produce something that may frustrate all the expectations thou hast for to-morrow. Patrick.

5 Open rebuke is better than secret love.] He who ingenuously takes the liberty to tell others plainly of their faults, is a better friend than he that has more of the passion of love in his heart, but does not make it known by such good effects. Patrick.

16 Whoso hideth her, hideth the wind, &c.] It is as impossible to prevent the wind from being heard, or fragrant perfume from being smelt, as to hinder a contentious woman from scolding.

21 As the fining pot for silver, and the furnace for gold; so is a man to his praise.] As gold and silver is tried in the fire, so the temper of a man is discovered by commendations and great applause, which will presently shew the virtue or the vanity of his mind.

22 Though thou ſhouldeſt bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a peſtle, yet will not his fooliſhneſs depart from him.

23 ¶ Be thou diligent to know the ſtate of thy flocks, and look well to thy herds:

24 For riches are not for ever: and doth the crown endure to every generation?

25 The hay appeareth, and the tender graſs ſheweth it ſelf, and herbs of the mountains are gathered.

26 The lambs are for thy clothing, and the goats are the price of the field.

27 And thou ſhalt have goats milk enough for thy food, for the food of thy houſehold, and for maintenance for thy maidens.

CHAP. XXVIII.

General obſervations of impiety and religious integrity.

THE wicked flee when no man purſueth: but the righteous are bold as a lion.

2 For the tranſgreſſion of a land many are the princes thereof: but by a man of underſtanding and knowledge the ſtate thereof ſhall be prolonged.

3 A poor man that oppreſſeth the poor is like a ſweeping rain which leaveth no food.

4 They that forſake the law praiſe the wicked: but ſuch as keep the law contend with them.

5 Evil men underſtand not judgement: but they that ſeek the LORD underſtand all things.

6 Better is the poor that walketh in his uprightneſs, than he that is perverſe in his ways, though he be rich.

7 Whoſo keepeth the law is a wiſe ſon: but he that is a companion of riotous men ſhameth his father.

8 He that by uſury and unjuſt gain increaſeth his ſubſtance, he ſhall gather it for him that will pity the poor.

9 He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer ſhall be abomination.

10 Whoſo cauſeth the righteous to go aſtray in an evil way, he ſhall fall himſelf into his own pit: but the upright ſhall have good things in poſſeſſion.

11 The rich man is wiſe in his own conceit; but the poor that hath underſtanding ſearcheth him out.

12 When righteous men do rejoice, there is great glory: but when the wicked riſe, a man is hidden.

13 He that covereth his ſins ſhall not proſper: but whoſo confeſſeth and forſaketh them ſhall have mercy.

14 Happy is the man that feareth alway: but he that hardeneth his heart ſhall fall into miſchief.

15 As a roaring lion, and a ranging bear, ſo is a wicked ruler over the poor people.

16 The prince that wanteth underſtanding is alſo a great oppreſſor: but he that hateth covetouſneſs ſhall prolong his days.

17 A man that doth violence to the blood of any perſon, ſhall flee to the pit; let no man ſtay him.

18 Whoſo walketh uprightly ſhall be ſaved; but he that is perverſe in his ways ſhall fall at once.

19 He that tilleth his land ſhall have plenty of bread: but he that followeth after vain perſons ſhall have poverty enough.

20 A faithful man ſhall abound with bleſſings: but he that maketh haſte to be rich ſhall not be innocent.

21 To have reſpect of perſons is not good: for a piece of bread that man will tranſgreſs.

22 He that haſteth to be rich hath an evil eye, and conſidereth not that poverty ſhall come upon him.

23 He that rebuketh a man, afterwards ſhall find more favour than he that flattereth with the tongue.

Notes on the Twenty-eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The wicked flee when no man purſueth; but the righteous are bold as a lion.] A guilty conſcience renders men timorous and fearful; but men of virtue and integrity are not eaſily terrified.

3 A poor man that oppreſſeth the poor, is like a ſweeping rain.] There is none ſo wicked and intolerable as a needy fellow that has got into power; but loſt all ſenſe of the miſeries of the poor; whom he harraſſes and deſtroys without pity, like a violent rain, which inſtead of refreſhing the corn, beats it down and lays it flat. Patrick.

14 Happy is the man that feareth alway: but he that hardeneth his heart ſhall fall into miſchief.] That man is truly happy, who, fearing to offend the Almighty, is cautious and circumſpect in all his actions: but he that is careleſs and negligent, ſhall be plunged into guilt and miſery. Patrick.

24 Whoso robbeth his father or his mother, and saith, It is no transgression; the same is the companion of a destroyer.

25 He that is of a proud heart stirreth up strife: but he that putteth his trust in the LORD shall be made fat.

26 He that trusteth in his own heart is a fool: but whoso walketh wisely, he shall be delivered.

27 He that giveth unto the poor shall not lack: but he that hideth his eyes shall have many a curse.

28 When the wicked rise, men hide themselves: but when they perish, the righteous increase.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 Observations of publick government, 15 and of private. 22 Of anger, pride, thievery, cowardise, and corruption.

HE that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy.

2 When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice: but when the wicked beareth rule, the people mourn.

3 Whoso loveth wisdom rejoiceth his father: but he that keepeth company with harlots spendeth his substance.

4 The king by judgement establisheth the land: but he that receiveth gifts overthroweth it.

5 A man that flattereth his neighbour spreadeth a net for his feet.

6 In the transgression of an evil man there is a snare: but the righteous doth sing and rejoice.

7 The righteous considereth the cause of the poor: but the wicked regardeth not to know it.

8 Scornful men bring a city into a snare: but wise men turn away wrath.

9 If a wise man contendeth with a foolish man, whether he rage or laugh, there is no rest.

10 The blood-thirsty hate the upright: but the just seek his soul.

11 A fool uttereth all his mind; but a wise man keepeth it in till afterwards.

12 If a ruler hearken to lyes, all his servants are wicked.

13 The poor and the deceitful man meet together: the LORD lighteneth both their eyes.

14 The king that faithfully judgeth the poor, his throne shall be established for ever.

15 ¶ The rod and reproof give wisdom: but a child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame.

16 When the wicked are multiplied, transgression increaseth: but the righteous shall see their fall.

17 Correct thy son, and he shall give thee rest: yea, he shall give delight unto thy soul.

18 Where there is no vision, the people perish: but he that keepeth the law, happy is he.

19 A servant will not be corrected by words: for, though he understand, he will not answer.

20 Seest thou a man that is hasty in his words? there is more hope of a fool than of him.

21 He that delicately bringeth up his servant from a child, shall have him become his son at the length.

---

25 He that putteth his trust in the Lord, shall be made fat.] He that confides in the good providence of God, shall have plenty of all good things.

26 He that trusteth in his own heart is a fool: but whoso walketh wisely, he shall be delivered.] He that relies entirely on his own judgment, will often miscarry; but he that distrusting his own wisdom, seeks and follows good advice, shall escape many misfortunes. Patrick.

Notes on the Twenty-ninth Chapter.

Ver. 1 He that being often reproved, hardeneth his neck.] Or, continueth obstinate.

4 He that receiveth gifts.] He that rigidly exacteth tribute. Sykes.

10 The blood-thirsty hate the upright: but the just seek his soul.] Men enormously wicked hate the upright, who exerts his power to punish their crimes; but all virtuous men love him the more sincerely, and labour to defend him from the attacks of their violence. Patrick.

16 When the wicked are multiplied, transgression encreaseth: but the righteous shall see their fall.] When the wicked grow rich and numerous, the works of darkness increase by their authority; but they who preserve their virtue shall have the pleasure of beholding their fall. Septuagint reads, But the righteous seeing their fall, shall take warning.

18 Where there is no vision, the people perish: but he that keepeth the law, happy is he.] Where the people are without instructors to expound to them the will of the Almighty, they first grow careless, and then run into all kind of licentiousness, till growing ungovernable, they are abandoned by God to destruction: but when the people are well informed of the law, and make it their principal care to perform its precepts, they remain in a prosperous and happy condition. Patrick.

21 He that delicately bringeth up his servant, &c.] It is danger-

22 ¶ An angry man ſtirreth up ſtrife, and a furious man aboundeth in tranſgreſſion.

23 A man's pride ſhall bring him low: but honour ſhall uphold the humble in ſpirit.

24 Whoſo is partner with a thief hateth his own ſoul: he heareth curſing, and bewrayeth it not.

25 The fear of man bringeth a ſnare: but whoſo putteth his truſt in the LORD ſhall be ſafe.

26 Many ſeek the ruler's favour; but every man's judgement cometh from the LORD.

27 An unjuſt man is an abomination to the juſt: and he that is upright in the way is abomination to the wicked.

THE words of Agur the ſon of Jakeh, even the prophecy: the man ſpake unto Ithiel, even unto Ithiel and Ucal.

2 Surely I am more brutiſh than any man, and have not the underſtanding of a man.

3 I neither learned wiſdom, nor have the knowledge of the Holy.

4 Who hath aſcended up into heaven, or deſcended? who hath gathered the wind in his fiſts? who hath bound the waters in a garment? who hath eſtabliſhed all the ends of the earth? what is his name and what is his ſon's name, if thou canſt tell?

5 Every word of God is pure: he is a ſhield unto them that put their truſt in him.

6 Add thou not unto his words, leſt he reprove thee, and thou be found a lyar.

7 ¶ Two things have I required of thee; deny me them not before I die:

8 Remove far from me vanity and lyes; give me neither poverty, nor riches; feed me with food convenient for me:

9 Leſt I be full, and deny thee, and ſay, Who is the LORD? or leſt I be poor, and ſteal, and take the name of my God in vain.

10 ¶ Accuſe not a ſervant unto his maſter, leſt he curſe thee, and thou be found guilty.

11 ¶ There is a generation that curſeth their father, and doth not bleſs their mother.

12 There is a generation that are pure in their own eyes, and yet is not waſhed from their filthineſs.

13 There is a generation, O how lofty are their eyes! and their eye-lids are lifted up.

14 There is a generation whoſe teeth are as ſwords, and their jaw-teeth as knives, to devour the poor from off the earth, and the needy from among men.

15 ¶ The horſe-leach hath two daughters, crying, Give, give. There are three things that are never ſatisfied, yea, four things ſay not, It is enough:

Notes on the Thirtieth Chapter.

Ver. 1 The words of Agur the ſon of Jakeh, &c.] This chapter contains a fragment of ſome wiſe ſentences, delivered by one whoſe name was Agur. They ſeem to be anſwers to ſeveral queſtions propoſed by his ſcholars Ithiel and Ucal; who came to him, as to an oracle, to obtain a ſolution of their doubts, aſking him, in the firſt place, Who is the wiſeſt man? To which he replies, as in verſe 2. He that is ſenſible of his own ignorance. Agur then enlarges on this ſubject, wiſhing his ſcholars to be ſenſible of the imperfection of all human knowledge, by conſidering how very little we know of the works of God, which none can underſtand but he alone who performed them. And thence adviſes them to make it their principal ſtudy to underſtand what belonged to their own duty, which is the moſt valuable part of knowledge; and, at the ſame time, to be content with what God had thought proper to reveal, and not pretend to be wiſer than he thought requiſite to make us.

4 Who hath aſcended up into heaven, or deſcended?] Should it not be rather tranſlated, and deſcended?

15, 16 The horſe-leach hath two daughters, crying, Give, give, &c.] This ſeems to be an anſwer to the following queſtion propoſed to Agur by his ſcholars: What creature is moſt unſatiable? To this the wiſe man anſwers, the horſe-leach; which ſucks the blood of other creatures till it burſts; but Bochart has ſhown, that inſtead of horſe-leach, it ſhould be tranſlated deſtiny, or the neceſſity of dying; to which the antient rabbies gave two daughters, Eden, or Paradiſe, and Gehenna, or Hell: the firſt of which always calls for the good, and the ſecond for the wicked.

19 The

valley ſhall pick it out, and the young eagles ſhall eat it.

18 ¶ There be three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not;

19 The way of an eagle in the air, the way of a ſerpent upon a rock, the way of a ſhip in the midſt of the ſea, and the way of a man with a maid.

20 Such is the way of an adulterous woman; ſhe eateth, and wipeth her mouth, and ſaith, I have done no wickedneſs.

21 ¶ For three things the earth is diſquieted, and for four which it cannot bear:

22 For a ſervant when he reigneth; and a fool, when he is filled with meat;

23 For an odious woman, when ſhe is married; and an handmaid that is heir to her miſtreſs.

24 ¶ There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceeding wiſe:

25 The ants are a people not ſtrong, yet they prepare their meat in the ſummer;

26 The conies are but a feeble folk, yet make they their houſes in the rocks;

27 The locuſts have no king, yet go they forth all of them by bands;

28 The ſpider taketh hold with her hands, and is in kings palaces.

29 ¶ There be three things which go well, yea, four are comely in going:

30 A lion, which is ſtrongeſt among beaſts, and turneth not away for any;

31 A grey-hound; and he-goat alſo; and a king, againſt whom there is no riſing up.

32 ¶ If thou haſt done fooliſhly in lifting up thy ſelf, or if thou haſt thought evil, lay thine hand upon thy mouth.

33 Surely the churning of milk bringeth forth butter, and the wringing of the noſe bringeth forth blood: ſo the forcing of wrath bringeth forth ſtrife.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Lemuel's leſſon of chaſtity and temperance. 6 The afflicted are to be comforted and defended. 10 The praiſe and properties of a good wife.

THE words of king Lemuel, the prophecy that his mother taught him.

2 What, my ſon? and what, the ſon of my womb? and what, the ſon of my vows?

3 Give not thy ſtrength unto women, nor thy ways to that which deſtroyeth kings.

4 It is not for kings, O Lemuel, it is not for kings to drink wine; nor for princes, ſtrong drink:

5 Leſt they drink, and forget the law, and pervert the judgement of any of the afflicted.

6 ¶ Give ſtrong drink unto him that is ready to periſh, and wine to thoſe that be of heavy heart.

7 Let him drink, and forget his poverty, and remember his miſery no more.

8 Open thy mouth for the dumb in the cauſe of all ſuch as are appointed to deſtruction.

9 Open thy mouth, judge righteouſly, and plead the cauſe of the poor and needy.

10 ¶ Who can find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies.

---

19 The way of a man with a maid.] It ſhould be rendered, in the maid; and means the conception of the fœtus in the womb, as the words ſeem plainly to imply, then both the analogy and climax will be very natural: this text may therefore juſtly be looked upon as parallel to that of Jeremiah xxxi. 22. The Lord hath created a new thing, a woman ſhall compaſs a man. Univerſal Hiſtory, Vol. III. p. 143.

31 A grey-hound.] The margin reads, A horſe.

33 Surely the churning of milk bringeth forth butter.] He that preſſeth the udder too much, inſtead of milk will draw from it cream. Lamy.

Notes on the Thirty-firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 The words of king Lemuel, the prophecy that his mother taught him.] It has been ſuppoſed that king Lemuel was Solomon; and that the precepts contained in this chapter were taught him by his mother Bathſheba; but all this is conjecture: it ſeems far more probable that he was ſome foreign prince of great wiſdom, who had collected theſe weighty ſentences from the inſtructions of his mother; which, being of the greateſt moment, were thought proper to be added to the foregoing.

2 What, my ſon? and what, the ſon of my womb? and what, the ſon of my vows?] Liſten attentively, my deareſt ſon, to the kind inſtructions of an affectionate parent.

6 Give ſtrong drink to him that is ready to periſh.] It was the cuſtom among the Jews to give condemned perſons, juſt before execution, wine mixed with myrrh, to make them leſs ſenſible of their pain: this cuſtom was ſo common, that the cup, in which this draught was diſpenſed, came to denote death itſelf, as in that paſſage, Father, let this cup paſs from me.

10 Who can find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies.] From this verſe, to the end of the chapter, containing the deſcription of a virtuous woman, is a ſhort poem, and, according to St. Jerom, conſiſts of a ſort of Iambic verſes, each of which begins with a new letter of the Hebrew alphabet; the tenth with Aleph, the eleventh with Beth, &c. to the end. This was conſidered among the ancients as an elegant ſpecies of compoſition, and at the ſame time, as a great help to the memory; ſeveral

11 The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her, so that he shall have no need of spoil.

12 She will do him good and not evil all the days of her life.

13 She seeketh wool and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands.

14 She is like the merchants ships; she bringeth her food from afar.

15 She riseth also while it is yet night, and giveth meat to her household, and a portion to her maidens.

16 She considereth a field, and buyeth it: with the fruit of her hands she planteth a vineyard.

17 She girdeth her loins with strength, and strengtheneth her arms.

18 She perceiveth that her merchandize is good: her candle goeth not out by night.

19 She layeth her hands to the spindle, and her hands hold the distaff.

20 She stretcheth out her hand to the poor; yea, she reacheth forth her hands to the needy.

21 She is not afraid of the snow for her household: for all her household are clothed with scarlet.

22 She maketh herself coverings of tapestry: her clothing is silk and purple.

23 Her husband is known in the gates, when he sitteth among the elders of the land.

24 She maketh fine linnen, and selleth it; and delivereth girdles unto the merchant.

25 Strength and honour are her clothing: and she shall rejoice in time to come.

26 She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness.

27 She looketh well to the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness.

28 Her children arise up, and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her:

29 Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all.

30 Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain: but a woman that feareth the LORD, shall be praised.

31 Give her of the fruit of her hands; and let her own works praise her in the gates.

several of the Psalms are composed in this manner. The judicious Dr. Pearce understands this expression, a virtuous woman, in the same light as the LXX, who render it by γυνη ανδρια, a manly woman; i. e. a woman possessed of all those qualities, which more usually belong to a man, and which, when exerted by him, make his character to be an excellent one.

15 A portion to her maidens.] She appoints her maidens their several tasks. I have endeavoured in my Poems, see page 92, to express the sense of this beautiful poem in English verse, a few lines of which, that may perhaps help to point out the true meaning, I shall transcribe.

17 Inur'd to toil, she strength and sweetness joins;
Strength is the graceful girdle of her loins.

18 With joy her goodly merchandize she views;
And oft till morn the pleasing task pursues.

19 The spindle twirls obedient to her tread;
Round rolls the wheel, and spins the ductile thread.

20 Benignant from her ever-open door
She feeds the hungry and relieves the poor.

26 Wise are her words, her sense divinely strong,
For kindness is the tenour of her tongue.

27 Fair rule and order in her mansion dwell;
She eats with temp'rance what she earns so well.

28 Rich in good works, her childeren call her blest,
And thus her husband speaks his inmost breast:

29 "To Eve's fair daughters, various virtues fall;
But thou, lov'd charmer, hast excell'd them all."

ECCLESIASTES;

OR, THE PREACHER.

THE ARGUMENT.

Eccleſiaſtes is Greek, and ſignifies the Preacher: This book is an admirable picture of the vanity of human life, with all its cares, toils, reſearches, pleaſures and purſuits; when ſeparated from religion, or the fear of God, and the obſervance of his laws. The ingenious Mr. Peters obſerves, that the Hebrew word which is tranſlated Preacher is feminine, which has greatly embarraſſed the commentators. He therefore ſuppoſes the ſoul of Solomon in his ſeparate ſtate to be here introduced as the Preacher; and to deliver this book, in the form of a ſermon, long after his death: and that it was compoſed out of Solomon's remains, and had this form and title given to it by thoſe that were appointed to reviſe and publiſh them. Taking it in this light, all the miſt in which the learned have found themſelves involved, when they would endeavour to fix the time for Solomon's writing ſuch a book, is diſperſed. And it is obſervable, that he ſpeaks of himſelf as of one that had exiſted, I the Preacher was king over Iſrael, &c. What a beautiful admonition is given us, and how aptly does it come from Solomon in the ſtate wherein we now ſuppoſe him! Ch. xi. 7, 8. Truly the light is ſweet, &c. Beſides, he would hardly have ſaid of himſelf, Ch. xii. 9. Moreover becauſe the Preacher was wiſe: but it comes from the Editors with great propriety. See Peters's Appendix to the Critical Diſſertation on Job.

CHAP. I.

1 The Preacher ſheweth that all human courſes are vain; 4 becauſe the creatures are reſtleſs in their courſes; 9 they bring forth nothing new, and all old things are forgotten: 12 and becauſe he hath found it ſo in the ſtudies of wiſdom.

THE words of the Preacher, the ſon of David, king of Jeruſalem.

2 Vanity of vanities, ſaith the Preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity.

3 What profit hath a man of all his labour which he taketh under the ſun?

4 ¶ One generation paſſeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth abideth for ever.

5 The ſun alſo ariſeth, and the ſun goeth down, and haſteth to his place where he aroſe.

6 The wind goeth toward the ſouth, and turneth about unto the north: it whirleth about continually; and the wind returneth again according to his circuits.

7 All the rivers run into the ſea; yet the ſea is not full: unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again.

Notes on the Firſt Chapter.

Ver. 2 Vanity of vanities, ſaith the preacher, vanity of vanities, all is vanity.] This is the ſubject of the preacher's diſcourſe, to ſhow how ridiculous it is to place our happineſs in the frail and inconſtant things we enjoy in this tranſitory life; and may be conſidered as the text to the ſermon. The original word in the Hebrew is much ſtronger than our word vanity, implying, that the thing ſpoken of is ſo trivial, that it is below, or leſs than nothing.

4 For ever.] i. e. For a very long time.

8 All things are full of labour; man cannot utter it: the eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearing.

9 ¶ The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done, is that which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun.

10 Is there any thing whereof it may be said, See, this is new? it hath been already of old time which was before us.

11 There is no remembrance of former things; neither shall there be any remembrance of things that are to come, with those that shall come after.

12 ¶ I the Preacher was king over Israel in Jerusalem:

13 And I gave my heart to seek and search out by wisdom concerning all things that are done under heaven: this sore travail hath God given to the sons of man to be exercised therewith.

14 I have seen all the works that are done under the sun; and behold, all is vanity and vexation of spirit.

15 That which is crooked cannot be made straight: and that which is wanting cannot be numbered.

16 I communed with mine own heart, saying, Lo, I am come to great estate, and have gotten more wisdom than all they that have been before me in Jerusalem: yea, my heart had great experience of wisdom and knowledge.

17 And I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness and folly: I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit.

18 For in much wisdom is much grief: and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow.

CHAP. II.

1 The vanity of human courses in the works of pleasure. 12 Though the wise be better than the fool, yet both have one event. 18 The vanity of human labour in leaving it they know not to whom.

I Said in mine heart, Go to now, I will prove thee with mirth, therefore enjoy pleasure: and behold, this also is vanity.

2 I said of laughter, It is mad: and of mirth, What doeth it?

3 I sought in mine heart to give my self unto wine, yet acquainting mine heart with wisdom, and to lay hold on folly, till I might see what was that good for the sons of men which they should do under the heaven all the days of their life.

4 I made me great works; I builded me houses; I planted me vineyards:

5 I made me gardens and orchards, and I planted trees in them of all kind of fruits:

6 I made me pools of water, to water therewith the wood that bringeth forth trees:

7 I got me servants and maidens, and had servants born in my house; also I had great possessions of great and small cattle, above all that were in Jerusalem before me:

8 I gathered me also silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings and of the provinces: I gat me men-singers, and women-singers, and the delights of the sons of men, as musical instruments, and that of all sorts.

9 So I was great, and increased more than all that were before me in Jerusalem: also my wisdom remained with me.

10 And whatsoever mine eyes desired, I kept not from them; I with-held not my heart from any joy; for my heart rejoiced in all my labour; and this was my portion of all my labour.

11 Then I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labour that I

15 That which is crooked cannot be made straight, &c.] i. e. Men's defects in what is good are innumerable; and their practices of what is ill are incorrigible. Clark.

17, 18 I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness, and folly, &c.] To comprehend not only the greatest, but the meanest matters; to mark the actions and occupations of madmen and fools, as well as the motions of wiser persons; and it was an afflicting thought to observe, how little most persons differed from lunatics and distracted men. Madness and folly may refer also to the idle speculations wherein men of parts and wit sometimes not only employ, but applaud themselves. Patrick.

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 2 I said of laughter.] i. e. Of dissolute aud frantic mirth.

8 I gathered me also silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings, &c.] The greatest difficulty in this verse, and indeed in the whole chapter, is to understand what is meant by what he calls in the conclusion of this description of his magnificence, the delights, or delicious pleasures of the sons of men. Bochart, with good reason, understands the most excellent compositions of music, or the most elegant verses set to ravishing and melting notes. Our translation takes it for musical instruments of such remarkable sweetness, that they left no part of the human soul untouched, nor room for any other pleasure. Patrick.

12 After

had laboured to do: and behold, all was vanity and vexation of ſpirit, and there was no profit under the ſun.

12 ¶ And I turned my ſelf to behold wiſdom, and madneſs, and folly: for what can the man do that cometh after the king? even that which hath been already done.

13 Then I ſaw that wiſdom excelleth folly, as far as light excelleth darkneſs.

14 The wiſe man's eyes are in his head; but the fool walketh in darkneſs: and I my ſelf perceived alſo that one event happeneth to them all.

15 Then ſaid I in my heart, As it happeneth to the fool, ſo it happeneth even to me; and why was I then more wiſe? Then I ſaid in my heart that this alſo is vanity.

16 For there is no remembrance of the wiſe more than of the fool for ever; ſeeing that which now is, in the days to come ſhall all be forgotten. And how dieth the wiſe man? as the fool.

17 Therefore I hated life; becauſe the work that is wrought under the ſun is grievous unto me: for all is vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

18 ¶ Yea, I hated all my labour which I had taken under the ſun: becauſe I ſhould leave it unto the man that ſhall be after me.

19 And who knoweth whether he ſhall be a wiſe man or a fool? yet ſhall he have rule over all my labour wherein I have laboured, and wherein I have ſhewed my ſelf wiſe under the ſun. This is alſo vanity.

20 Therefore I went about to cauſe my heart to deſpair of all the labour which I took under the ſun.

21 For there is a man whoſe labour is in wiſdom and in knowledge and in equity; yet to a man that hath not laboured therein ſhall he leave it for his portion. This alſo is vanity, and a great evil.

22 For what hath man of all his labour, and of the vexation of his heart, wherein he hath laboured under the ſun?

23 For all his days are ſorrows, and his travel grief: yea, his heart taketh not reſt in the night. This is alſo vanity.

24 There is nothing better for a man than that he ſhould eat and drink, and that he ſhould make his ſoul enjoy good in his labour. This alſo I ſaw, that it was from the hand of God.

25 For who can eat, or who elſe can haſten hereunto more than I?

26 For God giveth to a man that is good in his ſight wiſdom and knowledge and joy: but to the ſinner he giveth travel, to gather and to heap up, that he may give to him that is good before God. This alſo is vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

CHAP. III.

1 By the neceſſary change of times vanity is increaſed. 11 God's works are excellent. 16 But as for man, God ſhall judge his works hereafter, and here he ſhall be like a beaſt.

TO every thing there is a ſeaſon, and a time to every purpoſe under the heaven:

2 A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;

3 A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up;

4 A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance;

5 A time to caſt away ſtones, and a time to gather ſtones together; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;

6 A time to get, and a time to looſe; a time to keep, and a time to caſt away;

7 A time to rend, and a time to ſew; a time to keep ſilence, and a time to ſpeak;

8 A time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace.

9 What profit hath he that worketh in that wherein he laboureth?

10 I have ſeen the travel which God hath given to the ſons of men to be exerciſed in it.

11 ¶ He hath made every thing beautiful in 12 After the king.] Septuagint, After counſel.

13 Wiſdom excelleth folly, &c.] i. e. Virtue and religion is as much more excellent and more profitable to men than wickedneſs, as one thing can be preferable to another. Clark.

24 That he ſhould eat and drink.] i. e. That he ſhould allow himſelf a moderate and decent uſe of all that he had gotten by his honeſt labours.

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 11 He hath ſet the world in their heart.] The word here tranſlated the world, moſt commonly ſignifies eternity: and to his time: also he hath set the world in their heart, so that no man can find out the work that God maketh from the beginning to the end.

ſet

12 I know that there is no good in them, but for a man to rejoice, and to do good in his life.

13 And also that every man should eat and drink, and enjoy the good of all his labour, it is the gift of God.

14 I know that whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it that men should fear before him.

15 That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past.

16 ¶ And moreover, I saw under the sun the place of judgement, that wickedness was there; and the place of the righteousness, that iniquity was there.

17 I said in mine heart, God shall judge the righteous and the wicked; for there is a time there for every purpose and for every work.

18 I said in mine heart concerning the estate of the sons of men, that God might manifest them, and that they might see that they themselves are beasts.

19 For that which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them: as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath; so that a man hath no preeminence above a beast: for all is vanity.

20 All go unto one place; all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again.

21 Who knoweth the spirit of man that goeth upward, and the spirit of the beast that goeth downward to the earth?

22 Wherefore I perceive that there is nothing better than that a man should rejoice in his own works: for that is his portion: for who shall bring him to see what shall be after him?

CHAP. IV.

1 Vanity is increased unto men by oppression, 4 by envy, 5 by idleness, 7 by covetousness, 9 by solitariness, 13 by wilfulness.

SO I returned, and considered all the oppressions that are done under the sun: and behold, the tears of such as were oppressed, and they had no comforter; and on the side of their oppressors there was power, but they had no comforter.

2 Wherefore I praised the dead which are already dead, more than the living which are yet alive.

3 Yea, better is he than both they, which hath not yet been, who hath not seen the evil work that is done under the sun.

4 ¶ Again, I considered all travel, and every right work, that for this a man is envied of his neighbour. This is also vanity and vexation of spirit.

5 ¶ The fool foldeth his hands together, and eateth his own flesh.

6 Better is an handful with quietness, than both the hands full with travel and vexation of spirit.

---

set this in their heart, is (I suppose) to give them an idea of it. God then (says the wise man) has given men an idea of eternity, that they may not presume to judge of the ways of Providence by imperfect views, or vainly hope to comprehend them from the beginning to the end; but may rest satisfied that every thing is beautiful in its season, or its proper place, and the whole scheme together admirably perfect and harmonious. Peters.

14 That men should fear before him.] That they should fear something that may happen to them in eternity; to which all God's works have a respect. Peters.

18 I said in my heart, &c.] i. e. I thought within myself, that the reason why God is pleased to suffer so much injustice to prevail in the world, was to humble men in their own conceits, and to let them see that they were no better in their nature than brute beasts. Peters.

21 Who knoweth the spirit of a man that goeth upwards, &c.] Where shall we find a man in this thoughtless age who seriously believes that the souls of men repair to God, and that the souls of beasts perish with them? No, in this the generality differ little from beasts, and having buried their minds in brutish pleasures, have no more thoughts of a future state than the beasts; imagining that the soul of man perishes with the body. Patrick.

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 I returned.] In the vast compass of thought which Solomon had, in being able to survey the whole extent of nature, to observe the tempers and dispositions of men, and the different events of things, he turned his thoughts and observations from one subject to another. Clark.

I considered all the oppressions that are done under the sun.] I found innumerable ways were practised in this world for the ruin of others; violence, exactions, fraud, and calumnies, together with unjust sentences from corrupt judges, were often made use of to crush the innocent; so that every place was filled with the tears and cries, the sighs and groans of such as were reduced to a desolate condition, without any to assist, or even to comfort them. Patrick.

7 ¶ Then I returned, and I saw vanity under the sun.

8 There is one alone, and there is not a second; yea he hath neither child nor brother: yet is there no end of all his labour; neither is his eye satisfied with riches: neither saith he, For whom do I labour, and bereave my soul of good? This is also vanity, yea, it is a sore travel.

9 ¶ Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labour.

10 For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but wo to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up.

11 Again, if two lie together, they have heat: but how can one be warm alone?

12 And if one prevail against him, two shall withstand him: and a three-fold cord is not quickly broken.

13 ¶ Better is a poor and a wise child than an old and foolish king who will no more be admonished.

14 For out of prison he cometh to reign; whereas also he that is born in his kingdom becometh poor.

15 I considered all the living which walk under the sun, with the second child that shall stand up in his stead.

16 There is no end of all the people, even of all that have been before them: they also that come after shall not rejoice in him. Surely this also is vanity and vexation of spirit.

CHAP. V.

1 Vanities in divine service, 8 in murmuring against oppression, 9 and in riches. 18 Joy in riches is the gift of God.

KEEP thy foot when thou goest to the house of God, and be more ready to hear than to give the sacrifice of fools: for they consider not that they do evil.

2 Be not rash with thy mouth, and let not thine heart be hasty to utter any thing before God: for God is in heaven, and thou upon earth: therefore let thy words be few.

3 For a dream cometh through the multitude of business, and a fool's voice is known by multitude of words.

4 When thou vowest a vow unto God, defer not to pay it: for he hath no pleasure in fools: pay that which thou hast vowed.

5 Better is it that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay.

6 Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin; neither say thou before the angel that it was an error: wherefore should God be angry at thy voice, and destroy the work of thine hands?

7 For in the multitude of dreams and many words there are also divers vanities: but fear thou God.

8 ¶ If thou seest the oppression of the poor, and violent perverting of judgement, and justice in a province, marvel not at the matter; for he that is higher than the highest regardeth, and there be higher than they.

9 ¶ Moreover, the profit of the earth is for all: the king himself is served by the field.

10 He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver; nor he that loveth abundance, with increase. This is also vanity.

11 When goods increase, they are increased that eat them: and what good is there to the 9 They have a good reward for their labour.] Two persons may undertake any business with greater probability of success than one, and expect to be recompensed for their labour.

15, 16 I considered all the living, &c.] I observed that all men under the sun would accompany the young successor, who was to come in his father's stead: so that there was an infinite number of people, of those going before, and of those following him; and yet they shall not rejoice in him. Castalio.

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Keep thy foot, when thou goest to the house of God, &c.] Be very careful to approach the temple of the Lord with the utmost reverence both of body and mind. Thou must not however hope to please him with mere postures of devotion; nor with sacrifices and incense, without the oblation of an obedient heart, disposed to obey his laws. The manner of expressing honour and veneration in the Eastern countries, was by uncovering the feet.

6 Neither say thou before the angel.] Think not to be absolved from the obligations thou layest on thyself in the presence of God and his holy angels, by such foolish excuses as these, it was a mistake, &c. Patrick.

7 In the multitude of dreams and many words, there are also divers vanities, &c.] i. e. They only dream of God, (not being awakened to a lively sense of him) who make either these vain excuses, or those idle promises; therefore, to prevent thy being guilty of the same crime, possess thy soul with an awful dread of his majesty. Patrick.

8 There be higher than they.] The greatest mortal power is nothing in comparison to the power of the meanest ministring spirits in the armies of the angels of God. Clark.

owners thereof, ſaving the beholding of them with their eyes?

12 The ſleep of a labouring man is ſweet, whether he eat little or much: but the abundance of the rich will not ſuffer him to ſleep.

13 There is a ſore evil which I have ſeen under the ſun, namely, riches kept for the owners thereof to their hurt.

14 But thoſe riches periſh by evil travel: and he begetteth a ſon, and there is nothing in his hand.

15 As he came forth of his mother's womb, naked ſhall he return to go as he came, and ſhall take nothing of his labour, which he may carry away in his hand.

16 And this alſo is a ſore evil, that in all points as he came, ſo ſhall he go: and what profit hath he that hath laboured for the wind?

17 All his days alſo he eateth in darkneſs, and he hath much ſorrow, and wrath with his ſickneſs.

18 ¶ Behold that which I have ſeen: it is good and comely for one to eat and to drink, and to enjoy the good of all his labour that he taketh under the ſun, all the days of his life which God giveth him: for it is his portion.

19 Every man alſo to whom God hath given riches and wealth, and hath given him power to eat thereof, and to take his portion, and to rejoice in his labour; this is the gift of God.

20 For he ſhall not much remember the days of his life; becauſe God anſwereth him in the joy of his heart.

CHAP. VI.

1 The vanity of riches without uſe, 3 of children, 6 and old age without riches. 9 The vanity of ſight and wandering deſires. 11 The concluſion of riches.

THERE is an evil which I have ſeen under the ſun, and it is common among men:

2 A man to whom God hath given riches, wealth and honour, ſo that he wanteth nothing for his ſoul of all that he deſireth, yet God giveth him not power to eat thereof, but a ſtranger eateth it: this is vanity; and it is an evil diſeaſe.

3 ¶ If a man beget an hundred children, and live many years, ſo that the days of his years be many, and his ſoul be not filled with good, and alſo that he have no burial; I ſay, that an untimely birth is better than he:

4 For he cometh in with vanity, and departeth in darkneſs, and his name ſhall be covered with darkneſs.

5 Moreover, he hath not ſeen the ſun, nor known any thing: this hath more reſt than the other.

6 ¶ Yea, though he live a thouſand years twice told, yet hath he ſeen no good: do not all go to one place?

7 All the labour of man is for his mouth, and yet the appetite is not filled.

8 For what hath the wiſe more than the fool? what hath the poor, that knoweth to walk before the living?

9 ¶ Better is the ſight of the eyes, than the wandering of the deſire. This is alſo vanity and vexation of ſpirit.

10 That which hath been is named already, and it is known that it is man: neither may he contend with him that is mightier than he.

11 ¶ Seeing there be many things that increaſe vanity, what is man the better?

12 For who knoweth what is good for man in this life, all the days of his vain life which he ſpendeth as a ſhadow? for who can tell a man what ſhall be after him under the ſun?

CHAP. VII.

1 Remedies againſt vanity, are a good name, 2 mortification, 7 patience, 11 wiſdom. 23 The difficulty of getting wiſdom.

15 As he came forth of his mother's womb; naked ſhall he return to go as he came, &c.] If the wicked man be ſuffered to keep his riches while he continues in this world, he muſt, at his death, leave them to others; for he can carry nothing with him. He and the pooreſt wretch will be then both alike; for as he brought nothing into this world, ſo it is certain he ſhall carry nothing out.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 8 What hath the poor, that knoweth to walk before the living?] What advantage has the modeſt man, that knows how to behave himſelf? Caſtalio.

9 Better is the ſight of the eyes, than the wandering of the deſire, &c.] It is much better to enjoy what a man hath at preſent, than to live upon the hopes of that which his ravenous deſires continually purſue.

12 Who knoweth what is good for man in this life? &c.] Who can tell, if a man ſhould obtain all that he deſires, whether it would not have been better for him to have been diſappointed?

Notes

A Good name is better than precious ointment: and the day of death, than the day of one's birth.

2 ¶ It is better to go to the house of mourning than to go to the house of feasting: for that is the end of all men; and the living will lay it to his heart.

3 Sorrow is better than laughter; for by the sadness of the countenance the heart is made better.

4 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning: but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.

5 It is better to hear the rebuke of the wise, than for a man to hear the song of fools:

6 For as the crackling of thorns under a pot, so is the laughter of the fool. This also is vanity.

7 ¶ Surely oppression maketh a wise man mad, and a gift destroyeth the heart.

8 Better is the end of a thing than the beginning thereof: and the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit.

9 Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry; for anger resteth in the bosom of fools.

10 Say not thou, What is the cause that the former days were better than these? for thou dost not enquire wisely concerning this.

11 ¶ Wisdom is good with an inheritance: and by it there is profit to them that see the sun.

12 For wisdom is a defence, and money is a defence: but the excellency of knowledge is, that wisdom giveth life to them that have it.

13 Consider the work of God: for who can make that straight which he hath made crooked?

14 In the day of prosperity be joyful; but in the day of adversity consider: God also hath set the one over against the other, to the end that man should find nothing after him.

15 All things have I seen in the days of my vanity: there is a just man that perisheth in his righteousness, and there is a wicked man that prolongeth his life in his wickedness.

16 Be not righteous overmuch; neither make thy self over-wise: why shouldest thou destroy thy self?

17 Be not overmuch wicked; neither be thou foolish: why shouldest thou die before thy time?

18 It is good that thou shouldest take hold of this; yea, also from this withdraw not thine hand: for he that feareth God shall come forth of them all.

19 Wisdom strengtheneth the wise more than ten mighty men which are in the city.

20 For there is not a just man upon earth that doeth good, and sinneth not.

21 Also take no heed unto all words that are spoken; lest thou hear thy servant curse thee.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 A good name is better than precious ointment.] This they used in embalming the dead bodies, to preserve them from noisomeness and corruption: but a good name preserves a man's memory, and makes it grateful to posterity. Tillotson.

2 It is better to go to the house of mourning, than to go the house of feasting, &c.] As nothing animates us more powerfully to a religious life than a frequent remembrance of our own mortality, every person who is desirous of being happy should embrace all occasions of visiting places where the objects that present themselves put us in mind of the shortness of human life. The antients used to say, that the meditation of death was an epitome of all philosophy; for they were persuaded, that in this were comprised all the precepts of wisdom. No wonder, therefore, that Solomon should begin with, and press it so largely as he doth in the following verses, in order to induce us to make our life not only a meditation, but an exercise of death, which, in the Christian language, is called mortification. In short, the thoughts of death will instruct us in all those virtues which will procure us a good name, and render us happy both here and hereafter. Patrick.

6 As the crackling of thorns under a pot.]

——magno veluti cùm flamma sonore
Virgea suggeritur costis undantis aëni. Virg. Æneid 7.

So when in parting spires the flame divides,
And crackling climbs around the cauldron's sides. Pitt.

12 Wisdom giveth life to them that have it.] Solomon himself explains this, Prov. iii. 18, where he tells us, that "wisdom is a tree of life to them that lay hold of her:" alluding, no doubt, to that tree of life in paradise; whence Adam was excluded, "lest he should eat and live for ever." Peters.

13 Consider the work of God: for who can make that straight which he hath made crooked?] As God hath settled all things in heaven and earth in an unchangeable course, so nothing happens without his providence; and it is impossible to oppose any of his decrees. Patrick.

14 In the day of adversity consider, &c.] When afflictions overtake us, let us bear them patiently, considering, that our condition may again change for the better. Patrick.

16 Be not righteous overmuch, &c.] Here Solomon evidently speaks of the justice which a man is to exercise towards others, as what goes before and after plainly shows: the words should be translated, Do not exercise justice too rigorously, neither set up for a man of too great wisdom, by pretending to reform and regulate all things; as several lerned men have rendered them. Essay for a New Translation.

22 For oftentimes alſo thine own heart knoweth, that thou thy ſelf likewiſe haſt curſed others.

23 ¶ All this have I proved by wiſdom: I ſaid, I will be wiſe; but it was far from me.

24 That which is far off, and exceeding deep, who can find it out?

25 I applied mine heart to know and to ſearch and to ſeek out wiſdom, and the reaſon of things, and to know the wickedneſs of folly, even of fooliſhneſs and madneſs:

26 And I find more bitter than death the woman whoſe heart is ſnares and nets, and her hands as bands: whoſo pleaſeth God ſhall eſcape from her; but the ſinner ſhall be taken by her.

27 Behold, this have I found, ſaith the Preacher, counting one by one to find out the account;

28 Which yet my ſoul ſeeketh, but I find not: one man among a thouſand have I found; but a woman among all thoſe have I not found.

29 Lo, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright; but they have ſought out many inventions.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Kings are greatly to be reſpected. 6 The divine providence is to be obſerved. 12 It is better with the godly in adverſity, than with the wicked in proſperity. 16 The work of God is unſearchable.

WHO is as the wiſe man? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing? a man's wiſdom maketh his face to ſhine, and the boldneſs of his face ſhall be changed.

2 I counſel thee to keep the king's commandment, and that in regard of the oath of God.

3 Be not haſty to go out of his ſight: ſtand not in an evil thing; for he doeth whatſoever pleaſeth him.

4 Where the word of a king is, there is power: and who may ſay unto him, What doeſt thou?

5 Whoſo keepeth the commandment ſhall feel no evil thing: and a wiſe man's heart diſcerneth both time and judgement.

6 ¶ Becauſe to every purpoſe there is time and judgement, therefore the miſery of man is great upon him.

7 For he knoweth not that which ſhall be: for who can tell him when it ſhall be?

8 There is no man that hath power over the ſpirit to retain the ſpirit; neither hath he power in the day of death: and there is no diſcharge in that war; neither ſhall wickedneſs deliver thoſe that are given to it.

9 All this have I ſeen, and applied my heart unto every work that is done under the ſun: there is a time wherein one man ruleth over another to his own hurt.

10 And ſo I ſaw the wicked buried, who had come and gone from the place of the Holy, and they were forgotten in the city where they had ſo done. This is alſo vanity.

11 Becauſe ſentence againſt an evil work is not executed ſpeedily, therefore the heart of the ſons of men is fully ſet in them to do evil.

12 ¶ Though a ſinner do evil an hundred times, and his days be prolonged, yet ſurely I know that it ſhall be well with them that fear God, which fear before him:

---

28 A woman among them have I not found.] i. e. A ſincerely virtuous woman, without guile or diſſimulation: this is far from the true character of women in general, but muſt be underſtood only of thoſe which Solomon was acquainted with, whoſe beauty commonly betrayed them to their ruin.

29 God hath made man upright; but they have ſought but many inventions.] God created man in perfect integrity, gave him a clear underſtanding to judge ſolidly, and with an honeſt will inclined to follow his judgment; preſcribing to him no other rule of life than what was juſt and good: but he depraved his nature by following his own opinions and falſe reaſonings, rather than the will of his merciful Creator. Patrick.

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Who is as the wiſe man? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing?] Solomon now adds to the advices he had given in the foregoing chapter, ſeveral others; the firſt of which is contained in this verſe, where he obſerves, that the wiſdom which will render us happy in this world ſhould not make us moroſe and ſupercilious, ſevere and rigorous, but kind and benign, gentle and eaſy: for the more we know, the more humble we ought to be, and by the chearful and pleaſant appearance of our countenance, invite others to a familiarity with us. Patrick.

3 Be not haſty to go out of his ſight.] Septuagint reads, Be not haſty; go out of his ſight.

10 They were forgotten in the city where they had ſo done.] Septuagint, They went and were praiſed in the city for what they had done.

13 But it ſhall not be well with the wicked, neither ſhall he prolong his days which are as a ſhadow; becauſe he feareth not before God.

14 There is a vanity which is done upon the earth, that there be juſt men unto whom it happeneth according to the work of the wicked; again, there be wicked men to whom it happeneth according to the work of the righteous. I ſaid, that this alſo is vanity.

15 Then I commended mirth, becauſe a man hath no better thing under the ſun, than to eat and to drink and to be merry: for that ſhall abide with him of his labour the days of his life which God giveth him under the ſun.

16 ¶ When I applied mine heart to know wiſdom, and to ſee the buſineſs that is done upon the earth: for alſo there is that neither day nor night ſeeth ſleep with his eyes:

17 Then I beheld all the work of God, that a man cannot find out the work that is done under the ſun: becauſe though a man labour to ſeek it out, yet he ſhall not find it; yea farther, though a wiſe man think to know it, yet ſhall he not be able to find it.

CHAP. IX.

1 Like things happen to good and bad. 4 There is a neceſſity of death unto men. 7 Comfort is all their portion in this life. 11 God's providence ruleth over all. 13 Wiſdom is better than ſtrength.

FOR all this I conſidered in my heart even to declare all this, that the righteous and the wiſe, and their works are in the hand of God: no man knoweth either love or hatred by all that is before them.

2 All things come alike to all: there is one event to the righteous, and to the wicked; to the good and to the clean, and to the unclean; to him that ſacrificeth, and to him that ſacrificeth not: as is the good, ſo is the ſinner; and he that ſwareth, as he that feareth an oath.

3 This is an evil among all things that are done under the ſun, that there is one event unto all: yea, alſo the heart of the ſons of men is full of evil, and madneſs is in their heart while they live, and after that they go to the dead.

4 ¶ For to him that is joined to all the living there is hope: for a living dog is better than a dead lion.

5 For the living know that they ſhall die: but the dead know not any thing, neither have they any more a reward; for the memory of them is forgotten.

6 Alſo their love and their hatred and their envy is now periſhed; neither have they any more a portion for ever in any thing that is under the ſun.

7 ¶ Go thy way, eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart: for God now accepteth thy works.

8 Let thy garments be always white; and let thy head lack no ointment.

9 Live joyfully with the wife whom thou loveſt all the days of the life of thy vanity which he hath given thee under the ſun, all the days

14 There is a vanity which is done upon the earth, &c.] There are inſtances of virtuous men, who feel the miſeries which the wicked ſo juſtly merit: and, on the contrary, of impious men, who enjoy that proſperity which, it is natural to think, ſhould be the portion of the juſt: I have already obſerved this deplorable ſtate of things in this world; but all theſe irregularities will be rectified in the world to come. Patrick.

Notes on the Ninth Chapter.

Ver. 2 All things come alike to all, there is one event to the righteous and to the wicked, &c.] There is no certain diſtinction made between one man and another in the diſtribution of things in his world; but they all have the ſame fate, eſpecially in publick calamities: the righteous, for inſtance, periſh in a battle as well as the wicked; the juſt and pure die in a peſtilence as well as the unjuſt and depraved: thoſe that worſhip God in ſincerity and truth, ſuffer by ſtorms, ſhipwrecks, and inundations, as well as the hypocrites: on the contrary, a blaſphemer of God, nay, a perjured wretched, proſpers as much as he who dreads the awful name of his Maker, and dares not raſhly, much leſs falſely, take it into his mouth. Patrick.

4 For to him that is joined, &c.] For who is there that hopes he ſhall be aſſociated to all the living? (i. e. after death). From this verſe to the 10th, is a deſcription of the ſoft and voluptuous life; of ſuch as believed a Deity indeed, but (like Epicurus) imagined him to be as ſoft and idle as themſelves; and that he had given them this preſent life merely that they might enjoy it to the full; for that there was nothing after this life either to be hoped or feared. "Nay, but a living dog (ſay they) is better than a dead lion:" the very turn of this ſentence ſhows it to be proverbial; and a wicked ſaying got into the mouth of ſome who had thrown off all regard for fame, as well as all belief of another life: for the import of it is plainly this, that it it is better to live with ſhame, than die with honour. This could not be the ſentiment of Solomon, who ſays, a good name is better than precious ointment; and the day of death (to one who has acquired it) better than the day of his birth. Peters, ſee his Preface.

of thy vanity: for that is thy portion in this life, and in thy labour which thou takeſt under the ſun.

10 Whatſoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might: for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wiſdom in the grave, whither thou goeſt.

11 ¶ I returned, and ſaw under the ſun, that the race is not to the ſwift, nor the battle to the ſtrong, neither yet bread to the wiſe, nor yet riches to men of underſtanding, nor yet favour to men of ſkill: but time and chance happeneth to them all.

12 For man alſo knoweth not his time: as the fiſhes that are taken in an evil net, and as the birds that are caught in the ſnare; ſo are the ſons of men ſnared in an evil time, when it falleth ſuddenly upon them.

13 ¶ This wiſdom have I ſeen alſo under the ſun, and it ſeemed great unto me:

14 There was a little city, and few men within it; and there came a great king againſt it, and beſieged it, and built great bulwarks againſt it:

15 Now there was found in it a poor wiſe man, and he by his wiſdom delivered the city: yet no man remembered that ſame poor man.

16 Then ſaid I, Wiſdom is better than ſtrength: nevertheleſs, the poor man's wiſdom is deſpiſed, and his words are not heard.

17 The words of wiſe men are heard in quiet, more than the cry of him that ruleth among fools.

18 Wiſdom is better than weapons of war: but one ſinner deſtroyeth much good.

CHAP. X.

1 Obſervations of wiſdom and folly. 16 Of riot, 18 ſlothfulneſs, 19 and money. 20 Men's thoughts of kings ought to be reverent.

DEAD flies cauſe the ointment of the apothecary to ſend forth a ſtinking ſavour; ſo doth a little folly him that is in reputation for wiſdom and honour.

2 A wiſe man's heart is at his right hand; but a fool's heart is at his left.

3 Yea alſo when he that is a fool walketh by the way, his wiſdom faileth him, and he ſaith to every one that he is a fool.

4 If the ſpirit of the ruler riſe up againſt thee, leave not thy place: for yielding pacifieth great offences.

5 There is an evil which I have ſeen under the ſun, as an error which proceedeth from the ruler:

6 Folly is ſet in great dignity, and the rich ſit in low place.

7 I have ſeen ſervants upon horſes, and princes walking as ſervants upon the earth.

8 He that diggeth a pit ſhall fall into it; and whoſo breaketh an hedge, a ſerpent ſhall bite him.

9 Whoſo removeth ſtones ſhall be hurt therewith; and he that cleaveth wood ſhall be endangered thereby.

10 If the iron be blunt, and he do not whet the edge, then muſt he put to more ſtrength: but wiſdom is profitable to direct.

11 Surely, the ſerpent will bite without enchantment; and a babler is no better.

12 The words of a wiſe man's mouth are gracious: but the lips of a fool will ſwallow up himſelf.

13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is fooliſhneſs: and the end of his talk is miſchievous madneſs.

---

10 Whatſoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might, &c.] Remember to act with vigour, and improve every moment in doing all the good in thy power; for now is the time of action, both with regard to the employments of the body and thoſe of the mind; now is the ſeaſon for ſtudying the principles of wiſdom and virtue; for which thou wilt have no opportunity in the place whither thou art going. Patrick.

11 The race is not to the ſwift, &c.] i. e. The events of things do not always anſwer to the probabilities of ſecond cauſes. Clark.

17 The words of wiſe men are heard in quiet, &c.] The modeſt ſpeeches of a wiſe man, delivered without noiſe, will be more regarded, than the moſt clamorous and imperious language of a powerful fool. Patrick.

Notes on the Tenth Chapter.

Ver. 2 A wiſe man's heart is at his right hand; but a fool's heart is at his left.] A wiſe man's judgment never fails him, even in the greateſt difficulties, ſo that he manages all his affairs with dexterity; whereas a fool both miſtakes in planning and executing his intentions.

8 He that diggeth a pit, ſhall fall into it; and whoſo breaketh an hedge, a ſerpent ſhall bite him.] It is very dangerous to purſue our own deſires and paſſions, eſpecially to the injury of our country, leſt we fall into the pit we digged for others: nor ſhould we ever preſume to overthrow the ſettled laws and cuſtoms of the ſtate, leſt, like the perſon, who in breaking a hedge where a ſerpent lurks, is bit, we receive a deadly wound. Patrick.

11 The ſerpent will bite without enchantment.] This alludes to the antient cuſtom of charming ſerpents with muſic.

14 A fool alſo is full of words: a man cannot tell what ſhall be; and what ſhall be after him, who can tell him?

15 The labour of the fooliſh wearieth every one of them, becauſe he knoweth not how to go to the city.

16 ¶ Wo to thee, O land, when thy king is a child, and thy princes eat in the morning!

17 Bleſſed art thou, O land, when thy king is the ſon of nobles, and thy princes eat in due ſeaſon, for ſtrength, and not for drunkenneſs!

18 ¶ By much ſlothfulneſs the building decayeth, and through idleneſs of the hands the houſe droppeth through.

19 ¶ A feaſt is made for laughter, and wine maketh merry: but money anſwereth all things.

20 ¶ Curſe not the king, not in thy thought; and curſe not the rich in thy bed-chamber: for a bird of the air ſhall carry the voice, and that which hath wings ſhall tell the matter.

CHAP. XI.

1 Directions for charity. 7 Death in life, 9 and the day of judgment in the days of youth are to be thought on.

CAST thy bread upon the waters: for thou ſhalt find it after many days.

2 Give a portion to ſeven, and alſo to eight: for thou knoweſt not what evil ſhall be upon the earth.

3 If the clouds be full of rain, they empty themſelves upon the earth: and if the tree fall toward the ſouth, or toward the north; in the place where the tree falleth, there it ſhall be.

4 He that obſerveth the wind ſhall not ſow; and he that regardeth the clouds ſhall not reap.

4 As thou knoweſt not what is the way of the ſpirit, nor how the bones do grow in the womb of her that is with child; even ſo thou knoweſt not the works of God who maketh all.

6 In the morning ſow thy ſeed, and in the evening with-hold not thine hand: for thou knoweſt not whether ſhall proſper, either this or that, or whether they both ſhall be alike good.

7 ¶ Truly the light is ſweet, and a pleaſant thing it is for the eyes to behold the ſun:

8 But if a man live many years and rejoice in them all; yet let him remember the days of darkneſs; for they ſhall be many. All that cometh is vanity.

9 ¶ Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thy heart, and in the ſight of thine eyes: but know thou, that for all theſe things God will bring thee into judgement.

10 Therefore remove ſorrow from thy heart, and put away evil from thy fleſh; for childhood and youth are vanity.

CHAP. XII.

1 The Creator is to be remembered in due time. 8 The Preacher's care to edify. 13 The fear of God is the chief antidote of vanity.

REmember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh when thou ſhalt ſay, I have no pleaſure in them;

2 While the ſun, or the light, or the moon,

16 When thy princes eat in the morning.] Indulge themſelves in pleaſures when they ſhould attend the buſineſs of the ſtate.

Notes on the Eleventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 Caſt thy bread upon the waters: for thou ſhalt find it after many days.] The word here tranſlated bread, ſignifies likewiſe wheat, and what is rendered waters, ſignifies alſo ground that is moiſt, or lies near the waters; the whole verſe therefore may be tranſlated thus, Caſt thy ſeed into moiſt ground, and in time thou ſhalt find it again.

5 The way of the ſpirit.] It ſhould be tranſlated, the way of the wind, according to that of our Saviour, thou heareſt the ſound thereof, but canſt not tell whence it cometh, nor whither it goeth.

7 Truly the light is ſweet, and a pleaſant thing it is for the eyes to behold the ſun, &c.] Life is indeed full of delight; and when we are in proſperity, we are entertained with a variety of pleaſures, and may behold with great ſatisfaction the good things heaven hath provided for us. Patrick.

9 Rejoice, O young man, &c.] This ſeems to be ſpoken ironically, "Do ſo; indulge thyſelf in thy youthful vanities, luſts and other vices; ſtick at nothing to gratify thy vicious appetites: but take this along with thee, Thou wilt for ſo doing, without a ſincere repentance, periſh everlaſtingly." Trap.

Notes on the Twelfth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, &c.] He ſpeaks of old-age, adviſing thoſe who are young to be religious while they are ſo; and not to defer the ſervice of God, and the care of their ſouls, in hopes of a long life. Trap.

While the evil days come not.] i. e. Before they come.

2 While the ſun, or the light, or the moon, or the ſtars be not darkened.] i. e. Before the faculties and powers of the mind, the underſtanding, the judgment, the fancy, the memory be dimm'd and obſcured: nor the clouds return after the rain, i. e. ſorrow ſucceeds ſorrow.

or the ſtars be not darkened, nor the clouds return after the rain:

3 In the day when the keepers of the houſe ſhall tremble, and the ſtrong men ſhall bow themſelves, and the grinders ceaſe becauſe they are few, and thoſe that look out of the windows be darkened;

4 And the doors ſhall be ſhut in the ſtreets, when the ſound of the grinding is low, and he ſhall riſe up at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of muſick ſhall be brought low;

5 Alſo when they ſhall be afraid of that which is high, and fears ſhall be in the way, and the almond-tree ſhall flouriſh, and the graſshopper ſhall be a burden, and deſire ſhall fail: becauſe man goeth to his long home, and the mourners go about the ſtreets:

6 Or ever the ſilver cord be looſed, or the golden bowl be broken or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the ciſtern.

7 Then ſhall the duſt return to the earth as it was: and the ſpirit ſhall return unto God who gave it.

8 ¶ Vanity of vanities, ſaith the Preacher: all is vanity.

9 And moreover, becauſe the Preacher was wiſe, he ſtill taught the people knowledge; yea, he gave good heed, and ſought out, and ſet in order many proverbs.

10 The preacher ſought to find out acceptable words: and that which was written was upright, even words of truth.

3 When the keepers of the houſe ſhall tremble, &c.] i. e. The arms and the hands which are appointed for the guard and defence of the body, become feeble and paralytic: and the ſtrong men ſhall bow themſelves, the back, the thighs, and legs, in which the ſtrength of man chiefly conſiſts, ſhall bend and ſtoop: and the grinders, the teeth, ſhall ceaſe, and thoſe that look out of the windows, the eyes, be darkened.

4 And the doors ſhall be ſhut, &c.] i. e. The lips ſhall be cloſed by reaſon of the falling of the teeth, and the voice become weak and feeble, and he ſhall riſe at the voice of the bird, early in the morning, at cock-crow, for want of reſt at night; and all the daughters of muſic, the ears, ſhall be dull of hearing.

5 They ſhall be afraid of that which is high.] Any hillock or riſing ground at which they may ſtumble, or any eminence from which they may fall; and the almond-tree ſhall flouriſh, the head ſhall grow hoary like the bloſſoms of the white flowering almond-tree; and the graſshopper ſhall be a burden, the whole body, being dried, ſhrunk, and withered like a graſshopper, ſhall be troubleſome and uneaſy to itſelf; and deſire (all ſorts of appetite) ſhall fail; becauſe man goeth to his long home, &c.

6 Or ever the ſilver cord be looſed, or the golden bowl be broken, or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the ciſtern.] By the ſilver cord is probably meant, the nerves of the body, which are ſaid to be looſened when they can no longer perform their office of conveying ſenſation to the ſoul.---The golden bowl, i. e. the membrane that incloſes the brain, which may be ſaid to be broken when its natural tone and elaſticity is deſtroyed.---The breaking of the pitcher at the fountain, i. e. the large arteries and veins near the heart, which convey the blood to and fro from the principal organ of life, and may juſtly be termed the fountain of motion, in which animal life conſiſts.---The laſt approach of death is the breaking the wheel at the ciſtern. There are various interpretations of this metaphor; but the beſt ſeems to be that which ſuppoſes, that, by the wheel, is meant the great artery, annexed to the left ventricle of the heart, and by the ciſtern, the left ventricle itſelf.

7 Then ſhall the duſt return to the earth as it was: and the ſpirit ſhall return unto God who gave it.] When this earthly tabernacle is thus deſtroyed, what remains but that thoſe dear companions the ſoul and the body being ſeparated, return to their reſpective originals? The body ſhall return to the earth from whence it was taken; but the ſoul to the great Father of Spirits, there to receive its final ſentence, according to the deeds it has done in the body, whether they be good, or whether they be evil. Patrick.

The reader perhaps will not be diſpleaſed to ſee this fine picture of old-age paraphraſed from the ſeven firſt verſes of this chapter.

My ſon, attentive hear the voice of truth;
Remember thy Creator in thy youth,
Ere days of pale adverſity appear,
And age and ſorrow fill the gloomy year,
When wearied with vexation thou ſhalt ſay,
'No reſt by night I know, no joy by day;'
Ere the bright ſoul's enlighten'd pow'rs wax frail,
Ere reaſon, memory, and fancy fail,
But care ſucceeds to care, and pain to pain,
As clouds urge clouds, returning after rain:
Ere yet the arms unnerv'd and feeble grow,
The weak legs tremble, and the looſe knees bow;
Ere yet the grinding of the teeth is o'er,
And the dim eyes behold the ſun no more;
Ere yet the pallid lips forget to ſpeak,
The gums are toothleſs, and the voice is weak;
Reſtleſs he riſes when the lark he hears,
Yet ſweeteſt muſic fails to charm his ears.
A ſtone, or hillock turns his giddy brain,
Appall'd with fear he totters o'er the plain;
And as the almond-tree white flow'rs diſplays,
His head grows hoary with the length of days;
As leanneſs in the graſhopper prevails,
So ſhrinks his body, and his ſtomach fails;
Doom'd to the grave his laſt long home to go,
The mourners march along with ſolemn woe:
Ere yet life's ſilver cord be ſnapt in twain,
Ere broke the golden bowl that holds the brain,
Ere broke the pitcher at the founful heart,
Or life's wheel ſhiver'd, and the ſoul depart.
Then ſhall the duſt to native earth be given,
The ſoul ſhall ſoar ſublime, and wing its way to heaven.

Fawkes's Poems, p. 90.

8 Vanity of vanities, ſaith the preacher; all is vanity.] This ſermon of Solomon ends with a repetition of the text (as we call it) or the ſame words with which it begun: what follows is an addition of the editors of this ſermon, giving ſome account of the Preacher and his wiſdom, of themſelves, &c.

11 The words of the wiſe are as goads and as nails faſtened by the maſters of aſſemblies, which are given from one ſhepherd.

12 And further, by theſe, my ſon, be admoniſhed: of making many books there is no end, and much ſtudy is a wearineſs of the fleſh.

13 ¶ Let us hear the concluſion of the whole matter: Fear God and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man.

14 For God ſhall bring every work into judgement, with every ſecret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.

11 The words of the wiſe are as goads.] The words of the wiſe have a tendency to excite the minds of the ſlothful to acts of virtue, like the goad which quickens the ſlow ox when he draws the plow.

13 Let us hear the concluſion of the whole matter, fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.] Or, the all of man; i. e. the all he has to truſt to, his great concern, his only way to happineſs.

14 For God ſhall bring every work into judgment, with every ſecret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil.] We muſt of neceſſity underſtand him here of a future judgment, unleſs we will make him contradict himſelf, and render the whole ſcope and deſign of the book unintelligible. Peters.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON.

THE ARGUMENT.

This Book has generally been conſidered as a typical deſcription of the union of Chriſt and his Church, under the form of a paſtoral poem; and in this ſenſe we muſt certainly underſtand it. The xlvth Pſalm is to be underſtood in the ſame metaphorical manner; and it is the common language of the Prophets to compare Jeruſalem and Zion, i. e. the whole church of the Jews, to a virgin, called frequently, the Virgin the daughter of Zion, whom God had eſpouſed unto himſelf. It has indeed been eſteemed from the remoteſt antiquity as an holy book, treating of ſpiritual ſubjects: Ezra, a very virtuous man, and full of the Holy Spirit, having thought proper to place it among thoſe ſacred volumes which he collected at the Babyloniſh captivity. And we find that St. John uſes the word Chriſt and Bridegroom, as if they were in a manner ſynonymous (John iii. 28, 29.) and Matt. ix. 15. we read, How can the children of the bridechamber mourn while the bridegroom is with them? Some indeed have denied that Solomon writ this Poem by divine inſpiration, viz. Maimonides, Grotius, and ſeveral others: but it muſt be owned, that nothing is ſo clear, but what may be doubted: That Milton underſtood it literally is plain from a paſſage in the book of Paradiſe Loſt, verſe 442. where ſpeaking of a garden, he ſays,

Or that, not myſtic, where the ſapient king
Held dalliance with his fair Egyptian ſpouſe.

The late Dr. Trapp was ſo much offended with theſe lines, that he would not tranſlate them, becauſe, ſays he, Sanctitati religionis noſtræ minus convenire videntur. In Dr. Kennicott's ſtate of the Hebrew Text, p. 22. there is an argument againſt the antiquity of this book; where he obſerves that the name of David was writ without a Yod till after the captivity, or at leaſt till the days of Hoſea; but that in the Song of Solomon, the name of David is writ invariably in all copies, with a Yod, as after the captivity; which, if true, will make it a much later compoſition than is generally ſuppoſed, and not a ſong made by Solomon. The generality of interpreters, however, believe it to have been divinely inſpired, and underſtand it in a figurative ſenſe. St. Jerome ſays, that the Jews were not permitted to read this Song till they were thirty years old. And it is neceſſary that we ſhould be warmed with the ardours of divine love, before we attempt to underſtand the enflamed expreſſions with which this book is filled.

CHAP. I.

1 The church's love unto Chriſt. 5 She confeſſeth her deformity, 7 and prayeth to be directed to his flock. 8 Chriſt directeth her to the ſhepherd's tents: 9 and ſhewing his love to her, 11 giveth her gracious promiſes. 12 The church and Chriſt congratulate one another.

THE ſong of ſongs which is Solomon's.

2 Let him kiſs me with the kiſſes of his mouth: for thy love is better than wine.

3 Becauſe of the ſavour of thy good ointments, thy name is as ointment poured forth, therefore do the virgins love thee.

4 Draw me, we will run after thee. The king hath brought me into his chambers: we will be glad and rejoice in thee; we will remember thy love more than wine: the upright love thee.

5 ¶ I am black, but comely, O ye daughters of Jeruſalem, as the tents of Kedar, as the curtains of Solomon.

6 Look not upon me, becauſe I am black, becauſe the ſun hath looked upon me: my mother's children were angry with me, they made me the keeper of the vineyards; but mine own vineyard have I not kept.

7 ¶ Tell me, O thou whom my ſoul loveth, where thou feedeſt, where thou makeſt thy flock to reſt at noon: for why ſhould I be as one that turneth aſide by the flocks of thy companions?

8 ¶ If thou know not, O thou faireſt among women, go thy way forth by the footſteps of the flock, and feed thy kids beſide the ſhepherds tents.

9 ¶ I have compared thee, O my love, to a company of horſes in Pharaoh's chariots.

10 Thy cheeks are comely with rows of jewels, thy neck with chains of gold.

11 We will make thee borders of gold with ſtuds of ſilver.

12 ¶ While the king ſitteth at his table, my ſpikenard ſendeth forth the ſmell thereof.

13 A bundle of myrrh is my well-beloved unto me: he ſhall lie all night betwixt my breaſts.

14 My beloved is unto me as a cluſter of camphire in the vineyards of En-gedi.

15 Behold, thou art fair, my love, behold, thou art fair; thou haſt dove's eyes.

16 Behold, thou art fair, my beloved, yea, pleaſant: alſo our bed is green.

17 The beams of our houſe are cedar and our rafters of fir.

CHAP. II.

1 The mutual love of Chriſt and his church, 8 The hope, 10 calling of the church. 14 Chriſt's care of the church. 16 The profeſſion of the church, her faith and hope.

Notes on the Firſt Chapter.

Ver. 1 The ſong of ſongs, which is Solomon's.] The expreſſion ſong of ſongs is an Hebraiſm, and ſignifies the moſt excellent ſong, as the holy of holies is the moſt holy, and king of kings the greateſt king.

2 Let him kiſs me with the kiſſes of his mouth: for thy love is better than wine.] This ſpeech is delivered by Solomon in the perſon of the virgin daughter of Sion, i. e. the church; whom he here introduces wiſhing, in the moſt paſſionate ſtrain, for ſome token of the love of her great bridegroom, the prince of peace, which he has expreſſed under the metaphor of a kiſs. Patrick.

10 Thy cheeks are comely with rows of jewels, thy neck with chains of gold.] This verſe is happily explained by the dreſs ſtill uſed by the Arabian ladies. The women of quality who have a great many pearls, put them about their necks and upon their caps. They have likewiſe gold chains going about their necks, and hanging down upon their breaſts with ſtrings of coloured gauze, which they tie and faſten a maſſy gold or ſilver bonnet with: this gauze is bordered with zechins, and other pieces of gold money that hang about the forehead and both cheeks. The ordinary women wear ſmall ſilver coin, which they often cover their whole forehead-piece with, like fiſh ſcales, and this is one of the principal ornaments for the face. D'Arvieux's Travels.

14 My beloved is to me as a cluſter of camphire in the vineyards of En-gedi.] En-gedi was not remarkable for vines, but very much ſo for balm-trees; and the original word ſignifies not only vines, but other trees: there remains therefore no doubt but that it ſhould be tranſlated the balm-trees of En-gedi, as may be ſeen at large. Bochart.

Notes

I Am the roſe of Sharon, and the lilly of the vallies.

2 As the lilly among thorns, ſo is my love among the daughters.

3 As the apple-tree among the trees of the wood, ſo is my beloved among the ſons. I ſat down under his ſhadow with great delight, and his fruit was ſweet to my taſte.

4 He brought me to the banqueting-houſe, and his banner over me was love.

5 Stay me with flaggons, comfort me with apples: for I am ſick of love.

6 His left hand is under my head, and his right hand doth embrace me.

7 I charge you, O ye daughters of Jeruſalem, by the roes, and by the hinds of the field, that ye ſtir not up, nor awake my love, till he pleaſe.

8 ¶ The voice of my beloved! behold, he cometh leaping upon the mountains, ſkipping upon the hills.

9 My beloved is like a roe, or a young hart: behold, he ſtandeth behind our wall, he looketh forth at the windows, ſhewing himſelf through the latteſs.

10 My beloved ſpake, and ſaid unto me, Riſe up, my love, my fair one, and come away.

11 For lo, the winter is paſt; the rain is over, and gone.

12 The flowers appear on the earth; the time of the ſinging of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land.

13 The fig-tree putteth forth her green figs, and the vines with the tender grape give a good ſmell. Ariſe, my love, my fair one, and come away.

14 ¶ O my dove, that art in the clefts of the rock, in the ſecret places of the ſtairs, let me ſee thy countenance, let me hear thy voice: for ſweet is thy voice, and thy countenance is comely.

15 Take us the foxes, the little foxes, that ſpoil the vines: for our vines have tender grapes.

16 ¶ My beloved is mine, and I am his: he feedeth among the lillies.

17 Until the day break, and the ſhadows flee away; turn, my beloved, and be thou like a roe or a young hart upon the mountains of Bether.

CHAP. III.

1 The church's fight and victory in temptation.
6 The church glorieth in Chriſt.

BY night on my bed I ſought him whom my ſoul loveth: I ſought him, but I found him not.

2 I will riſe now, and go about the city in the ſtreets, and in the broad ways I will ſeek him who my ſoul loveth: I ſought him, but I found him not.

3 The watchmen that go about the city found me: to whom I ſaid, Saw ye him whom my ſoul loveth?

4 It was but a little that I paſſed from them, but I found him whom my ſoul loveth: I held him, and would not let him go, until I had brought him into my mother's houſe, and into the chamber of her that conceived me.

5 I charge you, O ye daughters of Jeruſalem, by the roes, and by the hinds of the field, that ye ſtir not up, nor awake my love, till he pleaſe.

6 ¶ Who is this that cometh out of the wil-

Notes on the Second Chapter.

Ver. 3 As the apple-tree.] More probably it ſhould be, As the orange-tree; becauſe of its ſmell, and of its virtue in comforting the heart, and recovering perſons out of a ſwoon. Eſſay for a New Tranſlation.

5 Comfort me with apples.] Read, oranges.

11, 12 For lo, the winter is paſt, the rain is over, and gone, &c.] That diſmal time is now paſt, when error, ignorance, and wickedneſs, like floods in the winter ſeaſon, deluged the world: thoſe uncomfortable days are over when thou couldeſt ſee and enjoy but little of me. All the tokens of a new world appear, and invite thee to partake of the pleaſures produced by the nearer approaches of the ſun of righteouſneſs, who cauſes ſuch abundant bleſſings to ſpring up, that even the heavenly hoſt ſing for joy, and excite mankind to join in the univerſal concert of praiſe and thankſgiving. Patrick.

Notes on the Third Chapter.

Ver. 1 By night on my bed I ſought him whom my ſoul loveth: I ſought him, but I found him not.] I have long ſearched for him, who, from the deſcriptions given of him by the prophets, is become the beloved of my ſoul. But though I have ſought him with the moſt anxious attention, and examined all the ſacred volumes for information; yet all I can find are predictions and ſhadows of him, which aſſure me he will come, but are inſufficient to convey an adequate idea of him. Patrick.

3 The watchmen that go about the city, found me, &c.] By the watchmen, Solomon ſeems to mean the prophets; and by the city, the whole church of the Jews.

6 Who is this that cometh out of the wilderneſs like pillars of ſmoke, perfumed with myrrh and frankincenſe, with all powders of the merchant?] Here a new viſion begins, in which he ſaw multitudes derneſs like pillars of ſmoke, perfumed with myrrh and frankincenſe, with all powders of the merchant?

7 Behold, his bed which is Solomon's; threeſcore valiant men are about it, of the valiant of Iſrael.

8 They all hold ſwords, being expert in war: every man hath his ſword upon his thigh, becauſe of fear in the night.

9 King Solomon made himſelf a chariot of the wood of Lebanon.

10 He made the pillars thereof of ſilver, the bottom thereof of gold, the covering of it of purple; the midſt thereof being paved with love, for the daughters of Jeruſalem.

11 Go forth, O ye daughters of Zion, and behold king Solomon with the crown wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his eſpouſals, and in the day of the gladneſs of his heart.

CHAP. IV.

1 Chriſt ſetteth forth the graces of the church. 8 He ſheweth his love to her. 16 The church prayeth to be made fit for his preſence.

BEhold, thou art fair, my love, behold thou art fair: thou haſt doves eyes within thy locks: thy hair is as a flock of goats that appear from mount Gilead.

2 Thy teeth are like a flock of ſheep that are even ſhorn, which come up from the waſhing; whereof every one bear twins, and none is barren among them.

3 Thy lips are like a thread of ſcarlet, and thy ſpeech is comely: thy temples are like a piece of pomegranate within thy locks.

4 Thy neck is like the tower of David builded for an armoury, whereon there hang a thouſand bucklers, all ſhields of mighty men.

5 Thy two breaſts are like two young roes that are twins, which feed among the lillies.

6 Until the day break, and the ſhadows flee away, I will get me to the mountain of myrrh, and to the hill of frankincenſe.

7 Thou art all fair, my love; there is no ſpot in thee.

8 ¶ Come with me from Lebanon, my ſpouſe, with me from Lebanon: look from the top of Amana, from the top of Shenir and Hermon, from the lions dens, from the mountains of the leopards.

9 Thou haſt raviſhed my heart, my ſiſter, my ſpouſe; thou haſt raviſhed my heart with one of thine eyes, with one chain of thy neck.

10 How fair is thy love, my ſiſter, my ſpouſe! how much better is thy love than wine! and the ſmell of thine ointments than all ſpices!

11 Thy lips, O my ſpouſe, drop as the honey-comb: honey and milk are under thy tongue; and the ſmell of thy garments is like the ſmell of Lebanon.

12 A garden incloſed is my ſiſter, my ſpouſe; a ſpring ſhut up, a fountain ſealed.

13 Thy plants are an orchard of pomegranates, with pleaſant fruits; camphire, with ſpikenard, 14 Spikenard and ſaffron; calamus and cinnamon with all trees of frankincenſe; myrrh and aloes, with all the chief ſpices.

15 A fountain of gardens, a well of living waters, and ſtreams from Lebanon.

16 ¶ Awake, O north-wind, and come, thou titudes of people gathering together to Chriſt like a cloud of ſmoke. What multitude of people, ſays the inſpired writer, is this that I behold coming from the deſolate waſtes to mount Sion, and appearing like the pillars of ſmoke which ariſe from the altar of burnt-offerings; and no leſs acceptable to God, than the ſweet odours that aſcend from the altar of incenſe in the holy place? Patrick.

---

Notes on the Fourth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Behold thou art fair, my love, behold thou art fair, &c.] The ſpouſe of the church is here introduced, deſcribing the beautiful ſtate of it, under the perſon of a lovely virgin, whoſe elegant features are particularly repreſented, to raiſe admiration and love in others, and to comfort the church, by aſſuring her of being ſo amiable in the eyes of him, whom no beauty can pleaſe but that which is divine. All theſe images are borrowed from the country, as being the moſt ſuitable to a paſtoral poem. Patrick.

3 Thy temples are like a piece of pomegranate within thy locks.] The original may be rendered in the following manner: As the flower of the pomegranate, ſo are thy cheeks without a veil; i. e. when the veil is laid aſide, thy cheeks appear of that lively colour which glows in the bloſſom of the pomegranate. Taylor, in his Hebrew Concordance, ſays, a ſection of the pomegranate gives a fine reſemblance of a beautiful cheek.

4 Thy neck is like a tower, &c.] This may be explained by the note on the 10th verſe of the 1ſt chapter.

13 Camphire.] The margin reads, Cypreſs.

14 Aloes.] i. e. The wood of aloes, which is of an agreeable ſmell. See note on Pſalm xlv. 8.

16 Awake, O north-wind, and come thou ſouth, blow upon my garden, that the ſpices thereof may flow out, &c.] O let not the inſpirations ſouth, blow upon my garden, that the ſpices thereof may flow out. Let my beloved come into his garden, and eat his pleaſant fruits.

CHAP. V.

1 Chriſt awaketh the church with his calling. 2 The church having a taſte of Chriſt's love, is ſick of love. 9 A deſcription of Chriſt by his graces.

I Am come into my garden, my ſiſter, my ſpouſe: I have gathered my myrrh with my ſpice; I have eaten my honey-comb with my honey; I have drunk my wine with my milk: eat, O friends, drink, yea, drink abundantly, O beloved.

2 ¶ I ſleep, but my heart waketh: it is the voice of my beloved that knocketh, ſaying, Open to me, my ſiſter, my love, my dove, my undefiled: for my head is filled with dew, and my locks with the drops of the night.

3 I have put off my coat; how ſhall I put it on? I have waſhed my feet; how ſhall I defile them?

4 My beloved put in his hand by the hole of the door, and my bowels were moved for him.

5 I roſe up to open to my beloved; and my hands dropped with myrrh, and my fingers with ſweet-ſmelling myrrh, upon the handles of the lock.

6 I opened to my beloved; but my beloved had withdrawn himſelf, and was gone: my ſoul failed when he ſpake: I ſought him, but I could not find him; I called him, but he gave me no anſwer.

7 The watchmen that went about the city found me, they ſmote me, they wounded me; the keepers of the walls took away my vail from me.

8 I charge you, O daughters of Jeruſalem, if ye find my beloved, that ye tell him that I am ſick of love.

9 ¶ What is thy beloved more than another beloved, O thou faireſt among women? what is thy beloved more than another beloved, that thou doſt ſo charge us?

10 My beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefeſt among ten thouſand.

11 His head is as the moſt fine gold, his locks are buſhy, and black as a raven.

12 His eyes are as the eyes of doves by the rivers of waters, waſhed with milk, and fitly ſet.

13 His cheeks are as a bed of ſpices, as ſweet flowers: his lips like lilies, dropping ſweet-ſmelling myrrh.

14 His hands are as gold rings ſet with the beryl: his belly is as bright ivory overlaid with ſapphires.

15 His legs are as pillars of marble ſet upon ſockets of fine gold: his countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars.

16 His mouth is moſt ſweet: yea, he is altogether lovely. This is my beloved, and this is my friend, O daughters of Jeruſalem.

CHAP. VI.

1 The church profeſſeth her faith in Chriſt. 4 Chriſt ſheweth the graces of the church, 10 and his love towards her.

WHither is thy beloved gone, O thou faireſt among women? whither is thy inſpirations of thy holy ſpirit be wanting to me, but breathe perpetually upon me, as the north and ſouth winds do upon this garden; for then ſhall I fill the world with the ſweet odour of the knowledge of Chriſt.

---

Notes on the Fifth Chapter.

Ver. 1 I am come into the garden, my ſiſter, my ſpouſe, &c.] The bridegroom here gives an anſwer to the invitation made in the concluſion of the laſt chapter; and teſtifies his acceptance, by coming to take the fruit of his garden.

I have eaten my honey-comb with my honey.] "I have eaten my pure wood-honey with my honey of the palm." Wood-honey is that which in hot weather burſts the comb, and runs down the hollow trees or rocks, where in Judea the bees made great ſtore of honey, 1 Sam. xiv. 25, 26. Taylor's Heb. Concord.

2 I ſleep, but my heart waketh, &c.] Here a new ſcene, or part of this paſtoral ſong, begins; wherein Solomon repreſents himſelf as having loſt that clear ſight of the Meſſiah he enjoyed in the preceding viſion; but, falling into a trance, fancied he heard his voice ſpeaking to his ſpouſe, whom Solomon conceives to be in the ſame melancholy condition with himſelf. Patrick.

10 My beloved is white and ruddy, the chiefeſt among ten thouſand.] My beloved is of a princely form, his beauty and ſweetneſs being equally blended with majeſty and brightneſs; dazzling the eyes of all who behold him; choſen by God to do the greateſt things, and bring all nations to his obedience. Patrick.

12 His eyes are as the eyes of doves by the rivers of waters, waſhed with milk, and fitly ſet.] Beautiful eyes are here compared to large flocks of milk-white doves, ſitting round pools of water: a grand and elegant ſimile in perſpective, like that chap. vii. 4. Taylor's Heb. Concord.

14 His belly is as bright ivory, overlaid with ſapphires.] i. e. The whiteneſs of his ſkin is heightened by his veins, which are of the colour of ſapphires. Lamy.

Notes on the Sixth Chapter.

Ver. 1 Whither is thy beloved gone, O thou faireſt among women?] The daughters of Jeruſalem here juſtify what the ſpouſe had ſaid beloved turned aſide? that we may ſeek him with thee.

2 My beloved is gone down into his garden, to the beds of ſpices, to feed in the gardens, and to gather lilies.

3 I am my beloved's, and my beloved is mine: he feedeth among the lilies.

4 ¶ Thou art beautiful, O my love, as Tirzah, comely as Jeruſalem, terrible as an army with banners.

5 Turn away thine eyes from me, for they have overcome me: thy hair is as a flock of goats that appear from Gilead.

6 Thy teeth are as a flock of ſheep which go up from the waſhing, whereof every one beareth twins, and there is not one barren among them.

7 As a piece of a pomegranate are thy temples within thy locks.

8 There are threeſcore queens, and fourſcore concubines, and virgins without number.

9 My dove, my undefiled is but one; ſhe is the only one of her mother, ſhe is the choice one of her that bare her. The daughters ſaw her, and bleſſed her; yea, the queens and the concubines, and they praiſed her.

10 ¶ Who is ſhe that looketh forth as the morning, fair as the moon, clear as the ſun, and terrible as an army with banners?

11 I went down into the garden of nuts, to ſee the fruits of the valley, and to ſee whether the vine flouriſhed, and the pomegranates budded.

12 Or ever I was aware, my ſoul made me like the chariots of Ammi-nadib.

13 Return, return, O Shulamite; return, return, that we may look upon thee. What will ye ſee in the Shulamite? As it were the company of two armies.

CHAP. VII.

1 A further deſcription of the church's graces.
10 She profeſſeth her faith and deſire.

HOW beautiful are thy feet with ſhoes, O prince's daughter! the joints of thy thighs are like jewels, the work of the hands of a cunning workman.

2 Thy navel is like a round goblet, which wanteth not liquor: thy belly is like an heap of wheat ſet about with lilies.

3 Thy two breaſts are like two young roes that are twins.

4 Thy neck is as a tower of ivory; thine eyes like fiſh-pools in Heſhbon by the gate of Bath-rabbim: thy noſe is as the tower of Lebanon which looketh toward Damaſcus.

5 Thine head upon thee is like Carmel, and the hair of thine head like purple; the king is held in the galleries.

6 How fair and how pleaſant art thou, O love, for delights!

7 This thy ſtature is like to a palm-tree, and thy breaſts to cluſters of grapes.

8 I ſaid, I will go up to the palm-tree, I will take hold of the boughs thereof: now alſo thy breaſts ſhall be as cluſters of the vine, and the ſmell of thy noſe like apples;

9 And the roof of thy mouth like the beſt wine for my beloved, that goeth down ſweetly, cauſing the lips of thoſe that are aſleep to ſpeak.

10 ¶ I am my beloved's, and his deſire is towards me.

11 Come, my beloved, let us go forth into the field; let us lodge in the villages.

---

in the concluſion of the former chapter; declaring themſelves in love with him when ſhe had ſo beautifully deſcribed. Patrick.

2 My beloved is gone down into his garden, to the beds of ſpices, to feed in the gardens, and to gather lilies.] The bride replies, that he was gone to that garden he himſelf hath planted: there he delights to reſide among thoſe pious perſons whoſe virtues render them like the garden-beds that are full of ſpices: he is always preſent in every part of this happy company; and is daily adding more and more pure ſouls to this bleſſed ſociety. Patrick.

13 As it were the company of two armies.] As it were the dancing, joy, and exultation of two companies, mutually congratulating each other on ſome ſignal occaſion. Taylor.

Notes on the Seventh Chapter.

Ver. 1 How beautiful are thy feet with ſhoes, O prince's daughter! &c.] They admire her very ſhoes or ſandals (by whoſe ſhape the beauty of the foot was diſcerned) which were wont to be ſet with gems: Judith's ſandals are mentioned as part of the finery with which ſhe adorned herſelf, to deceive Holofernes, chap. x. 4. and with theſe ſhe is ſaid, to have raviſhed his eyes, chap. xvi. 9.

2 Thy belly is like a heap of wheat, &c.] It was cuſtomary in Paleſtine, after their corn had been beaten out and fann'd, to lay it in heaps, and put lilies round them. Lamy.

5 Thine head upon thee, &c.] Vulgate reads, The hair of your head is as the king's purple mixed with ſtripes.

8 Like apples.] Read, oranges.

Notes

12 Let us get up early to the vineyards; let us ſee if the vine flouriſh, whether the tender grape appear, and the pomegranates bud forth: there will I give thee my loves.

13 The mandrakes give a ſmell, and at our gates are all manner of pleaſant fruits, new and old, which I have laid up for thee, O my beloved.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The love of the church to Chriſt. 6 The vehemency of love. 8 The calling of the Gentiles. 14 Chriſt's coming prayed for.

O That thou wert as my brother, that ſucked the breaſts of my mother! when I ſhould find thee without, I would kiſs thee; yea, I ſhould not be deſpiſed.

2 I would lead thee, and bring thee into my mother's houſe, who would inſtruct me: I would cauſe thee to drink of ſpiced wine of the juice of my pomegranate.

3 His left hand ſhould be under my head, and his right hand ſhould embrace me.

4 I charge you, O daughters of Jeruſalem, that ye ſtir not up, nor awake my love, until he pleaſe.

5 Who is this that cometh up from the wilderneſs, leaning upon her beloved? I raiſed thee up under the apple-tree: there thy mother brought thee forth, there ſhe brought thee forth that bare thee.

6 ¶ Set me as a ſeal upon thine heart, as a ſeal upon thine arm. For love is ſtrong as death; jealouſy is cruel as the grave: the coals thereof are coals of fire, which hath a moſt vehement flame.

7 Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it. If a man would give all the ſubſtance of his houſe for love, it would utterly be contemned.

8 ¶ We have a little ſiſter, and ſhe hath no breaſts: what ſhall we do for our ſiſter in the day when ſhe ſhall be ſpoken for?

9 If ſhe be a wall, we will build upon her a palace of ſilver: and if ſhe be a door, we will incloſe her with boards of cedar.

10 I am a wall, and my breaſts like towers: then was I in his eyes as one that found favour.

11 Solomon had a vineyard at Baal-hamon: he let out the vineyards unto keepers; every one for the fruit thereof was to bring a thouſand pieces of ſilver.

12 My vineyard which is mine, is before me: thou, O Solomon, muſt have a thouſand, and thoſe that keep the fruit thereof two hundred.

13 Thou that dwelleſt in the gardens, the companions hearken to thy voice: cauſe me to hear it.

14 ¶ Make haſte, my beloved, and be thou like to a roe, or to a young hart upon the mountains of ſpices.

Notes on the Eighth Chapter.

Ver. 1 O that thou wert as my brother that ſucked the breaſts of my mother, &c.] This verſe ſeems, at firſt ſight, to be only a repetition of the ſame deſire wherewith he began this book; namely, that they might be ſo happy as to ſee the Meſſiah appear, though it were but in his infancy; which would tranſport them with joy, &c. Accordingly the Chaldee paraphraſt interprets it of the time when the Meſſiah ſhall be revealed to the congregation of Iſrael. But if we conſider what follows, it will appear to be a more ardent expreſſion of love to the perſon before-mentioned, with a deſire of having a more intimate familiarity with him; ſuch as a ſiſter hath with a brother, while he continues to hang upon his nurſe's breaſt. This ſeems to be the literal ſenſe of the words, which may be applied to the open profeſſion of Chriſtianity, with the greateſt confidence and ſecurity; nothing being more innocent and harmleſs than the love and ſervice wherein it engages its diſciples to their great Lord and Maſter. Patrick.

14 Like a roe, or to a young hart upon the mountains of ſpices.] Make all poſſible ſpeed to ſave us, and perfect thy loving-kindneſs towards us; ſuch ſpeed as the ſwifteſt creatures make to ſave themſelves from danger: let nothing hinder this; but, by thy love, which renders all things ſweet and eaſy, remove every difficulty that hinders our approach to thee, thou kind Redeemer of the ſons of men. Patrick.
